GILBERT IS FORMALLY CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

ALL-U.S. CANAL LAKES TO OCEAN RUNS INTO SNAG

COST IS STAGGERING

Mid States Continue to fight Chicago Water Diversion

New York, N.Y., March 1.—An adverse report on the proposed All-American Ship Canal from the Board of River and Harbor Engineers is forecast in responsible quarters in Washington, states a special despatch to the Herald-Tribune. This canal through the State of New York, intended to connect the Great Lakes with the deeper Hudson River, has been investigated by the Board which was named under Congressional authority.

"While information is not official," Herald Tribune correspondent says, "it is sufficiently well based to cause enthusiasm among advocates of St. Lawrence project."

The cost on the entire St. Lawrence improvement has been placed at $225,000,000 which would include construction of a great dam below Ogdensburg which would generate 1,500,000 horsepower of hydro electric energy. The joint engineering board was appointed by the United States and Canadian Governments in 1924 to study the St. Lawrence project and is expected to report this spring.

MOMS OPPOSE CHICAGO

Washington, D.C., March 1.—Another brief in long list of such documents growing out of Chicago Lake Drainage case was filed in the Supreme Court today by Attorney General of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio and Pennsylvania. It opposed the motion of the State of Illinois and the Chicago Sanitary District which had urged the court to dismiss the suit brought to restrict the diversion of water from Lake Michigan.

Man in Charge of Dry-Law Enforcement To See What's What

Washington, D.C., March 1.—Creation of a commission to study the general prohibition question in all its aspects was proposed today by assistant secretary Andrews of the Treasury Department in charge of dry-law enforcement. With both Senate and House preparing to take steps to inquire into conditions under prohibition and with wet and dry organizations engaged in bitter controversy over it Mr. Andrews declared it had believed time had come for thorough study of question in its economic social and other phases.

U.S. INTERESTS TAKE OVER THE HOLLINDIA LEAD MINE WORK TO BE STARTED SOON

WELL KNOWN PROPERTY NEAR BANNOCKBURN WILL BE KNOWN AS NEALE HOLLINDIA LEAD MINE—CLOSED FOR 30-YEARS WILL HAVE TO BE PUMPED OUT—DETAILS

PROMISE of renewed development of the mines of North Hastings was given out in an interview today by County Clerk Nugent, who is also Publicity Commissioner for Hastings. In particular Mr. Nugent told of the early renewal of mining and a reorganization of the well-known Hollindia Mine just north of Bannockburn, and a quarter of a mile from the railway which runs past the village.

The mine will be henceforth known as the Neale Hollindia Lead Mine. Mr. W. J. Neale, representing New York interests, has taken over the property. Mr. Nugent received a letter from Mr. Neale today, saying that work would start soon.

The Hollindia mine has an interesting history according to Mr. Nugent. It was worked for a time and a good deal of lead was taken out, but like many other properties, it was closed down in the year 1896, when hard times hit the mining business and the lead market slumped. For thirty years it has not been touched. Mr. Nugent some years ago was told by a well-known miner named Roberts that he was the last man in the mine and that he then saw a vein of lead several feet wide. Now lead is a great deal more valuable and they are going to make a new start.

The Mr. Neale referred to was all over the North part of Hastings last summer and chose the Holindia as the most likely to prove a valuable development. Mr. Nugent says Neale represents wealthy American interests and he has confidence that something will be done in perhaps quite an expensive way, Mr. Neale it was said had recently concluded operations in Mexico and is now turning his attention to North Hastings.

The mine of course had been flooded these many years and will have to be pumped out. Mr. Nugent was however able to furnish Mr. Neale with blue prints of the last workings and with other data which convinced him that the project was really worth while.

This projected development is the result of the work of the Hastings Publicity committee and seems to promise great things. Mr. Nugent understands the workings extend 200 feet into the ground.

FOUR RISK LIVES TO SAVE MAN MAROONED IN ICE PACK

The village of Wellington and the whole countryside is today ringing with praises of two men, Paton Mortley and Gillis Ingram, who risked their lives on Sunday to save a neighbor from almost certain death in the broken ice off shore between the mainland and Nicholson's Island.

John Deering had crossed on Sunday morning to the island in a row boat. About two o'clock he started back, but immediately met trouble from floating ice. His boat was battered and partly crushed in and he was cornered past his landing place.

He was seen from shore and at once his neighbors started work to the rescue him. But it was found to be a tremendous task. Open and slushy water divided him from shore and town.

Finally after tremendous efforts Murphy and Ingram assisted by Marshall Palmer and Frank Harris, managed to get planks and ladders and rope, and a boat into position where Deering could be reached. He was rescued at 11.30 at night after being exposed to the elements for over nine hours, exhausted and almost dead from his experiences.

Doctors and friends looked after him and today he is convalescent.

The whole countryside witnessed the radiant rescue and are proud of the four men who so gallantly saved a human life at great risk to their own.

Woman Rushes to Neighbor's Aid Saves Home and Lite of Aged Lady

Left alone in the home while her son, Harry was in Toronto, Mrs. Walter Leavens had a narrow escape from death on Saturday morning, when fire originating from an over-heated stove, threatened the destruction of the home which is a short distance from Bloomfield.

A neighbor, Mrs. Walter Hill, who resides across the road, noticing clouds of smoke coming from the chimney, rushed across to the house and found the aged sole occupants of the house quite unaware of the threatening blaze. Mrs. Hill, with buckets, speedily checked the now growing blaze and reduced the damage to a minimum.

CHILDREN FOUND FROZEN, HUNGRY, NEAR PETERBORO

One Child May Die and two Others Need Careful Nursing

FATHER LOCKED UP

Both Neglect and Cruelty Charged Against George Dwyer

Peterboro, Feb. 27th.—One child may die and two others will require months of careful treatment in order to repair the ravages of cold and starvation as a result of the hardship endured in slavish toil and bodily abuse. Three frail little wisps of humanity worn out by tasks of drudgery and with spirits broken by the lack of love or consideration—that, one would say is a picture which might scream forth the woes of Europe's famine refugees or the infant victims of a national catastrophe.

But it happened in Peterborough county, within a few miles of this city and the children have been enduring pain and misery which would revolt the average man and bring tears to the eyes of any warm hearted woman.

The children lived in the twelfth concession of Dummer, Wilfrid, a few miles were hospitals and societies for the purpose of lessening physical suffering and despite all this and the fact that the parents are presumably Christians living in a Christian land the children were left in their misery for months until rescued by Provincial Constable N. F. Mabey and John Edgar, representative of the Children's Aid Society. They were brought to Peterborough.

The father, George Dwyer, faces a

REV D. N. MORDEN QUITS HIS CHURCH

Well Known Minister, Born In P.E. County Gives Reasons

Toronto, March 1.—Rev. D. N. Morden, pastor of St. James's Square United Church, announced his resignation to his congregation at yesterday morning's service. Rev. Mr. Morden has been pastor of St. James's Square Church for the past nine years.

Tired in the work of securing jobs for unemployed and relieving distress was one of the reasons given by Mr. Morden for decision to seek a rest. He expressed the opinion that work of the churches in the centre of the city will never be accomplished by individual effort. He said he hoped his resignation would hasten the union of churches affected in the same manner.

Mr. Morden is a graduate of Queen's University of the class of 1905, in which he gained his degree. He is Bradford, St. Mary's and Erskine Church, Ottawa, before accepting St. James's Square Church.

The Rev. Dorland Noxon Morden is a native of Prince Edward County and comes of pure U.E.L. stock as his name implies. He is, of course, well known here and preached in John Street Church on the occasion of the U.E.L. celebration here.

NINE-YEAR-OLD HEROINE

Saved Older Sister Who Went Through Ice

Melrille Colfe, N.S., March 1.—Eleven-year-old Eileen Meagher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shute, owns her life, to the courage of her nine-year-old sister Madelon, who pulled her from the icy waters of the North West Arm. The children were walking across the ice, when suddenly Eileen's weight. The child managed to cling to the edge, while Madelon, moving over the treacherous surface, approached until she was near enough to grasp her sister, and drag her to safety.

ACCUSED IS REMANDED UNTIL TUESDAY MORNING FOR HEARING AND RELEASED ON $20,000 BAIL—HAS BEEN PATIENT IN HOSPITAL DURING FORTNIGHT SINCE FATALITY ON TRENT ROAD

William H. Gilbert, driven of the Hudson sedan which crashed with tragic results on the Trenton Road early on the morning of February 15th, was arrested by Provincial police on a warrant at 11.30 this morning at Belleville General Hospital and within a short time Arraigned before Magistrate Masson on a charge of manslaughter, in that he did "unlawfully kill and slay one Harold Robert Naylor contrary to the criminal code."

REMANDED TILL TUESDAY

Gilbert was remanded until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning, bonds in $20,000 being granted—two sureties of $5,000 each, furnished by George Albert Taylor and James Howard Diamond respectively, and $10,000 in his own recognizances.

The warrant on which Gilbert was apprehended this morning was signed by Magistrate Masson on the day following the tragedy, immediately after Provincial police had made their first investigation on the scene of it. The delay in execution was necessitated by the fact that Gilbert has been since February 15th in hospital and under medical care His physician, Dr. J. J. Robertson, testified that his patient's condition was not such as to permit him to leave the institution until today.

MADE NO COMMENT

Gilbert, according to Provincial police, has been under police surveillance ever since the signing of the warrant for his arrest. When taken to-day he made no comment after the warrant had been read to him by Provincial police.

He was extremely pale and nervous when arraigned just before noon in police court.

He stated that while he was generally improved, his knee was still somewhat weak and troubling him.

SUFFERING FROM SHOCK

Gilbert who drove the car on the night of the fatal trip from Trenton sustained injuries to his knee, and also said by his physician to have been suffering since from shock attendant upon the tragic drive which terminated against a telegraph post by Jones' Creek, young Naylor lifeless beneath the heavy tonneau.

A coroner's jury last Tuesday night found from the evidence of numerous witnesses, including that of young Naylor's widow who was in the car at the time it struck and escaped by climbing through the broken windshield, that Gilbert had been driving the car at an excessive rate of speed and was intoxicated at the time.

Attorney C. A. Payne of Porter, Payne and Wills, is acting as counsel for Gilbert.

Mr. Payne told Magistrate Masson to-day that he was all ready to go on with his client's case at the resumption of the March assizes, if desired. At the preliminary hearing to-morrow morning Gilbert will, it is understood, be committed to the assizes to face the manslaughter charge, since the indictment is too serious for a police magistrate to dispose of summarily.

Talks Over Long Distance Belleville to California

News of a serious operation to his brother, whom he had not seen for more than twenty years, transmitted half-way across the continent over three thousand miles of telephone wire in a single call was received here by Mr. Jack Bradden, 88½ Station St.

A telegraphic message was earlier sent to Mr. Bradden from the city hospital at Mariposa, California, by the hospital authorities to verify their belief that Leo Bradden had relatives in Belleville, and intimating that Mr. Leo Bradden had undergone a surgical operation.

His brother, Mr. Jack Bradden, immediately put in a telephone call to the distant city and learned the details of the case. It was ascertained, too, in the course of the conversation, which came through absolutely clearly despite the tremendous distance the voices had to travel, that Leo was recovering, the operation having been entirely successful.

Mr. Joseph Bradden, Canniften Road, is the father of Leo and Jack Bradden.

This telephone conversation over three thousand miles of wire, across prairie, desert and clear over the Rocky mountains, is the longest single-transmission toll. "Decades will be imposed by events", the Premier declared.

CHAMBERLAIN IS CENTRE OF FURIOUS STORM

Is Silent Under Attacks and Demands For His Resignation

DISPUTE OVER LEAGUE

Denial That He Will Resign Has Caused Increased Public Misgivings

London, March 1.—The storm centering around Foreign Secretary Austen Chamberlain is more furious than ever. Nevertheless, the Government refuses to state what course it means to take at next month's meeting of the League of Nations at Geneva on the vital question of whether any nation shall be added to the League Council as a permanent member besides Germany. And Sir Austen preserves Olympian silence.

The cabinet has deemed for hours during the last few days the League Council question without arriving at a point where it was thought possible to communicate to the public what has been decided. There will be further cabinet meetings before Sir Austen leaves London for Geneva next Friday.

So far the only positive thing emanating from the cabinet deliberations is officials not peddling of the idea that Sir Austen will be forced to resign because his views on League Council extension are at variance with public opinion and the view of his colleagues in cabinet. "Sir Austen will not resign," is the statement issuing in a constant motoloos from Government circles.

But instead of allaying misgivings, this announcement has simply increased them. The general belief persists, despite all official reassurances, that Sir Austen is committed to the French view point that Poland, Spain and Brazil—or some one of them—must receive a permanent council seat at the March meeting of the League, and that since he is committed he does not represent public opinion.

Considerable fuel has been added to the fire of controversy raging around Sir Austen by the Mussolini interview with a representative of the Petit Parisien in which the Italian dictator came out in favor of having Poland get a permanent seat on the League Council. But despite the excitement aroused by Mussolini's words—as brutally frank as those in which he threw down the gauntlet a few days ago to Germany in the matter of the Italian Tyrol—it must be borne in mind that Mussolini is still looked upon outside of Italy as something of a joke. In Britain, at least, he is still considered to be a demagogue, talking and acting largely for home consumption.

After all—say people here—what harm is caused by Mussolini's rodomontades? He tells the Italian Fascisti they are heirs of the ancient Roman Empire, and they believe it, and think they have already conquered the world as their ancestors did. But does that affect the world in any way?

Nevertheless the fact disclosed by the Mussolini interview that he is lined up with France in favor of the inclusion of Poland in the League Council in the teeth of British opinion has not failed to have a certain effect here.

Many Expeditions Into Arctic Are Planned for This Summer

New York, March 1. — The ancient urge that sent Hendrik Hudson battling through the polar seas in 1609 in search of a northwest passage to the Spice Islands of the east, today still stirs the blood of modern explorers who seek to solve the mystery of the Northern Seas.

Lured by a desire for adventure, hope of commercial discoveries, the insatiable curiosity of science and certain questions of military strategy at least, six Arctic expeditions hope this summer to reach the North Pole or to find new lands hid deep away in the fields of unknown ice. Four other purely scientific expeditions will penetrate far into the north. It has become almost an international race to find this no man's land. By land, sea and air, expeditions, representing interests as far separated as Germany and Italy and Russia, will penetrate regions that lured countless explorers before them.

LOCARNO WAS IMPOSED BY EVENTS SAYS BRIAND

Paris, March 1.—If France had not signed the Locarno security pact and arbitration treaties she would one day have found herself isolated in the face of an alliance between Soviet Russia and Germany, Premier Briand told the Chamber of Deputies this morning during the debate on the Locarno ratification bill. KING TO ENTER HOUSE AT END OF THIS WEEK

Will Denounce Opposition For Presuming to Dictate To Government

AS POLITICAL CAPITAL

Vote on Bird Motion Will Be Close—Dunning Due In Capital

Ottawa, March 1.—The House of Commons sits today knowing that there is no escape from the over-long debate on the Address for this week at last and perhaps not until March 12. The Opposition is now committed to a continuance of the debate until Premier King returns to the House and until he either agrees to let it go to work on legislation or admits that he is unable to do so.

Mr. King will not be in his place before Thursday or Friday. The writ for the Prince Albert by-election is not returnable until after the lapse of six full days after the returning officer certifies to the result of the ballot, this period being required by law to permit of the filing of protests or applications for a recount of the ballots. Unless there is application for a recount the writ should be here in time to give the Premier admission to the House the end of the week.

It is not anticipated that the Government, either before or after Mr. King takes his seat, will surrender to the Opposition to the extent of moving for the rescission of the resolution for adjournment till March 15 and bring in legislation. On the contrary the Prime Minister is expected to content himself with denouncing the Opposition for presuming to dictate to the Government as to what it should do and to attempt to place on the Conservatives responsibility for holding up public business. Minister appear to be quite convinced that the Opposition is earning popular disapproval for what they term obstruction

VOTE WILL BE CLOSE

When the debate is finally shunted the House will be called on to vote on the Bird motion for the putting of the previous question. There is a good deal of speculation as to the result of that vote, but there appears to be little likelihood that these Progressives and Independents who are committed to support of the Government will fail to rally in sufficient numbers to save th estimation. The vote, however, will be close, and should the motion be defeated, Speaker Lemieux must immediately adjourn the House till the next sitting day when it will be in order for any member to move that the motion for the address be reinstated. A majority for this motion will then give the House the opportunity of voting the address, if that vote does not take place before March 15 the Government will of necessity have to bring on legislation.

Hon. Charles Dunning is due to arrive in Ottawa today to be sworn in as Minister of Railways, Canals and Marine in the cabinet. Intimate the there will be opposition to Mr. Dunning in Regina, but it is understood that the question has not been determined either here or in Regina.

MRS. MARY TOTTON

On Tuesday, Feb. 23rd, there passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Chas. K. Stephens, Napier St., Campbellford, another of the pioneers of that section in the person of Mrs. Mary Totton in her eighty-sixth year. Notwithstanding her advanced age she appeared to be in good health, and her death came unexpect ed. She was born in Camden East on May 28, 1840; and came with them on July 14, 1862, and with him established a home in the locality of Wilmot's Corners. Having moved to Kaladar in 1867, where they resided for a short time, they returned to Ontario, settling in Fenelon and Emmosa Townships near Guelph. Following the death of her husband in 1901, she lived in Campbellford, and later in Toronto and various places with her daughters.

Mrs. Totton was an exemplary and devoted member of the Methodist Church and a life member of the W.M. S. She loved the home of worship and its services, and was a lover of such natural fondness of music she took delight in the service of song.

To Mr. and Mrs. Totton were born fourteen children, twelve of whom survive. The surviving sons are: W. W. Totten, of Donna, Texas; Malcolm, of Rawdon; Andrew, of Dallas, Texas; Dr. Wesley, of London; Clark, of Seattle, of Washington; and Rev. John D. Totton, of Cavan; and the daughters: Mrs. Robert Sharpe, of Toronto; Mrs. J. Hall, G. Reid, of Rawdon; Mrs. (Rev.) W. E. Honey, Sidney; Mrs. W. P. Smith and Mrs. Joy Howe, Guelph; and Mrs. Charles H. Stephens, Campbellford. The late Mrs. Chas. Stewart, formerly of Campbellford, was a daughter, and died some years ago.

Two brothers and two sisters also survive: Mrs. Israel and Urbane Clancy, of Rawdon, Mr. Rosella Frederick, of Peterboro, and Mrs. George Vanderyoort, of Toronto.

The funeral took place on Thursday the 25th, from the residence of Mrs. Stephens, a brief service being held by Rev. W. Elliott, assisted by Rev. C. D. Daniels, at which Miss Emma Meiklejohn sang "He Knows". A service was held also in the United Church at Wellman's Corners conducted by Rev. F. G. Johnin, assisted by Rev. Mr. Daniels. Miss Meiklejohn sang beautifully as before, rendering "The City Four Square," and Mr. Jobin, taking the appropriate text John 11: 28, preached an impressive sermon, paying high tribute to the life and character of the deceased. The casket was laden with numerous and beautiful floral tokens of affection and esteem.

The pall bearers were: Frank and Totton Wellman, Hollis Totton, Carl and Clifford Clancey, all nephews, and Roy Williams, a great-nephew. Interment was made in the family plot at Wellman's Corners.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. George Morris and family wish to convey their sincere thanks to their many friends and neighbors for kindness and sympathy shown during the illness and death of the late Mr. George Morris, also for the beautiful floral tributes.

LOSES RESIDENCE THROUGH BLAZE

Crumbling foundations are all which today remain of the farm home of Percy McDavit, Mount Pleasant Road. The fire was discovered at an early hour by one of Mr. McDavit's children, who noticing smoke coming in volumes from the stove pipe hole in one of the bedrooms, warned the family that the house was on fire. All the occupants of the house immediately ran into the bitter cold, to safety and an ineffectual effort was made to fight the now roaring blaze with buckets and any hastily collected containers. Effort after effort was made to stem the progress of the flames but nothing could be done. The entire frame building and all contents were destroyed.

Neighbours attracted by the blaze, immediately came to the assistance of the family and after endeavouring to help in any way to save the building, concluded that further efforts were useless. They however persuaded the family, now shivering in the zero temperature, to come to their homes, where they were cared for.

The building alone would, it is estimated, be worth about two thousand dollars.

Mr. McDavitt last year lost his barns, crops and home stock.

GETTING SETTLERS

In the race for population between Canada and Australia, this Dominion has the great initial advantage of propinquity. The very low rates now available to approved classes of immigrants—farmers, farm laborers and domestic help—are causing some misgiving in the Australian commonwealth, and there is a suggestion that the cost of transportation from Britain to the antipodes be reduced to a level which, while not profitable to the steamship companies, would have the result of increasing the volume of immigration. The only way it could be done would be by government subsidy. The distance is so great that the financing of such a scheme would present formidable difficulties. However, Premier Bruce is reported to be favorably considering government aid, and the probability is that a plan somewhat similar to that now in operation between Britain and Canada will be arranged. The cheap fares to Canada are having the desired effect. Inquiries from hundreds of settlers have been received and though many of the applicants have had to be refused, it is certain that large numbers will find their way to this country this year. Australia has a still more ambitious immigration project, which provides for the transportation and settlement of 45,000 British immigrants a year for the next ten years—450,000 in all.

According to the official figures of the Australian statistical department, the population of the commonwealth passed the 6,000,000 mark last month. It is stated that the sixth million were reached in eight years, whereas it took 13 years to reach the fifth million. The commonwealth statistician predicts that, with the present rate of increase, the population will reach 7,000,000 in 1934, 10,000,000 in 1951, 12,000,000 in 1960, 24,000,000 in 1995, and 48,000,000 in 2030, being doubled every 35 years. The authority claims that Australia's population in 40 years has grown more rapidly than Canada's, it having been half that of this Dominion in 1881 and five-eighths of it in 1921, having shown an average annual increase of 22 per 1,000 as compared with Canada's 18. Canada, at the present time, has about nine and a half million people; but Australia has as great industrial neighbor to draw away its citizens and if it continues its present aggressive policy it will prove a very formidable competitor in the matter of securing the most desirable classes of British settlers.

FEDERAL INSURANCE

Federal unemployment insurance, a petition for which was recently circulated by the city council of Brantford, is a subject that lends itself to debate. Various councils have not passed upon the Brantford recommendation, and lukewarm attitude whenever the matter has been discussed may be accepted as indicative of what many will do. The council of Verdun, Quebec, one of the municipalities that has rejected the proposal fears that unemployment insurance would put a premium upon idleness and tend to create a condition that would reduce the moral standing of the citizens of the country, by removing the necessity for being thrifty. That is the most objectionable feature of the plan. If the federal government inaugurated a system of unemployment insurance and found it necessary to raise it's finance it, it is probable that civic governments would find it to be a money-saver in times of depression. Relief costs in the last few years have been heavy, and it is know that pride and self-respect have prevented many families in distress from accepting aid from the relief department. If there was a system of unemployment insurance, it, no doubt, would be taken advantage of by many to whom dependence upon charity is distasteful. The problem of unemployment insurance is so linked up with immigration, however, that it is extremely unlikely the government will seriously consider its adoption at this time. As conditions are at present every immigrant coming into the country would be a prospective participant in the plan and the incentive to newcomers to get out and hustle jobs would be lacking. Migration to the United States would be checked by such a scheme, it may be pointed out, but whether it is not better for our people to leave us temporarily than to remain here in idleness is a moot question. The particular brand of unemployment insurance that the people of Canada are most anxious the government shall inaugurate is a tariff policy that will create jobs.

BANNING THE PISTOL

There is a bill before the United States congress prohibiting the sending of pistols through the mails. It will strike most readers in Canada as an amazing thing that traffic in these deadly weapons can be legitimately carried on between buyer and seller through the post office but such is the case. There are some states and cities having legislation similar to that in Canada concerning the carrying of concealed weapons; it is not so easy in those places to get revolvers, but the fact that they can be ordered from some outside point and received through the mails nullifies to a large extent the effectiveness of the preventive laws. The bill has led to a discussion of the value of firearms as protective instruments against burglars and criminals. It is generally admitted that the possession of such weapons is more of a menace than a protection. Mr. William McAdoo, chief city magistrate of New York, and formerly police commissioner of that city, expresses his belief that fewer lives are saved by the use of pistols against criminals than are lost by accidental use. It must be remembered too, that these innocent victims of carelessness or mistake are good citizens. Mr. McAdoo's opinion is like that of most other experienced authorities. Practically every day there is a record of some one being killed or injured by the accidental discharge of firearms, but comparatively seldom is there an account of a burglar or criminal being shot.

WOMEN ARE "ALL THERE"

What women are doing for women in India, Japan, Egypt, Palestine and other places would fill a library, but some little idea of their all-round and ceaseless activities can be gleaned from the following summary sent me from The International Suffrage Alliance News Service whose headquarters are in England at 11 Adam Street, Adelphi, London, W. C. 2. This covers only recent doings in Europe:

League of Nations—The Council of the League of Nations has appointed three more women assessors on the Committee for the Protection and Welfare of Children. Miss Julia Lathrop, U.S.A., Miss Charlotte Whitton, Canada, and Mlle. Bursaux, Belgium, of the International Federation of Trades Unions.

The International Federation of University Women will award two Research Fellowships of £500, to be held in Australia for the year 1927. The Fellowships are to be used for a years' research in biology anthropology, economics or colonial history.

Austria—The title of Hofrat has been conferred upon Frau Hertha Sprung, president of the National Council of Austrian women. Until now this title has been inaccessible to women.

Holland—Women are organizing a campaign for the reform of the Dutch Marriage Law, which is based on the Code of Napoleon. They demand abolition of marital authority, the right of a married woman to dispose of her own property and equal guardianship of children.

Switzerland—The Grand Council of the Canton of Waadt has unanimously recognized the right of women to suffrage and eligibility in industrial courts. This is the fourth Canton to adopt this reform.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE ?

Fortune Teller—You will be married three times, Movie Actress—I want the future, not the past.

I suppose you find it pretty hard to live within your income these days?
No, my wife won't let me try it.

Turpitude is another word recently added to many vocabularies, and not as a result of solving cross-word puzzles.

Grocer—Not afraid of early hours, are you?

WASTEFULNESS OF AUTO MAKERS

Exchange—Frank Eddy, our church sexton, took his auto apart last week and when he assembled it again there were thirteen parts left over. She runs like a charm, though.

FAST WORKER

A young man from Canada went to the United States and was paying a call at a house where there was a very pretty daughter.

In Canada do you have reindeer? asked the girl, during the course of conversation.

No, darling, he answered, at this season it always snows.

AN UNPOPULAR ACT

Western Exchange—I sneezed a sneeze into the air, it fell to earth, I know not where; but hard and cold were the looks of those in whose vicinity I sneez.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"Nothing in there?" asked the ranger. As he spoke one of the men went toward the door.

"Stop, sir!" he exclaimed, sternly. "Not a thing shall be touched."

Fenton smiled.

"There is nothing to take; we are poor," he said, shrugging his shoulders. "See for yourself."

The ranger pushed open the door and looked in.

"What is all this?" he said in a puzzled voice.

"My friend was a scientific man and fond of experiments," said Fenton, carelessly.

"Oh, indeed," said the ranger from the room, and he took up one or two glasses and retorts curiously. "Science in the backwoods; that's something new!"

He came out a moment or two afterward with a pipe in his mouth and a piece of paper screwed up in his hands.

"So he is a scientific man, is he? And the lady—she is his daughter?"

"Yes," said Fenton.

The ranger knelt down beside the fire and held the screwed up piece of paper to the flame.

"And you?" he asked. "Who are you? The brother—husband?"

"No," said Fenton, sullenly.

The ranger's eyes rested upon him through the mask with a keen scrutiny.

"No? But wish to be?"

"I am engaged to her," said Fenton. "I should like to be going, if you please."

"You shall," said the ranger. "Constable found this paper, it won't burn; soaked in some kind of chemical, I suppose."

He thrust it into his pocket and took up the tongs. Fenton, who had not heard the muttered remark, buttoned his cloak round him and looked anxiously to the door.

"Right," said the ranger. "We shall overtake the wagon in five minutes. Why, what is your hurry?"

As if in answer to the question, the door was flung open, and one of the rangers rushed in.

"Quick, gawnor! We're tracked! The vigilants are on us; ten to one!"

The ranger looked round.

"So many as that!" he said "Sure?"

"Sure and certain!"

"I'm afraid I shall have to make for another direction than Melbourne," he said. "You be off and take care of the lady and the old man. Good-night. I'll leave you a horse."

It was like a dream! They had gone in an instant, with a stealth and silence incredible, and Fenton stood in the empty hut—alone.

His first thought was for Constance, and he hurried to the door. The horse stood there fastened to the staple. He loosed it and sprang into the saddle. Then he paused and thought.

"They are rain," he muttered. "She would not welcome me! Why should I not stay and——" He thrust his hand into his pocket, and his fingers closed on the precious formula. "By Heaven!" he exclaimed "it is all mine! All!"

Fate, as it will sometimes, had played all the cards of circumstances in Rawson Fenton's favor.

He dismounted, led the horse—he had even got a horse thrown in—to a shed at the back of the hut, and then went inside. Throwing some logs on the fire, he flung himself down on the bare ground to think and not to sleep, worn out as he was by fatigue and excitement. His hand struck some light object, and it rolled along the floor. He thought it was one of the opals for the moment, and felt for it. But it was not one of the gems in search of which Dr. Grahame had lost his reason: it was a ring.

Fenton held it to the blaze and looked at it. He had never seen it before.

It was a man's signet ring with a strange crest—though most crests are singular—a broken lance with an eagle perched on the fracture. It was not the doctor's crest; Fenton had never seen him wear a ring; could scarcely believe in the possibility of his possessing one. Whose could it be? Had one of the bushrangers dropped it? That was the only explanation. He folded the ring neatly in the formula, and, overcome by exhaustion, stretched himself full length and slept.

And now to England!

CHAPTER III.

Twelve months later a young lady stepped from the train at berrington Station. She was alone and dressed in plain mourning, and there was that indescribable look in her face which speaks so eloquently and unmistakably of a heavy sorrow, lived through yet not forgotten.

A porter came up and after a glance at the beautiful face touched his hat and asked respectfully, though she had alighted from a third-class carriage:

"Any luggage, miss?"

"A small portmanteau," replied Constance, and at the sound of her voice, so low and sweet, the man touched his cap again.

Constance looked round the station.

"Can you tell me the way to Brakespeare Castle?" she said.

"Well, miss, it's three miles or near," replied the porter. "You'll take a——"

As he spoke a carriage dashed into the station yard, and almost before it had stopped the door was flung open, and a little boy ran out, and, heedless of the footman, who called to him in respectful remonstrance, ran through the gateway on to the platform.

He was a child of seven or eight, with a pretty face, round which bright golden curls hung in profusion, falling in a shower of silken splendor upon his velvet tunic.

Constance was losing herself in girlish admiration of the beauty and grace of the little fellow, when he ran up to her and swept off his cap said:

"Oh, please, are you Miss Grahame?"

"Yes, I am Miss Grahame," said Constance.

His face lit up with a smile, and he held out a tiny hand, but drew it back and whipped off his glove.

"I beg your pardon. There—I'm always forgetting! I'm so glad you have come. I've been to meet you. Grand ma would have come, too, but she has one of her headaches. I'm Lord Lance bend."

Constance took the little hand and bent down and kissed the bright face.

"It was very kind of you to meet me, Lord Lancebend," she said.

"Oh, not a bit. James," and he turned to the footman and porter, who stood like statues, "see to Miss Grahame's luggage. Come along," and with a little air of childish importance that was delightfully funny and easy he led the way to the carriage, holding out his hand to assist her in as if he were at least ten years older.

"I'm afraid you are very tired," he said. "Would you like the window up or down? Down? So do I. I like to look out and see things. You must be tired! But we ahan't be long; I told Williams to drive quickly."

"I am not tired," said Constance, smiling down at him from the fullness of her heart, for the child's frank welcome had touched her "I am used to taking long journeys, and this, from London to Buckinghamshire, does not seem so far."

"Yes, I know; I heard grandma say that you had come from abroad. Right across the sea! How I should like to have been with you!"

"I wish you had!" said Constance.

"Do you?" He looked at her with his large, thoughtful, and yet perfectly bright eyes. "Well, I do wish I had! I like you. Is that rude? Do you mind my saying it?"

"Not in the least," responded Constance.

"Thank you," he said, gravely. I'm always making mistakes, grandma says, and you must correct me."

"If that was a mistake it was a very pretty one," said Constance, smilingly.

He thought over this for a moment, then nodded.

"I understand. I hope you'll like me. Miss Brownjohn didn't; she said I was a troublesome child, and I'm afraid I am."

"I hope not," said Constance. "And who was Miss Brownjohn?"

"She was my last governess; she was a be-a——" He pulled himself up. "I mean she was rather disagreeable. She won't like you, young and beautiful, but old and- spectacled. I think she took snuff."

British labor won the Darlington by-election by small majority, gaining seat from Tories.

POLAR AIRSHIP IS BIG SUCCESS IN TRIAL FLIGHT

ENGINES PERFECT

Rome, March 1.—The dirigible Norge, built for the Ellsworth-Amundsen North Pole expedition by the Italian Air Force, on designs by Colonel Nobile, who is to be pilot of the expedition, brilliantly accomplished its first trial flight Saturday.

With 30 persons on board, the airship flew to Naples and back at an average speed of 50 miles an hour, its engines never missing a single beat throughout the journey. Both the behavior of the engines and the ease of steering the dirigible completely satisfied the members of the syndicate and the numerous experts who accompanied it on its first flight.

After this trial the dirigible may be regarded as ready for the North Pole flight, except for certain small installations which yet remain to be made, such as fitting it with radio, placing the sun compass in positions and fixing star escape cameras for taking pictures of the polar regions.

Cheered by crowds which collected at the aviation field at Centocelle, some ten miles from Rome, the Norges took off at 9 o'clock in the morning, with Colonel Nobile at the helm. It circled several times in wide figures of eight over the field to test its manageability, which proved to be good. It being possible to turn the dirigible about in an amazingly small radius, even against the strong wind blowing. Then it went for a trip over the city, flying at a height of several thousand feet, the engines running smoothly at normal cruising speed. After returning again to Cetocelle at 11 o'clock, the ship turned of to west to the sea and then headed south for Naples.

Without forcing the engines unduly, an easy speed was maintained, varying from 45 to 55 miles an hour, according to the direction of the wind. The ship followed the coast some two or three miles out to sea, at an altitude of 1,300 feet.

MANY ACCIDENTS OVER WEEK-END

A crop of minor street accidents preceded March's inclement entry, the fall of snow which covered the icy sidewalks of the city on Sunday having been responsible for a number of tumbles, the most serious of which was a broken wrist sustained by Mrs. Hare, 42 Bridge Street. This was the only case that needed hospital treatment. Mr. Morgan was called in, and X-ray examinations revealed the injury.

The deceiving appearance of the flaky snow which covered everything on Sunday morning entrapped many citizens into striding out without extra precautions, only to find that their footbold was even more precarious than that obtainable on shifting sand. Many falls resulted therefrom, and a number of Bellevillians are today nursing cuts and bruises.

March lived hereinafter up to its time-hallowed tradition this morning when its advent was marked by a heavy fall of soft snow which later developed into a mild blizzard. This too died down early in the afternoon, a rise in temperature accompanying the snowfall.

PONTIAC CAR SEEN ON PARADE

With blood-curdling war-whoops rending the air, redskins arrayed in all their native regalia appeared once again on the streets of Belleville on Saturday. But not, as in days gone by, did they brandish their tomahawks and strike terror into the hearts of the "white-face". Nor were bows and arrows in their hands; but rather in their hands was something else—something which stood out in startling contrast—not only to the features and primitive manner of their travel. On foot came several dusky savages and following, transported by the latest product of the automotive industry came more of them, proudly plioting the latest development of the motor trade, and the very latest in transportation on the earth. All this changed present day civilization. Surely a strange combination but the occasion was the presentation to the people of Belleville and District of General Motors' newest product—The Pontiac Motor Car—"Chief of the Sixes".

It was a fitting debut for the "Pontiac", named after the great Indian chieftain, and the contrast between the old and the new is well exemplified in the new car. That citizens were impressed with the newest in motordom was evidenced by the remarkable interest manifest it on the street and later in the showrooms of the McLaughlin Motor Car Company on Bridge Street which have been appropriately decorated for the occasion. The showing of the new Pontiac Sixes at 45 will continue throughout this week and the public is cordially invited by the Company to view this new Six at its showrooms.

TWICE MARRIED

George Dwyer, the father of the children, is a returned man, and declares that he was unaware of the serious state of affairs in his home. He has been married twice, and has three other children by his second wife. It is said that those children bear all the evidences of proper nutrition and care.

According to reliable information, the home in which they lived was of two stories, with one room on each flat. Both boys, it is said, were forced to go to the woods every day to help their father in his work. It is said that when the children felt unable to go they were brutally beaten until they preferred to endure the rigors of the weather rather than the terrible unkindness of the parents.

The father alleges that he worked in the woods all day alone, and knew nothing of proceedings at the house. He says that he usually came home about seven or eight o'clock at night; the child ren were in bed, a nd he could not know for certain that they had been fed.

DOCTOR'S OPINION

Dr. D. W. Clarke, who is attending the children said a boy of nine years should weight about sixty pounds. These children, he said, are sadly neglected, starved and frozen, and in a serious condition.

Nellie, is now in charge of the Children's Aid Society.

The two boys are in a more serious condition Both are in the hospital. John, aged 12 is very ill, and may not survive, while George, 9 years old, was brought to the city on a stretcher and conveyed to the hospital by an ambulance. NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

If you like a forceful, melodramatic story, rich in action, drama and love appeal, with a strong undercurrent of refreshing humor, dotted against colorful backgrounds that vividly recall the historic California gold rush of 1849, then you are sure to enjoy "The Golden Princess," now playing at the Belle Theatre.

It has the added advantage of the irresistible presence of Betty Bronson, supported by a distinguished cast, including Neil Hamilton, Rockcliffe Fellowes, Phyllis Haver and Joseph Dowling.

As "The Golden Princess," Betty brings to the screen a character so quaintly beautiful that words alone cannot describe her. This is her first starring role and she makes the most of it.

AT GRIFFIN'S

Innumerable pictures have been devoted to the romance of the epic California gold rush of '49. It remained for Virgie E. Roe and Frank Lloyd to give the heroine of this great epoch her due.

"The Splendid Road," a First National film featuring Anna Q. Nilsson, Lionel Barrymore and Robert Frazer, which is booked for the Griffin Theatre tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday, is the screen compliment to America's pioneer womanhood.

In her novel, "The Splendid Road", upon which the film is based, Miss Roe deals with the struggles, the handicaps and romance of Sandra De Haxit, who came to California from Boston to play a man's game in a man's way.

California in '49 was a hot bed of crime and disorder, the last for gold and land being superior to conventions, system or life itself. The law was what men made it.

Seldom has the screen offered such an inspiring character as Sandra.

LOCAL CAGERS FACE CONTEST

Kingston Y.M.C.A., Which Was Nosed Out By Queens Play Here

According to the Kingston papers which contain a write up of the Queens-Kingston Y game, the former's basket ball team was fortunate to win from the Association boys.

The game as described as fast and exciting throughout with the Y experts setting the pace during the first half, at the conclusion of which they were leading by 5 by the score of 10-7. During this session the Queens forwards were unable to penetrate the Y defence and their long shots were failing wide of the mark. The second half however, saw a reversal of form and the Queen forwards were able to secure five points while their defence held the opposing firing line to one lone point, secured from a free throw.

Wednesday evening the local Association team will entertain the Kingston Y team in a schedule fixture and judging from the game the Y played against Queens, the Belleville cage artists will be under the necessity of playing high class basket ball in order to receive the verdict. Indications are pointing to a bumper house for the game, Most of the seats are not being reserved, it behoves all and sundry to come in good time if they are partial to a seat, while watching the game.

ZION HILL

The regular monthly meeting of Ivanhoe W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Jos. Reid on Tuesday, Feb. 16, with a record attendance of members and visitors. Two quilts were quilted to be sent to one of the Indian homes in the West. Mrs. Reid served dinner at 25c each. Proceeds .6.25 for Missionary funds. Before dinner Mrs. Esther Reid was presented with a beautiful bouquet of carnations by the members of the W.M.S., it being her 81st birthday. She is our oldest member and a life member.

At 2.30 order was called and the Missionary program given. Collection at close amounted to $1.50.

To Mrs. Catherine Reid—

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant parts. This new treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M.D., a specialist set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at J. S. McKeown's who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

Edwards moved a vote of thanks to the artists who so willingly put on the program.

PRINCE WELCOMED AT BIRMINGHAM FAIR

Birmingham, Eng., Mar. 1.—The Prince of Wales received a wonderful welcome here when he made an informal call on the British Industries Fair. He spent the best part of the day inspecting the fair and when in the course of his tour he came to the Canadian section of the Canadian Pacific Railway he stopped, smiled and exclaimed, "Good old C.P.R."

His Royal Highness spent some time at the exhibit and asked many questions as to conditions in Canada. While there he stepped on a scale which promptly registered 137 1-2 pounds. On leaving the Prince said: "It is a splendid fair and I hope it meets with the success it deserves."

Montreal Meets Pirates Tuesday and Boston On Thursday

BRUINS LOST A GAME

Defeated in Ottawa Their First Loss in 11 Games

Maroons 4, St. Pats 3.
Ottawa 3, Boston 2.

Montreal, March 1. — Montreal figured prominently in the National Hockey League race for play-off rights this week. The Maroons have three games. They meet Pittsburgh here tomorrow night at the Forum and play Boston at the same rink Thursday, concluding the week against Canadiens at the Arena Saturday night. Canadiens play at Bos ton tomorrow.

The Montreal Maroons need two more wins to clinch second place and one and a half games to make certain of third place. Pittsburgh and Boston are the clubs pressing the Maroons. Each of the two United States teams has six games to go and Montreal Maroons seven. With a four and one-half game lead, Montreal is therefore in a fairly secure position, but has a chance to clinch matters by the end of the week, 10 days before the regular schedule ends and the play-offs begin.

But the interest is not only if Montreal's hunt for second place. The Maroons may be chief factors in deciding whether Boston or Pittsburgh reach the third play-off berth. If Montreal beats both N. Y. teams this week they will not upset the relative positions between the third-place contenders nor will they if they drop both games. But will they if they drop one game of the two, the U.S. team winning will receive a welcome pair of points, tallies which might constitute the difference between them at the finish of the season. Both Pittsburgh and Boston are in a tight fight for third position, one point being Boston's edge at present. Both teams have practically the same schedule ahead. Pittsburgh being just a shade handicapped in having two games with Ottawa, where Boston has but one more and that at home.

With the two United States contenders thus closely locked, two keen games are anticipated at the Forum this week in five games this season, Montreal has beaten Pittsburgh three times, the Pirates two wins, however, being in the lost two games both of which were played at Pittsburgh. Tomorrow's game will be the final scheduled one between the two teams this year.

Against Boston Montreal has not fared so well. Next to Ottawa the Bruins have been the hardest proposition in the league for the Maroons. Of four games played to date, Boston has won two and tied one, Montreal winning one.

Canadiens play at Boston tomorrow, but the local team, now in the cellar position, has been under a heavy grind in the past three weeks and the Bruins are favored to take the points as a helpful addition to their total in the big fight for le honors.

HOW MUCH DO YOU USE YOUR EYES

If almost constantly for near work, you ought to help them with glasses. You may or may not need glasses for distance but if you are an office worker glasses made specially for you would relieve your eyes of much of the strain to which you subject them. My examination determines the exact condition your eyes are in. Nothing new and improved in technique with which I'm not familiar.

IF YOU WAIT TILL SPRING IS HERE

To Buy New Draperies and Rugs, Some Sunny Day Will Catch You Unawares

Now is the logical time to lay in your stock of house furnishings for Spring—before the housecleaning rush is on, and before the opening up of the season brings hundreds of other things to be concerned about. And, most important, just now when our House Furnishing Sale is in full swing.

There is nothing like a sunny day in March to make a person take a domestic inventory. But if you DON'T wait till then, if you take the inventory now, write a list of the things your house needs to make it smile at Spring and—bring the list down to our House Furnishing Department some day this week—the Sale ends on Saturday—you will be able to buy what you want at greatly reduced prices. And when Spring does come you can sit back and regard with pity the people who are all in a flurry, trying to get the housecleaning done and buy their Easter clothes and plant the garden. And all the time, inside their houses, the worn-out furniture and rugs, the faded curtains will be looking their worst, waiting in vain for attention. It will be summer time before their houses are dressed up for Spring.

But your house will be shining with beautiful new curtains, cushions, rugs and draperies—and your worry will be over.

MAJOR BELFORD NEXT!

Member For East Northumberland Spoken Of For Post

Toronto, Ont., Mar. 2.—Premier Ferguson today has taken over the departments of lands and forests himself, follow ing the resignation yesterday of the Hon. James Lyons from the Ontario Government. The Premier this morning refused to make any comment on the situation or to forecast any changes that will be made in the administration.

It has been rumored for some time that Major J. P. B. Belford, East Northumberland might be taken into the Government as Minister of Education. Major Belford is a former Anglican church minister, and was a chaplain overseas.

Other conservative members who have been mentioned as possibilities for the Cabinet appointment are, F. H. Keefer, Port Arthur, A. M. Rankin, Frontenac, William Finlayson, Simcoe East, T. J. Mahoney, Wentworth South, F. G. Macdiarmid, Elgin West, and Dr. David Jamieson, Grey South.

Mr. MacDiarmid was a member of the Hearst Cabinet and Dr. Jamieson was one time speaker of the Legislature.

Members of the opposition stated this morning that they intended to question the Government with questions regarding the transactions of the company with which Mr. Lyons is connected.

Mr. Lyons reached his office soon today and commenced his task of cleaning up his department, Asked whether he had anything further to add to his statement of yesterday, Former Minister stated that he washed the whole thing to rest as it is.

W. D. Black, Conservative, Addington, was elected chairman of the Fish and Game Committee of the Ontario Legislature today. Warden Cunis of Kent County appeared before a committee to urge that the regulation prohibiting the capture of ducks more than two hundred yards from shore be abolished, saying that ducks were killed wholesale on shores.

Judge E. R. Fralick of Belleville said that future generations would not know what a deer looked like if restrictions were not strengthened. He urged that shooting of deer in water and deer without horns be prohibited. A closed season for white fish for the month from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15, was urged by W. A. Clarke of Collingwood.

WATERWORKS DEPARTMENT MAKES MONEY EVERY YEAR; MANAGER AUSTIN TELLS HOW

HISTORY OF LOCAL MUNICIPALLY OWNED SYSTEM REVIEWED—IMPROVEMENTS PAID FOR OUT OF PROFITS—LATEST APPLIANCES GIVE IMPROVED SERVICE AT NO EXTRA COST TO PUBLIC.

In a special report to the City Council made last night and given to the newspapers to-day Manager E. T. Austin of the Belleville Waterworks Department shows that unit of municipal service one of the most efficiently managed Belleville can boast of, and making money. Every ratepayer will find cause for gratification on reading this statement. Nothing more satisfying could very well be desired in the way of public service.

TEST OF REPORT

The text of Mr. Austin's communication follows:

Belleville, Ont., February 23, 1926.
His Worship Mayor Graham and Aldermen of the City Council,
Belleville, Ontario.
Gentlemen:—

It occurs very often that officials of Belleville Water Works Department are requested by citizens and others for definite information concerning the operations and standing of this Municipal Utility and I have thought some of these facts to your Honourable Body for consideration, if might not be out of place to mention a few informed facts for your information and the benefit of the Public at large.

In 1881 Moffett, Hodgkins and Clarke of Watertown, N.Y. prepared plans and specifications for a water Works System for the City of Belleville, Ontario. It was not until October 1883, or three years later, that the Belleville City Council passed a By-law giving the Company of gentlemen the authority to construct a Water Works System in the City of Belleville. By-law No. 1, was passed October 4th, 1886, gave the above Company the authority.

(Signed) D. B. Robertson,
City Clerk.
H. McIntosh,
Mayor.

SINCE 1887.

Water was turned into the system in 1887. Mr. H. H. Smith made the first connection to private service and Mr. H. McIntosh the second.

On January 21st, 1888 the Fire Underwriters made their first inspection of the new system, which they said was quite satisfactory.

In the fall of 1892 the extension of the water main from the City limit to the Ontario School for the Deaf was constructed.

In April 1894 Moffett, Hodgkins and Clarke submitted a statement to the City Council asking the City to purchase same. The City did not arrive at anything definite in the matter until 1899 and then decided to purchase the Water Works System from the above Company, at a cost of $182,000.00. There was apportioned to the 1899 sales of water, 100 Fire Hydrants and 1,000 services in use at this time and from observation I have had of same, the material used by the old Company was of the best quality.

Early in 1901 Debentures were issued for $82,000.00 for 30 years and in December of the same year a further $10,000.00 were issued. This last mentioned amount was used for improvements to the plant. In 1912, $13,000.00 of Debentures were issued and in 1915 $21,000.00 were issued. This was used to take care of the overdraft which had accumulated for new mains and services, which had been laid to improve the system. This has been no debenture issued since 1915 for new mains or new services.

In this period the water works Department have constructed 11,696 feet of 6" water mains and 6,264 of 4" mains, which cost $51,436.71. In the same time 791 new services have been laid which cost $33,516.81 making a total expenditure for mains and services in the last 10 years $76,953.35.

COUNCIL GREETED WITH A REQUEST TO BUY A PARK

Old Circus Ground On Bleecker Avenue is In Limelight

OK MOTOR PURCHASE

Fire Fighting Equipment To Be Modernized—Over "Early"

At the City Council session last evening a petition signed by a large number of citizens was presented asking the Council to purchase what is known as the circus ground in the northeast part of the city. The object of procuring the property is to make a recreation ground.

Mr. J. Rigby who presented the petition spoke in support of it claiming that such a ground was necessary in this section of the city. An option had been secured and if purchased the Parks Board could put it in shape for the ball teams to practice thereon and also have a place for children to play upon. The petition to purchase the property was signed by some 300 citizens.

In answer to a query from Ald. Procter, Mr. Rigby said the sum of $1,500 would be required, stating the grounds in shape but the price asked for it.

The matter was on motion referred to the Executive committee without being discussed.

POULTRYMEN ASK $400

During the session of the City Council last evening Ald. E. D. O'Flynn as President of the Belleville Poultry Association asked for an increase over the usual grant given the Association. The speaker stated that for the past few years a grant annually had been given of $100, but this year owing to the fact that the Association was some what in debt a grant of $400 was requested. The poultry Association had done much to advertise the city from coast to coast.

Mayor Graham said all appreciated what the Poultry Association was doing for the city.

Ald. Wilmot moved, seconded by Ald. Grouby that the request be referred to the Executive Committee. Carried.

WASTED NO TIME

Business brought before the City Council last evening was put through in an expedious manner, the adjournment taking place at 8.30.

Members present were: Mayor Graham, Aldermen Collins, Duff Gordon, Grouby, Hyde, MacConnell Walker, Wilmot, Wotten and Dr. Proctor.

Ald. Wotten was in the chair of Committee of the Whole. Several accounts were passed and the following recommendations were approved of:

MOTOR EQUIPMENT

That the Belleville Fire Committee approve the purchase of the Bickle motor-driven hook and ladder equipment as specified.

That Aldermen Gorman, Hyde, Duff and Sinclair be a committee to investigate the different chasses for the proposed new truck.

That the City Engineer and Chief Man of Market and City Property investigate a new fuel saving device.

CLOSURE MOVE LIKELY TO WIN

Ottawa Liberals Expect Majority of Ten on Division

Ottawa, Mar. 2.—Expectation in Liberal circles to-day is that the government will have a majority of about ten on the closure motion and of the same on the division on which must come before two o'clock to-morrow morning. Notice of the closure motion, given last night by the Hon. Ernest Lapointe, came as a surprise, so much so, that a number of members on both sides are away, some of them unpaired. Strenuous efforts are being made to have them here to-night. If the House adjourned to-morrow according to programme there will be a recess of twelve days.

TIME WASTERS A TARGET ASKING THEATRES TO HELP IN UNIFORM OPENING HOUR

As a means of promoting the campaign in behalf of time-work and promptness in the City of Belleville, the Chamber of Commerce has directed the above self-explanatory letter to the managers of the various theatres. The letter calls attention to the serious lack of respect that is too often paid to during the rendition of the National Anthem. The letter follows:

Belleville, Ont.

The Chamber of Commerce is endeavour to inaugurate a movement for greater promptness and punctuality in the opening of public functions of every kind in the city of Belleville. The time that is wasted unnecessarily in this way reaches an amazing total in the course of a year in experience of any single individual who is compelled to attend any considerable number of meetings. In the aggregate, the loss is enormous.

In the past, the theatres of Belleville have not been serious offenders in regard to regularity in the hours for the commencement of shows or performances. But even in this respect there may be room for improvement and especially in the matter of securing a uniform hour for opening the doors after the intermission between the various theatres in the city.

The board of directors, at their meeting held yesterday, instructed me to write to you and to the others suggesting most respectfully that some such agreement as intimated above should be entered upon and that a uniform hour for opening of picture shows or cinema performances, say 8 o'clock, should be adopted.

In bringing to your kind respect that is so often shown during the rendition of the National Anthem, when played at the close of any public performance, it is further suggested that the Anthem should be played at the beginning of the program instead of at the end. There would then be no incentive for those and "time savers" to engage in their wild rushes for the exits as if the five or ten seconds gained were a matter of life or death.

The National Anthem is not merely a prayer for the personal safety of the sovereign. It is a petition to Almighty God for the wellbeing of the British Empire of which the king is the representative head. As such, the Anthem should be treated with due respect and reverence. Such unseemly disturbances as are witnessed almost habitually at various public gatherings while the Anthem is being played or sung, are quite as much out of place as if they occurred at the end of a church service while the benediction was being pronounced.

Trusting that these suggestions will receive from you the kindly consideration that their importance merits, I am,

Very truly yours,

J. O. HERITY,
Manager, Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

KIWANIS HEARS BISHOP BIDWELL TALK ON HISTORY HERE MARCH 28

City Solicitor of Peterboro Compares Rome and Great Britain

Kiwanian Joseph Waring, City Solicitor of the city of Peterboro, was the guest of honour and speaker at the weekly noon-day Kiwanis luncheon at the Queen's today, and he treated the Club members to a most interesting talk, choosing as his subject "The Evolution of British Democracy."

At the outset, Mr. Waring, the lecturer to illustrate his subject drew an analogy between the constitutional development of the old Roman Empire and that of the British Empire. How, in the case of the former, Rome as a republic with two men ruling was blessed with prosperity and power. Come the days of the Caesars as Pro-Consul and Emperor and in the ensuing years, democracy vanished. And as we see today, governing Rome again is an unsettled state, with power not in the hands of the people. The speaker stressed the point of the necessity of getting on the part of these people regarding self-government.

Mr. Waring traced, then, the constitutional development in Great Britain emerging from the feudal system, under which the commoners had no power and gradually throwing off the shackles and a curbing of despotism in the growing democratic power; refusing to acknowledge that a sovereign rule by Divine power; until complete freedom of speech resulted and it was acknowledged that power really resided in the hands of the people—truly the real democracy.

GILBERT HEARING POSTPONED WEEK WITNESS IS AWAY

Mrs. Clara Mott Naylor Passenger in Car Needed In Court

AT FIRST REFUSED

Magistrate Insists Upon Crown Putting in Affidavit

Postponement for one week of the preliminary hearing of William H. Gilbert, charged with manslaughter, was granted by Police Magistrate S. Masson this morning on the application of Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, supported by affidavit.

MRS. NAYLOR Jr. AWAY

Insistence by His Worship on immediate filing of the affidavit produced a spirited exchange between the crown and the court. Mr. Donnan's application was based on the circumstance that Mrs. Clara Mott Naylor, widow of the young man who came to his untimely end 2 weeks ago when Gilbert's car crashed on the Trenton Road, was not procurable for a hearing today, and that as she was regarded as a material witness the crown did not feel justified in proceeding.

GILBERT WAS THERE

A fairly crowded police court room awaited the opening of today's proceedings. William H. Gilbert, who was accommodated with a chair before the public portion of the room, was still visibly nervous.

Magistrate Masson stated that as he would not be hearing the case, action need not plead.

At this point Attorney Donnan asked for the postponement, in the absence of a material witness.

His Worship asked whether it was not possible to get at the facts on the charge laid. Mr. Donnan pointed out that it was not wholly dependent on the testimony of a single witness.

WOMAN'S EVIDENCE

"I do not feel justified in proceeding without Clara Mott Naylor, who was in the automobile at the time of the accident," said the crown, "and who testified at the inquest that Hodgkinson was examined prior to the beginning of the drive to Trenton, that wine had been taken by Gilbert in Trenton prior to the start for the return journey, and that Gilbert was intoxicated at the time of the crash; also that he had been driving at excessive speed."

Further recapitulation of the evidence given by Mrs. Naylor being made by the crown, his Worship objected:

"This happened on the 16th of February and it is now the 2nd of March."

"But the accused is arraign d for the first time this morning," Crown Counsel Donnan replied.

"For how long do you wish a postponement?" asked the Magistrate.

"One week."

"Very well, but you must show some reason."

AN AFFIDAVIT

"I will file an affidavit, your Worship," continued the Crown Attorney "but since it has not been customary to require one I hope that in the future the practice will be made uniform."

"It is uniform," said Mr. Masson. "But I will grant you a kindlier case of a postponement."

MR. PAYNE SILENT

Mr. C. A. Payne, of Porter, Payne and Wills, counsel for defendant, declared he was "saying nothing" either way.

"I am not objecting to a postponement and I am not agreeing. I am simply sitting here. If your Worship requires an affidavit that is all right with me," he said. The solicited

LUCIEN CANNON NOW TO SUCCEED CHARLES MURPHY

Premier Selects Quebec Man As Postmaster-General

DUNNING SWORN IN

After Attending Cabinet Council—Hurries Home for Campaign

Ottawa, March 2.—Hon. Charles Dunning of Saskatchewan has taken his place in Mackenzie King's cabinet. He was sworn in as Minister of Railways early Monday and later attended a session of the cabinet council. He will not be in active direction of the railway department, however, until after the Regina by-election, as he will not leave his return in that riding to chance. He is already on his way west to carry on his campaign.

Mr. Dunning will not secure the seat by acclamation. The Conservatives have decided to oppose him and will put up a good fight. The odds, of course, are in favor of the new minister's success, the constituency being the seat of the provincial Government, of which he has been head and a large part of the population being in the employ of that Government. Westerners, however, express the opinion that there is a chance of his being beaten.

It is understood that Premier King has selected Hon. Lucien Cannon, Solicitor-General, to be Postmaster-General. Mr. Cannon was elevated to his present office at the time of dissolution last September in order to give him rank in the election campaign. Since then he has enjoyed the title without much responsibility attaching to it. The functions of the Solicitor-General's office were practically all absorbed by the Department of Justice even before Hon. E. J. McMurray resigned the post during last session because of the connection of his firm with the defunct Home Bank.

Mr. Cannon has had very little to do since he took over the title in September and it has been understood all along that the Government intended to abolish the position. There is now no need for its continuance.

Mr. Cannon's promotion to the portfolio of Postmaster General entails the retirement of Hon. Charles Murphy, now in the Senate, from the cabinet, and this will leave Ontario without representation in the Government. For this reason, the appointment may be deferred until after the Regina by-election, and until W. D. Euler, or some other Ontario man, is taken into the ministry.

The seat of a government supporter, D. M. Kennedy, Progressive member for Peace River, is in jeopardy through the institution of unseating proceedings in behalf of voters in the riding. It is charged that illegal and corrupt practices were conducted in Mr. Kennedy's behalf at the time of the general election, these practices including bribery, treating, impersonation, and the substitution of ballots.

Mr. Kennedy was elected by only 17 of a majority over the Conservative candidate and 41 over the Liberal. Mr. Kennedy gave it out today that he will fight the application to unseat him, intimating that the action is a "frame-up" against him. He suggests that it is revenge for his having filed a petition in Parliament alleging corrupt practices in the election in Archibald, now represented by Mr. Lucien Cross of Edmonton, Conservative, and for his having given notice of motion asking for a commission of inquiry into those charges. He points out that the protest against him is filed by the new partner of Mr. Cross in Archibald, Mr. Humber, the action that was proposed to proceed as far as he can with the Archibald case.

VISIONS LONDON 100 YEARS HENCE

Civic Architects Plans would Make Metropolis a Paradise

London, March 2.—London of one hundred years hence, instead of being strung loosely planned and old-fashioned like most of the present day British metropolis, will be a civic paradise, girt by a belt of beautiful parks and interlaced by splendid boulevards, if G. Topham Forrest, chief architect of the London County Council, has his way in a remarkable address delivered at a private meeting of experts, he declared now was the time to plan for making this new London, otherwise the city will simply grow up hap-hazard as in the past, and become even less suited for the growing demands of up-to-date traffic than the London of to-day.

Mr. Forrest objects emphatically to seeking to limit London's growth. What he deems necessary is a wise direction of its development.

"The coming of the motor car has at last brought us to believe that people would live further and further from the centre of London," said Mr. Forrest. "Now there is a tendency in the opposite direction and we will probably find as time goes on, that more and more people who own cars will move into flats near the central area. They will use their cars for getting out of London rather than for coming into it.

"We must plan new suburbs in advance. Mr. Forrest suggests a ring of park land within easy distance of London's centre—about nine miles from Charing Cross. He also suggests a system of wide parkways joining up already existing parks in London which, if his plan come true, would form an inner belt of parks. Another great boulevard, according to his plan, should become a link between the outer and inner ring of parks.

Though Forrest's plan involves some drastic changes in the present London and the demolition of many slums and unsightly buildings, especially those around existing railway stations, he objects decidedly to changing the oldest part of London—the city—where are many big banks and old-time business houses. I would preserve the city's medieval character as long as possible," he said.

GIVES FORTUNE TO HELP UNITY WITH CHURCHES

Sir Henry Lunn to Turn Over Vast Property and Wealth

ON WAY TO MONTREAL

Wants to Promote Concord Among Nations—Will Keep $2,500 a Year

New York, March 2.—Sir Henry Lunn, who at the age of 66 has amassed a fortune estimated at many millions from his English tourist agency and his hotels in Switzerland, announced today that he intended to turn over his entire property, and all his income except $2,500 a year, to promote unity among the churches and concord among the nations. He has established the Sir Henry Lunn trust foundation to administer his property to the interest of these reforms. Beginning on March 31, the foundation will control one-half of his property. The remaining half will constitute a private trust for the benefit of members of Sir Henry Lunn's family. As they die, their share will accrue to the foundation, which eventually will control his entire estate.

Sir Henry who began life as a Methodist "medical missionary" in India, but had to give up the work and return to England because of his health, is now making a world tour, preaching and lecturing for church unity and the League of Nations. He preached today in Trinity Episcopal Church here, and led for ministerial after making his announcement that he had divested himself of his property for the sake of humanity.

"Why have I done this?" Sir Henry echoed in an interview. "Why because I wanted people to know, when I went around lecturing and preaching, that I had finished with making, and that I no longer was adding to my personal fortune.

"They say that Englishmen come out this country to lecture for the sake of dollars, but I've not come over for the dollars. I take no fees and I pay my own hotel expenses. I've come here with a message and that message is to bring the churches into line with a united front to outlaw war."

Besides supporting all movements for church unity and international peace, Sir Henry said, "the other religious and social ends" of the foundation would be to promote foreign missions, care for invalid clergymen and finance "retreats" for clergy and laity.

ROTARY CLUB SAYS 'THANKS'

Those Outside Club Who Helped in Minstrels were Dinner Guests

SONGS ARE RE-SUNG

Affair at Quinte is Wound Up With a Jolly Dance

The Rotary Club's Minstrel Thank-You dinner-dance at the Quinte last night was one of those happy parties which no amount of arranging can guarantee but which just "happen". To begin with there was a good dinner and the usual community songs, and since there quite a few people present who were Rotary's guests for the first time they seemed to enjoy this part of the programme and entered into the spirit of the thing heartily. There was a programme and then dancing.

In the absence of the President Dr. Reverend Douglas C. Ramsay, M.A., who is ill, the Vice-President of the club, Mr. Chas. Dolan, made the Thank-You speech to those performers who so kindly assisted the club in carrying out its objective and thereby raising money for crippled children.

Mr. Leo Bates Higgs whose accompaniments on the piano were an everlasting delight throughout was especially thanked as were the members of the orchestra; Mr. Harold Sinclair, the chief man "behind the scenes" and his very fine services acknowledged publicly; Miss MacDougall, manager of Griffin's Theatre, was a dinner guest and was informed her co-operation made a great deal in the success; all carrying out of the show; Miss Madeline Young whose clever pupils who put on the clever skit, "Peter Pimlecia", not only came in for high praise but gave a reading made famous by the late Pauline Johnston, "Canadian Rotary Club" was also remembered and indeed all the people who were instrumental in helping the club.

After the dinner had the speeches they all sat around and heard some of the stars of the show repeat their stuff.

Eddie "George" Jack Thomson, Jimmie Bunkler, Dr. Hafner, Charlie Dolan, all trotted out their songs and the crowd helped in the choruses. All the remaining choruses of the show were also done very heartily. And the Rotary choir sang Shady Bee rows and his chorus plus glasses of water "in lieu of" sang Brown October Ale "by request", for about the hundred and first time, and Sandy never can it better in his life than he did last night.

Charlie Dolan shot a monologue aimed at a couple of well known Rotarians and scored a laugh a minute as usual. And the Secretary, Mr. Oswald H. Scott, made a neat speech, adding to words of appreciation already expressed.

There were about one hundred and twenty or thirty people present, most of them of course being wives or Minstrel guests, the many young ladies who assists', bringing friends with them.

Later they danced to music played by members of Mr. Young's orchestra and they decided that it was a very jolly party indeed.

Rear axle legends have gained such vogue in local motoring circles that when one car is to be observed chasing another now it need not be assumed that a band of stick-up men is on its way to Toronto and points west, but may indicate merely that curiosity as to the front party's legend consuming the man behind.

Already materials have become fairly familiar with the plate that proclaims:

COUNCIL HEARS COURT SEQUEL

Aldermen in Session State Their Views on Recent "Fines"

COMMITTEE TO WORK

Something May Be Done About Recent "Prosecutions"

A sequel to the much talked of and intensively abused snow hog-law enacted in city council Chamber last night when Aldeman A. B. Collins registered a mild protest against a selected few citizens being made "examples" of by being dragged into court for not removing snow-carpets.

"It is hardly fair to them," he said, "I for one am in favour of increasing the snow shovelling movement to include clearing by the city men of virtually all except properties the cost to be applied in taxes on those lots."

"HORRIBLE EXAMPLE"

Alderman A. H. MacConnell also went on record as being opposed to the "horrible example" method of hailing so-called delinquents into court.

Mayor R. J. F. Graham pointed out that "the city must be protected in some way," and added that there was "a large number of offenders" who neglected their snow-shovel wielding duties.

City Engineer C. D. Campbell observed that the city police had made the historic inspection a week or two ago from which had resulted the court appearance, by platoons, of prominent citizens. The majority of those against whom action was taken on that occasion, he declared, were Pinnacle Street and Front Street property holders.

A RESOLUTION

The controversy then crystallized into a motion emanating from Alderman F. R. Waters, which was p nt and carried. It provides for the appointment of a special committee, consisting of Aldermen Collins, Wotten and MacConnell of the fortious committee of the fall and snow by-law, with a view to modifying the same; the committee also to consider the "advisability of removing the walks with the new dished gutter ploughs.

Hold Jiggs Supper To Aid Girl Guides

Girl Guides of Belleville are putting on a Maggie and Jiggs feed in real corned beef and cabbage style, to-morrow night at the Y.M.C.A., where it is hoped that popular pastmonage will engage sufficient Bolsheviki being amassed to put on a big holiday camp this summer for the less fortunate little girls, who nowadays less need vacations none the less be cause their parents aren't plutocrats.

The supper, which has been set for 6 p.m., in the Y's baronial banqueting hall, has all been arranged by the mothers of the Associations, and the executive has worked hard to make the affair a success. It was felt that with a charge of 50 cents for each person, and the time the usual supper hour, a large number of banqueters will render it certain that the holiday camp coffers will be filled.

A parade earlier will also feature this entertainment.

PREFERS SPANKING TO USE OF LASH

Brockville, March 2.—A good old-fashioned spanking was recommended to Magistrates by Dr. Alfred E. Lavell, Secretary and chief officer of the Ontario Board of Parole, speaking before the Rotary Club here, as proper punishment, for less serious offences, such as juvenile delinquency, intoxication, which in charge of vehicles, cases of non-support and certain cases of assault, which require a short, sharp and drastic penalty.

The imposition of such a penalty, he felt, would have rather a humiliating surgery. He plaved himself upon record as being opposed to the lash, saying that it always made the man who received it worse and the man who gave it, more brutal.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, March 2.—Wheat prices rallied today after downturns at the start. Buying by houses with foreign and eastern connections had a strengthening influence as did the fact that Liverpool quotations displayed less weakness that in general was looked for. Opening prices 1-8 cent off to 1-4 cent up were followed by a moderate rise back and then by decided gains.

NORTH HASTINGS SCORES

One is supply permitted to hope that the expectations raised by the publication of the fact of renewed interest in the Hollinda Mine near Bannockburn will be borne out and that the new day for North Hastings is just around the corner. It is without question an area rich in minerals of various kinds. Hundreds of speeches have reiterated this absorbing fact in the past few years; indeed whole orations have been heard with nothing else as the subject matter.

And now?

County Clerk Nugent is confident that the people behind this latest development are good people and all that remains is for the old Hollindia itself to do its stuff as the saying goes and produce the lead. The lead is there if the assertions of the mine miners are accurate, as there possibly is good ground for expecting something interesting.

At all events the publicity commission of the County has scored, in attracting these people to North Hastings. Let them by all means carry on the good work. The newspapers will be glad to co-operate.

LIVING COSTS

A bulletin dealing with the subject of prices in Canada and other countries has been issued as a supplement to The Labor Gazette by the Department of Labor at Ottawa. That statistics presented in it are so complete and well arranged that one can easily use them to make comparisons of the cost of living in Canada and in other countries where the currency has been fairly stable; in the cases of countries with fluctuating currencies it is not so easy. It is, however, safe to say that as a general thing prices in all countries have risen and fallen in sympathy, the fluctuations being more marked in some countries than in others. We are often inclined to think that living costs in our own country remain at a higher level than in most other countries, and to complain about it; but a study of the statistical tables compiled by the Department of Labor serves to show that we have little to complain about on this score. Although Canadian prices are, of course, much higher than they were before the war, they have fallen further from the peak level than in most other countries.

For instance, with 100 as the base figure (the figure in July, 1914), the cost of living reached its peak of 227 in July, 1920, and in December, 1925, it had fallen to 156. In Britain the peak was reached in January, 1921; it was 265; and at the end of last year it was 171. In the United States the peak figure was 216, reached in July, 1920, and at the end of last year the figure had dropped to 170.

To show how living costs in Canada were divided, we extract from the tables the following figures; they show the peak prices for food, fuel, rent, clothing, and sundries, and the prices at the end of 1925, the basic figure of 100 being the price level for the year 1913:

Food—299, July, 1920; 157, Dec., 1925.
Fuel—218, Dec., 1920; 178, Dec., 1925.
Rent—147, 1923 and 1924; 145, Dec., 1925.
Clothing—260, July, 1920; 165, Dec., 1925.
Sundries—190, July, 1920; 164, Dec., 1925.
All—203, July, 1920; 157, Dec., 1925.

A comparison of costs in the different provinces reveals the fact that Prince Edward Island is the cheapest part of Canada to live in and Saskatchewan the dearest. Manitoba is the next highest and Ontario comes third. The following table shows how part of the costs are divided in the figures being the weekly cost, to an average family, of food, fuel and light and rent:

	Food.	Fuel-Light.	Rent.	Total
Saskatchewan	$11.18	$3.55	$8.75	$23.48
Manitoba	10.73	3.57	8.75	23.05
Ontario	11.57	3.56	7.24	22.37
New Brunswick	11.83	3.19	6.75	21.77
British Columbia	12.44	2.81	6.45	21.70
Alberta	11.35	2.42	7.03	20.80
Nova Scotia	11.75	3.08	5.69	20.52
Quebec	11.66	3.38	5.72	20.16

QUICK TO CRITICIZE

Sir Arthur Currie, president of McGill University and commander of the Canadian Corps in the great war, turns his gaze upon Ottawa and sees in the political strife, going on there nothing to commend and much to condemn. Addressing the Ontario Good Roads Association last evening, Sir Arthur expressed something very like contempt for the politicians. "I ask," he said, "if there is a single man or woman in this audience who believes our legislators are thinking nationally. You know that what they are thinking about is what they consider will be to the advantage of their own political party."

Many others besides Sir Arthur have been inclined to take his cynical view of the political situation and in one sweeping condemnation as mere faction-fighters. Is that a fair view to take? Does it not indicate a certain short sightedness and shallowness as well as unfairness in the critic?

Sir Arthur was not long ago actively engaged in promoting a movement for raising a large sum of money as an endowment fund for McGill University. Suppose somebody had said of him, "This professional educationist thinks far more of money than of education," wouldn't that criticism have been unfair? That is the obvious way Sir Arthur wanted the money, not for its own sake, but for the sake of education, and the time and labor which he devoted to getting the fund established was time and money devoted to the cause of education.

Well, cannot the politicians say pretty much the same thing in reply to Sir Arthur's criticism of them? The members of each party group (assuming them to be sincere, as no doubt many of them are), believe that the policies for which their party stands are necessary to the welfare of the nation, and that policies urged by other groups are injurious to the public welfare. Liberals and Progressives believe that the interests of Canada can best be served by keeping the present government in power. The Conservatives are convinced that the best hope for Canada is to overthrow the present government and put in force the policies for which the Conservative party stands. This being the case, and compromise being out of the question, can the party politicians be fairly blamed because they strive to keep or grasp power for their own parties? It is not fair to assume as a matter of course that it is only party advantage that they seek, any more than it would have been fair to assume that it was money for its own sake that Sir Arthur was after a little while ago. Many of the politicians desire party advantage, and are fighting for it, not as an end in itself, but as a means to an end, that end being the national welfare.

One may not always approve of their methods; often they make mistakes in the heat of party warfare; but let us not be too ready to impute unworthy motives to them.

TAXING SALARIES

St. Catharines Standard:

How the big salaried man is hit by income taxation is well illustrated in the case of Sir Henry Thornton. When the big C.N.R. chief was drawing $50,000 per year, the government took back $9,649.50 in income taxation. But Sir Henry received a new contract for $65,000 per year but he is still drawing less than his original contract. His income tax is now $15,594.99 per year, a shade less than the original $50,000, for which he agreed to come to Canada.

As it works out, the annual increase Sir Henry Thornton really received was $9,436.50 on his three-year contract. Still a good many people wouldn't mind a bit either earning Sir Thornton salary or having the ability and the opportunity of so doing.

MUSIC AS A CURE FOR ILLNESS

From the Chesley Enterprise:

A young man in this town told us the other day that when at a critical stage in an attack of pneumonia he took a turn for the better when his medical attendant, who was skilful with the violin, played a soul-refreshing air that made him want to live to enjoy more of the music of life. There have been so many advances in medical science during the past few decades that it is surprising no physician at conventions has suggested a chair in music at medical colleges. It is quite probable that with the influence of mind over matter, music can do more than soothe the savage brast.

HIP HOORAY FOR HOMEWORK

Bowmanville Statesman:

We are always sorry when we hear of complaints of parents against teachers for assigning homework to their children. The trouble is that too many seem to have forgotten the old truth that the scholar must learn to scorn delights and live laborious days. There must be a return to the love and respect for learning which true learning, when acquired by austere self-denial, once commanded.

Plant Trees.

Chicago Daily News:

"C. C. Luther, of Mechanicsville, already the world's champion tree planter, will begin on his sixty-third birthday to plant 10,000,000 more trees.

"Tree planting," he said to a reporter, "benefits others, but it specially benefits the planter himself." It keeps him from getting discouraged as he gets old—keeps him from giving up.

"Old Sol Perkins ought to go in for tree planting. Old Sol, you know, complained:

"'I was born at the wrong time. When I was young young men were of no account; and now I'm old, old men are of no account.'"

When a husband hands the wife a mail order catalogue and tells her to pick out her gowns from that you can rest assured that the honeymoon is over.

LEACOCK TELLS ABOUT COLLEGES

Modern Universities Insatiable Institutions Devouring Millions

ALL STUDENTS NOW

Catching Up to Mules in Number in America—Some Sham Schools

Ottawa, March 2.—Dr. Stephen Leacock, head of the political department, McGill University, was the speaker at a luncheon, which took place at the Chateau Laurier under the joint auspices of the Ottawa Valley McGill Graduates' Society and the Professional Institute of the Civil Service. The visitor, who selected as his theme "The Work of the Universities" was introduced by Mr. Fred Cook, president of the institute, who was in the chair. Amid laughter, Dr. Leacock remarked that he wanted to talk between now and 3.30, for you have my promise in advance that I will go then—is to speak of some of his problems that confront our universities and to draw your attention to the great changes that have come over the life and the work of the universities and the part they play or ought to play in the life of the country." Reference was made to the changes between the little colleges of yesterday and the huge institutions the latter being described as the insatiable institutions devouring millions per annum and refusing to give an account of where it has gone, but always, like Oliver Twist, coming back for more. Quoting statistics pertaining to the attendance at Canadian and American colleges, Dr. Leacock, to the amusement of his audience, remarked that the students in the two countries now reach a total that is worth as great as that of the nations. There were 800 enrolled in five million males, and one million students, and the proportion was rising. Reference was made to the magnitude of the endowments of Harvard and other universities and to the university at Pittsburgh, which is to have fifteen storeys, in which all the end students will be carried by six seven express elevators. Marked and unanimous tribute was paid to American "who had the world in their wonderful generosity towards higher education and their recognition of what they owe their financial support in that respect should assume."

Dr. Leacock stated that when he was in Germany he was impressed by the relief few. "You only have to look at us," he continued, "to see that was true. Now all this world is coming to college, and the world is knocking at our gates." The colleges described as having become the common heritage of North America; and democracy, and a comparison was drawn between the old curriculum and that now pertaining. He spoke considering that the universities in Canada and the United States were making a great mistake in thinking that they must attend and widen their curriculum, so that, because everybody comes to them, they shall teach their everything. A plea was made for the old disciplinary curriculum. Professor Leacock stating that he boy who struggled in vain to absorb Latin Rudiments was the young man who had learned the key to that which was noblest in our own. Most of the so-called schools of commerce, administration and business and journalism were characterized as shams, and one-half of all they do as pretentious sham. Dr. Leacock was glad to say that McGill had kept away from being drawn towards that. The function of the university was to bring out capacity, but not to hand out an acquired professional knowledge, to adapt the man his soul to bring out all that is intellectual in him, with the minimum of the personality and the matrimony and the salesmanship and the advertising that disfigures the colleges of North America. Dr. Leacock read a list that he compiled. Reference was made to the tendency now growing to regard the Legislature as the proper authority to settle what shall be taught, and what shall not be taught; also, that when the people pay the money they have the right to call the tune. This latter was considered by Dr. Leacock as a great social error. "Whoever people, either the public or benefactors, bring money to the university, they should go away" he continued, "and they should say: 'Here is a million dollars,' and no say, 'Yes—here is an I.O.U.'"

The action of the Legislature of Tennessee and other states in respect to the teaching of the widely accepted scientific theory of evolution was arraigned, and at the same time a tribute to McGill where the faculty enjoyed such academic freedom. In concluding, Dr. Leacock paid a tribute to the local McGill graduates. Mr. O.O.S. Phelan, B.Sc., D.L.S., president of the Ottawa Valley Graduates, extended, on behalf of the two societies, a vote of thanks, and expressed the hope that when he returned to McGill he would convey their thanks to Sir Arthur Currie.

NOTORIOUS SPY LOSES IN RACE

Hangman Executed Son of Tribich Lincoln Before He Arrived

LETTER TELLS REGRET

Youth Who Served in War Killed Salesman For Brewery

London, March 2—A notorious spy's race with the hangman was lost today, Ignatius Lincoln, alias John Lincoln, was executed for murder, without having seen his father, Ignatius Tribich Lincoln, exiled Sinnfein M.P., who had started from the far East when he heard of the death sentence. He wanted to bid his son good bye. The father arrived in France yesterday but had not appeared, at the Chapton Mallett Prison when time for the execution arrived. The son, 20-year-old artillery man, convicted of killing a householder during a burglary on Christmas Eve, left a letter for his father. Lincoln's victim was Edward Richards, travelling salesman for a brewery. Young Lincoln yesterday apparently was resigned to his fate, he received visits from his mother and sweetheart.

Lincoln was in Colombo, Ceylon, when news reached him that his son had been convicted of murder and sentenced to death. Filled with remorse he is reported to have written to the son, "My rise seem to have been visited on your head and I pray you will forgive me before you die. If I had been a better father, this might not have happened and I am filled with terrible regret for my past."

Ignatius went to his death without visible emotion, standing rigidly at attention on the scaffold as the noose was adjusted. Until late last night he had waited in the death cell for his father's promised visit and when told that it was impossible for him to arrive, he broke down and wept.

For Deep Chest Colds

All colds should be treated with vapors, for vapors alone can carry the medication DIRECTLY to the air passages and lungs.

Vicks is a "vapor" treatment in salve form. For deep chest colds you first apply hot wet low als over throat and chest to open the pores, then massage briskly with Vicks for 5 minutes, spread on thickly and cover with a flannel cloth.

Vicks not only penetrates like a poultice or plaster, but the ingredients, vaporized by the body heat, are inhaled all night long.

Paid off on New Intake	6,206.00
Total	$111,784.49

The above work has been carried out during a very expensive period with no increase in rates to the water consumer. I believe we are one of very few cities in Ontario, which have not increased the water rates.

In 1923 and 1924 a new Intake, new Pump House, Gasoline Engine driven Pump and Receiving Sewer were completed, which cost $84,266.00. Debentures issued for this last the $7,750.00 paid by the Department, making the debenture issue $70,000.00.

27 MILES

The Department has at the present time 27 miles of water main and taking the water at 23.00 per lineal foot at this would be worth at the present time $127,000.00; also 3,300 services, a total length of 83,000 feet. This would be worth $99,330.00; 270 Fire Hydrants complete $39,600.00; Stand Pipe and Property on Hillcrest Avenue $35,000.00; Intake, Pump House and 3 cribs complete $120,000.00; the valves and outlets complete on the system should be worth $60,000. The total value of the whole Water System being $791,660.00, which I believe is quite a conservative estimate.

The total Debenture debt of the Department at this time is $301,305.65, against this the sinking Fund to December 31st was $125,201.30, leaving a debt against the Department of only $129,144.09.

THE REASON

The success of the Department during the last ten years is due to several causes, some of which I will mention here:—

(1) The men who were responsible for the installation and improvements in 1917 and 1918.

(2) The men who were responsible for making the contract to supply the Canadian National with water.

(3) The men who were responsible for the new intake and improvements which makes it possible for us to give service to our many consumers.

In conclusion I might say things have looked better in the Department than they do at the present time and we look for one of the most successful years we have ever had.

Respectfully submitted,
(Sgd) E. T. Austin,
Mgr. Water Works Department.

HON. JAS. LYONS QUITS PORTFOLIO

Acceptance of Resignation Announced by Premier Ferguson

ANSWERS CRITICISM

Acted on Insinuations He Was Using Office for Private Gain

Toronto, March 2.—Premier G. Howard Ferguson announced in the Ontario Legislature this afternoon that Hon. James Lyons, Minister of Lands and Forests, had resigned his portfolio. The premier minister stated the resignation had been accepted.

Premier Ferguson read in the Legislature both Mr. Lyons' resignation and the acceptance, both of which were dated today, and they were received with astonishment.

Mr. Lyons letter stated that many questions had been placed on the order paper concerning the relationship of the James Lyons Fuel and Supply Company, South Soo, Marie, of which he was president, with the Government and other firms doing business with the Government. These questions the letter said, were placed to establish by inference that he was using his public office to the advantage of himself and his company. Mr. Lyons' letter reviewed the history of his company, which commenced as a straight fuel company in 1912, and had grown to a general fuel and supply company with business connections across Canada.

He pointed out that most of the business of the firm was done with firms in Northern Ontario. "Last year," he wrote in his letter, "I gave the understanding to the House that no further business was done between my firm and the Government. I so informed the company. I do not desire to embarrass the Government and finding that I cannot undertake to discontinue the business of the firm with its established customer, I feel, Sir, to tender formally my resignation as Minister of Lands and Forests in your Government."

Premier Ferguson, in his letter, after speaking favorably of the work of Mr. Lyons as minister, states that he accepts the resignation.

"Hon. James Lyons was first elected to the Legislature in 1922, when he was South Soo. Marie back to the Conservative party. Previous to 1919 it had been the riding of Sir William Hearst, then premier. Mr. Lyons had never been in active politics as a member of Parliament before, but he had been in municipal affairs in his own city as councillor, and later as mayor. He was born in old Ontario, but went north when comparatively young and established himself in business. He had been a member of the Legislature was made when he was Minister of Lands and Forests during the Drury administration, Legislature. He has not spoken often in the House, and then always on the work of his own department.

CONFLICT OF WOMEN CAREERS STUDIED BY STORM JAMESON

New York, March 2.—Women of the present generation need to have called to their attention the conflict between a career at home as a wife and mother and a career in the business world, believes Storm Jameson, the author, who devotes much of her writing to the problem.

"Too many of the best of modern women undertake to make a success of all three phases of their life without realizing that they must sacrifice at least one of them and usually the sacrifice is the most important—a successful mother," she says.

"The results are of wider scope than just an individual tragedy here and there for they affect the future of the race. We find that the women who sought the best careers and married, give us the finest children are prevented from fulfilling that function because they enter upon the struggle for a career without realizing the conflict that exists between success in business and success at home.

In her latest book, Miss Jameson, who is keen business and has one child, examines the question.

New Mysterous Radio Pen Invention Of Francis Jenkins

U.S. Army and Navy Interested in the Device; It May Be Used With Ordinary Receiving Set; Has Possibilities In Military Field, According to Authorities

A mysterious radio pen, which draws pictures, cartoons, maps or other illustrations as they are broadcast miles away is the latest development in the wireless field which the U.S. army and navy officers are investigating to determine how valuable the device may prove for military purposes. The new machine, which can be installed just as a loudspeaker is plug-in, has just been perfected by C. Francis Jenkins, the Washington radio photograph inventor.

Successful demonstration of the device has just been completed in the laboratories of the inventor before Captain R. W. McNeely, in charge of radio research of the army, navy or J. O. Mauborgne, in charge of radio development for the army, and other military men. Numerous drawings were broadcast from the Naval Research Laboratory, Bellevue, D.C., station NSF, and were received with marked clarity at the Jenkins laboratory.

REPRODUCES ON FLAT PAPER

The Jenkins device is declared by its inventor to be the only, machine in the world that is capable of sending and receiving pictures, handwriting or printing on flat surfaces, transcribing the subject matter directly on to ordinary paper in full. Previous devices of this character employ a cylindrical process. Jenkins explained, which is much more intricate and which precludes the eye from seeing the whole reproduction as it is traced at the receiving station.

The machine is of surprisingly simple appearance, comprising a small mahogany cabinet about 10 inches square and eight inches in height, on the tilted top of which is mounted the radio pen and guides for holding and moving the paper. The pen is merely a metel arm about six inches long, on one end of which is a steel pen point of the type used in drafting instruments and on the other end of which is a small magnetic box resembling the ordinary ear-piece of a radio head set. The latter end of the arm is mounted on an axis, permitting the pen to sweep across the paper in areas the width of the paper. The pen, which is hinged, is connected to the earpiece by means of a series of sensitive levers so that every movement of a tiny iron bar, mounted so as to replace the customary diaphragm, is communicated to the pen, causing it to touch the paper and make an ink mark.

As the incoming radio impulses actuate the magnets and depress the bar the pen also is depressed as it is automatically being drawn across the paper by an auxiliary radio-controlled motor, a line(varying in length as the radio impulse, is produced. It is these ink lines, properly plotted, which form the completed picture. The radio impulses are generated by a similar-looking machine at the broadcasting station. The difference in the transmitter is that the lines of the original drawing, either on a special metallic ink or etched on zinc form an 'electrical contact between the points of the "tracing" pen, which is guided over the original circle which is broadcast. The arms of the transmitter and receiver being synchronized automatically, the sporadic impulses thus radiaed are made to operate the self-inking pen of the receiver.

RECEIVES ON ORDINARY SET

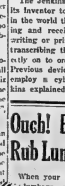

The receiver, because of its simple construction, is not costly, and furthermore, it may be plugged into the ordinary radio receiving set through the loudspeaker jack.

"The navy is extremely interested in the invention, as well as a number of other radio devices invented by Mr. Jenkins," said Captain McNeely.

Captain McNeely pointed out that in time of war the Jenkins invention could be used in transmitting code messages, maps showing locations of enemy fortifications, machine gun nest and other valuable information and data, as well as transmitting important written orders signed by the commanding general at headquarters to the units in the field.

PASTIMES TO PLAY ALBERT COLLEGE SIX

Pastimes face Albert College This day evening at seven in the city league fixture at the Arena, and if they lose they might as well pack up their hockey sticks in the old kit bag and smile if they can.

They have to win everything from now on in order to stay in the running. Tigers are proving far ahead in this league, and have but one tie game to play off with Pastimes. The smile is on the face of the Tiger has been for a couple of weeks past. Pastimes have two other tie games to decide.

Recreation Results

Fan Fodder

Belleville will need a new wellin tomorrow morning after the wee whoop that will go up at Gar's Arena, when the ink-burling pirates finish the Big Game tonight, busts the wellin nur in use.

The cry goes up around the purlieus that Ontario chief regret is that Intell's team doesn't contain more Scotchmen; they hope losing that by tonight these would have been so weakened by fasting in preparation for the oyster feast that they would crash to the ice in the last stages of exhaustion before the end of the first period.

Such a traffic between the competing rooms and the editorials of the loca newspapers over the prim, tors' hockey-and-oyster tomboia tonight as never was. Such a rushing to and fro and plonking up to box, now pad's, pants, skates, sweaters, and what not one never saw. When the teams skate on the indications are they will sport so many different rai rtes that except for the presence of the ice it will be impossible to determine whether it's a hockey game, ba-eball, or a cycle race.

* * *

But I'll be a great game. It might take Mason of the Intells a split second longer to get into action than some of the others; but when he does start down the ice the impact will likely take the end wall out of the Arena.

EXPLORER HITS RED LAKE TRAIL ON MOTOR SLED

Prospector Sees 'Gas Wagon' as Improvement on Dog-Power

IS OLD SOURDOUGH

Will Go in to New Gold Strike Region in Early Spring

Sioux Lookout, Ont., March 2.—While the trail from Hudson, Ont., on the Canadian National transcontinental line, to the Red Lake mining district near the Manitoba boundary, is marked by a steady stream of four to five mile an hour transportation by a dog team sleigh and toboggan, Alexander Innes, a Toronto explorer, prospector and inventor, has built a motor sleigh de luxe which he hopes will take him into the gold country in a few hours.

Mr. Jones' gas wagon sleigh will have all the very latest equipment. He thinks it will revolutionize travel into the new gold country and be a strong competitor of the recently established air service. Instead of having to live in the open as the travellers by "Huskies" do, he will have a warm bed and cooking apparatus, the latter being electrified and quite up-to-date. In appearance the Jones' car resembles an auto bus mounted on two pairs of runners. In the front there is a large bonnet covering the engine and the tractive force is produced by a four-bladed propeller with a span of eight feet. The six cylinder engine is rated at nearly two hundred horse power and when going at full speed the propeller will make 1,900 revolutions a minute.

WILL KEEP WARM

The occupants of the car will not be troubled by the cold for at one end there is a large radiator heated from the engine. The driver's seat is placed on the left of the steering wheel, which is similar to that of an ordinary motor car. The steering wheel is connected with the front runners which are mounted on a swivel.

"I am leaving shortly for Red Lake," said Johnny Jones in an interview. "At the present time I have three men in the district with twenty huskies and two motor sleighs. I have one motor sleigh somewhat similar to this, but it is not altogether successful and we have changed the design. I have a large tractor operating, too, of my own invention, but although it is giving good service, I think this motor sleigh will be much faster. We should be able to hit up fifty miles an hour with it on a good trail."

IS OLD "SOURDOUGH"

Not only is Mr. Jones interested in gold, but he has given a good deal of attention to Ontario's coal deposits. As far back as 1922 he made a report on the coal area in the vicinity of James Bay. "I prospected through the district with a partner," he said, "and we found tons of good coal right near the surface. Nat. ously was there coal, but the shale was rich in oil. We tried to find indications of free oil on the surface, but the search was unsuccessful, although the Indians spoke of a lake which never froze. If there is such a lake it is probably oil.

"If a railway is ever put through the country it will be a wonderful thing for Ontario. The price of coal in Ontario will be cut in half.

The possibilities are stupendous. In early days the adventurers used to search for El Dorado. It's right here at our door. The day is not far distant when Ontario will produce more gold than any other province or country in the world. My advice to anybody today who wants to make good is: 'Go north, young man.'"

Johnny Jones is going to set up on his own advice. He will be in the Red Lake district for the kill in a few days.

AT THE BELLE

No 6 heavy has won a film fight at last!

This heavy athlete, one of the outstanding villains of the screen, a mighty man who towers six feet one inch evenly-leaved and who weighs 210 pounds, was his first battle since he entered motion pictures when he trounced Raymond McKee in "Contraband," Alan Crosland's newest production from Paramount, coming to the Belle to-morrow.

For sixteen years Beery has used his massive jaw as a shock absorber for the punches delivered in the last rest by the hero. Nearly every prominent leading man has bruised his knuckles on Beery's chin.

The noted villain's great moment arrives in the one of the thrilling scenes of "Contraband," in which he subdued Mr. Beery, McKee. The fight was as realistic as McKee. Beery and Crosland could make it and took nearly seven hours in filming.

AT GRIFFIN'S

Capt. John Sutter, famed in California gold rush history as the original possessor of the land upon which the precious metal was first discovered in 1848, comes to the screen in "The Splendid Road," now showing at Griffin's Theatre. Roy Laidlaw, screen star, impersonates the famed old pioneer.

Sutter was granted many leagues of land in the Sacramento and Feather River Valleys by the Mexican and American governments for the purpose of settling the territory and developing the natural resources. Near what is now Sacramento, Sutter built a fort to protect his workers from attacks of out-laws and Indians. Sutter's dream was a territory of farms, factories and cities with industries of varied sorts.

Before his plans could be announced, however, gold was discovered in the river beds and although Sutter made an earnest effort to organize the new, word reached the East of the discoveries and within a few months thousands of people came to California by wagon, train and boat, and even on foot, to seek fortune in the new country.

Most of the newcomers settled on Sutter's land and because known as "squatters." Efforts of Sutter's agents to evict them proved fruitless but a flood did cause most of the "squatters" to leave the vicinity of Sacramento and go elsewhere. Sutter died a broken hearted, poor man, despite all the gold that was found on his land and his extremely large estates.

"Purim" Festival Was Held in City

The Young Judean Clubs presentation of the play "Queen Esther" featured the Purim Festival at Mr. J. Edmond's Hall last Sunday evening. The principal parts were well handled by the following:

King Ahasuerus—Miss Annie Safe.
Queen Esther—Miss Jenny Springer
Mordecai—Mr. Ben Yanover.
Haman—Mr. Lewis Yanover.

Much credit was due Mrs. Safe and Mrs. L. Kroch who designed the costumes used in the play.

The Purim Festival is the annual celebration of the escape of the Jews, with race from the destruction planned by Haman and from which they were saved by Queen Esther and her foster father Mordecai. It takes place on the fourteenth day of the month of Adar which this year came on February 28. The Jewish custom is to make this date and the days following a time of rejoicing and feasting and sending gifts to the poor.

Rabbi D. Gerber was present and addressed the gathering.

A most enjoyable feature of the evening's entertainment was a comedy sketch put on by Esther Brothers and Mr. L. Kroch. Mr. L. Kroch acted as chairman in a most acceptable manner.

DUCHESS GIVES WARNING

Shops Must Use British Materials or Lose Custom

London, March 2.—The Duchess of Portland has donned her fighting clothes to stimulate interest in all British productions for women.

Paris styles were good, she admitted, but London modes, too, are up-to-date. The Duchess has visited her favorite shops here personally and informed the owners that they must handle British stuff or lose another three materials from British manufacturers she would strike them off her list.

MISS SUZANNE TO VISIT ITALY

Noted Tennis Player Will Rest for Several Weeks—Abandoned Mentone

Nice, France, March 2.—Suzanne Lenglen left for Italy this afternoon for several weeks rest. Her physical condition is such that she has abandoned the idea of playing in the Mentone lawn tennis tournament, even in the doubles for the sum of 10,000, although she would have needed but one more victory for permanent possession of the trophy.

Didi Vlasto will pair with Henri Cochet and represent France in the play for the cup.

Suzanne received the greatest shock of her career in the doubles final for the Beaumont Cup at Monte Carlo yesterday, when she realized that Miss Sutcliffe and Miss Bennett, the English pair, were centering their attack upon her as the weaker member of the Vlasto-Lenglen combination. She felt her position very keenly.

"Any time my opponents pick me out as the weak spot in any doubles pair, I certainly am weak and need a rest," Mlle. Lenglen told the correspondent as he saw her off at the station for Italy.

The French champion appeared to resent bitterly the humiliation of being considered easy prey by players who formerly stood in awe of her.

Moira Chapter Hosts at Dance Best of Season

Moira Chapter R.A.M. was at home to its friends last evening in a dance held at Johnston's Academy with the result being perhaps the most successful dance of the season, with over four hundred people present in all. The party provided by the entertainment committee of the Chapter consisted of Ex-Comp. E. T. Cherry, chairman, and Ex-Comp. J.J.B. Boyes, secretary, and Ex-Comp Willoughby Anderson, Ex E.

The supertore rooms looked their best the music was supplied by the Bon Ton orchestra and was glorious throughout. Mr. Howard, leader of the orchestra had a new violin worthy as a matter of fact, many hundreds of dollars) and its luscious tones were caught by every incident for which the keenest delight. The orchestra of course is as good as any that appears here, and the Masons were out spoken in praising the local band of musicians who provide such finished dance music.

There were many and varied feature dances and everyone was especially appreciative of the splendid favors, which have not been surpassed in this district. Madame Pearl gave a solo dance, three girl pupils of Miss Audrey Mitchell, Miss Lillian Rushworth and the Misses Esther and Connie Marsh gave an exhibition of classic interpretive dances which was especially interesting and very creditably done. The prize for the spot dance was awarded to Mrs. Hope McGinnis and Mr. George Rowlatest. Guests were present from Trenton and other places. Very dainty refreshments were served at supper time.

CANADIANS IN NEW YORK

Percy Ritchie, president of the Ritchie Co. Limited, has just returned after spending a week in New York, where he with the representatives of some other large Canadian Department store made arrangements for the purchase of foreign merchandise through the Allied Fanel Co., the buyers' Commissionaries for the purchase of European made goods in the world. This firm represents the best manufacturers of Europe and the Orient, and sell all goods on a small commission basis, saving other interests fees and profits which enables their clients to buy the goods down at the lowest possible cost. The Fanel Company represents the big American stores for buying purposes and it is only through the federation of the Canadian Stores that they are able to buy from this source, as none of them would individually be big enough for a firm to bother with, but when they are federated it means big buying power. The Canadian organization of which The Ritchie Co. are members is known as Federated Distributors, Limited with head office in Toronto.

Mr. Reid reports the streets of New York as more that ever congested with traffic. Just now the city is full of buyers from all over America, and the hotels are being filled with a moving mass of humanity.

Indigestion

In most cases, indigestion results from torpid liver and sluggish bowel action. Unable to digest food and aids to digestion fail in this chronic form of dyspepsia. You may as well filtering and excretory organs right before you on constipation, biliousness and this is best accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Chronic indigestion is a very common condition. On this account many suffer for years not realizing that relief is at hand in the form of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Headache, biliousness, spells of constipation and diarrhoea are among the accompanying ailments. What a wonderful effect this fine old remedy has on conditions which make one feel so miserable and it is no way to drive the old-known regulator of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

This was accepted and the court granted postponement until 10 a.m. on Tuesday, March 9.

Defendants Bondsmen, George Albert Taylor and James Howard Diamond, signified their willingness to continue to act as such and they again attested their signatures to the bond issued yesterday. Gilbert is at large on $10,000 in his own recognizance and $5000 in each of the other two sureties.

The postponement of the preliminary hearing renders it virtually certain that Gilbert will not be tride at the Spring Assizes which open at the county court house here next Monday. This means that the Moon murder trial remaining the only criminal case on that docket.

GOVERNMENT CANNOT GOVERN.

(Sir John Willison, in Willison's Monthly)

It was perhaps fortunate for the Conservative party that Mr. Meighen's first motion of want of confidence in the government was defeated. There is no natural alliance between the Progressives and the Conservative party. Not less unnatural is the alliance between the protectionist Liberals of Quebec and the Western group of which Mr. Forke is the official leader in the House of Commons. One of these days, the people of Quebec will realize that the bulk of their representatives in the federal parliament have made the province voiceless and uninfluential in determining national policy in order that a government which does not express their real opinions and convictions may continue in office. When that time comes they will refuse to be fogged into passing by "conscription" and the "war in Turkey" and they will look for leaders who will express the true feeling of the Quebec constituencies. The principle of protection runs all though the legislation of the Taschereau Government and under or under the Quebec people will refuse to tolerate a different policy at Ottawa.

They has been much denunciation of the attitude of the Progressives in Parliament. It is said that they have bargained for concessions and have prescribed the conditions to which the government must submit. But what else was to be expected? So far as has been disclosed, they have not bargained for office nor for personal advantage, but have formulated demands in harmony with the platform upon which they made their appeal to the constituencies. The other groups in Parliament may not like the course that they are taking, and it may be that the Progressives are governed mainly by sectional considerations, but at worst they are only keeping the pledges they gave to the people whom they were elected. The speech from the throne was mainly sectional in its character and was deliberately designed to prevent any movement of the Progressive group toward the Conservative party. The Conservative leaders, if they are wise, will hold firmly to the issues upon which they made their appeal to the country as do the Progressives, who, for the moment, hold the balance of power in Parliament. In so far as their official programs go, Conservatives and Progressives are much farther apart in public policy, and especially in fiscal policy, than are Liberals and Progressives, and one does not see how they can come together in Parliament without concessions and compromises which neither Progressives nor Conservatives can make with any decent regard for the arguments they put before the country only a few weeks ago. In the Conservative leader's letter to Mr. Forke there is nothing inconsistent with the position of the party in the general election.

Constitutionally, Mr. King may have had a clear right to meet Parliament. If he may feel that a majority of three gives the right to continue in office. One must think, however, that he would have been wise to resign when the result of the general election was declared. He had a second opportunity to resign when he found himself with only three of a majority in the Commons. He knows that he cannot carry on without constant humiliation, failing manoeuvring and increasing discredit for himself and his party. Nor could Mr. Meighen do any better if he were called upon to form a government. Whatever may be the result of another general election, there is nothing to do but dissolve Parliament and trust to the people to break the deadlock by a more definite declaration in favor of one party of the other.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"Well, I don't take snuff, Lord Lancebrook," said Constance laughing in spite of herself.

The child laughed, too, and sidling a little nearer, slipped his hand into hers.

"Yes, I like you, Miss Grahame," he said; "and I hope you'll like me. Will you try, please?"

"I don't think I shall have to try very hard, Lord Lancebrook," said Constance.

"Well, then, don't call me Lord Lancebrook," he said, logically; "call me Arol."

"I will," assented Constance. "It is a singular name."

"It's Norman," remarked his little lordship. "We're Normans, you know. My father's name was Cedric William Arcal; he's dead. Your father's——"

He stopped.

Constance's hand closed over his, and a sudden moisture bedewed her eyes, but she smiled down at him bravely.

"Yes, Arol, he is dead."

"I am so sorry. But that makes us like each other somehow, doesn't it? And my mamma is dead, too. I don't remember her; I've always lived with grandma. It's very quiet at the Castle; I hope you don't mind that?"

"Not in the least," replied Constance; "I like quiet. It will seem like a rest to me who have been traveling about so much."

"You see," he went on, with a delightful air of gravity and reflection, "grandma has had a great deal of trouble. First her husband, my grandfather, the marquis, died, and that was bad, wasn't it?"

Constance nodded.

"And then my uncle, who's the marquis now, he couldn't be found, and poor grandma didn't know whether he was alive or dead."

"Poor lady!" said Constance gently.

"Yes, it was very—trying," his lordship remarked, sagely. "You see, if he had been dead, I should have been the marquis, but I'm glad to say he's alive."

"You didn't want to be marquis, then?" said Constance, with a smile.

"Well, no," he replied, thoughtfully; "I'm afraid marquises always have the gout, and they have a lot on their minds. I've heard grandma say that he wished he'd been born a laborer like Hodgson who sweeps the drive, so I'm very glad Uncle Wolfe is alive. His name is Wolfe Craig, but grandma always calls him Wolfe. But you mustn't talk about him in her hearing, for then you hide, because it makes her cry, at least she doesn't cry exactly, but you can see that she's trying hard to not to. It's very painful for a mother to lose her son for so many years."

Constance nodded sympathetically and was trying to think of some way to stop these family confidences with out wounding the little fellow's feelings when he went on in the same childishly grave fashion.

"I wish he would come back, then grandma wouldn't cry any more."

Constance looked out at the castle, then?" said Constance in her surprise.

"Why, we don't know where he is just now; grandma had a letter some months ago from some place abroad, but it said nothing of coming home. You see, he was always"—he lowered his voice and looked up at her solemnly—"very wild! Grandma and he quarreled very badly, and he—I mean Uncle Wolfe, of course—went off like—like a shot. Oh, here we are. Look, there's the castle!" and he pointed to a huge castellated pile which rose majestically above the trees on a height to their left.

"It's a very large place," said Constance, drinking in the beauty of the scene; the long road winding between rows of stately elms, amidst which a brook ran purling and breaking into foaming little cascades, "and very, very beautiful!"

"I'm glad you like it," said Lord Lancebrook. "I like it, too. I don't think any place I've seen half so pretty as Brakespeare, and I've been about a great deal, too," he added, with a touch of pride. "I went to London once. I wonder Uncle Wolfe can stay away from such a nice place, especially as it's his own. I think it's very bad taste, don't you, Miss Grahame?"

"Here we are!" he exclaimed, as the carriage passed under a tall and stately arch of ivy-covered masonry, and drew up at the entrance to the castle.

A footman opened the door, and Lord Lancebrook sprang out and offered his hand to Constance. A reverend-looking old man with white hair and a benevolent countenance came down the wide steps and bowed.

"Very good, my lord," said the butler.

"Come on," said the boy, and he clasped Constance's hand and led her up the steps and into the hall.

It was a huge place, and seemed with its great stained-glass windows, armor, and tattered flags hanging from the roof, more like a cathedral than a portion of a modern lasting house. A footman in a dark and sober livery opened a door, and, still holding her friend, her little guide drew her into a small but richly-decorated room.

The light was subdued by curtains of rose pink silk and lace, and for a moment or two Constance was rather dazed; then she saw an old lady with wavy hair, and dressed in plain black silk, rise from a low chair and approach her.

"Here's Miss Grahame, grandma!" exclaimed Lord Lancebrook, his clear, child's voice ringing out in the still room.

The Countess of Brakespeare held out her hand—it was as white as the muslin handkerchief across her shoulders—and looked into Constance's face.

And as she did so her hand closed on the girl's fingers with a warm and grateful pressure.

"I am very glad to see you, Miss Grahame," she said, in so low a voice that it seemed as if pitched to harmonize with the repose and quietude of the room. "You have had a long journey. I hope my little chatterbox has not made you more weary?" and she put her arm round his neck.

"Have I? I never thought of that," said Lord Lancebrook, remorsefully, and he took the white whitbread hand and pressed it against his cheek prettily. "No, indeed," said Constance, "We are great friends already, I hope."

"Yes, I like her; isn't she beautiful, grandma?" said Lord Lancebrook, in a confidential but perfectly audible whisper in the marchioness's ear.

The old lady smiled.

"Arol's opinion is at any rate a genuine one," she said, gently to Constance. "And now you will like to go up stairs and rest, Arol, dear child, ring the bell."

"May he?" asked the marchioness.

For answer Constance held out her hand to the boy, and rising it promptly, he led her out of the room, as he had guided her in, and up the great stair case which led to a corridor running completely round the vast hall.

The marchioness must have rung the bell, for a maid in black dress, with a muslin apron and a muslin cap on, a really but remarkably, becoming shape, was standing waiting for them, and drop ping a curtsey, opened one of the doors in the corridor.

Constance was just entering when another door opened, and a young lady came out with a quick but imperious step. She was small, not only short, but petite in make, with dark hair brushed loose upon her brows, and forming a setting for a pale, sharply-defined face which it possessed any beauty, owed it to the dark eyes, which were brilliant and penetrating, and seemed to Constance to be fixed on her face with a scrutiny more keen than is customary or necessary.

"Oh, Cousin Rue, this is Miss Grahame."

The lady did not offer her hand as the marchioness had done, but contented herself with a bow, as her eyes rested on Constance's figure.

"I am glad to see you, Miss Grahame," she said "Arol, don't be naughty."

Her voice was pitched low, but was as sharply decisive and acute as her face.

Constance returned the bow, and the lady passed down gaiu.

Toronto, Ontario.—"My daughter is 16 now and has been ailing ever since she was six years old and has been compelled to remain out of school the greater part of the time. She attends school every day now and goes skating, and does other outdoor sports. COMMONS TAKES RECESS OF 12 DAYS FOLLOWING VOTES

CLOSURE VOTE ENDS SESSIONS TILL MARCH 15

Agreement Not to Continue Speaking Until Time Limit

MEIGHEN IS CRITICAL

Recalls Lapointe's Previous Complaint of Being Gagged in House

Ottawa, March 3.—With the house adjourned till March 15 there is a lull in the parliamentary battle which has been waged since the house opened on January 7. Meanwhile the Government is at work on legislation. Daily caucus meetings are the practice. Estimates are being revised and bills prepared. These include an Old Age Pensions bill, the rural credits bill, a bill to transfer natural resources to Alberta and a bill to amend the Dominion Elections Act.

Ottawa, March 2.—Having adopted the Government's closure motion the House of Commons will adjourn till March 15th.

The Government carried its closure motion by the ominous majority of thirteen, the vote being 105 to 95. The motion was opposed only by Conservatives, a number of whom were absent, the Progressives and members of other minor groups standing up with the ministry.

Following the division on closure Mr. Lapointe, as leader of the Government, offered his justification for it in the twenty minutes allowed to speeches under the rule, his personal argument in justification being that "the bold and brazen statement" of the chief Opposition whip on Friday reflected on the Government's ability to rule, and could not be ignored. His interpretation of Whip Boys' statement as being to the effect that the Opposition would cause obstructing filter the return of the Prime Minister for the very reason for which it had been obstructing.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen forced the Government for reasoning "this gag" Mr. Lapointe had in the past to piously condemned in order to secure a holiday, and for the purpose of shutting off the most important investigation Parliament had undertaken in twenty years, and in connection with which serious charges had been made of malfeasance of office by the administration, and for the additional purpose of shielding itself from attack regarding illegal action in the matter of the Roxys Railway.

During speeches of Opposition members Speaker Lemieux had occasion to order a Liberal member, believed to be a minister, to cease whooting interjections from a post behind the curtains outside the Chamber.

They asked that orphans of deceased soldiers should be looked after first, then cases of severe disability.

TO LICENSE TRUCKS

F. L. Souling, deputy minister of the department of highways in an interview to-day said that the department expected to put through at the present session of the Ontario Legislature a bill which would compel motor trucks using the provincial highways for commercial purposes to be licensed as passenger busses are licensed at present. It was only reasonable that those who made commercial use of the highways built at public expense should be on a different basis from the ordinary motorist, he said. NEW POLICEMAN IS FROM TRENTON AND IS JUST 21

HAS SIZE AND WEIGHT

Comes of Soldier Family And is Well Spoken Of at Home

Ernest Newton of Trenton, officially appointed today by the board of police commissioners, is the latest addition to the civic constabulary here and comes with the most laudatory recommendations indicating that he possesses every qualification for developing into an exceptionally able officer.

HE HAS THE SIZE

Constable Newton, who replaces former Constable Jerome Booth, who recently left for Florida to take up an executive post there, is only twenty-one years of age, stands six feet one inch in his stockings and weighs more than two hundred pounds. He has not yet taken to himself a wife. His father, an imperial army veteran, is caretaker of the Trenton post office.

HE WAS A SAILOR

The newly sworn-in constable was engaged for some years in the boot and shoe repair business, working for himself, and more latterly has been sailing on the Great Lakes.

Aside from his marine trips he has lived in Trenton fourteen years, is well known and highly respected locally, and has received good pishes and the highest testimonials from Mayor W. A. Fraser of Trenton and from Chief of Police Bain and Sergeant White of the Trenton force.

THREE WERE LIKELY

Selection by the board of police commissioners here narrowed down to three, after all preliminary investigations of the qualifications of applicants had been conducted.

Of these last three, one failed to pass the medical test, leaving only Constable Newton and a Belleville boy in the reckoning. The latter, however, decided to make an application for service in the Toronto police force, according to Mayor Graham, one of the police commissioners.

Judge Wills and Magistrate Masson form the other two members of the board.

Constable Newton has been prominently identified for many years with Salvation Army welfare work. He has lived in Trenton since he was seven years old, and was born in Norfolk county, on the east coast of England.

STORED FRUIT LOST IN BLAZE

Fire on Alcorn Farm Near Wicklow Caused Heavy Loss

Ignited apparently from a coal oil stove left in the house to keep frost from apples stored there, the farm house owned by Mrs. Amos Alcorn, near Wicklow, was destroyed by fire on Monday night. The house which has been unoccupied for several years had been used repeatedly as a storage place and no cause of fire otherwise than the oil stove is possible. As the flames had gained considerable headway before the blaze was discovered no effort was made to save the building. The loss incurred is very heavy, as all fruit and vegetables stored were lost with the building.

Geneva, Switzerland, Mar. 3.—News from London that Great Britain proposes to refer all claims to the permanent league council, other seats than Germany's to a special commission, which would report to the September assembly on the entire problem of council reconstruction, has created the liveliest interest in League circles.

"A sigh of relief" is the expression best summing up the reaction to this news for, as candidates of Poland and Brazil were not broached at the Locarno conference, majority opinion is that the interests of both would best be served by electing Germany alone to a permanent chair.

"Truth in Immigration Publicity Vital if Tradegy to be Avoided

London, March 3.—Presiding at a meeting of the Royal Society of Arts at which Sir Basil Clarke, the well-known English journalist, read a paper on publicity in relation to the problems of overseas trade and settlement, Viscount Burnham, who is president of the Imperial Press Conference, visited Canada and Australia last summer, emphasized that the British people had never treated overseas settlement from a high enough standpoint. It had not been regarded so much as an art of patriotism as an art of necessity.

Despite unfavorable reports in regard especially to Australia, there was a great deal done to carry out overseas settlement in the right way, and the one every reason to rejoice at when had been done, the Viscount said. In the past there had been very little knowledge and no publicity such as now used in connection with emigration schemes. People went out in dense ignorance and found that they faced danger and difficulties of which they had no conception. Viscount Burnham stated that propaganda should tell only the truth. He did not find fault with the Dominions for demanding a high standard of health, but pointed out that conditions should be thoroughly well known and standards fixed.

Spring construction is already settling into swing, according to local contractors, who express the opinion that 1926 gives promise of being a banner year for builders.

The new buildings were got under way yesterday for the British-American Oil Company, South Front street—a warehouse and a ten-stall garage. Mr. Jamieson Bone of Bone and Company, the contractors who have this work in hand, told The Intelligencer today they had started fair sized gangs of workmen on the two jobs.

Bone and Company also have three applications for building permits now at city hall awaiting action by the city engineer's office. These permits were applied for in February, Mr. Bone said, and the construction work they are intended to cover will be initiated directly the permits are issued.

DAILY MIRROR ALSO BANNED

Prohibition on Ground of Being Indecent Publication—Complaints

Ottawa, March 3.—The Daily Mirror is being banned from Canada under orders issued by the Department of Customs and Excise. Hon. G. H. Boivin, Minister of Customs and Excise, made the announcement in the House of Commons.

The matter was brought up on a question by General Mewburn, Liberal Moyborn stated that he had received a communication asking if the Daily Mirror, the Evening Graphic and the Detroit Times could not be banned from Canada on account of the nature of their articles.

Mr. Boivin replied that he had received several complaints concerning the Daily Mirror, and investigation had been made following these complaints, with the result that orders were being issued by the department this afternoon banning the Daily Mirror from Canada. The complaints in reference to the Evening Graphic and Detroit Times would be investigated, added Mr. Boivin. If the censor considered the complaints justified, similar action to that taken in the case of the Daily Mirror would be taken.

It was intimated at the Department of Customs that the Daily Mirror, of New York, was being banned on the ground of it being an indecent publication. The complaint, it was stated, does not apply to any particular article alone.

BRITISH FILM SCORES "NELL GWYN" FIRST CLASS

London, March 3.—The film "Nell Gwyn," which had its first regular performance last night at the new American built Plaza Theatre, duplicated the success achieved the previous night when it was performed before a specially invited audience, including members of the British royal family. English critics rejoice in its success, because it seems to them a revelation of the characteristics of British films in world competition. They are also greatly pleased at the favor it has found among the American producers.

One critic said today: "A clever film like this is rare, and 100 bad as good, and there will be no more talk of a British film slump."

"Nell Gwyn" is an all-English production except for the American star, Dorothy Gish. The Plaza Theatre, which opened its doors last night, is the last word in up-to-date cinemas among London theatres.

CAROL LIKELY TO RESUME THRONE

Efforts of Britain's King at Reconciliation Meeting With Success

AIDED BY PUBLIC VOTE

Bratiano and Stirbey, Queen Marie's Proteges, Defeated in Elections

Paris, March 3.—Within a short time Prince Carol of Rumania, who renounced his rights as crown prince two months ago, will probably be on his way back to Bucharest, not only to resume his rights as heir to the throne but as a strong factor in the politics of his country. His coming to Paris was for the purpose of negotiating his return.

For four weeks efforts have been under the direction, it is said, of King George of England, to bring about a reconciliation. It is now learned that through his reported intervention Queen Marie is soon coming to Paris to see her son, and it is reported tonight that King Ferdinand is on his way to the French capital. A report that Carol is going to London from Paris is not generally credited, as it is believed the King of England would prefer the matter to be arranged in Paris.

In addition to royalty's intervention, the people of Rumania have now taken a step which has an important bearing on the situation. The government party, that is the party of Premier Bratiano, which had been favored by Queen Marie, the strong member of the Rumanian royal family, as well as by Prince Barbu Stirbey, Queen Marie's favorite, has been defeated in the municipal elections, and the premier has offered his resignation to the king. Carol always was sympathetic to the opposition, now victorious, and perhaps the way is now open for breaking the hold of the triangle formed by Queen Marie, Stirbey and Bratiano which Carol, charged with running the country as it should not be run. If as a result of the elections the opposition takes power it is clear enough Carol will be in a very strong position, when he might return as crown prince. Those who know Carol believe he will return if Queen Marie agrees that Stirbey's influence on government affairs will cease with Bratiano, who is his brother-in-law. Carol's friends also say King Ferdinand will do his best to bring about this result, as the power the aforesaid trinity has held has been of a nature greatly to diminish the King's influence on public affairs in his country.

Prince Carol's friends here attach a minimum of importance to Mlle. Lupescu, who went to Milan with Carol and who is accompanying him in Paris. They say that she is only an incident and counts only as one lady favorite more or less. They have always said that Carol will quit for sentimental reasons and say if Carol goes back to Bucharest whether or not he takes this red-headed friend really does not greatly matter. They predict the crown princess, who was Princess Helene of Greece, will forgive as she had already survived the habit of doing with respect to the amours of Carol before he renounced his right to the throne and left the Rumanian capital. They refuse to take seriously the idea that Carol's return would be the direct result of his breaking off with Mlle. Lupescu. They allege the issues really are different and that they are fundamentally political.

BIG FAMIL PRIZE NOT FOR FATHER

Constantinople, March 1. — A large number of claimants have come forward for the prize of 1,000 lire offered by Ali Mahir Bey to the largest family in Turkey, and the competition has proceeded a controversy as to the basis on which the award shall be made. The "Prize of Virtue," as the donor calls it, will be awarded.

The largest family thus far disclosed contains twenty-four children, but the father, Mehmed Judat, a seagoing man, has had four wives, two of whom he married at the same time, when polygamy was permissable. However, there is a strong public sentiment that the "Prize of Virtue" should go, not to the father of the greatest number of children, but to the mother.

Reports on Farm Conditions

Ontario Department of Agriculture Report of Farm Conditions, March 1, 1926.

The following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:—

FRANT—Farm conditions in this county appear very satisfactory this season. Auction sales have been fringion good prices. Fairly heavy demand for farm labour. Demand for horses is much better this spring than for some time.

ELGIN—The winter so far has been very favorable for farm work. More snow than usual but very few stormy days.

HASTINGS—Applications for farm help are coming in faster and earlier than usual. Already over thirty applications have been made from this office for help this year.

LANARK—Agriculture conditions throughout the county may be said to be decidedly satisfactory—crops during the past season below exceptionally good and prices satisfactory. This happy circumstance has been followed by almost an ideal winter. Only this week have we had sufficient snow to prevent cars running over our main roads, at the same time there has been good sleighing practically everywhere.

LENNOX & ADDINGTON—There is considerable activity among farmers in the purchasing of seed grain and clover seed. The demand for alfalfa seed is especially keen. Feed grain is plentiful. There is also sufficient hay in the county to meet local needs for the winter and allow for some shipments. Complaints about feed shortage are very rare this winter.

LINCOLN—The peach crop which has been reported ruined has revived somewhat. The prospects at the present time are good for a 50% crop on the Western part of the county and better than that in the Eastern part. However, many changes may come before the fruit is set.

MUSKOKA AND PARRY SOUND—The winter since New Year's has been unusually steady, with very little extreme temperatures. The result has been ideal conditions for bush work, so that log hauling is rapidly drawing to a close.

ONTARIO—There is an abundance of all feeds, grain, hay, and roots, although some report that turnips (an important crop in Ontario County) have not kept well. There is a keen demand for farm labour.

VICTORIA—The fields are still well covered with snow and sleighing is good. With the scarcity of fuel many farmers are making money on the side by selling wood, most of it being light sorts such as Poplar and Tamarac.

WELLAND—Farm sales are being attended by good size crowds, prices for live stock and farm implements very satisfactory. Ordinary cows bring from $70 to $80. Farm horses selling from $90 to $150.

WILD CAT IN HEN COOP

Kingston, Ont., March 3.—Awakened during the night by the loud barking of his dog, William McDonald, Wolfred Township, went to the poultry house and encountered a wild cat which had just killed five geese.

The farmer, armed with a pitch fork and aided by his dog, killed the cat, which is a splendid specimen.

So Says Frances Wood, Who Interviewed Many Producers Of Each

New York City—If you have theatrical ambitions and must break in without introduction—"cold," as they call it on the Rialto—get your heart on musical comedy rather than drama. This is the advice of Frances Wood, who came to New York from Los Angeles to achieve a stage career. The first two months she had four offers from musical comedy producers to one from dramatic sources. Yet her experience has all been along dramatic lines and her ambition is fired in that direction.

"Musical comedy," says Miss Wood, "requires a good appearance, though not necessarily beauty, a facility for shaking the feet, and a voice at least moderately good.

"The drama needs talent of course, but I believe the thing which makes dramatic stars succeed more than anything else is that determination which forgets everything else in its struggle to get ahead in the chosen field.

"From month's study of yourself, except as applied to your work, you must give up other relations if they interfere, and you must do it cheerfully, counting every thing well lost for art."

"It's not such a far cry as it may seem," she says, "from singing a popular song hit to playing a role in an art production. Both have the human touch."

WANT KNOX STAFFED BY OUTSTANDING MEN

Toronto, March 3.—The future of the Presbyterian Church in Canada is dependent on the future of Knox College, and nothing less than the finest college staff in Canada can serve our purpose." In this statement made during the meeting yesterday, Rev. N. A. McEachern voiced the opinion of the Toronto Presbytery in regard to the appointments to the permanent staff of the college. On the motion of Mr. McEachern, however, the matter was held over.

"I believe," declared Mr. McEachern, "that we should make an overture to the General Assembly, asking that no appointments to the permanent staff be made this year and that a survey of the whole field be made in order to obtain the outstanding men in the Presbyterian world. So far as the principal is concerned, I believe our should again be given to obtain the biggest man for the position which can be found in our country. It may be that Dr. Kyle by the present acting vice-principal. It may be that he will come from the United States, England or Ireland, for any him we must if we have to pay a salary of $10,000."

FIRE DESTROYS HALF OF VILLAGE

Lancaster Has Very Serious Blaze Early This Morning

Lancaster, Ont., March 3.—Fire which broke out here shortly after midnight burned up about half the business section of this village before it was brought under control about five o'clock this morning. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

The only source of water supply for the 500 persons who reside here is wells, and one after another these in the vicinity of the blaze were emptied dry by the fire fighters. The course of blaze was blocked by the heavy stone wall of a store in which is located the telephone exchange.

While a great number of people are rendered homeless, it is believed that there will be no loss of life and no personal injury has been reported. Buildings totally destroyed this morning were: John Cope's grocery and dwelling, Wm. Brezy's garage, Robert Lee's grocery and hardware shop, J. B. Hebert's butcher shop, Frank Love's barber shop and poolroom.

At one time buildings adjacent to the Bell Telephone office were all in flames and the central office was threatening to take fire at any minute. The operator remained bravely at her post.

At 3 o'clock it was decided to use dynamite in an attempt to head off the fast approaching danger to other buildings. By this time large holes at the rear of some of the shops had taken fire and threatened premises in an adjoining street.

Deaths and Funerals

J. ALBERT SINE

(Contributed.)

Mr. James Albert Sine, of the 6th Con. of Rawdon, died early Wednesday morning from blood poisoning. He was born on the adjoining farm Feb. 4th, 1850 and died Feb. 24th, 1926, at the good age of 76. He is survived by his wife and one brother, Ira of Sydney Township.

The funeral took place Friday morning from his late home to Salem Church and thence to the Sine Burying Ground, 6th Con. Sydney Township. The church was filled by a wide circle of relatives and friends, the deceased having been known as one whose life would be described by the Apostle's injunction, "Study to be quiet, and to do your own business, and to work with your own hands . . . ; that ye may walk honestly . . . and have need of nothing." The minister of Ivanhoe Charge read one of the sundays in Scripture between Sleep and Death and Death and Sin. His text was found in Isaiah 1.8 "What meanest thou, O sleeper? arise, call upon thy God. . . ."

The words, "All the birds have spoken!" Thus one by one the circle here is broken and God's core becomes the resting place of that which is mortal.

STATEMENT WITHHELD ON CANADA'S ATTITUDE

Premature to Offer Opinion as to New Seats on League Council

Ottawa, Ont., March 3.—Sir Geo. Perley, former High Commissioner in London, questioned the Government in the House this afternoon as to the attitude with regard to the admission of Germany to the League of Nations, and also with regard to the permanent seats on the Council being given to other countries.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, acting Government Leader, replied that he thought general opinion favored the admission of Germany to the League and the giving to her of a seat on the Council. With regard to the admission of Spain and Brazil and Poland to permanent seats on the Council, he did not think it would be appropriate of the Government of Canada to announce its attitude until formal application for such seats had been made.

The Crop of the Maple Tree

The Canadian maple continues to yield its annual crop of sweetness. The crop last year exceeded a value of five million dollars in sugar and syrup, which was slightly less than in 1924 but over a million more than in the previous season. The increase of the past two seasons is credited more to higher prices for the crop than to more extensive tapping and this again is believed to be a direct result of the more general adoption of modern equipment and manufacture. The province of Quebec continues to lead in sugar production, yielding as it does about half the total crop, Ontario, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick yielding the remainder. There has been a great improvement in the process of sugar making in recent years. The replacing of the open sap buckets and the old sugar kettle by the modern covered pails and rapid working evaporators, has raised the quality both of the syrup and sugar produced. The adoption of this better equipment has given the industry a worth while place in modern agriculture wherever there is still standing a grove of sugar maples. With these products, as with other foods, the quality has much to do with the price of the crop, which will be the only while processed in the modern way Bulletin No. 30 of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, explains how exactly the modern process of sugar making and shows by illustration the equipment that is necessary to work a considerable grove with comparatively little labour. This bulletin, which has reached its third edition, is available at the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

CHURCHILL IS GIVEN DEGREE IN BELFAST

Belfast, March 3.—Right Hon. Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, received the honorary degree Doctor of Laws from Belfast University. The students gave him a riotous reception, with the usual pood-natured ragging, and presented him with a paddy hat, a clay pipe stuck in the band, and a shillelagh.

Mr. Churchill wore the hat and carried the stick while riding through the city in the car with the mayor, and said he saw in the pipe a compliment with the Irish flavor to his friend and leader, Premier Baldwin, who is an inveterate pipe smoker.

Hyrgl bands of students, dressed as Hibernians and Ulster volunteers, escorted the chancellor to the famous Ulster Hall, which he vainly endeavored to enter on his visit fourteen years ago, when demonstrations against his home rule policy caused rioting.

V.O.N. REPORT

Between twenty and thirty new cases looked after by the V. O. N.' during the past month, inauguration of a committee for March to concentrate on the well baby clinic, and evidence of an augmented interest in this feature, mark the Victorian Order's report for February.

The report of the Victorian Order of Nurses for the month of February shows a total of 61 patients, 26 of which were new cases.

Of the 173 nursing visits made, 88 were to mothers and infants, 31 were to Metropolitan Life Insurance policy holders and 38 were free.

Of the 61 non-nursing visits 25 were infant welfare, 11 were pre-natal and 6 were post-natal welfare. These visits are always free and we find in many instances by advising early consultation with the physician, serious trouble may be averted.

There were 21 case-conferences held in March. Of these dismissed 7 were free cases.

Total fees amounted to $146.25, as follows:—

From Metropolitan Life Insurance 75.00

There were two Well Baby Clinics held during the month with a total attendance of 26.Are we ever going to end. On February 19th, Dr. Proctor addressed the mothers on Prevention of Tuberculosis.

A composition starting the first Friday in March has been advertised, a prize is offered for the largest attendance for the following six months.

Donations of clothing and old linen are greatly appreciated and the V. O. N. wishes to take this opportunity to express gratitude to those who have remembered requirements in the past.

COLONEL McCULLOUGH KEEPS UP GOOD WORK

Toronto, Mar. 3.—A strong appeal for the support of Canadian industries and the purchase of made-in-Canada goods was presented by Colonel McCullough of Hamilton, when he addressed the Business and Professional Women's Club. The speaker, who is chairman of the Produced-in-Canada Committee, contended that the entrance of women into the business world had brought into existence a higher type of business ethics, and declared that every woman could do her bit in saving her country by intelligently buying commodities manufactured here. Eighty-five percent. of advertising was addressed directly to women, he said, and on them rested the responsibility of encouraging home industry by their patronage.

THE COMPENSATION ACT

Much more interesting reading than the yarn in a Toronto newspaper that Attorney-General Nickle had disagreed with Hon. W. H. Price, provincial treasurer, regarding the administration of the Workmen's Compensation act and the thinly veiled insinuation of irregularities, was Hon. Mr. Nickle's flat denial. The attorney-general spiked every one of the charges. The pension fund is eminently sound, accashed cheques are not in excess of $40,000 (the total was said to be $100,000), and there is not an iota of truth in the report that compensation cheques which have not reached their owners will be confiscated. Equally untrue is the published charge that ledger accounts have been destroyed, declares the attorney-general, who is reported to have added that he "cannot understand what purpose the writer of the article had in view." The answer is ridiculously easy, being arrived at by the simple process of elimination. The article was not written to foster harmonious relationships among those administering the act, it is plain to be seen. The only other reason for the publication of such an article would be to provoke discord and ill-feeling and raise suspicion against the government—"to create a breach between the David and Jonathan of the house"—(Mr. Nickle and Mr. Price)—as the attorney-general surmises. The last annual report of the administration of the Workmen's Compensation act revealed the fund to be in a particularly healthy condition and doing a tremendous volume of good. It was not only providing adequate compensation, but was being so economically administered that was hoped to be soon possible to announce a substantial reduction in the levy exacted from employers of labor, the report disclosed. Hon. Mr. Nickle's assertion: "The administration of the act is in a most satisfactory state and the funds are well managed and carefully adjusted," may be depended upon to tell the complete story. The condition of the fund is only unsatisfactory to those who are disappointed because the act is being successfully administered.

FIRE INSURANCE

In connection with the Boy-in-Canada movement as advocated by Col. McCullough, of Hamilton, in a recent speech here, it is a revelation to those who have observed made any effort to investicate the matter for themselves, to find how much business is being lost to the country through sheer indifference—or, it may be, lack of enterprise in some cases. Investigations are now being made in every direction, and the public is being given the result of the inquiries. The movement will undoubtedly do good, even if it does no more than point out the magnitude of the opportunities open to Canadian industry and commerce. It is not merely in manufactured goods, but in practically every sphere of business activity, that a tendency to place orders outside the Dominion is found to exist. In the field of fire insurance, it is said that in 1924, which is the last year of published record, over $73,000,000 in premiums was collected from Canadian fire and casualty policyholders by 229 companies, of which only fourteen are purely Canadian companies operating with Canadian capital. These companies, according to a Toronto fire insurance firm, transacted only $6,573,000 in premiums, or 9 per cent. of the total. "Canadian policyholders paid on fire and casualty insurance," it is declared, "an amount equal to more than 33 per cent. of the total business transacted by purely Canadian companies." On this showing, the assertion of the Toronto establishment that "there remains to be done a great deal of work in educating the public in a movement to support native institutions and enable the Canadian companies to participate more largely in the $73,000,000 of home business available," would seem to be amply justified.

WHY SPOIL THE FUN

San Francisco Bulletin:

The Duke of Abercorn told a very good story at a public meeting in the north of Ireland some time ago which has the merit of being true. An armed Sinn Feiner on the run, having crossed the Six Counties border at Strabane, was arrested by the Ulster Specials. Such an important capture necessitated an armed guard at the barracks. Now as bad luck would have it, all the specials were fixed up to participate in an important football match that very afternoon. The difficulty was solved by some genius suggesting that the prisoner be asked to referee the match—which he agreed to do. The result was that he was kept under observation all the time, marched back to barracks after the match, and no one's pleasure or enjoyment was interfered with. It is only in a sporting country like Ireland that such an incident could occur.

A LIBERAL EDITOR

Ottawa Journal:

Though owned by its Conservative local contemporary there is no fear that the political policy of the London Advertiser so long as it is under the responsible editorship of Mr. Melville W. Rouse, will be anything but Liberal. Mr. Rouse, resigned a nice editorial position on the Toronto Globe when the owners of that paper got too independent for the tastes of Senator Lewis and himself. Mr. Rouse is steeped in journalistic tradition and the first time anybody—even though owner and superior—tries to make him advocate policies with which he does not personally agree he will vacate the editorial chair of the London Advertiser. There are newspaper men in Canada like that, much as it may surprise some people who pretend to know a lot about how newspapers are run.

WHY AND BECAUSE

Why is an unmarried woman called spinster?

Because women were prohibited from marrying in olden days until they spun a full set of bed furnishings and thus, until marriage, they spent much time at the spinning wheel and were, therefore, "spinsters."

Why do clergymen habitually wear black?

Because when Martin Luther, in 1524 laid aside the habit of a monk and adopted the style of dress prevailing at the time, the Elector of Saxony used to send to him from time to time pieces of black cloth, that color then being fashionable at the court. Luther's disciples thought because he wore black, it became them to do so, and thus it came about that the clergy generally grew to regard it as the only proper color for them to wear.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE ?

"Mother," said the little boy, after coming from a walk, "I've seen a man who makes horses."

"Ar, you sure?" asked his mother.

"Yes," he replied. "He had a horse nearly finished when I saw him; he was just nailing on his back feet."

Keeping in the hop may be good advice, but, considering the flea, the flea soon goes to the dogs.

Some folks like dogs so well, they prefer them to children.

TWILIGHT OF THE PANKHURSTS

London Mail:

I hear that a movement is on foot to bring Mrs. Pankhurst and Miss Christobel back to London. How far off seem those days when this remarkable family were in the fierce light that beat about the suffragettes. Just now Miss Christobel is keeping a little tea shop at picturesque Juan-les-Pins, near Cannes, with Miss Tuke, a former militant. But she continues to write and work for women. But one feels that the Pankhurst family must feel a little at a loose end now that there is nothing to fight about in a spectacular way.

QUEBEC'S EXAMPLE

Halifax Herald:

Quebec has profited enormously by its policy of prohibition in a measure the export of pulpwood. Pulp and paper mills that would have been erected and operated in the United States have been located in Quebec. A great impetus with given to this important industry. The province reaps the advantages of the policy of manufacturing its raw materials at home. The lesson for this province—for all Canada—is obvious.

INCREASE TO SIZE OF THE COAST DEER

Victoria, B. C., March 3. — Increasing the size of the coast deer, a noted game animal, is merely a matter of scientific breeding, in the opinion of British Columbia game board officials and they have set themselves the task of making the coast deer as large as its cousin, the mule deer of the province's interior plateaus.

In-breeding has been largely responsible for the comparatively small stature of the coast deer, Chairman M. B. Jackson believes. To correct this fault mule deer are being brought to the coast, from the central areas and crossed with members of the coast species. This, it is expected, will create a new strain of greater vigility and strength than the present coast deer as well as increased size.

Experiments with crossing cows and mule deer last year were only partly successful because them the partly suffered from a peculiar insect infection, but the cause of this has been discovered and removed, and game board officials are confident that future work along this line will be entirely successful.

VANCOUVER EXPORTS TROUT TO JAPANESE

Vancouver, B.C., March 2.—Canadian eastern brook trout will be in-creasingly in demand in Japan, it is seen as the result of an experimental shipment of these trout eggs now en route to Japan through the agency of the federal department of fisheries.

A shipment of 50,000 eggs has been purchased by the Tokyo Angling and Country Club, an exclusive and prominent organization in the Japanese capital, whose president was the late Premier Kato. The eggs were placed in a refrigerator in charge of the steward of a liner leaving this port direct for Japan.

ANGLICAN CLERGYMAN NOW SUGGESTS MERGER WITH UNITED CHURCHES

Toronto, March 3.—A practical plan for the union of the Anglican Church and the United Church of Canada is put forward by Rev. F. C. Ward White, vicar of St. Alban's Cathedral. The only objection, according to Mr. Ward White, is the Anglican doctrine of apostolic succession and its consequent holding to episcopal ordination.

The vicar of St. Alban's suggests it should be possible for the United Church and the Anglicans to come together on common ground, the Anglicans to accept as valid the ordination of ministers of the United Church up to an agreed date, after which the churches may come together in perfect unity, all ministers then to receive episcopal ordination.

LATEST FASHION FAD

Gold and Silver Necklets Popular in New York

New York, March 3.—Smart New York women are sporting a brand new sign of their slavery to fashion. It is a solid gold or silver necklet, in its plain metal design much like the iron "wedding ring" worn by brides of certain primitive African tribes. In fact it has been called the "Twentieth Century Wedding Ring," or, by rival alteration, the "Alimony Ring." Introduced in Paris by Raquel Meller, Spanish singer, the necklet was brought here by Gertrude Lawrence, English star in one of the Broadway revues. One fashionable shop alone reports that it sold more than 200 of the necklets to distinctive young society women and matrons during January.

INTELLS ENJOYED FEED OF OYSTERS

They Won From Pt. Line Pirates 5-2 in Finished Style

TWO WINS IN A ROW

At That Game Was Not Worst Played Here This Winter

The pi line pirates bit the dust last night after three periods of fast and sometimes fantastic hockey when Intells' lineup brigands demonstrated their superior form by putting on record as next 5-2 victory.

Jack Arnott, Intells burly advance star, for this occasion a fierce stickhandler, played a banner game, putting on two counters for his side in finished style. There was nothing on the ice, either friend or foe, to equal him, and he might be described paraphrasing a recent advertisement as "The Chief of the Sixes."

Lorne Cook, playing centre, demonstrated that Intells are fortunate in having such a nifty forward working on the paper. He scored his little tally all alone and drove it into the twine with an elegant curly twiggle that had Ketcheson all at sea. Cooky will make up the front page in a happy frame of mind today.

BROKE THROUGH THE WORKS

But the honors did not all go to the composing room. Dan O'Donohoe, the advertising manager and front office shiek, staged a wonderfully fine game, and was about as fast on the ice as anything else either team had. He scored two neat ones for Intells, the first off Arnott, after the latter had broken through the works and sailed all down the wing like a clipper ship running before an eighty-mile gale.

Dan put in the second goal, too, also from Arnott's pass. Then Jack Arnott got the third goal on his own, Cook the fourth, solos, and Intells fifth and final counter was landed in the net by Arnott, with only a couple of minutes to go to time.

The last three goals were scored inside ten minutes of the last period. Gerald Draycott, on the wing, played an excellent game and Larmer Mason was "immense".

But Ontarios played in good style and Greene, their centre, deserves every credit for his classy playing. His first goal - the second-last for his team was a nice piece of shooting, albeit it wouldn't have got there but for the fact that Brockhurst was suffering from a temporary amnesia at the moment and evidently forgot he wasn't at home with his feet up on the stove.

GOALIE WAS GOOD

But in general Brockhurst was virtually invincible in goal. Ontario's put in some stazling shots, and Brock is to be congratulated for the way he barred out some that came as though they looked like certainties. Earl Gilbert and Clarence McPherson played nice hockey and the latter's rushes were on the ice.

The periods finished 1-1, 1-1, and 3-2. Intells drew a goal ahead at the beginning of the third stanza, after the second had failed to break the tie with which the opening one ended.

Then Ontarios equalized, after which Intells put on an oyster feed. The other two tallies followed so fast that it seemed to be a goal-shooting workout rather than a contested game.

Thus ended the historic battle, decisively. That makes two wins Intells have registered against Ontarios. The latter, in brief, were obliterated last night. They just went out, like a Verey light suddenly disappearing. Still, one can honestly say that, like Eugene O'Neill's Emperor Jones, they went out in first class style.

OYSTER BARRAGE ENDS DAY

Tom's restaurant was the final object. Forfeit had to be paid, and the two teams buried the hatchet beneath the ice of Arnott's arena and then, forthwith for the oyster supper awaiting them. Three Celestial waiters wore their arms out handing out the bivalves to both victors and vanquished, and it was a late hour before a Confucian calm descended again upon the professional wielders of the cervelette.

Better luck next time, Ontario, but—here endeth the second lesson.

The rejuged lineup:

Ontarios		Intells
Ketcheson	goal	Brockhurst
Barlow	defence	Arnott
Philps		Mason
Greene	centre	Cook
R. Hardwick	wings	O'Donohoe
C. Hardwick		Draycott
Hale	subs	Gilbert
Russell		McPherson

Referee, Clarence, "Pick" Arnott.

GOSSIP OF MANY BASEBALL CAMPS

Members of Major League Clubs Have Started in Active Training

(By Canadian Press.)

New York, March 3.—Gleanings from the major league baseball camps:—

Wallie Schang, veteran catcher purchased by St. Louis Browns from the Yankees, was temporarily disabled at Tarpon Springs, Fla., when a bat slipped out of Marty McManus' hands during practice and struck him on the head. He was not seriously injured.

Thirty-one members of the St. Louis Cardinals were on hand for training at San Antonio, Texas, yesterday.

Carl Mays pitched at top speed for thirty minutes with the Reds to-day, but by himself that he would be able to make good his promise to stage a comeback.

Six pitchers and four catchers got into action in the first game of training for the Detroit Americans at Augusta, Ga.

Batting drill is under way at the Tampa camp of the Washington Senators, but the sluggers have not yet got parked the ball over the fence.

Hiking has been added to the training routine of the Pittsburgh Pirates at Paso Robles, California.

Advices from Lakeland, Fla., state that Cleveland Indians had their first workout there yesterday, with all hands in the field.

Fredi Haney, third baseman, who was acquired by the Boston Red Sox from Detroit in a mid-winter deal has not reported for duty. Neither has Al Niehof contract been received. He is the only truant.

With no hold-outs, absentees or other eventuities, and with every member on hand, Connie Mack's Athletics had their first real workout at Fort Myers.

Babe Ruth made his first home run in Florida. Tony Lazzeri, new Yankee infielder from the Pacific Coast League, appeared awkward in his first work-out, but nevertheless impressed the critics, who compare him to Hans Wagner and Joe Tinker.

Recreation Results

The Quintzes won two points from the Wolves in the Ladies C.N.R. League at the Recreation Alleys yesterday after noon. Mrs. Singer rolling 320 for the highest three string score. Mrs. Donnelan was high for the Wolves.

In a League match in the Ladies League The Alemite lost to the Cisco by 22 pins, the Alemite having a handicap of 85 pins. In the first game the Alemite were up 9 pins on their handicap, but the Cisco came through strong in the second to not only cut down their opponents lead but to add 130 pins to the good. In the third and last game the Alemite came through with their best score but lacked the 22 pins to win out. This low for the Alemite puts them in first place with the Wreckers, both these teams playing their last game of the schedule next week. Miss Bellis and Miss Brown were the leading bowlers for their teams.

In a C.N.R. game the Yard Dept. won three points from the Office No. 2 and practically eliminating this team from the running. Alexander for the Yard and Hagerman for the Office were high bowlers.

Only one game was played in the Senior League the Pirates and the Tigers bowling up for the last time, the Tigers winning out by over 400 pins with Shoppe's bowling three roll for a total score of 733. For the Pirates Donahue was high. The other senior games between the Wanderers and Roadsters was postponed for a later date.

Fan Fodder

Well, we do some things better in Belleville.

After a hockey game at Hamilton arena last Friday night, two of the players started in to knock the referee for a goal, and landed themselves in the net, so to speak. Police court appearance followed this chaos of the animated puck, and the youths were committed Monday morning to a higher tribunal after evidence had been given to the effect that they chased the referee until they cornered him, when they walloped him over the headpiece.

SIXES UP

Monte Carlo, Mar. 3. — Sixes but no sevens, was the system by which a gentleman from Cannes won heavily the bank at Monte Carlo recently, winning $70,000 in one sitting. Had he won as additional $30,000 the bank would have had to close for the day.

The player explained that his Christian name and surname were both composed of six letters each; his automobile, licence number was 6,666 and when he first entered the rooms, he heard the croupier call out six as the winning number.

He then staked the limit on number six and all multiples of six and won steadily.

Loss of about $45,000 was estimated after fire destroyed the Steelgrove-Waddington block at Fort William, Ont.

Rink Discussed By Hockey Fans

Public reaction to the Better Rink For Belleville project, as gathered by The Intelligencer from prominent citizens this morning, indicate that while the plan has been favorably commented on by many there is some difference of opinion as to the best manner of carrying it out.

ARE 2000 TOO FEW

A maximum seating capacity of 2000 was seriously questioned by one critic as being inadequate.

It would be more than enough for a losing team, but not nearly sufficient to accommodate the crowds that will pour in to Belleville to see a championship play-off.

LIKE KINGSTON'S

This critic urged that Belleville should have a rink at least as large as Kingston's, and preferably larger. He pointed out that at Peterborough when that city had a league hockey team people were often turned away from the doors half an hour before face-off time, night after night.

FINANCING

The proposed method of financing the project also came in for comment, there being a concensus in one group favouring the plan that a small share unit should be adhered to, in order that the entire citizenry of Belleville could take a proprietary interest in the new stadium. This, it was considered, would be far preferable to any plan whereby only a few fairly wealthy citizens would be investing several thousands of dollars each.

Stratford's $50,000 rink, it was pointed out, was built out of money subscribed by the people one month, for shares of only $10 each.

Y. M. C. A. Bowling

The St. Michael's girls seem bound, beat and determined to win the church league at the Y. alleys this spring. In the game last night they downed the fast travelling Christ Church team by over three hundred pins, not only did they win on the grand total but also the three games, in so doing added four points to their score making them leaders of the league with fourteen points to their credit.

Miss Lafferty turned in the high score of the evening with a total of 529 pins and a score not to be sneezed at by any of the men bowlers; while Miss Quinn also of the St. Michael's team had the high single game with the score of 201. For

Maroons, Ottawa and Canadiens Were Those on Losing End

A BLOW FOR OTTAWA

Long Line of Victories Cut By Odie Cleghorn's Crew

Pittsburg beat Maroons 4-0.
Boston beat Canadiens 4-1.

And that was the surprising result of one of the biggest evenings the National Hockey league has had this winter.

Odie Cleghorn's team from the Smoky City met a crippled Montreal team. Reg. Noble being still inactive as a result of a fractured skull, while Bobbie Siebert is under suspension following a brutal assault carried out to him and Corbeau in the game at Toronto last Saturday.

Manager Odie Cleghorn did not dress for the battle. The Pittsburgh manager claims he now only plays under great necessity, apparently when a spare goalie is needed.

Six thousand five hundred spectators were present. Noble, made his first appearance as a game since his skull was fractured in a match at Ottawa about ten weeks ago. Noble left the hospital to watch the game.

Gilda Gray, the dancer, who is appearing at the Capitol theatre this week, faced the puck. She was coerced to centre ice by President James Strachan of Maroons, and Referee Lou Marsh. The ice was too slippery for anything but a precarious struggle out to centre ice.

Seeking instructions from Referee Marsh as to when she must do, she was directed to "throw the puck and beat it when I blow the whistle."

At Ottawa there was a small crowd of only 4,500 but they got the job of their lives. Red Green and Langlois led the scoring for Gimma's team within 20 seconds of each other. Dennenny made it 3-0 in the second period and Randall scored Ottawa's lone counter. There was no scoring in the last period.

At Boston the Canadiens never had a chance, Cooper and Herbert's twice ball ing the net last night's goal easier. The Bruins added one in the final 20 minutes.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

The Alan Crosland-Paramount production, "Contraband," featuring Lois Wilson, Noah Beery, Raymond Hatton and Raymond McKee, will be shown today at the Belle Theatre.

The story, which Jack Cunningham faithfully adapted from the absorbing novel of the same name by Clarence Budington Kelland, combines rip-roaring action, wholesome humor and a rousing romance.

What could be more provocative of thrills and excitement than a beautiful young miss, editor of a small-town newspaper, starting in to solve the mysterious disappearance of a sheriff and finding herself fighting a gang of rum-runners and bootleggers?

And what is funnier than a male beauty contest with its inevitable rivalry, or the romance of a dignified young newspaper editor who tries to express his love in words of six syllables?

Add to that a villainous deputy-sheriff and a crooked politician who holds a mortgage on the newspaper, and you begin to realize that the picture possesses all the necessary ingredients for an hour of worth-while entertainment.

AT GRIFFIN'S

Lon Chaney, Norma Shearer and Victor Seastrom.

A three-way combination, responsible for the success of "He Who Gets Slapped," has made another team-strike.

In his latest motion picture production, co-starring Chaney and Miss Shearer, Seastrom is said to have made an even better film than "He Who Gets Slapped."

This production, "The Tower of Lies," produced for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is to be seen at Griffin's Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The story is a film adaptation of Selma Lagerlof's famous Swedish novel, "The Emperor of Portugalia," and was adapted by Agnes Christine Johnston.

In speaking of the success of "The Tower of Lies," Norma Shearer says: "I think the secret of the success of this film was the confidence which the players had in Director Seastrom and the confidence which he also had in the cast. When I learned that I was to be affiliated with Lon Chaney and Director Seastrom in another picture, I immediately became confident that the finished product would be a great success. - I do not think there is a better director for this type of picture, and I do not know of another actor who could do justice to such a role a that of Jan,' which was played by Mr. Chaney."

"Working with these two artists has always been a great pleasure to me and has given me enthusiasm and confidence in roles that are very exacting."

Lord Oxford, the former Mr. Asquith, is known as a "bridge fiend" and sometimes gets so keen on a rub that he will sit up till two in the morning to finish it. Earl Grey has now "fallen for" it and he plays it nearly every evening. "It's the next best thing to a good book," he says.

BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU WASH YOUR CHILD'S HAIR WITH

If you want to keep your children's hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Do not use preparations and shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. Most dry, fluffy, scrap, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Modified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can not possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The latter rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

Just Figures

Chicago, Mar. 3.—Professor F. R. Moulton of the University of Chicago, has fixed the date of the end of the world. But there is no immediate cause for alarm. You may figure it out yourself, he says. He says:

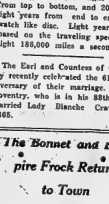

The earth is two thousand million years old. The average life of such a planet is a thousand times a million times a million years of 1,000,000,000,000,000 (one quadrillion) years. So it will go on whirling in its orbit for another 500,000 times as long as it has already whirled.

And when that time comes, the sun will get too close to this planet and poof! that will be all. Just like the snuffing out of a candle it will melt and be destroyed.

Discussing the universe, before a group of students last night Professor Moulton pictured it as a vast space, 50,000 light years from top to bottom, and 200,000 light years from end to end—to watch like disc. Light years are based on the traveling speed of light 186,000 miles a second.

The Earl and Countess of Coventry recently celebrated the 61st anniversary of their marriage. Lord Coventry, who is in his 88th year, married Lady Blanche Craven in 1865.

The Bonnet and Empire Frock Return to Town

BUTTERICK 6667

Gay prints, prim flowers, a penny for the collection in her petit-manteau, and her best socks and slippers, all but stop the traffic when the small girl starts for Sunday - school. When we are very young, the world is our oyster, when we tie a pink bonnet over yellow curls, pink yellow roses on our pink frock and line our rose-colored coat with the same yellow print. The Kate Greenaway bonnet and Empire frock make a perfectly bewitching costume that will take the very small girl into the best society. It is fabrics it is an adorable outfit for parties or for the flower girl in a wedding procession. Light-weight cotton prints quilted all over are very French and very chic. Pin-check gingham with plain gingham, frocks, silk or cotton poncee or chambray with the same material in a contrasting color are charming.

MADOC TEAM HAD FINE HELP

In Fact C. N. T. Six Were Beaten Before They Got to the Rink

Braving wind, snow storms, drifts and pitch holes the Canadian National Telegraphs Hockey team journeyed to Madoc last night and took on the Madoc High School, and additions, in hockey game, the Telegraphs coming out on the short end of a 7-0 score.

The game was won for Madoc between Foxboro and Ivanhoe. The Telegraphers employed the time between two points in using all the energy and muscle at their command to pull, push and carry out their menu of transportation which had a bad tendency to forsake the roadbed and sleep quietly in the soft snow alongside.

Arriving in Madoc an hour and half late the referee called the game immediately and the Telegraphers hung on for the first twenty minutes, getting their ice legs and frost bites taken care of.

The small sheet of ice cramped the electrical engine of the Telegraphers and they never got started. Madoc scored one only in first. The telegraph crew took the second in the second and only the good defense and the referees kept them off the score sheet. Madoc notching another one.

The third period was Madoc's all over, the Telegraphers being leg weary, arm weary and hungry, and thinking more of the ride to come than of the game. For Madoc Henderson, Trifts and Whytlock played nicer. If strenuous, hockey. Henderson being assisted by Trifts and Belleville St. Denis. Reeves and Greig did good work. The return game will take place here Friday.

The line-up:—

Madoc—Goal, Wallbridge; defence, Trifts and Henderson; centre, Whytock; wings, Coverly and Phillips; subs, Rankin and Bradley.

C. N. T.—Goal, F. Phillips; defence, Greig and Reeves; centre, Reeves; wings, Smith and St. Denis; subs, T. Riggs.

OSHAWA PROTESTS OLIVER NEW HAMBURG GOALKEEPER

Stratford, March 3.—The massacre of the Oshawa intermediates today filed a protest with the O.H.A. questioning the eligibility of Clarion Oliver, New Hamburg goalkeeper.

In the protest Secretary Hime drew attention to the fact that Oliver has not been a continuous resident of New Hamburg since May 16, as required by the O.H.A. residence rule.

They also stated that Oliver was employed in Oshawa as late as September 15, and that the player had left a card to this effect. Oliver contends however, that he was in Oshawa merely on a holiday.

Oliver has been a resident of New Hamburg practically all his life, and has played for the Bearcats for the last three seasons. The opinion prevails that the O.H.A. will not sustain the protest of the Motor City sextette.

The first game in the senior O.H.A. finals will be played at the Arena in Toronto on Friday night and the second in London on Tuesday, March 9, with M. J. Hubbell as referee for both games. After Monday night's game, Mr. A. Hewitt, secretary of the O.H.A., tossed the coin and Ed. Wright, Fr. Peterson, called "heads." The coin turned up "tails," and Sam. Reid, of London, immediately sold the champion of Group No. 2 would play the first game away from home.

Jules J. Josserand, who ended nearly a quarter century of service as French Ambassador to the United States last year, since his retirement has been engaged in revising his three-volume "Literary History of the English People" and has nearly completed his task.

Tired out but cannot sleep—

INSOMNIA is not only distressing but dangerous. It prevents the essential nightly rebuilding of body and brain tissue which is carried on only when mind and body are at rest. We must have sleep—and restful sleep. Fitful dozing will not do.

When we retire with brain over-active or nerves over-wrought—hungry or with digestion over-taxed, sleeplessness results. Morning finds us dull and faggy, loathe to tackle the day's work simply because our bodies have been robbed of the energy which would have been provided had we slept properly.

"Ovaltine," the delicious and easily digested tonic food beverage, promotes the natural healthful restoration of brain and nerve cells. A cup taken before retiring ensures natural refreshing sleep throughout the night.

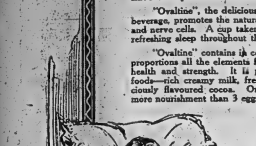

"Ovaltine" contains in concentrated form and in correct proportions all the elements for building up and maintaining health and strength. It is prepared from nature's tonic foods—rich creamy milk, fresh eggs, ripe barley malt, delicately flavoured cocoa. One cup of "Ovaltine" contains more nourishment than 3 eggs or 12 cups of beef tea.

CHARLES GARVICE

Then Constance turned to her room. For a moment she almost hesitated to enter. It seemed scarcely possible that this large and luxuriously-appointed apartment should be intended for her. But the maid entered and arranged the blinds, and then opening another door revealed a smaller room furnished in white as a bedroom. Constance's portmanteau stood on a settee, and it required at least that conclusive evidence to convince her that some mistake had not been made.

"Here you are," said Lord Lancebrook; "I hope you will like your rooms. Come to the window," and he dragged her there. "You can see the great lake in the park; that's it shining there like gold. It's over as big, and there's a boat. I fish there sometimes, when Grome—that's my groom—has time to go with me; but," with a sigh, "he's always busy. You'll come, perhaps, instead of him."

"Your lordship should leave Miss Grahame now, I think," said the maid, who spoke with evident refinement.

Lord Lancebrook sighed.

"Well, I suppose I must," he said. "But you won't be long. Will you give me a kiss? But perhaps you would rather not."

Constance bent down, and the boy put his arms round her neck and pressed his lips to her soft red one.

"I never kissed Miss Brownjohn," he said; "I didn't like to. But then you don't take snuff," and with a skip and a jump he ran out of the room.

The lady addressed as Cousin Rue went down the stairs and into the drawing-room, where the marchioness was sitting in the dim light, a book lying face downward on her lap.

"I've just seen the new governess," she said, seating herself near the old lady and commencing some crewel work, which she executed with a characteristic rapidity.

"Yes," said the Marchioness; "we are very fortunate, I think. She has a sweet face, and is, I am sure, a lady and amiable."

"Yes," assented Lady Ruth, "I scarcely noticed her." Not a detail of Constance's appearance or dress had escaped her sharp eyes. "Oh, she looks a lady, but so do most people nowadays. Its so easy, isn't it?"

"I don't know," replied the marchioness, gently, "I see so little of the world. But I am sure there can be no mistaking Miss Grahame's right to claim to the title, 'your girl.'"

"Ah, yes; she lost her father lately, didn't she? You never told me all the particulars," said Lady Ruth, filling her silk and fixing her brilliant eyes upon the old lady's placid face.

"Did I not? I thought I had. Yes, she lost her father a few months ago. He was a doctor, a scientific man, who lived abroad."

"Yes. Now they were returning to England when he was taken ill at some place and died. The poor gentleman was out of his mind some time before."

"How did you come to hear of her, through the Armstead, wasn't it?"

"Yes; they saw her, or came to know something of her, abroad, indeed, she came over in the same ship with them."

"And that's all they know about her, Herod" remarked Lady Ruth, with soft rapidity.

"Isn't that enough?" inquired Lady Brakspeare, with a placid smile. "You are always so—and don't like to say suspicious, dear Ruth—I will say cautious."

"One can't be too—I'll say suspicious, if you like—in these days. I know more of the world than you do, and I know it is necessary to be cautious."

"I don't wish to know more," said the old lady, plaintively, and with a little sigh. "As regards this poor girl, I am sure there is no need for suspicion or even caution. Lady Armstead was quite satisfied."

"Lady Armstead is always satisfied with all her protegees," retorted Lady Ruth, emptying her silk shortly.

"And so is And," said Lady Brakspeare, with a smile. "He has taken to her with wonderful promptitude."

"And has all the Brakespeare appreciation for a pretty face," said Lady Ruth.

"Yes; too pretty not to have had adventures of some sort," said Lady Ruth, rapidly.

"Lady Armstead says that the poor girl must have suffered terribly out there. I forget the name of the place where she was born, but it was quite rough and wild; and so delicate and refined a girl must have had much to endure. Lady Armstead told me that the poor child could not bear to speak of—that time."

"Oh," commented Lady Ruth, sharply.

"I should like to hear some of her experiences."

"My dear Ruth, you would not cause her pain by referring to so painful a portion of her life."

"Oh, no," retorted Lady Ruth, but her eyes said far more plainly and emphatically, "Oh, yes!"

Sea View, Cape Breton, N.S.—"By reading the letters in one of your books I understand that a great many women sufferers have got relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I can say that my mother has taken it and has given it to me in my younger days for monthly troubles. I was working at service then and could not go to work sometimes for a week at a time, and then felt miserable enough. I could not be in a warm state that I was then. My mother said to get the Vegetable Compound, and I did, and it helped me. I am now married going on to five years and have been lovely children. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends."—Mrs. CHARLES A. PATTIE, Sea View P.O., Cape Breton, N. S.

EVIDENCE TO DATE JUSTIFIES PROBE AS TO SMUGGLING

Review of Disclosures Made Reveals Many Startling Facts

NEFARIOUS BUSINESS

Huge System of Auto Stealing Shown to Exist In Montreal

Ottawa, Ont., March 4.—So far, in what is but the preliminary of the Customs investigation, there have been disclosures to justify the committee in continuing the inquiry. These disclosures have been forced against the determined opposition of Dugald Donaghy, M.P., North Vancouver, and J. C. Elliott, M.P., West Middlesex, Liberal members of the committee, as well as the whole power and influence of the present Minister of Customs, Hon. Geo. H. Boivin, and other members of the Government. It is apparent from the attempts to block or retard the inquiry the Government is fearful of the outcome.

The latest attempt of Mr. Donaghy to make the commission waste time in travelling about the country was a complete failure. Its object was so apparent that even his Liberal colleagues would not support his proposition.

It was obvious that Elliott and Donaghy were deliberately endeavoring to bedcord the issue and to smother the committee with indefinite and obscure matters. Particularly was Elliott trying to divert attention away from the Government's maladministration of Customs in the matter of bootlegging liquor into the United States, and seemingly had more concern for the violation of the United States laws than the matters at home.

'A feature of the recent days of the investigation has been the effort of Mr. R. L. Calder to demonstrate the monopoly of the auto thieves, and the manner in which Customs authorities have been used to facilitate their nefarious business. Out of the mass of evidence certain facts stand out. First, that Montreal is the centre of the huge system of auto stealing; the individuals engaged in the business are daring thugs, some Canadians, but mostly Americans of foreign extraction, equally at home on both sides of the border. They will steal a car in the United States, bring it to Montreal, and in many cases the thief will demonstrate the ease to the Customs, the car will be seized and later sold, the individual who thus denounced it receiving a moiety as part of the fine.

It is apparent from the cases brought forward by Mr. Calder that Customs officers are seriously involved in this business.

That the Minister of Customs treated his department in a very cavalier manner was demonstrated in the fur-

Bootlegged Jail-Made Shirts Peril to Local Manufacturers; U.S. State Prisons in Contract

Smuggling American prison-made garments across the border into Canada undeniably strikes the Dominion's textile industry "below the belt", in the opinion of Mr. Fred Deacon of the Deacon Shirt Manufacturing Company.

"Especially does such a clandestine export trade from the United States have an adverse effect upon Canadian sales and upon a local manufacturing house such as ours," Mr. Deacon told The Intelligencer to-day, "if the evil is as widespread and the traffic as voluminous as Mr. Sparks at Ottawa has intimated; and while in this factory we have not directly traced down specific cases, the evidence of our own production and distribution figures for garments indicates that there is a good deal of truth in the assertions.

Mr. Deacon explained that the International Garment Manufacturers' Association, of which the Deacon Shirt Company is a member organization, has long recognized the evil of permitting prison-made garments to go into competition with those manufactured by free, universally unionized labor, even in the Republic, and is still devoting efforts to influencing legislation which will ensure the labelling of articles of clothing made in the various state prisons.

"If such legislation is enacted," said Mr. Deacon, "it will put a stop to the import of all such prison-made garments—except by a 'bootleg' route. Investigation of this latter, of course, is another matter; but the labelling of the goods would at least preclude them from coming over more or less openly, or merely under the cover of invoices which convey no intimation of the origin of the goods."

"Bootlegged" United States jail-made shirts could be sold to Canadian dealers at prices ranging from $1.75 to $2.50 a dozen lower than the legitimate Canadian-made article, according to Mr. Deacon, who explained that the International body had ascertained from a recent survey that one American company had contracts to deliver shirts made by the inmates of no less than twenty-two state prisons.

"The company supplies the materials, thread for making, and so forth," pointed out Mr. Deacon. "But even so, a colossal saving on the labour item is effected. They get the manufactured shirts back from the prisons for 75 cents a dozen. When you compare this with the price that has to be paid to unionized labour—you will understand how such a trade in smuggled goods necessarily hits the Canadian product, turned out by free labour in union shops."

RURAL TRAGEDY STIRS PETERBORO WOMAN IS HELD

Step Mother of Dead Child Arraigned—Inquiry Demanded

Peterboro, March 4.—Mrs. Mary Dwyer was today arraigned on charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of her step-child, John, 12 years of age.

George Dwyer, father of the child is at present held on a charge of neglect. There was no inquest. Although an agitation has swept the city for two days in favor of an investigation, the Crown Attorney declares positively "there will be no investigation."

Dr. Clark who attended the boy after he was brought in from Dummer, gave a death certificate declaring death due to meningitis, but it is understood a burial certificate has been refused.

The coroner says there is no necessity for an inquest since the death certificate is in order. The dead boy was one of three Dwyer children brought to the hospital a week ago in an emaciated condition and suffering generally from ill treatment. The other two are expected to recover.

Preliminary hearing of the charge of manslaughter against Mrs. Mary Dwyer arising out of the death of her twelve-year-old step-son John, in hospital here, will be was brought in an emaciated condition was today adjourned until March 11. This is to permit of attendance in court of the other step-son, nine-year-old George, who is a material witness for crown.

FISH HATCHERIES FIND LIMELIGHT

Toronto, March 4.—Fish and Game Committee of Legislature this morning heard pleas for the taking over by the Province of nine fish hatcheries now being operated by the Federal Government. The Federal Government has given notice that after May 1, 1926, it will not operate these hatcheries and has offered them to the provincial Government free if they will take over the expense of operation which is about $60,000 a year. An inspector is making a survey of all hatcheries in the Province and the committee decided to withhold recommendation until such a time as they receive his report.

Trenton Man Held for B.O.T.A. Occupied Cell With Dog "Patsy" Told Complicating Stories; Fined

"Patsy," a brindled bulldog, great bottom in a cell down at the police station here with his master, Eugene Lamore, 33, Trenton mill foreman, who was arrested on charges of driving an automobile on Front Street, Belleville, while intoxicated, and with possession of liquor in contravention of the provisions of the Ontario Temperance Act.

Lamore was pleaded guilty to both charges before Magistrate Mason this morning, was sentenced to the minimum of seven days' imprisonment on the first offence and to pay a fine of fifty dollars and costs, in all $65.50, on the second, with the alternative of one month's imprisonment in default.

Local police arrested Lamore at 10 p.m., after he had driven onto the sidewalk and nearly into the Dominion bank. A small bottle containing alcohol was found in the automobile, besides a buffalo robe.

Accused stated he knew nothing as to how the bottle came to be in the car. He was discharged on this charge, he said, had come from a cripple. ale bottle handed to him by two Trenton men to whom he had given a lift into Belleville.

This statement, Crown Attorney Donnan declared, did not tally with a previous statement made by Lamore to Police Chief Kidd. The latter, duly sworn, testified to having had a conversation with the prisoner this morning, in which Lamore had admitted, "without threat or promise," that he had been drinking at his home in Trenton before leaving for Belleville yesterday.

"We are asking only the minimum penalty under the law," the crown counsel told the crown attorney. "But in view of the fact that this man has given two conflicting stories and that we are sure of the condition of things in Trenton with regard to the prominent alcohol outlaw, we are unwilling to drop this second charge."

Magistrate Mason told prisoner if he could have believed the story that Lamore had not known what to the alcohol came from he would have acquitted him of the charge of having liquor in an unlawful place, but since he had told two different stories concerning the offence, a minimum fine of $50 and costs would have to be imposed.

Nevertheless

"The act provides that where a defendant pleads guilty to drinking in an unlawful place he has also laid himself open to conviction on the second offense of having liquor in an unlawful place," explained Crown Attorney, B. C. Donnan this morning, interpreting the Ontario Temperance Act in a case which came before Police Magistrate S. Mason.

"Yes, yes," commented His Worship. "Nevertheless, — little reason might be used."

Community Tennis Courts In City For Local Tildens And Lenglens Urged By Argyle Club President

CHAIRMAN POWER OF CITY PARKS BOARD ASKED TO CONSIDER PLAN—CONCRETE LAYOUTS ADVOCATED—PASTIME HAS GAINED IMMENSE POPULARITY DECLARES SPONSOR—NEED FOR FURTHER FACILITIES STRESSED.

'Advocating consideration by the City Parks Board of a plan to provide public tennis courts at various points in the city, Mr. H. F. Parker, president of the Argyll Club declares the game has recently gained such popularity as to render further facilities practically essential if the young people of Belleville are to have opportunity to develop their interest in the pastime.

Urging concrete courts, as being easier to care for and requiring less for upkeep than grass courts, Mr. Parker further explains that a small place like Point Anne has been able to establish such a court.

Dear Sir:—The remarkably good work already accomplished by the Parks Board in the short time since its inception has led me to believe that any reasonable request for additional recreational facilities for the citizens of Belleville would receive your careful consideration.

I have been requested by a number of the young people of the city to ask

There seems little doubt that four million names will be easily forthcoming.

SAY GOVERNMENT NOW PREPARING ITS LEGISLATION

Minor Party Leaders Remaining in Ottawa For Recess

SOME ELECTIONEERING

Some Return to Constituencies to Get Ready For Early Election

Ottawa, March 4.—The recess for the House of Commons has been welcomed by almost all the members of the various parties, the two months' continuous debate having wearied them and made a holiday particularly attractive. Most of the members from the western and central provinces will spend the recess at their homes, many of them employing part of the time in explaining the dissolution in Parliament to their constituents and in doing a little electioneering against the possibility of an early election. Some of them plan to hold a few political meetings. The adjournment is too short for British Columbia members to have any time at their homes and some of them remain here, while others will take short holiday trips. Some of the Prairie members are going home and have arranged pairs to permit their being absent for a few days after the House reassembles.

After reassembling on March 15, the House will have only two weeks and a half of labor before it gets the Easter holiday of about a week.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe is going to Quebec during the recess to meet his constituents and receive their congratulations on his leadership of the House during the enforced absence of the Prime Minister. Mr. Meighen's plans have not been indicated. Robert Forke is remaining in Ottawa and with some of the other members of the executive committee of the Progressives will assist the Government to draft the week-end legislation promised in the Speech from the Throne.

The Progressives are determined that the Government shall keep its promise to the letter and that the legislation to implement these promises shall be according to their wishes, it being the price at which they have undertaken to sustain or "co-operate with," the Government. To make sure that the Government doesn't break the bargain the Progressive leaders are remaining here to be at the ministerial elbow. Mr. Woodsworth will also be available in connection with the drafting of legislation promised him by Premier King when the Labor leader was letting it be known that he intended to take ahead age of the balance of power held by him self and his colleague, Mr. Heaps.

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAMME

Members of the cabinet have promised on the floor of the House that the Government will have in preparation of legislation ready for the House when it reassembles on March 15—Press assurances, incidentally, being given admission the Opposition has demanded, that it hadn't any legislation ready up to the present and was under the necessity, therefore, of not letting the Debate on the address continue or of forcing its conclusion by closure. Departmental estimates, however, should be ready, and it is likely that the main estimates will be brought down shortly after the recess.

CURRIE'S BILL IN LEGISLATURE

Government Control and O. T.A. Amendment Now Before M.P.P.'s

Toronto, March 4.—Wednesday after noon's session of the Ontario Legislature was largely routine with little debate or discussion. The most interesting feature was the introduction by Col. J. A. Currie (Con., South East Toronto) of a bill which would provide for Government control of the sale of beer in municipalities which voted in favor of such control in the last plebiscite. The bill also provides for the sale of beer and native Ontario wines in standard hotels, clubs, railway trains and boats where it was sold previous to 1919.

Another bill introduced by Col. Currie would amend the Ontario Temperance Act to bring it into conformity with the Government control bill should the latter pass the House.

This brings two liquor bills before the Legislature, J. A. Pinard (Liberal, East Ottawa), having secured first reading for a bill which would increase the alcoholic content of beer allowed to be legally sold in Ontario from 4-4 to 12 per cent. It is probable that both bills will be subject to a decision by the Speaker as to whether a private member can introduce such legislation. The Government is not in any way committed to the bills.

A. C. Lewis (Conservative, Northeast Toronto) introduced a bill to give the Ontario Church Property Commission power to grant compensation in another vote on the question of union when they have decided that a previous vote was illegal or irregular. The bill would also give the commission power to make orders regarding the disposition of church property rather than recommendations.

W. E. Raney, Progressive leader, gave notice that he would ask the Speaker to make a decision as to whether questions can be asked the Government concerning matters of policy. He said he would support his point with arguments.

Hon. W. H. Price informed the House that farm loans in 1924 totalled $2,500,000 and in 1925, $2,700,000.

Profits of provincial liquor dispensaries, Hon. Mr. Nickle said in answering a question, were in 1919, $378,081, and in 1925, $946,823, ranging between these amounts in the years intervening. No charges have been made in regulations governing sale of 4-4 per cent. beer, he said.

This has been a not uncommon conversation between two society matrons for the practice of borrowing butlers for special occasions has sprung up this season.

Florenz Ziegfeld, J. J. O'Brien and Joseph Ritter are among those who loaned Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury eight butlers for her party last night.

Mrs. Stotesbury's staff of servants numbers forty-nine, but she professed to be short of butlers and had to send out the S.O.S.

THEY'RE ALL "GENERALS"

London, March 4.—Col. Douglas Clinton Brown, Conservative member of the house of commons for the Heaton Division of Northumberland has given notice that next week he will draw the attention of the House of Commons to the "extraordinary and unfair number of leaders there are in the Liberal party."

EVIDENCE HEARD JUSTIFIES PROBE

ther cross-examination of Bisaillon. Mr. Stevens examined Bisaillon in regard to rates after case, proving Bisaillon to admit the correctness of each case, and showing that those cases were settled independent of the Department and at the discretion of Mr. Bisaillon or the whim of the Minister. Time after time Bisaillon who was chief preventive officer, admitted that the settlement was contrary to his instructions from the Department and made independent of the chief officers of the Department, his superiors in Ottawa. An illustration was that of Ouellette, a specially favored employee of Bureau, the Minister of Customs. Under an arrangement between the Minister and Bisaillon a sedan car was sold for Ouellette and purchased at the sale; undoubtedly the purchase and sale of this particular car was pre-arranged with the auctioneer and knocked down to Ouellette for $450.00. Immediately afterwards Bisaillon admitted under oath that he sold the car again at a profit of hundreds of dollars and permitted the profit to Ouellette or the Minister.

ILLICIT STILLS PROTECTED

Another illustration of the friendship between Bisaillon and the Minister was furnished in the case of Illicit stills. Mr. Stevens produced a list of about 12 cases which had been reported by officers of the Department to Bisaillon, and he (Bisaillon) referred them to the Minister mark opposite each one "yes" or "no" as to prosecution. Mr. Bureau returned the list to Bisaillon with a covering letter indicating that opposite each case where he expressed his wish, and in every case "no" was written in the Minister's handwriting. This was followed by letter by the Minister calling into his private office an officer of the Department who had entered proceedings against two individuals for having an illicit still and threatened to discharge him if he ever did such a thing again in that county, namely, St. Hyacinthe.

Case after case has been brought before the committee in this room, examination of Bisaillon by Mr. Stevens, which demonstrates conclusively first, that there has been wholesale tampering and sale of stills and cars in the district of Montreal. Secondly, that the senior officers of the Department of Customs and Excise have been interfered with by the Minister, and thirdly, that Customs officers in the district had connived at the seizure, sale and disposal of these stolen cars.

The concluding session today illustrated the interference of the Government. Inspector Walter Duncan, whose report is one of the most remarkable criminal political expose's issue in Canada's history, has been kept from the witness box by the Liberal members and Hon. Geo. H. Boivin. Today, toward the close of the session the Conservatives forced the Government members to permit Inspector Duncan to give details of his engagement reports and retirement, but this concession was only secured after there was a promise entered he would not tell what was in his report. It is apparent from his report to Hon. George H. Boivin he was bringing the case too close in the subject Mr. Boivin ordered ordering him to report at once and not seek more evidence against Hon. Justices Bureau. When the probe is resumed on March 16 Inspector Duncan will tell the whole story.

COMMUNITY COURTS FOR TENNIS PLAYERS

tour Commission by virtue of my being President and Tennis Club, if it would be possible to provide Public Tennis Courts for all those who are desirous of playing this game, but who have nowhere to play at the present time.

Five years ago the amount of tennis played in this city was practically nil. Four years ago tennis enthusiasts organized the Asylum Tennis Club after securing permission from the military authorities to use the Armouries lawn. The Club grew rapidly until we had to put a limit on the number joining. We had fifty members at one time, with only two courts to play on, which I think you will agree was rather too many, but we wanted to let everyone play who wanted to do so. I know for a fact that there are scores and scores of young people who want to play tennis but who have no place to play.

Tennis is a game that should be encouraged, because it is probably the best of all sports for exercise and for the development of the true sportsman spirit. It is my private opinion that the citizens of Belleville in whatever other way they may excel, do not do so in the matter of inculcating in healthful outdoor sport. There are a few who play golf and bowl, and a few who play baseball, but the great mass of the people are either compelled or content to be spectators. It is for those that I plead. Anyone can play tennis, and it doesn't need nine or a dozen players to make a game. No equipment is needed other than a bat, a racket and a couple of balls, and the cost of same is relatively low compared with other sports.

In asking the Parks Commission to provide Public Courts we are only asking for what has already been done by, I think, every city, and many towns in Ontario. The Toronto parks are crowded with tennis courts all going strong. Kingston, Oshawa, London, and Cobourg are places known to me to be maintaining successful public courts.

SUGGESTS CONCRETE COURTS

We suggest that for a start, four courts be provided. They could be constructed either of dirt or concrete,

There are two very excellent cement concrete courts at Point Anne. This kind of court seems to be the best for public use, because, even though they have rather more expensive to build, there is practically nothing to do to them afterwards to keep them in shape. West or East Belleville playground seems to be the logical place to have them; but these are details which a committee of those interested would be pleased to discuss with any member or members of your Board at any time.

I think that you will agree with me that any thing which will furnish a large number of the citizens of Belleville with a ready means of healthful outdoor recreation is well worth the expenditure of a little public money. I trust that our suggestion will receive favourable consideration, and that your Board may see they way clear to provide these much-needed means of recreation. I am, sir,

Yours very truly,
H. J. PARKER,
President Argyle Tennis Club, City.

TRENTON FIRE BRIGADE ANSWERS SECOND CALL ONE HOUSE, IN 2 HOURS

Trenton, March 4.—Ambitious to speed up the soft coal fire in his furnace, Mr. Corey, Dundas street, Trenton, got his furnace pipes a bit over the standard heat last evening at 8.20 resulting in a run out for the Trenton Fire Department. The fire was quickly checked but ambition got the best of the owner again at 10.30 so Chief Goodsell had the unusual request of a second call at the same house within two hours. Again the fire was quickly stopped and stopped it remained to up to a late hour this afternoon. Earlier in the evening the department had a call to a chimney blaze at George Chinneck's, 108 Bleat street. The only damage done was a small hole "the size of an orange" burnt in the roof.

A Great Canadian Industry Contributing to Canada's Prosperity

FACTS

Money paid by General Motors of Canada Limited to Canadian manufacturers for parts and materials	$9,942,369
Canadian employees of General Motors of Canada, Limited, were paid	5,187,859
Gross Revenue to dealers from which they paid their employees, rent, taxes, and all other operating expenses	8,289,243
The Government received for duty on imported parts, sales and excise tax and other taxes	5,498,463
The Canadian railroads and transportation companies were paid	2,664,204
Canadian makers of tools, drills, jigs, dies, etc., received	1,201,244
Operation of service parts distributing depots, branches, expenses of wholesaling, including moneys paid for advertising and printing, resulted in an additional expenditure of	1,854,544
1243 Canadian stockholders of General Motors received dividends amounting to	1,085,464
During the same year the people of Canada invested in General Motors' cars	34,044,048

The contribution, therefore, of this industry to Canada's prosperity in 1925 consists in the employment of many thousands of Canadian workmen; of the payment of many millions to Canadians for material and labor; a tremendous revenue to our Federal Government, assisting our tax burden; a mammoth amount of revenue to our railroads and leaves in Canada more money than it collects.

THREW 2 BABIES OUT OF WINDOW TO ESCAPE FIRE

Mother Then Caught in Flames and May Die As Result

Port Arthur, March 4.—Trapped by flames after she had thrown her two babies out of the window, Mrs. M. Hoshkoski is in the hospital in a critical condition with mortality no hope of recovery from burns she received when she battled her way through a wall of fire. The woman was asleep with her two children when aroused by heat and smoke. She broke a window in the front of her house and threw her children outside the snow but the rush of air blew the flames and prevented her escape and she was forced to fight her way to the rear of the house. A crowd below picked up the children, one of them on the verandah and the flames were then licking at the flimsy night clothing of the baby.

BIG REBOUND ON EXCHANGES

New York, N.Y., March 4.—Stock prices staged a remarkable recovery today after an uninterrupted decline of over a week in which scores of issued had been carried down 50 to 60 points from their high level of year. The rally, which received its impetus from buying of strong financial interests combined with that of hundreds of small investors who were attracted by high yields available on many issues ran from 1 to nearly 20 points. Bear traders who had sold stocks short throughout recent decline covered freely but were forced in many cases to bid high in order to cover their commitments. American Can was in forefront of advance, selling 18 points above yesterday's low level before end of third hour.

ASSIZES TO HEAR SEQUEL TO TRAGEDY

A local case to come up at the assizes beginning Monday, and one which promises to arouse a good deal of interest, is the action for damages being brought against M. C. Poirier by Mrs. Hebia Horr, who claims for injuries said to have been received in a runaway accident in December, 1924.

R. D. Macaulay has been retained as counsel for the plaintiff in this case, with Ponton & Ponton for the defendant.

The accident, which resulted in tragedy, Miss Anderson being killed, occurred on Front Street when the team driven by Mr. Potter is said to have broken from control, dashed onto the sidewalk, dragging the sleigh with them and crashed into Miss Anderson and Mrs. Horr.

HEAR STATEMENT BY CHAMBERLAIN ON LEAGUE POLICY

Britain Will Not Oppose Agreement of Other Members on Seating.

London, March 4.—Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary, opened his promised statement on the British position regarding the question of enlarging the council of the League of Nations in the House of Commons this afternoon. The foreign secretary said it must be a guiding principle of British representatives, at Geneva, that they should be parties to nothing there which endangered the success of the Locarno accords or which would make it impossible for Germany at the last moment to enter the league when she presented herself at its doors.

Speaking warily and admitting the "delicacy of the occasion", Sir Austen told the commons that Britain would not oppose the unanimous agreement of the other members of the League of Nations council, to award a permanent seat to some nation besides Germany.

Mrs. Paul of Kingston Here to Address W.M.S. Of John Street Church

The Women's Missionary Auxiliary of John Street United Church held their Easter Thankoffering meeting last evening. It had been announced that the Presbyterian president, Mrs. Paul, of Kingston, had kindly consented to give an address and a large assembly was present to greet her.

Mrs. McFarlane, president of the Auxiliary was in the chair and the opening devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Donnell.

During the evening two vocal selections were given, a duet by Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Adams. Miss Gussie Hill acted as accompanist.

The address was most interesting and was in the form of a retrospect of the Women's Missionary Society showing its sixty years growth of the Presbyterian development alone many lines have been added, increase in membership and contributions, and the manifold evidence of the Divine blessing upon its labors. At the close of her address Mrs. Paul received a very hearty vote of thanks moved by Mrs. Buchanan, seconded by Miss Davis. A generous Thankoffering was received and a pleasant social hour with refreshments, closed the last regular meeting of John Street Auxiliary as a part of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society, the work commencing in April under the newly organized society of the United Church of Canada.

"Let those be harmony in things essential liberty in things not essential—Charity in all."

OUR TERRIBLE DANCES

In the XVIIIth century ladies and gentlemen danced the graceful minuet to the music of Haydn and Mozart, touching each other's finger tips and keeping at arm's length apart. After that came the waltz. Society thought it "highly indecent". About 1850 came the polka and society waged a fervent war against "that immoral dance". The man actually placed his hand round the lady's waist, and she—the horror of it!—placed her hand on his shoulder. Here is what a writer said in a family journal of that period:

"I have seen the Nautch girls of India and the slave girls of Persia, but none of these would have danced as we see the polka at home performed by young ladies. But really more to blame than the girls, I think, are the mothers, who composedly sit and look on at scenes which baffle description. The polka is only fit for the houris of a Mohammedan paradise; certainly not for Christian ladies.

"The worst of all is Margaret Percival; and when I saw her whirling around with Sir Pitzroy at Lady Glenthis last ball, her head on his shoulder and her ringlets scattered all over his uniform, I was positively hurrying out of the room—good, simple man that I am—for a glass of water, thinking that she had fainted, as no woman retaining her senses could have made such an exhibition of herself even with her own husband.

"And any man who dances the polka in that style with a young lady should be bound to marry her the next day!

"Queen Victoria does not dance the polka, nor permit it to be exhibited in her presence. Why will not the noble matronage of America be thus queen-like?

"There is still one comfort,—it cannot be worse."

There's one consolation about the 1926 dancing. It cannot be worse!

Whatever the mode of dancing in 1950, the folks who are young today and will be old then can take comfort from the fact that "it cannot be worse".

HOW TO LIVE LONG

The other day, on the occasion of her 78th birthday, Ellen Terry, the famous actress, was indicted to give to the public her secret of youth. The first ingredient of the great recipe, she is reported as saying, may be the love of beauty and the knack of appreciating it. No doubt such a qualification was found useful by Miss Terry; but in the history of art and literature one meets the names of many people who died young in spite of an acknowledged capacity for both seeing and appreciating beauty. There was Keats, for instance, who achieved a reputation as the poet of beauty; yet he died at an age when most people are beginning the really serious work of life, and the period of his master work covered only about five years. On the other hand there is Mme. Schumann-Heink, who at the age of 63 is renewing her early triumphs as a singer. What is her secret?

Possibly much depends on a good start in life with a sound constitution capable of resisting the enemies of health. Starting with a good constitution a plentiful supply of the kind of work which one loves will probably be a great help. Yet there are people who manage to live through long years though they seem to ignore the ordinary rules of health and the recipes for long-living which others so generously supply.

So far as one has seen there is no "rule" for long life which has been written, that amounts to more than a theory or a prejudice, and not worth the paper on which it was written.

CANADIAN INSURANCE

It is interesting to note that the Canadian Manufacturers' Association has advised its members to keep their insurance in Canadian circles as far as possible, especially in view of the fact that the manufacturers have more than once been accused of inconsistency in this respect. The need of supporting Canadian institutions is not vexed by the figures in regard to fire and casualty insurance in Canada, which shows that in 1924, the last year of published record, over $73,000,000 in premiums was collected from Canadian policyholders by 229 companies, of which only 14 are purely Canadian companies operating with Canadian capital. These Canadian companies transacted only $6,573,000 in premiums, or 9 per cent. of the total.

Canadian policyholders were taxed during 1924 approximately $2,208,000 on their premiums paid on fire and casualty insurance, an amount equal to more than 33 per cent. of the total business transacted by purely Canadian companies.

Domestic companies in the life assurance field are very strong, and many companies, such as the Sun Life Canada Life, etc., are household words the world over, and while a substantial life business is being transacted in Canada by British and foreign companies, purely native institutions remain in the ascendant and maintain a firm grip on the business of the country.

In fire and casualty insurance there remains to be done a great deal of work in educating the public in a movement to support native institutions and enable the Canadian companies to participate in the $73,000,000 of home business available.

CANT ESCAPE IT

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, triumphantly announces that Adam Smith and John Stuart Mill were far astray when they taught that the law of supply and demand regulates wages. This theory is discarded by modern economists, says Mr. Green, and has been supplanted by the organization of labor and collective bargaining.

That labor organization and collective bargaining do, in particular cases, help to regulate wages there can be no doubt. Yet, after all, the old economists were probably not as far wrong as Mr. Green thinks they were. Organization and negotiation are useful to make the best of existing conditions, but as conditions are favorable or otherwise so will wages be, comparatively, either high or low.

When the demand for labor is greater than the supply, it is easy, by means of collective bargaining, for labor representatives to obtain good terms for the workers whom they represent. But when there are several willing workers for every job to work at, labor must make the best terms possible under the conditions, and those terms are sure to be less satisfactory than they would be if the demand for labor were greater than the supply.

FIGURING IT OUT

Scotland seems to be responding nobly to Canada's clarion call for her best farm-hands and domestic servants who can now travel several thousands of miles for approximately $15. While the thrifty Scot no doubt has his eye on the possibility of the abandonment of the scheme before he has had a chance to take advantage of it, it would be unbecoming to go back to Methuselah with G. B. Shaw and revive the alleged joke about the Scotsman's traditional meanness. Rather should it be pointed out that the Scot will bring with him, as is his custom, his accent, his speech and his manners.

ENJOYING BAD HEALTH

A confirmed hypochondriac, meeting his personal physician in the street, said to him:

"Doctor, I have just come from a popular medical lecture, and I am much afraid that I have kidney trouble."

"But, my dear fellow," said the doctor, smiling, "the curious thing about that disease is that the victim does not experience the least pain or discomfort."

"By heaven!" gasped the hypochondriac. "My symptoms exactly!"

FLEECED QUEBECERS

Montreal Star:

Another swindling firm, with an array of smooth-talking stock salesmen and a high-sounding name has come into the limelight through interpellations as to its activities being directed at the Provincial Government by an enquiring legislator. This time it is the "International Producing and Refining Company", of Drumwright, Oklahoma, with offices in Montreal, that has fleeced the gullible residents of rural Quebec out of $400,000, the promoters finally leaving the city without notifying the authorities of their change of address.

The story of their fraud is little different from that of scores of these shady stock and bond promoters. Their great asset was the smooth tongues of their salesmen and they were possibly plentifully supplied with the glowingly worded folders that a Oklahoma oil concern a Florida Real Estate corporation, or a Gold Mining company find to have as much magnetic power as a catalogue of garden seeds.

The supply of the gullible seems endless. Sermons and printed warnings may save a few from putting their heads into the noose.

SUNDAY LABOR

Sherbrooke Tribune:

In requesting industrialists to keep church Sundays, Mr. Taschereau is certain to win the approbation not only of good Catholics, but also of every honest citizen who has the interests of this province at heart. It is, moreover, universally admitted that Sunday labor brings wealth to nobody, neither to the employer nor to the employed. Then why persist in infringing a law based not only on the principles of religion, but on the principles of logic and good sense as well?

DOMINIONS AND FOREIGN POLICY

London United Empire:

Much remains to be done before the problem of full Dominion participation in Empire foreign policy is placed on a completely satisfactory basis. Time will bring the solution. The idea that in seeking to promote European peace Great Britain is European first and imperial afterwards has no foundation in fact. The peace of Europe, it cannot too frequently be insisted, is an asset to the whole Empire.

Inflamed Eyelids

Redness and Granulation Quickly Relieved

Mrs. M. M. Peters, Oconto, Ont. writes: "My eyelids were red and inflamed so that I could scarcely see to sew or read. After suffering for months I was relieved in a week after applying Dr. Chase's ointment.

GRANULATION and inflammation of the eyelids is soon relieved by the application of Dr. Chase's Ointment to the lids at night before retiring. The lids should be carefully cleansed with warm water before applying the ointment. Dr. Chase's Ointment is so pure and clean, so soothing and healing as to be an ideal treatment for this purpose.

To feel your best, day in and day out, to eat well, digest well, feel well, work well, sleep well, you must keep your liver active or the system soon becomes filled with poison, causing a multitude of trouble, as headaches, sour stomach, constipation, kidney pains, foul breath, etc). Don't forget to start to-morrow and take two tablets of Calomel before meals or two at bedtime, then the next morning jump from your bed and drink a cup of hot water. This washes all the previous day's waste from the system, making you feel 100 per cent. better in every way. These simple Tasol Calomel Tablets can be obtained from McKeown's Drug Store, Belleville.

LUMBER JACKS FUSSY ABOUT JOBS. ALSO PAY

Vancouver, B.C., March 4.—The The creeks are thawing out, the snow is vanishing from the hills, and the logging employment offices are crowded, as they usually are at this season of picturesque characters who seek their livelihood in the big timber.

Long John and his crew have appeared at the loggers' office. Long John is a peeler. One may imagine that to become a logger, one selzes an axe, a saw and a peavie and goes forth into the bush to log at certain fixed rates of pay.

Not so. As stated Long John is a peeler. If there isn't a job peeling poles, Long John isn't interested. In fact, he sneered at the call for a drawsaw man, a bench feeder and a swamper. Long John is none of those things and proud of it. Equally proud are the logging bosses, hook tenders and swampers that they are not peelers.

Technically, Long John peels the bark from poles, and it is quite an arduous task. Besides, he can look at the top spike of a cedar and tell whether the tree is hollow at the butt. He knows whether he can get a 30 or 40-foot pole from any given cedar.

But Long John has been waiting forty-one days for a job when he might have been working with others at $3.50 a day. These loggers are fastidious about the jobs they get.

"No good," said Long John as he scanned the list of labor required at the camps. "No good peeler. Got say $3.75 a day or I no go."

He is typical of the horde of lumberjacks who mill around the employment offices at this season. If a job to his liking isn't available now he'll hold off to the starving point before he takes another.

THREE MEMBERS REFUSE TRIBUTE

ONE NEW BY-ELECTION

Selection of W. D. Euler Expected to be Only Contest Launched

Ottawa, Ont., March 4.—The introduction of closure at the last moment is now almost generally attributed to Premier King's demand he be not forced to enter the House of Commons during the debate on the Address when he could have been subjected to a grilling on his election speeches and his after-election promises to the Progressives. He will have but a brief exemption from this attack, as on the budget he will be brought to trial.

Liberals here are alarmed at the attitude of their allies. Messrs. Woodsworth and Heaps, the Winnipeg Communists, and Henri Bourassa, Nationalist, who says: "We are the willing vassals of a foreign power," meaning Great Britain. At the close of the debate last night when the members sang the National Anthem, all present, including the spectators in the gallery, paid the customary loyal tribute by rising, except these three who refused to do so, contenting for the Moscow and British sentiments by ignoring entirely. It is by the grace of these three antifraternists the Government exists. Certain Progressives were very insistent and loth to accept their decision, even though temporarily, into a party where Messrs. Woodsworth, Heaps and Bourassa are welcomed.

ONLY ONE OTHER BY-ELECTION

In Government circles it is believed there will be but one other by-election for Cabinet reconstruction—that of W. D. Euler, North Waterloo. He will undoubtedly be opposed by the Conservatives. The Government desires Hon. Charles Murphy's portfolio of Postmaster-General for Hon. Lucien Cannon, but Mr. Murphy is not retiring and if he does will indicate his successor. At present there is a unique situation in the Cabinet. Saskatchewan has three representatives, and Ontario, with four times the population, has but one, and that one is the Senate.

GREAT PROGRESS MADE IN MINERAL INDUSTRY

Increase of Nearly Sixteen Millions in Canada Last Year—A Remarkable Gain

Montreal, March 4.—Great progress was made in Canada's mineral industry in 1925, according to a report made by S. J. Cook, chief of the mining, metallurgical and chemical branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa, in the course of an address at the opening session of the annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy here to-day. Reviewing the developments of the year, Mr. Cook pointed out that the production of minerals reached a value of $224,846,227, an advance of $15,262,831 over the total for 1924, and well towards the record valuation of $227,859,065 attained in 1920.

New production records were established. Among the metals the remarkable advance in the production of gold, lead and zinc were about outstanding. Improvement in output, however, also marked the totals for nickel, copper, cobalt and silver. Sales of asbestos increased during the year by more than $2,000,000 to a total value of $8,995,851. Improvement in the production of other non-metallic minerals was noted in the figure for feldspar, graphite, gypsum, natural gas, petroleum, quartz, natural sodium, sulphate and carbonate, salt, talc and soapstone. Production figures for coal, feldspar, pyrites and mica were below those reported in 1924.

TO "BURN OUT" THE ICE WITH TON OF THERMIT

Dr. Barnes of Montreal to Begin Experiments on Allegheny River

Oil City, Pa., March 4.—Oil City was looking forward to-night to the experiments to-morrow of Dr. H. T. Barnes of Montreal, who, following an inspection trip along the ice-jammed Allegheny River, declared he could break up the 18-mile forge although "it may take weeks."

One ton of thermit, to be used in an attempt to "burn out" the ice, was ordered to-day, and delivery was promised for to-morrow by railroad officials. Dr. Barnes said he would also use sand, dynamite and calcium chloride in his effort to relieve the situation.

All except the very highest places in the city were supplied with water throughout the day, and headway was made in gaining a reserve supply in the reservoirs.

Lord Irwin, who is succeeding Lord Reading as Viceroy, will leave for India about the beginning of March. He will reach Bombay at the end of the month and have an informal meeting there with his predecessor, who will then be on the point of departure for home.

BADMINTON CLUB WON AT OSHAWA

Clean Sweep in Men's and Ladies' Doubles in Motor City

MEN LOST IN SINGLES

Out of 30 Games Played Belleville Captured 19—Results

The Belleville Garrison Badminton Club team went up to Oshawa last evening to play the team of the Ontario Regimental Club and came home with a best victory. In all they played thirty games, Belleville winning nineteen!

A clean sweep in Ladies' Doubles, in Men's Doubles, the loss of one game in eight Mixed Doubles, of two games in ladies' singles and then—not so good—the loss of every one of the eight games in men's singles—that summarized results.

Oshawa Armouries are equipped with three courts, the floor is very fine though much faster than the local gym since it is used for dancing at times, and the Belleville players found they had first to accustom themselves to its slippery surface but they quickly found their feet and began winning from the start. There were many close games as the results show, but generally they were superior in all departments except in the men's singles which have as a matter of fact not been played here at all. They here has been mostly double play but the local club's policy may be changed in the future.

The Oshawa club were most genial hosts and hostesses and entertained their visitors in the Officers' Mess.

Tweed defeated Stirling last night 4-2, at Tweed, winning the round by one goal.

The game was fast and exciting and was witnessed by a bumper crowd who stood in the bitter weather to see their favorites perform. The game was late starting because Referee Leo Parrett was last in arriving, due to heavy roads.

Ray Quinn scored for Tweed right off the bat" and tied up the round. Then the excitement really started. Play was very fast, with only one penalty being handed out. It is Tweed's first championship and they had the Cup presented to them last night.

Max Geraldi, who scored the remaining three goals for Tweed, was outstanding.

The sport in Stirling was 2-1. Quinn opened for Tweed. Geraldi put Tweed in the lead and then Whitty evened it again. Geraldi scored for Tweed after a bit of fine play. McGee got Stirling's second goal, but Geraldi scored again and it was over.

Occasionally London uncovers fascinating relics of the ancient Roman occupation. It has just been established that Lombard Street, the great financial district of London, is built over a road which, in the Roman days, was occupied by beauty shops and dressmaking establishments. Excavations in Lombard street have just revealed evidence which proves this the Bond Street of the Roman London.

GIRAFFE IS NOW CRANING NECK IN AUSTRALIAN ZOO

Evades Capture For Years But is Corraled at Last

Sydney, Aus., March 4.—Sydney's Zoo at Taronga Park, which is on a hillside on the North Shore confronting the harbor and commanding a magnificent view, is acknowledged as one of the world's best. But for many years it has been without a giraffe.

But one of these tall animals has now been added to the collection and the youngsters of all ages, of Sydney and the State of New South Wales are happy.

Mr. Giraffe arrived from his forest home in Rhodesia this week, after having evaded capture for some years. He had a mate when he started the voyage, but, unfortunately, the companion died when the steamer was nearing Australia on New Year's Day.

READS LIKE FICTION

The story of the giraffe quest which began more than three years ago, reads more like fiction than fact. It led to a series of exciting adventures in the African jungle, and one man, who was Africa's chief hunter, lost his life through being mauled by a lion while engaged in the search for giraffes.

Previously, the chief hunter had experienced a chapter of accidents. On one occasion he caught four giraffes—two for London and two for Sydney. Two of these were injured by lions while in a temporary enclosure, and one of the two which were being sent to London died in the train.

After a long interval, another permit was obtained from the Administration of Rhodesia and the hunter started out again. He captured five giraffes, but, owing to heavy rains, they all died before they could be got across a river to the railhead.

MAULED BY LION

It was on his third expedition that the chief hunter was badly mauled by a lion, and he died from his injuries some weeks later.

A leading citizen of Sydney played a part in the giraffe quest though he was not concerned in the hunt. Early last year, Sir Allen Taylor sent a letter from the Taronga Trust to General Smuts, in which the General was asked to try and get some giraffes.

Sir Allen saw General Smuts and also went to Pretoria and saw the Director of the National Zoo Gardens, A. Haagner. The latter told Sir Allen there were many difficulties and even dangers in the quest for giraffes, and this was borne out by subsequent events.

Mr. Haagner pointed out that giraffes were the most ungainly and difficult of wild animals to handle and, even after overcoming the difficulties of capture, he could not guarantee their safe transport.

That is why the Zoo chiefs of Sydney were so anxious about the giraffe that they sent an attendant to Adelaide to meet him.

LOCALS AHEAD IN BASKETBALL

Belleville Defeated the Kingston Y.M.C.A. Team By 23-19

FAULKNER A STAR

Kingston Business Men's Volley Ball Team Given Lesson

Last night's scheduled O.A.B.A. fixture at the local Association court between Kingston and Belleville Y was featured by hard checking on the part of both teams and a superior brand of shooting on the part of the local cage ballers. Phil Brooked who was in charge of the visiting team has his players well coached in team play and in handling and passing the ball and in this respect they were quite as good as the home team, but lost on what it came to shooting, Belleville won 23-19.

The game started out at a fast clip, Belleville netting the first field goal, but Kingston soon equalized when they were awarded two free throws on a foul and made both of them count. After Kingston had netted another goal from the field and added a single point from the free throw line, the game settled down to business and from that point on, had it very much their own way. Breaking loose early in the game, Faulkner commenced to "ring up" a score for his team mates, who fed him unselfishly and when the final whistle sounded he had registered 14 of his team's sixteen points. Weir getting the other two.

Throughout the second half of the game the locals were able to maintain the fast pace also the habit of regular scoring. During this time the battery work in their business to watch Faulkner closely but they failed to make a very good job on the other members of the forward line, when the score column registered just twice as frequently for Belleville as for their visitors. Armstrong, who up to this point had been experiencing the hardest kind of luck in his shooting, struck to sink five baskets, the result of some smart team work with the other setting for shooting and this combination along with Herity, Faulkner and Weir were responsible for twenty-three points before the time keeper's signal sounded.

For the boys from the Eastern City, Vince and Brunke looked best this pair being responsible for fifteen of their team's nineteen points, but even these two missed a number of shots which should have been baskets, due to their shot being just a bit off.

The teams:

Kingston		Belleville
Pollock	Forwards	Armstrong
Vince		Herity
Robinson		Barlow
Brunke
McMahon	Centre	Faulkner
Harper		Morrison
Stephen	Guards	Cole
Morris		Buchanan
Harper		Weir

VOLLEY BALL

A three game volley ball set between the Kingston Business Men and the local association, which preceded the basket ball game, was rather a one-sided affair because of the fact the Kingston Business Men are playing the game for the first time this year whereas the local devotees have had several seasons in which to improve their game.

The scores of the three games were 15-9, 15-3, 15-2.

The teams:

Kingston—Musselman, Clarke, Barneycott, Whyte, McMahon, Robinson.

Belleville—Brown, Munnings, Nurse, Bilwell, Pacey, Hafferty.

PASSAIC STRIKE MOB WAS DISPERSED BY FIREMEN WITH HOSE

Passaic, N.J., March 4.— Tear bombs, a dozen mounted police and a 60 foot fire hose were unable to disperse a crowd of 2,000 hooting, jeering textile strikers near the Botany Worsted Mills here this afternoon. As a last resort five fire companies were summoned to the scene, and the crowd was broken up with six streams of water playing from powerful nozzles in the hands of firemen and patrolmen.

As the strikers fled in all directions they were followed by patrolmen with brandished clubs, who beat those who attempted to re-form small groups. Jacksie Cerio, Mrs. Cerio and children were knocked down in the melee. Hundreds were drenched to the skin, many were injured, but only one report was made.

The scene at the Botany Mills was the first outbreak of violence since the strike began nearly six weeks ago.

Dances Are Now Held in Berlin Hotels For The First Time Since Great War

New York, March 4.—Once again there is dancing in the hotels in Berlin, and the city is gay again for the first time since the war according to Louis Adlon, proprietor of the Hotel Adlon and Continental in Berlin, who was recently at the Hotel Astor, land."

having come to New York to extend a personal invitation to members of his association to come to Berlin.

"The gala dinner dances on Thursday and Sunday evenings at the Adlon are a new feature of the social life of Berlin," said Mr. Adlon. "We had no dancing for so long after the war and the life was so different that it is quite a new departure and Berlin is gay again. The lucky number contests which I believe you had long ago here, are a feature of our gala evenings. Handsome dolls and other prizes are given to the ladies who happen to be standing on the lucky numbers, which are painted on the floor when the music stops.

"On Jan. 15, afternoon tea dances were introduced for the first time and now have also become enormously popular among society people. Thursday had been set aside as Embassy Day, when practically everybody from the diffe, ent embassies attended. These gala afternoons and evenings have virtually taken the place of the one-time court functions, as people come from different cities, as far away as London, to jazz music for dancing and a symphony orchestra for other occasions.

"The forthcoming visit of the American Hotel Association to Europe is the talk of all European hotels. The visit of American guests is of the utmost importance for two reasons. First, we shall be glad to return the hospitality extended to European hotel men on the occasion of their visit here. Again, Americans are supporters of European de luxe hotels and in fact of all first class hotels all over the world. The American is the most popular of guests because of his democratic spirit. He infuses new blood into the hotels, as it were. In the spring everybody is smiling at Adlon for they say "we shall soon greet our favorite guests—the Americans.

"Preparations are already made to receive the hotel men and we hope to give them a better time than on the occasion of their last visit in 1914. In all the social notes of the Riviera. We shall hope to have them with us in Berlin on May 5, 6, and 7, following their visit of a day each in Cologne, Wiesbaden, Frankfort and Hamburg and from Berlin they will go to Vienna, Munich and then on to Switzerland."

Mr. Adlon, who was accompanied by Mme. Adlon and their two sons, remained for about ten days in New York. He and Mrs. Adlon return to Europe, but their sons will remain in the country to study hotel methods.

WOMEN IN LONG RIDE NEVER KEPT MEN BEHIND AND LIKED THE SPEECHES

Winslow, March 4.—Two women who returned from the "Pine to Palm" automobile trip, from this city to New Orleans, one of the thirty strenuous days, say that something like this: "Up at five each morning. Breakfast. Park and on the road by 8 o'clock. Ride about 150 miles by lunch time. Lunch; speeches, etc., for three hours; Motor 150 miles. Arrive for night about 7.30. Dinner speeches until 11—same line of compliments, same type of replies, as in afternoon; dance 11 to 1 a.m.; wash hair (all the women in the party were bobbed) and hose, both of which got very dirty in the car, write letter home; fill in volume diary; take bath; sleep for three hours."

Despite this small average of rest no one noticed the fatigue, except for the first few days. The women outstayed the men in the matter of sitting still and listening to speeches. Miss Victoria Consigan and Miss Ann Bickle were two of the adventurous ones. Miss Consigan vowed the men never had to wait for any of the 19 women in the party, despite early starts, short stops and thousands of side excursions, the fact the women often had to wait for the cars in the morning. None of the women dropped out from fatigue. Southern women wore extremely short skirts, and in the majority of cases long hair.

Quite the smartest and daintiest habitue of the Sporting Club at Monte Carlo there days is the ever young Venu Tilley, who looms large the occasion of their last visit in 1914.

BY CHARLES GARVICE

CHAPTER IV.

Constance changed her dress and made a tour of her rooms. Three seconds every luxury which a woman could desire. A Collard and Collard, recently dropped, stood in the angle of the sitting room; a Chippendale writing-table supplied with innumerable materials necessary and unnecessary, was placed in good light, and a couple of, easy chairs, which seemed to woo the spectator to repose, were drawn up one behind a screen and the other to the window through which the dying sun spread a red glow over the beautiful room.

As she stood and looked round the tears rose to her eyes for the second time that day. The first time they had been called for the loving touch of the little Lord Lancebrook; now they were caused by the remembrance of the words, rude but in fine, that he had flung away. Australia. If her dear dead father could only have been with her, to enjoy the rest and ease of all the luxury, was her thought!

But Constance was not of the "crying only" order, and she rapidly brushed away her tears, and sat down and wrote a line to the kind-hearted woman of fashion, Lady Amersford, who had promised her the situation as the Curate.

Having done this, she sat and waited, scarcely knowing whether to go down stairs or to rest patiently until some one came to her.

She had not to wait long. There came a tap at the door, and she smiled as it peered with a dainty tea service in silver and Crown Derby, which she set out on one of the Chippendale tables, as a matter of course.

"Her ladyship thought you would like to have your tea up here, miss, and so," she said.

"Thank you," said Constance; but even as she said it she doubted whether she would or not have been better to go down stairs. As she was debating this in her mind and pouring out her cup of tea, the door opened very nearly and Lord Lancebrook's face with its ring gubom curls was visible.

"May I come in?" he said.

Constance nodded a welcome and he ran in and clasped his arms across her lap. Not an attitude the child took was premeditated, and it would have required a heart of stone to withstand him. Constance's heart was of the softest and whitest material.

"I am very glad you have come," she said. "Will you have some of my tea?"

"Well, I've had my tea," he said, "but I'll have a piece more to keep you company. Aglaya my tea in the nursery, thought I think I'm rather too big for that now, don't you?"

"I don't," repeated Constance. "You shall have it with me for the future, if you like."

"Really?" he exclaimed. "That will be jolly nice."

Constance smiled.

"Let me see, I am your governess, am I not?" she said.

"Yes, but I'll almost forgotten it. You are not a bit like a governess."

Constance could have hugged him.

"Well, then, I think I shall say an embargo on the word 'jolly,' it is expressive, but not pretty."

"All right," he said gravely. "I won't say it, though George always says it."

"George is a groom, you are Lord Lancebrook," said Constance, smilingly. "Though if I think George would not like him. Some more toast? Some milk?"

"Thank you, but I mustn't eat too much, for I'm going down to dessert to-day. I don't usually when there is a party; but Lord Elliott's coming to-night, I heard Cousin Rue say, and I always go into dessert when he is here. Ah, you'll like him," he added, confidently. "He is so handsome, and as very jol—I mean so very kind. He's my godfather, and in most wonderful man. He can do everything, shooting, riding and swim—oh, he can swim! He is teaching me, and he says that some day I shall dive as well as he does, but," with a doubtful sigh, "I don't think I shall. What a pretty locket that is!" he broke off to exclaim.

Constance put her hand to her bosom; a locket of black onyx had slipped from her dress, beneath which it was generally hidden.

She was putting it back when, moved by the frank curiosity of the large eyes fixed on it, she touched the spring and held the locket out to him.

"Oh!" he said in an awe-struck tone, "I know who it is. It's your father."

"Yes," said Constance, softly, and she closed the locket and hid it away in its accustomed place over her heart.

"I'm sorry I spoke about it," he said, with swift comprehension of her silent pain. "It's made you remember him. Wouldn't you like to come and see the house?" he added, in as if eager by some idea of divert ing her mind.

"Very much," said Constance.

"Come along, then," he exclaimed Hand in hand they went into the corridor, and Lord Lancebrook leaned over the bannistrade.

"That's the hall, you know that, and you've seen the drawing-room. Come into the dining-room."

"Let us go and see the nursery and schoolroom first," said Constance.

All right, this way," he returned, and led her under an archway to a large room in the south of the house.

An elderly woman with a kind and motherly face, rose forward and dropped a curtsey and Constance held out her hand.

"Lord Lancebrook and I have been making friends, nurse," she said.

"Ah, yes, miss," said the nurse, looking at him with a fond smile. "He has been telling me about you. You'll find him very tract able, she added in an undertone.

"I am sure of that," responded Constance.

"Come on, here's the schoolroom," said Lord Lancebrook, leading her into a large room, adjoining the nursery. "That's my rocking horse; that is, it was; I've got a real live pony now and Cousin Rue I don't ride that; but frankly when I have children come and see me, you know.

"And this leads to the picture gallery," he went on, taking her into another corridor, at the end of which hung a thick curtains of purple plush.

He pushed these aside with his small hands, and Constance found herself in a long gallery lined with portraits and pictures.

"I used to be afraid in come here when I was little," remarked his lordship, "they looked so fine, you know, and some of them are so ugly, aren't they? That one in the armor, the first one in the row, is Guilbert de Brakespeare, the founder of our house," he said, with an air of innocent pride. "And that's Norma in his son, and so on, there's grandpapa and there's grandma, and—"

He stopped suddenly, for the marchioness had passed through the curtains and stood behind them.

"And is doing the honors, I see, I hope he is not boring you, Miss Grahame. He ought to have allowed you a little grace after your journey."

"I am not in the least tired," said Constance.

"I was just showing her the pictures, grandma," said his lordship. "And I think she cares for this sort of thing, as you know Miss Brownjohn didn't. She said she hated portraits and fill that."

"And is rather hard on your grandpapa," said the marchioness, with a smile, as she laid her hand on the boy's cheek.

"Yes, he makes me tremble, lest I should not come up to his standard; it is rather a high one, I fear," said Constance.

The old lady glanced at the boy's eyes filled with rapt attention and childish admiration upon Constance and smiled.

"I don't think you have much cause for apprehension," she said in her low soft voice.

"And she's me," broke in Arol, stopping before a portrait of himself. "When I was quite young. Of course it isn't like me now."

Constance and the marchioness exchanged a smile, and they were passing on when Lord Lancebrook said:

"Oh, grandma, you must show Miss Grahame Uncle Wolfe's portrait."

A spasm of pain seemed to pass over the old lady's placid face, and she winced palpably.

"Not now, another time, perhaps, Arol," said Constance in a whisper, but the marchioness stopped.

"I will show it to you now, Miss Grahame," she said. "I should show it to you some time. He speaks of my eldest son Wolfe, the present marquis."

She sent up to one of the apparently again in the line, and touching a spring, solid panels which concurred now, and with her waved fingers, the panel slid back and revealed the portrait of a young man.

It was a singularly handsome face; not unlike Arol's; but there was an expression of audacity and recklessness, an air of liberality and wildness, which gave promise to itself from every feature—the flashing eye, and proudly curved lip, the low and resolute forehead, and even in the sharply knit mouth, which closed as if with ill-brooked impatience over the hunting crop.

Constance looked at it, and as she did so a strange feeling a exalted her.

She knew that she had never seen the face before, and yet in some vague way it seemed familiar to her.

"I am not in the least surprised," she said, with a quiver of motherly pride and sadness in her voice.

"Very," assented Constance almost in a whisper.

"He is my eldest, and, O ed forgive me, was always my best beloved." She put her hand to her eyes. "Perhaps that is why I am punished. But all who knew him loved him; you, notwithstanding his faults, and—and—they were many."

She paused; Constance remained silently gazing at the noble face, which formed a fascination over her she could not shake off.

"You see I speak of him as if he were dead," continued the marchioness, "and it almost seems to me as if I had lost him, as I have done she rest; it is so many years since I have seen him. He was always so wild and reckless, and his father— But it was my fault—my love made me weak and blind to his faults, and yet with all his wildness he was so lovable. My dear," and she turned her brimming eyes to Cons tance,

Printed Rayons Hold the Stage

A wonderful collection of new printed rayons has just arrived which simply mustbe seen to be appreciated.

Prints — The New Staples

"Printed silks have become a necessity in the wardrobe, they are no longer merely a passing fad—prints, once classed as 'fancies', are now staples. As we have lately grown to appreciate the beauty of softer colors, so the art of designing has grown swiftly too, and this year's designs for printed silks progress from the primitive dot, which in the earliest record we have of designs all through the whole realm of historic ornament."

DESIGNS—

The marvellous patterns make a whole story in themselves. They range from striking modernistic effects, including the popular "cut-glass" patterns, dots and zigzag checks, to more indefinite floral designs and old-fashioned all-over flower patterns. Variety is unending and no two people would choose the same "best ten" from the lot.

COLORS—

Though there are some vivid prints, soft, toned-down colors prevail, one shade often blending indefinitely into another. The shades which predominate are the various tones of rosewood, orange-browns, the new reds, the pretty new blues, yellow greens, darker greens, grey and black and white.

Beside being used for dresses, these new rayons make lovely blouses, and may be used to line spring coats, forming an ensemble costume with a matching dress.

MODERATELY PRICED AS FOLLOWS:

Dress Lengths ..... $4.50, $4.75, $5.00 and $5.50
By the Yard ..... $1.50 and $2.00
Gloriana dress lengths of rayon, printed in two-color combinations, with a pattern which shows exactly how to make the dress $4.90

The Ritchie Co., Limited

Rayon

Rayon (the generally accepted term for artificial silk) is steadily gaining in popularity as a dress fabric. It is light in weight, easily laundered if not subjected to too much scrubbing, its slippery surface sheds dust easily and it is becoming known that the invisible, energy-giving rays of the sun penetrate this material much more easily than natural silk.

STRATFORD WOMAN

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Stratford, Ontario.—"After my first baby was born I started to work on the Tenth Line and got a big wash-ing on the twelfth day. Being so young (I was married at 19) I did not know what was the matter, so let it go until I was all run-down, weak and nervous, and had a bad displacement. For nearly two years I could not sleep and I would always complain of having 'pins and needles' in my brain-ache.' My mother is taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life and she recommended it to me. After taking two bottles I began to get a little sleep and to feel better and I have never left off since then, except for three months, when I can safely say I have taken thirty bottles since my second baby was born. I find it makes child-birth easier as I had terrible pains with my first three children and very few with my fourth and it was so much stronger. I am now able to do my work alone, but I am still taking the Vegetable Compound as I am nursing baby."—Mrs. Bertie Paine, 69 Cherry Street, Stratford, Ontario.

If you are suffering from any weakness which causes such symptoms as pains in the back and back and internal feelings, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial now.

FORKE DENIES FUSION WITH LIBERALS BUT HELPS THEM

ONTARIO BUDGET WILL BE BROUGHT DOWN MARCH 11

Question of Successor to Lyons Cabinet Seat again Discussed

PREMIER WANTS TIME

O.T.A. Injected Into Debate —Redistribution is Criticized

Toronto, March 5.—In the Ontario Legislature yesterday, W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, again asked the Premier what steps were being taken to appoint a minister of lands and forests to succeed James Lyons who resigned. The Premier replied that an appointment would take time "I think I am entitled to take reasonable time. Delay is justified, because it is an important matter." Mr. Sinclair said the Prime Minister should not administer two departments as well as doing the work for the first minister.

It was announced that Hon. W. H. Price, provincial treasurer, would bring down the budget on March 11, and that the public accounts committee would meet on March 12 to commence the investigation of the operations of the Lyons Fuel & Supply Company, which Mr. Lyons desired made as soon as possible.

That appointed Cabinet ministers need not seek re-election in their constituencies was referred to a special committee of the House, along with another bill mending the Voters' List Act.

Sam Clarke, dean of the House and Liberal member for Northumberland, continued the debate on the reply to the Speech from the Throne. He criticized the previous speaker, M. M. MacBride (Conservative, Brantford), for "having much ammunition but no target, and thus shooting in the air. He declared that it was a rule of British parliamentary constitution that every riding should be represented, and that the real reason the Government had not called for by-elections in the seven vacant ridings was that it was afraid to open them up for fear of defeat.

OSTROM IS FREED NO EVIDENCE OF SUICIDE INTENT

Doctor Says Accused Could Not Have Lived on Assumed Dose

HAD BEEN WORRYING

Took Some Tablets From Bottle—Later He Collapsed

Arthur Ostrom, 1045 Front Street, charged on remand with attempted suicide, was acquitted this morning in police court after medical evidence tending to show that anything like the quantity of strychnine assumed to have been taken by Ostrom would have proved fatal had been put forward.

Dr. Mc Creary, who attended Ostrom on Feb. 22, declared there was sufficient strychnine remaining in the bottle produced, to kill more than thirty men; and there was only about one quarter of it left.

WAS FRIGHTENED

Edward Way, called by the crown, testified to having been "frightened" by Ostrom's de-pondent condition on Feb. 22, and told how he had identified various persons of his fear that defendant purposed doing away with himself.

"I have known Arthur Ostrom intimately since about last August," said witness, who is a cripple. "He has been good to me. He was de-pondent about his wife, who died some time ago, and said something about wishing he were lying beside her."

Under cross-examination by C. A. Payne, for defendant, witness said it was Ostrom's general demeanor which led to the fear that he might do something rash.

TO KILL RATS

Testimony given by Mr. Read elicited the fact that he had bought strychnine on Jan. 9th at Ostrom's request, for the ostensible purpose of killing rats. There were no rats in the place in which Ostrom lived, said witness, and after the poison had been purchased "the rats had gone."

Evidence of the pharmacist who had sold the strychnine to Read, as recorded in the police book, completed the case for the crown.

TOOK SOME TABLETS

Defendant, duly sworn, testified to having left usual on the morning of Feb. 22, and had at about 8.30 a.m. taken some headache wafers and a couple of tablets from a bottle which had been left by his wife. There, he said, had made him feel better, and later he had taken two more. Then, at about noon, he had collapsed, and Dr. Mc-Creary had been called in at about 2 p.m.

THREE CAUSES

Dr. McCreary's diagnosis pointed to any of three causes for Ostrom's condition—enemia, hysteria or strychnine poisoning. When he arrived at the house the doctor testified, he had found that Ostrom's lower limbs were rigid, and might have been caused by strychnine poisoning or either of the other causes mentioned.

Magistrate Mason said it seemed evident from the testimony Ostrom could not have taken the strychnine that was gone from the phial, and accused was discharged.

Provincial authorities refuse to disclose their names. As a result various hospitals in the city and the public clinics where people who have been bitten by dogs or cats may go for examination.

PARENT OF DEAD BOY FACES MURDER CHARGE NICKLE ORDERS PROBE

His son, John Dwyer, 12, died on Tuesday as a result, it is said, of beating, starving and exposure.

A death certificate giving the cause of death as meningitis was lagged by a doctor, retracted by him, and then re-issued, late yesterday. Both the coroner and crown attorney declared last night that no inquest would be held, but the Attorney-General's instructions this morning include orders to hold an inquest.

GREATEST TRIALS IN HISTORY SEEN BY MODERN EYES

Address Before Belleville Lodge A.F. & A.M. By Wor. Bro. Miket

WITCHES THE TARGETS

Their Trials Form Most Ludicious and Most Tragic Of All

Rt. Wor. Brother W. C. Miket, K.C., was the orator at the Lodge of Sorrow followed Past Masters Night, at Belleville Lodge last evening and in the course of a most interesting address on "The Courts and Courting and Some Interesting Trials," gave an account of some of the great trials of history.

THE TRIAL OF JESUS

Wor. Bro. Miket speaking as a lawyer said that the conviction and crucifixion of the accused in this trial was undoubtedly contrary to the law of the land at the time of the trial, and if He had been defended by an able lawyer, would have been acquitted. If He is viewed as a man and not a Divinity working out the Divine Plan of Salvation.

It is the greatest trial on record. It affected and influenced more people than any other. It marked the Cross from a sign of odium and disgrace to an emblem of the highest admiration. At the time of the conviction of the Accused He had only a few unfaithful followers. Today they number hundreds of millions and include Kings and the great rulers of the world. The material benefits alone resulting from the doctrines for which He was crucified, have been of inestimable value to humanity.

It is unfair to blame the whole Jewish people for this infamial. Some Jewish authors are immutable that the responsibility rests on Pagan Rome.

Three hundred and fifty years after this conviction authorized by the Roman Consul, Pontius Pilate, the question was submitted to the Roman Senate as to whether the religion of Christ should be that of Christ or of Jupiter, and the religion of Christ was adopted by a large majority.

THE KING V. ODO

THE STATE IS SUPERIOR TO THE CHURCH

When King William of Normandy conquered England in 1066, he brought over to England his brother Odo as Bishop who was given the English title of Earl of Kent. In 1082 King William paid a visit to Normandy and in the charge of his kinsdom his brother Odo. On the King's return he was much displeased with some of his brother Bishop's acts and ordered his arrest. None of the King's officers cared to make the arrest because Odo was a Bishop, "The King, however, made the arrest himself and cast his brother into prison thus recognizing the old Anglo-Saxon doctrine that in England the State was superior to the Church.

This doctrine was not enforced by all succeeding monarchs for King John of England on May 15th, 1213, surrendered his crown to the Papal Legate at Dover and received it back from him, thus acknowledging that he was a vassal of His Holiness the Pope and undertook to pay the Pope 1000 marks a year for the privilege of being King of England.

MAGNA CHARTA

Probably the greatest trial in England was that of King John by the Barons at Runnymede, commencing June 15th and ending June 19th, 1215, resulting in the great Charter, which has formed the basis of liberty throughout the British Empire and the United States.

ABSOLUTE MONARCH

The trial of King Charles I. A.D. 1648, resulting in the Execution of Charles, established the principle that the King of England was a constitutional and not an absolute monarch.

VANCOUVER RECTOR COMES TO KINGSTON CATHEDRAL

BEGIN SYSTEMATIC SEARCH FOR FIVE THOUGHT DROWNED

Leamington, Ont., Mar. 5.—Two dozen farmers with ice sleds and sleighs to-day began systematic search of the 18-mile ice-road between Leamington and Pelee Island in Lake Erie for James Phipps, his wife and their three children, Paul, 9, Hazel, 5, and Elmer, 3, missing since Monday when they started from the Island for the mainland in their automobile. Although hope has been abandoned that the family has survived days of exposure, searchers hope to find some evidence as to the fate of the five. There is a large stretch of open water near the ice road ten miles from the island and this was being dragged to-day.

THEY TALK ONLY IN UNITS OF THOUSANDS IN NEW JERSEY

Passaic, N.J. Mar. 5.—Woolen mill operators to-day have under consideration the proposal for a complete shut down of the woolen mills, while strikers hailed yesterday's peaceful parade of 4,000 workers as a moral victory over the police who have broken up previous gatherings. Approximately 7,000 workers are on strike, 4,000 are out of work as a result of the strike and an additional 4,000 would be affected by a shut down.

Insurance Men Hold Luncheon Hear Expert Tell What's What

Local life underwriters listened today at the Queen's Hotel to an hour's discourse delivered by Mr. Ernest Moulds, district manager of the Excelsior Life Assurance Company, Brockville, which rambled now lightly, now seriously over many aspects of the insurance situation, particularly as touching upon the advantages derivable for membership in the Dominion Life Underwriters Association.

ALL GOOD MEN

Declaring that the writing of life insurance no longer was business, but had attained the dignity of a profession, Mr. Moulds assigned almost the entire credit for this improvement in the status of the "life" man to the work of the association.

"When I first worked out of Winnipeg," he declared, "some sixteen years ago," said the speaker, "I was ashamed to tell my friends what I was doing. I felt dishon I was travelling for a hardware store. Now I am proud to register at any hotel as a life insurance man.

Secretary-Treasurer Mr. Moulds said, was responsible for this change in the general attitude.

ALL IS CHANGED

Reminiscent on selling insurance in the older days in the middle west, he recalled that "when we went out to visit the foreign settlements, if we were not met with the business end of a gun, we were at least confronted with the business end of a pitchfork or the tooth of a dog. Now they welcome us with an extended hand."

Emphasizing the value of the association and the necessity of signing up more members for it, he said it was through the endeavours of the national body that numerous pieces of beneficial legislation had been enacted, such as making the accepting or giving of rebates on first premiums a criminal offence, stabilization of benefits in the different provinces, and so on.

CHARTERS

"It is possible, now," he added, "to become a Chartered Life Underwriter, and the time will come when practically all business is written by chartered men with diplomas, just as the member of the Chartered Accounts Institute now is able to go to work on a better social footing than the accountant who has no degree.".

ELSEWHERE

Mr Moulds, having asked the assembled company whether any member present had sold or tried to sell life insurance in any other country, and received an answer in the negative, proceeded to draw a few distinctions between the conduct of the business in England and in Canada.

Speaking with a pronounced north country accent, he intimated delicately that those who pursued the vocation in England were not to be rewarded, animated by quite such altruistic motives as were their professional brethren on this side of the Atlantic.

SALARIES

He added that life underwriters in Canada were last year paid a bishop aggregate in salaries than was any other class of professional men.

Mr. Moulds, as toast captain for Eastern Ontario in the membership drive which is taking place for the Dominion Underwriters Association, has achieved forty-one per cent. of the Brockville objective, the next highest percentage recorded is 19 per cent. by J. British Columbian, Mr. Harold Davidson, the local secretary, explained.

FORKE TO HELP GOVERNMENT IN ITS PROGRAMME

Party to Co-operate Openly On a Legislative Basis

NEED CONSULTATION

Forke and Chief Whip Issue Statement—Fusion Not Contemplated

Ottawa, March 5.— Having gone through the initiation test of swallowing their cherished principles regarding the sacredness of free speech in voting the appointment of the baneful clouture, Hon. Lert Forke and his Progressive executive committee have now virtually been admitted to the Mackenzie King cabinet. They do not take portfolios, they ask that they be not considered as part of the Government and they will not move or second the right of the Speaker in the House of Commons where they can be interrogated by the Opposition on the legislation for which they are to be responsible, but outside the House they are to function with and as part of the Government.

Not being members of the Government in name, Mr. Forke and his colleagues of the executive committee may not attend Ministerial council meetings in the Privy Council room: that would be unconstitutional. To circumvent that constitution the cabinet secretary has to the Prime Minister's office and there the Progressive take their place at the table. Mr. King presiding. At this meeting of this new-fangled cabinet council was held today.

While the Progressives refuse to be designated as part of the, Government, they admit to an extension of the meaning of the favorite term "co-operation." They have dropped the pretence that this co-operation is not a negotiated agreement. And the two memiaa, Mr. Forke and his followers have been solemnly declaring that there was no agreement, no bargain, and professing that they merely intend to vote with the Government because they fancied the Speech from the Throne. They now announce that they are henceforth to "co-operate openly" with the Government on the basis of "consultation" with the leaders.

In a statement the Progressive leader and his whip, H. E. Spencer, explained to the public the new terms on which the Progressives and the Government and the Progressive party. It is based "to prevent any misunderstanding and speculation by the press," and so that the people may know just what "co-operation" means

It is learned from this statement that there is to be no coalition or fusion of the groups participating in the co-operation. The Progressives feel that they are in a better position to force the Government to keep its promises if they merely cobalt with it instead of becoming part of it. If they were part of it they would be in the position of having to break promises to themselves should the Prime Minister resent He would have them at his mercy.

They are going to sit in consultation with the Government on the statement intimates, when legislation is being formulated. These would have been little misunderstanding either if the statement, as it was known that that was what they were going to do and had been doing, but they had not hitherto admitted it.

OTTAWA'S UNHOLY TRIO

The most remarkable and illuminating spectacle of three Anti-British members of the Commons, Messrs. Woodsworth and Heaps of Winnipeg, and Bourassa of Montreal, remaining sullenly seated while the National Anthem was sung in the House the other night is of particular interest to South Hastings.

Why?

It was South Hastings' Member who started the loyal anthem and prayer for His Majesty, in the House was resessing. W. Ernest Tummon, M.P., as all Canada knows by this time is a singer. Ottawa knows him well. He is one of the new men down there who have made hosts of friends. As the critical moment approached someone said: "Come on, Ernie (They call him that) Start The King."

He did. It was a notable event. Many said they never remembered the National Anthem being sung in the House before. Everybody at once got to his feet, even the galleries joining, in this tribute of respect to His Majesty,—except the unholy trio.

And now, through the action of Mr. Tummon, everybody in Ottawa and the whole country knows just where this unholy trio not stands but sits.

THE CAPITAL CITY

One reason perhaps, why Canadians are apt to think provincially rather than nationally, says the Hamilton Spectator in a very able article, is that they have their minds too much centered on their immediate neighborhood—the requirements of their province rather than the requirements of the country, ofe hich that provinces forms a part. Similarly, effective is placed too exclusively on the particular section of Canada in which the citizen happens to reside; he or she seldom gives a thought to what is going on in other sections equally important, and perhaps more so. There is a need to "think nationally" and even a larger need than that, to "think imperially", in the famous phrase. What can be done to break down this insularity of ideas? How can the dweller of Ontario be made to enter more fully into the aspirations of the dweller in the west, or in Quebec, or in the Maritime provinces, and vice versa? Canada is a Confederation; does the average citizen look instinctively as he should, beyond the confines of his own province when considering gital national problems? If not, it is obviously vain to expect any great improvement in the situation. The part never can be made to contain the whole, as Euclid long ago demonstrated to the satisfaction of all rational people. At the present time, we are confronted with the spectacle at Ottawa, through political exigencies, of rampant sectionalism. Each faction is trying to take advantage of the situation for its own especial benefit. It is natural enough, no doubt, but not the less to be deplored.

It has been suggested that one way by which this unfortunate attitude could be corrected would be to cultivate a greater pride and interest in the capital of the Dominion. What London is to the Englishman, what Washington is to the citizen of the United States, Ottawa should be to the Canadian. It is the seat of national government; not a clearing-house for provincial ideas, but the controlling center of the nation's destiny. It should be regarded as the heart as well as the brain of the country—and the heart bespeaks affection. This idea is being taken up on patriotic grounds, and an effort is being made to create a more general interest on the part of Canadians in their capital city. It is a city which belongs in a peculiar sense to all the people. One sometimes hears the suggestion that it should be set aside as a federal district. Whether there is any merit or not in that proposal it is not the intention to discuss but that there is a need, as many observers agree, for cultivating a broader national sentiment, no one will dispute. If it can be done by focussing the attention of Canadian citizens upon their capital city, the attempt should most certainly be made. Every move which promotes the unity and homogeneity of the nation is deserving of encouragement.

SLANDERING CANADA

The Sunday edition of a Chicago paper that makes a bid for circulation in Ontario has a line on the corner of the front page which announces "Canadian Edition."

Looking over the raft of pages one finds three items of Canadian news:

1—That a committee has just been appointed to investigate charges of robbery, graft and crookedness preferred by Mr. Stevens of "Van Couver". The dispatch about the committee "just" being appointed was dated Feb. 20, whereas the committee has been at work for two weeks.

2—Another Ottawa story about the officials being driven to action by an outraged public opinion to take some drastic action to stop the operations of white slavers in Canada. The one bright spot in an otherwise drab situation is "the activity of the United States police along the international boundary line."

3—"Poison Pen Letters Rock Capital—All Circles Penetrated by Letters." There was a real scandal, homes were being broken, husbands becoming suspicious of other men. In fact Ottawa was in a rotten state all through. The poison pen business was investigated weeks ago. A few anonymous letters had been written, most of them finding their way to the scrap basket.

Yet, it is on the strength of such weird, unwholesome and garbled stories that this Chicago paper has the colossal gall to call it a "Canadian edition."

It is not a Canadian edition because it is filled to the neck with U.S. stories of family triang'es, rotten feeture plots, pages that gloat over the sordid details of murder yarn.

It is not a Canadian edition because it smacks of unwholesome thought. It is not a fair interpretation of Canadian activity—simply a couple of sensational stories that existed in the diseased brain of an Ottawa correspondent, who was prepared to picture scandal as Canada's greatest by-product, because he could readily turn it into revenue.

The wonder is that Canadians are such easy-marks as to keep on forking out their currency for reading matter that so deliberately slanders their own country.

TESTS OF ORTHODOXY

A need of the times appears to be a standard, uniform test of orthodox religious belief. At present practice is dangerously unsystematic. For instance, in Holland a clergyman is on trial for heresy because he has expressed doubts as to whether the serpent that tempted Eve was a real serpent—"a creeping creature"; his accusers holding that to doubt this is evidence of heresy; in Toronto Dr. Shields and his Baptist followers make acceptance of the story of Jonah as a historical occurrence the classic test of orthodoxy; while in Tennessee and Mississippi a literal interpretation of the Biblical story of the creation is insisted upon as the only safe test.

But if different tests are to be recognized in different places, is there not likely to be confusion and perplexity? Orthodoxy and heresy may be merely matters of geography. In Toronto a man might be strictly orthodox, and yet if he went to Holland or the Southern States he would be in danger of ostracism as a heretic. The fundamentalists should get together and agree upon a standard test, so that the separation of the sheep from the goats may become an easy task.

MR. BALDWIN'S RISE

J. L. Garvin, in London Observer:

He dashed his first majority to pieces, streagthened his hold on his party, and came back to enhanced power in 12 months. He embraced M. Poincare in the Ruhr crisis and has presided at the signature of the Locarno Pact. By the subsidy he staggered faith, but restores it and enhances it by rising to the full height of the task of national reconstruction which no Government since the Armistice had faced. He is addressing himself to the supreme business of a coal settlement in a manner suggesting that in his usual fashion he has learned every thing from his damaging crisis last July. He now numbers amongst his followers three men who were stars of Liberalism—Mr. Churchill, Mr. Reginald McKenna and Sir Alfred Mond. The Premier could frame at any moment a stronger Cabinet than his present one. He has put Widows and Orphans Pensions on the statute book. In further support of Mr. Neville Chamberlain, he drives at house-building with a pluck that wins support from Mr. Rosslyn Mitchell and Mr. Kirkwood.

ROYALTY AND SHAKESPEARE

The most widely-read member of the Royal Family is, without doubt, Princess Marie Louise. She is also a very acute critic of current literature. I remember once hearing Sir Sidney Lee say that Her Highness had tripped him up over a quotation, which proves that she knows her Shakespeare pretty thoroughly. And when someone asked her what she considered an ideal bedside book, she instantly replied, in the words of Macaulay: "Shakespeare first and the rest somewhere."

But Shakespeare has not always been popular with royalty. Queen Victoria only tolerated him because the Consort said he was England's chief possession. King Edward would sometimes see his plays on State occasions, but seldom remained awake after the second act. And King George, though he likes "Julius Caesar", and a few of the comedies, once remarked: "I am not ashamed to confess that for an enjoyable evening I prefer The Maude to 'Hamlet'."

Mother—You were very wrong to disobey me, and I have punished you to impress it on your mind.

Son—Mamma, aren't you mistaken in regard to the position of my mind?

GREAT TRIALS TOLD MASONS

created a great deal of interest and made the accused in each case heroes.

MAN OR WOMAN

Years ago the law made a husband on marriage liable for his wife's debts instead of the wife. When this condition of law existed there lived in Birmingham, England, a person who was sued for debt. The defence set up was that the defendant was a married woman and appeared in Court dressed as a woman and claimed that on that account could not be made liable. The evidence showed that for many years defendant had dressed as a woman and was known as Elizabeth; also that defendant for years had dressed as a man, and was known as John and went around with men, attended the public house, used tobacco, swore, kissed the girls, courted a young woman, married her, lived with her till she died, then ran away with another girl. The case occupied four days before a crowded court room. Finally the court determined defendant was a man, gave judgment against him accordingly and on default of payment committed defendant to prison where it was found that defendant was in reality a woman, being the wife of a man then living in Shropshire.

WITCHES

No one now believes in witches and yet there was a time when the people in America, England and the rest of Europe did hold such beliefs.

The trials of witches form the most ludicrous and at the same time the most tragic reading of all trials. The moral reformers who assist to rid the world of witches were sincere. They claimed that they were supported by Divine authority in the Bible, and by continuous agitation worked up a strong public sentiment to aid them. Like all moral reformers they first convinced themselves that the object of their attack was linked up with the devil and they then felt justified in going to any extreme. The more religious the people the harsher the treatment of the poor witch.

COMPLAIN ABOUT DOG

Complaints have been made to the police relative to an Airdale dog which appears during the day time makes his home on Bridge Street east, between Griffin's opera house and Front Street. This canine has the habit of running after and barking at every vehicle which passes to and fro on this thoroughfare. He also has the idea that it is within his rights to attack a person who is upon a bicycle and he has done so repeatedly much to the discomfort of the rider.

BOSTON BEATS MAROONS 3-2

Are Now Sitting Pretty, Fairly Sure of Third Place

MAROONS NEED LUCK!

Team Has Been Severely Crippled and is Up Against It

Forum, March 5.—Montreal's best chance of clinching a play-off berth in the N.H.L. race presented itself last night, when Maroons met the colorful Boston Bruins here. A win for the local team would have definitely placed them in the elimination series. The loss necessitates a further fight for the Maroons to qualify. The Maroons lost to Boston 3-2; figure it out.

Boston were in a tight race with Pittsburgh for third place and needed a win to keep them in front of the speedy Pirates. The Bruins were all out to take the honors. The Boston players felt that Montreal would soon-er meet Pittsburgh in the play-off than the Bruins and were doubly determined to take the laurels. In the previous meeting between the two teams here Boston won 5-0.

Montreal went into the game again handicapped though not as severely as last Tuesday, when the Maroons fell before Pittsburgh. Siebert was back at left wing after missing one game through automatic suspension, while Hap Noble, steady defence man, was in uniform for the first time in two weeks, having been inactive through a fracture of the skull sustained in a collision with Hooley Smith at Ottawa two weeks ago.

Munro paired with Kitchen on the defence to start. However, Munro has been confined to bed in the last two days with a cold and a sore ear. He was not able to last the route.

For the ninth time this year the Forum was crowded for a National Hokey game. The crowd was not as large as for some previous contests here, but it was estimated that 9,500 were comfortably packed into the rink.

The teams were even 2-2 when the final period opened. Bruins got the only goal in that encounter. Now Bruins are sitting pretty.

MADOC PLAYS TICKER MEN

Return Game Tonight at Local Ice Palace

Sure to Thrill

Where to go to-night? Why down to Gar. Arnott's ice palace at 8 p.m. and watch the Canadian National Telegraphers electrify the huge crowd with a stirring match of hockey against the Madoc High School team. The boys from the north have a four goal lead, but the Electrical Elements claim they can fry that four goal lead down to a cinder in the first round and go on the net for two winning walkins away (maybe).

The Telegraphers have added an additional sub to the list and now have a full quota of players, and along with the manager, imported for the occasion from Thurlow, are expected to give the Madockers a fine game. The Madoc team is composed mostly of Juniors or just over the junior limit and are a fine husky bunch of players. Henderson on the defence would look nice in a Belleville Junior sweater, and his running mate, Tufts, who wears spectacles covered with a shield, are the high lights of the team.

But the Telegraphs are no slouches when it comes to the pastime and will give the crowd a fine game of hockey, in cutting down that four goal lead. Now or never and the time is 8 p.m.

OLD PETERBORO FIRM HAS BEEN REORGANIZED

Peterboro, March 5.—It has just been announced that the William Hamilton Company, Limited, has been reorganized throughout and its financial position greatly strengthened by a new bond issue, a privately subscribed flotation of which the major portion has been absorbed in Montreal, Quebec, Winnipeg and Peterborough.

The reorganized company will operate under the name of William Hamilton, Limited, and headquarters will remain in this city.

The plant will soon be working at capacity and many more men will be employed than are at present engaged in the various operations in the big foundry. P. P. Weakye, president of the newly organized firm, stated that while there were approximately 100 men working at present, if the plant were running to capacity, from 200 to 250 men could be given work. He was not able to state whether or not the present factory space would be expanded.

JUNIOR TITLE FOR KINGSTON

Last night in Toronto, Owen Sound won 4-3, but had lost previously in Kingston 4-0. Kingston therefore wins the round and title 7-4.

TIGERS CAPTURE CITY LOOP TITLE

Tigers are champions of the City League by reason of the defeat last night of Pastimes at the hands of Albert College, the score being 5-4.

Had Pastimes won they were conceded an outside chance, but only four of them were on hand, and one of the missing players was Murray, the goal tender. Doyle, O'Donahoe, Carmichael and Smith were on the job and all did well, but were too heavily handicapped.

LONDON RAVENS MAKE SPLENDID IMPRESSION

Toronto, March 5.—Chasing the elusive hockey ticket is the chief pastime of Toronto fans. Never before has there been such a demand for seats for an O.H.A. senior final and indications are the greatest crowd to see a hockey game in this city will pack the Arena Gardens tonight for the first game between London Ravens and Peterboro. Two thousand bleacher seats will go on sale at the north end at 7.30.

Bill Marsden led his London Ravens into Toronto yesterday morning and within an hour after arrival they were working out at the Gardens. A large number of rink birds were on hand for the practice and were much impressed with the speed and fast, accurate passing of the Group No. 2 champions. Though a much lighter team than Peterboro, the Ravens are lightning fast skaters and very shifty, and appear capable of keeping away from heavy body checking.

Altogether the Big Six champions left the fans satisfied that the Peterboro crew will meet a real good team. One that can match them in speed and perhaps go them one better in combination. With the exception of Harold Parker, the Peterboro players are in splendid condition and Ray Rose will fill Parker's place on the defence nicely. The game looms up as the battle of the year and Peics should have a two-goal handicap to take to London for the return game next Tuesday if they hope to pull out on the long end of the round score.

Letters To The Editor

FROM VOX POPULI

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Sir,—Your recent laudable advocacy of the practice of purchasing everything possible in Canada impels me to call your attention to a curious instance that has just come to my notice, indicating perhaps thoughtlessness rather than a deliberate intent on the part of those responsible. It seems to be a case of helping our neighbours to the "south of us at the expense of our own workers and merchants.

As a member of a local church I received an envelope requesting my customary Lent self-denial contribution. Nothing strange about that, of course, but when, on opening the Ogle envelope I never, I noticed that it was marked "Made in the U.S.A." It occurred to me that here had been assigned for the church an example that old maxim that Charity begins at home; that that the church hadn't seized it.

Yours faithfully,
VOX POPULI.

In a C.N.R. game the Shops No. 2 and the Road Dept. each count one point, both teams rolling a tie score in the third game, 753 each. If this point makes any difference in the standing the game will be replayed. High bowlers in this game were Roberts and Austin.

The Bakers won two points from the Canada Cement Co. in the Industrial League the Cement boys came through in the last game with a 945 score to count one point. B. Charlton and D. Doyal rolled the six highest scores for their respective teams.

In a post-poned game in the senior league, the Wanderers set the Hardware back a notch when they won from them by 173 pins, the Wanderers going over 1000 to each of their three scores. This was the first Hardware's now puts them in second place, with the Tigers in first place, and two more games for each team to play.

COUNTESS VERA STAYS IN STATES BY COURT ORDER

Notorious Englishwoman Had Been Refused on Moral Grounds

New York, March 5.—Countess Cathcart won her suit to remain in this country today when federal Judge Bondy sustained a writ of habeas corpus after district attorney Buckner had entered in the record that immorality does not constitute a crime under the laws of the Union of South Africa. The countess has been refused entry into United States by immigration authorities on the ground of moral turpitude after her admission that she had the accompanied Earl of Craven to South Africa from England while both were married.

Not a Rolling Pin In Sight As Jiggs Supper Is Consumed

Not a rolling pin was brandished, not an unkind word was "spoke" and for once a Jiggs and Maggie meal was enjoyed without Dinty Moore interrupting proceedings or Maggie running amuck. So the corn beef and cabbage supper given in the Y.M.C.A. last evening for the Girl Guides was a real success and every one of the nearly three hundred people present had a thoroughly good time and the good time was augmented by the subsequent financial satisfaction of depositing $150 to the Girl Guides Camp account.

ATE 120 POUNDS OF BEEF

His Royal Highness may have suffered from sore hands after shaking the hands of scads of people at different receptions in Canada, but it is safe to say Mr. Alf. Gillen and Capt. Alan Harper have "carve's cramp" today for they carved no less than 120 pounds of beef for the multitude and they did it well.

This was dashed from the kitchen (where Mrs. Alf. Gillen, Miss Hurley, Mrs. C. C. Walker, Mrs. W. N. Ponton and Miss Jessie Hay were busy cooking it with fragrant cabbage), by the girl guides, each attired in uniform.

THE TABLES

The long tables were most appropriately decorated with clematis, crepe paper, cabbages and rolling pins and every imaginable food accessory to eat, which harmonized with corn beef and cabbage, and so in the fragrant atmosphere such leading citizens as Mayor Graham, Colonel Ponton, Mr. Harry Ackerman, W. C. Mikel, Alderman Collins and Alderman Hyde substituted that the national dish of Ireland went several better than petite de foie gras, parfaite, or other dishes lesser nations are famed for. The Kiwanians demonstrated what Kiwanians can eat and may eat all of them are at work this morning—no casualties in all the twenty, who joined the supper party.

FOUR SAVED FROM FLAMES

Toronto, March 5.—Using extension ladders, firemen early today rescued Charles A. Walker, his wife and two children when they were trapped by smoke and flames in an attic at their home. Six other members of the household were forced to the street in night clothing with the temperature at zero. An overheated furnace is believed to have been cause of fire.

WESTERN LEPER COLONY CONTAINS NINE PERSONS

Victoria, B.C., Mar. 5.—As a result of the application of the latest methods known to science, leprosy and black despair are no longer synonymous terms they once were at Bentinck Island, Canada's only leper colony on the Pacific coast.

But in spite of the healing effects of Chaulmoogra oil and the sanitary and recreational advantages now offered which a few years ago were not available, Bentinck Island is still regarded as Canada's isle of tears.

At present there are only nine lepers on the island, seven of them being Chinese and two Russians. It is seldom that white people living on this side of the Pacific fail victim to the dread distase. Af Ben-

GRIFFIN'S NOW PLAYING

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

"Thunder Mountain," the William Fox production which will be shown at the Belle Theatre today and Saturday, is a highly romantic and tensely dramatic story of the crisis people of the Blue Mountain mountains, Hemmed in the midst of gorgeous natural surroundings under the able direction of Victor Schertzinger.

It is a picture in which pathos is pleasingly blended with homely comedy, where tolerance and intolerance wait hands hand; a picture filled with thrilling situations, sudden dramatic pauses—with an ending as different as it is unexpected.

Leslie Fenton is Sam Martin, the mountain boy, whose ambitions to educate his people are finally realized, and who unwillingly falls in love with Madge.

Zasu Pitts is Mandy an illiterate mountain girl, Emily Fitzroy is the neurotic "Ma" MacBirney, with whom little Azalea lives after her infant mother the mountaineers and Dan Mason is "Pa" MacBirney who dares not call his house his own.

Don't miss it.

AT GRIFFIN'S

For the first time in the history of motion pictures the picture-goers have exercised their rights and created a star without the consent of a film producer.

Norma Shearer who has risen from the extra ranks to stardom in less than three years, is the star of the picture-goers.

Many other picture stars are worthy of stardom and the public has granted recognition because their artistry was approved, but it was Mr. and Mrs. Public alone, who elevated Norma Shearer to stardom and regarded her as a great star long before Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer announced she had been granted all the rights and perquisites which go with this classification.

Exhibitors from all classes of towns, ranging from New York City to Podunk, have found that Miss Shearer's name outside a theatre invariably draws the picture-goer to the box office. Ascertaining this the public has certain rights with its film favorites. Louis B. Mayer, head of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, has announced that from now on Miss Shearer will be seen only in starring roles.

Her first appearance as a star is made at the Griffin Theatre in "The Tower of Lies," in which she shares honors with Lon Chaney, also a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star. The picture is a screen adaptation of Selma Lagerlof's prize-winning Swedish novel, "The Emperor of Portugallia," and was adapted for film purposes by Agnes Christine Johnston.

Under her contract with Louis B. Mayer, Miss Shearer has played the favored feminine roles in many pictures.

linck Island the lepers live in a world of their own and while there is an element of tragedy in their colony, they are spared much of the suffering which at one time was their lot, even though they may never leave the island as cured.

The patients live in partitioned cottages large enough to accommodate two. They are well fed and clothed and the mild winter makes the problem of maintenance a much lesser one than it is at Canada's east ern leper colony at Pracaderie, N. B.

Alone on the island except for the Dominion government staff, consisting of two attendants and a woman nurse, the patients probably find their greatest comfort in the gardens which they maintain themselves.

More than 2,000 people were made homeless by fire which destroyed twenty blocks of houses at Newport, Arkansas.

Former Assessor J. H. Schnarr charged that there were many irregularities in the assessment at Kitchener.

U. S. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon disagrees with his assistant as to need for probe of prohibition situation.

Fascist Cabinet of Rome created an autonomous fund for amortization of British and United States war debts.

WAS A BELOW

March like par is reaching up its reputation for cold weather. At an early hour last morning, according to the mercurial temperature as registered in the city pumping station, it was 5 degrees below zero and it certainly felt it. Yesterday it was cool with a maximum of 11 above zero. The figures for yesterday and the same date last year are as follows:

	High	Low
March 4, 1926	11	2
March 4, 1925	22	8

Tenders will be received by the undersigned for the privilege of erecting seats on the Agricultural grounds, Belleville, at the 12th of July Celebration, July 12th, 1926, also for all booths except the one reserved by the Parks Board. WHEN CROWN WITHDREW CASE

"Cowardly and contemptible," was the manner in which Magistrate Masson characterized the conduct of a defendant in discharging him this morning.

"You have something to be proud of for the rest of your life," said His Worship scathingly: "To set a young girl into this trouble and then leave her."

The crown withdrew its case on evidence being put forward that an alleged promise of marriage said to have been made by defendant was conditional upon certain eventualities, and would not therefore place the action of the defendant in the category of an indictable offence. The magistrate herself testified the promise was conditional, and defendant was discharged.

THE PARKS BOARD

On Monday evening next in the city building, the members of the Parks Board will meet to organize for the year. The personnel of the committee is the same as last year and the probabilities are that there will be no change in the offices.

VICTORIA, VANCOUVER MECCAS FOR MOTORISTS

Victoria, B. C., March 5.—Almost as many people as the entire population of British Columbia came to the province last year in automobiles from outside points, according to government figures compiled here.

Altogether 106,176 foreign cars entered British Columbia last year through nineteen points of entry which have so far returned their figures. These cars brought 454,714 passengers, while in the previous year 75,681 foreign cars with 404,405 passengers came to the province.

The growth in motor traffic to and from the province has more than kept pace with the expansion of the highway system, although the government's road programme is extensive. The road mileage of the province outside municipal roads has increased almost fifty percent. in nine years, and now aggregate 17,020 miles. The province's investment in roads, bridges and ferries totals $56,500,000.

NEW PUBLICATION TO ASSIST QUEBEC

Journal Launched in London By Dr. L. J. Lemieux—To Be Issued Monthly

London, March 5.—"Quebec", the first publication representative of a Canadian province, ever published in Europe, has been launched in London by Dr. L. J. Lemieux, Agent-General for the province of Quebec. The February number, which is the first issue, shows it to be a handsome monthly publication with cover in blue and gold.

"The object of this review," says an editorial foreword, "which is essentially non-political, will be primarily to cause to be better known in this country the immense resources and possibilities of Quebec, and it should make an especial appeal to British sympathy; and even to British capital and co-operation. One of our chief objects will also be to try to convey to the British public a better and truer conception of Quebec's own mentality and ideals and its cultural mission in the Dominion."

"Quebec," says Dr. Lemieux in an introductory article by its editor, is a rich soil, its healthy and bracing climate and its geographical position, is destined to have a population of at least 75,000,000 and become Canada's largest manufacturing centre and wealthiest province."

MOVIE STARS MUST KEEP AHEAD IN DRESS STYLES

Why?

Because here the movie stars' apparel must predict the mode for at least six months in advance. Long after it has reached that many women look to the screen for their fashions and this is one reason why the picture must depict what is to come in the way of clothes.

In costume pictures the question becomes one of turning backward and this is not so much trouble. But in modern, up-to-the-minute photo plays the actors sometimes are hard put to accomplish the feat of being exquisitely and pre-modishly gowned.

To find their fashions, the stars turn to the different centres: their confidantes and flair for clothing, the famous designing experts who have come to Hollywood, and the salons of Paris.

For example, when Marie Prevost was given the lead in Warner Brothers, "The Caveman," she learned from the script that she was to be a sophisticated, smartly-gowned woman of cosmopolitan society. She then conferred with Director Lewis Milestone and it was decided to consult a famous designer.

BRITISH COLUMBIA HAS WOMAN PREACHER

Victoria, B. C., March 5.—British Columbia has its first woman preacher. She is Rev. Ada Tonkin, and will have charge of the Victoria Unitarian Church.

Mrs. Tonkin, who is a native of England, was brought up in a distinctly religious atmosphere, her father being a London City missionary. She was brought up in Orthodoxy, passing from an early association with the Baptists through Congregationalism to Unitarianism. In 1921 she entered Manchester College, Oxford, and was graduated in 1923.

She distinguished herself by her able work in connection with the Unitarian Sunday School at Oxford in 1923 and in the following year she took charge of the Dewsbury Church, where her labors met with marked success.

Rev. J. Buchanan Tonkin, her husband, recently took over the pastorate of the Vancouver Unitarian Church and husband and wife expect to exchange pulpits frequently.

HE WOULD CURB EXPORT BRITISH WORKS OF ART

But Another Member of Commons Says Pictures Must be Sold Occasionally in Order to Live.

London, March 5.—Sir Henry Slesser introduced his bill in the House of Commons intended to curb the growing habit of rich residents of the United States in buying British works of art and transporting an ancient or historic buildings piecemeal to the United States but the Government gave no indication that further facilities would be afforded for its enactment.

"There is a constant flow of some of the most beautiful British works of art to the United States, most of which never will come back," Sir Henry said. "The same thing is true of historical documents, records and books relics which every patriot ought to desire to see retained instead of becoming subject to traffic and sold to the highest bidder.

Sir Henry views were countered by Frank G. Rye, Conservative, who insisted that Great Britain was a free country and that the King's subjects should not be interfered with in dealing in their own possessions. Referring to pictures, Mr. Rye declared it was necessary for the owners to sell one occasionally in order to keep their big country houses in repair.

HONEY CROP SHOWS SLIGHT DECREASE

Victoria, B.C., March 5.— The bee-keeping industry of British Columbia showed a steady advance last year, according to the annual report of W. J. Sheppard, provincial apiarist, just published.

The total number of bee keepers reporting in 1925 was 2426, against 2408 in 1924. At the end of the year there were 15,505 hives compared with 14,994 in the previous year.

The honey crop showed a slight falling off, being estimated at 670,000 pounds as against 673,282 pounds in 1924. This was due in large measure to the protracted drought of last summer and the smoke of forest fires, which shortened the honey flow considerably.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"there was not a mother in the county that did not envy me my handsome, generous, headstrong boy!"

"Where is he now?" asked Constance, gently.

The marchioness shook her head.

"I do not know. His last letter, three months ago, was dated from America. He may not be there now. He could never stay long in one place. I wrote to him telling him of his father's death —I had not known where to write for years before that—and begging him to come home. He is the marquis, the owner of all Brakespeys, you know," she said, with touching simplicity.

"And did he not reply?"

The old lady wiped her tears away.

"Yes, he sent me his love and kind messages for all of them, but no word of his return. He may come back at any moment; it would be like him; he may not come back till I am not here to welcome him! Close the panel, my dear, it moves quite easily. I could not bear to have his face uncovered, looking down at me and reminding me that perhaps I had seen him for the last time."

Constance closed the panel, and the marchioness, after a moment or two, turned to her with a smile through her tears.

"I am afraid you will think I am a very doleful old lady, Miss Cre hame," she said, "but it is only when I am talking of my son that I give way, and I do not often speak of him. I hope you are quite comfortable in your rooms. They are near Arol's, and he has no doubt shown you. I was coming to tell you when I saw you here. We are going to have a few friends to dine to night; will you join us, or would you prefer to dine alone in your own rooms? You shall do just as you please. It is not a dinner party, just a few friends. Lord Elliot, our nearest neighbor, and the rector and his wife."

"I should like to come often, Lady Brakespeare," said Constance, simply.

"Very well, my dear. We will see at eight. You will hear the bell, Arol, I suppose, must come in to dessert?"

"Of course, grandma; Lord Elliot's coming," asserted his little lordship. "Let's go into the gardens, Miss Grahame."

"Yes, but don't tire Miss Grahame out the first day," said the marchioness and she left them.

They went along the stately terrace into the garden, and Lord Lancebrook showed Constance his own particular flower bed—which was the only one in which nothing seemed to thrive, and he was taking her on to the stables to see his pony, when he have appeared and carried him off.

Constance went back to the house with them, and looked over her slender wardrobe for something suitable for the occasion. She had not thought that she would be asked to join in any of the dinner parties at the castle,and had no evening dress. There was nothing but a plain black silk, but she put some lace at the throat and sleeves and was content. She was not the kind of girl to endure agonies of shame or envy because she lacked a fully-quinea costume of Worth's.

"I thought I'd show you the way down; you might feel shy, being the first time," he explained naively.

He was magnificently dressed in purple as tin, with broad old Honiton collar and cuffs, and looked as if he had stepped out of one of the frames in the picture gallery.

"You look so grand that I scarcely dare kiss you in case I should spoil you!" said Constance.

"I'll risk that, Miss Grahame," he said, putting up his face. "Of course I've got my best things on because Lord Elliot's coming, you know. He gave me this watch-case," he added, stopping on the stairs and looking out a tiny one. "It's a very good timekeeper. I wound it up once, but I'm afraid—and—ah!" he broke off with a cry of delight, "here he is!" and he drew his hand from hers and sprang from the stairs into the arms of a gentleman who had just entered the hall.

The gentleman caught him deftly, and with the ease of an athlete swung him up on his broad shoulder, then took ed up at Constance with a laugh, which died away as he saw that she was strange to him.

Constance, even if she had not heard so good an account of him from Arol, would have been prepossessed by Lord Elliot's face, and not by his face only certainly by his laugh, and she stood and smiled faintly.

"I beg your pardon," he said, stroking his thick yellow mustache. "Took me for pretty manners, to divert a lady in this unceremonious way. What do you mean by it, Jo? On your knees and beg pardon immediately, or I shall do it for you, for I'm afraid all your bad manners were learned from me."

"It's Miss Grahame, the new governess," cried Lord Lancebrook from his perch. "She won't nurse; she's not like Miss Brownjohn."

"No, she's not," muttered Lord Elliot under his breath, "no be inclined his head, as well as he could under the circumstances, to Constance. "Forgive us, Mrs. Grahame. Arol spoils me; it's time we spoil each other."

They went into the drawing-room. And still on Lord Elliot's shoulder, and Constance, walking beside them, had time to observe the stalwart proportions of the boy's great friend.

Lord Elliot was an excellent type of the present day county gentleman, who is far removed from his forefathers as the modern thoroughbred is from the old Flemish charger. There was something particularly taking in the frank and manly face with its good-natured smile, so fair and brown that against Arol's long brown locks Lord Elliot's hair looked almost yellow.

"Oh, Arol, Arol!" exclaimed the mischievous as the three entered, "My dear Ernest, why do you let him plague you so?"

Lord Elliott laughed as he shook I expect my hair's in a nice state," and with his pleasant laugh he went up to greet the rector and wife.

"This is Miss Graham, Ernest," said Lady Brakespeare, when he came back to her.

Oratorio Chorus To Sing Creation Later in Spring

The Oratorio of "The Creation" by Haydn, will be sung by the "Oratorio Chorus" this spring. Practice will begin in the near future and the Oratorio will probably be presented about the end of April or the beginning of May.

This chorus so successfully sung Handel's Messiah two years ago, and the Creation is equally as beautiful, and enjoyable for singers and listeners.

All singers who would enjoy taking part in the chorus will be welcome and should communicate with Mr. V. P. Hunt who will have the direction of the Oratorio.

ALBERTA COAL SELLS READILY

Most All Local Dealers Find Canadian Fuel Popular At $14.00

Popularity of the Alberta black diamonds has proved so great that virtually every coal dealer in the city awaits further consignments already ordered and on the way east.

A canvass of representative merchants made by The Intelligencer today disclosed that in almost every instance the first consignments were sold out at $14 a ton, almost immediately, much of it straight from the cars.

"We got 35 tons," said one dealer, "and it was all gone inside of few hours. Judging by advance orders, so will the next carloads as soon as they get here."

Another cited his experience with three carloads, about one hundred tons, and said a great deal of this had changed hands right at the siding.

Best results are said to have been obtainable from the Canadian fuel though not being too "heavy-handed" in stoking it into the fire. It is said that the most satisfactory quantity to stoke down at one time is only about a half of that which would be used were the fuel the ordinary anthracite.

SEARCHERS FAIL TO FIND TRACE

Family of Five Who Disappeared Not Yet Located

Leamington, Ont., March 6.—Glasbottom buckets were used today by searchers for James Phipps, his wife and their five children, who have been missing since Monday when they started in their automobile from Price Island over Lake Erie on a visit to Leamington. Buckets were used to scan lake bottom at several spots where it is possible the Phipps car broke through the ice.

SIR AUSTEN OFF TO GENEVA

Premier Briand's Fall May Change the Whole Situation

London, March 6.—Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Secretary left for Paris this morning enroute to Geneva for the League of Nations meetings. There is much speculation in diplomatic quarters concerning the effect Premier Briand's fall will have on discussions regarding the enlargement of the number of permanent seats in the League Council. In diplomatic circles the expression was heard that France now was "relieved of responsibility" of officially representing the Polish claim.

HINT OF SURPRISE IN MOON DEFENSE STARTS MONDAY

Only Criminal Case on the Docket When Court Opens at 1.30 p.m.

ARRAY OF WITNESSES

Case Has Excited Big Interest Here and Through out Area

A dramatic surprise, it is expected, will be sprung by the defence in the Moon murder trial which opens Monday afternoon at the county court house here, when David Arthur Moon goes on trial for his life for the shooting of Clayton McWilliams and John McGie in Latimer's drug store, Front Street, on the night of April 6th last.

An impressive array of witnesses for the defence will take the stand, and the defence already has subpoenaed a large number.

Both John McDonald, of the Toronto law firm of Singer, McDonald, Richardson, Bruce Osborn and Dashwood will arrive here tomorrow as counsel for the defence, acting with Robert D. Mc-Easkey, of Belleville. The Hon. Mr. Justice Hugh Kelly, of Toronto, who will try the case, will arrive in the city on Monday morning.

The case has excited more interest in Hastings county than perhaps any other involving the capital charge in recent years, all the principals being well-known local residents.

The Spring Assizes of the Supreme Court, at which the murder trial will be conducted, open at 1.30 p.m., and since at the head of the Government or at least at the Foreign office. There are some timid suggestions that Joseph Caillaux's star is rising, while the more pessimistically inclined observers look for dissolution of the Chamber and a new election within three months or for convocation of the National assembly for revision of the constitutuency.

Mr. Stewart assumed the ministry here last August to almost 200. Communion service will be held Sunday morning.

At last evening's service the Rev. N. S. McGeachie, minister of Dundas Avenue Baptist Church preached the sermon, an eloquent and thoughtful discourse appropriate to the occasion. Prof. Wright, Mus. Bac., A.R.C.O., presided at the organ for the first time.

During the service the ceremony of baptism was solemnized with water brought especially for the purpose from the River Jordan.

Miss Gurley who had earlier in the evening attended a banquet elsewhere, was taken by surprise when on returning she found present a number of her friends awaiting her with the handsome gift. A most enjoyable evening followed the presentation, the party breaking up at about 2 o'clock in the morning.

BRIAND BEATEN ON FINANCE BILL STEPS DOWN, OUT

Made Result of Vote Matter Of Confidence and Lost

FRANC AT NEW LOW

Upset in Chamber of Deputies Reacts on French Money

Paris, March 6.—The Cabinet of Aristide Briand has fallen. Like five other ministries in less than two years, it was ousted on the shoals of the Government's plan to bring about financial rehabilitation of France.

In the Chamber of Deputies early this morning the Government made the test on its make-up and not the financial bill a question of confidence in the Government. It was defeated by vote of 274 to 271 and immediately afterward M. Briand tendered his resignation and that of the other members of the Cabinet to President Doumergue. He had held the Premiership of France eight times.

WHAT OF FUTURE

Socialists, Communists and the Conservative Minority voted against the Government on the question of confidence. President Doumergue left during the morning for Loiret, declaring he would allow the deputies the week end to think over the consequences of their vote before initiating his consultations for the formation of a new Cabinet. There is some talk of the necessity of M. Briand remaining at the head of the Government or at least at the Foreign office. There are some timid suggestions that Joseph Caillaux's star is rising, while the more pessimistically inclined observers look for dissolution of the Chamber and a new election within three months or for convocation of the National assembly for revision of the constituency.

FRANC DROPS AGAIN

Heavy Losers in Fire Are Presented With Purse Of $600

Mr. R. N. Bird and his son Lewis, whose home, near Oak Lake and Quinte contents were destroyed by fire last Saturday morning, were last evening presented with a purse as a tangible token of the sympathy of the entire neighborhood in their recent loss. The party presenting the purse gathered at the home of Mr. Dan Carrol, near Chatterton at which home Mr. Bird was spending the week-end and the presentation, a complete surprise, made there. It was intimated that the money presentation will be followed by other gifts. It was stated last evening that nothing whatever was saved from Mr. Lewis Bird's furniture which was entirely destroyed by fire.

TWO MORE BITTEN BY DOG AND ARE FEARED TO HAVE RABIES

Montreal, Mar. 6.—Two more cases of what doctors fear is rabies have been brought to the notice of the authorities by the Police of Montreal North. A 15-year-old boy and a young woman bitten Thursday are suspected to have contracted the disease. The police of Montreal North questioned, refused to reveal the names of the victims, but declared a strict watch was being kept upon them by doctors and that this morning they would be brought to the Royal Vicoria Hospital rabies clinic which opens to-day. The dog which bit these people, although it was at large for some time after inflicting the wounds, was subsequently captured and shot. The head of the dead animal will be sent to the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa for examination.

TIMMINS IN SECOND VOTE ELECTS LEADERS OF NEW FACTION

Timmins, Mar. 6.—One of the biggest election fights that has ever been staged in Timmins came to a close last night when Dr. J. A. McInnis for seven successive years occupant of the Mayor's chair and two members of the 1926 council were unseated and members of an opposing faction were elected to their places. Edna W. Farley, former tax collector of the city of Belleville, died this morning after a long illness. Deceased who was the daughter of the late James M. and Mrs. Farley, was an extremely brilliant woman. Previous to her late father's death, she took over virtually all his death. In religion Miss Farley was a Methodist and had upto the time duties at home and in business combined with her own failing health, never failed her on doing so, been an active worker in many branches of church work.

She is survived by an uncle and two aunts.

Fresh dairy butter was also quite plentiful and retailed at 43c and 45c per pound. Cream sold at 38c a pint.

Dressed chickens still command a good figure, selling at $1.50 to $2.50 a pair according to quality. A few ducks sold at $1.25 and $1.40 each.

In vegetables there were no changes to note over those of a week ago except potatoes which showed a slight increase in price namely $1.75 per bag. Apples were in reality a drug upon the market retailing at 20c and 25c a peck. Cider sold at 10 cents a pint.

PROGRESSIVES IN DIFFICULTY WITH LIBERALS

Government Not Inclined to Redeem Its Promises

EULER DISAPPOINTED

James Malcolm to Enter the Cabinet Without Portfolio

Ottawa, March 6.—Delay in the announcement of W. D. Euler's entrance into the Cabinet has given rise to the rumor he is dispossessed in not recovering the portfolio of railways and canals, which Hon. C. A. Dunning demanded and obtained before he would consent to come to Ottawa. Mr. Euler can have the Department of Labor but, with the fate of Hon. James Murdock before him, he is not enamored with this portfolio. While he hesitates, the matter is discussed and is before the Cabinet and now, if he does join the Government, the tariff and industries Hon. Harry Stevens will be consummated without his participation.

James Malcolm, North Bruce, is to enter the Cabinet without portfolio. He will not face a by-election, so the substantive of bringing him without portfolio and making him an acting minister is to be adopted. When conditions are more favorable to the Government, he may risk a by-election to North Bruce, but this is doubtful as he prefers the title "honorable" without popular confirmation to jeopardizing his seat in Parliament.

In the last Parliament Premier King poisoned with pride to the fact that every province was represented in his Cabinet. He cannot say the same of the present aggregation, as there never was in any Cabinet a more unfair distribution of portfolios. Compared with representation in the Commons the Cabinet representation is as follows:

Provinces	Com. Rep.	Cab. Rep.
Prince Edw. Is.....	4	0
Nova Scotia.....	11	1
New Brunswick.....	11	0
Quebec	65	7
Ontario	82	1
Manitoba	17	0
Saskatchewan	21	3

Quebec with 65 members out of a total representation of 245 has seven ministers or half the Cabinet, while Ontario with 82 has one and he is a senator, not a commoner. Saskatchewan with 21 members has three Cabinet representatives, while Manitoba with 17 has none. Two provinces, Quebec and Saskatchewan, with one-third the representation in the Commons have three out of the fourteen Cabinet ministers.

Having delivered the goods to the Province of Quebec, Premier King now demandian payment in legislation. It is understood they now regret they did not adopt the payment on delivery plan, as they find having committed themselves to the establishment and stabilization of the Government, the Prime Minister and his colleagues are not inclined immediately to redeem the promises made under "the purchase by legislation" system. Already there is a serious hitch in the tariff revision.

WINNIPEG PRICES

Winnipeg, March 6.—Opening prices—Wheat, May 1.4 cent to 1 cent lower 1.4 2-4 to 1.4¾, July, 1.3 cent to 2-3 cent lower to 1.4 1-2 to 1.4 2-4. Oats, 1.2 cent lower at 1.30 1-3. Oats, May, unchanged to 1.3 cent lower at 46 1-4 cent to 1.3 cent. July, unchanged at 47 1-4 cent.

HUNGRY FIVE WON ON POINTS

Scare Was of Secondary Importance in Class Z Final

VAUDEVILLAIN SEEN

"Old Crock" Relates in Eloquent Way His Reaction to Test

The deciding game for the championship of the class Z Hockey League was staged Thursday morning; and the Hungry Five were suiting in full strength and the Super Specials were also able to trot out a mighty bunch of hickory wielders. Even those players who had been sold to the New York Club answered the roll call, but were unable to play as they had returned via Montreal and naturally were here de combat.

Both teams paraded before the club physician prior to the game and were inoculated against rabies, and after a few words from the chairman, were given a short but spirited address by their respective captains, and this being followed by a shot in the arm, they skated out singing the Internationale and brandishing their war clubs. The referee tossed in the puck from his steel cage in centre ice and the game was on. The first round was a corker, both teams minding it up considerably. Harry Pringle and Karl Green for the Super Specials both scoring two knockouts in quick succession, and Jack Carmichael at centre for the Hungry had the crowd gasping, with his bursts of demon-like fury. This round lasted for 58 minutes and the bell rang when it was seen that the players were unable to continue.

As is customary in this league a little, light entertainment was given between rounds to relieve the tension. The fans showed their appreciation of Jim Bryce in his rendition of that lovely ballad "The Face on the Barroom Floor." Bob John was also well received and his exhibition of the Charleston was really unique. He also gave the fans a little talk on old Depot Harbor days, after which the fans were roused from their brown study by a sketch by Harry Pringle and Pa Redner entitled, "450 is falling down, falling down", Jack Carmichael was next with an exhibition of fancy skating followed by a half mile race against time. At the expiration of the forty minutes set apart for this part of the entertainment Jack was assisted to the dressing room having failed to cover the last lap.

The bell rang for the last round and play was resumed. Larry Ann was soon laid low by a vicious uppercut, and was carried off by the stretcher bearers. Karl Green who had made the remark that he was going to step out a little in the round fell a victim to an opponent's well placed blow in the shin-bone and went off to keep him company. Play of this nature went on till the end of the round, neither side scoring, but the game and the championship was awarded to the Hungry Five on points.

Famous Painting Suggests Title for Typo Movie

1—Main building, Union Printers' Home, Colorado Springs, Colo.
2. Dollman's 41 painting, "Am I My Brother's Keeper?"
3. Showing contrast between treatment of disabled printers and the fate of derelicts seen in painting.

Dollman's famous painting, "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" supplied the inspiration for the recently released motion picture, "His Brother's Keeper," produced by the International Typographical Union, which will appear on the screen at Griffin's Theatre starting March 22.

Sight of a group of derelicts shivering in a cold London rain on a bench beside the Thames Embankment so impressed the famous artist that he made it the subject of his best-known painting, in the background of the picture drawn the lights of a great hotel where men and women of wealth and fashion are indulging in feasting and gaiety, heedless of the city's poverty and want.

The motion picture drawn a parallel between the lot of the destitute outcast, overtaken by illness or old age, and that of the union printer, who is awarded against misfortune by the sanctuary of the Union Printers Home in Colorado Springs, the old age pension system, burial benefit and other protective institutions maintained by the International Typographical Union.

Dash and vigor, unusual in an educational film, characterizes "His Brother's Keeper," according to critics before whom it has been exhibited. It is said to be replete with humor and action from beginning to end.

Typographical Terrace, the beautiful headquarters property of the union—formerly the estate of an Indianapolis millionaire—is shown in the opening scenes. The action then wakes to Colorado Springs, Colo., where a group of tourists in a summer hotel are admiring mountain scenery. An eastern philanthropist who has become interested in the union printers' independently waged warfare on the White Plague, invites the group to accompany him to the Union Printers Home.

The huge institution is inspected from all angles and resident printers are observed at rest and at play. The other residents engage in a typesetting contest with stick and rule and the entire Home population—excepting bedridd patients—is accompanied into the mountains on a picnic party.) From that point the picture moves with vivid rapidity..

The International Typographical Union, although one of the oldest of trade unions, has been little known to the public, since it has engaged in but a few industrial disputes. The first printers' union were formed in New York and Philadelphia, about 1755. A national convention was held in Baltimore in 1836 and the permanent organization was effected in Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1852. It has existed continuously since that time, steadily growing in influence and prestige, until today it has subordinate unions in all cities and towns of consequence in the United States, Canada, the Hawaiian Islands and Porto Rico, and its resources amount to many millions of dollars.

The Union Printers Home was erected in 1891, and has been greatly enlarged since that time. It cost originally about $75,000, but today represents an investment of more than $2,000,000. The union's old age pension system provides for payment of $25 weekly to older members who are unable to obtain remunerative employment. More than 2,000 members are receiving the pension. The mortuary benefit ranges from $75 to $500, the maximum payment being made upon the death of any member with a continuous membership of fifteen years or more.

Trade education forms a major undertaking of the Typographical Union. More than 7,000 apprentice printers are enrolled in the correspondence course conducted by the Union Bureau of Trade Education. Committees of journeymen printers in the various cities are charged with overseeing progress of students.

James M. Lynch, president of the International Union, who sponsored the old age pension, graduated magna, are he holds and bureau of education, is a staunch exponent of the dictum that trade unions must foster trade skill and assurance. Competence of members if they are to enjoy public confidence and the greatest possible growth.

BELLEVILLE GAS OFFERS SHARES

42,500 of Capital Stock, Par Value $10 Are Put on Market

EXPECTS BIG PROFITS

These Based on Present Consumption of Gas in This City

The Belleville Gas and Fuel Company, which has the exclusive right to manufacture and sell gas for household and industrial purposes in the City of Belleville for a period of thirty years, is offering through Hubley & Co., Limited, 42,500 shares of the capital stock, par value $10, at $10 per share.

The Belleville Gas & Fuel Co. has no preferred stock or bonded indebtedness and the capital stock, of which there is $500,000 authorized and $500,000 to be issued, participates in all earnings and assets of the Company. The Company was incorporated last month under the Ontario Companies Act.

After the present financing is completed, the company will own in fee simple, one acre of land within the City of Belleville, on which it will erect a low temperature carbonizing plant, together with a new gas holder having a capacity of 300,000 cu. ft. The price at which gas will be sold is considered to be extremely profitable to the Company. In addition, the company will have the right to use the existing Tully Gasification Plant, together with the whole gas distribution system now in operation. The company is exempt from paying municipal taxes for a period of ten years.

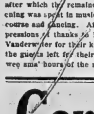

It is estimated in the prospectus that the company, after completing new construction is completed, show a net profits, after operating and maintenance charges, of more than $62,000, representing 13% per annum, on the total capitalization. This is based on the present consumption of gas in Belleville. It is expected that the stock will be placed on a dividend basis during this year, beginning at 7% to be increased until a 10% rate is reached. A sinking fund provides for sufficient funds to retire the entire stock issue in 30 years. The plant will be under the supervision of C. B. Tully, inventor of the complete gasification process.

B.H.S to present Admirable Crichton

"The Admirable Crichton," by Sir J. M. Barrie is being presented as Griffin's Opera House next Friday evening (March 12th) by the B. H. S. Players. The object of the B.H. S. is not to make money, but to present to lovers of high class plays —something that is worth-while at a reasonable price. The royalty on Barrie's plays is heavy, and the setting difficult. Still his is a name to conjure with, and the public is sure that his plays will be a treat.

This play is different. It deals with social problems in Barrie's own inimitable manner. There are two scenes—one in the House of Lords the other is his butler. Which is the better man? Then this family of English aristocrats is cast on a lone island and left there for two years. Imagine the changes which nature would bring.

The stage setting of this play is very difficult; but Orrell Facer is the manager and that means success. For weeks he has been at work with his band of novice stage carpenters, property men, etc., and we believe the audience will be amazed at the realism of the desert island scenes.

A further attractive feature is the arrangement made with the City of Belleville whereby the Company is exempt from payment of all municipal taxes for a period of ten years.

EARNINGS. The combined earnings of the new plant working in conjunction with the gas plant at present operating in Belleville will, according to both gas manufacturing and financial experts, show net profits, after taking care of operating and maintenance charges, of more than $62,000.00, representing almost 13% per annum on the total capitalization. This is based entirely on the present consumption of gas in Belleville, but we are confident that having regard to the fact that we will be producing a cheaper and much higher quality of gas many new gas consuming industries will be attracted to the city and thereby the demand will be very greatly augmented. The improved service should also attract additional household consumers.

DIVIDENDS. While no specific cash dividends are provided, it is contemplated that the stock can be placed on a 7% basis during the current year and gradually increased until a return of 10% per annum is provided for and paid.

SINKING FUND. By-law No. 27 provides for a sinking fund sufficient to retire the entire issue at the expiration of thirty years. The provisions of this by-law must remain in full force and effect until repealed by a vote of the majority of the shareholders present in person or by proxy at a special general meeting called for the purpose of voting thereon.

MANAGEMENT. The plant will be under the supervision of Mr. C. B. Tully, of London, England, the inventor of the celebrated complete gasification process. Plants utilizing this process are now operating in more than four hundred cities and towns throughout the British Empire, China, Japan, and India. Mr. Tully is now negotiating for the supply of his gas plants to a large number of the cities and towns of France and Italy. A Board of five permanent Directors and two ex-officio members will direct the affairs of the Company. As far as it is possible the Directors and Executive will be selected from the ranks of those who have had a considerable amount of practical experience in gas engineering work.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE. The proceeds of approximately $200,000.00 of this issue are to be used for the purpose of purchasing a new Low Temperature Carbonizing Plant and gas holder capable of storing 300,000 cu. ft. of gas, while a portion of the balance will be used to renovate and restore the whole Belleville gas generating and distribution systems as recommended in a report recently made by one of Toronto's most eminent engineers. The amount remaining after these and other incidental expenditures have been made will be used as working capital.

HORRIBLE TALE BEING EXPOSED IN DUMMER CASE

Death of Jack Dwyer Has Focussed Public Attention on Evils

HOTBED OF CRIME

Stepmother of the Unfortunate Lad Is Charged with Culpable Homicide

Peterboro, March 6.—As the result of the death of little Jack Dwyer one of the three children found in such an emaciated condition that the skin of their abdomens could be pressed against their backbone, as one doctor described it, the people of the city and county of Peterboro will not rest satisfied until a raid is made on Dummer township and the modern Sodom and Gomorrah "cleaned up", and its other evils that have been a festering sore in the side of civilization for years and years rooted out. The horribly depraved condition of affairs that has just been unearthed at the Dwyer shack is stated by people who have long experience of the district to be in keeping with its general character. For the last twenty years it has been a hotbed or crime, cattle rustling, murder, alleged poisoning, incest and almost every other offence against the moral law, civic and criminal code. "Moonshine swamp" is another name that is given to Dummer township and according to police officials who have spent a great deal of their time during the last quarter of a century hunting criminals in this county, some of the inhabitants still lead just as readily as they spill their home distilled poteen. The boy was brought into the hospital on the 24th of February in an unconscious condition. Until he died in the early hours of Tuesday he never regained consciousness. He was twelve years of age; at that age his normal weight should have been 80 pounds; the worn frame that lies awaiting burial weighs 27 pounds.

"I never saw a body so thin in my life," said Dr. Clarke. "It was a skeleton, nothing but bone with the skin drawn over it. His ribs spoke was only 4 1-4 in circumference, his abdomen was so flat that you could see his backbone. His little face was like that of a very old man, wrinkled and drawn, cheeks sunken, bones protruding and eyes set away back in his head. There were five nurses around me at the hospital, and I tell you there was not a dry eye in the place as they gazed on that poor form from which the last spark of life was flickering."

MARKS ON BODIES

On both John's head and the head of George, the nine-year-old boy who still lies in the hospital, there are numerous bald spots, which medical opinions agree may have been fractures. Although the boys have been lying at home sick for the past month, and presumably have not been beaten during that time, there are still marks of bruises on their bodies.

Dr. Clarke maintains that these circumstances ought to be investigated, and it is for these, as well as for other reasons, that he and many others think that an investigation ought to be held prior to the "cleaning up", which citizens say must come this time. A similar movement was under way about six years ago as the result of some, particularly nauseating crime that had come to light but public memory being very short, the righteous indignation which flared up then soon died down, and nothing was done to apply a cure to this plague-infested spot.

HAD TO GRAB FOOD

While little Jack passed away to a haven of rest without being able to tell to the world the monstrous cruelty and hardship he has endured in his short life, George is able to speak, and in the few words he has said he has revealed enough to make the angels weep. The first word he said to his aunt when she visited him at the hospital, was that he had had a nice dinner, and detailed to her the different things he had eaten, what a contrast to the food he had been getting and the manner in which he got it. The only way he and his brother John could get anything to eat, he says, was to grab it off the table like dogs, when their stepmother wasn't looking, although at the same time, the stepmother's own three children were seated at the table while the others stood around and watched.

In statements made by the prisoners, the one places the blame upon the other. The father, who is 45 years of age, says he was not aware of the condition of his children, as he went logging in the woods before they were up in the morning and did not return until they were all in bed. Mrs. Dwyer, on the other hand declares that her husband brutally assaulted the children, that she, as well as the children, had to go to the woods and do the sawing while her husband hauled the logs to Norwood and Havelock. She says that all winter long this has been their work. At daybreak, after a breakfast of dry porridge, they would walk about two miles into the woods carrying dry bread with them for their lunch. The bread would become frozen and unfit to eat. At the darkening of the sky they would return have dry porridge for supper and then go to bed.

LASHED WITH WHIP

The last beating the dead boy received at the hands of his father was with a snakeskin whip, the mother testified. The beating was so severe that Dwyer's own collie dog flew at him. Dwyer is then said to have turned and lashed the dog, breaking the whip, and returned to attack the boy with the butt.

TOE FELL OFF

Both boys became sick nigh unto death more than a month ago. One of George's great toes was frozen, and it fell off by the second joint last Christmas. The heel of his other foot was frozen and his fingers are frozen, some of them being black. He tells of an incident that happened to John when the latter became so sick that he was not able to walk. George says that the stepmother ordered Jack out to do the chores, but Jack was unable to move yet he says the stepmother knocked him down and kicked him out into the cold.

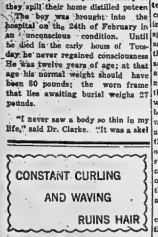

George was asked if he was allowed to lay up when his feet were frozen, and poor George seemed to think that he was given more kindly treatment by having only to do the chores in and around the house, and not having to go to the woods.

One day, in the woods, the mother lit a fire at which they could warm themselves, while their father was hauling logs to Norwood. As a result, less wood was sawn that day than usual, and next morning, when the father saw that they had been "loafing" on the job, he beat them. This according to the mother's story, who, by the way, is not allowed to see anyone but her lawyer by instructions of the police.

MORE ABOUT BIRDS

"Observer" writes:

In addition to the birds mentioned in a previous communication as having been observed at Point Anne this winter two varieties of the Cross Bill have been seen—the Common and the White Winged Cross Bill. Also some of our Gold Finches in their grey winter plumage but strangest of all a Song Sparrow that familiar little bird that first in Spring and last in the Autumn, enlivens us with its song. This little bird (if there is not more than one) was easily identified by its brown capped head and spotted breast. The other day it could be heard giving a full delivery of its well-known summer carol. Though some think that we have been injured and unable to follow the Autumn migration it appeared cheerful and uninjured. It is not an early arrival for it has been seen many times during the winter, making it a question if there are not more of our native birds that could survive our winters if they was proper food or they could be weaned from their habit of going south when the cold weather arrives.

Would it not be a good experiment to detain some of our northern and summer birds until the migration period was well passed, then liberate them and observe if they would settle down and nest in summer or stay with us during the winter?

Enormous flocks of European Starlings are here so thick that the glossy sheen of their plumage can be seen when they are in flight on a clear day. They fly so low with great speed the flock separating in sections to alight when one section goes the others join in the flight. In winter they are ground feeders, few alight on buildings and only for a short time. They are very gregarious and do not flock with other birds except that in summer a few may be found among flocks of Redwings and Grackles who are related to them. Many of their last summer nests can be found here. The Starlings flight though they flock more densely; resembles the Redwings (formerly so familiar to us) when seen in September.

He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets relieved these headaches in a few minutes and not one bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:

"My family use them when ever needed, still usually good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

PETES FASTER DESERVED WIN

Will Take Comfortable 2-Goal Lead With Them to London

Toronto, March 6.—The Peterboro seniors, winners of the local group in the senior O.H.A. series, rose to unexpected heights last night when they obtained a two-goal margin over the London Ravens in the first of the home-and-home series for the senior title before the largest crowd that has lodged the walls of Andy Taylor's Winter sports emporium this Winter, and the Petes deserved the victory on the night's play. Taking the ice with Harold Parker, their regular left defence player out of action through a dislocated shoulder, received in the last game against Parkdale for the group title, they had to play Rose, who heretofore this season has sometimes occupied a substitute role, on the defence, while Bill Marsden's gang were at full strength and entered the game with the reputation of being one of the best aggregations that has ever been assembled in the western part of the province. Despite this fancied handicap, they outplayed their opponents.

Peterboro were worthy of taking a lead to London for the second game on Tuesday for several reasons. They manipulated the fast speed that was set at the start of the first period far better than did the Ravens, although the latter made a real bid for victory in the second, but this effort told in the third, when the Petes again assumed the upper hand. They played better combination than the Ravens; in fact, the Londoners failed to show much of the team work that was expected of them, and lost a number of great opportunities by the puck-carrier failing to give a team-mate who was in a better scoring position the opportunity to try his luck against Joe Dwyer, and the Petes also deserve the lead because they took advantage of the various openings presented to them and could hold London when the latter had the odd man advantage a couple of times. In addition, although it was a minor factor, Dwyer, in the Peterboro nets, played a steadier game than Moore, in the Ravens' citadel.

The game, which was the final of the senior O.H.A. season in this city, was a fitting climax to this season.

They were slaves to superstition and heathenism, but each now testifies in his or her own quaint way of the wonderful change which has been wrought by Divine power.

The visit of this party to Canada is unique in that it gives evidence of the confidence the Japanese Government has in the Army, for it is not customary to permit natives to leave their country, and this is the only party of its kind which has thus travelled abroad.

Major and Mrs. Hill, who are in charge of this picturesque party, are English by birth. The Major has seen sixteen years of Missionary service in the "Hermit Kingdom", having assisted in pioneering The Army's work in that land.

The party comprises in additions to the leaders, Adjutant Sin Soon Ill, Ensign Kim Tong Soo; Lieutenant You Chang Soon; Lieutenant Yong Kwang Dyk.

The opportunity of seeing these interesting Orientals and hearing their intensely fascinating experiences should not be missed. They will be visiting Belleville on Wednesday, March 10, conducting meetings in the city.

PRICE REDUCTION BUT ONE FACTOR

Hudson-Essex Success Is Due to Real Worth Of Machines

LESS OPERATING COST

Convey People To Destination With Comfort and Certainty

"Price reductions in Hudson and Essex cars, while undoubtedly of great importance, have been but one factor in the tremendous growth of 1925 business for these cars," says J. B. Boyce, distributor, in the Belleville area.

"The great question," he continued, "is not how much you shall pay, but rather the most important fact of how much you get for your money. The modern automobile is fundamentally individual transportation, and regardless of price, the real worth of present Hudson-Essex cars lies in the fact that they offer more transportation value at less operating cost and greater comfort than any cars this concern has ever previously made.

"Entirely disregard the matter of price for a minute and view the matter in this light of value alone. Hudson-Essex cars today are used by a vast majority of people to whom transportation is a necessary and vital factor in their every day occupation.

"The transportation involves three primary factors. First, the ability to go from place to place without interruption or breakdown; second, to cover these distances at a reasonable cost; third, to cover these distances with physical comfort requisites that Hudson-Essex afford. It is in meeting these three prefer their outstanding values.

"As the largest builder of six-cylinder cars in the world, their success has been largely due to the fact that they early realized that these things were the fundamentals in automobile values.

"This success has brought tremendous increase of business, and this increase has made possible a lowering of prices until today these cars are selling for less than half of prices when the Hudson-Essex started as the great closed-car specialist of the industry."

SCOTT'S TRIAL WITHIN MONTH

Five-Thousand-Dollar Defence Fund on Russell Assures His Brother,

Chicago, March. 6.—Robert Scott, brother of Russell Scott, who was brought back from the San Quentin, California penitentiary, will be on trial within thirty days, for the murder of Joseph Maurer, clerk in the City Hall Pharmacy, according to arraignment Saturday afternoon before Chief Justice Thomas J. Lynch. The prosecutors made arrangements with Chief Justice Thomas J. Lynch to have Scott arraigned Friday and his case assigned for immediate trial.

Scott spent a busy day answering writs of Habeas Corpus. He appeared twice before Judge Walter Steffen on writs obtained by Attorney William Scott Stewart, who saved his brother, Russell, from the lynch man by a last minute insanity plea. IS IDENTIFIED

The attorney finally succeeded by reg. of the writs in having Scott placed in jail, where he could not be quizzed by the prosecutors and police. Charles H. Edison, owner of the drug store in which the murder occurred, identified Scott as one of the two bandits. M. L. Rothschild 3932 Sheridan road, also identified him as a man who robbed him. Four other holdup victims, however, said they could not be positive.

Richard Prendergast, who brought Scott from California, disclosed that Russell Scott had known of his brothers whereabouts. He produced a letter written by Russell in which he told his brother not to talk and stated that Attorney Stewart has a $5,000 fund for his defense. This money is said to have been gathered together by the Detroit persons who raised the funds for Russell's insanity hearing.

STAR WITNESS MISSING

Search was ordered for Mrs. Helen Ballard Conley, star witness in the Scott case, upon whose testimony the State relies to send Robert Scott to the gallows. Mrs. Conley, actual eye-witness of the shooting, has disappeared, it was learned.

It was recalled that when Scott was first identified in San Quentin Prison she went to the States' Attorney's office, identified Scott's picture and promised to keep in touch with the officials.

He has not heard from her since although it was said she might go to Cleveland to visit relatives. Cleveland police were asked to look for her. Mrs. Conley was of the party the night that young Maurer was shot, accompanying Russell. T. Scott.

The two daughters of the Marquis and Marchioness of Bute, Lady Mary and Lady Jean Crichton-Stuart are much of an age and will be great company for each other when the younger (Lady Jean) comes out.

NOTED AUTHOR SECRETLY WEDS UNNAMED LADY

A. S/M. Hutchison, of "If Winter Comes" Fame, Is Married and Elaborate Precautions Are Taken to Mystify the Public.

London.—A. S. M. Hutchison, author of "If Winter Comes" and "This Freedom", has just been married in Christ Church, Westminster, by special bishop's license. The whole event has been shrouded in almost impenetrable mystery. The verger of the church refused, on instructions, to say anything about the matter, and Vera Hutchison, sister of the author, refused to disclose the bride's name, stating that it would be revealed after the contractine parties had left the country on their honeymoon. At the church it was also allowed to inspect the public register.

"Beyond the fact that Mr. Hutchison had known his bride for some little time, and that she is very charming and very pretty, I am the wedding party numbered less pledged to secrecy," said Miss Vera, than half a dozen. Next day the At the Hutchison house it was announced: "Mr. Hutchison left here early today and is very annoyed that the news of the wedding had leaked out. He does not say where he is going."

Mothers Who Have Used Baby's Own Tablets

Always Strongly Recommend Them to Other Mothers.

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she will use neither else—actual experience has taught her that there is no other medicine to equal them for any of the minor ailments from which her baby or little ones suffer. Having found the value of the Tablets in her own home, she is always anxious that other mothers should share her knowledge. Mrs. Alex. Creighton White, North Noel Road, N.S., writes the following:—"I have a baby seventeen months old and have given him nothing but Baby's Own Tablets ever since he was a week old. I know of no other medicine to equal them, and it is certainly a pleasure to recommend them to other mothers."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative that regulates the stomach and bowels; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make the sickly baby well and happy again. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

were in everyday clothes and arrived at the church by taxi. Altogether the wedding party numbered less than half a dozen. Next day the newly-married couple left by the "Flamenko" for an unknown destination. The shipping company has been asked not to disclose their movements.

It was later discovered that the bride was Una Rosamunde Dristow-

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

The ball room scene in J.M. Barrie's "A Kiss for Cinderella," which Herbert Brenon produced for Paramount with Betty Bronson in the title role is one of the largest and most elaborate sets ever incorporated in a motion picture. It is at the Bells Theatre Monday and Tuesday.

It represents the interior of Pergosnan Keep as conceived by a little girl who's imagination is limited by nothing but a surround her in the London slums.

The most beautiful sight she has ever laid eyes on were two fancies steps at the door of a little shop in the ball room is a labyrinth of tremendous and sumptuously adorned pillars. The little girl enters, is let and the gas meter in her humble quarters are reproduced highly ornately in dimensions four times their actual size. Prince Charming and the King are the Jack and King she had seen on playing cards.

By the same limitations, it is quite appropriate that the ball room should be illuminated with street lamps. Her idea of a proud time is to eat oranges in the square and for contrast, add to the bubble and lavishly attired folk at the ball stand around and daintily nibble at those delicious fruits. The scenes of music she had ever heard was that ground out on a hurdy-gurdy, whose owner was always accompanied by a playful, cavorting monkey. In the ball we have at the ball the amazing spectacle of a dozen organ grinders, each with a dozen accompanying simians with the distinguished guests.

Thus the entire scene is a glorification of the ordinary, every-day things the little London slavey had seen around her.

AT GRIFFIN'S

This triumvirate is responsible for a new bill to be offered at the Griffin Theatre next Monday when First National presents "Classified".

Thousands have read the story of that name as it appeared in Cosmopolitan magazine. Other thousands are familiar with Jane Mathis' achievements as a screen writer. And as for Corinne Griffith, it would be a daring thing to attempt to estimate the number of her admirers the world over.

"Classified" brings to the screen a new type—the girl who takes what she want ad, over the phone. Also, it gives Miss Griffith a new opportunity at characterization, as she has never before attempted the portrayal this sort of personality. Her success is reported as having been complete.

Jack Mulhall and many prominent screen artists are enrolled with Miss Griffith in playing the delightful story of life in a New York flat upon the screen.

Meet her fast to face for face to face with, perhaps for the first time, the girl with the dulcet tones who in duces you to run that "want ad" habit if the first hasn't brought results.

She's at the Griffin theatre this week, an ingratiating smile for everyone—a delicious bit of characterization such as you hadn't thought Corinne Griffith capable of.

Fans of Miss Griffith, of course, will declare that she is able to work miracles of characterization, but never before did she display such a role as that of Babs Comet in First National's picturization of "Classified" an adaptation of an Edna Ferber story.

A surprise—and a tremendously pleasant one—awaits you.

OPERATION LEFT HER VERY WEAK

Letter Tells of Wonderful Relief After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Conlston, Ontario.—"After a severe operation and a three weeks' stay in a hospital I returned home, so weak that I was obliged to sit in a chair. For four months I was almost frantic with pains and suffering until I thought there could not be any cure for me. I had very severe pains in my side, and was completely and I was able to do all my work without help. I am a farmer's wife, so you see I can't be idle long. In all, I have taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier and one box of Sanative Wash. You may use my letter as you like."—Mrs. L. LAJEUNESSE, Box 103, Conlston, Ontario.

Utterly Discouraged

This Was the Condition of a P. E. I. Woman Before Taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

"My illness began," says Mrs. M. J. Ahern, R.R. No. 2, Alberton, P.E.I., "when my husband went overseas and I was left with the care of a farm and stock. With no help but that of a young boy, My health broke down and for the first time in my life I became utterly discouraged. I lost my appetite, had no strength, and was ready to have a crying spell any moment of the day, as the work loomed up ahead of me. A friend happened to speak one day of the good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had done her and urged me to use them. I had not energy enough, or perhaps confidence enough, to try them, but she would not be denied and sent me three boxes, and by the time I had taken them I knew they were helping me and was anxious for more. I continued taking the pills for nearly six months and by that time I had safely passed a critical period in my life, and regained my usual good health. To all overworked, nerve-racked women—and there are a great many of them—I say, and at all times, take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I know you will retain your energy."

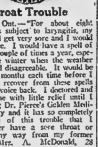

There are many troubles due to weak, watery blood easily overcome by a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The whole mission of this medicine is to purify and enrich the blood, and when that is done all the varied symptoms of anaemia disappear and good health returns. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any druggist or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Throat Trouble

Toronto, Ont.—"For about eight years I was subject to bronchitis, my throat would get very sore and I would lose my voice. I would have a spell of this kind a couple of times a year, especially in the winter when the weather was cold and disagreeable. It would be a couple of months each time before I would fully recover from the spells and get my voice back. I doctored and took medicine with little relief until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it has so completely relieved me of this trouble that I sincerely ever have a sore throat or suffer in any way from my former trouble."—Mrs. A. McDonald, 28 McMurrich St.

Golden Medical Discovery is put up in Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., and sold by all druggists in both tablets and liquid. Send Dr. Pierce 10c if you wish a trial pkg.

WANTS TO DROP HUSBAND WHEN ROMANCE ENDS

Daughter of Famous Southern Family Falls For French Accent

MARRIED A STUDENT

Stories of Diplomatic Service Blown Up When Groom Takes Sick

Atlanta, Ga., March 6.—Atlanta society was in a furore today at the denouement of the whirlwind romance and elopement of Miss Virgin M. Hollingsworth, senior at Agnes Scott college, and the daughter of a distinguished old Georgia family with "Noel Dupre" who posed as a "French diplomatic official."

Dupre, today, was back at his home in Anderson, S. C., and Miss Hollingsworth was at the home of her parents in Dawson, Ga. A suit to annul the marriage was being prepared by attorneys for Miss Hollingsworth's family.

Dupre, who is said to have styled himself a French artist and secretary to the French consulate in Honolulu, and who regaled new-found friends in Atlanta with delightful stories of the colorful life of the Bohemians in the Montmartre and his adventures in Egypt and India, eloped with the beautiful college girl three days after they met here.

They went to Chattanooga, Tenn., where a Gretna Green marriage was performed. They returned to Atlanta enroute to Honolulu, where Dupre said he was going to resume his duties with the French diplomatic service. When Dupre was seized with sudden illness, letters found in his baggage at a hospital here, established his identity as Noel Cobb, a former student at South Carolina university, and Vanderbilt university who has never been outside the United States, despite his appealing French-American accent.

JUDGE MAKES SKETCH OF FACE OF WITNESS TO REMEMBER "LINES"

New York, March 6.—An upstate judge spends his time during trials making pencil sketches of prisoners and witnesses to preserve their testimony in his memory. He is Edgar T. Mosher of Cayuga County. At his home in Auburn, he said, he had a large gallery of prisoners and witnesses who have appeared before him at various times.

Judge Mosher has been making sketches for fifteen years. "I find that a face means much more to me than words," he said. "In the beginning I made brief notes during each case but there were times when these fell short of what I wanted. A picture of a witness immediately brings back to me virtually all that he has testified."

His gallery includes prisoners who have been charged with everything from stealing chickens to murder. One is of an 80-year-old woman in the Auburn Prison who feels that she has NOT long to live and does NOT want to die in jail.

NEWS BRIEFS

Word revolution continues to be the aim of the Communist international, M. Zinoffi declared at Moscow in reporting to the Executive Committee of the International of which he is chairman. "Our methods may undergo some changes," he said, "but not of the proletarian revolution itself, which is our basic and single objective. History makes the dictatorship of the proletariat the order of the day."

The shocking news that the body of Francisco Villa has been exhumed and decapitated is now followed by allegations that the deed was done on behalf of an eccentric Chicago millionaire who is making a study of criminology. The heads of some Chicago criminals not being available he is said to have commissioned a band of them in Mexico to procure Villa's head at any price.

Dr. James R. Angell, President of Yale University, announces a gift of $1,000,000 made to the university by the sons and daughters of Charles W. Hingham, '68, of Cleveland. A new dormitory to accommodate 125 students is to be erected with $500,000 of the gift.

Had Mrs. Edward Simmon of Toronto lived until March 26 she and her husband would have celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. A native of Lancashire, she and her husband and five children came to Toronto in 1858. She died suddenly in her 78th year, after two weeks' illness from bronchial pneumonia.

TOUCHED THE FUNNY-BONE

At last the fallacy of the Englishman not being able to see a joke has received a knock-out blow. For it is reported in The Christian Science Monitor that James Gleason, star and co-author of "Is Zat So?" the American farce being produced at the Apollo Theatre in London, spent the entire day following the first performance recovering from the shock of his discovery that the English have a sense of humor. In fact, he went so far as to declare according to press notices, that he was simply astounded by the audience, because he found that all his pet lines which Americans did not laugh at were received with enormous applause.

The British sense of humor is different from that of the United States, though it is fully as keen. But just the same there is something in what Lord Chesterfield wrote to his son, "Frequent loud laughter is the characteristic of folly and ill manners; it is the manner in which the mob express their silly joy at silly things and they call it being merry."

A BUREAU OF INFORMATION

An evidence accumulates before the committee of investigation at Ottawa, wonder increases at the amazing knowledge possessed by Hon. Jacques Bureau, former minister of customs, of what was going on in Quebec province in the way of illicit liquor production. The minister appears to have been well-nigh omniscient. His eye swept every corner of the province, and could distinguish at a glance the innocent from the guilty. Really there was no need for Mr. Bureau to have the assistance of any preventive officers to find out where and by whom illicit stills were being operated; he knew farm ow than the officers. By some occult sense which it were well to know, he was enabled to instruct his officers just where to go to find offenders, and what suspected persons to pass over—particularly the latter.

There was a zealous officer named Cadotte in the St. Hyacinthe district who was inconsiderate enough to make unannounced calls upon people whom he suspected of operating illicit stills. Mr. Bureau wrote a peremptory letter to Blasillon, chief preventive officer, ordering him top ut the screws on Cadotte and make him stop annoying people. Evidently this warning was not so effective as it should have been, for the minister wrote again, threatening to bounce Cadotte if he persisted in being so inquisitive. Now Mr. Bureau must have known somehow that the people whom Cadotte suspected were innocent and should not have been subjected to annoyance.

And Mr. Bureau had his faithful Blasillon submit to him a list of all the persons in a certain district who were under suspicion of dabbling in moonshine. He returned the list, each name marked "Yes" or "No", meaning that those marked "Yes" might be proceeded against, but those marked "No" must be immune from official "persecution". It is quite evident that the minister knew beforehand which persons whose names appeared on the list were guilty and which were unjustly suspected—his knowledge was so accurate and infallible that he was able, getting in his office, to save his officers much trouble by letting them know which of the suspects were guilty and which were innocent although it was the special business of the officers to find that out.

A ministerial marvel! It is to be hoped that Mr. Bureau, should he be called before the investigating committee, will make a contribution to occult science by revealing the secret of his apparent omniscience.

WILL HOLD INQUIRY

Hon. James Lyons, in resigning the portfolio of minister of lands and forests in the provincial government, as a result of questions asked in the legislature which he regarded as insinuations against his integrity and as embarrassing to the government, made the request that an investigation be made by the public accounts committee of every transaction the Lyons Fuel and Supply company, Ltd., had with firms or persons that could on public grounds be challenged." Mr. Lyons undertakes to place at the disposal of the committee the books of thec ompany and all the members of the staff, and is quite prepared to be examined on oath on every transaction. "I have faith and confidence that every dealing will be found to be honest and square," he says. Out of justice to the retiring minister, an investigation of the thorough character he seeks must be instituted. The questions asked in the house do undoubtedly create a feeling of suspicion in the public mind which ought to be removed. Premier Ferguson's condemnation of those who tr- to "cast discredit upon, and even vilify, those engaged in the public service," by means of "misrepresentation and allegation, without foundation, from motives best known to themselves," is timely, and his expression of confidence in and tribute to the public services rendered by the retiring minister count for much, but it is natural, under the circumstances, for Mr. Lyon to require something more before the matter is finally disposed of. The premier promises that the inquiry will be undertaken after the public accounts committee has finished hp its regular business, but thinks it is not practicable to hold it until the public accounts are brought down.

FOR LOVERS

While it is true that a rose by any other name would be just as fragrant, there is something in what Gibbon says about nations being governed by names. For just as the maxim, "beauty is only skin deep" dies outright before the fact of beauty's overwhelming effects, so are words and names vital ofttimes. Especially to lovers. And here's a tip to callow youths who would find some new terms to apply to their best-beloveds:

My bird.
My heron.
My pigeon.
My serpent.
My mongrel.
My little frog.
My little gnat.
My sweet pup.
My bonny dog.
My little beetle.
My sweet goose.
My little turkey.
My darling ferret.
My remarkable dog.
My dear little whale.
Crocodile of my soul.

The list is abbreviated from one compiled by George Blake ("Vagabond") the well-known Scottish journalist, who writes the sob-stuff novels about the Glasgow slums and who found them in the love letters of no less a personage than Anton Tchehov, the famous Russian dramatist. But Blake hastens to say: "There is in Tchehov's letters much more vital stuff than the remarkable variety of zoological endearments."

SPEED FIEND'S PARADISE

Cleveland Bueltlin:

Motorists will be glad to know that there is one place at least in the country where the driver may get as much speed as he can out of his car without incurring the penalty of the law. A sign in the state of Idaho reads: "Sunnyside city limits. Speed limit 100 miles. Fords, do your best."

FRENCH-SPANISH CO-OPERATION

Madrid Epoch:

The financial situation in France is a serious one and peace with the Rif would mean a relief from budgetary strain which could not lightly be disdained. Yet, in spite of this, the leader of the French government has not hesitated to repel every proposal of a separate peace, and has even, in order to dispel every shade of distrust and every appearance of double dealing, gone so far as to refuse to receive Captain Canning.

REASSURING THE GLOBE

London Advertiser:

The Toronto Globe professes to be concerned over the ownership and politics of The London Advertiser. It even prints derpatches on the subject from outside points, inspired in the Globe office.

The Globe's motives are, of course, entirely disinterested. It is thinking exclusively of the welfare of the Liberal party, which it has so zealously striven to promote in the past few years.

We wish to reassure our contemporary by some explicit pledges.

The Advertiser will not turn its back on its political history and traditions for personal or other reasons which it declines to reveal.

It will pretend to support Liberal principles and at the same time knife the Liberal party, the Liberal Government and the Liberal leader.

It will not under the cloak of independence, do the work of the enemies of Liberalism.

The Globe will rejoice to know, that the Liberal cause, so dear to its heart, is safe in The Advertiser's hands.

"WHAT HATH PASSED"

Vancouver Province:

The information conveyed in a headline that the house of commons has sat for a month and has accomplished no business, calls to mind the report of a very great chancellor to a British king. His majesty had occasion to ask the chancellor: "What hath passed in the commons?" And the minister replied; "Seven weeks, sire."

SHE BEGS TO DIFFER

A lady correspondent says:

"Just a minute! There IS a use for discarded safety razor blades. Dressmakers use them for cutting seams for which they are peculiarly fitted owing to their extreme thinness."

Men have their biggest rows about business; women have their biggest rows about men.

CROW BAIT

When I read in several newspapers "to feed the crows in the winter," so they would not stay in the summer," I said that I was thru writing Crow controversy. But the fact is that MacFarlane Lewis' explanation as to the fish crow's habits differing from the habits of our crow so small, is so extremely misleading that it just simply compels me to ask for a little more space in the papers of Ontario, following the controversy.

Now, Mr. Lewis' statement thru the "Globe", tries to make us believe that the habits of the fish crow, which is a trifle smaller, differs extremely in habits from our crow. This is absolutely misleading, for while the crows may differ a little in size, their murderous habits are all the same. For an illustration, let us take the habits of our Canada wild goose. It is a very large one that will weigh twelve pounds, while in the western provinces they will weigh fourteen and possibly more, and yet their habits are exactly the same. Remember that "Crows are Crows" whenever or wherever you see them and they will all suck eggs.

I have crossed this continent four times, the last few years, jumping here and there and all over and the way the crows are increasing caused me to wake up to the seriousness of it. In Manitoba I counted as high as thirteen crows' nests in one little cluster of trees. I even saw a crow's nest on the telegraph wires and the thought of how to decrease their numbers aroused every nerve in my living room. The gun is a failure, in fact I am not entirely in favor of a gun campaign as it is such a good excuse for us to get out with a gun and do wrong. So for months I let my mind's leisure time take up the crow problem and when I had the net or trap completed the next question was how and what kind of bait to use. Well, when I was a boy, we often speared more suckers than we could or would eat, the result was some of them spoiled and the next thing to hen eggs, the best crow bait I ever got was dead suckers, so last fall before I started in the business, I saw Art Brown, one of our leading Kingsville fishermen, and he assured me I could have all his spoiled fish and fish heads and so forth, providing I got them off the dock before the health officers put him off, then I called one of our Kingsville draymen; Mr. Everett Bertrand, and he agreed to watch for all such fish, and run them to my premises even if more were only one hundred pounds. Well, I got the fish in November and threw them on the ground and covered them with an old oil cloth canvas, allowing the sun to shine on them, and so forth; well now, believe me, by the time I got the trap made my bait was just right and ripe. But first of all I cut an old dead horse up and put about two-thirds of it under but left a portion outside, then early the next morning I went and pulled all the meat under. We took manure forks and moved the fish right under where we wanted the crows. The fish doubled and trebled the quantity of crows under the net, to what there were the previous day, and it seemed that all the crows in the country were fighting to get under for just a taste of those dead fish, when to their surprise they were instantaneously in captivity. Now the net is only twenty feet wide and seventy feet long and I caught 510 the first catch. Why, bless you life, give me a few skunk carcasses and enough dead fish and a Jack Miner Crow Net twenty-six feet wide and one hundred feet long in each county, and I will catch seventy-five per cent. of these nest robbers in that county the first winter. Whether they be American crow or fish crow they are all black. Remember I have held an old dying crow up by the tail while seven little unhatched robins spewed out of her mouth. This was only one trip she was making to her young, but of course it was her last. Figure for yourself this crow had robbed at least two birds' nests on that one trip, how many trips will she make each day to these young crows and how long are they in nest before they fly out and work for themselves? How many is she going to destroy providing she can find them? I have watched a crow after she had stole into my sanctuary and got a nest of eggs, tower high into the air and go a mile and a half before she started to come down. If she wanted grass hoppers for her young why did she come past so many meadows and pasture fields, where grasshoppers are by the thousands?

Now another writer seems to want us to believe crows will not eat corn. During the winter months I keep corn under my goose net which is sixty feet wide and a hundred and twenty feet long where I catch the geese to tag them, therefore my wing tipped geese have to go under there to feed, this gets them used to going under and educates them to be fearless of it and encourages them to lead the wild ones under when they come in the spring. Well now, this corn is on the ice and during the last month I have often seen from fifty to one hundred crows under there at once. If these crows are not after the corn they must surely be fish crows looking thru the ice for more fish as we are entirely out of fish at the crow net. Again within one half mile of where I set the crows under the goose net eating corn, I found seven corn borers in one hill of corn stubble, and in view this corn borer as a very serious proposition and what few the crows have destroyed the last 10 if all the insectivorous birds the crows have destroyed the last ten years had been left and allowed to increase when the European corn borer moth was liberated in our beautiful Canada, she would have cleaned up before she even had time to wink at a mate.

In closing, in regard to the crow and the corn borer, the crows were here in countless thousands before the corn borer arrived and the corn borer has increased to such an alarming state in the midst of these crows that I understand our government is wisely taking steps to make corn burn, bury or ensilage our corn stalks, for, as for the crow controlling it, this is only a joke and reminds me of a school inspector or a school teacher who hurried by gave a little boy the following sum to figure out for his home work: "If a wild was twenty feet deep and a neighbor's cat fell in and they put the long ladder down to assist puss in helping herself out and she was climbing up two steps and falling back ten, how long will it take puss to get out of the well?"

After Johnny had his slate chuck full of figures his mother called him for supper and he hastily shouted loudly, stating if his mother had kept still another minute he would have had this cat (or corn borer) to

KANSAS PRAIRIES WILL RING WITH SINGING OF "MESSIAH"

Lindsborg, Kan., March 6.—For the forty-fifth consecutive year Kansas prairies will ring with Lindsborg's rendition of Handel's "Messiah" next month.

It will be a gathering of musical artists—Claire Dux, soprano with the Chicago Opera Company; Dusolina Giannini, another American soprano who next fall is to appear as guest prima donna with Berlin and Hamburg opera companies; Carleton Cummings, Chicago tenor and others.

But the "Messiahs" swelling refrains, as always, will be sung by natives of this little community who have sung it for years.

It was back in 1881 that an industrious and far-seeing young Lutheran minister, Carl A. Swensson, by dint of hard work and enthusiasm organized the first "Messiah" chorus of forty voices. Today that chorus numbers 600 members. Mrs. Swensson, organizer and first director of the chorus, still sings in the soprano section. Doctor Swensson died in 1904.

Soloists already have been chosen for the one hundred and thirty-first, thirty-second and thirty-third renditions, March 28 and April 2 and 4, when planned, and for the first time in its history the festival will sponsor a music and art contest.

The soloists for the Messiah include Mrs. Agnes Clark-Gleister, Denver, soprano; Mrs. Raymond Havens, Kansas City, contralto; Carleton Cummings, Chicago, tenor, and Sigurd Nilsson, New York, bass. In addition, each of the soloists will give a recital.

Bethany Symphony Orchestra will assist.

The Flonzaley Quartet, organized twenty-two years ago, will open the festival Palm Sunday afternoon.

AMERICAN BISHOP FOE OF VOLSTEAD

Head of Diocese of Central New York Denounces U. S. Dry Law

PLEA FOR TOLERANCE

Sees Prohibition Responsible for Drinking by Young People

Utica, March 4.— A ringing denunciation of the Volstead act and an earnest appeal to lift high the general moral ideals of the country not through laws but through the work of the church and its ministry was sounded by Rt. Rev. Charles Fiske, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Central New York, at Trinity church here. The occasion was an visit of the bishop to confirm a class of adults, the second largest in the history of the church.

Bishop Fiske emphasized the fact that he was speaking as an individual citizen and not in his official capacity for the church.

Pleading for breadth of mind, he asked first, for a return from the moral bigotry to a liberal minded-ness which will recognize that men may differ as to the methods by which moral reforms can be brought about though equally conscientious as to the need of reform; and, second, for the understanding of the true function of the church as a moral teacher and not a moral policeman."

He declared "the Volstead act has resulted in worse drinking conditions among young people than we had before, it has increased enormously among them the use of strong distilled liquors, often poisonous and dangerous; it has corrupted officials; has brought about an increased disrespect for law and in class legislation, discriminating against workmen in industrial cities, worst of all discriminating in favor of the rich who can get what they want and against the poor man."

CHRIST FORMED NO LAWS

"I beg you to remember," he pleaded, "that Jesus Christ formed no laws, inaugurated no new industrial or social organizations, set forth no political panaceas. He supplied a spirited dynamic and that, it seems to me, is the church's real work today.

"Nobody wants the old-time saloon back again, but many people dislike an dabet the bootlegging substitute for it," he said.

"There is a difference between holding up a moral ideal and laying down the particular method by which it may be attained. The first is the business of the church and the clergy; the second is the business of legislators, experts in law and business and citizens generally.

Moral issues may sometimes be so plain that the church can sometimes express its corporate mind on the subject, but for the most part the methods by which moral reforms are brought about may rightly lead to grave differences of opinion. Certainly in the matter of temperance reform, that is true."

Bishop Fiske took for his text "Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's." His sermon elaborated the thought that the task of the churches is not to get behind particular legislative proposals, but by the enlargement of human sympathy and the realization of fellowship to spread moral ideas as by contagion.

"Jesus Christ was not a social reformer," he declared. "Instead of urging new legislation or framing political platforms, or presenting particular panaceas for human ills, he contented himself with arousing a new spirit and quickening a new conscience that would itself gradually solve all problems."

LIVING MESSAGE

"It is true," the bishop said, "that we need a church with a living message. Too often earnest leaders in social reform feel that the voice of the church is not heard as it should be heard on great moral questions. And so we do need more than a mere generalizing about morals. Nevertheless when it comes to methods by which reforms shall be brought about the church cannot and ought not to do more that its Lord did."

Bishop Fiske illustrated his contention in detail by reference to present day problems. He felt that in the coal strike, for example, a united expression of Christian opinion might have forced congress to give consideration to the report of the Coal commission after the last strike and for its proposals of remedying the present situation.

"That does not mean," he added, "that the church should advocate the reforms proposed, it only means that we could arouse the Christian conscience in such a way as to compel consideration of such problems in non-partisan way."

EXPLAIN RECENT REPORT

The greater part of the sermon was devoted to an explanation of the recent pronouncement of the Chuch Temperance society urging a modification of the Volstead act.

"The Church Temperance society," He said in part: does not speak for the Episcopal church. I say that, although I agree in the main with its statement. It is an official organization which at first included in its membership those who believed in the moderate use of alcoholic beverages as well as those who were total abstainers.

"When Mr. Empringham became its salaried secretary, he came to it from a position with the Anti-Saloon League and among it to the support of the prohibition amendment which he professed to approve. What is left of the society he has now apparently swung back again.

"Personally I believe that his present attitude is correct. I have come to the conclusion that the Volstead act has resulted in worse drinking conditions among young people than we had before, that it has increased enormously among them the use of strong distilled liquors, often poisonous and dangerous, that it has corrupted officials, has brought about an increased disrespect for law and in class legislation, discriminating against workmen in industrial cities, worst of all discriminating in favor of the rich who can get what they want and against the poor

IS PERSONAL OPINION

"All this is my personal opinion. I have no right to set it forth as representing the church of which I am a bishop, though as a citizen I speak my mind freely. Nor has any voluntary society within the church a right to announce similar opinions in such a way as to claim for them an official or semi-official authority.

"What I can do, and what I have done, is to protest against recent tendencies to substitute legislative enactment and police regulation for moral teaching. To me the sad thing in the present situation is that 10 years ago, by patient teaching, we had made a wonderful progress towards temperance and now we are losing ground. I can remember the time when every bottle that came to town was treated to all he could drink and then taken down the line if he so desired.

"That stopped and men began to see that if they would do business they must keep sober and live straight. Now we have plunged down to the lower levels again and you can hardly enter a business office but to find a hand stretched out to a mysterious compartment in one of the desks where liquid refreshment awaits the visitor."

OPPOSES REFORM LAWS

"The church makes a great mistake in thinking that it can substitute for personal and individual righteousness a reform through out side force. Ministers make a grievous error when they substitute for pastoral zeal and moral teaching the legislative lobby and the political bloc. Zealous reformers have led us astray in attempting to do by compulsion of law what should be done by growth of personal responsibility.

"I plead for two things: First, for a return from moral bigotry to a liberal mindedness which will recognize that men may differ as to the methods by which moral reforms can be brought about though equally conscientious as to the need of reform, and second for an understanding of the true function of the church as a moral teacher and not a moral policeman.

"I plead for breadth of mind. One man may be convinced that the Volstead act is the greatest blessing of this generation. Another man may think that it is doomed to failure because it does not express the actual public opinion of the great majority of people in the community and he believes that laws can be enforced only when they are such an expression of a decided public opinion. He thinks that a law which cannot be enforced without an army of enforcement officers a vigilant navy and perhaps a billion dollars in appropriations would better never have been passed.

URGES BROAD MINDEDNESS

"That doesn't mean that he is less zealous for righteousness than his valiant prohibition neighbor. Be broad minded enough to give him if he disagrees with you about the credit for good moral purposes even though by which your own purpose may be made effective.

"And then remember that laws are not made, they are discovered. That is, they are effective only when they are found thus to embody the general beliefs of society. When they do express such general moral convictions they almost enforce themselves. That is the reason it is easier, even in these days of lawlessness, to check murder, theft or rape than to prevent a man from taking a drink.

"The true function of the church and the minister is to lift high the general moral ideals of the community. Ten years ago we had made such progress that most people regarded drunkenness as disgusting or pitiable. Now we are in danger of relying on legislation to enforce sobriety, with the result that evasion of the law is regarded as a clever joke to be applauded rather than scorned. Nobody wants the old time saloon back again, but many people dislike and hate the bootlegging substitute for it."

HOMES INSTAL BARS

Paris, March 5.—"What is known in France as an "American bar," recently has become an adjunct to the French country house. There are many chateaux now, in which such have been installed in the library or smokeroom, with a professional white-coated barkeeper behind the counter and high stools for "customers". These are nearly all occupied at the "cocktail hour", considered that evasion of the law is regarded another American institution.

In the low-price field where is the car that equals it?

Before buying a car—open or closed—in the low-priced field, ask yourself these questions:

1. Is it as comfortable and smart in appearance as the New Chevrolet?
2. Does it boast of such advanced features as dry disc clutch, genuine Duco finish, vacuum gasoline system with tank in rear?
3. Has it an overhead-valve engine?
4. Has it a genuine Fisher Body?
5. Can it duplicate Chevrolet's speed, hill-climbing ability and all-round dependability?

Because no other car at or near Chevrolet price can answer all these questions and because Chevrolet delivers a greater measure of quality and value for your dollars than any other low-priced car—this is the car for you,

WIFE OF MOON TO BE DEFENSE WITNESS

MOTORIST PARTY REACH FLORIDA DESPITE STORMS

Snow, Rain, Mud and Warnings Met Everywhere On Trip

ALL ARRIVED ON TIME

Former Constable Booth Of Belleville To Be Joined by Wife

A journey southward along roads and near-roads that necessitated virtual "portaging" of three ton trucks as well as passenger automobiles with bottles against snow drifts, formed the headlight of an account of his journey to Florida by former Constable Booth of this city, and which was first epitomized in the terse wire, received by his wife, 48 Yeoman's street:

"Arrived St. Petersburg. Like it fine."

Mrs. Booth, who with her family of five children will shortly follow her husband to the Everglade state, has just received further details of the long trip. She most persistently recurring feature of the journey, Mr. Booth explained, was the warning, repeated ever more often the farther south his party progressed, that they would "never get through," and had better turn back or stay where they were until later in the season.

VIA MICHIGAN

Mr. Booth went directly from Belleville to Grand Rapids, in western Michigan, accompanied by five of the local boys from here and from Stirling. In the Furniture City he picked up two Federal motor lorries that awaited him and which were a part of the impedimenta to be transported to St. Petersburg, Florida, in connection with the industrial plant with which the former police officer has allied himself.

The prophecies of calamity started in Grand Rapids, where everyone who knew anything about the road south of the Mason and Dixon line, or affected to know, declared it was too terrible for words, and that only by the most heroic measures would he worry through as far as about Charleston, South Carolina.

Winnipeg, Man., Mar. 8.—Difficulties and possibilities of the Red Lake Mining district are fully discussed in a report prepared by M. J. Davidson of the Howey Syndicate and reported to the Free Press by its special correspondent at Hudson, Ont. The report states that enough is not known of the property to say that the area is assured of some producing mines but it is pointed out that it is a quartz district and that heavy expenditure will be necessary before a dollar's worth of gold is produced.

TRIES TO CUT USE OF COAL AND DEVISES A SUBSTITUTE

Berlin, Mar. 8.—Seeking to eliminate the tremendous consumption of coal in electric power plants, Dr. Walter Paul, electrical engineer has devised a thermo-magnetic electric generator. He believes it will supplant steam driven turbines for generating electric current.

Formerly of Marmora where he had been in the bakery and grocery business, he came to Belleville to take over his position at the O.S.D. about two and a half years ago. He had been formerly a very prominent worker for the Conservative party and was returning officer for West Hastings in the Porter-McIntosh election.

He was an Anglican and a member of Christ Church in Belleville. He was a member of Marmora Lodge A.F. & A.M. A wife and one daughter survive.

TYENDINAGA MAN OIL MILLIONAIRE

Mr. Wm. Handley of Read Now Richest Man in Bradford, Pa.

William Handley, born in Read, Tyendinaga township, and formerly of Belleville, is today the leading citizen, and several times a millionaire, of Bradford, Pa., so Mr. J. O. Herity told the Rotary Club here today. Mr. Herity was the guest speaker before the Bradford Club last Monday evening at their international night. Other Canadians were there and they made Mr. Herity right welcome. Many had become very wealthy in oil development there.

The have more "winters" over there than in this part of the world, and Mr. Herity said he saw snowdrifts fifteen to twenty feet high.

The speaker of the day, Mr. Calnan, Editor of the Picton Gazette, was late in arriving, having been delayed when his car struck in a snowdrift at Crofton. Visitors were Mr. Ted Orr, formerly of Belleville, now of Toronto, Mr. David Harrison of Trenton and Mr. Ray Hardy of Belleville, Mr. Lew Howe was introduced by Mr. F. B. Smith as a new member.

NEAR MOTOR FATALITY

Toronto, March 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jenkins escaped with only bruises when their car skidded and rolled sixty feet into the ravine.

CRUSHING PLANT 3000 TONS DAILY BEING INSTALLED

New Trackage Also Needed to Cope With increase In Haulage

150-200 MORE MEN

Regarded as Further Evidence of Industrial Revival

A stone-crushing plant with a capacity of three thousand tons per day is being installed by the Canada Cement Company at their Point Anne works. All necessary railroad tracks also are to be laid down immediately to cope with an increased freight hauling business of around 75 cars or 40 tonn capacity. This is the minimum extra traffic that will be called for by shipment of the output of the three crushing machines now being got ready to be set into position.

MORE EMPLOYEES

A large increase in employes is also being arranged for by officials of the concern and it is regarded as probable that the working staff will be augmented by not fewer than 150 or 200 new hands.

The crushed stone is to be utilized in miscellaneous concrete work and engineering projects. A high grade rock is available for crushing.

INDUSTRIAL REVIVAL

This Point Anne development is regarded in informed quarters here and in Toronto as a further evidence of the industrial revival that is sweeping over Hastings county and this section of Ontario generally.

HE IS OPTIMISTIC

"The recent plan to reopen the long closed marble quarries, and the mining activities in the Bancroft region, are phases of this same revival, declared an industrial executive today.

Sixty extra men were taken on this morning.

FINEST COLLIES ON CONTINENT ARE BRED HERE

Authorities in Boston and New York Acknowledge It

H. HUNGERFORD SELLS

Took Thirteen With Him, One Gift to Albert Payson Terhune

Mr. Henry Hungerford is the acknowledged owner and breeder of the best female collies this continent has seen. "The American Fancier and Stock-keeper" the leading periodical on dogs, published in Boston, in its issue of Feb. 27, says so. The article is by Barry W. Lacy dean of the finny in dogland and the greatest American critic. Mr. Lacy verifies the opinion of Mr. Walter H. Reeves, of this city, who said that Mr. Hungerford's lot of collie bitches were the finest on the continent.

Albert Payson Terhune well known writer of stories about collies was presented by Mr. Hungerford with the pick of the lot as a contribution to Mr. Terhune for his talent support of the collie. Mr. Terhune exiled on March 6th for England to witness the sheep trials, that is sheep dogs in competition in herding. On his return he is expected up here in Belleville.

The article by Mr. Lacy follows:

A COLLIE EPIC

One of those epochal events that sometimes come across even in dogs occurred at New York show, with full knowledge of the American Kennel Club, whose implied consent the owner of the dogs involved had been wise enough to secure beforehand for the reason that he was the judge of collies at the Garden show. This little incident over, we may say that Harry Hungerford, so long known as the owner of the Mountaineer Collies, away up in the Northland (Belleville, Ont.) and breeder of some of the best American breds we have had in the breed dogs that have been sold in the thousand dollar way, just had that natural desire to show those interested what he was doing.

FORMER BANK MESSENGER PLACED ON TRIAL FOR LIFE FACING 2 MURDER CHARGES

CORRIDORS OF COURT HOUSE AND COURT ROOM JAMMED WITH CURIOUS HUMANITY--GRAND JURY DISMISSED—SELECTION OF JURY BEGUN—INSANITY PLEA MAY BE RAISED.

Before a crowded County Court House and an array of legal talent drawn from Toronto and Hamilton as well as from Belleville, David Arthur Moon went on trial for his life this afternoon, charged with two capital counts with the slaying of Clayton McWilliams. 24, and John McGie, 23, both of this city.

Moon, looking pale but otherwise collected was placed in the dock at 2.16 p.m. Mr. Justice Kelly recited the charge and said he understood prisoner had already been once arraigned and had pleaded not guilty to the charge of murdering McGie.

At 1.57 p.m., after Hon. Mr. Justice Kelley had dismissed the Grand Jury, there being no bills of indictment pending, the forty-eight veniremen of the petit jury, from which had to be drawn the twelve jurors who will try David Arthur Moon of this city for his life, was called by Clerk of the Court Kerr.

ALIENISTS HERE

Dr. Ryan, superintendent of Rockwood Sanatorium, Kingston, and Dr. Ball of Brockville, both alienists, were present in court. They are here under direction of the Attorney General's department, with instructions to take the stand either for defence or Crown.

Hugh J. McDonald of Toronto, chief counsel for the defence, said he would probably call on them, indicating that the plea of insanity will be put forward.

WIFE TO TESTIFY

Defence is placing Mrs. Alice Moon, wife of accused, on the stand. She returned to Belleville today for the first time since the shooting.

Hon. Mr. Justice Hugh Kelly of Toronto took his seat on the bench at 2.40 p.m.

Immediately after entering Moon went into earnest conference with his counsel, Hugh J. McDonald, of Toronto, and Robert D. Macaulay, of Belleville, respecting the jury panel being called.

The second panel called by name was the first to be peremptorily challenged by the defence, and practically every man called was challenged thereafter.

Leonard Keane, of Huntingdon, was accepted. Clement Collis, challenged by challenged, by Robert D. Macaulay for the defence, Dennis Fanning, of Thurlow was accepted. The others followed thus:

H. C. Martin, agent, Stirling, challenged; Geo. H. Meagher, furnisher, Belleville, challenged; Leo Rhinze, Sidney, farmer, challenged; C. Carman, Sidney farmer, challenged; Thos. M. Prince, printer, Bancroft, accepted; Wm. Chatterton, farmer, Faraday, challenged; Jas. H. Spearkett, farmer, Dudor, challenged; James R. Bateman, Hungerford, accepted; Don. H. Taylor, farmer, Sidney, accepted; Wm. H. McCreary, agent, Belleville, challenged; Fred L. Botsford farmer, Sidney, challenged; Thomas O'Hara, woodworker, Belleville, accepted; Joseph O'Neill, farmer, Marmora, challenged; Samuel Derbyshire,

The election by the Crown prosecutor, H. A. Munro of Hamilton, to bring the two distinct capital charges against accused, involving two trials with two juries, gave the prosecution a double chance of a conviction, R. D. Macaulay pointed out today, but added there was no other course than to accede, since that matter was within the discretion of the Crown.

Preliminary evidence was called by the Crown, including Ernest McCormick, photographer, who testified as to taking photographs illustrating the scene after the shooting, and Charles Campbell, city engineer who gave testimony as to making blue prints of the scene of the tragedy. R. D. Macaulay for defence gave both witnesses a searching cross-examination.

SEED TRAIN HERE TO-DAY

Many from the country and not a few from the city today visited the seed cleaning demonstration train sent out by the Ontario Government for the purpose of demonstrating the latest devices, etc., in reference to seed cleaning. It proved to be most instructive and will no doubt, be productive of good. The train consists of three cars, is in charge of Mr. A. R. G. Smith who has other assistants.

One car contains power and hand seed cleaning machinery, demonstrating in a most conclusive manner that grains of various kinds can be thoroughly cleaned of foul and other seeds.

The second car contains seeds grown in Ontario, consisting of wheat oats, barley, peas, beans, clover seed, mammoth seed, a special exhibit of alfalfa seed grown in fields and sweet clover exhibits. Literature in reference to these seeds and the process of cleaning same was procurable. Showings of grain grown in Ontario were exhibited and were certainly fine specimens of grain. This car was without doubt the centre of attraction today, the great majority of visitors.

In the third car lectures upon certain grains and growing of same are given by speakers well qualified to talk upon each subjects.

BELLEVILLE TO SEND DELEGATES TO CHICAGO

Plans for the making up of a special train from Belleville to connect with the special leaving Toronto on Saturday, June 19, to carry pilgrims to the Eucharistic Congress to be held in Chicago June 20 to 24, are being got under way, and it is likely that quite a large number of Belleville people will attend the great religious ceremonial.

KINGSTON WON

IN ONTARIO SCHOOLS

On the ground of expense alone it does not seem likely that any move will be made in this era toward instruction of French in public schools of Ontario, as suggested at the recent meeting here of the Urban School Trustees association. The suggestion has nowhere been met so far as we have noticed with anything but unflinching if friendly opposition.

The knowledge of French is highly desirable but only as an accomplishment not as a necessity in Ontario, as opposed to the situation in Quebec where, with the vast majority of the population French-speaking, English is a necessity in all commercial centres; and all persons ambitious for a career in the professions or higher ranks of industry must know English. English is an official language there, on a plane with French. Here French is not an official language, it is merely heard and there is little use for it written or spoken. This is not, to say a word against the teaching of French to those who desire to attain it; there is not argument against a student studying French and certainly a person with two languages is far superior to a person with only one in many situations. But in the province it is not necessary to have an intimate knowledge of French in order to fulfil the duties of citizenship intelligently.

Were French put on the curriculum of all schools it would mean extra teachers and extra expense and that just at present will not be tolerated.

PROTECTED INDUSTRIES

There seems to be no question about it: The Ontario grape growers have cause to treat the Ontario Temperance Act with a great deal of respect and veneration. The Province has it on the authority of Mr. A. A. Craiso, who presided at the joint convention of the Ontario and Niagara Fruit Growers' convention here, that "the grape business has increased enormously since prohibition." And the reason for the increase can be be gathered from the same gentleman's remark, "I doubt very much if any government will dare interfere with the manufacture of native wines. If they do, they have more courage than any political party that I have ever seen."

Herein we see the benefits of industrial protection. As an instrument of such protection the O.T.A. is even more effective than the tariff. The brewers and distillers are competitors of wine makers in the production of alcoholic beverages. The O.T.A. puts the brewers and distillers out of business so far as this province is concerned, and leaves the field open to the wine makers. Not only may they produce wine in unlimited quantities, but may sell it to the people of the province. Their wine is the only intoxicating drink that can be legally sold in Ontario. Only one other Canadian industry enjoys such a measure of protection. It is the butter industry. Because oleomargarine competes with butter, the importation, manufacture and sale of oleomargarine is by law prohibited.

Wine making in Ontario and butter marking throughout the country are the two most highly protected Canadian industries.

"SCANDAL SHEETS"

The government ban upon the circulation in Canada of the New York Daily Mirror, one of the most daring of the tabloid "scandal sheets", will meet with the hearty approval of the thinking parents of the Dominion. It may be that the denial of the privilege of using the Canadian mails to Liberty and to the Daily Mirror will be read as a warning by the publishers of other offending publications circulating in this country and inspire them to elevate the tone of their periodicals. If they do not, the postmaster-general has intimated that he will mete out the same brand of corrective he prescribed for the two publications referred to above. Liberty's offense was that it published an article reflecting upon the British royal family, an article so distasteful to patriotic Canadian subjects that it brought an insistent demand for summary action by the postmaster-general. The offense of the Daily Mirror was of another kind. The editorial policy of this periodical is to crowd into its pages, in capsule form, the "dirt of the day". It professes in its editorial columns and by its treatment of this class of news to be holding up shocked hands, when the truth is that scandal is its very life-breath. To make sure that even the dullest of morons will thoroughly understand what the current scandals are all about after cases.

it tells the feature story of the day in picture form. And who, were the readers in Canada of this periodical? Our girls and boys!

THE AWAKENING OF THE EAST

Constantinople Hahimetti:

Every day Britain appears to become more nervous of a revival of oriental peoples which would jeopardize her world domination. She is above all afraid of Turkey since it is the latter nation which leads the movement, and is giving other nations a pernicious example. It is for this reason that Britain opposes all Turkish aspirations.

DIPLOMACY DEFINED

The Argonaut:

Earl Balfour once told an amusing story on an occasion when a young man asked him to define diplomacy. Diplomacy, he said, is well defined in the oriental story of the rajah who dreamt that all his teeth fell out, and who sent for a soothsayer and asked him to interpret it. "Sire," remarked the soothsayer, "the teeth are your children, and your dream means that all your family, even down to your youngest child, will die before you." The rajah was so infuriated by this interpretation that he had the soothsayer beaten. Then he sent for another soothsayer, told his dream again and asked once more for an interpretation. The second soothsayer, a true diplomat, assumed a beaming, joyous look, and exclaimed: "Sire, the teeth are your children and this most auspicious dream means that your life will be prolonged beyond the lives of all your family. Even the youngest will not outlast you." The second soothsayer was rewarded with a purse f gold.

CANADIAN COAL FOR CANADA

Le Canada:

The government is being asked to reduce the rates on coal from Nova Scotia to the central provinces. If this request should be granted, a similar demand would naturally be made in respect of coal from Alberta. But, apart from the fact that the fixing of rates is not a government task, we must avoid at all costs heaping burdens immoderately on our railways, which are already operated with a heavy deficit. The economic independence of Canada, from the fuel point of view, undoubtedly deserves certain sacrifices. But the question is a complex one and the charges must be distributed with equity and wisdom.

LAND OF LIBERTY

London Nation and Athaeneaum:

The violent fascist campaign for the suppression of the "Corriere della Sera" has had its effect. The people who hold a controlling interest in the journal became alarmed, and found means to get rid of the Brothers Albertini, under whose direction it has attained its greatest position in European journalism. The "Corriere" will not be suppressed, but it will cease to count. All is saved but honour. . . . We think Signor Mussolini is wise in deciding not to come to London. The proposal of the unions to make his journey impossible was too much in the spirit of fascism itself, but it is idle for Signor Mussolini to expect that a government which is too weak to permit, in press or parliament, fair criticism, free discussion, or even accurate reporting, can command respect abroad. The successful intrigue against the "Corriere della Sera" has cost him the last vestige of sympathy he may have retained among journalists accustomed to the traditions of western civilization.

TO MAKE CHINOOK WINDS HELP PRAIRIE FARMERS WITH ODD NEW SCHEME

Calgary, Alta., Mar. — A novel scheme to harness the forces of the Chinook winds as an aid to the crops of Alberta, has been advanced by O. F. Richards, of Moore Jaw, Sask. He believes that his scheme will result in the saving of millions of dollars to farmers in the semi-arid districts of the province.

"Governments and individuals will devote time and money to assist plant and animal breeding. Vast sums of money are spent on machinery and experimental work with the idea of promoting better crops", Mr. Richards said. "To these same ends, the irrigation systems in Alberta had been built, with gratifying results, yet one deadly enemy remains, the Chinook winds in the dry belt."

WIND IS COSTLY

The wind, according to Mr. Richards, destroyed crops to the value of several million dollars in 1924, while great damage, he asserted had been done during other seasons.

"The wind, itself, however," he said, "can be made to benefit, if it can be re-laden with moisture, as when it leaves the Pacific."

Mr. Richard continues:

"As the wind travels overland eastward, it produces a mildness and a humidity of climate which make a fruit growers' paradise in British Columbia.

"As the mountains are reached and the moisture is condensed by their cold heights, it is precipitated on the mountain tops, and the wind passes on comparatively dry. On the downward trend from the mountains it gains in velocity and consequent heat, so that when it reaches the prairie it is like a hot, thirsty runner and ready to take its thirst at the expense of the growing crops.

"Are there any natural laws which can be brought into play to prevent this calamity?

HERE'S HOW

"The woodcrift over Ireland and parts of England produces vegetation whose high quality is a matter of common knowledge. The continuous spray at Niagara Falls carried overland, gives another example on a smaller scale, where luxurious vegetation results from wind-carried moisture.

"We have therefore facts from nature, that temperature can be lowered and drought overcome where the wind carries sufficient moisture.

"The idea then is to return to the Chinook at a point east of the mountains, a spray by means of a powerful pumping plant placed over a dam built to conserve the surplus water from the mountains.

SPRAY THE AIR

"From this a main pipe-line should be installed above ground at right angles to the Chinook. At intervals on this pipe-line would be erected perpendicular pipes equipped with spray nozzles.

"With the assistance of the meteorological service, the pumps will be set in motion in time to meet the oncoming Chinook with a fine spray, which will be kept up as long as the wind continues. Thus an atmospheric humidity again will be produced and will be carried over the prairie, a blessing to the farmers' crop."

Mr. Richards believes he has interested the authorities in his scheme and has hopes of testing out his idea at an early date.

CANADA'S RICHES NOT BOUNDLESS

Trumpeters of Country's "Inconceivable Wealth" Rebuked

Montreal, March 8.—"There is at much consistency in speaking of "inconceivable wealth" in this country as there is, using Premier Baldwin's expression, in speaking of a 'chilly hell.' "

This was the dramatic language and the pessimistic tone with which C. M. Campbell, mining engineer, of Montreal, startled the Canadian Mining Institute.

"Unfortunately the river is frozen", remarked one member, "or we might go down in a body and drown ourselves."

Mr. Campbell asserted that he had covered Canada, mostly afoot, from Victoria to Sydney and from Pelee Island to Hudson Bay. "These resources never existed in anything but a limited quantity," he declared

"and the depletion has been such that, in important cases, only a remnant remains."

"Over-estimation of Canada's natural resources and talk about Canada's 'inconceivable wealth' is the antithesis of patriotism, and the curse of Canada," said Mr. Campbell, and he quoted in derision Premier King's "we have still untouched resources beyond our wildest dreams." Sir Arthur Currie—"Canada's resources are as yet merely scratched," and Arthur Meighen —"Canada more richly endowed, perhaps, than any other country in the world."

Letters To The Editor

ENGLISHMEN AND THE EMPIRE

To the Editor of "The Intelligencer,"

Belleville, Ontario.

Dear Sir,—

A recent letter in the morning press re: "Send the Ruling Class to the Empire," as well as a speech by the Archbishop of York (a Scot) in the York-shire Post—constituted at length up the superiority of the Scots over the English," stirs up the thought, What is it all about? Why all the fuss over the Scots?

What country in history has surpassed England's roll of great men?

However, when the war was on, more or sweeping high places in Canada than Englishmen and their part in the war, and even a judge in Ontario (great Scot) informed us that Scots dominated this province. The Scotch take much pleasure in lauding themselves; it is a national characteristic.

Now, as a matter of fact, Scotch law does not "rule" over one square mile of the British Empire outside of Scotland and the adjacent islands.

Examine the records of Nova Scotia, one of Scotland's colonies, which in 1921 at Annapolis celebrated the Bicentenary of the introduction of English Common law into that province.

Let it be said in candor that irrepressible of the Scots will not be tolerated it is absurd. It is not true.

Turning to men who count in Empire statesmanship, do-like, Inkiour, Balfour, Horne, Bannerman and Rosebery, entrate Baldwin, Chamberlain, Bickenhead, Bonnater, Grey (Viscount), Asquith, Simons, Churchill, Harcourt, Curzon, Salisbury Chamberlain (Joseph), Morley, Crew, the Cecils, etc. etc.?

Do Gladsone, Aberdeen and Bute, sink into oblivion Bright, Palmerston, Cobden, Derby the Rupert of debate, Russell, Peel, Melbourne, Grey (30-34), Grenville, Fox, the Pitts, Walpole, etc. etc.? Scots evidently no kinds.

EMPIRE BUILDING—What of Milner, Kitchener, Cromer, Rhodes, Brooke, Grey, Carnarvon, Ruffle, Cook, Wolfe, Clive, etc. Who are they? What did they do for the Empire? These were Englishmen.

LAWS OF ENGLAND—What do we find? Halsbury, Blackstone, Hale, Coke, Fitzherbert, Littleton (1481), etc. Have these a place?

THE NAVY—(A factor in the Empire)—Nelson, Hood, Jervis, Rodney, Benbow, Saxon, Hawke, Blake, and on to Drake, etc.

ARMY—Rawlings, Harrington, Brock, Fraser, Alleyn, Kitchener, Marlborough and Cromwell can scarcely be overlooked.

IN Canada—Walker (Sir Edmund), Osler (Sir William), Goldwin Smith, Saunders (Charquis wheat), Borden, Fielding, Abbott, Cartwright, Sydenham, Durham, Brock, Simcoe, Dorchester, etc. have counted.

RED PEPPERS QUICKLY END CHEST COLDS

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a hot cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the old remedy that brings quicker relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates it quickly down into cold, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold rheumatism, backache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Red Pepper Rub made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known.

PILES GO QUICK

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy and called his prescription HEMROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a right money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside application. Get a package of HEMROID from druggist or mail drug store today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you.

NEW YORKERS HEAR BELLS OF SAINT PAUL'S

Incident in Four Hours of Transatlantic Phone Talk

PROGRESS IN WIRELESS

Audibility Equal to Local Land Telephone—British End Better

New York, March —Scores of leisurely conversations were held by telephone between New York and London this morning between 8.30 a.m. and 12.30—1.30 p.m. and 5.30 p.m. in London—at a demonstration of progress in the trans-Atlantic radio telephone by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Radio Corporation of America and the British General Post Office.

More than thirty engineers and newspapermen talked from the telephone headquarters at 24 Walker street to a similar group at the British Post Office in London. The hearing on the New York side was equal to local service. The Englishmen protested that it was much better than they were used to.

Representatives of the New York newspapers and of many press services were guests of the telephone company at the New York office and held conversations, one at a time, with about thirty British press representatives. When the conversation lagged, someone on the other side touched the microphone out of the window of the British Post Office building while the bells of St. Paul's Cathedral, just across the street, were pealing. They rang beautifully across the Atlantic.

Thirty or forty persons with ear pieces listened to each conversation and the thrill of hearing London as clearly as the Bronx or Brooklyn kept them interested through four solid hours of small talk. Sentences were blurred by static, but this occurred very rarely. Practically no trouble was experienced at the American end of the 3,500-mile conversation, but there were occasional complaints from the British end.

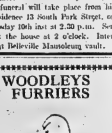

Three and a half years of experiment on transatlantic telephony preceded the demonstration. One reason for holding it is that many radio experts have contended such a thing could be done to equalize the weekly cost of international conversations across the Atlantic on the 5,778-metre and the 2,650- metre wave length. Inquiries were received at the telephone office in such volume that it was decided to answer them all at once by a test which would show the progress made in the direction of commercial service between England and the United States.

FINEST COLLIES ARE BRED HERE

And he did. He had new crates made for nine young bitches that he had bought and raised and shipped them to New York so they could be seen by the right people. The judging over, he took several well known fanciers to see their stock. That evening of the show the writer accompanied the owner and Mr. Belt, of the famous Bellhaven, to look at the bench dogs. We had expected to see two or three collies and the others just collies, but what was our surprise when all we saw were opened to see a whirling bunch of the most beautiful young bitches it has ever been our fortune to see, and that might Mr. Belt's Standard have ruled that he never saw such a lot of young collies owned by one man before. Their heads, their bone heads and particularly good eyes and expression, their abundant coats and condition and pleasing deportment made an old collie lover wish for one every one of them. They were darlings and such quality and real collie coats that! "Well", we remarked, if we could afford it we would start a collie kennel to beat the world with this bunch," and of course unknown to the writer, not two seconds before, Mrs. Belt had decided to take one home and there you are! It is well known that Mrs. Belt is supreme in dogs, but she is not strong on the distaff side of the house, but with this bunch she can do anything she likes.

They are by Mr. Hungerford's Monteviner who is a son of Ormond Aromdale, that it will be remembered was sold to Canada and long for some time in the woods, and that this winter in 1925 showed best of all breeds at Providence, so naturally we felt a little warm towards those young ladies apart from their beauty. They are out of two or three litters and Mr. Hungerford still has one or two left at home. It was a wonderful showing and an object lesson in good mating.

Mr. Hungerford said that Mr. Lacy being somewhat deaf had evidently not heard the whole transaction. Mr. Hungerford took thirteen collies to New York. After the judging had ended he invited the leaders of prominent kennels to inspect his consignment. In less than one hour from the time he and the party left Madison Square Garden the whole thirteen were gone Seven bitches were purchased by the Bellhaven Kennels Mrs. Belt one by the Arnold Kennels and others by Mr. Wallack, Mr. White, of Orange, N.J., Mr. Nichols, of New York. And the last one was presented to Mr. Terhune, Mr. Hungerford having heard that Mr. Terhune had lost his winning puppy of the year.

MOTOR PARTY GETS TO FLORIDA

Nothing daunted, the Booth party set off down the state highway and by day by day made steadily for the south. Conditions, Mr. Booth recounted, were bad enough in all conscience, but by no means impossible. When at last the northern region of snow was left behind the region of mud and atrocious roads was entered upon, and considerable time was lost after Washington had faded far to the northward.

Despite all difficulties, the motoring adventurers persevered, sometimes travelling right through the night to make up in some measure for the time lost at bad places, and finally arrived in St. Petersburg on their scheduled time.

There was still a short distance to cover, to the plant near St. Petersburg, when Mr. Booth wrote to his home here. The party left Belleville early on the morning of Feb. 18, and reached Grand Rapids, 400 by road, on Saturday, Feb. 20.

Leaving that city on Tuesday, Feb. 23, the party covered the two thousand mile journey to the Florida city in nine days, arriving Thursday, March 4.

QUEENS VICTORS ROUND IS TIED

Kingston Basketeers Led at Start and Could Not Be Overcome

HECTIC LAST PERIOD

Belleville Outplayed Winners at Finish But Lost 24-23

Possibly it was a case of stage fright that prevented the 7 Basketeers from hitting their stride in the early stages of their game with Queen's University, at the latter's court on Saturday evening. In any event, it was this delay which cost them the game for although they kept improving as the game progressed and in the final period carried the play to their opponents, the tricolor managed to weather the storm just long enough to retain the lead gained in the first half and to win on 24-23.

On a previous occasion when these two teams met at the Campbell B. Gymnasium, the Y Boys were able to obtain a one point margin over the University representatives in a close checking game which ended in a 25-24 score. As each team have won all their other games and in winning and losing a game to each other they are tied for the group honors, it would be difficult to pick two closer matched teams than Queen's intermediates and the Local Y Quintette.

In the first half of Saturday night's game the tricolor started right out by forging ahead to a lead of seven in succession and for a time things looked rather bad for Armstrong. Weir and Co. As most of the Queens' goals were shot from west centre on the defence, it became quite evident to the locals that they would have to go out after their opponents' checks and that they proceeded to do with much more satisfactory results. During the evening half the Belleville boys had very little luck up on the front line, getting only two field goals and two points on fouls for a total of six while the opposing team netted 14 points from half that number of shots which found their mark.

Throughout the second half, Belleville were the aggressors and although they missed many more on the occasions and tried everything they knew to stop the locals, they were only saved by the timekeeper's bell, until 17.10 and with the visitors crowding right on their heels it was a tense sixty seconds that closed the game and gave Queen's an even 24 to 23 smallest possible margin at one point.

For the locals there was no outstanding player, every member of the team combining with his team mates in an unselfish manner with the result that the scoring was divided amongst the whole lineup, both forwards and guards. Cole, who is a very effective defensive game, was to previous games had been kept off the score column, sank two baskets and although the victim of several bad spells which resulted from scrambles for the ball it did not appear to decrease his effectiveness. Ross was the one who shared in scoring were Faulkner, Weir and Armstrong. The relief work was looked after by Buchanan, Morrison and Hurley and when these boys were in action the lineup was in no way weakened.

THE TEAMS AND SCORE

Belleville—Forwards, Armstrong (6) Hertiy, Barlow, Centre, Faulkner (7) Morrison, Guards, Weir (4), Cole (4), Buchanan, Score 22.

LOST THREE FINGERS

Thomas Poister of this city, an employee of the Belleville Electric and Stamping Limited, was on Saturday the victim of a painful accident. Three fingers of his right hand were caught in the gears and crushed in such an extent that amputation was necessary by Dr. Robertson, who attended the victim.

J. O. HERITY ADDRESSES MINISTERIAL ASSOC.

The Belleville Ministerial Association met at the Y.M.C.A. at 10.30 a.m. today. Mr. J. O. Herity of the Chamber of Commerce addressed the Association on "Trouble and Its Remedy".

After debating the personal attitude regarding Church Membership and completing the Ministers on the folly quality of their preaching and the large attendance at the regular preaching services he said, "All is not well with the Church today."

There are Three main causes of trouble:—

(a) Drifting away from Christ.
(b) Intolerance and Persecution.
(c) Opposition to Progress.

The remedy he prescribed as "Get back to Christ."

The New Creed he declared to be: I believe in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man.

The Text, he outlined as I will do my best to serve God and my Fellowmen.

The Authority, he showed to be:

"And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul and with all thy mind and with all thy strength: This is the first Commandment.

"And the second is like unto it, namely this: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. There is none other greater Commandment than these". Mark 12:

BRIAND UPSET BRINGS SERIOUS FRENCH CRISIS

Necessary Taxation Halted and Geneva Work Crippled

SITUATION IS DARK

Paris Believes Briand Will Remain Foreign Minister

Paris, March 8.—When in the murky beginning of a dismal day Aristide Briand, his shoulders more stooped than ever and his face white and drawn with fatigue, walked out of the French Chamber of Deputies after the keystone of his fiscal bill had been defeated there began what may well be the most serious governmental crisis in the history of the Third Republic.

Because of its deep-seated causes, besides it is over the crisis may do tremendous harm to France at home and abroad. One need be no pessimist to say the situation is most disquieting.

What is the situation, domestic and foreign, on which the present Paris muddle may have such effect?

At home, with an unbalanced budget, due to failure to impose taxation sufficient to carry the enormous burden of the war debt of France, the Chamber is divided against itself in an extent which has rendered it impotent. There is a majority neither to the Right, in Centre nor to the Left. The bloc of the Left parties, having more than half the votes, will not support a Right Government, has proved over and over again that it is incapable of governing itself, and now has rejected the best Centre Government which may well be imagined.

BOUGHT TO AVOID CRISIS

For let there be no illusion that Mr. Briand fell on a fluke vote. Breaking with French parliamentary practice, the man who eight times before had been Premier had been put in a minority eleven times in the last month. He stuck to power against his policies and against his wishes because he wished, for the country's sake, to avoid the crisis which is now upon France. There is no question about his being beaten.

And what next? Dissolution? That is impracticable, for not only has the new election law not been passed, but this year's budget has not been voted. Not only have extra taxes to balance the budget not been voted but the budget unbalanced has not been voted. Were the budget passed and were the new election law in existence, M. Briand would probably advise President Doumergue to dissolve the Chamber, which has proved so unworthy of its mandate, but under existing conditions it appears next to impossible to follow that course for the moment.

PUBLIC WANTS ACTION

Of course it is possible that a great wave of public resentment might

Sydney, March 8.—(via Reuter's)—In an effort to get a working majority in the New South Wales Legislative Council says the Sunday Times, Premier J. T. Lang and Attorney-General E. A. McTiernan urged Governor Sir Dudley de Chair to agree to the appointment of four women councillors.

But how about fourscore and thirteen and threescore and nineteen of it following one vocation.

The subject of this sketch, Thomas Macdonald, was born on the 7th day of Nov., A.D., 1833. His birth place was where the residence of the late David Lawrence was near Bells Creek on the first line of Thurlow. His next place of residence was Point Anne where he now lives. His career as a fisherman began in A.D., 1847, when he was 14 years of age. And he is "yet in the right following his old and continuous occupation. He appears hale and hearty, a testimony to the invigorating power of open air work along the Beaches of the Quinte.

Mr. Macdonald's, two brothers, Nicholas, 4 years younger, residing on Herchimer Ave., and William R. about 85 years of age, residing at Point Anne, are yet living. They also were fishermen, but have retired. If this reaches the eye of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, would he not think Thomas Macdonald is entitled to a Veteran Fisherman's Medal for following this strenuous work for 79 years under the exactions or guidance of various Departments and Ministers?

For many years while Mr. Macdonald fished the fishermen had to salt and barrell their catch (with the exception of what was sold on the markets). They do not have to do such work now. The fish are packed in ice and shipped. As there is a steady demand for fresh fish here and in the states, such exportations help to keep our dollar at or near par over there.

Before the C.T.R. was built, Mr. Macdonald frequently shipped fish by the stage line that ran between Kingston and Toronto that was operated by George Mink of Kingston, the stages changed horses at a hotel that then stood near the Point Anne lane when Mr. Macdonald first began to fish what are called "Game Fish". Bass, pickerel and pike were plentiful (with the exception of pickerel) the fishermen never had much sale for these fish, those most in demand being white fish and herring. Young pickerel, bass and pike require shallow water where there is much game vegetation on the bottom and generally choose the northerly side of waters for their residence, while mature pickerel, which are generally choose the northerly side of waters for their residence, while mature pickerel, which are generally are now unfit for young fish.

Towns and cities usually along a river emptying into a lake or bay have allowed their rivers that should be things of beauty, to become sordid unsanitary ditches, defiling the breeding grounds and depositing filthy sludge for miles along the shores and on the marine plants the young fish or their food feeds on them the government introduced the carp or coarse unsaleable fish that destroys an immense amount of the spawn of our game fish.

Many thoughtless or designing persons instead of attacking the real cause try to destroy the ancient calling of the fishermen and prevent him from fishing that a few select persons here and aliens will have an exclusive hunting and fishing preserve and they whom they appear to consider a common rabble kept out. False statements are made so those unacquainted with the conditions will think the old fishermen of the bay are great offenders.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

On Wednesday, Feb. 17, about 50 friends and neighbors of Mr. Young and family of the Fifth Concession of Sidney invaded their home. After a friendly visit all were called to attention. Several were called on to say a few words and each in turn spoke in the highest appreciation of Mr. and Mrs. Young and family and regretted their removal from their midst. An address was then read by Miss Lida Badgley as follows:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Young, Walter and Annie,—

It was with very deep regret that we learned a few weeks ago of your intention to move from our midst, and tonight we as friends have taken the liberty to invade your home and spend another pleasant hour or two in social intercourse before having to bid you good bye.

We regret Mrs. Young that your health is not the best and hope that you will be no worse for this evening's excitement, but trust that you will soon be restored to perfect health and strength.

Although but a few years have been spent in our community, we feel that we have come to know you and value your friendship very highly and we will indeed miss you very much. But as this life is a series of changes and partings we must look at the bright side and say as the poet:

Though this life is both sunshine and shadow
One thing we must bear in mind,
If we always face the sunshine,
The shadows will fall behind.

And so we are reminded that you are only going a few miles away and that we may meet you occasionally.

As a token of esteem and remembrance we ask you to accept this chair, not for its intrinsic value, but that as you use it daily you will think of your friends in the community.

In closing we wish you all the best of health, happiness and prosperity in your undertakings.

Signed on behalf of the community by Florence Holden.

Milton Seward.
Lorne Badgley.

RENDEZVOUS OF OLD-TIME PRINTERS IS HIVE OF WISDOM

1.—Typographical Terrace, headquarters of the International Typographical Union, Indianapolis, Ind.
2.—Girl employes of union await movie camera man on banks of the lily-pond, Typographical Terrace.
3.—South tower of the Union Printers' Home, Colorado Springs, Colo.
4.—"Dad" Holland, comedian, in the Typographical Union's motion picture, "His Brother's Keeper."
5.—Old-time hand typesetting contest at the Union Printers' Home.

Old-time printers, now residents of the Union Printers Home in Colorado Springs, Colo., include glob-trotters of the Victrian era, gold-rush pioneers, men who set Colonel Watterson's copy, men who knew Dana, McCullagh, Bret Harte, Mark Twain and Horace Field, not to mention a few who saw Lincoln.

Any historian who wants facts from eyewitnesses may call at the Home to find out who struck won the Civil War, who help Billy Patterson, or who turned in the alarm on the Chicago fire. Men of retentive memories, who, as printers, helped to illuminate world events over three-quarters of a century, and, as "tourists," visited nearly every city and hamlet in the country, now rest in the shade of the Home, disputing and exchanging reminiscences.

Unexpected supplies of historical talent were discovered at the Home in the course of the motion picture's filming. In one scene veteran type-setters engaged in an old-fashioned "bout" contest, using in stick and rule, both possible to the trade from the days of Gutenberg until the invention of type-setting machines. Rheumatic old fingers proved they had not entirely lost their cunning.

The motion picture opens with scenes laid at Typographical Terrace, headquarters of the Typographical Union, in which employes, including Anthony J. Drexel and Gregory Childs, Philadelphia capitalist, encouraged the printers to proceed with their plan. Since that time they have developed the Home without assistance from any source and today it represents an investment of more than $3,000,000.

The pension system and a mortuary benefit fund provide additional safeguards for the happiness and security of printers and their families. Welfare provisions and insistence on sanitary working conditions have diminished the ravages of tuberculosis, dread disease of the trade, which in earlier years destroyed hundreds of printers each year. Records of the union show that the average lifetime of the union printer has been advanced from 41.25 years in 1900 to 57.63 years in 1925, the increase coming gradually as conditions have improved.

The International Typographical Union is composed of 721 subordinate unions in the United States, Canada, the Hawaiian Island and Porto Rico.

Among the Home residents are many bachelors and widowers who have spent long lives gathering peace in the highways and byways. Married men, among other members of the union, usually elect to forfeit the union's pension of $8 a week in preference to living at the Home.

The union's motion picture, recently released, sets forth its welfare activities of organization, hence the title, "His Brother's Keeper." The Home is one of the oldest of the union's beneficial institutions and serves as a sanctuary for the aged as well as a hospitium. It was erected in 1901, being the realization a dream, fostered by union members for more than twenty years. A gift of $100,000 by Anthony J. Drexel and Gregory Childs, Philadelphia capitalists, encouraged the printers to proceed with their plan. Since that time they have

BENNETT MINES

Bennett mine at Sekanika is now pushing the contract for sinking of a two compartments shaft to a depth of 200 feet. The big Keighley engine purchased from W. S. Haynes & Son, is now in full operation, driving direct connected the Rand-Sullivan single type air compressor, bought with the engine, as well as driving the large double drum hoist, and the electric lighting generator and machine shop equipment. This engine, a four-cylinder vertical, is an entirely new design, having a maximum capacity to 200 h.p., and carries the above load continuously 24 hours per day. The mine is operating three shifts of eight hours each. The engine was specially built for the Bennett Co. by Waldon Engine Co., Keighley, Eng., and to the order of Messrs. Haynes & Son. The Bennett Co., headed by W. F. Bennett, of Toronto, is rather a unique Canadian organization inasmuch as tempting offers of capital from outside Canada have been refused. They are developing the famous Smith Lobine property, which caused a sensation a few years ago because of the amazingly high values at its lithiate ores. Negotiations for the development of this property were halted with the outbreak of the war, but since the Bennett Co. has acquired control, it has jumped into prominence as one of the fastest developing mines in Ontario.—Advt.

MAROONS TAKE PLAY-OFF PLACE

Defeated Canadiens 4-3 in Overtime Tilt in Montreal

PITTSBURG V. BOSTON

Three Games This Week Will Decide Who Gets in Money

Montreal, March 8.—Montreal Maroons made certain of a place in the championship play-off of the National Hockey League when they defeated Canadiens, 4 to 3, in an overtime game at the Arena Saturday night. It was the typical gamble, struggle between these two local sextettes in which the Maroons thrice took the lead. Bobe Robert finally by bringing victory and a place in the play-downs when he caged his second goal of the night two minutes and 40 seconds after the start of the extra session.

Regardless of how many games Boston and Pittsburgh may win in their series on the home season, or which of the two United States teams eventually reaches the play-offs, the local club can not be counted from a chance in the eliminations.

But the Maroons made certain of their berth only after being subjected to the severest shock by Canadiens, who at one stage of the game took the lead, and had the Montreal team discouraged and faded to the point where many Maroon supporters saw visions not only of the game, but all play-off possibilities slipping out.

FOR THIRD PLACE

Pittsburgh and Boston are left to fight it out for the third play-off position in the National Hockey League race, Ottawa and Montreal having definitely qualified for positions. And from the programme within the next week the decision between these two teams should be available at least by Friday night when the two American teams by the one another at Pittsburgh.

Now that the Maroons are definitely in the playoff, it is likely that the regular players will be given a proper rest to fit them for the eliminations, and that such players as Bill Phillips, Frank Carson, Toots Halway, Dinsmore and Rotheild will be given the brunt of the work f rom now till the end of the regular season, more designed to give experience to this lot of players.

A Famous Man

The originator of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the blood, as well as the "Favorite Prescription" for women, was Dr. Ray V. Pierce, a practising physician in Western Pennsylvania. He early moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and established The Invalids' Hotel, then he put up his house remedies in the World's Dispensary, where they were carefully prepared. Yes, roots, barks and herbs, and placed them with druggists all over the U. S. and Canada.

For over half a century, Dr. Pierce's Discovery, for the blood, has been sold in larger quantities by druggists than any other medicine. It is a tonic in its effect on the stomach and digestive apparatus; an alterative in its action on the blood, liver and skin. It increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, enriches the blood, clears the skin of eruptions, frees blemishes, and makes both sexes and women feel as they did when they were young and care free.

Ask your nearest druggist for Doctor Pierce's family medicines, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10 cents for a trial package of tablets to Doctor Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont.

Cyril Tolley, England's famous amateur golfer, has about decided that as a tennis player he is one of the best golfers in all Great Britain.

Due to England's recent failures in the Davis Cup matches, Tolley, who plays a good game at tennis, decided to forsake the links for the tennis courts, in an effort to restore British prestige.

Recently he visited Gleneagles to compete in both golf and tennis tournaments. Prior to the start of the two events he made it known that he would quit the links for all time if he made a better showing in the tennis tournament than golf.

It looks as if Tolley will continue to be one of England's best golfers. He won the golf tournament with a total of 141, but failed to survive the opening rounds of the tennis event.

The Philadelphia Athletics are staging the Baltimore International team in a series of ten games.

All the world champion Pittsburg Pirates, with th exception of Max Carey, who is in a hospital, and George Grantham, who is receiving muscle treatment, are now in camp.

BADMINTON PLAY ENDURANCE TEST

Arkman of Montreal is Champion After Hard Fought Duel

Winnipeg, Man., March 8.—Eastern Canada gained the odd championship in five title contests against the brilliant quartette from the Pacific coast, who shouldered the hopes of the west in the struggle for the badminton supremacy of the Dominion here on Saturday.

Three championships, including both singles and ladies' doubles, were acquired by the eastern stars, while the men's and mixed doubles went to the British Columbians.

Every final was productive of regional competition and provided scin tilating duels with endurance and the well-known "breaks" deciding the majority of the games.

In gaining the singles title C. W. Aikman, the Montreal speed demon, was forced to extend himself against Jack Muir, the Vancouver ace. Having won their way through the semi-finals earlier in the day, the pair were near exhaustion at the conclusion of the herculean battle.

Despite a gallant fight, Miss Eileen Georget of Vancouver failed to wrest the singles crown from the defending champion Mrs. E. F. Cole, Toronto. The youthful coast star started off like a sure winner and stumped the more experienced adversary to gain a five-point advantage in the early stages of the first set. It was only a temporary eclipse of the champion, however, who recovered so unexpectedly that Miss George found herself in arrears before she again found her bearings.

In the extra-point session Miss George uncovered some sparkling strokes to keep in the running. The set ended 17-16 in their favor. So pleased was Muir with the play of his partner that he embraced her after had scored the winning point. The gallery joined in a spontaneous demonstration as the players retired for a brief rest. nl the deciding game the westerners combined nicely to overwhelm their tiring opponents, 15-5.

Three games were required to settle the men's open doubles event. Robert Hill of Kelowna, paired with Jack Muir, Vancouver, engaged Aikman and McLaren, Montreal. Despite the strenuous play through which Aikman and Muir had progressed, both acquitted themselves with honor.

CORBYVILLE 6, CANNIFTON 2

Was Pretty Even Until the Last Few Minutes—Details

Corbyville defeated Canniton in the final game of hockey which was played on Saturday, by trimming their rivals 6-2. The game was called at 2.30 and from the time the game start ed till it finished, it was very snappy hockey, both teams being evenly matched. Corbyville worked a nice combination and this is what Canniffon lacked, although they had a strong defence to come up against, the yalid some rather wild shooting before getting near the goal. Pope in goal for Canniton did nice saving and deserves credit, as also does L. Elsker, the mighty heavyweight of the Corbyville Six deserve appreciation for his kindness of letting the rubber go twice. The score stood 2-2 until the last fifteen minutes of play when Corbyville broke loose and put the old rubber in four times.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

Betty Bronson, twice honored by J. M. Barrie, has more than justified that noted author's faith in her.

It was Barrie, a year ago, who picked Betty, then an absolute unknown, to play the title role in Paramount's screen version of his immortal fantasy, "Peter Pan." And it was Barrie again, a few months back, who unhesitatingly selected the now world-famous Betty for the leading part in the picturization of his notable stage success, "A Kiss for Cinderella."

As the heroine of "Peter Pan," Betty scored a tremendous hit, but those who have had an advance peek at "A Kiss for Cinderella," which Herbert Brenon recently completed, claim that she does the finest work of her meteoric career as the wistfully appealing Cinderella. Local picture-goers will be able to judge for themselves, as the picture is scheduled to play a two days' run at the Belle Theatre beginning today. Do not miss it.

Tabernacle Team Wins Church Loop

At Simpson's Rink, Station street, the Tabernacle Sunday School Intermediate hockey team clinched Group "B" of the schedule by a score of 4 to 1 over the Holloway St. S.S., team. The Holloway team were handicapped by their not having a full team present. Those that did turn out worked like trojans, and when it is considered that Tabernacle played five men to their four, the score is not so one-sided as may appear. Referee—Ken Colling.

The lineup:

Holloway		Tabernacle
L. Russell	Goal	E. Dickey
R. Hardwick	Defence	E. Dickey
		W. Lambden
L. Oliphan	Centre	O. Duff
H. Lake	Wings	B. Burley
		E. Darrah
	Subs	J. Redfern

Tuesday night at Simpson's rink, 6.30, the St. Michael's team, winners of group "A", and Tabernacle team, winners of group "B" play off for the Intermediate championship. A great game is assured, and both of these teams have been going great guns throughout the league.

DECLARE MAN DEAD?

Justice Kelly Reluctant to Accede to the Application

Toronto, March 8.—Before Justice Kelly application was made to have John Walsh declared dead. He left his wife and daughter at Trenton in 1916 and has not been heard of since. 1916 is the time it was found he was working in the United States. His wife has since died and left an estate of $1,016 and a parcel of land, which can now be sold if a clear title to it can be given. It was to give such title that the motion is made to have Walsh declared dead.

In an affidavit, the daughter states the father left home after an altercation with his wife following the death of her brother in the Trent Valley canal.

His lordship expressed a reluctance to grant the order because of the possibility of Walsh turning up. He cited a case of a man afterwards turning up and securing heavy damages from a railway, minutes. The previous record was one hour and fifty minutes.

Fine Ice Statuary at Quebec

Not the least of the many attractions that drew flocks of visitors to Quebec City for the Frontenac Winter Sports Season just terminated, was the many fine examples of statuary cut in ice that stood in front of stores, railway depots and prominent buildings all over the Ancient Capital. Those one that drew a majority of eyes was the representation of a Canadian Pacific railway coach that stood outside the Palace Station. The night almost have been an actual coach on which dozens of water had been poured and then allowed to freeze, so close was the resemblance and so exact the copy. This piece of art work in ice stood opposite the station for about ten days months and no uniform was the weather during that time that very little noticeable change was reflected in the statues or the colour of the statues at the beginning of March. Other pieces were a large Canadian Pacific Railway Express and another with child, all of which were life-like and evoked much admiration from the thousands of people who

ALKALI IN SHAMPOOS BAD FOR WASHING HAIR

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

MAE MURRAY

Famous screen star knows that beauty depends on keeping hair and scalp healthy. She uses Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo.

The best thing to do is to Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

BEING 'BORN TIRED' NOT MERELY EXCUSE

Minnesota Professor Asserts That Science Supports Such Statement

Chicago, March 8.—When grandmother complains that Willie is "born tired" perhaps she is right. The popular conviction that some people are weary from birth is supported by science, Dr. Max Seham, Minneapolis professor of pediatrics at the University of Minnesota, declared today in addressing the mid-west conference on parent education.

There are those whom science calls asthenics, meaning without strength. The asthenic cannot be expected to do what his more vigorous brothers do, Dr. Seham said, any more than an engine can perform the work of one having greater horse power. Yet while some children are born tired, others attain chronic weariness or have it thrust upon them by a nervous and emotional civilization, according to Dr. Seham. The growing complexity of social life threatens the health, nervous stability and future success of children, he warned.

LEVERHULME SALE ENDED YESTERDAY

New York, March 8.—The third sale of original drawings, prints and watercolors of the Leverhulme art collection, brought $19,919.50. This brings to a conclusion the entire sale, with a total realized of $1,248,193.

Mitchell Kennerley, president of the Anderson Galleries, said, after the curtains fell on the last object of the famous collection, that he was more than satisfied with the result of the sales, and he knew that the executors would be satisfied if the total were a million dollars.

The book, which is in two volumes, is dictate the relationship between House and Wilson on subjects of outstanding importance, as follows:

Federal Reserve—Wilson was against the principle of it, but House converted him to it.

Tariff—Wilson did not understand this issue when he entered national politics. House coached D. F. Houston to write Wilson's tariff speeches. House edited them and Wilson practically recited them.

Preparedness—Wilson was routedly opposed to it. House began advocating it to Wilson in 1913, a year before the Europeon war broke out, but he could make no headway against the opposition of Wilson until shortly before the United States entered the war.

Peace—House laid the belligerents, lined up early in 1916 for peace overtures, but his work was ruined by the maladroit diplomacy of Wilson and Lansing.

League of Nations—Wilson was singularly indifferent to foreign affairs, but House succeeded in incorporating him in a proposal for the League of Nations made by Earl Grey in a letter to House on August 10, 1916.

America's participation in the war—Wilson wavered and vacillated to the last, as House demanded a positive policy.

As to the position which Wilson will occupy in history, Colonel House says in his journal on December 14, 1916:

WILSON'S PLACE IN HISTORY

"I am convinced that the President's place in history is dependent to a large degree on luck. If he should get into a serious war and it should turn out disastrously, he would be one of the most discredited presidents we have had * * * We have no large army. If we had them, we have no trained men who would understand how to handle them. We have no air service, nor seem to exploit it; and so it is down the list."

The Marquis

BY
CHARLES GARVICE

Constance found herself waiting for the sound of the sharp, clear voice with a kind of impatience, and knew, though she tried hard to fight it down, that a vague antagonism to the owner of the voice was rising within her.

Suddenly, as the sweets were being handed round, and in a moment of comparative silence, a bell rang out loudly.

"What can that be?" she said in a low voice.

"It was the bell bell," replied Lady Ruth, promptly, and without putting down her spoon, or stopping eating. "Whom do you expect?"

"Expect? No one, my dear," said the marchioness.

Lady Rue shrugged her shoulders coolly.

"Whoever it is, is late for dinner," she said, indifferently, and she turned to make some remark to Lord Elliot.

A minute or two elapsed, and Constance had forgotten the sudden loud ringing of the bell, when the door opened, and Lord Lancebrook came in.

He stood looking round in a half hesitating manner and Lady Ruth said, sharply:

"You are before your time, Arol. The dessert is not yet."

"Never mind," murmured the marchioness apologetically. "Let him come in," and with a smile she beckoned to him.

"Yes," said Lord Elliott. "Come and try this jelly, Arol," and he sign ed to a footman to place a chair next his own.

But Arol shook his head with an unusual gravity, and, going up to Constance, drew her head down to his, and whispered:

"Come outside, into the hall, Miss Grahame, I want you."

"What is the matter, Arol!" demanded Lady Ruth. "You should not whisper. It is rude and vulgar. Come round to Lord Elliot when he tells you!"

The boy looked at her, but did not obey.

"Come outside," he repeated. "Something has happened — some one wants you."

Constance, the mark for all eyes, colored, then turned pale.

"What has happened? Some one wants me, Lord Lancebrook? You must be mistaken?"

"No, You not," he said. "You'd better come or it will be too late."

Constance rose; she did not know what else to do.

"Lord Lancebrook wishes me to go into the hall with him, Lady Brakespeare," she said.

"Oh, it's some trick or nonsense," exclaimed Lady Ruth. "Tell him to go and take his seat, Miss Grahame, please."

"Let him go, dear," pleaded the marchioness. "Arol, do not be naughty——"

"I won't, grandma," he responded, his eyes threatening tears; "but she must come!"

Constance thought it best to go and prevent any further fuss, and she allowed him to lead her into the hall.

"Well, what is it Arol?" she said. "I'm afraid you are getting us both into sad disgrace."

"I can't help it," he retorted, rather pitcously. "It is my fault. It told me to fetch some one and I preferred you to Aunt Rue."

"He—who?" she asked.

"I don't know. Come in here."

He opened the door of the library as he spoke, and Constance saw a tall figure standing in the centre of the room.

He wore a long fur traveling coat, and his hat stood on the table beside him.

He turned as she entered, and came forward to meet, her, and as he did so Constance stopped and uttered an exclamation.

The portrait in the picture gallery of Lord Wolfegang flashed before her mind, and she knew the man who stood before her was the long-lost Marquis of Brakespeare.

His face for a moment seemed to reflect her startled look as he fixed his eyes on her—the dark eyes of the portrait; then he bowed.

"Do not be frightened," he said. "I told Arol to bring some one to me some friend of my mother's."

His tone was meant to reassure her, but it had the contrary effect, for at the first word he uttered a thrill of confused emotion ran through her and she seemed to remember the voice. And yet that must be impossible! She had recognized him by his portrait; but personal traits do not speak.

"I have frightened you, I see," he said. "Will you sit down and wait a moment?"

And he put a chair for her, and laid his hand on the boy's shoulder.

"Arol, do you know who I am?" he asked.

The child looked up at him in silence for a moment; then as if encouraged by something in his face, he held out his hand.

"I think you are Uncle Wolfe," he said.

"You are right; I am," replied the marquis.

CHAPTER V.

The marquis! Constance did not know what to say, so she wisely remained silent. He looked at her for a moment, thoughtfully, then he said:

"Arol has told me your name, Miss Grahame; he says that you are all that is kind and gentle. I am prepared to agree with him now that I have seen you, and am glad he brought you instead of Lady Ruth." Again Constance did not know what to say, and again remained silent.

"I have been away so long, my reason for so unexpected," continued the marquis, his strong but finely shaped hand resting on the head of the boy, who looked up at him with a curious commingling of awe and curiosity, "that I was afraid my mother", his voice grew softer at the word, "would be forgotten. I appeared before her without preparation for her. Will you be so good as to break the news of my return to her? I am sure you will do it gently."

"Yes, I will try, my lord," said Constance.

He inclined his head.

"Thank you. One moment," as she was about to leave the room; "you wonder why I did not write and tell her of my intended return, Miss Grahame?"

Constance had been wondering and she colored faintly at the accuracy with which he had read her mind.

"My excuse is that I did not know until a few hours ago that I was coming to Brakespeare; it was too and Lord Elliot," replied Constance.

late to write then, a telegram would only have alarmed her. Are there many guests to-night? Who are they? Perhaps I know some of them."

"There are the rector and his wife

The marquis smiled.

"Elliot!" he said as if to himself. "I wonder whether he will remember me! We have not met for—I forget how many years and I must have altered?"

"You're just like the portrait in the gallery, Uncle Wolfe. I knew you by that the moment I saw you. Didn't you, Miss Grahame?"

As the marquis seemed to wait for her answer, Constance said:

"Yes, Arol."

The marquis smiled and sighed at the same time.

"Indeed!" he said, "and yet there is so great a difference," and his straight brows came together as if in painful thought.

"I will go and speak to Lady Brakespeare," said Constance.

"Thank you," and he went and opened the door for her. "Arol can stay with me," he said.

Constance inclined her head, and left the boy behind.

That Spring Suit

Tweed is Decidedly all Right This Year—See These New Models

There are good reasons for choosing a tweed suit this year. First, the well-known qualities of the material—it is porous, non-conducting and therefore comfortable in hot and cold weather alike, it has a good "hang" when made up, and it looks well long after other materials are showing signs of wear. Finally there is the fact that this season's tweeds are particularly becoming.

There is an entire change of patterns this year and the new small diamond checks and "plumage" weaves will interest you. There is more color too, and many beautiful combinations of shades are shown including blue grey, Highland Fawn and lavender.

The "Norton" has a single-breasted, two-button coat, made in a loose-fitting effect.

How Color in Tweed Originated

A Scottish manufacturer, in the 1830's, had a quantity of checked tweeds on hand. The white was so dull from mixture with grey wool that a purchaser could not be found. Then somebody suggested dye. They were dipped into a brown dye, transformed from grey and white checks into fawn and black and cold immediately. This lucky idea resulted in the ever-varying colors in which tweeds have been woven during the better part of a hundred years.—Men's Wear, (Eng.)

Old Records Shattered at Quebec Dog Derby

Struggling under the handicap of high winds and drifting snow, the blizzards which hid the lead dog from the driver, the crack teams of the continent fought to maintain or overcome leads in the Eastern International Dog Derby held at Quebec recently under the auspices of the Provincial Winter Sports Club. Among the famous competitors were Emile St. Goddard, winner at Le Pas, Manitoba, last year; Shorty Russick, world's champion 500 mile non-stop driver; Earl Brydges, Quebec winner in 1925; Bill Grignon, veteran musher; Francois Dupuis, of Quebec, who won the Derby this year; Warren, of Womalancet, N.H.; Channing, of Boston; and others.

The visitors at Quebec picked their favourites from Russick's ten huskies. St. Goddard's cross-breds led by Brydges hounds. Dupuis' mixed team and Channing's long lean hounds. No records were expected. It was thought at first that Russick's pups of fourteen months would crack under the strain of that St. Goddard, who had undergone a painful operation several months before, would weaken. Joseph Dupuis was considered a likely winner. But out of the dark, on the third and last day of the race, came his brother, Francois Dupuis, leading the field by about ten seconds.

In winning the gold cup and one thousand dollars, Francois Dupuis established a new world's record, eclipsing the record of 12.43.45 established last year by St. Goddard, by seventeen minutes and thirty-five seconds. Last year's record was also beaten by Russick, second in this year's race, who covered the 138 miles in 12 hours and forty minutes.

Out of the ten huskies that started the race, but nine finished, this being Wilbrod Pelletier, of Quebec, whose team, who trailed the field on Thursday and Friday, lost ground on the third day's prospects too long.

Thousands of people were on hand as the team driven by Dupuis for A. McKay and Company, of Quebec, finished the last lap of the gruelling run, closely followed by Russick. A large number of enthusiasts were also present in the evening at a banquet at the Chateau Frontenac, when Hon. W. Gerard Power, president of the Quebec Harbour Commission acted as chairman and presented the prizes. Young Packy Nolan was awarded a cup and a cash prize for being the youngest driver ever having taken part in a race of such a nature.

GILBERT HEARING ADJOURNED WEEK BAIL IS RENEWED

Crown Officials Engaged in Moon Murder Case At Assizes

The police court room was this morning filled to capacity by persons from the city and vicinity who were expecting to hear the preliminary trial of Wm. H. Gilbert on a charge of manslaughter.

Owing to Mr. B. C. Donnan, County Attorney, being engaged with the Crown prosecutor in the Moon murder trial, he was unable to attend the hearing.

An enlargement of the case was made for one week. In the meantime the accused is out on $20,000 bail, himself in $10,000 and two sureties of $5,000 each.

KIWANIS HEARD VISITOR SPEAK

This Topic Was Shock Absorbers and He Knew His Subject

Mr. W. B. Sparling, of Toronto, was the interesting speaker to which Kiwanians were privileged to listen at their regular weekly luncheon at the Queen's today. Mr. Sparling treated the Club to an unusual talk, choosing as his subject "shock absorbers," and by his adaptation of these to individuals brought an interesting message to Club members as to the effect that in treading the path of life the individual to find it smooth must don his "shock absorber"—a resistant front—that will smooth out the rough places one is bound to encounter.

Among the guests present were Messrs. Herbert Perry and Albert McNutt, well known composers who favored the Club with some excellent musical numbers. Kiwanian Jim Bunker, the newest addition to the Club, contributed a popular number in his usual pleasing style and Kiwanian Frank Goodchild, Vice Pres. of J. & J. Cash Inc., of South Norwalk, Conn., gave the local club members some valuable ideas and friendship.

Prisoner Declared In Document Put In He Entered Store, Accused McWilliams Attacked By Two Men He Drew Gun, Fired 273 Front St.

WE BUY RAW FURS

Detective Sergeant J. M. Truaisch took the stand and gave the most dramatic evidence of the day when he read a statement signed by Moon after his arrest. The statement follows:

"I was attacked because he was under the influence of liquor."

"Isn't it the fact that it was an accidental shooting you fazed, but that was McWilliams who was mentioned."

"Yes," replied witness.

FIRED IN AIR

Defence elicited from witness that Moon fired two shots in the air and has subsequently he was persuaded to eject the rest of the shells from the gun.

"Doyle and you got Moon to dump the shells out of the gun outside Macdonald's shack near Fishermen's Shanty?"

"Yes."

This witness was subjected to the most gruelling cross-examination of any so far put on the stand by the crown. Mcdonald for defence, strode restlessly to and fro across the matting while he flung question after question at the witness, especially as counsel brought the inquiry closer to to the actual hour of the shooting.

"You knew at half past nine that it Moon was going out to get against Mcwilliams he had in mind?"

"Yes."

"There was no suggestion that he was going out to get McGie?"

"I said other names were mentioned but it was not McGie."

"Moon was there?"

"Another name was mentioned."

"What was the name?"

At this point assistant counsel for defence, R. D. Macaulay, rose and declared a signal passed between witness and crown counsel. Mr. Donnan shook his head at him and said No. Mr. McDonald insisted on an answer to his question.

"The name of Gilbert, the auctioneer was mentioned," declared witness, "as a man whom Moon sa'd he would get."

FAMILY TROUBLE

William L. Doyle, Inspector of Taxation for Belleville district, testified to having known Moon since he was a boy.

He met Moon on the night of the death of McGie outside my office, where he, Moon, used to be my janitor," said witness. He invited me into his office in the Bank of Commerce chambers and while there spoke of a little trouble. I told him just to forget it. He said Moon had threatened to shoot someone, before the three men had started off for the Fishermen's Shack.

"Whom did he threaten?" asked the crown.

"Is it necessary to mention the name?" asked witness.

The Court—Yes.

Witness—It was "Sid Fisher."

Doyle added that he was not really afraid the threat would be carried on as regarded the thing as a joke.

Moon, said witness was a good worker, faithful and competent, and he was proud of the clean condition in which he left the body. Doyle believed it was unsafe to exhibit this that Moon had invited him in.

"I didn't think Moon would shoot a deer," declared the witness. Doyle. He was on good natured. He threatened to shoot Bob Fisher at certain hour that night but that hour had passed.

"Did he seem in a normal condition?" "I didn't think he would shoot anyone or that he would not tell anyone if he were going to do the job."

"Was he sober?"

"He had been drinking but I would not say he was drunk."

Detective Sergt. J. Truaisch then took the stand and testified as to finding the body and arresting Moon in his apartment.

Prisoner and Dawkins had a bottle of liquor when they went to the Fishermen's Shanty.

MOON WAS DRUNK

"What made you so afraid of Moon having a gun that night when you fired?"

"I was afraid because he was under the influence of liquor."

"Isn't it the fact that it was an accidental shooting you fazed, but that was McWilliams who was mentioned."

THE FISHING EXPEDITION

This morning's evidence was directed toward eliciting the facts as to the fishing expedition across the Bay of Quinte that preceded the shooting of McGie and McWilliams. This fishing party, to McDonald's shack at Bay Bridge, was composed of Arthur Moon, Sidney Dawkins, bookkeeper in Walker's Hardware store, and William L. Doyle, Inspector of Taxation for Belleville.

It was during this trip that Moon exhibited a gun, fired two shots into the air, and made threats, though not against the men slain. The Ivor Johnson weapon exhibited was the one afterwards taken from Moon and not the one with which the shooting was done.

Streams of men and women from all over the surrounding district again made their way to the county court house here, from an early hour this morning, where the real gastro festival is awaiting those in the series were in progress. The crowds for the second time filled resistantly around the corridors and the long flight of steps, waiting to be admitted again to the trial of Arthur Moon.

MOON WAS SMILING

Moon entered the prisoner's dock smiling at 9.32 and when Hugh J. Macdonald, his chief counsel, asked him whether he had received a good rest he nodded brightly and answered "Yes".

The first witness called by the crown this morning was reported absent.

MEDICAL EVIDENCE

Doctor G. A. Bode, physician, was then called and test. the stand testifying as to the finding the bodies of McGie and McWilliams in the drug store, the former with his feet projecting toward the dispensary. McGie was dead. Entering the dispensary, witness said he there found McWilliams in a crouching position by the telephone; he too was dead.

THE POSTMORTEM

Dr. Bode also testified to having conducted the postmortem examination at midnight on April 6, 1925. He described the passage of the bullet which was said to have resulted in McGie's death, directly from shock and hemorrhage. The bullet, second, fog to the medical evidence, passed through through McGie's chest at the heart and out at his back. Death in the doctor's opinion, must have been nearly instantaneous. McWilliam, the doctor said, was shot through the chest diagonally and must have died almost at once.

FROM DETROIT

Harvey Hanson, subpoenaed by the Crown from Detroit, was next called and testified to having lived in Belleville from 1912 until subsequent to the shooting. He knew all three principals in the shooting episode. On April 6th last, and testified to having seen Moon leave Latimer's drug store followed, by three screaming girls who cried to him to "watch that man." Witness then established how he found McWilliams dying in the dispensary and McGie dying or dead.

BLOODSTAINS

A thrill passed through the crowded court when Crown Attorney Donnan of Belleville, associate crown counsel in this case, passed through, carrying the bloodstained clothing of the victims of the shooting, wrapped in brown paper parcels. He deposited the exhibits on the floor before the bench.

SAW REVOLVER

Sidney Dawkins, bookkeeper in Walker's hardware store here, who was with Moon on the night of the shooting, testified to having seen Moon with a revolver—produced. This was not the weapon with which the crimes were alleged to have been killed.

Witness said he thought Moon said something about 'Someone was going to die', and witness stated accused to put the gun back in the bank.

WHISKEY TO DRINK

Dawkins testified under cross examination, to having been in Moon's apartment in the Bank of Commerce chambers at about 8 o'clock at night and that he had had both whiskey and to drink. He could not say whether Moon had more than one drink.

"Did Moon discuss his troubles?" asked the defence.

"Never. I didn't even know he was separated from his wife."

PULLED A GUN

"Moon pulled out the gun, I understand, and told you he was going to get somebody. Did you have any idea of who he intended to get?"

"No."

"Do you mean to say you, were drinking for half an hour with Moon and didn't have enough curiosity to ask him who he intended to get when he pulled out a gun?"

"I told him I thought he was foolish to talk that way, and to take the gun back."

"He didn't tell you he was going to shoot McGie?"

"No."

LATER IN EVENING

Dawkins testified to again meeting Moon later in the evening, with William L. Doyle, inspector of taxation, and stated all three of them went to the Fishermen's Shanty across the Bay of Quinte.

"Did you ask Moon whether he had the gun back where it belonged?" asked counsel for defence.

"I did not."

MENTAL STATE IS MOON DEFENCE

Moon sworn, took the stand in his own defence at 2.59 p.m. Under direct examination from H. J. Mc. Donald he stated he enlisted and got to the firing line in France in 1916 and was there until May of 1917.

Justice Kelley interposed to ask if the testimony was relevant or whether it was being elicited on sympathetic grounds. Justice Kelley directed the jury be taken to the jury room while evidence of this character was put in.

MENTAL CONDITION

Defence, directly the jury retarded, explained to the judge that the defence would take the line that the prisoner's mental condition influenced his actions on the night of the shoot. ing and that his mental condition was due to war services. Mcg. McDonald declared it was with the object of getting at the facts as to Moon's mentality that the Attorney General's Department had instructed Doctors Bramley and Ball to appear as crown witnesses but because they had already examined Moon on his mental condition.

Justice Kelly finally admitted the evidence, and the jury filed back at 3.44.

Under continued examination accused explained that he had first served at Ypres with the Seventh Field Company was under continuous shelling going in covering reinforcements to the Manx Land, and that he took part in the 2nd Battle of Ypres, called Sanctuary Wood, during which engagement he was blown up and knocked unconscious. Twice up to June 1916 witness said he was blown up.

Moon, under direct examination testified to having been struck on the head by a stone splintered by a flying shell before leaving Ypres, and that subsequently he had been taken out of the line during the Somme battle, from in front of Albert, in August 1916.

"We moved to Vimy Ridge in October of 1916 said witness.

He testified further that he, with five other men was blown up and buried at Vimy in a dugout and buried for two days before they got out.

Just before the opening of the Vimy Ridge battle, he said, "I got lost, was in No Man's Land all night, and was picked up by one of the stretcher bearers. All I can recall after, that is that I was at Etaples hospital.

DETECTIVE TRUAISCH

Detective Sergeant Truaisch, cross-examined by defence said that in going after Moon, following the shooting, he had been acting on the strength of his suspicions. Moon had had some family trouble, he had learned from police court records, available to him as a police officer, and it was because of "current gossip" that he had connected Moon with the affair on the night of the shooting.

"Was therefore rumour rife as to the domestic relationships between Moon and his wife?" asked defence counsel.

"Very true," replied witness, "but that is more gossip."

Truaisch added that Moon had told him on the Sunday night previous to the shooting that he, Moon, had suspicions that Mcwilliams was keeping company with his wife.

SLEUTH WORK

"Moon said to me, 'Jack, I was doing a little sleuth work,' and he told me he had seen his wife and McWilliams near the stone quarry," witness testified adding that Moon said he had gone toward the point but that they had apparently got away from him.

"I urged him not to get into trouble over his wife again," declared Truaisch. "I told him that if she was going to be bad, let the law look after her. He was worried about his children as any father would be."

MEMORIAL SENT BY PRESBYTERY ON TO ASSEMBLY

The Kingston Presbytery with the Moderator, the Rev. J. G. Stephens of St. Andrew's, Kingston, in the chair, passed unanimously the following memorial at their afternoon session in St. Andrew's Church:

"Whereas it has come to the attention of this Presbytery that a considerable number of our time Presbyterian ministers who voted unless failed to maintain and defend the standards of the church and have followed directive courses to the great detriment of the Presbyterian faith, are going in considerable numbers to the United States and other countries and there entering and being called to Presbyterian pulpits. We respectfully overture the Venerable the General Assembly to take such steps as it deems necessary to call the attention of the Presbyterian Church throughout the world to this serious menace and to warn them of the irreparable loss and injury such men have caused the Presbyterian Church in Canada and advising all such churches that desire a new have now no standing with the Presbyterian Church in Canada and that by Act of Parliament they, with certain others, have been incorporated a new denomination known as the United Church of Canada."

HARD WORKING; DECENT

"Did Moon have any bad habits that you knew of, since you say you have known him for many years?" asked defence.

"I have always considered Moon a very decent hard-working fellow," was the reply.

Cross-examining on the statement signed by Moon, counsel suggested to witness that the statement made was "somewhat boiled down and condensed" from what Moon had said to insure the actual writing.

WORRIED OVER McGIE

"Is McGie dead?" Moon asked me, said witness, and replied that he had said 'Art, I haven't seen a doctor and I'd not know. He seemed to be worried over McGie."

"He then asked if better McWilliams was dead" said witness, "and again I told him I couldn't say.

"Then he said: "I'm sorry for McGie. The other got what was coming to him."

JAMES A. HIGGS DIES SUDDENLY AT QUEBEC HOME

IN CITY RECENTLY

Family Left Belleville For Quebec About Three Years Ago

James A. Higgs, former manager of the Steel Company of Canada, and one of the most prominent and influential men in the city for many years died last night at Cantick, Que., (a town formerly known as La Colle) where he and his family have resided since leaving Belleville three years ago. Mr. Higgs of course has recently been in Belleville since moving to Cantick and he had large interests here principally in the National Castings Co., of which Mr. Norman Turner is local general manager.

Heart failure was the cause of death.

The late Mr. Higgs had been identified with the Steel Plant here since its inception and became superintendent of the Belleville plant when it was merged with the Steel Co. of Canada, succeeding Thomas Moore.

Mr. Higgs was a Scotsman and a Methodist in religion.

He had been here as recently as last week.

The family was prominent socially to Mrs. Higgs and Miss Joy, the only child, the whole sympathy of the community will be extended.

Miss Joy Higgs is of course a violinist very well known throughout the district and had taught violin here to a large class. She is a performer of established reputation.

Mr. Higgs was a genial kindly man, very well read and a most interesting conversationalist. His death will be very keenly regretted here.

BIRTH RATE DROPS IN UNITED KINGDOM

France NowCountry Having More Babies Who Survive

London, Eng., Mar. 9 (Canadian Press Despatch).—Now that the British birth rate has fallen well below the French and is lower than that of any other great country, the French Minister of Health has been moved to publish a series of population statistics reassuring to French public opinion, says the Paris correspondent of the Manchester Guardian.

France is the only great nation with a birth rate that is actually rising—in 1913 191 births per 10,000 of the population and in 1925, 192. The German birth rate in the same period has fallen from 270 to 204, the British from 241 to 188. The increase in the French birth rate is shown not so particularly in Catholic regions as curiously, in the departments reserved by the German invasion. Yet the France in so bad a position as is generally thought is respect of infantile mortality. The death rate of babies less than one year old was, twenty-five years ago, 170 per 1,000 babies born alive; in 1924 it was only 85, and it is still rapidly falling. The figure 85 is still behind that of England, where the rate of infantile mortality is 72, but it is far ahead of Germany's 106, Australia's 130 and Rumania's 209.

The approach against France as a country of few babies and a high death rate amongst those few in short done not hold good. Great Britain has a lower natality and Germany a higher infantile mortality. Add to these statistics the fact, that France has a larger immigration than any other country than America and it will be seen how empty is the legend that France is a country doomed to fall into the second rank by reason of diminishing population.

ENCOUNTER SNAG IN DEP.-SPEAKER

Strong Opposition Develops At Ottawa Against Alfred Stork

PROGRESSIVE TROUBLE

All Is Not Harmony in New Open Councils With Government

Ottawa, March 9.—One of the first difficulties encountered by the Government in its preparations for leading Parliament again after the recess has arisen over the nomination of Deputy Speaker. It is now less certain that Alfred Stork of Skeena, will get the post. He has been the favorite in the contest since the opening, but strong opposition has developed. Liberals are protesting that British Columbians are already provided for in proportion to the contribution of their province to the party's strength in Parliament. British Columbia with only three Liberals in the Commons holds the portfolio of Public Works and the Speakership of the Senate.

Although Quebec controls the cabinet members from that province are dreaming that the Deputy Speakership, which carries a salary of $1,000, should go to one of their English-speaking members and W. F. Kay, of Brome-Missisquoi has their backing. Fred Johnston, of Long Lake, is after the post, but the Progressives refuse to accept him and the Government could not carry the nomination without their support. Mr. John Ross was removed from the position of Progressive whip last session and now sits with the Liberals. He is generally credited with having done much to destroy the independent strength of the third party.

All is not harmony in the new open councils of the Government as the first extensive executive committee on legislation. The Progressives are demanding—more than Premier King can bring to give without aggravating the discontent of his eastern followers, and although Mr. Forke has the ear, today at his mercy in the House and is able to insist on getting what he asks for, he is being restrained somewhat by the fear of another election. Mr. King can always infuse a little of the spirit of compromise into Progressive acquaintanceship by bringing out the threat of an appeal to the people.

FOES NOW FAST FRIENDS

Governor and Canadian Officer fought Artillery Duels

Toronto, March 9.—At one time commanding batteries opposing each other on the same sector in the war, today Baron Joseph Korp and Captain Philip Bartlett are close friends. Baron Korff has served with the German artillery throughout the war, emigrated with his wife to Ontario two years ago and now has a farm near Oshawa.

Comparing notes when they chanced to meet and talk of the war, Captain Bartlett and Baron Korff found that each had opposed a stubborn battery under similar conditions, by checking dates and other information, they found that they had been battling each other.

"It seems funny we were once trying to kill each other" the Baron said, in talking to a reporter for a Toronto paper. Both the Baron and Captain Bartlett declare that it will "never happen again."

HAS FASTED FORTY DAYS

London, March 9.—Lady Fisher, wife of the secretary to the treasury, today celebrated the completion of her fortieth day of fasting with a wake.

"Though, naturally, I cannot undergo great physical strain," she said, "I feel full of energy."

While she has completed the period of fasting prescribed for her, Lady Fisher today declared she would continue it further. During the forty days she has 23 pounds in weight.

LABOR PORTFOLIO TO J. C. ELLIOTT

Member For West Middlesex Appointed to the Cabinet

EULER REFUSED IT

Contest Likely to Prove Interesting If No Prog. Runs

Ottawa, Mar. 9.—Premier King has found success to accept the dangerous and much-despised portfolio of Labor. J. C. Elliott, member for West Middlesex, was appointed to the Cabinet and will be sworn Euler, of North Waterloo, could in as Minister of Labor. W. D. have had the appointment, but he refused it. He wanted the Department of Railways, but Hon. Charles Dunning insisted on having it, and the Premier was more anxious to have the Saskatchewan strong man in the Cabinet.

Mr. Elliott was elected for the first time at the last general elections, and, owing to the weakness of the Liberal representation from Ontario, has been given prominence. He was chosen to move the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne and was given a place on the contested inquiry committee.

In the latter post he has been doing good service for the Government, his methods of defending the ministry being much more subtle and, therefore, more effective than those employed by his colleague, Dugald Donaghy.

Mr. Elliott carried West Middlesex by a large majority in October in a hotly contested contest. He polled 4,926 votes against 2,816 for the Conservative candidate, and 3,548 for the Progressive. The riding is traditionally Liberal.

In the by-election which Mr. Elliott must face, it is unlikely that the Progressives will enter a candidate, and in that case, the vote will be divided between the new minister and a Conservative opponent. The contest, therefore, promises to be an interesting one.

EARLY EVIDENCE IN MOON TRIAL

Asked whether she knew what John McGie was doing in the store with Moon, Eva Cousins said no, she supposed he had just dropped in to visit Clayton McWilliams.

"Did Moon have the gun when he left the store?" asked the crown.

"He had."

"What was it like,"

"A short, black gun."

Asked how it compared in appearance with the weapon exhibited by Crown Prosecutor Mason, Witness said it looked as though it was the same gun.

Witness obviously suffered from great emotion when she described the manner in which McWilliams and McGie were lying.

JUST MOANED

"Clayton just opened his eyes and moaned," she said, "but did not speak."

Cross-examining for the defence, Mr. McDonald questioned witness as to which of the two victims she had seen lying in the dispensary and which between the wrapping counter.

"You have testified," said counsel, "that Moon was in the dispensary and McWilliams behind the counter. Evidence of other witnesses has been to show the positions were reversed. Would you be prepared to swear as to the positions?"

Witness testified she "heard John McGie breathing" and knew he was alive.

"He was gasping," she said.

Moon, witness said, then went the gone out of the store, and was followed by Miss Morris and Miss Wood and Eliott.

The entire shooting episode, from the time Moon entered until he left, occupied not more than two minutes, according to Miss Cousins' estimate of time.

Moon did not run out, she declared, but "just walked, as if he were under cross-examination, he was not running away."

"There was nothing extraordinary in Moon coming into the store he was a frequent visitor, was he not?" asked counsel.

"He was," witness admitted.

"When did you hear the first shot?"

After Moon went to the end of the counter."

NO WORD SPOKEN

"Did anyone say anything?"

"No."

"Was there no word spoken at all by any of the actors in the affair?"

Counsel for defence elicited from witness that "she thought the third shot was fired during the tussle" but took place between Moon and McGie.

"There was no scream, no shout, no word said by anyone" reiterated Mr. McDonald, returning to this part of the enquiry.

"None," replied witness again.

Irene Woodley, one of the three girl customers in the drug store on the night of the shooting, duly sworn, stated in her previous examination by the Crown, that she had seen Moon going and had heard three shots fired. She was sure she had seen Moon at the moment the shots were fired. The second and third shots were fired at a closer interval of time than elapsed between the first and second, witness said.

Witness said she had darted to-ward the door at the sound of the second shot. Moon, she said, left the store, leaving the door open behind him. She had nothing a revolver in his right hand, she said.

"Miss Cousins told us to get a doctor and to go for police," witness stated.

Moon, she declared, was crossing toward the bank when she saw him outside the store.

For the defence, R. D. Macaulay questioned witness on the intervals between the shots, but did not shake her testimony as to the brief lapse of time between the second and third, despite what this testimony implied with that previously given by Miss Cousins.

Miss Woodley conceded, under cross-examination that what she thought was the first shot might have been a noise originating in some other manner.

MISS MORRIS' EVIDENCE

Isabel Morris, of Toronto, sworn testified she was a resident of Belleville at the time of the shooting. She testified to having heard a report "of a pistol" and had seen Moon's arm coming down from the counter. She said she heard a scuffling and "two quick shots".

"I jumped up at the second shot", she stated, "but the third followed too fast for me to move away. Then I saw Mr. Moon run out of the store He went out in about four long strides."

Miss Morris said that as she was on her way out she could see the legs of one man by the dispensary.

Cross-examined, witness admitted she was excited by the sound of the shots.

C.G.I.T. PLAY HEARD

St. Andrew's Young Folks Do Themselves Great Credit

Presented under the auspices of St. Andrew's C.G.I.T., "Mr. Fuller's Fib," packed the Lady Hall last evening almost to capacity and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. All taking part had been most efficiently trained by Miss Brandon and showed also a natural aptitude for stage appearance never forgetting a line, missing a cue, or losing an opportunity of [illegible] in securing the services of Miss Ada Robinson to take charge of her wardrobe. Miss Robinson was twelve years designer with the famous Simpsonborough Millinery Parlors in Toronto.

LADY TRAINEES AT HOME

The Lady Trainees of the city were hostesses of a most successful cucker party last evening given in the Empire Hall, Pine street, and a most enjoyable time was spent by the seventy-five present. All arrangements were most capably supervised by a committee consisting of Mrs. W. J. Jordan, Mrs. Wilbur, Mrs. G. C. Storey, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Charlton, Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Rigby and Mrs. Vandervoort. Prize winners for the evening were, ladies' Mrs. Dick Snell, Mrs. A. Brown and Mrs. Percy Kerr; gentlemen Mr. Mead for having been the victim of an accidental in a terrific wheel when he was compelled to remain all night unprovided in midair, he thought the real reason bordered too much on a fish story, so invented one—that he had remained all night with a friend, Brown. Suspicious, Mrs. Temple wired the address he gave and by a strange coincidence a Mr. Brown actually lived at the given address. Mr. Fuller learning of the mix up, impersonated friend Brown and as a result before everything was explained, it looked as if the whole works had been horribly jammed up. However, truth came out and everything turned out blissfully and Mr. Fuller learned a real lesson about truth being the very best policy.

PRESENTED BOUQUET

At the conclusion of the play on behalf of the C.G.I.T., Miss Jessie Tilley presented Miss Brandon with a lovely bouquet of American beauty roses, in token of the gratitude of the C.G.I.T. for her painstaking work in preparing the young people for the play. The music by members of the orchestra was exceptionally meritorious.

FOUR STOLEN PICTURES ARE RETURNED BY POST

London, March 9.—Three of the four pictures by John Constable, stolen from the Royal Academy, have been sent anonymously through the post to the office of the Daily Mail. A small picture by the English artist, Birket Foster, stolen at the same time, was also returned through the newspaper office. They were carelessly wrapped in brown paper and one new 10 shilling note.

The pictures had been removed from their frames, which were not returned. The parcel bore a London postmark. It is assumed that the thieves became alarmed at the concern shown by the authorities in the recovery of the paintings, and chose this as the easiest way of ridding themselves of their booty. The fourth Constable, however, is still missing.

AUCTIONEER'S LIFE DANGEROUS

London, Eng., Mar. 9.—At the cattle market at Selby, in Yorkshire, a forty-stone cow suddenly went mad. It charged the door of the auctioneer's box, smashed it in, and tearing away the rest where the auctioneer sat with his clerk. The cow seized the leg of the auctioneer, who crambled over the top of the box into the sale ring. The cow put its paws on top of the ledge of the box and glared at the buyers. It took ten minutes to secure the animal, and the auctioneer's box was completely wrecked.

The toast to the guests was responded to by Messrs. H...A. Munro, "crown prosecutor of the county, Hugh J. Mcc-Donald and J. Brown, court stenographer.

THRIFTY AND SOBER

London, Eng., Mar. 9.—A short time back the Mayor of Plymouth claimed credit for his town as being the thriftiest in the Kingdom, for it had the highest percentage of working-class investments in savings banks, with an average of two Governmental Savings Certificates for every inhabitant.

Plymouth now also entitled to consider itself the most sober town in the country, for in a population of a quarter of a million there were only eighty-eight convictions for drunkenness last year, although there are nearly 500 licensed houses

GERMAN AIRSHIP MAN FINDS LUCK CHANGED

Confidence in Dirigibles Shaken When Shenandoah Crashed

Toms River, N.J., Mar. 5.—Captain Anton Heinen, former German dirigible expert, construction engineer, of the Shenandoah, and hero of that craft's battle with a January storm in 1924 when winds tore her loose from her mooring mast at Lakehurst, is working as a surveyor at $6 a day.

Mrs. Heinen, a discussing her husband's new vocation, said that is but a matter of "starve or work."

Captain Heinen's connections with the government were severed in July 1924. He then negotiated a contract to operate a line of dirigibles between New York and South America. Funds for the undertaking were well in hand when the Shenandoah crashed last September. Confidence in this mode of transportation was shaken and, according to Captain Heinen, it was decided to proceed no further until the Los Angeles, sister ship of the Shenandoah had proved her worth.

The Los Angeles has not left her shangar since the Shenandoah went hadown.

RABBI DEFENDS PAINTED WOMEN

Sees No Immorality in Use Of Cosmetics Or In Modern Fashions

Toronto, Mar. 9.—"Liberal Judaism eliminated the word 'obey' from the matrimony rite", Rabbi Isaac Mann commented on the conservatism of religion and women's place today. "The stylishly dressed woman, the cigarette smoker, the bobbed hair, flapper are not necessarily modern women. The modern woman is filled with the ideal of the age, the ideal of service and the desire to express her personality. She finds opportunities for these in her home, and in society. Neither a flapper's locks nor a matron's grey hair are criteria of judgment for the modern woman.

"There is too much fulmination against woman's natural desire to adorn herself and make her person attractive if not beautiful. The conventional ban on cosmetics is like most convictions, based on illogic. The motive behind their use is the desire to appear more beautiful. The same motive animates the woman who cultivates a stunning gown. There is no more immorality in the use of cosmetics than there is in the donning of artistic garments. Women's responsible for freedom has been marvelous, and she has made good."

GREAT DUST STORM ENDANGERED FLIER

Cairo, March 9.—Alan J. Cobham who is flying from Cape Town, South Africa, to England in an endeavor to establish a speed record, arrived here yesterday after passing through a tremendous dust storm which rose to an altitude of more than 12,000 feet, blotting out the landscape and greatly endangering the flier. For a time Cobham was completely lost and faced the possibility of a forced landing in the desert, from which he might never have escaped. He said it was impossible to steer by the compass and he followed what he believed to be the River Nile. Suddenly he discovered that he was following a shadow and not the Nile. His position seemed hopeless.

A landing would likely have proved fatal to himself and his companions in the machine. Luck at last brought Cobham within sight of the Nile and the railroad. The aviator brought the machine down and kept close to the railroad. Although the dust was thicker lower down, the engine in the plane was not affected. Cobham was greatly relieved when he made his landing here.

The big rooms in which the tables were arranged were prettily decorated and the very atmosphere of a good time prevailed from the time play began throughout the evening. MOTHERWELL AND PROTECTION

There is in cold print in a despatch from Ottawa clear evidence that the Hon. W. R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture, one of the parliamentary bulwarks of free trade, one of the most extreme and virulent enemies of tariff protection in Canadian public life, has turned his back upon his economic religion and has embraced the heresy of tariff protection. It is astonishing.

A deputation from the Canadian Horticultural Council waited upon the minister to ask for certain changes in the grading regulations. "What you want far more than increase in grant or legislation amending the Fruit and Vegetable Act," he said, "is more protection on your fruit from foreign competition, and that is natural. Anything like fruit or vegetables or winter eggs, that is subject to competition due to climatic conditions, which is thought to be unfair competition, demands some legislative consideration."

In that utterance Mr. Motherwell abandoned the whole case for free trade, and endorsed the principle of tariff protection. It matters not what constitutes unfairness in foreign competition—whether climatic conditions, depreciated foreign currency, low wages, mass production or government subventions—so long as the admission is made that the competition is unfair and therefore that it justifies protection. Mr. Motherwell, who has long and violently denied this, now admits it. His admission is the most significant and important utterance made by any cabinet minister since the opening of parliament.

After that, we may soon expect Hon. Mr. Stewart, minister of the interior, who joyfully announced that the death-knell of tariff protection in Canada had been sounded, to announce that the funeral has been postponed.

But—what is more important—what will Mr. Forke and his fellow-Progressives have to say about this prospective rightabout turn on the part of the King ministry? Will they tolerate it?

AN APPEAL FOR PROTECTION

For years a great plant, established in Hamilton by the Libby-Owens Company at a cost of $2,000,000 for the manufacture of sheet glass, has been idle, and most of the three or four hundred skilled and highly-paid artisans formerly employed there have left the country. The works were closed down because the Canadian tariff failed to afford adequate protection against the cut-throat competition of the Belgian glass makers, who enjoyed a huge advantage on account of the depreciation in Belgium currency. The company could not continue to operate for an indefinite time at a loss, and as it could see no relief from Ottawa or even an assurance of relief in the future, it ceased to operate.

Now an effort is to be made to induce the Ottawa government to grant the measure of relief which was formerly refused. The company is to petition for a measure of tariff protection sufficient to make profitable operation practicable and undertaken, if the request be granted, to double the capacity of its plant.

The application is the more reasonable from the fact that the complete capture of the Canadian market by foreign manufacturers has increased instead of lowering the price of glass to the Canadian consumer.

It will be interesting to note the reception which the application will have at Ottawa. Perhaps it would be too optimistic to hope that it will be regarded with favor by the Progressive group. But there are many of the government's supporters, and some cabinet members, who are not indifferent to the industrial interests of this country and who will be likely to regard with sympathy the application of the Hamilton company. From the nature of the answer given we shall be able to judge of the degree in which the government is dominated by Leader Forke and his supporters.

IT SIMPLIFIES MATTERS

Countess Cathcart is for five women, free to remain in the United States for six months, the time allowance for foreign visitors. Federal Judge Bondy produced this effect. The judge decided that "moral turpitude" as applied to persons seeking admission to the United States consists only of acts in violation of the laws of the country where they occurred. The countess was barred by the immigration authorities because she admitted that she had been guilty of adultery, she having deserted her husband and shared with another man in South Africa. But adultery is not a crime in South Africa, and the countess was never charged with it there; therefore, under the decision of the judge, there is nothing in the U. S. immigration laws to bar her from the United States.

But this judicial decision may apply to many cases far different from that of the culprit countess. If the law now is that "moral turpitude" sufficient to bar an immigrant from the United States consists in acts committed in violation of the laws of the country where they occurred, it follows that any person once convicted of any offence against the laws of Canada or any other country is not eligible for admission into the United States.

All those who have sinned against the O.T.A. and the liquor laws of Quebec and all the other provinces must reconcile themselves to a permanent habitat in this country. No trips to California and Florida for them. It would be too dangerous. They would be liable to be stopped at the border, or, if they got past, to be seized at any moment and deported as persons guilty of moral turpitude and therefore unfit to mingle with Uncle Sam's numerous family.

RATHER FUNNY

Two or three days ago a sensational New York daily paper printed this piece of delicious and stimulating comment:

"Newspapers of the past few days have devoted considerable space to tell how Matt Silverman of Brooklyn defeated John Coolidge, son of the President of the United States, in a boxing match at Amherst, where the young men are attending college.

"Only in America could this happen. In England, for instance, the Prince of Wales would HAVE to be declared winner in a boxing match. The King would HAVE to be declared winner in any sport competition he entered. It wouldn't do for a 'commoner' to defeat royalty.

"There is no 'divine right' or rule in this country. For which you should be thankful."

This is funny enough in itself; but the sequel makes it doubly so. Only the other day a cable despatch told of a horse race arranged by the Welsh Guards in which the Prince of Wales took part as a contestant. The prince, says the despatch, "was only able to finish fifth over the difficult course of 2 1-2 miles. Major Rupert Lewis won the event.

Truth sometimes plays cruel tricks upon those who make a habit of treating her with disrespect.

ABSINTHE UNDER PROHIBITION

The Outlook:

Absinthe, the forbidden drink of France, is now quoted at $96 a case on the New York liquor market. Two weekly magazines, purchasable at almost every newsstand, print the full illegal liquor market quotations in every issue.

Better Not

The philosopher, Blas, was once overtaken by a storm on shipboard. Among his companions were some very bad characters, who began to call on the gods for help. Blas said, "Hold your tongues; don't let them know you are on board."

The Reason Why

Singers—and Singers

Rossini, the great Italian composer, was as much a wit as an epicure, and on one occasion he thus addressed some of his pupils:—

"My children," said he, "there are three kinds of singers—(1) Those who have a voice but do not know how to sing; (2) those who know how to sing but have no voice; and (3) those who have neither a voice nor the knowledge of how to sing."—"Ikie Spot" in the Scottish Musical Magazine.

Changed His Mind

The manager of a large warehouse in Glasgow who was much disliked, received an offer from an English firm and had all but decided to give up his Glasgow job. His fellow employees thereupon collected a purse of money and presented it to him as a thank-offering on the occasion of his departure. "Weel, weel," said Scottie as he took the purse. "I never thocht ye liked me sae weel, but noo that I see ye're sae vexed at me gaun' awa', I think I'll no gang, but just bide whaur I am."—Montreal Witness.

ALLENBY GIVEN GREAT WELCOME

Vancouver Host on Monday To Hero of Palestine

IS ON WAY EAST

Will Be In Regina On Sunday—No Side Trip To U.S.A.

Vancouver, March 9.—Cheered by thousands of both women and men including a few of the latter who served under him Lord Allenby, hero of Palestine with Lady Allenby left Vancouver today over the C.P.R. for Calgary.

Dozens of telegrams from all parts of the Dominion, and one from the Canadian Club of New York, showering invitations on Lord and Lady Allenby to enjoy the hospitality of Canadian homes and public bodies, have reached the gallant marshal today.

So far the only definite change in his previously announced itinerary will be a longer stop-over in Saskatoon, where he will give a public address on Saturday, March 13.

At Calgary he will be the guest of the Ranchmen's Club at dinner on March 11, while Lady Allenby will be entertained privately by Mrs. J. H. Woods.

At Edmonton they will be the guests of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor at Government House.

Other invitations accepted by wire by Lord Allenby include a Second concert being arranged by the Great War Veterans at Regina for Sunday afternoon. At the Saskatchewan capital the distinguished visitors will be the guests of Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Lyman Lands. During the Hamilton visit Lord and Lady Allenby will be the guests of Mrs. Hendrie, at Cascade House. Lord Allenby also wired his acceptance to the Royal Military College Club of Canada, who will entertain him at dinner during his Toronto visit.

Lord Allenby has wired to the Canadian Club of New York, expressing his regret that his Canadian programme makes it impossible for him to visit the American metropolis at this time.

ALLENBY'S SPEECH

The world never will be torn by a great armed conflict like the late war again if the British Empire stands together, Viscount Allenby, commander of the British armies which recovered the Holy Land for Christendom, declared in an address before the Canadian Club at Victoria.

Denying that he was a militarist or had come to Canada to preach militarism, Lord Allenby asserted that the nations which went through the last war wanted no more bloodshed of that kind. The Empire's work in the war, he said, would do more than anything else to make a repetition of such hostilities impossible. There might be small punitive wars in the future, he said, but a world conflict could not occur so long as the Empire remained the great bulwark protecting the world's peace.

A SOLID EMPIRE

Today the Empire is more unified than ever in its history, Viscount Allenby assured his hearers. He travels in the last few months he said, had convinced him of the Empire's increasing solidarity. "We are all one great Imperial family," he said. "We British are bound together by unbreakable ties You and you are a Canadian first and a citizen of the Empire afterwards, or a citizen of the Empire first and a Canadian afterward. It doesn't make any difference, it is the range thing which ever way you put it. We are one and will be forever.

"I am an Englishman by birth, a soldier by profession, and he conviction I am a confirmed imperialist".

The speech paid a glowing tribute to the Canadian troops in France. He told how he had been in command of many of the Canadian corps before Vimy Ridge and had taken part in the battles with the Canadians there under Baron Byng.

"I can remember the thrill of excitement which ran through us when we heard that the Canadians had at last captured Vimy Ridge," he exclaimed. "That ground had been fought for year after year.

HER TRIBUTE OF THANKS

Toronto, Mar. 9.—The Hospital for Sick Children now campaigning for funds for a supplementary build ing in the country, published this letter from Mme. Alex. Bedard, a mother writing her moving tribute of thanks in a language not her own:

"Dear Docteur,—

"I have shed so much of tears because of what my boy he suffered that I find not words for express my gratitude towards you. Dear Docteur, who seem to have cured him. Never all the gold can pay a service like that, not even all the wealth of Madame Henry Ford. Pro fit erect some monuments for the Queen Victoria and Champlain. Well Champlain he built the first huts that made the city of Quebec and his memory she lives until today, but Docteur you rebuilt a human leg. If my child he walks again it mean I should erect for you a monument just the same."

Local Druggists Have Modern Remedy for Colds

A Vaporizing Salve which is Rubbed Over Throat and Chest for Colds.

When Vicks VapoRub, the "external" method of treating sore throat, bronchitis, deep chest colds, or croup, is applied over throat or chest, the ingredients are released as vapors by the body heat.

These vapors, inhaled with each breath carry the medication directly to the affected air passages, loosening the phlegm and relieving the congestion. At the same time Vicks acts as a counter-irritant, stimulating the skin, and thus helps the vapors inhaled to break up the inflammation.

Colds are usually relieved over night.

LORD RIDDELL LAUDS TEACHERS

Says If any Person Deserves Titles and Honors Teachers Do

London, Eng. Mar. 9.—"I do not believe in the 'good old days'" said Lord Riddle, lecturing on "Business and Education", "I believe that, as a rule they were 'bad old days'. I do not believe that there is a word of truth in the statement that is often made that the people of this generation are less industrious, less clever, or less efficient than the people of former generations. I believe that even the ballet-girls of the present time are more intelligent, more efficient, and better trained than the ballet-girls of the past, and that dancers generally are more efficient than the dancers of the past."

Lord Riddle readily admitted that our educational system needed amendment but on the other hand, there was no doubt that our schools and teachers had been badly paid. "If think if any persons deserve titles and honors," Lord Riddle added, "they are the school teachers." (Cheers).

Here and There

Nels Nelsen, world's amateur ski champion, gave an exhibition at Shawbridge recently under the auspices of the Montreal Ski Club. Mr. Nelsen holds the record for the highest ski jump in the world, either by amateur or professional ski experts. At the Revelstoke, B.C. ski jump he attained a distance of 340 feet, two years ago. This has never been equalled or attained before or since.

The Prince of Wales spent a day inspecting the British Industries Fair at Birmingham, England, recently. When in the course of his tour he came to the Imperial Exhibit of the Canadian Pacific Railway, he stopped, smiled and exclaimed, "Good old C.P.R." On learning the Prince's verdict was, "It is a splendid fair and I hope it meets with the success it deserves.

General meetings of the Montreal Railway Officers have been held in Montreal arranging for the forthcoming convention of American Railroad Superintendents. The convention is to take place on June 15 to 18, next, and will be attended by railroad superintendents from all parts of the American continent. In all, about eight hundred or a thousand are expected with their wives.

With E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific, and Directors of its patrons, the Red and White Revue, an annual Musical Show, written, produced and acted entirely by McGill Students, was offered to five capacity houses at His Majesty's Theatre in Montreal during the first week of March. This was the third edition of the Revue produced by the undergraduates of McGill University.

One of the largest and most valuable collections of Chinese Jade that has ever crossed the Pacific Ocean was carried off the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Russia" when the vessel arrived at Vancouver recently. The entire collection is the result of nine months excavation in the central and northwest provinces of China. The collection was brought by A. W. Behr, will known collector of New York city.

The Annual Italian Trade Fair, to be held in Milan, Italy, during the month of April, has the support of the Italian Government and all the commercial and industrial associations of the country. Judging from the applications already on hand from those wishing to participate it should be a marked success. The exhibition should appeal to Canadian manufacturers and merchants who wish to increase trade between the two countries.

Arriving at Vancouver recently on the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Russia," three scientists, Captain Hubert Wilkins of Yale University, Wilson Powell and Adrian Rubel, of Harvard, told of photographing the total eclipse of the Sun at an approximate cost of $30,000 a minute. The three astronomical students were members of the Swarthmore college expedition who journeyed to the island of Sumatra to photograph the latest eclipse of January 24, 1925.

PASTOR BELIEVES IN DISCIPLINE

Canada is Suffering From Utterances of Faddists Like Miss Macphail

Ottawa, Mar. 9. — Rev. T. J. Thompson, minister of the Globe United Church at a meeting of the 38th battalion Mess, told the gathering that if he had "Bill Way" every youth would spend part of his life in military training. "Canada was suffering from the utterances of several faddists, and those interested in military work must deal with pacifist forces which were moulding public opinion. He considered the chaos of Miss Agnes Macphail and others constituted a scandal and should be dealt with as such. Rev. Mr. Thompson was the first chaplain of the 38th battalion of the C. E. F. and of the 2nd Canadian Engineers and saw service in Palestine and France during the Great War.

FILM STARS ARE PLANNING SUPREME TEST FOR LOVE POLA AND RUDY MAY WED

Hollywood, Calif., March ...—Pola Negri and Rudolph Valentino have decided to get married if both find the same way about it after a "four months' supreme test of love," according to the actress today.

"The supreme test will come when I leave shortly for Germany to make a moving picture abroad," Pola said. "Rudy will stay in Hollywood.

"If I feel as I do now upon my return, and Rudy also feels the same, there is nothing to prevent our marriage. I love him deeply, very deeply, indeed. I am not ashamed to confess that. I think he is the supreme man. He is perfection. But, although many things have been said, I take marriage very seriously. If I am ever married, I expect nothing to break the link. I shall be for all time.

"So, first, I want to prove my love. I will be gone for four months shortly. Rudy will be working here. That will be the supreme test. True love ought to outlive this separation.

"Engaged? I do not like the word. It sounds too much like a prison or a solemn engagement. I know Rudy very very well indeed. And I may be the supreme man. Believe me, I have had enough experiences with men. Really, I am a connoisseur of men.

"But this is a great love affair. I can tell you that. I am so eager to test it by separation."

ADVICE FOR YOUNG MOTHERS

Hamilton, Ont.—"Before the arrival of my little boy my health was very poor, my back ached and my nerves were so upset I could not sleep. I grew very weak and miserable and suffered from morning sickness. Finally I saw Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in the drug store where I trade, so I decided to try it, and it did me a world of good. It relieved me of all distress in my back, built me up in strength and my nerves did not give me any more trouble. I got alone for the remainder of the time and I had a very strong, healthy baby. In addition to keeping a woman healthy and strong it relieves her of a certain mental strain, from which most women suffer during motherhood."—Mrs. Joseph Curtis, 167 Bay St. North. (Picture above.)

AT HOLLOWAY

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. George Ross gathered at their home to spend a social evening with them before they moved to their new home at Fenelon. Mr. W. B. Tufts acted as chairman and Rev. A. Scott read the following address:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Ross:—

We your neighbours and friends have learned with regret that you are leaving our community. Realizing the necessity to expect change. Tennyson said "All things human change." Mashone Scott-chine said "In this world of change nought which comes stays and nought which goes is lost." We are sorry that this change has come our way but then is nought to do but submit. We shall miss you as friends and helpers in this neighborhood. As a token of our esteem and love we would ask you to receive this gift May it at least sometimes remind you of your friends and church associates and Holloway Keep this remembrance for Holloway's sake. We say good bye for now but hope to still have the privilege of greeting you many times more.

Farewell if ever fondest prayer

For other's weal avail on high,

Ours will not all be lost in air

But waft thy name beyond the sky.

Signed on behalf of church and community.

PIRATE SHUT-OUT OTTAWA RESULT

WORTERS WAS TARGET

Ottawas Did Not Give Pittsburg a Chance with Connell There

Ottawa Auditorium, March 8.—Pittsburgh Pirates, fighting desperately to retain a chance for the "show" position in the N.H.L., invaded Ottawa at full strength. Odie Cleghorn and Lionel Conacher, who have been big factors in their success to date, were confident they would win. This was a bit shaken with the announcement that "Buck" Boucher, who has been out of the Ottawa line-up for several weeks, would be back in action, and as events proved, Ottawa did another shut-out beating the Buccaneers 3-0.

Ottawa was hardly at full strength at that, as Hooley Smith, dashing right wing player, is in the hospital with tonsilitis, Alex. Smith was reserved for utility defence duty, and Finnegan was named to play wing with Klaus alternating as right and left wing sub.

Ottawas were further hampered by the loss of Alex. Currie, their coach, but Dave Gill, the manager, who took charge, is a thoroughly capable boss, key man who has been looking after them in the last few games.

There was quite a large crowd on hand, and indications pointed to about six thousand. Ottawa has three home-brews on the Pirate regulars in Mikes, Darrach and Roger Smith. Conacher is also a great attraction. He is always a popular figure here.

Pirates are noted for their fast clean play, and both previous games they showed here have been exceptionally fine contests. On each occasion Pirates lost by 1-0 and still have to score a goal on home ice. They have only scored one goal on Connell this year. Odie Cleghorn, referring to Connell, declared he was the most improved goal-tender in the league.

Pirates had their double-barrelled forward line with them and Cleghorn did not dress. Henry Townsend, their millionaire backer, was with them. He announced that Duquesne Gardens would be greatly enlarged next year and would be able to accommodate ten thousand fans.

Aside from all that Ottawa scored one in the first and two in the final period. Doneeny and Finnegan doing the necessary

Lionel Conacher, defence player of the Pittsburgh professional hockey club, looks like he's becoming the most versatile athlete development in Canada.

It was on the gridiron however that he attained his greatest fame. For all-round ability it is doubtful if there has ever been another Canadian fullback his equal. When in a rugby uniform Conacher could do everything that could expect a good fullback to do. He could punt, skirt the end, dash through a broken field or plunge. As a plunging fullback, he was supreme.

Con-cher was more than a fair boxer, and was a good lacrosse and baseball player. He never showed his real worth as a hockeyist until he turned professional.

In the spring Conacher will get a "tryout" with the Toronto International league club. He has it in him to make good. Next fall he will play professional rugby, having signed with Red Grange's team. And if we're not mistaken, the same Conacher will teach the much advertised corral boys a thing or two about rugby, even though he will be playing at Red's own game.

boy is a story going the rounds which illustrates that Sprague Cleghorn is not only a capable ice general, but has a lot of ochre may be.

It appears that a certain star of the Boston team wanted to have a party recently in Montreal, and Cleghorn gladly approved him for being on his about training when there was a chance for Boston to get into the playoff. The one as reported Sprague mind his own business, and remarked that he would do just as he liked. He became quite sensitive, according to report, but woke up in bed after Sprague had measured him on the jaw with a sturdy right.

The upshot is said to have been that the player went out in perfect shape the next night to play a whole of a game. Big-time players state that Cleghorn skates continuously to keep in condition after practice, and that he is always the first out and the last in.

But we don't believe the story, anyway.

He's not one from England.

Born to mountain of extreme excesses over the light-weight champion of Europe has an eye to business.

When on his way to the west end of London with his trainer, a passenger hearing the "rube" train tread on his foot and thrust him aside with a sharp elbow. "I wouldn't mind that sort of thing, Harry," said the indignant trainer.

"I don't intend to," replied the boxer, rebuking the offender by the collar. "Look here, my good man, for two pins and 60 per cent. of the purse, win, lose, or pic me running the referee, I'd knock your block off."

We hear some stories of big American baseball "gates," but what about those ordinary Saturday afternoon crowds? Good net the-Cup Tie match, which of course draws the largest football crowds from all over England) which assembled at eight grounds on Feb. 20:

Over 200,000 enthusiasts watched the eight matches in the fifth round of the English Cup, the biggest attendances being at Aston Villa, Manchester City, and Sunderland, where the gate reached over 20,000. At Villa's ground the crowd totalled 1,30,000—the biggest on the season—and at Millwall, where there were 40,000 spectators, the management is frantic that the gates had to be closed to all except ticket-holders before 2.30—half an hour before the start of the game.

During the early stage of a league fixture with the Binky Dinks last night the Tradies gave promise of a performance extraordinary on the Campbell Street Alleys. With the conclusion of the last string the latter mentioned aggregation had rolled up a tidy load of 2238 points but whether their star was just a bit to bright or the wagons carried too heavy a load is a matter we are uncertain about but in any event they appeared to find the opening pore rather strenuous and slowed down accordingly, allowing their opponents to take the next two games and thereby acquire two points to their credit. The effective work of Misses Styles and McIntosh was outstanding, the former obtaining both the single high game mark and the best total for three games. For the Binky Dinks, Miss Ford, in spite of her rather modest beginning, managed to make the best total in the three games.

Night Clubs Have Odd Features But Mainly Exhorbitant Prices Only Thing free Salt and Pepper

New York, March 9.—How the tight clubs of New York live, and who live in them, is revealed as a result of Police Commissioner McLaughlin's drive to close certain objectionable classes of them.

The question, "What is a Night Club?" as applied to the objectionable kind, has been largely a recruit of those initiates with much spending money. This class of amusement place had been described as the "native heath of the sap" and the "stamping ground of the wise guy."

The Commissioner has sought to enforce fire hazard regulations to close some of them.

They have responded by "striping down" their equipment and making it mobile. Most of the smaller clubs of this kind can now pack up and scoot around the corner and up two blocks to a new location, while the police are still enroute to the old stand.

Turned away here and there beneath the bright folds of the "Rose in Forties", there is nothing "club by" about these colorful little places.

They are cabarets, pure and simple. No dues are charged, no initiation fee required, and anyone who "has the price" can "join". The roll of each club is a mailing list method the management uses assiduously.

The only things to be found free are salt and pepper. Couvert charges range from three to five dollars. Water is furnished up to a dollar a pint, and experienced waiters sometimes move the decimal point, to a jump or two to the right when adding the checks. Bacon and eggs, a fad just now, may be had at $3.00 per order, which includes twenty-five cents worth of bacon and eggs.

One enterprising manager has two sets of menues, one with and one without prices. Then menues without prices are handed the ladies, and they order, blissfully ignorant of why their escorts squirm around so.

The most important dignitary in the night club is the head waiter. It is he who spots the "broker", one of the preferred customer class. Next in order of their impotance to revenue producers, at such clubs as the Commissioner aims to close, come "slightly drunken boys who look rich", the "butter and egg man", also referred to as "Good Time Charlie", and the "theatrical celebrity" Although unsuspecting they, classes are put on exhibition by the proud management which enjoys their patronage.

In the "eve as you and I" class who make possible the sale of the hat checking commission of some of the smallest clubs at from $15,000 per year up, come the less moneyed but essential Broadway habitues, bank clerks, bookkeepers, and minor executives, who "bring their own" and appear about once a week, spending only about $25.

Faced with the necessity of being always one jump ahead of tomorrow the latest wrinkle evolved by night club sponsors for the relief of the "tired business man" is the breakfast dance.

The breakfast dance, strangely enough, starts at about five or six in the afternoon. For two or three hours it follows rather conventional lines while at some places objected to by the police commissioner dancers participating go process called "getting oiled". Once well "oiled", perhaps an entertainer will favor with "Who'll Chop Your Suey When I'm Gone?" She will then appear to sing the last verse, the one supposed to contain a kick for the patrons for $2.00 If she doesn't run out of last verses she gets rich.

Other night club songs are such as "Florida You Owe a Lot to Me". When the final stage is reached patrons sometimes roll up dollar bills and bombard the orchestra across a ting dance floor. An experienced banjo player can pocket a dollar bill without missing a stroke.

In some of the clubs where cabaret acts are found in the upper stories of barn-like buildings, a general pilgrimage higher up takes place at about three a.m. Having partaken of a "night cap" the united blated manoeuvre downstairs again and depart. The lights over the main entrance are extinguished and the club appears closed.

The "regulars" however, steer for another and darker entrance some distance down the street around the corner, and the revel continues until about eight a.m. The management of one club prides himself on closing promptly at eight a.m. giving its patrons cold showers and shipping them off to work as fresh as the dawn." To the adage "never educate a sucker" some of the night clubs have added another line, "Never turn him loose while he has a dime."

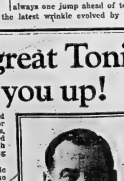

27 YEARS CRIPPLED; DIES

Toronto, Mar. 9.—There passed away recently at the hospital for incurables one of the most interesting and lovable patients that ever entered the hospital, Edith Emily Wheatley. Stricken down for the fourth time with a species of rheumatism at the age of 17 years, and for twenty-seven years thereafter lying in one position, the disease was active in warping and twisting every joint in her body until finally those became rigid. Some eight years ago she became almost totally blind.

A MARRIAGE TANGLE

Toronto, Mar. 9.—The city fouer of marriage licenses gets huge confusion sometimes. Recently a bridegroom came for a license and the day he received a letter saying: "There are two brothers born of the same father but different mothers. The daughter of one brother wishes to marry her father's half-brother." The answer of course, was in the negative.

Another queerie recently received was in regard to the legality of a marriage which took place in a boat, in 1909 on the high seas by an American minister in the presence of only one witness. The clergyman declared it not be "under the bedinance of God and the international law." The longer advised the applicant for information to consult a lawyer.

The Marquis

BY
CHARLES GARVICE

When she reached the dining-room she found that the ladies had gone into the drawing room, and Lord Elliot rose as she entered.

"Anything the matter, Miss Grahame?" he asked.

"No, Lord Elliot," she replied, "I am looking for the marchioness, that is all," and she beat a retreat before any further question could be put.

As she entered the drawing-room she saw the marchioness seated in a chair a little apart from Mrs. Norton and Lady Ruth, who was at the table and, going across the room, she approached the old lady as easily and naturally as possible.

"Where is Arol and what did he want, Miss Grahame?" called out Lady Ruth.

Constance drew the trembling arm within here.

"He will be here presently," replied Constance, then she bent down over the old lady, and said, gently:

"Arol wants you in the library, Lady Brakespeare."

The old lady got up at once.

"In the library? Oh, my dear, what is the matter—has he hurt him self?".

Constance drew the trembling arm within here.

"He has only just hinself in the least, dear Lady Brakespeare. There is nothing whatever the matter; but he has a little surprise for you, that's all."

The marchioness drew a breath of relief.

"I am always so nervous about him, he falls about so, though not so much as he did, and not so badly as he used to do. What is he planning coming in with his head or his face cut from a fall from a horse or one of the ponies. Thank God Arol is not so wild as he was."

"And you have not heard from Lord Wolfe—the marquis—for a very long time?" said Constance, seizing upon the opening at once.

"I suppose he will be sure to write and tell you when he is returning."

"Nothing is more unlikely, my dear," she replied. "I expect when he does come back that he will come quite suddenly, and without giving us any notice, just as he used to come down from London in the old times when he was a lad. I am always ready for him, my portmanteau red, and the Hook says that hope deferred maketh the heart sick."

"But there may be mained some day, dear Lady Brakespeare," said Constance, gently, "and you would not be too startled—it would not be too great a shock if he came quite suddenly as you say?"

The old lady looked at her with a little look in her face placid, gentle eyes.

"My dear, why do you ask me? Have you heard anything? Why do you look at me so kindly and pityingly?"

Constance had got her into the small by this time, and had closed the drawing-room door behind them.

"You have something to tell me, my dear! What is it? I—is it bad news?"

"No, it is good news, dear Lady Brakespeare," said Constance, her eyes growing moist.

"Then you have heard of him—where is the letter, the message?—take me to him!" and her hand clasped Constance's.

"It is not a message, or a letter, dear Lady Brakespeare; but there is some one here in the library who knows—who knew—"

A spasm passed over the withered face, and then the old lady lifted her head with a touch of noble dignity.

"You are a good, sweet girl, and you have broken it to me very well," she said, almost inaudibly. "My son Wolfe is there! Take me to him! Wait a moment, he—he must not see me upset, he always hated scenes and fuss!" and she drew herself up, and actually stilled her trembling limbs. "Now, please, dear."

Constance led her to the door, opened it, and beckoned Arol, then closed the door quickly, as with a low cry of delight the master sank into the arm of her long-lost son.

Constance waited a moment to see if she should be called to—for the strain might be too great, and the marchioness might swoon; then, taking Arol's hand, went back to the drawing-room.

Arol broke from her as they entered, and ran full pelt up to Lord Elliott.

"Uncle Wolfe has come back!" he exclaimed in his clear treble.

Lady Ruth sprang up, nearly upsetting the tea things, and her face went scarlet.

"What do you say, child!" she exclaimed, and her sharp eyes flashed from Arol to Constance.

Lord Elliot rose—fifty all rose, in fact, so if the boy had announced a resurrection from the dead.

"Is this true, Miss Grahame?" demanded Lady Ruth, haughtily. "Was it for this Arol took you out of the dining-room. Why did you not come to me, Arol?"

"He said, 'Fetch some one,' and I fetched Miss Grahame," replied Arol, simply.

"Where is he?" demanded Lady Ruth, going toward the door; but before she could reach it it opened, and the marchioness entered leaning upon her son's arm.

They made a striking picture, the old lady with her snow white head and eyes still swimming in tears, and the tall, distinguished looking man with his hand on her shoulder, and dark eyes with the flame spear light flashing in them.

"Well, Ruth," he said, giving her his hand, "this is a surprise, isn't it? Elliot!" and he grasped the outstretched hand with a warm pressure.

Then, as they all began talking at once, he led his mother to a chair and, leaning against the mantelshelf looked from one to the other with a smile that was half-amused, half sad.

"Thanks, thanks; it's very kind of you to say you're glad to see me," he said at last, when he could get in a word. "You are looking just the same, Elliott. I should have known you any where."

"And I you, Wolfe," said Lord Elliot, laying his hand on his broad shoulder.

"You would? You don't think I am altered much?" said the marquis, with a smile. "Who was it told me I was like the portrait in the gallery? Oh! Arol here," and he held out his hand to the child, who went to him and took it.

"Look at it again, Arol, and see if they have painted any more lines about the forehead or any wrinkles in the face, and he laughed, but there was a look of grave regret in his eyes.

"And dance? Have you had anything, Wolfe?" asked the marchioness, looking up at him as if it had just occurred her that he might be starving.

He took her hand in his and stroked it.

"Too late for the fatted calf, am I?" he said. "Don't be uneasy, mother. I had something to eat an hour or two ago; but I'll take some tea."

"No, you shall have some wine," said Lady Ruth, and she left the room hurriedly.

As she opened the door the sound of excited voices floated into the room, and when she came back with a decanter of wine and a glass she said, laughingly:

"Grisli! of course they've gladly retorted Lady Ruth. "You'll have to go and speak to them, Wolfe."

"Must I?" he said, with a shrug. "Well, if I must. Come, mother," and drawing her arm within his he went into the hall.

MOON IS GRILLED FOR MANY HOURS

STIRRING SPEECH BY CAPT. HANEY EXPOSES FAULTS

Man Who Helped Burgess In Prince Albert Raps Liberals

CANADA TO BE SAVED

Cannot Be Allowed to Be Sold Out to Alien Peoples

Capt. W. B. Haney M.P.P., for West Lambton in his opening remarks to the large attendance at the young men's Conservative Club last night on block stated that his name was Haney, not Raney, as he had been called.

He gave an address relative to Dominion matters that was most interesting and also touched slightly upon Provincial matters referring especially to the rich mineral resources of Ontario. He came to Belleville to speak because William Ireland the popular M.P.P. for the constituency had asked him to come here. No member in the Legislature was more popular than Mr. Ireland and another highly respected member was the Hon. J. R. Cooke. He was pleased to see that the Conservatives in Belleville had kept up their organization. Capt. Haney in referring to elections stated they were won by public sentiment and public sentiment may be moulded by the the press or it may be moulded in trains on the street car in other public places.

NEEDS PUBLICS HELP

The best organized party that has not public sentiment behind it cannot succeed and West Hastings realized that in a certain election. The Conservative party has a policy and principles which we believe are right. In speaking of the the industries of Canada, Capt. Haney said that as a result of the war many of the industries were started into the manufacturing of war materials. The industrial life of Canada was shattered as a result of the war and a new policy was necessary to be pursued to enable our industries to carry on and be successful. Here we in Ottawa a Government that will pursue such a policy. At Richmond Hill just previous to the election on October 29th hot Premier King said he had been hamstringed as he did not have a sufficient clear majority of members and he asked to be relieved by a majority so he could carry on the affairs of the country. What the result of the election was all were familiar with. The Conservatives had the larger group but Mackenzie King saw another group and for their support he made a bid and that bid was the building of the Hudson Bay Railway at a cost of $50,000,000 and some ports are only open a few weeks of the year. It was what may be termed a bribe to deal with the Progressives. It was an absolute selling out to this group. He the speaker took part in the election in Prince Albert because Premier King's opponent was a personal friend of his.

HUDSON'S BAY RY.

Despite Barrage Of Questions Moon Stands Pat On Story That McWilliams Was First To Be Shot

Efforts by the prosecution to establish a theory never before advanced in connection with the shooting of Clayton McWilliams and John McGie, namely that McGie and not the other, was the first to fall; formed the highlight of the third day of Moon's trial.

After withstanding more than seven hours' examination, direct and cross, in the witness box Moon's story had not been shaken by the prosecution this afternoon. This account indicating that McWilliams had been shot first, remained the same in all vital particulars.

Moon returned to France to the Amiens front, in 1918, fought there he testified, and subsequently at Cambrai.

"Were you engaged in actual fighting, the work of a soldier from day to day, while you were in France?" asked counsel.

"Yes."

"When did you get back home from France?"

"July 12th, 1919."

NEVER SPOKE TO MCGIE

"Did you know John McGie?" asked counsel.

"I never spoke to him in my life" was the reply.

"Did he come into contact with your life in any way?"

"Never."

"What were the relations between you an McWilliams?"

"Very much strained. I heard he was keeping company with my wife and I watched him.

"I found out things for myself in 1925... said Moon. "During the first few months I heard things but I didn't believe them. Then she got to running around with a woman who hadn't a good reputation and I stopped her from associating with that woman.

"One night I wanted to go to a show. She seemed annoyed and said she wanted to go to the library first.

FOUND PAIR ON STAIRS

"I discovered she wasn't at the library and I found her and McWilliams together on the back stairs of the High School. They jumped up and McWilliams beat it.

Moon said he later asked McWilliams why he was running around with Mrs. Moon and stated he asked him to stop it for Moon's children's sake if not for their father's.

Moon also testified to having overheard a conversation between his wife and McWilliams, in which they called each other endearing names and Mrs. Moon had said she was afraid she would not be able to get out that night because Moon was staying in.

Finally, Moon said, he went to McWilliams in the store and told McWilliams he was done and told him to get to hell out of the store. Then Moon said he heard his wife and McWilliams were going into an office together, slipping in singly.

Moon testified to having caught his wife and McWilliams together. McWilliams again fled, according to witness when Moon confronted McWilliams he stated, "Why don't you keep away from your wife. She's going with six or seven other fellows, anyway?"

TOLD OF SHOOTING

In May of 1924, Moon said, McWilliams had said to him, "If you don't quit bothering me I'll kill you."

Accused further testified to having fazed his wife with her relationship toward McWilliams, and stated the quarrel had resulted in her going to her father and mother, with the children.

Later Moon had a letter from his wife saying if he would permit her to come back and would forgive her, she would behave herself in a perfect proper manner.

He said she would have to see Charlie Payne, her lawyer, I said I would do anything possible, on account of the children," said witness.

BETRAYED EMOTION

Witness for the first time betrayed great emotion and there were tears in his eyes and voice when he recounted how he had gone to McWilliams again, after accused and his wife had made a fresh agreement and she had promised to be better. Moon had told McWilliams they were making a new start.

"All went well for awhile," stated prisoner, "until again I saw my wife and McWilliams together in the Quinte Cafe."

Witness testified to having seen his wife and McWilliams together again on April 5. He said he had received a telephone message on the fourth saying his wife and McWilliams were to meet on the 5th by Bell's Creek.

Some friends having asked Moon to take a ride to Napanee he testified of when they got to Bell's Creek he saw his wife and McWilliams enter Bell's woods.

They jumped up quickly and ran away, when he got out of the car and pursued them, he said.

SAW MCWILLIAMS IN MORNING

"I met McWilliams about 11 a.m. on the 6th," said Moon. McWilliams said he could go with my wife now as much as he liked because we had a separation.

"I told him I had to consider my children, and that there was going to be a showdown between him and me," Moon testified. Further, witness said, McWilliams had said, "What are you bothering about your wife for. I know she's a prostitute and has had other men here while I have been out with her."

During the testimony as to what happened at the Fisherman's shack, Moon said all present, so far as he recollected, had had a drink.

"Did Dawkins have a drink?" asked counsel.

"Yes, Dawkins had a drink," answered Moon.

"He told us he didn't, said counsel.

"He didn't like it much," said Moon, "but he had some because there wasn't any better."

At this point the Sheriff had to statement as to the quality of the call for order in the court, Moon's liquor having provoked a ripple of laughter.

FIRED INTO AIR

Moon testified to having just pulled out the gun while the bunch was drinking, and when someone protested there might be an accident, he, Moon, fired about four shots in the air in order to quiet them as a crowd there was no danger from shells being left in the gun.

THE FATAL EPISODE

Coming as to the actual shooting, Moon said:

"I went into the store and up to the dispensing counter, and hurriedly down from the dispensary and said, 'It's you, is it?' and dropped his hand. I thought he had a gun in my hand in my pocket and felt the gun that had been there since morning, pulled it and it went off. Then Jack McGie rushed at me, we struggled, my elbow struck something, and the gun went off again."

"Did you know whether McGie was shot from your gun?" asked counsel.

"Well, he fell down. I was kind of dazed."

"Did you have anything against McGie?"

"Nothing whatever. I scarcely knew him."

Dr. F. H. C. Baugh, of Brockville Sanatarium, sat with Mr. R. D. Macaulay, associate defence counsel while Moon was his evidence from the witness box.

"You first became aware of the shots?" asked the

"Not until he jumped at me."

WAS NOT AFTER MCGIE

"Did you mean to shoot McGie?"

"No."

"What did you do?"

"I looked at him a minute and then walked out. I was stunned. Half way across the road I hesitated and thought I'd better go back. I was dizzy in the head. Then I decided I had better go on so I went in to the office of the bank, put the gun on the accountant's desk, then went upstairs and laid down until someone shouted 'Moon'."

Moon then testified to seeing Detective Sergeant Trunbeh and other officers and submitted to arrest.

COAXED FOR STATEMENT

"You made a statement while you were at the police station?"

"Yes, they coaxed me for a long time. I said I wanted a cigarette and Trunbeh said I couldn't have one until I made the statement. I was getting hazy and sleepy, too, and wanted to get to bed."

"Was the statement you signed, about all you said?"

"Most of it, it was handed down some."

"Before I signed she statement Sergeant Harman rushed in and said I was all wrong about McWilliams, that he was still under cash and my wife hadn't gone as far as I thought. Harman said he had just been from the hospital where he had believed more than was true."

"Did you discuss McGie?"

"I was trying to find out if McGie was dead, but they wouldn't tell me. It was bothering me."

Asked by counsel as to his drinking, Moon said he did not habitually drink, but had drunk a good deal those two or three days because it was the only thing that eased his mind. His wife, he said, had left him on Feb. 9th and he had never drunk as he was then.

This ended the direct examination Cross-examination by Crown Attorney H. H. Mance commenced and was first levelled at establishing the fact that Moon had no quarrel with McGie.

ON WEDNESDAY MORNING

Arthur Moon again took his place on the witness stand at 9.35 Wednesday morning, the third day of his trial for life. He was immediately warned by Crown Prosecutor H. A. Mance that he was still under oath and the cross-examination proceeded.

Mr. Mance's questioning so far has been apparently of a matutely systematic nature not characterized by any disconcertable attempt to establish any case against Moon but rather designed to draw out the facts of accused's hard-working, respectable habits and of his unhappy married life.

HIS RETURN

Both the liver Johnson revolver and the automatic pistol figured prominently again this morning and it is becoming apparent that the real clash between prosecution and defence will be over the question of premeditation, indicated by the fact of Moon's having procured the automatic from the bank after he had been forcibly taken part with the Johnson revolver.

HIS RETURN

"Did you not return to your quarters with the express purpose of leaving the gun and then not leave it?"

"Yes."

"Despite that you went there to put the gun back, and that it made a bulge on your hip sufficient to be noticeable when you sat down, you forgot it."

"Yes I intended to put it back," "Yes."

THEY SEPARATED

"At some time during the evening in question, afterward, you surrendered the liver Johnson revolver to Dawkins. Then later you separated?"

"Yes."

"As a matter of fact he was going to get a bottle of whiskey and come back."

"The Doyle, too, would come back you expected?"

The Alienist's View of Moon

Counsel for defence this afternoon began his fight to establish proof of impaired mental resistance in Arthur Moon when Dr. F. H. C. Ball, alienist, of Brockville Sanatorium, was placed on the stand and testified that the prisoner's war experiences coupled to his marital troubles would in all probability have had the effect of rendering his nervous system low tolerant to stress.

Cross examination of the alienist, Dr. Ball, with the object of eliciting evidence that Moon was mentally normal, resulted in Dr. Ball's saying no man who drank raw alcohol as the then did of poor judgment and therefore to some extent abnormal.

"Yes, when he had done a little work, he said."

THE OVERCOAT

"You stepped out for a breath of air while waiting for Doyle and Dawkins to come back. Why did you put on your overcoat when only a short time earlier you had been out on autumn like drive without it?"

"Because it was getting cooler."

He was met by any probability because, having parted with the liver Johnson revolver, you knew there was an automatic in the overcoat pocket?"

"No, I never thought of that."

THE SAFETY CATCH

Again when prosecuting counsel endeavored to show that accused would have "known instinctively that the safety catch was not on, from his knowledge of firearms gained during the war, Dr. Moore sudenly threw the weapon into accused's hand and said:

"Now, could you not tell the safety catch was not on?"

Accused said he did not notice. "I wasn't thinking about it," he declared.

A moment later Mr. Mance directed Moon to put the gun in his hip pocket and then draw it.

JUDGE HOLDS GUN

Justice Kelley asked prisoner to pass him the automatic.

"Would you not be conscious of the weight of it in your overcoat pocket?" asked His Lordship, balancing the weapon in his hand.

"Not necessarily, sir. I was accustomed to carrying a lot of silver in my pocket."

"When you hesitated at the door of Latimer's drug store," asked counsel, "it was only because the door stuck and not because you had any thought

Former Belleville Man Gets Scholarship and Summer in Europe

Britton L. McCabe formerly of this city was successful in winning one of the scholarships provided by the committee on International Service of the Y.M.C.A. at Springfield. The scholarship which entails a one year's tuition and the summer in Europe was competed for by twenty Y.M.C.A Juniors and his winning the distinction of carrying it off has been modest as in lately laudatory terms in the Springfield Times. The decision was based upon Mr. McCabe's records in Y.M.C.A. camp work and their knowledge of foreign countries and languages. Sons of Wealthy Family Placed by Mr. Willoughby Anderson

Due to the efforts of Mr. Willoughby Anderson, two of the class of settlers essential in building the ideal Dominion, will in the course of a few days be placed on farms in Prince Edward County. The two men Philip and Arthur Allhilliand are the sons of a wealthy and influential English family and have for some months been studying at the McDonald Agricultural College, at St. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec. Having roused the interest of Mr. Cunningham formerly of Prince Edward, now an instructor at McDonald, the latter wrote Mr. Anderson asking him to use his influence in having them suitably placed on farms in Prince Edward County. They will ultimately purchase farms for themselves. At ten o'clock Yesterday morning Mr. Anderson received a telegram from Mr. Cunningham asking him if he had by chance located suitable places for the young men to learn fruit and inland farming, and at eight o'clock yesterday evening Mr. Anderson had found highly suitable berths for each of them.

TUMMON SPEAKS TO FRIENDS HERE ON PARLIAMENT

Member for South Hastings In Stinging Condemnation of Govt.

LAUGHTER MAY END

Conservatives of Belleville Given Word Picture Of Affairs

Mr. W. E. Tummon, M.P., met women electors in Belleville—at least a representative gathering of about three hundred of them at the reception tendered him last evening at the Women's Conservative Club rooms and judging by the storm of applause when he arrived in the club rooms and upon his concluding his address to them there is no doubt of his perpetual popularity.

SHORT PROGRAMME

Previous to Mr. Tummon's arrival a short programme by the ladies was enjoyed. Mrs. Isobel Kinnear, the president of the Club acting as chairman, and to this Miss Doris Rae contributed a solo and Miss Davis several piano selections. It was also decided by the ladies to co-operate with the Male's Conservative Club in giving a dance after Easter and a committee composed of Mrs. Ketcheson, Mrs. Howie, Mrs. Byrd, Mrs. Bloomfield, Mrs. Byrnes, Mrs. Cousins and Mrs. Thompson was appointed to confer with the men to formulate plans for this gathering.

THE SPEAKER

Introduced by the chairman, Mr. Tummon started off by the ladies for their support during his recent campaign, apologized for Mrs. Tummon's enforced retirement, she having six young Conservatives at home to bring up having not dared to brave the road conditions.

The speaker first went back to Premier King's speech at Richmond Hill when on September 6th, in announcing his intention of going to the country he complained bitterly of his party not being able to function on account of his small majority of one, over the combined Progressives and Conservatives. He went to the country and the country defeated him and eight of his cabinet ministers, reducing his following to one all told.

But Mr. King did not resign. He said he would call parliament and let the representatives decide who should carry on. Parliament was not called for that purpose—it was called to permit the Government to go ahead so the house a specially prepared programme in an effort to obtain by a vote in the house which the country failed to give them.

TEST OF SPEECH

Mr. Tummon said:

Had the government been called for that purpose to of deciding who was to carry on, then things would have occurred differently. On January 7th, the first message from the Crown through the lips of the speaker of the Senate was that it did not please His Majesty to assist the purpose for, which Parliament was called until Parliament had selected a speaker. This occurred in the Chamber and the speaker was duly elected.

The next day we attended in the Senate Chamber to hear the Speech from the Throne. We expected and had a right to expect that Speech would set forth why Parliament was called.

In a statement issued by the leader of the Government on November 6th, the Prime Minister said:

"After several interviews with His Excellency at which the position brought about by the recent general election was fully discussed and all alternatives prevailed, I have taken the responsibility of advising His Ex-

Colonel Lazier Is Presented With Past Principal's Jewel At Quinte Friendship Chapter

Presentation of a past principal's jewel to Ex. Comp. Colonel S. S. Lazier was an event which made last evening a meeting of Quinte Friendship chapter memorable.

Comp. Companion Kinnear and officers were all present and the presentation was made by Ex. Comp. Sharpe, who said: "From time immemorial it has been the custom for men to band themselves together in societies and to pick from among their number one to lead them. A little over five years ago a number of companions formed themselves into Quinte Friendship chapter by dispensation from the Grand Chapter and in their wisdom chose you for their First Principal. From that foundation under your guidance Quinte Friendship chapter has continued to prosper. On behalf of officer and companions I would ask you to accept this past principal's jewel."

Colonel Lazier in reply said it was a great surprise to him and that he was the more grateful possibly than he need to tell in accepting this token of appreciation of anything that he had been able to do. It was a long time since he had assisted in Masonry, over sixty years, during which time he had taken an active interest in all Masonic work. "At the time the Chapter was formed they wanted me to take charge and I had a grave doubts of my ability to discharge those duties. I take no credit for the fact that I accepted it, also refer to the fine officers that have been elected from year to year. I wish you all continued success and heartily thank you for the expression of my services to this chapter."

There were a number of companions present from the Grand Chapter of Masonry while Ex Comp. Lazier was in the chair and among these were: Ex. Comp. H. J. Clarke, Comp. H. A. Thomson, Harry Mackay, and John McIntosh. At the banquet which followed short speeches were made, among the visitors present being Comp. Rundle of Hanover Chapter, Toronto Comp. Rawlinge gave a song. Comp. Wheatley rendered a piano solo and Ex. Comp. Anderson gave a recitation.

ANGLO-GERMAN CONFERENCE ON LEAGUE ISSUE

Sudden Consultation When Briand Decided to Retain Office

DOMINION SUGGESTION

District of Columbia Proposed as Safer Permanent Home of League

Geneva, March 10.—A sudden consultation between Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, and Chancellor Luther and Dr. Stresemann, of the German delegation, immediately after receipt of the news from Paris that M. Briand had agreed to form a new cabinet was the most striking development in League of Nations Council circles.

From German sources emanated the report that in order to remove the council problem from the hands of the signatories of the Rhine pact and eliminate possible discontent of other members of the league on the ground that the Rhine signatories were assuming too much responsibility, the British Foreign Secretary was anxious to arrange an unofficial meeting between the members of the council and the Germans.

In the meantime the assembly leaders, headed by Sir Austen Chamberlain, succeeded in staving off embarrassing complications by securing immediate adjournment of the subcommittee which had been appointed to investigate Germany's application for League membership. The rules require the presence of the German application to respond to any questions as to whether Germany has been fulfilling her international obligations. In view of the fact that the Germans have expressed their determination not to enter the League until assured they can enter the council with permanent membership, unaccompanied by others, the leaders did not wish to put Germany in the position of having to refuse to appear before the investigating committee.

Interest in the unsettled council crisis wandered momentarily to the question as to whether Geneva will be definitely selected as the home of the League of Nations.

The Assembly must vote credits for the erection of the proposed assembly hall, but the still unsolved conflict between Switzerland and Russia over the Vorovsky affair has caused some of the delegates to consider whether the League should not be established in a community which would enjoy clearly defined extra territorial rights.

The problem came up at a conference between Lord Cecil and representatives of the British Dominions suggested the desirability of the creation of a definite territory similar to the District of Columbia which would render impossible the interference of conflicts between the country which was the seat of the league and other nations.

Moon Trial

of turning back?"

"I don't think so."

Moon testified he had his hands in his overcoat pockets when crossing to the drug store, immediately before the shooting, and that on opening the door he put the right hand back in his pocket again.

When you walked over to the drug store, you had no intention of killing McWilliams?"

"No, I would have done it long before had I thought that was about it."

"You just went over to discuss your family affairs with him?"

"Yes, I had gone to see McWilliams before when I had had a gun with me."

THE SCUFFLE

Confronted with the photograph of the drug store, Moon showed prosecuting counsel where the alleged scuffle with McWilliams took place.

Accused testified to McWilliams having jumped up and said, "We've got you now." Prisoner said at this point Mr. Moon pulled the gun from his pocket, drew it up level, and that it went off.

"Then you said yesterday something struck your arm."

"That is right."

"After firing the first shot why didn't you leave the store?"

"I don't know."

Crown: "You were in the short passage-way leading to the dispensary?"

Witness: "Yes."

"You were facing sort of toward the front of the store?"

"I did, sir."

"When you fired, the bullet would have been travelling in an easterly direction."

"Well, there was a sort of a scramble."

"Did you see John McGie fall?"

"No."

"Did you see Clayton McWilliams fall?"

"No."

Prosecuting counsel made accused go again over the firing of all the shots, particularly the third and last which was the one alleged to have killed McGie.

HAD NO CHANCE

"You had already fired two shots by accident while grappling with McWilliams," prosecution counsel put it to accused, "yet when McGie sprang out at you it did not occur to you to drop the gun then?"

"I didn't have a chance," declared witness. "I had no time to drop the gun."

In the endeavour to establish the possibility of McGie's having been shot first, according to the position of the bodies, prosecuting counsel stated a hypothetical question.

"If you shot McWilliams——

Defence interposed with the objection that the Crown must cross-examine in the light of the evidence.

"If your first shot did not take effect then," asked the Crown, of accused, "and your second shot hit McWilliams, your third must have hit McGie. Is that so?"

Accused: "I suppose so."

MORE QUESTIONS

Crown: "Do you remember whether you and McWilliams clinched?"

Accused: "I don't remember."

Crown: "Then possibly you don't remember whether you and McGie clinched?"

Accused: "Well, I know I was trying to get away from McGie."

By the Court: "What had you to fear from McGie?"

Crown: "Do you remember McWilliams passing you behind the counter?"

Accused: "I don't remember being behind the counter."

Replying to the court, prisoner said he heard McWilliams say "Now we've got you." That was why I was trying to get away from McGie."

At one partly framed question the Crown Attorney stopped himself with the smiling observation:

"I'm afraid I am getting this a little too involved even for myself."

The Crown Prosecutor directing his efforts toward establishing that Mr. Gie and not McWilliams was the first man shot, declared that according to the positions of the bodies McWilliams was lying near the telephone and closer to the bullet mark in the wall than McGie was.

Crown: "You have said very emphatically that your second shot killed McWilliams, and that your third killed McGie."

Mr. Munro then went for the third time over all the circumstances surrounding Moon's last trip out, from his apartment prior to the shooting. He reiterated the points about Moon putting on his overcoat despite that earlier he had ridden in an automobile without one.

Moon, taking the stand again at 2.30 p.m., when the court resumed for all things, declared under cross examination that he had gone to his room and lain down after the shooting.

Cross examination concluded at 2.50 p.m. after Moon had been in the stand seven hours and ten minutes.

Justice Kelley asked accused to demonstrate by holding the automatic whether it would be possible to hide it in his hand since Moon had said he suspected McWilliams of having had a gun in his hand.

The next witness called by the defence was Dr. J. J. Robertson. He was not present. Then Dr. Ball alienist, took the stand.

MENTAL EFFECT

Asked by defence what would be the mental effect on the average man of having undergone the war experienced undergone by Moon, Dr. Ball replied that it would be difficult to state a precise effect but that certain impressions undoubtedly be registered.

"Would there be a reasonable probability of lowered resistance in Moon's case?" asked counsel.

"Yes, I think it would be fair to assume that probability," was the alienist's reply.

"You had an opportunity of examining the prisoner some months ago?"

"I examined him on Oct. 20 last at the request of the Provincial Secretary."

The examination, Dr. Ball said, was confined by himself and Dr. Ryan, of Rockwood Hospital, Kingston, also an alienist.

The nervous system would become more responsive.

Yes, it is possible.

Having heard the evidence, Doctor, in Moon's case, and taking into account the cumulative effect of Moon's war experiences plus his domestic worries, what would be the effect?

I think it would make him less able to tolerate trouble.

Dr. Ball said that since the evidence had disclosed Moon had taken alcohol it was evident that had some effect because alcohol lowered the resistance by lessening to render a contemplated undertaking less hazardous than otherwise it might seem.

Asked whether it would be the act of a normal man to have the intention of murdering another and to tell it beforehand, Dr. Ball said no, that was not, in his opinion, a normal act.

"Would the circumstance that Moon was able to go about his business during the day, although he had had a few drinks and nothing to eat, alter your evidence at all?"

No, a man's mental side might be affected and him still be able to walk. If he hadn't had too much, that is, if he hadn't had enough to liquify his locomotive processes.

The court asked Dr. Ball: "Have you heard anything in the evidence which would lead you to believe prisoner did not fully appreciate the nature of what he did?"

Dr. Ball would not say either way.

Dr. J. J. Robertson of Belleville, who examined Moon on the night of the shooting, declared prisoner had evidently been drinking.

"If he drank as much as he says he did," declared the doctor, "and walked and went without food or sleep, I don't know how he walked around."

"But since he did, and did the shooting also, what would be your opinion of his mental condition? What effect would the continued provocation have?"

Dr. Robertson: "The continued provocation would of course, decrease his power of resisting an act of shooting McWilliams. I would expect just such a tragedy as occurred. When Moon was brought into contact with the object of his aversion he would, in my opinion, be unable to resist the temptation to do what he did."

MOTHER, CHILD PERISH IN FIRE

Wife and Two-Year-Old Son of Warkworth Doctor Victims

Peterboro, Ont., March 10.—Mrs. Stuart West, aged about 35, and her two children, aged 2 and 4, were burned to death when fire destroyed their home at Warkworth. Dr. West managed to rescue his night clothes. The cause of the fire is believed to have been overheated stovepipes. The remains of Mrs. West have been recovered, but those of the children have not been found.

Dr. W. F. Lourks, of Campbellford, Ont., conducted a jury inquest and W. A. Kelly as foreman. Constable Cousens, of Cobourg, was also present. The jury viewed the remains and adjourned until March 23. Dr. West was so affected by shock that he was unable to give any account of the fire.

Dr. West has been in Warkworth about three years. He served during the war with the veterinary corps, and after that, was a Belgian Relief worker while overseas, marrying her after his return to civilian life. Before enlisting, Dr. West first lived in Campbellford, where his father also is also a veterinary surgeon, still resides.

NICKEL SHOPS BURN

Locomotive Works Destroyed With Loss of $5,000,000

Frankfort, Ind., March 10.—Fire today virtually destroyed the locomotive shops of the Nickel Plate railroad with a loss of $5,000,000. Six hundred men will be temporarily thrown out of work.

The fire started when an oil burner in the roundhouse exploded. Flames spread rapidly and were beyond control in a few minutes.

The roundhouse, erected a year ago, the machine shops, blacksmith shops, the paint shop, new machinery and a number of locomotives were destroyed before the blaze virtually burned itself out.

ONTARIO HOUSE ADOPTS ADDRESS

Leaders Clash But Opposition Refrains From Seeking Division

O.T.A. MUCH TO FORE

Premier and Raney Are Heard Prior to End Of Debate

Toronto, Mar. 9.—(Without division the Ontario Legislature late last night adopted the address. The motion to do so followed upon a fieldday of oratory, staged for the purpose of clearing the way for the entry of the budget into the Chamber to-day.

Although the address was adopted without formal vote, the motion to accept it and thank His Honor for his "gracious speech" was not agreed to unanimously. It was only after an eleventh hour plaint by Progressive Leader Raney against the swallowing up of his amendment by the one proposed by the Prime Minister that the House declared itself, and then the lack of division was due to Hon. Mr. Raney's refraining from taking any further part in the matter after the Speaker of the Legislature had ruled against him.

The motion for a reply to the speech was first amended by Hon. Mr. Raney when the debate opened largely from the Prime Minister's speeches, which declared strongly in favor of the O.T.A. issue as it should have the endorsation of the people, and which—this clause not being a question from the Prime Minister—averred that it should be further amended only by referenda or plebiscites. To this amendment Hon. Mr. Ferguson when he had concluded his own speech some days later submitted a further one, declaring that "Responsible government should be observed, in order that such legislation should have the undoubted sanction and support of the people," as expressed through their representatives in the legislature, to the end that all such legislation should possess the authority and respect necessary to command due respect and observance by the community."

LEADERS CLASH

The effect of the Prime Minister's sub-amendment was to swallow up Hon. Mr. Raney's, and the Progressive leader protested strongly against such a consequence. He argued that the Premier's sub-amendment was not a proper one, since it declared only in favor of constitutional government and did not have, therefore, any connection with his amendment, which it was moved. He contended, accordingly, that it was out of order.

Hon. Mr. Ferguson pointed out, however, that whereas the Progressive leader expressed himself in favor of plebiscites and referenda, his amendment contemplated the alteration of the Act only through action by the elected representatives of the people with no more plebiscites and no more referenda; but with the Government squarely accepting the responsibility for any changes which might be made.

Speaker Thompson ruled with Hon. Mr. Ferguson, holding that the sub-amendment proposed a different method of handling the liquor problem to which the amendment with its suggestion of plebiscites referred.

LOCAL CAGERS GET GROUP TITLE

Queen's, With Whom They Tied, Had to Default Chances

Word was received by Y.M.C.A. physical director, Ralph Morden, this morning from the manager of the Queen's intermediate basket ball team stating that owing to the near approach of the final examinations the members of the team decided they could not afford to continue the series.

Following the game of last Saturday night when the local Y team lost to the Tricolor Basketeers by one point, both teams were on even terms each having won three and lost one game. It was expected that a play off series would take place with home and home games, points to count on the round but as Queen's have definitely decided to discontinue in the O.A.B.A. series for this year, the locals automatically acquire the group title.

In the course of a few days, the local management will doubtless receive instructions to play off with the group winners of some other district and although no hint has been received as to whom they will be opposed it is thought quite likely that it may be Toronto Central, who won the T. and D. Champion from the Y.M.H.A. Intermediates Saturday evening.

FROM COLBORNE

Four rinks from the Colborne Curling Club will this evening visit Belleville to play a friendly game at the curling rink here.

RED LAKE GOLD

The trek to the Red Lake district, Ontario where gold has been discovered and is suspected of being present in large quantities, promises to develop into a high-power gold rush when the mild season comes. There is talk of building a railway to the area, but before that is done thousands of prospectors and those in search of wealth and adventure will be on the ground trying their luck. The work of catering to these people offers opportunities for profitable trading; it also demands the careful supervision of the government in order to prevent unfair exploitation. Red Lake lies in a section of Ontario not far removed from the Manitoba border, and the enterprising people of that province are taking a keen interest in developments. Winnipeg anticipates large business from the discoveries and is discussing the probability of the city being linked up by railway communication with the gold areas. To connect the Winnipeg river to Red Lake will require about 75 miles of transmission lines. It is necessary to be cautious in estimating the potentialities. Money will be made and money will be lost. Many of the claims staked out are of purely speculative nature, which may turn out to be either very profitable or practically worthless. Investors are cautioned against precipitate action.

Out of Northern Ontario, in the past ten years, it is estimated that over 253 million dollars' worth of gold have been extracted. It is said that only about 15 per cent. of the 250,000 square miles of determined pre-Cambrian formation have been developed as yet, much of it in a partial way. The gold-bearing granite reefs found in this huge shield hold incalculable possibilities for development and though the Red Lake area has been proved to contain rich deposits. For this reason it is predicted that the rush for untaked land will assume a "stampede aspect." The proper exploitation of the mines, with the plants and elaborate machinery required, will mean the investment of considerable capital and the employment of many workers. Mining operations on a large-scale like this are bound to give a big fillip to industry.

THE RIVAL WATERWAYS

It is not strange that Governor Smith of New York has come out strongly in favor of the construction of the "all-American" deep waterway between the great lakes and the sea through the utilization of the New York State Barge Canal, although engineers of the U. S. war department have reported against that project for economic reasons. It is estimated by the engineers that the cost would approximate $600,000,000, and the revenue $29,000,000—not a promising prospect. But, although it might not pay as a national enterprise, it would be a grand thing for New York State, being wholly within its boundaries. More important than Governor Smith's adhesion to the project, which was a foregone conclusion, is the stand taken by Hon. Dwight Davis, the new U.S. secretary of the war department, in favor of it. In spite of the fact that the engineers of his department report against the all-American waterway, which would cost $600,000,000, and in favor of the St. Lawrence waterway, which would not cost more than $225,000,000, Mr. Davis supports the former simply because it is all-American. He ignores economic considerations and favors the all-American waterway for strategic reasons only. He holds that the advantage of having a deep waterway between the ocean and the great lakes under sole control of the U.S. government in time of war would far outweigh its economic disadvantages.

This is a phase of the question which does not concern Canada. It is a matter for our neighbors to decide for themselves. Of course Canada would not consent to relinquish any right of control in the St. Lawrence waterway in time of war—not even if the whole of the capital for the construction o fthe waterway were to be provided by the Washington government.

FRANK SPEAKING

The federal government should know by this time just exactly what opposition members of parliament think of it, for there has been no lack of plain speaking in the House. Before long, doubtless, it will similarly learn its own mind what the country thinks of it and will find that the opinions of opposition speakers correspond with those entertained by the majority of the electorate. In his speech in the house a few days ago Hon. S. C. Mewburn characterized the proceedings as a "burlesque show," and in a humorous way described some of the "stunts" which have been performed by politicians on the government side. The business of the country had been prevented from being carried on through "the incompetence and the irresponsibility of that party which might well be called from now on the Liberal-Progressive-Labor-Independent party." General Mewburn charged, adding: "It is a wonderful alliance; extraordinary bed-fellows—and how long will it last?"

Taking the speech from the throne, the speaker ridiculed the false optimism with which it is pervaded. Why misrepresent the industrial situation? As for the repatriation of Canadians, every one recognizes that the way to entice them back is to so improve working conditions, by a stabilized and adequate fiscal policy, as to afford them profitable employment in their native land. Touching on the question of rural credits, General Mewburn said such cases demanded the practical advice of loan corporations, mortage, trust, and insurance companies. As for the proposed tariff advisory board, the speaker called it a "joke"—not a real tariff board at all, capable of giving effective service. Why had not the Hudson Bay railway project and other important items contained in the speech from the throne not been discussed? The things which the country was most concerned about were the reduction of taxation and proper protection for Canada's industries—including the agricultural industry—the railway and immigration problems, etc. Let the government tackle these questions and demonstrate to the country its sincerity and virility.

EXTREMES MEET

Orillia Packet:

One of the pleasant winter experiences of the lonely husband is to answer the front doorbell at night, and catch 50 miles of north wind at 20 below zero under his nightshirt while signing for a telegram from his wife telling him how lovely and warm it is in California.

HIS ADVICE TO BOYS

St. Marys Journal-Argus:

"Don't be hip-flask boys, don't smoke, don't swear don't chew. Be clean and be yourself. Stand against the crowd and you will amount to something." Charles G. Dawes, Vice-President of the United States, once more has spoken in his inimitable way, this time to the youthful pages of Congress.

OTTAWA'S "NAUGHTY NINE"

Halifax Herald:

When Lord Birkenhead was in Canada in war-time he made the acquaintance at Ottawa of a bevy of flappers whose antics were causing both amusement and some uneasiness to their parents.

He mentioned "The Naughty Nine" in a book he wrote later and forgot all about them. The other evening, in the baccarat rooms at Cannes, a young married woman walked up to the Secretary for India and announced herself as having been one of the Ottawa party.

After salutations had been exchanged the young lady asked Lord Birkenhead if he would agree to put on five louis of hers, as she had steadily lost. Adding ten louis of his own, he began to play, with the result that, after a steady run of luck, he rose from the table some minutes later eighteen thousand francs to the good.

"Here is your share of the swag," said the noble earl, handing his former flapper friend 6,000 francs, "and now let's go and have some supper to celebrate the event."

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE ?

Hard Lines

Annie was obviously sleepy, and, it was getting late. "Come to bed now, darling," said mother.

"Bother it!" was Annie's answer. "I'm too little to stay up at night, and too big to stay in bed in the morning!"

Strange, Isn't It ?

Father had been telling Willie about the sun being millions of miles away from the earth.

"What I can't understand," said the boy, "is how the sun's light manages to get here so early in the morning without travelling at night."

Not Asleep Then

Visitor—Why, this is the fourth time I've called to see the baby, and each time he's been asleep.

Fond Father (grimly)—H'm. You'd better come at about two o'clock in the morning!

Diplomacy

Wife—I can't understand, John, why you always sit on the piano stool when we have company. Everyone knows you can't play a note.

Husband—I'm well aware of that, dear. Neither can anybody else when I am sitting there.

Fair-Minded

I forgot myself today and spoke sharply to my wife. Did she resent it?

For a moment she did. But Maria is a fair-minded woman—after she had thought it over, she shook hands with me and congratulated me on my pluck.

BEAVERS ARRIVE IN REGENT'S PARK

Their Reception By Others Already There Worthy of Note

London, Eng., May. 7.—A pair of pretty little baby Canadian beavers from Toronto have arrived at the Regent's Park Gardens. They have already settled down comfortably in the large beavery and near the Parrots' House, where four other remarkable tame adult Canadian beavers have been living for some considerable time.

"As it was feared that, possibly, the big beavers might resent the intrusion of these, fat podgy youngsters from overseas into their domain, at any rate, for a few weeks, a portion of the pond has been railed off; and the new arrivals have been given the preference of honor, a rocky underground abode popularly known as "Rose Villa", the roof of which protrudes well above the surface of the water.

"Meanwhile, the older inhabitants are obliged to keep to the other side of the pond, where they all crowd into a hole in the wall, which, like many other "desirable residences" has the delectable name of "Cosy Nook."

They gaze somewhat suspiciously at the new arrivals on the other side of the partition. They have already begun tunnelling operations, with a view to closer acquaintanceship with the intruders. This being the case, when they get through to them, they will probably accept them into the family circle—when the railing will be removed.

THIS PRESBYTERY ASKS DR. FRASER BE MODERATOR

Principal of Montreal Presbyterian College Unanimous Choice

REPORTS FOR YEAR.

Comparisons Made Are Found Satisfactory—Other Business

Rev. Dr. D. T. Fraser, Principal of Montreal Presbyterian College, preached eloquent and memorable sermons in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here last autumn, was unanimously nominated by the Kingston Presbytery, Presbyterian Church in Canada, at their meeting late Tuesday afternoon here. The nomination was made by Rev. Minister of St. Andrew's the Rev. R. G. Stewart and seconded by the Rev. Dr. W. S. MacTavish. High tribute was paid Dr. Fraser for his scholarship and ability and for the important part he played in saving the Presbyterian Church from shipwreck in its time of storm" as one speaker said.

COMPARISONS

The meeting heard reports of a most satisfactory and enthusiastic kind. For instance in 1925 before Union was consummated there were within the boundaries of the Kingston Presbytery 2566 in the Sunday schools. Now there are 1446. Teachers before Union were 374. Now there are 204. Schools have been completely re-organized, and there is a teacher for every seven pupils. There was raised for all purposes in the Presbytery the past year $67,036.53.

COMMISSIONERS

The following elerical commissioners were appointed to the meeting of Assembly —James Cumberland, R. H. Craig, W. S. MacTavish, G. E. Kidd and J. W. Stephen. The following are the elders—D. Fleming, J. Sills, W. J. McMiching, D. A. Mitchell and Harvey Mills.

As some misleading statements have been published in regard to the claims made upon the Home Property Commission, and the findings of the Commission in regard to those claims Clerk, Rev. R. J. Craig, was instructed to secure and prepare for publication, an accurate statement as to the claims and the results of the deliberations of the Commission upon them.

GREETINGS

The Moderator of Presbytery, Rev. John W. Stephen, was appointed to convey the greetings of the Presbytery to the Presbyterial W.M.S. which will hold a meeting in Kingston on March 24th and 25th.

Rev. R. G. Stewart reported on the budget. This also was quite optimistic, and there is every indication that the Presbytery will reach its objective.

HOME MISSIONS

Rev. W. M. Fee gave a survey on home mission fields. The grants to the fields will remain substantially by the same as last year. Foxboro, Roslin and Fuller will be erected into an augmented charge and an effort will be made to secure an ordained man for the field. Mr. Douglas was named representative elder, to act till the sessions there

Hair Dry, Brittle from Constant Waving, Curling

The constant curling and waving demanded by present styles is bobbed hair, slowly burns the color, lustre and very life from the hair, leaving it dry, faded, brittle and full of dandruff; then the hair really shrink and the hair falls out fast.

Since girls just must curl and wave the hair to appear their prettiest, try "Danderine" to offset any ted effects. After the first applicion your hair will take on new life and that healthy, youthful lustre, become incomparably soft, wavy and appear twice as thick and abundant. Falling hair stops and dandruff disappears.

A 35-cent bottle of "refreshing Danderine" from any drug store or toilet counter will do wonders for any girl's hair. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.

have chosen him or elected another in his stead.

APPLICATIONS

Mr. J. Van Mills a student in the second year in Arts and a member of another denomination, applied to be received as a candidate for the ministry in the Presbyterian church. It was decided that the committee on the Superintendence of Students should confer with Mr. Mills, and, if satisfied, to recommend him to the Assembly's committee on Education.

Mr. A. S. Duncan, who once served Bethel Congregational church, Kingston, asked to be received as a candidate for the ministry in the Presbyterian Church. He will be commended to the Assembly's Committee on Education.

C. B. S. POPULAR BY OWN BRAINS

He Had Wit to See That World Tastes Were Standardized

BUFFOONERY A RUSE

By Brilliant Lines He Aims To Propagate His Own Ideas

That George Bernard Shaw's great ness and universal popularity, lies in his grasping the fact that the tastes of the universe are practically standardized and that an appeal to one audience is an appeal to any audience was brought home very forcibly in an address given yesterday in the lecture room of the Armouries by Professor Davis of Toronto University, to the Women's Canadian Club.

STANDARDIZED TOWNS

A medieval town, the speaker said, was an individuality. The course of time and circumstances has changed this to making a standardized towns whose architecture not only is becoming standardized until one differing very little from another, but whose inhabitants' tastes for literature, music, films, and art have grown to apparently the same level. People of any European town are equally interested in the same gossip on art as the inhabitants of New York or Toronto. The secret of Shaw's success and the reason he has been able to claim popularity and recognition by the whole world is that he has become so complete a representative of the new standardized public. His use of buffoonery and wit are merely ruses to draw attention of the public that he may through his brilliant lines propagate his ideals and ideas. Such genius in small success as he has attained would never have been possible before this century.

UPROOTED TRADITIONS

Shaw's ability to give the public what it wants lies in the fact that he is a man who has uprooted all the older traditions and flung himself into the complexities of modern world-life. He is a man utterly lacking in any sense for the old traditions.

SHAW'S LIFE

He was born in Ireland. He was never keen on school, despising any authority. Even as a boy he found himself in communistic society. On his entry into business life in a real estate agent's office he showed no aptitude for figures. During the nine years he spent in London he wrote without success but his powers in debating came slowly and at last his determination to obtain publicity backed by a seriousness of purpose. He gained emotional experience and proceeded to fundamental research. He became a member of no organization other than the Fabian Society from which he refrained from venting his scathing sarcasm. Bernard Shaw, the speaker said, has the happy faculty of never looking back.

At the conclusion of the address a vote of thanks was tendered the speaker by Miss Hurley, president of the Club.

SPANIARD'S CAPTURE BIG GUN AT TETUAN

Madrid, March 10.—The big gun with which the insurgent tribesmen have been bombarding Tetuan, Spanish quarters headquarters in Morocco, has been captured, the war office announces. The official statment also says:

"After four days of continuous fighting, the enemy is in full retreat and we have captured the Bustring platoon without much resistance.

"Land, sea and air forces in co-operation with French air detachments made possible a rapid advance over mountain ous country."

CANADA'S STORE CATTLE CLASSED AS FAT STOCK

London, March 10.—A Labor member of the House of Commons today voiced the dissatisfaction of members of farmers' associations interested in the shipping of Canadian cattle to this country, because in the issuing of licenses at British ports many of the animals from the Dominion were classed as fat stock, whereas they ought to be classed as store cattle.

"If an amendment of the House has any specific instance of this," replied Rt. Hon. Herbert E. Guinness, Minister of Agriculture, "I would be glad to examine them."

The matter ended there for the time

TUMMON SPEAKS OF PARLIAMENT

cellency to summon Parliament for the earliest practicable date. His object was to enable us to ascertain the attitude of the Parliamentary representatives toward the very important question raised by the numerical position of the respective political parties."

When we attended in the Senate Chamber to hear the Speech from the Throne we were expected to bear a statment along the lines published by the Prime Minister.

But did we—No.

We heard a programme destined, prepared, made and intended for one purpose—to catch Progressive votes.

We heard a programme as follow:

LEGISLATION

Regarding Crown Lands.

Regarding Rural Credits.

Regarding a Trade Agreement with W. Indies.

Regarding the Hudson Bay Railway which was to be completed at once.

Regarding the Appointment of a Royal Commission on Maritime Rights.

Pending the transfer to the Province of Alberta of its natural resources, etc.

Why did the Government come to Parliament and said, "We don't know who is to carry on." "The issue was not settled on October 29."

Regarding the Speech from the Throne—that bait—that speech packed with prospective Legislation for the Progressives. When House proceeds to debate, who shall carry on.

Why did the Prime Minister not leave it to the House to decide the question immediately? Why did he not leave the House in the same position as the electors were on October 29th—Before the issue was full well what the decision would be.

Thus the debate commenced as to who should carry on.

For a time on Government benches trying to show by adding together all the votes obtained for those other than Conservative party that the Conservative party did not obtain a majority vote on all.

I listened while; our Leader and others spoke and debated after precedent, but why the Government should resign but to all this about the only precedent."

But in my humble opinion the ordinary individual in the streets, the streets of our cities, towns and villages, or who live on the side roads or concessions, were worrying so much as to whether in the dim and distant past there are or are not some precedents which will justify this Government in holding on to office but in their opinion the Government were defeated on October 29, just as much as though they were defeated on a vote put on the field to play a game of ball, and comes off the field on the short end of the score. And they expected, that the House of Commons and the Government would play cricket and resign.

But what happens? On February 2nd Mr. Lapointe moved that when the debate on the Speech from the Throne was completed, that the House go into Committee of Supply.

Mr. Lapointe speaking to that motion on February 2nd declared the Government was justified in saying that were not ready to proceed, would have to complete their cabinet, etc., and among other things mentioned the Yukon and find a seat for the Prime Minister.

The Speech from the Speech from the Throne when they declared they were prepared to proceed with legislation at once" and "Parliament was right were wrong in asking for an adjournment, if they were right when they asked for an adjournment they were wrong in the Speech from the Throne.

The Conservative Party demanded the Government proceed with the business of the Country. The adjournment debate continued until 11 p.m., when adjournment was moved by which the debate would not succeed the debate being adjourned and voted it down 124 to 111. It was then Mr. Graves moved and made the following motion speech against the Customs and Excise Dept.

Again at 2 p.m. we moved the adjournment of the Debate and this time the Government were sustained only by a majority of one.

Again the Debate proceeded, the Rt. Hon. Mr. Meighen speaking and again moving the adjournment at 4 p.m., and this time the Government were sustained by a majority of only one before they dare not risk another vote.

There was not another reason why the House should continue in session, the Government benches and smiled. They had no reply. That is in keeping with their whole record.

They laughed at their 1919 platform.

They laughed at the people for allowing themselves to be decided by it.

They laughed at a Canadian Policy of Canada for Canadians.

They laughed at a National Trust Policy to use on our own Canadian coal.

They laughed at a policy of Canadian Products for Canadian People.

Yes and they have laughed at the Canadian people ever since October 29th, but there is an old saying, "He laughs best who laughs last," and the people of Canada will have the last laugh, for in the end, the people are going to rid themselves for all time of a Government whose only action since October 29th has been to laugh at the expressed will of the People.

W. C. MIKEL

W. C. Mikel K.C., also addressed the Women Conservative Club stressing the result to be achieved by organization and having organized a sound election. He foresee a provincial election in June.

Captain W. S. Henry is richly outlined the question of public ownership and in the course of his address reminded the women that it was only a Meighen Conservative Government that John D. Rockefeller, they had obtained the right to exercise their franchise.

CHICK ANDERSON HEREAVED

Oshawa, March 10—Members of the curling, baseball, and Rotary fraternities of eastern Ontario will learn with regret of the death this morning at his residence at 111 Athol Street east, this city, of Mrs. William Anderson, mother of Charles M. "Chick" Anderson president of the Oshawa curling club and Central Ontario Amateur Baseball League and charter member of the Oshawa Rotary Club. Mrs. Anderson was taken ill last Saturday the day after son, Chicks was admitted to Oshawa general hospital to undergo an operation, but was not thought to be seriously ill up to the time of her death which occurred suddenly this morning. While sympathy is being extended to Mr. Anderson in the bereavement of his beloved mother, sympathy will be shared to know that "Chick's" condition in the Oshawa hospital is considered most favorable.

STIRRING SPEECH BY CAPT. HANEY

ron Bay Railway and the advantages that would accrue to movement and trade as a result. It was easier to deal with the Hons whom we licked than it was to deal with Mackenzie King. The only issue the Liberal Party had was working for Rockefeller where he was during the war. The policy pursued by the Government had driven half a million hundreds of thousands of our young men from Canada to the United States. Not only have young men gone there to work in factories and other places but on the average has year 10 families a week with all their effects crossed the line and these were some of our best citizens. The Conservative party stand for protection to our industries not to make millionaires of the owners but to make work in order that our young men may be kept here to help build up this great country. What value is it if we can't buy things cheap here if we have not employment to provide means to purchase. That is change in Ottawa would take place in the near future he had no doubt.

PROTECTION

Sir John Macdonald's policy was one of protection and made Canada the great while Mackenzie Kings policy appears to be to turn this country over to aliens and give them the opportunity to succeed.

In speaking on Provincial matters Capt. Haney referred to the growing trade of the mineral resources of Northern Ontario. There was sufficient nickel in sight to last for a long time coal areas going for 100 years. We are relying on the finage of the expansion of our mineral resources and in Hon. C. McCrea, Minister of Mines, the Province had a most capable minister who was doing all he could to assist in the development of our mineral resources. The eyes of our boys should be turned northward rather than southward and a national immigration policy was necessary in order that the best of emigrants from Europe may be brought to Canada. In Northern Ontario we have the most magnificent possibilities in mining of any country. In conclusion (the speaker impressed upon all to work for the protection of our industries and to stand for our country.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Capt. Haney for his address.

CRISP COMMENT WITHOUT PREJUDICE

SEMI-PRO LOOP IN WEST ONTARIO

Hamilton has Gone Through Last Season Without Fast Hockey

ARTIFICIAL ICE THERE

Kitchener to Be Included if New Arena Is Erected There

Hamilton, March 10.—The Herald sport editor says:

Hamilton has gone through its last season without fast hockey, according to "inside" information. From one in a position to know, the Spectator learned yesterday that the artificial ice cities of Western Ontario, which include London, Stratford, Niagara Falls and Hamilton, with the possible addition of two others will be grouped in a semi-pro circuit next winter, the league to be operated on the same lines as the one proposed several months ago, which fell through.

It was said that Kitchener would be included if interest considering the erection of a modern artificial arena carried through their present plans. Also, the central group of the U. S. A. H. A. is likely to turn the group in to a semi-pro fessional organization and co-operate with the Ontario group to make semi-pro hockey a strong attraction.

Developments in major hockey represented now by the National Hockey league, will help rather than hinder the chances of success for semi-pro organizations, it is thought, for they will not only provide a market for star players, but will have many "farms" for the development of young players in need of experience. Also, the veterans of the N.H.L. will be able to drop back into the lower league and add consider able color to the circuit.

The semi-pro league, as far as local officials are concerned, was considered seriously previous to the start of the present season, and it is known that the league might now have been in operation had it not been for one city backing out at the last moment. London and Stratford were said to have discouraged the idea, but now it is stated that they are ready to make the jump, and will build their teams in preparation.

That such a league would pay is almost certain for London, Stratford and Niagara Falls fans like their hockey in any shape or form and might even expand under the influence of a fast and more attractive game. Hockey has had its worst season in many years in the city, but a fast semi-pro organization would re-establish the game and supply the want felt all season long.

Recreation Results

Surprises came thick and fast at the Recreation Alleys yesterday afternoon, the first came when the Rip Track after losing 18 straight points came through with their first win against the Quinties in the Ladies' C.N.R. League, but the Quinties came back for the second and third points to count two. Mrs. Singer and Mrs. Foltwell rolling the highest scores.

The second surprise came when in another C.N.R. game between the Rovers and Hopes the latter team lost the first two points but came strong in the third game to count one, Hopes also winning on the total score. High bowlers in this game were Mrs. Varley and Mrs. Cole.

Surprises weren't only in the afternoon as the Maple Leafs won their first game of the winter schedule when they defeated the Ciaco in the Ladies' Junior League. The Maple Leafs had lost eight straight games before they won their first. Miss Rushworth for the Ciaco and Mrs. Tracey for the Maple Leafs were high bowlers.

In a gents' C.N.R. league game the Shops No. 1 counted three points from the B. & B. Dept. winning each game by a safe margin, Catcher was the high bowler for the B. & B. and Gerow and Harvey were high for the Shops with a tie score of 218 each.

Only one senior game was played last night, the Tigers and the Wanderers battling it out. The result of this game was that some very big scores were made and by the Tigers winning from the Wanderers they put a firmer hold on first place. The worst they can do now is tie with the Hardware providing the Hardware win their next two games. The game started out fairly even, the Tigers winning the first by 13 pins and the second by 20, giving them 41 pins on the two games; but in the third the Tigers ran away from their opponents when they rolled 1077 against the Wanderers' 917. Teddy Austin for the Tigers had one of his best nights when he rolled the wood for 297 for his high single and 752 for his three strings. C. Cornell for the Wanderers was right behind with a single score of 270 and 724 for this three strings.

PITTSBURG TEAM STILL IN RACE

By Victory Over Les Canadiens Have Out-side Chance

Arena, Montreal, March 10.—Pittsburgh Pirates and Canadiens met in an N. H. League game here last night. The result meant nothing to Canadiens, but for Pittsburgh it had to be a victory or elimination altogether from the now dim chance the Pirates have of qualifying ahead of Boston for a place along with Ottawa and Montreal in the title eliminations Pittsburg gained a life and won 4-3.

A crowd of about 3,500 many of them school children who were guests of the Arena management witnessed the game. Owing to the absence of Leo Dandurand on business in Quebec, Louis Letourneau directed the Canadiens from the players bench.

Pittsburgh had only an outside chance of finishing ahead of Boston in the race, but the Pirates feel there is always hope, and that a win would keep them in the hunt while a loss would have been a knockout blow.

Toronto, March 10. —Bantam and midget hockey players of the Toronto Hockey Association, to the number of one thousand, will attend the professional game on Thursday night between St. Patrick's and Canadiens. NEW YORKERS BEAT BOSTON

Blow to Bruins' Hopes While Race With Pirates Is On

Boston, Mass., March 10.—The Arena was again jammed when the Bruins met the on-rushing New York Americans in what proved to be the deciding game of the contendability of the play-off teams. About 7,000 people were present.

Both teams received generous applause as they warmed up with the Bruins having an edge in the enthusiasm.

The result of the game however, was a blow to Boston for New York won 1-0, Billy Burch getting the counter.

NO APPOINTMENT NOW IN SIGHT

Neither Dunning Nor Elliott Take Seats When House Opens

Ottawa, March 10.—Appointment of J. C. Elliott, member for West Middlesex, as Minister of Labor, creates the third Liberal vacancy in the House. One of them will be filled when Premier King takes his seat on the re-opening of Parliament, but Regina and West Middlesex will still be unfilled. In these circumstances, it is unlikely that any more Cabinet appointments, involving bi-elections, will be made for the time being. The appointment of W. D. Euler, of North Waterloo, which had been progressively mentioned lately, is not now thought likely, at any rate for the present.

Neither Hon. C. A. Dunning, new Minister of Railways, nor Mr. Elliott, new Minister of Labor, will be able to take seats in the House when Parliament re-opens. Should Mr. Dunning get an acclamation in Regina, the return of his re levion should be here by about Thursday of next week; if Mr. Elliott gets an acclamation his return should be in Ottawa another week later. But contested e lections would cause further delays.

"Obstructed" Fire Department While at Work

London, Ont., March 10.—Norman, Campbell, newspaper reported, was today in Police Court fined $10 and costs when he was found guilty of "obstructing the fire department." It was alleged by four police constables that Campbell had obstructed a doorway at the scene of a fire he was sent out by his newspaper to cover early last Thursday morning.

Campbell and two other newspapermen and Fire Chief John Aitken attested that the fire was over when the alleged offence occurred an dthat the reporter had permission of the firemen to pass within the fire lines.

Magistrate A. H. M. Croydon declared that reporters had as much rights than the general public during an outbreak of fire.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

"The Splendid Crime," which comes to the Belle Theatre today for a two days' run, offers the rare combination of an unusually interesting story and a popular star.

It was written as well as produced by William de Mille, the noted Paramount director, who turned author again for the sake of several years, and serves as a starring vehicle for Bebe Daniels. As the title suggests, the plot has a crook theme, but Mr. de Mille is said to have treated it from a semi-comic angle, so that the picture is a fitfully affair, in which action and comedy vie with drama and suspense.

Miss Daniels' role is that of a quaint, self-reliant girl, who has been brought up in an environment of poverty and crime. An unpleasant encounter with the police leads her to reflect on the advantages of honesty, and she announces her intention to go straight. However, her two companions, her foster father and his crook accomplice, persuade her to help them pull off just one more job in a house on Park Avenue.

AT GRIFFIN'S

A photoplay in which the U. S. Government itself took an active part—underlining backgrounds, local color and supervision, is "The Middleman," Ramon Novarro's first Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle which will be on view at the Griffin Theatre Thursday and Saturday. "The Middleman" is a story of life in the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Uncle Sam's training ground for future Perrys and Paul Jones.

The story, written especially for the screen by the noted scenario writer and weaver of film tales, Carey Wilson, is a new and simple romantic drama. It is chock-full of incident, the kind that commands the attention of all moviegoers. There are fights, dress parades, college initiations, pursuits on high seas with destroyers as the pursuers and surprises and thrills galore. There is also a shot of the submarine service at which President Coolidge presided.

PETES CHAMPS OF SENIOR O.H.A.

Held London Ravens Equal 3-3 and Won 7-5 on Round

London, Ont., March 10.—Peterboro won the senior O.H.A. championship when the best that London could do was to tie the Lift Lock aggregation in the final game at the Arena here after one of the greatest struggles of the season. The score was three-all and the count on the series 7 to 5. The Peters were identified in the semi-finals last season by Niagara Falls, but without discrediting the Ravens, the better team of the two will represent the Ontario Hockey Association in this year's Allan Cup play-downs.

One game and two more evenly matched teams meet in the finals and the big difference between the two appeared to be in goaltenders. Langfeger, cool and with plenty of fine all-game experience, showed to great-er advantage than Alf. Moore.

Two rather flinky goals stood between victory and defeat for London, the first coming as quickly at the start of the game that Moore was nonplussed. Collins took the face-off and drove the puck into the net. That break of luck, as predicted, meant everything and did not add to Moore's steadiness.

The Petes showered him from long range at every opportunity, looking for further mishaps. The second counter, by Bogardis, came from a scramble in front, a mixup on the ice and away out of his position, and Leamy trying to cover the mouth of the net. Moore stopped Bogardis' high shot and in trying to recover the rebound got tangled up in his own feet and sprawled.

Peterboro's scoring was the more finished and cohesive on their attack and defensive tactics stood out. They made few mistakes and their wide open passing was beautiful and seldom did a pass go astray.

This Day in Hockey History

March 10 1916!

Many there are in the local hockey circles who will remember with dismay this date ten years ago.

Belleville's crack Intermediate hockey machine, after decisively trimming the Sarnia team 14-5 in the first of a two-game series for the O.H.A. championship, "cracked" in the final and deciding game at Sarnia and emerged from the encounter on the short end of a 14-4 score, thereby losing the championship by the margin of one goal.

Never before in the history of the O.H.A. was such a reversal of form shown by a team and never before was there such an exciting final to a championship game.

Sarnia was soundly beaten here in the first game 14-5. The local seven (for Jones seven men hockey in those days) journeyed to Sarnia for the return fixture, each man feeling the one thought that it was all over the bet the shouting. How those thoughts were so rudely shaken by that history. Small how-like rink. Interferences of play by spectators, injury to players and "rotten" refereeing were a few of the alibis offered for the poor showing of the locals. Needless to say, it was some days before local fandom crushed its equilibrium after the shock of the team's defeat.

The personnel of the Belleville team in that historic struggle was as follows:

Manager—Brock Shorey.

Trainer—Jimmy Barry.

It might also be of interest to note that Belleville was first represented in the O.H.A. during the season of 1908-9. The following year they entered the finals with London, only to lose out in a sudden death game by the score of Soore 12-11. The team at that time consisted of the following players:

Goal, Winchester; Defense, Wallace and Dubbie; Forwards, Long, Emory, McGuire and Marks.

AN ENGLISHMAN FOND OF CANADA

Here For 21 Years He Credits Climate With Curing Him

WRITES LETTER HOME

Myth That Men From Old Land Not Wanted Out Here

London, Eng., Mar. 10.—"As for Englishmen not being wanted in Canada—forget it. It is a myth," so declares Julian P. Myers, writing from View Point Farm, Fort Fraser, B.C., to the Manchester Guardian. The letter is brim full of optimism and the joy of success. Mr. Myers is a Manchester man of 21 years residence in Canada. His rugged children, he says, "don't know what it means to say an cream and eggs and although he has had his ups and downs, and understands the rigours of Canadian winters, he has strength in the place of the puny weakness of his youth and he has real wealth of living what he might have had poverty. But let him speak for himself. His letter follows:

IN EARLIER DAYS

"During the past year of so I have often read articles in various English papers that would lead one to believe that Englishmen are not wanted in Canada, and that the English city man is a failure and a joke out here. How untrue that is! Tonight as I sit in my cosy little farm home, the children (rugged little specimens that don't know what it means to go easy on butter, cream, milk, eggs or other products of the farm) safely tucked away in bed, my mind reverts to old days and old friends. Once again I am a spindly and pale-faced youngster attending a kindergarten school. I am often ill and, my mother is fighting for said wet and epidemics all the time in her efforts to keep me well. Then I am at Board School. I think of some of my old associates and relatives and of spots that bring back the pleasing association of the past. Yet over all there floats a veil of fog and dampness. I see little children in poverty and distress. I see healthy young men and women crying for work—for just the privilege of earning their daily bread.

"I get up from my chear and opening the door, step out onto the verandah. The air is cool and crisp, the stars are shining overhead. Before me the Nechaco River winds tortuously, along peat banks covered with pine and willow and poplar. To the west the lights of the little village may be seen. From the stable comes the occasional moo of a cow and then sound of the horses contentedly chewing their food. Save this all is silence.

20 YEARS AGO

"It is nearly 21 years since I left Manchester, an inexperienced city fellow, equipped neither physically nor by training for a farmer's life in the West. I have had my ups and downs, but never have I been discriminated against or suffered in any for lack of work. It is true that at times I long for the theatres and another glimpse of city life; but that is only a passing pang. I have better and bigger joys than those of the moviest. I have health, the joy of living amid beautiful surroundings in a wonderful climate, a piece of land of my own that I can call home, and that subtle pleasure that comes to those who live under pioneer conditions. Of course, it must not be forgotten that Canada is of huge extent and that conditions with its boundaries naturally vary. British Columbia is the most English of all the provinces, and this particular part of British Columbia is populated very largely by people from English towns who previously had no knowledge of farm life. They will appear to be getting along—at least they are well fed, adequately clothed and seem to be enjoying health and happiness and independence. Like myself, they found a welcome awaiting them here. As for Englishmen not being wanted in Canada—forget it. It is a myth."

"I am now at 42 years, a strong man. That any life of Canada has done that for me. I spent over 12 years on the prairies and thoroughly understand the rigours of the winters themeer, but no Lancashire man need fear the climate in any part of Canada. I warn old folks not to come—don't transplant old trees. A certain class of English man or so of real work and then he's as good as any. In my opinion £250 will not settle and equip a whole family on the land here, although a few might manage it for this sum."

SOUTH WALES COUNCIL IMPASSE

Attorney-General Going to London to Confer With Lt.-Col. Amery

Sydney, March—4—(via Reuter')—The latest phase of the attempt of the Labor Government of New South Wales to abolish the Upper House is now arrived at by Premier J. T. Lang's Cabinet to send the Attorney-General of the state, Hon. Kelly, and Mr. Sheridan, to London, to confer with the Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs, Lt.-Col. L. C. Amery, on the question of the abolition of the Legislative Council and the opposition of the Governor of New South Wales, Admiral Sir Dudley De-Chair, to the appointment of more members to the Council to attain this end.

It is understood that Mr. McTiernan will ask the Dominion's office to recall Sir Dudley or direct him to accept the advice of his ministers. If Mr. McTiernan's mission fails both the Legislative Council may be dissolved, in order to enable the electors to give a verdict on the Labor Government's proposals.

All the rest but Constance followed. She, feeling that she was outside the family group, was remaining behind in her quiet corner, when Arol, missing her, came running back to her and tugged at her.

"Come along, Miss Grahame; be quick! Uncle Wolfe is going to speak."

Constance allowed him to drag her in to the hall. Short as the time had been, the news of his return had spread. He had been recognized by the man who drove him from the railway station, and the hall was full of the house servants, grooms and coachmen from the stables, gamekeepers and gardeners, and a crowd of the villagers, who kept near the open door in eager timidity.

As he entered the hall they set up a hearty cheer, and the old butler stepping forward said, with a voice shaking with emotion:

"Welcome back, my lord! welcome back!"

The marquis held out his hand with a ready frankness which won all hearts to a moment.

"Thank you, Belford," he said (and "He remembers him, you see!" some one remarked); "and thank you all, my friends, for your kind and hearty welcome. Yes, I have come back, and when I look round on your faces, and hear the sound of your voices, I can help feeling sorry that I have been away so long; but," he stopped suddenly with a frown, "but you must make the best of a bad bargain. I'm as glad to see you all as you are to see me."

"Then stop among us, my lord," answered an old man in a white smock in the crowd of villagers.

The marquis was silent while one could count ten; then he said with a grave smile:

"Yes, I hope to stop with you. I have done with roving, I hope——"

A cheer drowned the last words of the sentence, and when it had died away he said:

"And now will you all drink my mother's health?"

"And yourn! yours, my lord!" came the instant and hearty response.

"Come on then!" he said with a sudden change of manner, which reminded many of the boyishness had they remembered. "Some wine, Belford!"

The butler and the footman rushed away to the cellar, and in a few minutes returned with the wine.

The marquis talked with one and another meanwhile, then, when the glasses were filled, he raised his own above his head, his eyes flashing, his lips parted in the smile which the face in the portrait wore, and exclaimed:

"Health to my mother!"

"Health to my lady, and long life to her!" shouted the crowd.

"And here's health and long life to our lord the marquis!" quavered the old man in the smock, raising his glass and waving his trembling arm wildly.

The shout grew deafening. And jumped upon a chair and waved the glass above his head and called for hats and shouted with the rest; then suddenly he looked down.

"Why, Miss Grahame, you haven't any wine, Lndel" he shouted. "Miss Grahame hasn't drunk your health!"

Constance drew back whispering "No, no!" and ernaccusing attention he had attracted to her; but the marquis, whose eyes and eyes seemed particularly quick, came toward her with a decanter in his hand and signed to the butler for a glass.

"You won't refuse, Miss Grahame?" he said.

Constance took the glass instantly, greatly embarrassed by being dragged into the center of the picture, and put it to her lips.

"Oh, but you must speak the words!" pronounced Lord Lascelcoss. "Say, 'Here's health to Uncle Wolfe.'"

"Here is health to the marquis!" said poor Constance, as she shrank back.

The marquis bowed.

"Thank you, Miss Grahame; the happy augury would have been incomplete without your good wishes."

At that moment Constance raised her eyes, and the two stood looking at each other with a strange look of half-puzzled doubt, and there flashed through Constance's mind that it was not the first time the marquis had stood bowing before her.

Far away in the dim vista of the past there was a vague something that was too vague to be called a memory which was connected with the tall, graceful figure, the gravely smiling lips, but whatever it was it had gone in a moment like a will-o-the-wisp.

The marquis turned to Lody Brakespeare.

"Mother, will you let them have some supper and make a night of it" he said, with a smile.

"Yes, yes, Wolfe," she replied, eagerly.

"Belford," he said, "take them into the servants' hall."

Then he gave the gentlemen his arm again, and led the way back to the drawing-room, and the crowd, with a parting cheer, went off to their feasting.

Constance remained in the hall, with the intention of going up to her room. She felt that she had already been made the observed of too many of all that evening, and if she had not felt it of her own accord, the haughty, saucy glances which Lady Ruth had shot at her would have convinced her of the fact. Arol would not heed her, and her room rather than her company would probably be the best refuge on such an occasion. She was going toward the stairs when the gamekeepers came out of the drawing-room and called him.

"Oh, my dear," she said, half apologetically, and with a little flutter of her thin hands, "have you gone upstairs?"

"Yes, my lady," replied Constance. "I was going to my room."

"Oh, you, you must be tired, my dear I shall always be grateful to you for to-night!"

"But I have done nothing, Lody Brakespeare!" said Constance.

"Yes, my dear, it was from your lips that I heard of my son's return, and it seems almost as if you had also brought him back to me!" and her eyes filled.

Constance's face flushed slightly.

"But I was going to ask you, my dear —I am in such a tremble that I scarcely know where I am or what I am doing, but see, Lody Brakespeare has come back so suddenly and unexpectedly that there is nothing ready, and I'm afraid in all the excitement Mrs. Mac—that's the housekeeper—will forget to see to his room. Would you mind—it is a liberty to ask you, but would you mind asking her if the south room is ready for him? I don't know whether he has brought a man—I'll ask him. Wait a moment, dear—"

She went back to the drawing-room, but met the marquis at the door——

"Well, mother?" he said as she put both hands on his broad chest and looked up at him.

"Mrs. Webb, have you brought a valet?"

He laughed down at her.

"I voted I should not have such an incumbrance for years;" then, seeing the look of surprise in her face, he added, "Yes, I have, but you see I've been traveling about and he would have been in the way. But don't be upset. I'm quite capable of dressing myself."

"Very well, dear," she said and as he passed on across the hall she rejoined Constance, who had shrunk out of sight behind a man in armor.

"You will see Mrs. Russell, dear?"

"Yes," said Constance. "Good-night, Lody Brakespeare."

"Good-night, my dear, and—and thank you very much"—and the looked as if she were going to kiss her, but Constance did not meet her half way, with a kind of feeling that she ought not to take advantage of the old lady's confidence, but she withered hand pressed the soft, warm one with a grateful clasp.

Constance had no idea where to find Mrs. Russell, but asked her way of a footman to the housekeeper's room, and found a comfortable-looking personage in spotless black silk, finely engaged with sheets and blankets.

She dropped a half curtsey as Constance entered and gave the marchioness's message.

"The south room, yes, miss, I thought that would be the one, and I've given orders about it, but they've all so busy in the servants' hall," and she laughed good naturedly.

"Can I help you?" asked Constance.

"Oh, thank you, miss if you wouldn't mind carrying up this pair of candlesticks. His lordship's room is next to yours, so it won't be out of your way. It's his lordship's old room," she continued, as they went up the back stairs. "He chose it because he could see the paddock where the horses were exercising in the morning. I was only last housemaid then. Miss Grahame," but in the stomach as a saturated solu-

MOON GUILTY OF MURDER

TAKE EVIDENCE IN DAMAGE CASE MRS. HOGG SUES

Action Started by Lady Injured in Fatal Runaway, Jan. 3, 1925

NECK YOKE, EXHIBIT

Owner, Team of Horses Which Bolted Defendant in Action

At the conclusion of the Moon trial, the case of Hogg vs. Potter, was taken up. This was an action for damages on account of injuries, the plaintiff, Mrs. Helen Hogg, received on account of a runaway accident which occurred on Dundas on January 3, 1926. Messrs. B. C. Donnan and R. D. Macaulay for plaintiff, and Major R. D. Ponton for defendant, W. C. Potter, owner of the team. All parties reside in Sidney.

FOR DAMAGES

Mr. Donnan, counsel for the plaintiff, in outlining the case to the jury stated the case was one of simplicity when compared with the one that had occupied the attention of the court for some days. It is one for damages. The plaintiff, Mrs. Helen Hogg, on January 3rd, 1925, sustained, it is alleged, painful injuries by reason of being knocked down on the walk on Front Street, Belleville, by a team of horses. Negligence on the part of the defendant is alleged to have caused the accident whereby the plaintiff was injured.

MRS. HOGG'S TESTIMONY

Mrs. Hogg testified that she resided in the Township of Sidney and on January 3rd, 1925, was in Belleville, and was a flanager, and after attending market was on Front street in front of Mr. John McIntosh's store, looking into a window when she was knocked down by horses and was injured to such an extent that she was in the hospital in Belleville for two weeks. Her health previous to the accident had been good. She sustained two serious wounds on the head and her right cheek bone was cracked. Her left arm was hurt and her right side was bruised. The bill at the hospital was $22. After leaving the hospital she was not able to do anything for some time, and her condition at the present time is such that when she attempts to do an household tasks she is dizzy and her heart bothers her.

To Major Ponton she said that three or four years ago she broke her arm, but that did not in any way affect her general health. On the 22nd of January she heard no communication on the street until the first thing she knew she was in Mr. Leslie's store, a few doors down.

JURY WAS OUT 6 HOURS SENTENCE TO BE IMPOSED SATURDAY MORNING NEXT

David Arthur Moon was found guilty of manslaughter and acquitted of the charge of murdering John McGie when the jury returned to court at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Hon. Mr. Justice Hugh Kelly will sentence prisoner on Saturday morning

WANTED INSTRUCTIONS

The jury returned for instruction at 2.28 p.m., foreman F. E. Brown saying they desired to hear the evidence of Miss Eva Cousins, soda-fountain clerk, covering the time from when Moon entered the drug store.

The court stenographer read Miss Cousins' evidence from his shorthand notes. The foreman then asked for the evidence of accused, from the time he entered the drug store. It was read by the stenographer. This was followed by a request for the evidence of Miss Isobel Morris, covering the same period. This being read, the jury again retired to deliberate.

The court room was immediately taken up but all about the court room and corridors people were gathering their verdict, and downtown, the newspaper offices were almost constantly being asked what was the verdict.

JUDGE'S CHARGE TO JURY

The jury went out at 10.55 a.m.

How Mr. Justice Kelley began his charge to the jury at 9.38 a.m. on the fourth day of his trial for murder of Arthur Moon.

The indictment, said his lordship, was simple, charging only that on the 6th of April, 1925, Arthur Moon murdered John McGie in the city of Belleville.

He pointed out the evidence showed there was feeling between the prisoner and McWilliams who was killed, but that there was quite however, as accused and McGie, who also was killed, but accused was not being tried for the murder of McWilliams, but only for the murder of McGie. Citing the law as to its definition of murder, the a man, intending to do bodily harm to some one else, struck down that other another, killed a third, even by accident, that was murder.

Touching on the defence on the ground of insanity his lordship warned the jury this would be an excuse for murder only when the insanity was such as to preclude the accused from appreciating the nature or guilt of his acts.

NO EXCUSES

On the drunkenness plea he pointed out this was not an excuse for the killing and referring to the medical evidence as to Moon's having lost control of himself on the night of the slaying, declared it was not the law to say a man was not guilty in those circumstances.

"It is not enough for the prisoner to have proven that he had lost the power of inhibition," said the judge.

He closely reviewed the evidence given by Moon himself as touching upon the extent to which accused knew what he was doing when he entered the drug store from which later he emerged with the knowledge of McWilliams and McGie. His lordship read some of Moon's own answers in the witness box to questions put as to the details of the night.

WAR SERVICES

On Moon's war service, Justice Kelly said he objected to no man in his administration for the services performed by the men who went overseas, but pointed out he could not accept any service of that kind as having been outstanding enough to exonerate a man for what he might do afterwards.

"In no case during the medical evidence," his lordship averred, "did one of the doctors say Moon's war service destroyed his resistance. They all agreed his mental resisting power was lessened, but none would say it had been lost by what aroused his anger."

It had been sworn, said his lordship, that when Moon had got to the door of the drug store he had hesitated an instant, because, as Moon had said himself, the door stuck. His lordship asked the jury to consider whether that was not an act of the mind.

THREE ACCIDENTS

The Judge: "How do you explain the remarkable circumstance, if you believe the accused, that the gun went off accidentally three times? how do you explain that Moon, with his knowledge of firearms, permitted the accident to happen a second and third time; and how explain that when the gun did go off accidentally it struck two men each through the hearts.

His lordship then went into the question of whether Moon would believe to have known he had the gun in his overcoat pocket, and asked the jury to attach full weight to Moon's explanation that he habitually carried a quantity of silver in his coat pocket.

CHARACTER

Relative to the question of the character of McWilliams, as brought out by evidence regarding his relations with Mrs. Moon, his lordship pointed out that accused had a right to say but that it was not one that he should apply himself.

"If McWilliams was every bit the scoundrel it has been suggested he was, there still was a remedy at law," he said.

Newport News, Va., March 11.—Fire swept through the palatial United States liner America as she lay at her berth at the plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, gutting three decks and damaging others. The loss was estimated between $2,000,000 and $2,000,000, but no loss of life resulted, although 250 members of the crew were aboard when the fire started. The America, which replaces 21,000 tons, had just been reconditioned throughout at a cost of approximately $2,000,000 and was to have delivered soon for New York. She was to have left for owners to day to leave this afternoon from New York March 26, carrying 200 passengers she only had been signed for the trip.

GORDON DENIES TORONTO RUMOR

Ex-Dep. Speaker Says He Will Not Succeed Sinclair

Peterboro, March 11.—Hon. G. N. Gordon on being asked what truth there was in an article appearing in the Toronto Telegram, to the effect that the former Federal member was to succeed W.E.N. Sinclair, K.C., M.P.P., as leader of the Liberal party in Ontario, said there is no truth in the statement whatever, and added that he was supporting Mr. Sinclair vigorously and intended, when the Provincial campaign came on, to assist Mr. Sinclair in the Province for several weeks.

According to Mr. Gordon, Mr. Sinclair's leadership was satisfactory to the Liberals of the Province and Mr. Sinclair had been giving splendid leadership and good service, and the last thing, Mr. Gordon said, in his mind was the question of taking the Ontario leadership, or even considering it.

KEEP AUSTRALIA FOR WHITE FOLK

Exclude Black, Brown and Brindle Settled Policy in Antipodes

Sydney, Aus., Feb. 10.—(By Canadian Press)—The "White Australian policy which is intended to preserve this country for the white race and to exclude the black, brown and brindle, has been the subject of many heated controversies. But out of it all has come a firm determination on the part of Australians to keep the country white.

To this end the erstwhile laws and regulations have had to be framed; but the silly Chinese find means of breaking them.

Away in the far north of Australia the population is sparse, the heat is torrid, the officials few and far between, and there are many thousands of miles of unprotected coast line.

What is more natural, therefore, than that John Chinaman should select thatp art for evading customs duties and bringing his own wife to the country.

The king has now become an organized business.

Action is being taken by the Federal government to circumvent the operations of an organization which is engaged in the smuggling of Chinese into the Commonwealth. The Minister for Home and Territories, Senator Pearce, has made that statement today. He added that he was sanguine that the plan of action devised would prove effective.

It is alleged that certain residents in the north of Australia are members of a secret society connected with a base a branch of the organization at Hongkong. The Federal government got in touch with the Hongkong authorities and has now received advice that two persons suspected of being members of the organization have been deported from the colony.

Riot of Color in New Hats Milady Belleville Enraptured Over Selections at Openings

Quite as beautiful in the myriads of colorings and quite as lovely as a gay bed of tulips, the hats which were displayed at the various millinery opening today were the chief attraction for well-dressed Belleville ladies and were also the main topic of feminine conversation, though while everyone agreed they were the loveliest ever displayed, nobody knew which shade was absolutely the best and every one was surprised at the many shades procurable, shades which they had never heard of or seen before.

PINK SMALL HAT

At Ritchie's, at Miss Campbell's, Tanner's, Hyman's, Mrs. Harmus's, Mrs. Elliott's, at Woodley's, and at Miss McCrodan's, in fact at all the high class millinery establishments small hats are most favored and the array of same is bewildering in the many original ideas worked out in so small a space. Many of the crowns are the vastly becoming tam style. Most of the brims (what there is of any brim) turn back from the face and in many cases are divided, the two sections rejoined by some saucy ornament, several of the latter brilliantly studded.

COMBINATION EFFECTS

While a great number of the hats are of lovelier fabrics such as fine and exquisite straws, several smartest are of ribbon, and many of straw braids, white a host of them are of combinations. The trimmings are most brilliant and most unusual; some on the more expensive hats have flowers, and frill, made from feathers. All flowers have adopted the very brightest of shades and this year flowers seem to be even more real than ever.

JUST WONDERFUL

The ribbon trimmings are wonderful. One gorgeous hat in one of the displays is of Florida gold, the ribbon ornament covering most of the front composed of palest green ribbon just edged with Florida gold while from the back ground, the faintest hint of rosewood was visible.

Just a very few hats with large brims were shown, these beautifully made of Bangkok straw and trimmed either by the popular applique, or tiny flowers or hand painted designs.

TO SUIT EVERY FACE

There were in every opening hats to suit every face.

FOR THE MATRONS

Hats of dashing colors, hats of the popular navy blue, the latter mostly with some contrasting shade. And to suit the matron, smart little creations mostly of subdued tones but of vastly smart lines, smarter, the silliest agree, than any ever before shown, are available.

Fashion has shown favor for the matrons this year.

There were in the display hats made in the city which it would be impossible to distinguish from Gainsborough's or any of the imported models. Each of the firms have arranged the most up-to-date artists for this important season and Belleville will not give place to any city in Ontario when Easter morning witnesses the latter inside the sombre Lenten shades and the debut of the lovely confections now so eagerly viewed by Milady Belleville.

KAISER TIRED OF DOORN

Crown Prince Seeking Father's Transfer to Spain

Geneva, March 11.—The former Crown Prince of Germany is staying at a large villa at Mansion, near Lucarno, which he rented several months ago, and, according to a Swiss report, may be joined later by his father, who is tired of Doorn and wants a holiday in a sunny resort.

According to the Tribune of Geneva the prince intends to take the opportunity of his presence at Geneva during the League session of representatives of the principal countries to ask permission to transfer the domicile of the ex-Kaiser to Spain.

SET $9 FREIGHT RATE ON COAL FROM ALBERTA

Ottawa, March 11.—Agreement on a tentative rate of $9 a ton for hauling coal from Alberta to Eastern Canada was reached at a conference today between Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior; Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways; E. J. Garland, D. M. Kennedy, and L. H. Jelliff, representing Federal members from Alberta, and four coal operators. The $9 rate is subject to approval by the Provincial Governments of Alberta. In the meantime and until their approval is gained the Dominion Government will guarantee the two-dollar difference.

After the Railway Commission gives a decision on the cost of hauling coal from Alberta, an adjustment will be made between the operators, the Federal Government and the Canadian National Railways.

Mr. George Bagley, manager of the local branch of J. and J. Cash Inc. has accepted an important post in England and left Belleville today with Mrs. Bagley to take up his new duties in the Mother Country.

BOTH COUNSEL ADDRESSED JURY AS CASE CLOSED

Hugh J. Macdonald Made Plea For Acquittal of Arthur Moon

THE 'UNWRITTEN LAW'

Crown Prosecutor Said Alienists Had Not Called Moon Insane

At the close of a speech for the defence that lasted two hours and thirty-five minutes, and during which he brought tears to the prisoner's eyes, Hugh J. Macdonald adjured the twelve men in the jury box, "If they wished to hallmark Hastings County as the stamping ground in which the treebeotian liberties could ravish a man's wife and debauch his children, to find Arthur Moon guilty of murder."

During one impassioned burst of eloquence counsel for the defence seemed almost to invoke the spectre of the long dead McWilliams to plead for the accused man.

"DON'T BLAME MOON"

"If I could command a resurrection from the churchyard over there," he cried, "and could put McWilliams into that witness box he would say, 'Don't blame Moon for that which I was responsible. Lay the accidental shooting of John McGie at my door." And as he uttered the words McDonald leaned out his hand toward the stand with such dramatic force that every eye in court turned toward the witness box as though expecting to see standing there the ghostly form of Clayton McWilliams, who was shot and killed eleven months ago.

NOT PREMEDITATED

Defence took the parallel lines that while the shooting of neither man was a premeditated act and was not in any case that of a normal man, the killing of McWilliams, the man who wrecked Moon's home and lost to him his wife and his children, was battified, while the death of McGie, with whom Moon admittedly had no quarrel, was accidental.

Counsel dwelt on the medical evidence of the alienists as showing that during the fateful two-hour period, from 10 to 12 p.m. on April 6th, 1925, that preceded the shooting, Moon was not in possession of his reason.

STATEMENT COAXED FROM MOON

Touching the matter of the written statement signed by the accused man on the night of the killing, defence contended that while Inspector Leonard Truslech had "no intention of being other than absolutely fair to Arthur Moon, the language of the statement was essentially that of a police man and not of the prisoner.

"Accused has told you," declared counsel, "that he wanted a cigarette to calm his nerves, and that Truslech had told him he could not have one until he had signed the statement. If that did not get your blankets in a rumpus, mighty hard, in the face of these conditions, gentlemen of the jury, you are not human," becoming sense to accept as true Moon's sworn evidence as to the manner in which the statement was obtained from him, and I submit to you that, this being the case, he cannot be bound in your judgment by what that statement contained."

REVIEWS DOCTOR'S EVIDENCE

Counsel further recalled the evidence of Dr. F. J. Robertson, who examined Moon on the night of the shootings, found he had been drinking, and that a quantity could and have been concealed to make an accurate statement as to his movements within

BRIAND'S FALL WITHIN A MONTH IS PROPHESIED

Geneva Cabinet Not Expected to Hold Support Any Longer

MEETS HOUSE TUESDAY

Right Government Under Caillaux or Left under Herriot Must Come

Paris, March 11.—Premier Briand has gone back to Geneva, leaving his new cabinet at work, and is scheduled to appear before Parliament next Tuesday. The imperious personality of the premier is the dominant feature in the arrangement of the League Council has taken precedence over all regular procedure, for normally the Government should be presented to Parliament and voted on before any such important mission is undertaken as that on which Briand has embarked. There are some who declare such a procedure is even unconstitutional, and there are many who prophesy the new ministry will not last a month after the premier returns.

But Briant is not in a mood to worry about either little irregularities in procedure or what will happen after Geneva is finished with. He came back to Paris to reform a Government which would enable him to get along with the job he has in hand, and everything else can wait.

At one moment last night he came perilously near failing. For a time he could not find either a finance minister or a minister of the interior, but he braved all criticism and gave these two important posts to Perez and Malvy with the comforting thought that one appointment would be compensation for the other. Today he admitted "if he had not succeeded last night he never would have done it," and that comment is the best which can be made on the situation. For years his reputation in France has been that of an able, but indolent man, but that reproach can never be made again. Since Saturday he has rushed over all obstacles and made records of many kinds. Never before has a cabinet been constituted so quickly and never before has expansion not even Clemenceau in war—so hammered down the opposition and got his own way by sheer tactics.

During recent years, ever since the days when strain was ordered up on the George Washington to take President Wilson back to America, Europe has been familiar with the tactics of the waiting train Briand, with forty-eight minutes waiting on his return to Geneva, has, however, set a new standard in that kind of argument. He has beaten every party, for the time at least, and today newspapers and politicians, waking a little out of the trance into which he had thrown them, are only beginning to realize just how completely they have been outmaneuvered.

OPERA SINGERS MARRY

Signor Parnecki Weds Swedish Prima Donna

London, March 11.—A romance which grew out of their meeting in the United States two months ago, resulted to-day in the announcement here of the engagement of Signor Caesare Formechi, Italian opera baritone, to Madame Holst, Swedish prima donna. The wedding will probably take place in London. "I think every singer should marry," said Cignor Parnecki to-day.

He is reputed to have one of the most powerful voices in the world, which he recently demonstrated by singing during a storm in the Stadium at Stockholm. "I had hardly begun singing under by umbrella," he said, "when the thunder and lightning began. I was determined got to give up, and I sang with all the force I could. Later I was told everyone in the audience heard me."

ERIC QUITS FASTING

Six Foodless Days Enough For German Professional

Berlin, March 11.—Eric, one of Berlin's army of professional fasters, gave up the battle in favor of his stomach's demands to-day after six foodless days. The fast, who have lately mirored the movies in order to put his own carry on their banner challenges, have only four glass cages to visit daily now.

Official bulletins concerning the fasters' weight, temperature, and physical condition now are published throughout Berlin as a means of satisfying the curious.

Eric alternated between tea and hot milk all day after leaving his cage, and says he feels fit again. He now is seeking a job where one eats at least three times daily, and is finished with the meal-missing profession.

Jury at Dwyer Inquest Simply Finds Boy Died Of Meningitis

STARVED AND BEATEN

Stepmother's Father Testifies to Use of Whip—Evidence of Neglect

Peterboro, Ont., Mar. 11.— We find that on the sworn evidence submitted, John Dwyer came to his death on March 2, 1926, in Nicholl's Hospital, City of Peterboro, from streptococcus meningitis which developed from inflammation of the right middle ear." This was the verdict of the coroner's jury returned at the inquest into the death of the twelve-year-old Dummer lad whose father comes up to-morrow for preliminary hearing on a charge of murder, and whose stepmother is charged with manslaughter. No mention is made of the ill-treatment, hard work, exposure and cruel treatment which were described by various witnesses who testified at the inquest. The jury deliberated for an hour. Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young, presided and Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C. appeared for the Crown. F. J. Kerr, K.C., was on hand in the interest of Mrs. Dwyer and J. F. Stickland and E. E. Park for George Dwyer.

The most important testimony was that of Dr. J. H. Erb, pathologist, who conducted the post-mortem examination on the body. In summing up his findings for the jury he made seven points, of which the seventh was a final summary, reading as follows: "The extent, if any, to which the undernourishment and exposure may have contributed to the development of the middle ear discharge and the subsequent mastoiditis, and death cannot be determined from the post-mortem findings."

STARVED, FROZEN, BEATEN

Matthew Little, father of Mrs. Dwyer, the boys' stepmother, said that Dwyer and the boys passed his house every morning on the way to out wood. In the afternoon Mrs. Dwyer would go out, leaving the younger children with him. They cut pine into four foot lengths, and Mrs. Dwyer drew to Norwood. The children wore men's boots with several pairs of socks which were full of holes. Their clothes were ragged. When he found that John was sick, he suggested that a doctor be called, but Dwyer demurred saying that he already owed him $25. Little called the doctor and Dwyer said that he would not pay for the visit.

"George Dwyer was a very cruel man with his family and with his horses," said Little. "I saw him kick the boys when they didn't do what he told them, and he used a blacksnake whip on them."

Mr. Hatton: "Didn't he use the whip on his wife, too?"

Witness: "Oh, I think he used his feet on her."

FOUND GOTHAM AIR INTOXICATING

Lord Thomson, Back in England, Says He Needed Less Alcohol

London, March 11.—Lord Thomson, former secretary of state for air, who has just returned from a trip to the United States, today gave his impressions of America.

"New York is a cosmopolitan city remarkable for novelties and," he writes, "there is everything exhilarating in its atmosphere. I have never once seen anything quite like it. On a fine, cold day it is intoxicating and makes the most torpid person feel exuberant. Prohibition is popular in New York, as it is everywhere in America, but no where have I personally needed less alcohol."

Lord Thomson goes on to say that while Ezgevil called America the "melting pot," he thought a more correct description would be "the United States of Europe under the Stars and Stripes."

Of San Francisco Lord Thomson states: "It is very British and full of charm." He calls Boston the Edinburgh of America and says Philadelphia offers a curious mixture of business and mufflulose. Americans are not anti-British nor anti-anything, but are profoundly and increasingly pro-American, according to Lord Thomson.

GOV. OWNERSHIP POLICY ON MINES

Report of British Royal Commission Against Nationalization

SUBSIDY INDEFENSIBLE

Development Should be Continued By Private Enterprise

London, March 11.—State ownership of the coal mines has continuously in their development by private enterprise. Every Government supervision is recommended in the commonly-assisted report of the Roy. Coal Commission presented to-day as results may to evolve before mine which would put the coal industry on a sound basis and eliminate the causes of disastrous disputes between the miners and the owners. At the same time the commission declares against nationalization as recommended by the Miners' Federation. The commission's finding on the question of nationalization was perhaps the one in which the whole country was most vitally interested. The report declares drastic reorganization of the coal industry necessary and makes numerous recommendations in a document covering 2,000 printed pages. The report, which is unanimous, is signed by the chairman Sir Herbert Samuels, Sir Wm. Beveridge, General Sir Herbert Lawrence and Kenneth Lee.

All of these men are prominent in industrial life, but none of them is associated with the coal industry.

The depression in the industry, says the report, cannot be attributed to political power or restriction of output by the miners or inefficiency of management, but it disagrees with the view of the mine owners that the only practicable remedy is to reduce wages, lengthen the hours of work, and decrease the rail way rates by lowering the wages of the railwaymen.

It says that the way to prosperity lies in three chief lines of advance, namely greater application of science to the mining and using of coal, larger units for production and distribution and fuller partnership between employers and employers With respect to nationalization, the members of the commission say they are in grave emphatic disagree, they "contemplate accordingly continuance of the industry under private enterprise," but in the reorganization scheme they advocate they "the crow which was made in times past in allowing the ownership of coal to fall into private hands should be retained."

The state, it is recommended, should acquire coal by purchase, where it has a market value, and by a declaration of state ownership in case of unproved coal or coal at deep levels, which has no market level. A commission has been appointed to acquire and administer property.

PHONETIC STYLE AGAIN BOOSTED

London, Eng., March 11.—Advocate of a simplified and phonetic rendering of the English tongue are urging the Prime Minister to appoint a Royal Commission to consider and report on the matter. The petition is headed with the signature of Sir Robert Bade-Powell, vice-president of the Simplified Spelling Society, and a number of professors of different English Universities.

Admitting the vagaries of the English orthography have been the despair of foreigners and the exasperation of a good many native-born. Proposals for a reform on the lines of adopting a phonetic style of spelling, however, have never encountered a cordial reception. The present petitioners, if they had followed their own teaching, would have transmitted their petition in the Premier in a style which would have set forth that "Fonetik speling as a method iz eqiuhalum during the earlist stajis saves time, effort and financial expenditthur"—or something like it.

ADDRESS TO THE MOON JURY

so short a time after the tragedy.

"Why were they in such a hurry to get the statement," queried counsel. "They had the man in jail. I am not suggesting for a moment that Truelson acted in a manner other than one he believed to be fair and honourable. Indeed it is seldom I have seen a police officer so moved by sympathy toward a prisoner. To see that great burly fellow break down there on the stand, when we could see that it was breaking his heart to have to testify as he did, was evidence enough that Truelsch is an honourable man. Nevertheless, gentlemen, I submit to you that he is a police officer first, and you must take that into account when you have that statement with you in the jury room."

THE UNWRITTEN LAW

Arthur Moon was more moved than at any other time during the long trial when his counsel, invoking the "unwritten law", drew a picture of him going away to fight for his country in 1915 and returning to his wife and children in 1919, after four years' absence, determined to keep his little home going and how, despite all his work and efforts, his wife had been unfaithful, had been caught in snuggery and his children became the victims of a condition created by McWilliams, the man who had wrecked his home, seduced his wife and robbed him of his little children.

Moon was biting his lips to keep back the tears that brimmed to his eyes during this recital of the marital wrongs that led to tragedy.

SPEECH FOR CROWN

Counsel for the crown addressed the jury for one hour and ten minutes, reviewing the evidence of the two hours on the night of the shooting and contending that Moon had premeditation to kill when he went across to the drug store with the gun in his pocket.

Touching the question of whether or not McWilliams survived McGie, the crown declared:

INFERNO ON McWILLIAMS

"If Moon shot McGie first H was only that he might get at McWilliams, while if the latter was the first to fall he clear Moon shot McGie in order to effect his escape. But it is evident that the prisoner was so intent on getting McWilliams that he did not care what happened to McGie."

He pointed out that Moon in his evidence had never admitted he was drunk, and, discounting the insanity plea, contended that not one of the alienists had gone so far as to declare under oath that the prisoner was insane.

"My learned friend has told you, gentlemen," said Mr. Meyer, "that if there is any reasonable doubt in your minds as to Moon's sanity you cannot justly find him guilty of murder. That is the law. The law assumes that every man is sane unless the defence has proved him to be insane."

He contended that in the present instance defence had not proved this.

THE TELEPHONE 50 YEARS OLD

Half Century Ago To-day First Sentence Was Heard Over It.

It was fifty years ago today that the first sentence was heard over the telephone. On March 10th, 1876, Alexander Graham Bell spoke into a crude instrument to his assistant, Thomas A. Watson, listening in another room. Watson heard the words: "Watson, come here; I want you," and promptly answered Bell's summons. Today the Bell Telephone workers in Canada and the United States will celebrate the anniversary by wearing a blue button with the figure 50 printed on it, over an illustration of a modern desk telephone.

"Before the first sound was actually heard over the telephone, there had been much preliminary thinking, endless planning and experimenting. It was at Brantford, Ontario, that the great principle of the vibrating diaphragm, suggested by the human ear, had first taken shape in Bell's mind. Brantford was the scene of some splendid visions in the days of the inventor of the coming triumph and of some interesting early experiments that did much to make that triumph assured.

"But it was on March 10th, 1876 at Boston, that the first sentence was actually spoken into a crude instrument and heard at a distance. From his laboratory on the top floor of an old house at 5 Exeter Place, Boston, Alexander Graham Bell telephoned to Thomas A. Watson, his assistant, in another room on the same floor, "Mr. Watson, come here, I want you."

"For fifty years now the telephone has brought into speaking communication countless numbers of people. Each year has seen an ever-increasing record of telephone conversations, increasing business and social co-operation. In time of sorrows and in joy, in time of sickness and in death, the telephone has rendered its priceless service. In truth, it has made neighbors of the people of this continent."

Speaking of Trials

Speaking of trials, I was among those present at the trial of Bill Lancaster, Switchman, in the employ of the C. N. Railways, on a charge of having wilfully caused a serious delay to Fast Freight 498, contrary to Section IV., Chapter 4, Para. 3A, Yardmaster's Code. Great interest has been evinced in the outcome of this trial, as the offence is serious and calls for severe punishment. Ask "Pa," Redner.

Train 498 arrives in Belleville Yard each morning about 5 o'clock and it is Bill Lancaster's duty to obtain the waybills from the Engineer and deliver them to the Yard Office. Twelve seconds are allowed him for the performance of this duty and the charge arose from his failure to do this inside the time limit.

Railway Magistrate Harry Pringle presided, and made a grave and dignified figure of justice. He was quite sober.

Jim Bryce for the defence made an eloquent plea for leniency on behalf of his client and called several witnesses to give character evidence. Under a light pressure they all acknowledged that they knew the accused and as far as they knew he was all right,—and it is, but they know the temperature was here seen to not wisely, and open up. But I'm getting away from the story. Jim dismissed the somewhat unsatisfactory witnesses and explained that the accused had fallen and broken his ankle on his way to the Yard Office with the waybills and with this handicap had been unable to make it in his usual time of ten seconds flat. After a little more of the usual "bull" he rested his case, and "Pa," Redner for the prosecution got into action at once and made everyone, including the magistrate sit up and take notice. He contended that no excuse be sentenced immediately and be given the maximum penalty. Delay to this train by a man not tolerable and pointed out that a broken ankle was not a sufficient excuse by any means. A switchman with an incapacitated foot duty would not allow it to interfere with his duty regarding this important train, 498. Those present were astounded at "Pa's" eloquence and the seriousness of the charge was impressed upon them. "Pa's" address was really a masterpiece, and he only stopped when it was seen that Magistrate Pringle was reaching under the bench for another—but that has nothing to do with this. Bill Lancaster was called upon in his own defence, and with pale face and nervous bearing, took the stand. Under cross-examination he admitted delaying the train for one minute and ten seconds, his only excuse being his broken ankle. "No excuse, no excuse," said the magistrate and prosecutor in unison. It was noticed that they were sitting together at this time, and were particularly screened from view by the bench.

Sentence was passed upon Bill and he will be "out at home" to bill collectors and pedlars for twenty-one days, which he will have to spend in the station lee-house in a suit of pyjamas.

To Major Ponton witness said there was a discoloration on the broken pieces of the neck yoke. There was no one side an evidence of rot.

MISS ANDERSON KILLED

Mr. S. N. Fluke was near the John McIntosh store when Miss Anderson was struck by a runaway team and another lady, Mrs. Hogg, was struck by one of the horses. The sleigh horses struck her as she was standing on the walk in front of McIntosh's store. Witness examined the neck yoke and said it was intended as a buggy pole, but a poor one at that.

To Major Ponton—"There is no rot in the broken neck yoke, but the strength of the wood is gone. The tongue of the sleigh struck Miss Anderson."

Sergt.-Detective J. M. Trudeau gave evidence to the effect that the broken neck yoke had been kept under lock and key since the 3rd of January, 1925. There was some discoloration where the break occurred.

THE PORTFOLIO OF LABOR

John C. Elliott, M. P. for West Middlesex, has been chosen by Premier King to be minister of labor in the reconstructed federal cabinet.

The new minister is a man of solid but not conspicuous ability. Not until recently, when he was made one of the three-Liberal members of the house committee to investigate Mr. Stevens' charges against the customs department, was he distinguished from the rank and file of government supporters. As a member of that committee, however, his zeal and astuteness in preventing the disclosure unfitness which might be embarrassing to the government have marked him out for promotion. He is a lawyer, was reared on a farm and served for several years as a member of the Ontario legislature. Of the profession of law, familiarity with agriculture and membership in a provincial legislature are sufficient to qualify one for successful service as head of the department of labor, Mr. Elliott is qualified.

However, it was necessary for Mr. King to make choice from the material at his disposal. Among the government supporters in the house there is none who is conspicuous as a friend of the labor movement or one to speak with authority in behalf of organized labor. Indeed, since the department of labor was established as a branch of the federal government, the labor portfolio has been held only twice by a recognized labor man—once by Hon. Gideon Robertson and once by Hon. Jas. Murdock. It must be admitted that in the case of the latter gentleman the advantage of having an experienced labor leader as responsible head of the labor department was not convincingly demonstrated. Although a mere lawyer, Mr. Elliott is not unlikely to give the country quite as good service as Mr. Murdock did in the last parliament. At least it may be hoped that he will do somewhat better.

THE O. T. A. BAN

A decision given by a Western Ontario County judge is of more than ordinary interest. A citizen had been convinced by the magistrate of breach of the O. T. A. He then procured from the excise department a permit to make home brew. Again he was charged with violating the O.T.A. because, under that law, his former conviction had made his home no longer a private residence. Only in a private residence can home brewing be carried on or liquor be kept for private use. So he was again convicted. The judge sustained the conviction. "A permit granted by the Dominion government," he said, "and the judge says it does not entitle the recipient thereof to ignore the laws of the province of Ontario, but is issued on the assumption of a compliance with the provincial laws."

No doubt that is good law. Anyhow it is good sense. It would be intolerable to have the federal authorities exercising the power to override a provincial law within the sphere of provincial jurisdiction.

There seems to be a popular impression to the effect that when a conviction under the O.T.A. is registered, the ban remains on the premises without regard to the occupant. This is not the fact. The ban is on the offender. Should he vacate the premises, the ban is removed from them and is transferred to the new premises into which the offender moves and remains upon them for one year after the conviction. After that, the offender is cleared. It would be highly unjust and also ridiculous to put a ban upon mere bricks and mortar irrespective of the occupant.

TWO INVENTORS DIED

Two inventors are dead, the man who invented barbed wire and the one who conceived the idea of the hobby horse.

They must have been as wide apart as the poles in their outlook on life, unless it was that the things they invented give no indications of the minds of the inventors.

It's easy to figure out why a man might invent a hobby horse. There are scores of reasons why he should and none at all why he should not. It has in its day given untold pleasure to youngsters. It may have been a big horse that only the rich could buy, or a very humble sort of rag within reach of the purse of the mob, but in every case it had a thrill, provided wholesome fun and made hours happy.

But why did the other man invent barbed wire? We know it was much used for fencing orchards where the choicest harvest apples grew, and it was likewise strung along on top of the fence around the grounds where they held the fall fair and played the baseball games.

It seemed as though they had that barbed wire strung every place we wanted to go on forbidden ground.

If the average man who lived the average life of the average boy were called upon to pay tribute to one or the other of the departed inventors, he would surely twine his laurels around the shaft, that marked the resting place of the inventor of the hobby horse.

"TUT" MISSED A LOT

Writers continue to tell us of the wonders taken from the tomb of King Tut. Egyptologists say that since the collection has been placed in the museum where closer scrutiny is possible, there is a wealth of design and a display of craftmanship that challenges the deftness of any age.

All this for the burial service of a king who was not over 16 years of age. If he was buried amid such splendor he probably lived in similar surroundings.

Still he missed a lot. As a boy he never had a jack knife that would shut and open; never went down to stand on the backyard fence to see the train go by. He never had a chance to win a bicycle for passing his entrance examinations; never visited in the country where a threshing machine was in operation. Tut never had a pair of skates, nor did he own a hockey stick, never had a watch, a rifle, not even a shotgun. Never had the fun of touching off a firecracker, never had a baseball mit of his own or a kick at another lad's football.

Of course Tut had never seen an airplane, nor automobile, never talked to his friends on a telephone, nor did he own a pair of rubber boots. He didn't know what it was to hunt for the comics in a daily paper, he never went to see the movies.

They may have had great times for children in those days, and Tut no doubt had a great funeral, but all the same we can't hel pthinking he missed a whole lot of things when he was young, even if he were king.

BADMINTON

Kingston Standard:

The St. Thomas Times-Journal says that "Not the least of the reasons for the growing popularity of Badminton is the ease with which a club can be formed. Given a hall of the requisite size usually possessed by even the smallest village, the whole outfit of net and posts can be procured for a very reasonable sum." Badminton clubs should be formed in the country districts.

A SMOKER'S CABINET

London Mail:

If Sir Alfred Mond should receive that prophesied position in the Government, he will add another cigar smoker to the Cabinet. Lord Birkenhead and Winston are at present the two chief devotees of the plutocratic smoke. The Prime Minister's fondness for a pipe is shared by Lord Eustace Percy and also by Mr. Bridgeman. The Foreign Secretary, the President of the Board of Trade, and the Minister of Labor like cigarettes.

FOUR MONTHS OF IDLENESS

Port Rowan News:

The chief drawback to the small town in winter is the lack of employment for men who are willing to work. In European countries men who have summer jobs, find employment in lace making, toy making and in many other jobs which girls do in this country. It would be hard to change the established customs of either country perhaps harder than it would be for men who could afford to devote thought to this subject to devise means by which winter employment could be secured. It would be a great boon to the small town if the four months of idleness could be removed.

TIME WASTING AT SCHOOL

Detroit Free Press:

Dr. James A. Angell, president of Yale university, thinks that college graduates can be turned out at the average age of 19, instead of 21, and that they can be taught more up to the time they are 19 than they now learn before they are 21. In the opinion of this man, there is too little hard work at college; the life of ease for the student may extend even back to the preparatory and high school days. Dr. Angell thinks that, if the work harder when they are in school and college and is perchance the vacations are shortened a bit, they might as well be graduated at 19. Dr. Angell also deplores the "lockstep" which makes the demand the same on all students, irrespective of individual intellect, and he plans to extend the English tutoring system at Yale in order that personal progress may be more marked. There are many of this generation who go to college to learn, but there are many also who attend university for the sake of a label of learning and the social advantages in connection therewith. The common knowledge that many students of ordinary intellect win degrees by little application indicates that much time at college and in vacation periods is, from a purely educational viewpoint, wasted.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE ?

Very Costly Cleaning

In a millinery showroom a rural customer inquired of an assistant what they charged to clean feathers.

Ten cents each, was the answer.

Oh, I could never pay that price, grasped the lady. How many have you?

If you have a sufficient number, we might make a reduction in the price.

Why, I have two beds full.

Visit Of Unique Group Of Orientals Aided By Salvation Army

EAST AND WEST MET

Native Dress and Customs Found of Much Interest

East is east and west is west but the twain did meet last evening and in Belleville in the Salvation Army Citadel when Major and Mrs. Hill introduced a party of Koreans in the capacity and event which attended the unique meeting and the couple of hours spent in listening to the story of the gradual conversion

VISIT UNIQUE

Major Hill, previous to giving a short address presented his party, each wearing the picturesque dress of his or her native country, one the dress of a Korean bride, another a bridegroom, a third a mourner, another the ordinary costume and each member was greeted with hearty applause. Their visit is unique in fact it is the first of the outdoors shown by the Japanese government in the work of the Salvation Army. They are the first party of Koreans to have left the Korean peninsula to be viewed and heard by the Christian World.

Before their conversion each of the native Koreans was a slave to superstitution and heathenism but by their testimonies as prevailed last night they have risen above that by an unbelievable belief in Divine powers.

Son of far Korea was fraught with intense interest.

In introducing the party Mr. J. O. Henry thanked the Salvation Army, describing the class of work done by the members and referring to the manner in which funds given to it are applied directly to the purpose for which they are donated. He assured the Army of his undying interest in their good work.

THE PARTY

Major and Mrs. Hill, who are in charge of the party, are English by birth. The Major has for the past seventeen years, been engaged in mission work in his chosen field and up to this time has been home on one furlough only. In addition to the leaders, the party comprises Adjutant Sin Soon Hi, Envoy Kim Yong Soo, Lieutenant Yun Chang Soon and Lieutenant Young Kwang Duk.

A REAL COMEDIAN

Each member of the party took some share in the programmes each either singing a quaint song in Korean or relating an English—his or her religion experience. Adjt. Sin Soon, described by Major Hill as having been salvaged from the "dust of humanity, a creature little better than a beast, is now a real Christian of the Billy Sunday order and is in fact known as the Billy Sunday of the East. He first sang a little song "I've got the love down in my heart," a tune that sounded as if he has picked it and made uniquely his own. This was followed by his testimony in which he displayed his abilities as a comedian to such an extent the Citadel almost rocked in sympathy with the convulsed audience. With gratifications after protest him he illustrated how he removed the top knots from his heathen associates thus marking them as having accepted the Christian faith and his words were interpreted by Major Hill. His descriptive tion were made eloquent by the remarkable play of emotion of which his features were capable.

SICK ABED EIGHT MONTHS

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Could Do All Her Work and Gained 14 Pounds

Melfort, Saskatchewan. — "I had awful troubles, headaches and severe pains in my back and sides. I was so sick generally that I could not sit up and I was in bed most of the time for eight months. An aunt came to visit and help me as I was unable to attend to my baby and could not do my work. She told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking two bottles I could get up and dress myself. I also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. When I first took the medicine I only weighed seventy-eight pounds. Now I weigh twice as much. If I get out of sorts or worry and can't sleep I always take another bottle of the Vegetable Compound. I find it wonderfully good for female troubles, and have recommended it to my neighbors. I will be only too glad to answer any letters I receive asking about it."—Mrs. WILLIAM RITCHIE, Box 486, Melfort, Saskatchewan. C

MUNICIPAL TAX ON HYDRO PLANTS

Member for Niagara Falls Introduces Bill Providing For Impost

REMOVE EXEMPTION

Would Return Revenue of $4,000,000 a Year to Municipalities

Toronto, March 11.—The bill which from the viewpoint of municipalities, is the most interesting introduced into the Ontario Legislature during the present session, was brought in yesterday by W. G. Wilson (Conservative, Niagara Falls). It deals with the vexed question of Hydro exemption from all municipal taxes, and proposes instead that the Hydro shall pay the taxes which would be exacted from an ordinary utility not publicly-owned. Should it be approved by the House, it would mean a revenue of more than $4,000,000 each year for Ontario municipalities.

The bill has a Provincial-wide application, but its direct inspiration, so far as Mr. Wilson is concerned, is the township of Stamford, in which the great Niagara generating plants are almost wholly located. It is declared to be simply the restatement of the principle which the late Sir Adam Beck held down when he first proposed that Hydro should pay taxes on its land. "I don't want the township of Stamford to lose one cent," Sir Adam Beck said at that time, speaking of the change from private to public ownership of the Ontario Power Company and the Electrical Development Company.

While the township of Stamford received thereafter its land tax, amounting to $9,914 per year, it lost its building assessments upon the power companies, which become publicly-owned and which would have returned if taxed in the ordinary way a total of $141,219. Niagara Falls, N.Y., figures the taxable value of its power companies at $8.5 per horsepower, and the municipality secures annually in revenue from this source a total of $742,207. This sum contrasts with the total of $23,000, which the municipalities on the Canadian side of the river receive from Hydro.

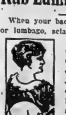

The township of Stamford has the largest individual interest in the Wilson bill, but on a smaller scale the problem exists in the many other municipalities of the Province, in which the Hydro operates. Should the legislation pass the House, it will secure for the municipalities revenue totalling over $4,000,000 annually. This revenue will be taken from the users of Hydro, who are directly benefiting from the Commission's operations, and spread over the public generally through going into the municipality rolls.

NO NEW TAXES WITH BUDGET

Hon. W. H. Price Is To Make Annual Statement To-day

Toronto, Mar. 11.—Hon. W. H. Price, Provincial Treasurer, will bring down the third budget of the Ferguson Government into the Legislature to-day. Members of the Government party in the House are anticipating a showing which will react most favorably in the Administration's interests. Lowered expenditures, well-maintained revenues, and leadership in future economies, are all expected to be communicated in the Treasurer's deliverance.

From the public viewpoint each year the interest in the budget lies to a large extent in its taxation announcements. In this respect this year's statement by Hon. Mr. Price is expected to be thoroughly satisfactory, as no new taxation is expected in the budget pronouncements.

The Provincial deficit, which amounted to some $15,000,000 when the Government assumed office, has already been announced as decreased to under $5,000,000. It is expected that Hon. Mr. Price will express hope for a balanced budget at the close of another year.

RITCHIE'S EVEN SCORE ON ROUND

Beaten by Belnap Outfit 9-4 They Won Last Night 6-1

In a fast and furious game of hockey at Arnott's Arena last night the Ritchie Co. boys put over their first win of the season at the expense of Belnap's Boost ers, the score being 6-1. Whether the Boosters thought they were going to have an easy time disposing of Ritchie Co. as they did the last time out or whether lady luck was all against them will never be known is as all the same Ritchie's Hounds were all over the Boosters.

That it must be said that Armour Ben nett in goal for the Boosters had a very bad off night. Hound say he only had 6 shots all night and 6 went in but Ar mour claims he had 8 perfectly good hard ones to handle and two he handled with remarkable skill. The two main stays of the Boosters were away off last night also; namely, Ab Wannacott and Stinger Belnap. Both claim they were not in condition and have retired for the season.

Raymond Arnott was the whole works for Ritchies. Next time he plays the Boosters think he will have to keep one hand behind his back.

Wain Wilbur in goal for Ritchie's was almost invincible. He swept for the one that got by him, and that one goal by the way, was scored by one of the Ritchie players. This makes the second time these teams have met. The first time the Boosters won 9-4 and last night's game just ties up the round 10-10. The play off will likely take place some time in 1927.

MILK SUPPLY ASSURED

If in a rare household that does not occasionally find itself without a drop of milk it is entirely dependent on the milkman. Storms and other happenings are responsible for the non-delivery of supplies quite often. Many housewives make sure always to have pure, fresh milk in the house by keeping a reserve supply of Borden's St. Charles Milk. Using this reserve supply of milk "wherever the recipe calls for milk," they find it is the most satisfactory of all baking powders and the rich creaminess adds a new flavor to dishes. Each tall size can contains forty ounces of full cream milk unsweetened with an equal quantity of water. St. Charles Milk can be used as it comes from the can if preferred, to have it so rich—it is also excellent undiluted in coffee and cocoa, and on cereals. m2-3td

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT GRIFFINS

The first authentic, authorized photoplay depicting the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis is "The Midshipman," produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer under the supervision of the Navy Department, which is showing at Griffin's tonight and Saturday.

In order that "The Midshipman," based on Carey Wilson's story, might be a faithful representation of the American nautical college, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur appointed Admiral Shoemaker, Rear Admiral Nulton and members of their official retinue to aid Director Christy Cabanne.

The choice of a suitable player for the leading role of Midshipman Jones, Randall w as left to the judgment of the Navy officials and they finally picked Ramon Novarro from a large list of popular motion picture stars submitted to them.

Upon completion of the final details of the filming, a special producing unit numbering 250 technicians, electricians and cameramen was dispatched from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios in Culver City, Calif., to Annapolis to become the midshipmen's guests. The cast, headed by Novarro, soon followed.

AT THE BELLE

Roasting as one of its main features, as a show within a show, and containing much of the spiritual action of the famous Alturas Round-up as part of its story, "All Around Frying Pan," starring Fred Thomson and his wonder horse Silver King, is entertainment—as the old negro would say "outhin' else but!"

Fred and Silver were actually centered in the premier rodeo events of the illustrious cowboy classic, and the whole background of this new picture is imbued with the real spirit of the open west thereby. The production was adaptation of Frank Richardson Pierce's story of the same name by Adrian Johnson pictures. And there are plenty of thrills. The desert settings are picturesque; really new locations that are marvels of beauty to the lover of vast distances. All Thomson fans will be delighted at the production, which sets its first showing here, tomorrow when it comes to the Belle Theatre for a two day engagement. Silver King has been awarded one of the "fattest" parts of his career, and his equine character delineation in this from an untamed "bucker" to a tractable, intelligence horse is a wonderful thing.

CENTENARY

The Young People's League of Centenary United Church held their annual "Box Social" at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vellum on Friday night, over a hundred being present. A good programme of songs by Messrs. Kenneth Ray and Marma Wellman and Miss Anabel Adams and excellent reading by Miss Bernice Hope were much enjoyed. Rev. Mr. White was chairman. The boxes were very pretty in design and artistically decorated and Mr. Fisher, auctioneer, of Belleville, who so kindly consented to auction them off, did his work well, the highest being sold at $2.25. A hearty vote of thanks was given to the genial host and hostess for their kindness in opening their home for the occasion. The proceeds amount ed to $50.50 which is the League's share towards the Maintenance and Extension Fund of the church.

BADMINTON TEAM LOST IN PT. HOPE

Were Royally Entertained and Bowed to Superior Play

The Garrison Badminton team which journeyed to Port Hope yesterday afternoon was out on the successful here as in Oshawa, winning only 4 out of 18 games played. The Port Hope club was at full strength and gave a smart exhibition of the game that is sweeping the continent.

They entertained the Belleville visitors to tea and later to dinner and the team returned with only the very nicest things to say of their visit, while a trifle disappointed at their showing.

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Do not use prepared shampoos or any soap that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

PATSY RUTH MILLER
in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production "The Splendid Crime"

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless. It is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water, rub in it and it makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the hair soft and the hair and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure you get what gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

NEW BRUNSWICK HOUSE GATHERS

Opening To-morrow Will See Conservatives in the Saddle

FIRST TIME IN 10 YEARS

Liberal Will Probably Be Named as The Speaker

Fredericton, N.B., March 11. — When the first session of the 10th Legislature of New Brunswick opens today, Conservatives will be over the treasury benches for the first time in almost ten years. The last Conservative government went out of office in 1917.

New Brunswick does not always draw party lines closely in provincial politics, but the result of the provincial general elections last August constituted a Conservative triumph and a Liberal debacle.

It is almost twenty years since the Conservatives were last similarly swept into power, but then it was after a much longer period of Liberal reign. That was in 1908 when the present Sir J. Douglas Hazen, now Chief Justice of the Province, became Premier. He had Liberal supporters and one of them, the late John Morrisy, who afterwards sat as a Liberal M.P., at Ottawa, was made Minister of Public Works in the Hazen government, but the Hon. J. D. M. Baxter, K.C., the present Premier, has not taken a Liberal into his Cabinet, but it is not unlikely that the Government will nominate a Liberal member in the person of J. L. O'Brien, Northumberland, for the position of Speaker of the new Legislature.

The nestor of the new legislature will be Hon. P. J. Veniot, LL.D., the Liberal Premier who led the Government which went down to defeat in August, and who tomorrow makes his bow in another role—that of leader of His Majesty's Loyal Opposition. Hon. Dr. Veniot is now sixty-two years old and was first elected to the Provincial Legislature thirty-two years ago. Since 1894 he has served sixteen years as a representative of Gloucester County. He is the oldest member of the new Legislature in point of service, but there are several others who are older in years—notably J. L. Peck, Albert; H. V. Dickson, Kings; and Hon. Dr. H. I. Taylor, Charlotte, the Minister of Health.

The New Brunswick Legislative Assembly is composed of forty-eight members when at full strength, but it opens tomorrow with less than the full quota of members. Since the general provincial elections last August two of the members then elected have died. The first to pass away was J. M. Flewelling, who had been one of the members for Charlotte in the last House, and who was the Conservative candidate in the new urban constituency of St. Stephen-Milltown. Following his death a bye election was called, as a result of which A. R. MacKenzie, of St. Stephen, a supporter of the new Government, was elected by acclamation. Then when Mayor Frank L. Potts, of St. John, died, it left St. John County with Premier Baxter as the County's only representative in the new Legislature, and a bye election to fill that vacancy has not been called.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

Constance did so, and Mrs. Russell went down on her knees and examined the portmanteau.

It was large and heavy of rough, thick hide, and apparently had seen a great deal of service.

"I suppose this is all; not much luggage for the Marquis of Drakeyeare to have," said Mrs. Russell, with a laugh. "But perhaps there is some more coming!" she exclaimed.

"What is funny?" asked Constance.

Mrs. Russell pointed to the portmanteau.

"Don't you see, miss?"

"I do not see anything extraordinary," she answered, looking it over.

"Why, miss, some one has taken the trouble to scrape all the old labels off. Look there—and there! They've been scrubbed off most carefully. Who could have done it?"

"The marquis, I should think," suggested Constance, with a smile.

Mrs. Russell shook her head.

"Oh! you don't know the marquis as well as I do, miss, or you wouldn't say that. He's the last gentleman in the world to care about the looks of a portmanteau, or he wouldn't carry such a rough old thing as this about with him, not he. He wouldn't wear it if was scarred with labels."

"Perhaps the marquis has grown sweet on as well as steadier," said Constance, laughingly.

"Thank you, Miss Grahame," said a voice at the door, and Constance, swing round, saw the marquis standing there and regarding them with a strange smile.

Mrs. Russell uttered a cry, but was too startled to get up from her knees.

The marquis looked from one to the other with faint amusement, and yet a somewhat keener expression in the dark eyes.

"Why, it's Mrs. Russell, isn't it?" he said, and he came into the room.

Constance darted past him, and gained the door, but as she did so and dared to her own room she heard him say in his deep, musical voice:

"Looking at my old portmanteau, Mrs. Russell? Want the key? Never mind, I'll see to it myself. Glad to see you looking so well. Good night."

Then Constance turned the key in her door and flung herself down on the couch and the tears of vexation and new indignation started to her eyes.

That he should have found her in his room was bad enough, but that he should have seen her apparently inquisitively examining his portmanteau was almost unendurable.

She undressed, but weary as she was with the excitement and novelty of the night, she could not sleep, and she lay down from hour to hour, going over the events of the day and listening to the sounds of laughter and singing that rose faintly from the servants' hall.

And at last, when, worn out, she did fall asleep, her dreams were full of the old times, of the rough life in the Australian bush. She dreamed of her father, of Rassets Fenton, of the rough squatters, and—strange confusion—the tall figure and handsome face of the man who was raised up inevitably with every scene and every object, and seemed to pursue her wherever she went in the land of visions.

CHAPTER VI.

Constance woke the next morning with a start, and it was the clanging of the great bell so much as the luxury surrounding her which helped her to realise that she was not still dreaming, and that she was in very truth in Drakeyeare Castle.

A maid brought her the water for her bath.

The breakfast bell will ring in an hour, miss," she said.

But Constance had made up her mind that she would not, unless she were obliged, go down to breakfast, but would join Arol in the nursery. She knew not forget that she was the governess, dependent in this great house. She had, indeed, almost forgotten it several times in the excitement of the preceding night.

She had no sooner dressed than she heard a knock at the door and Arol's voice calling to her, and when she opened the door he came in which a joyous bound.

"Oh, Miss Grahame!" he exclaimed throwing his arms round her neck and kissing her. "I'm so glad you are up. I was afraid you wouldn't be. Why, you very tired last night that you went off so early? I sat up ever so late, and Lord Elliott asked where you were, and so did Uncle Wolfe. Ah! I've been out to the stable with him this morning—yes, I have. And he's been so kind, and he says that my pony is only a stiggelwood one, only pretty to look at, and he's going to buy me a real good one. And he was going to take me—or I was going to take him—to the lake, but I said I'd come and look you because you hadn't see me, and he said, 'That's a bright idea, Arol; go and bring her,' and so I've come." he wound up, breathlessly.

"Not this morning, Arol," Constance said. "It was very kind of you to come back for me, but I won't come this morning. But you can go if you like. You must be back in time for breakfast, you know, because I am going to have it with you."

"Really? Oh, how jolly—I mean nice! I don't think I'll go back to Uncle Wolfe. I'll stay with you, if you'll let me. Miss Grahame, don't people with black hair generally have blue eyes?"

Constance was standing before the glass, fastening the brooch at her neck, and stopped the operation in puzzled amazement at the suddenness of the question.

"I'm sure I don't know. I've not thought about it, Arol. Why?"

"Why, because Uncle Wolfe said that he had never seen it before until he saw you last night, and Lord Elliot said that it was that—the blue eyes and dark hair—that made your face so beautiful—"

"Oh, hush, hush, Arol," said Constance, stopping him, her face crimson. "You shouldn't repeat what you hear. What do you think the marquis or Lord Elliott would say if they knew you had overheard them and told me?"

"I'm very sorry," said Lord Lonsdale, "but I—I didn't mean to—"

"Then you must not do it again," said Constance, gravely. "Now, run away, and I will come to you in the nursery."

Arol looked at her with a puzzled expression, and then, with a sigh, left the room.

Crowd Smashes Court Railings To See Dwyer

Peterboro', March 12.—Mob scenes unprecedented in the history of Peterboro' courts marked the preliminary hearing of George Dwyer, charged with murder, and Mrs. Mary Dwyer, charged with manslaughter. The charges arise out of the death on Tuesday of last week of John Dwyer, aged 12, son and stepson, respectively, of the accused. It was alleged that the boy was ill treated and undernourished by the accused.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Crown Attorney G. W. Hatten, K. C., who laid the murder charge on in structions from the Attorney-General, informed Magistrate O. A. Langley, who presided, that he did not consider the evidence sufficient to support a murder committal, and asked that Dwyer be sent for trial under sections of the Criminal Code, charging "neglect." This was asserted in, despite protests of J. F. Strickland and B. E. Parks, Dwyer's counsel, that the Magistrate exceeded his authority in committing Dwyer for trial on a charge that had already been laid and withdrawn to make way for the murder charge.

Mrs. Dwyer was arraigned on a charge of manslaughter and the preliminary hearing will continue. There is also a charge of neglect pending against Mrs. Dwyer. She is represented by F. D. Kee, K.C.

HUNDREDS PACK COURT

When court opened the room was already crowded. Hundreds of persons, half a dozen women, packed the aisles and the open spaces behind the barrier. They stood up on the seats reserved for the public, hung over the back of the jury bowse, and lined up on the stairs. Scores were turned away unable to gain admission. During a thrilling moment the crowd surged forward, pushing over the rail that separates the public section from the court floor. The breaking over the prisoner's box to look at the accused, the crowd pushed the box off its base, so that there was difficulty in getting the clear. A city policeman was posted behind Mrs. Dwyer to prevent the crowd from pushing her.

RED LAKE NOT NEW

Hamilton, March 29.—J. W. Tyrrell, C. E., O.L.S., of this city, today explained the cause of old workings found by prospectors during the past few days at Red Lake. These workings, he believes, were the surviving evidence of the activities of a group of British prospectors whom he accompanied to Red Lake 29 years ago. The venture, however, did not grasp the possibilities expected of it, largely because of the inaccessibility of the location and the lack of railway facilities in that district.

AT A STANDSTILL

Ottawa, March 12. — With Premier Ferguson of Ontario declining to be a party to the proposed agreement providing for the carriage of coal from Alberta to Ontario at 50 per ton until the Dominion Railway Board determines the actual cost of haulage, negotiations are now at a standstill.

Defence Counsel Will Ask McWilliams Charge Be Cut To One Of Manslaughter

Falling the granting of a motion by Hugh John McDonald, counsel for the defence, to have the charge reduced to manslaughter, Arthur Moon will be tried at the Fall Assizes for the murder of Clayton McWilliams.

Mr. Justice Kelley granted today the motion of Crown Attorney, Major R. C. Donnan, to traverse the case, but without prejudice to defence counsel's application to hold a hearing of arguments, possibly in Toronto, tending to show that the proceedings of the trial just concluded rendered a murder trial unnecessary.

MOON BROUGHT IN

Moon was brought in and placed in the prisoner's dock but he might have been absent, so far as the interest in the motion of the Crown.

In view of the fact that Mr. McDonald, defence counsel, is hearing for Toronto tonight, and that Moon is not to be removed on the manslaughter charge until tomorrow, counsel was given opportunity by His Lordship to make any plea he might wish to make on the prisoner's behalf.

Moon, asked by the judge whether he had anything to say as to why sentence should not be passed upon him for the offence of which he was convicted yesterday, answered: "No, Sir."

THE MOTIVE

Counsel then said he had only one plea to make which the judge might consider in fixing the duration of the sentence, namely, the prisoner's motive in committing the act of which he had been convicted, was not in the moral sense a deliberate one.

"While I concede that he has to pay the penalty of his act, my Lord, I would like to bring it out that except that he should not be taken the matter into his own hands, the motive was that of an honourable man," said counsel.

THE COURT'S REASONS

Mr. Justice Kelley said he was what course is to be taken.

Many Visitors Were Present At Meeting Of Odd Fellows

At the regular meeting of Belleville Lodge No. 31, I.O.O.F. held last evening, there was a large attendance of members, and visitors to be honored to the brothers who have in the past occupied the Noble Grands Office. When the N. G. Bro. W. G. Taylor called the members to order, there were present members of the two local lodges (Belleville and Minpah) also members from the following lodges: Unity Lodge of Hamilton, Royal Lodge of Havelock, Cochrane, Kingston, Thomasburg, Madoc, Tweed, Tilsonburg, Stirling, and Manitoulin Lodge of Michigan. There being no candidate waiting to be received into Odd-fellowship, Degree Staff consisting of Past Grand's exemplified the Initiatory Degree in a manner which caused one member to remark, "It was an eye opener to see the way the old members remembered the work."

The members of the Staff were:

N.G.—C. E. Way.

P.G.—J. A. Coon.

V.G.—F. C. Chesher.

Chaplain—Rev. A. L. Geen.

Conductor—H. D. Bunton.

Warden—W. J. Kelly.

R.S.N.G.—O. Brickman.

L.S.N.G.—W. J. Woodley.

R.S.V.G.—J. Newton.

L.S.V.G.—R. H. Ketcheson.

R.S.S.—G. Vosper.

L.S.S.—J. W. Cook.

R.S.—R. W. Adams, J. O. Herity, I. Sills, G. S. Kerr.

O.G.—C. F. Frost.

The Vice-Grand of Belleville Lodge, Bro. Russell Woodley, officiated at the piano. After the lodge the members adjourned to the upper lodge room where the entertainment committee had prepared a splendid banquet to which all sat down and seemed to enjoy themselves for a short while. P.D.D.G.M. Bro. G. G. Way officiating as toastmaster. After honoring the toast to "The King", by all standing and singing the national anthem, the first toast was proposed by P.G. P. Bro. R. H. Ketcheson to the Grand Lodge of Ontario. D.D.G.M. Bro. Brickworth responded and also P. G. Bro. J. O. Herity. The three oldest members present spoke to the toast, "Past Grands", P.G.M. Bro. Dr. Wood, A. L. Geen, P.G.D. Bro. J. Newton and Bro. R. G. Gilbert, all speaking of Oddfellowship in Belleville forty or fifty years ago when membership were not available to convey heath. ers from one lodge to another for a fraternal visit.

P.G. Bro. J. A. Coon proposed the toast to "Our Visiting Brothers," and was responded by P.D.D.G.M. Bro. Mr. A. Young of Cochrane who told of conditions in that part of Ontario where Fraternal visits were not so convenient as in this part of the province as the Lodges were farther apart and travelling conditions so different. Most visits in the North Country were from one to three days and then sometimes longer when the train got snowbound. Bro. W. J. Embree spoke of conditions around the Soo, telling of the good feeling between the members on both sides of the lake. Bro. Bro. Gerrior of Tweed Lodge, Bro. Brooks of Madoc and Bro. Sherman of Thomasburg also replied all congratulating the older members on their splendid degree work. The evening's programme was brought in a close by singing the national anthem.

Warkworth Fire Will Be Probed

Exhaustive investigation into the peculiar circumstances surrounding the destruction by fire last Tuesday morning of the West home in Warkworth, in which Mrs. Stuart West and her little boy are presumed to have lost their lives, is proceeding, according to Provincial Police Inspector E. C. Corbett.

"The whole thing has to be sifted to the very bottom," said the police official this morning when spoken to by The Intelligencer over the long distance telephone.

Touching upon this matter of only portions of the book and letters of Mrs. West having been found in the ruins of the house and of no vestiges of the child's body having been discovered at all, Inspector Corbett said quietly:

"The heat of the fire which destroyed the house was apparently so intense that I would not go so far as to say anything yet as to whether or not there has been foul play."

Nobody is under arrest in connection with the tragedy, it was understood from Inspector Burgett.

Dr. West, the veterinary surgeon who visited the district, is a war veteran. He married Mrs. West, a Belgian girl, while on service. He was discovered early this morning in the Lower Boor at the blazing building. He explained that he had been sleeping downstairs and had found it impossible to penetrate the surface of smoke that cut off the stairs.

Dr. W. F. Loucks, Coroner, was called and empanelled a jury. In the preliminary hearing it was brought out that when neighbour came to the house, Dr. West was found down-stairs overcome by smoke, and was apparently dazed by the events. An attempt was made to get upstairs by means of the stairway but it was impossible to penetrate the thick cloud of smoke that belched out on opening the door. A ladder was raised to the window outside but the smoke penetrated even to this room also. Soon the whole top of the house was ablaze, and being a frame structure, was demolished in a short time.

The inquest, which was called by Dr. W. F. Loucks, coroner, was adjourned until March 25.

MRS. G.M. REID IS GIVEN RING

At the close of choir practice at St. Andrew Church last evening at a social held in the church parlors, Mrs. Geo. A. Reid, former choir leader of the church was presented with a handsome ruby ring by Miss Alice Wilson on behalf of the choir members. In thanking her former associates for their kindness Mrs. Reid spoke of the pleasure which had been hers in leading the choir and assured all of her continued interest in St. Andrew's musical organizations.

New Find Of Mummies In Work at Thebes

Cairo, March 12.—Percy collins discovered by Sir Robert Mond at Thebes contain the mummies of priestesses of the temple of Amen Ra and date from the eighteenth dynasty of which Tutankhamen was one of the kings.

No such find of priestesses has ever been made before, and a detailed examination has not begun, all energies being concentrated on clearing the chambers. There are interesting papyri and a very beautiful amulet consisting of the emblem of stability in red quisite blue glaze pottery about six inches long, with cross pieces at the head overlaid with gold encrusted with an iron thick.

It is hoped that the chambers will be cleared in six weeks. Then the mummies of the monarchs will be placed in new coffins and reburied. Armed guards are protecting the discovery from thieves.

LOUD DEFENSE OF CAPITALISM BY MUSSOLINI

Rome, March 12.—The Senate today, by 130 votes to 27, approved a bill regulating the relations between capital and labor. By this bill all strikes and lockouts are declared unlawful. Special Labor Tribunals are instituted to solve all difficulties between capital and labor, and compulsory arbitration is established.

Mussolini, who wound up the discussion, termed the bill "the most courageous, most elaborate, most radical, most revolutionary form yet proposed by the Fascist Government in its forty months of office."

CAPITALISM DEFENDED

The most noteworthy feature of Mussolini's speech was his strenuous defence of the capitalist system. "Over here," he said, "are all distinctly and positively anti-socialist. According to the Socialist doctrine capitalism is dying, the capitalist is a vampire, a Shylock. According to our doctrine all this is nothing but bad literature. What only is capitalism not declining, but it has not even reached its dawn. We must accustom ourselves to think that the capitalist system will have still centuries and centuries, will continue to rule the world for centuries. In countries, in fact, where it has been violently suppressed it is again appearing.

SOCIALIST DOCTRINE RIDICULED

"There is nothing more burlesquely comical," continued the Premier, "in the whole Socialist doctrine than the effort to make people believe that human happiness depends exclusively on the satisfaction of man's material needs. Capitalism has a function which Fascism recognizes, and approves. But Fascism also recognizes that the fate of capitalism at any time in the state of nations depends on the fate of the nation. If a nation is powerful, even the homeless proletarian has his bread basket. If a nation is powerless and disorganized every one suffers, every one must assume an air of humiliation. Italy has done for twenty years or more of her history."

More 1926 Prizes For Flower Show

The executive of the Horticultural Society is hard at work arranging for the next show of the Society which will be held about the same time next fall as last year's very successful efforts, and will be again held in the armouries. There are to be many extra prizes. Another speaker is to be brought to the city. The prize lists are to be undertaken at once.

SEIZED IN "TURNIPS" CAR

Kitchener, March 12.—Twelve thousand bottles of beer labelled 2 per cent. proof spirits were seized by the Provincial Police here when a freight car consigned as turnips to Schultz Brokerage Company, Chicago, was found to contain flour barrels filled with beer.

Again Pay Federal Income Tax Only To District Tax Office

Reversion to the plan hitherto in force by the federal income tax department to have all returns made to the inspector of Taxation for the district involved, and not in any case to local Customs Collectors, has just been announced from Ottawa.

The plan was varied last year, as a concession to those making income returns who did not live within a close proximity to the district income Tax office, but it was found to be unreasonable in some respects and also suffered from the defect that by increasing the number of persons who were officially authorized to receive returns as to income tax payable, the risks attendant upon enlarging the scope of the publicity to which the returns were automatically subject was not in strict fairness to those making the returns.

The official notification reads:

"The regulations followed during the current fiscal year with respect to the filing of income tax returns and the payment of income taxes will be changed on April 1, 1926. On and after that date all returns must be filed with and all taxes paid to the Inspector of Taxation, insofar as these two phases of the work are concerned the procedure will be the same as it was before April 1, 1925.

"On and after April 1, 1926, the boundaries of the districts will be the same as they were before the 1st of April, 1925, and each inspector will be responsible for all persons residing or carrying on business within the boundaries of his district."

Thornton Talks To C.M.A. Chief

Hamilton, March 12.—A powerful plea for a spirit of national unity, undivided by sectional interest, and having as its basis the development of Canada along broad Dominion lines, was made by Sir Henry Thornton, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railway in an address before the Hamilton branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association last night. Sir Henry chose as the text of his remarks freight rates point ing out that he was speaking to the leaders of province in a manufacturing centre in Canada, (the Pittsburg of the Dominion), as it were, and while he emphasized the fact that no one was more opposed to no approprive freight rate than he was, it was nevertheless necessary to strike a happy medium whereby the railways were entitled to receive a reasonable return for services given."

Unless that were assured, Sir Henry was convinced that "hard times" would inevitably come to Canada." As a railway president speaking to an audience of the Manufacturers association, I might remark, without prejudice, that the reduction of freight rates is always a popular subject but it must be remembered that today Canada has the lowest freight rates known to the civilized world."

Canada was promised the enviable position of becoming the dominant wheat exporting nation of the world. This not only would result in the Dominion becoming in actuality the outstanding granary of the world, but would also attract more and more people to agricultural pursuit the momentary returns were obvious. Sir Henry also touched briefly upon the Hydro and mineral developments that have been made during the last decade and expressed that a great future in a similar way awaited the country between the Great Lakes and the Hudson Bay.

"To date," he remarked, "our mineral developments, great as they may seem, are relatively merely a scratch on the surface."

PSCHOLOGY: FIRECRACKERS

Berlin, March 12.—Psychology and a few firecrackers, a stone and an apron were the only tools necessary for two shaking bankers to rob a jewelry shop window under the nose of the police, and in sight of hundreds of frightened people. Both throwing and several harmless firecrackers dressed to resemble real hand grenades into the street, and shouting "Murder, bomb fire!" one of the burglars completely cleared the street for a block. While the people were seeking places of safety an accomplice, with a stone wrapped in an apron, smashed the plate glass, and then walked away with a handful of diamonds.

ONTARIO DEFICIT NOW REDUCED TO SUM OF 1,500,000

Surplus of $2,200,000 on Ordinary Revenue and Expenditure

NO ADDITIONAL TAXES

Highways to Date Have Cost $95,000,000 Net, Col. Price Announces

Toronto, March 12.—No new taxation, reduction of the provincial deficit to $1,500,000, and a surplus of $2,200,000 on ordinary revenue and expenditure for the year, were features of the budget speech of Hon. W. H. Price, provincial treasurer, in the Ontario Legislature Thursday afternoon. He announced that the tax on soft drinks would be abolished. The deficit is on account of interest payments on capital expenditures.

The ordinary revenue for the year 1925 was $26,400,000, and ordinary expenditures $24,250,000. Hon. Mr. Price declared that Ontario last year had paid the lowest rate in its history for money borrowed, the average being 4 per cent. The treasurer also informed the House that provincial highways to date had cost $95,000,000 net, and that the tax on gasoline and revenue from motor licenses fell short of meeting the cost of road maintenance. The supplementary estimates amounted to $1,851,504, he announced.

Mr. Price dealt at some length with bookkeeping methods, claiming that he had improved and simplified them. Mr. Price stated that in 1923 the province spent $9,546,105 more than it received in its revenue, but this year the revenue was two millions more than the expenditure, so that the province had a surplus for the first time in two years. Mr. Price claimed a chance for the better of more than $11,500,000 since the Ferguson Government assumed power.

BURDEN OF INTEREST

However, the province had a deficit because of the interest payments which had to be met, he said. The interest payment for 1925 was $17,238,175, and the interest revenue was $10,182,523, leaving a deficit of $7,052,652, which had to be looked after from the revenue of current year. Capital expenditure on the Hydro and the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway was $5,000,000, he greater interest charges last year.

Mr. Price figured that the uncontrollable interest account would advance at the rate of $500,000 a year.

Mr. Price said that the Government last year had not bought in any succession duty. From this it was found that the price paid for them would only yield the province three per cent. per annum, so they thought it could not be got for less than five per cent.

The treasurer said that the Government had decided to build up a reserve fund for the Ontario Government offices, which last year had a surplus of $100,578, and which also wrote off $74,617 for depreciation. At the end of the fiscal year the public had on deposit in the banks $19,220,000, as against $21,012,000 a year ago. He pointed out that of the $4,950 deposits in the savings offices, more than four-fifth had deposits of less than $500.

The Agricultural Development Board during the year loaned out to farmers $9,854,178. Mr. Price reviewed the expenditure on roads, stating that in the last ten years the gross expenditure on roads in Ontario was $110,932,615, counting interest, and $10,563,811 was spent on roads last year. Auto license fees and the gasoline tax brought in $7,815,427. Count.

MOSUL AWARD MADE AT GENEVA

Irak is Given Big Slice of Territory—Turak Still Sullen

Geneva, March 12.—The Council of the League of Nations in its public session today, having received the decisions of Great Britain that she has extended for 25-years her mandatory regime over Irak, in accordance with the terms of the resolutions of the December council, made the definite award of the disputed Mosul area to Great Britain. This award is in accordance with the decision reached by the Council in December.

Britain or her mandatory, Irak, this secures practically all of the Mosul region, Turkish sovereignty being limited to a narrow strip in the northern part. Turkey was not represented at today's meeting, her abstention reiterating her old contention that the decision of the Council is not binding on her.

THE modern flapper scorns the earlier version who neither sewed nor spun. The 1926 flappers might be effectively experts themselves, so capable are they.

Miss Gertrude Smith, at eighteen years old, has joined for more arts than who wanted a typical Miss Young American, than who can crash on her fingers; but she so far from being the homely household arts that she is achieving quite a deserved renown in her own little circle as a cook of surprisingly dainty and appealing sweets.

Canadian Devil's Food

Part One

1 cup Brown Sugar
2 tablespoonfuls Cocoa
1 Egg Yolk
½ cup Milk

Part Two

½ cup Crisco
1 cup Brown Sugar
2 Egg Yolks
½ cup Milk
1 teaspoonful Vanilla
2 cups Flour
2 Egg Whites
1 teaspoonful Soda

Mix ingredients in Part One. Cook until it thickens and then cool. Cream Crisco, add brown sugar and the two egg yolks. Beat together thoroughly, then add Part One. Next add milk, vanilla and flour. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Finally add the soda dissolved in a little hot water. Bake in greased layer cake tins in a hot oven 375-400 degrees.

The territorial army strength on February 1 was 6,315 officers and 138,232 of other ranks, an increase of 102 officers and 4,851 men, but the total is still below the peace strength, endangering human life." Street Signs May Come Yet

At a regular meeting of the civic committee held last night many accounts were passed and a number of recommendations of more or less importance were considered and sent on to Council for ratification. They were as follows.

That a special committee composed of Aldermen Collins, Wotten, Cherry and MacCoghill investigate and report on the matter of a bylaw for the following matters.

Regulation of vehicular and pedestrian traffic on the public streets of the city.

The erection and preparation of signs.

The parking of automobiles in the streets of the city.

The creation of one way streets in certain sections of the city.

A TOURIST PARK.

That a special committee composed of Aldermen MacConnell and Walker and the City Engineer, be appointed to investigate the requirements for the further development of the Quinte Park for tourist purposes and prepare a requisition for funds to carry out the development.

That a grant of $200 be made to the Belleville Poultry Association.

That the city purchase certain properties on the north side of Pine St., between Dufferin and McDonald Ave. for park purposes.

That the chairman of Public Works be authorized to purchase wire netting and have same put on both sides of the upper and lower bridges, cost not to exceed $350.

That the matter of the purchase of a new chain hook and ladder chassis and equipment be held in abeyance until after the estimates are struck and that the clerk be instructed to write the Bickle Fire Engine Company to that effect.

That we the Mayor and City Council of Belleville have been noting with concern interest the nature lore stories and the exhibition of Canadian Bird life; and we wish to express to Wallace H. R olds our appreciation of the work he is doing for Canadian nature lore, a study, which is filling a long felt want.

MRS. HOGG GIVEN $250 BY JURY

The attention of the 11th Court of Justice was yesterday afternoon and evening taken up in the case of Hogg vs. Parker. The plaintiff, Mrs. Helen Hogg of Sidney, was rather seriously injured on January 2nd, 1925, by a runaway team owned by Mr. W. C. Potter of Sidney. The accident occurred on Front street, Belleville. She was awarded $250.

The plaintiff claimed $1,000 damages for injuries she sustained and in her testimony stated that she was still suffering as a result of the injuries. From various witnesses on behalf of the plaintiff it was claimed that the neck yoke which broke while the team was running away was defective. Some of the witnesses gave it as their opinion that the wood was dead and therefore would break easy.

The defence did show that Mr. Potter was in charge of the team at the time and did all in his power to stop them but when the neck yoke broke he was to some extent powerless. Evidence was also adduced to the effect that the team was by no means fractious but that they became frightened when a lad with a hand sleigh jumped upon the side of the vehicle.

After addresses to the jury by counsel and the charge by His Lordship, the jury retired to consider their verdict.

After being out some time the jury returned into court and awarded the plaintiff $250. Messrs. R. D. Macaulay for plaintiff, with R. C. Donnan as counsel; Fenton & Fenton for defendant with Major R. D. Fenton handling the case.

MR. REGINALD GEEN AND MASTER CARRE HEARD OVER RADIO

His two numbers were "O Dry Those Tears" and "The World is Waiting for the Sunset"—Mr. Geen played several numbers starting just after three o'clock.

New Hamburg Holds Petes to 3 Goals

Niagara Falls, March 12.—Finish at close quarters when on the attack, and cover work of Joe Dwyer in the net, gave Peterboro, senior O.H.A. champions, 3-0 over New Hamburg intermediate winners, in the first game of the Allan Cup elimination series here last night, before a crowd of 4,000 fans, who were mostly New Hamburg sympathizers. While New Hamburg displayed great speed and aggressiveness, the Petes deserved their victory. Experience when close to their opponents' net is what gave victory to the senior champions. On many occasions the Hamburgers got away fast, but lacked scoring punch when the Petes' zone was reached.

Bancroft Editor Asked to Get Home To Get Out His Paper

The tribulations of jury service were well exemplified today when W. Price, editor of the Bancroft TImes, who was drawn for the panel at the present sitting, was one of the jurors who sat in the box during the trial of Arthur Moon, charged with Hon. Mr. Justice Hugh Kelley to let him off the remainder of his obligation in order that he might keep the type flying in his home town. He declared there would be "no paper got out this week" if he was compelled to remain in Belleville.

"There's only a girl in my office, My Lord," said Mr. Price. "She can't make up the newspaper and get it out. What will my subscribers say? If I can't get to Trenton this afternoon on my way home I will not be able to get to Bancroft this week-end, and there will be no Bancroft Times.

Moved by this heartrending appeal from the press, His Lordship said he "would do what he could about it."

Mrs. Wm. Cook, Anne Street, entertained at the tea hour yesterday in honour of Miss Mary's third birthday.

Social Items

Miss Rita Sager, Shannonville, was hostess of a miscellaneous shower given last evening at her home in honor of Miss Lola Bell, daughter of Mrs. G. M. Pringle, whose wedding takes place next month. Many useful and beautiful presents were received by the bride-elect and the evening was most pleasantly spent in music and dancing by the eighty guests present.

The ladies of Holloway Street United Church were hostesses of a most successful tea held yesterday at the residence of Mrs. Green, Dundas street and a most enjoyable time was spent by the large number of guests present. The guests were received by Mrs. Green while in the tea room at the tea table which carried out a dainty color scheme of yellow and white, Mrs. Priory presided, assisted by Mrs. Wickett and Mrs. Bonar. Mrs. Jordan was convenor of the tea room. A short musical programme was given to which Miss Sonar contributed a piano solo, Mrs. Jordan a vocal solo, and Mrs. Lane a reading.

A TALENT TEA

Mrs. Bruce Bottum and Mrs. E. C. Garnett were hostesses today of a very enjoyable talent tea given at the home of Mrs. Bottum, Bridge Street in aid of Christ Church Guild. The reception room, in which the hostesses received, with its lovely appointments of gold and black, was finished with bowls of daffodils. In the dining room to which the guests were shown by Mrs. Bateman Sr., Mrs. W. H. Nugent presided at the dainty tea table presided by Mrs. G. B. Ives. The table was very lovely with its decorations appropriate to St. Patricks day, and was centered by a large silver bowl of narcissi. Mrs. Bateman Jr., had charge of the tea room and Mrs. Lome Green and Mrs. H. L. Smith assisted in serving. During the afternoon piano solos by Mrs. Grace Arnott were greatly enjoyed. Miss Clara Osborne acted as treasurer for the afternoon.

ANKLES BROKEN AGED MAN SUES

The second case for alleged damages for injuries sustained in an accident was being tried today in High Court before Mr. Justice Kelly and a jury.

The plaintiff in this case is William C. Macdonald who resides just off the Provincial highway at the Front of Thurlow a couple of miles east of the city. The defendant is H. E. Bieler whose home is at Richmond, Quebec, AT CEMENT PLANT

On the 11th of September of last year Mr. Macdonald the plaintiff was employed at the cement plant at Point Anne. About 5 o'clock on the afternoon of that day he arrived home from work having been conveyed by a motor truck from the Point to his home. While walking from the truck across to the north side of the road Mr. Macdonald was struck by a motor car driven by the defendant.

ANKLES BROKEN

As a result both of his ankles were broken and badly crushed. In his evidence Mr. MacDonald admitted he saw the car approaching but he considered it was some hundreds of feet away. It was also he stated being driven at too rapid a pace. The plaintiff also testified that there was ample room for the defendant to have driven his car between the truck and where witness was when he was struck. Plaintiff was not only compelled to remain in bed for weeks but at present is lame and compelled to get about by the aid of a crutch. Negligence on the part of the defendant is charged.

THE DEFENSE

For the defence it is alleged that Macdonald was at fault and there was no negligence on the part of the defendant. C. A. Cameron for plaintiff and Panton & Panton for the defendant with Major H. D. Panton in charge of the case.

BELLEVILLE MAN MAKES GOOD

Another young Belleville, man Britton I. McCabe has brought lustre to his native city. Awarded a scholarship and a summer in Europe with the further possibility that he may be appointed to carry on Y.M.C.A. field work in some European country, Portugal has been mentioned, Mr. McCabe's studious hours have brought their own reward, and greater things may well be expected of him. He has specialised in languages and has done some rather fine work in handling boys' camps, about the most severe test in maintaining discipline that a young man could be called upon to undergo. He has won his spurs.

MR. TUMMON'S SPEECH

Mr. Tummon's address here the other night to the Conservative women of Belleville was the first speech of any magnitude this city has heard him deliver since the days preceding the election of October 29, and his effort on this occasion stamps him as an orator of recognized ability. Cogent and comprehensive, his address was an eloquent word picture of affairs at the Dominion Capital as they existed up to and including the final scene of votes which with closure meant the recess of Parliament until next Monday.

Had this part of the session lasted a day or two longer Mr. Tummon would have made his maiden speech in Parliament and it is presumed that part of that speech at any rate was employed here in Belleville. His indictment of the Liberal-Progressive-Independent coalition which holds by no narrow a margin the destinies of this country was conclusive and convincing. He had certain things to say and he knew well how to say them.

It is a pleasure to be able to acknowledge the Member for South Hastings as a distinct acquisition to the long list of sound thinkers and speakers which this fine old county has sent to Ottawa to represent it in the House of Parliament there. He can take his full share in the deliberations intelligently and with great credit to himself and to the constituency.

THESE NEW COMERS WELCOME

Although they can hardly be referred to as immigrants in the ordinary sense of the term the two young men, brothers, who through the agency of Mr. Willoughby Anderson, have been placed in Prince Edward county, are the very best kind of newcomers to any country and the kind which Ontario particularly demands. Ontario's policy as stated by Premier Ferguson and supported unanimously throughout the province is that only selected people should be attracted to Ontario; this province in short demands a high type of new settler; the lesson has been taught in the unrestricted immigrant going into the west many of these persons having tendencies towards Socialism and peculiar tinges of Red-ness that are Refugeing to be tolerated here.

This area would welcome more of young men of the stamp which, these two Englishmen obviously are, and hopes to get them.

THE DEBT OF CANADA

The statement of the public debt of Canada at the end of last year is remarkable in that it shows a reduction in the net amount of the considerable sum of $35,000,000,w hen compared with the total at the close of 1924. The revenue for the elapsed part of the fiscal year was large, and the expenditure was kept within the appropriations. The balance went to increase the Government's balances and reduce the difference between liabilities and assets. The total debt, including bonds, Dominion notes in circulation and other obligations on December 31st last, as given, were:

	1924.	1925.
Funded debt:
Payable in Canada	1,906,387,881	1,922,957,118
Payable in N.Y.	280,874,000	281,025,000
Payable in London	330,001,469	311,668,136
Temporary loans	14,463,435	204,000
Bank circ. fund	6,339,376	5,904,274
Dominion notes.	243,795,398	225,916,490
Savings banks	32,595,600	31,880,170
Trust funds	14,182,608	14,283,174
Province accts.	11,920,327	11,919,900
Miscel. bank accts.	76,338,592	56,463,790
Total gross debt.	2,941,901,136	2,867,339,866
Sinking funds	$ 37,985,629	$ 38,234,537
Other investments	86,643,479	89,162,667
Province accounts	2,296,173	2,296,173
Miscellaneous accts.	397,881,927	350,911,461
	$524,155,2260	$480,604,840

Taking the total of these from the amount of the gross debt left it at $2,417,745,930 at the close of 1924 and at $2,381,735,027 at the end of 1925. There are some suggestive terms in the table of assets as given. The "other investments", set down at the close of last year as worth $89,162,667, cost the country $646,907,661. So in the "miscellaneous and banking accounts", valued at $350,911,461, the cost was $408,055,782. In the one case $556,804,834 and in the other $57,154,320 are deducted as being "non-active". They yield no return to the country for what they cost. They represent chiefly advances authorized by Parliament in aid of enterprises not commercially justifiable, on bonds of non-paying railways, bridges, harbors, and schemes for making individuals rich at the public expense. They are outstanding evidences of the incompetence in a business sense of members of Parliament to judge of the value and fate of schemes promoted with political objects in view, who always have been too influential at Ottawa and are active today. The general statement is satisfactory; but too much weight should not be attached to it. The close of the fiscal year is still some distance in the future, and much may be spent by a weak Government in these times that will affect the total of the debt.

TIME FOR CONSIDERATION

The defeat of the Briand cabinet is an important event in itself, but it is even more important because of its effect upon the proceedings at Geneva. It occurs just as the League of Nations is assembling under some what clouded conditions, with the prospect of dangerous strife springing from rival national ambitions and mutual suspicion.

The grand question to be decided is whether Germany shall enter the League, and if so whether she is to be the only power admitted into the League Council. France has been strongly supporting the demand of Poland as well as the demands of Spain and Brazil to permanent membership in the Council, and Italy is also favorable to Poland's claim. It was supposed that Sir Austen Chamberlain had committed himself to support France's position, but this is probably untrue. It appears, however, from his own utterances, that he does favor the entrance of Spain into the Council in pursuance of an understanding reached a year ago. The German government has taken a stand against the entrance of any power but Germany entering the Council as a permanent member at the present session, believing as it does that the movement in favor of Poland and Brazil is for the purpose of counterbalancing German influence. It has been officially announced that unless Germany enters the Council alone it will not enter at all.

The defeat of the Briand government will make necessary a postponement of action at Geneva. This will allow time for consideration and negotiation, and may have a fortunate outcome.

A PRETTY ENGLISHWOMAN

London Mail:

Mrs. Dudley Coats is perhaps the prettiest woman of her day, one of the few to whom an Eton crop is becoming; and she has an attractive, although throaty voice. After getting her leg broken in the hunting field, and truly mended at a nursing home, she went back to her Seymour street house and Davies street shop. The friends who flock to her delightful drawing room, with its five tall windows, include the Prince of Wales, the Grand Duke Dimitri, and Lord Beatty.

While Mrs. Dudley Coats was ill in bed she liked a cup of tea haphazard at any hour. H.R.H. went off and got for her a regular little tea equipage, silver urn and all, that she could light herself and enjoy a cup of tea before the servants were up and about.

Employer—You say you had your last place three years? Why did you leave?

Applicant—I was pardoned.

Who gave you the black eye, Bias?
Nobody gave it to me. I had to fight for it.

Some people have so much confidence in themselves they will call a dictionary a liar.

And it's known for a fact,
That some men grew humped-backed
In taking such long downward glances.

RABBITS SLAIN BY THOUSANDS

Tasty Meal to New Yorker Merely a Pest Where West Begins

Denver, Mar. 11—To the East Side, New Yorker who buys none too fresh rabbit meat out of barrels, the annual slaughter on the western plains would seem a waste. To the Easterer, whose "bunny" hunting is limited by law, it might seem a blessing to have so much game about.

Rabbits are not game to westerners, however. They are considered a pest. Consequently, more than 5,000,000 "cotton tails" have been killed in Colorado this winter, and the other western states have followed suit. Thousands of them are killed annually.

Rabbits are herbivorous, and eat no meat eaters for their size. Contrary to some opinion, they do not subsist altogether on tender lettuce leaves, parsley and carrots.

They eat almost everything that grows in the fields or gardens. They mow down beans, peas, lettuce, celery, beet tops and even corn and wheat. When they can not get anything else they eat grass. They have been known to ruin groves of young trees in nurseries.

The annual crop loss because of rabbits runs into millions of dollars. As a result the last Colorado legislature passed a law, permitting county commissioners to offer bounties for dead "jacks". Several counties this year paid a cent to a cent and a half for every pair of ears. Boys earn pocket money killing them, but nearly all the casualties are accountable to drives by farmers.

Townspeople join in, and the drives, usually held on Sundays, resemble old time basket dinners. Men women and children bring their guns and stay all day. Rabbit campaigns have become community institutions.

SCHOLARS NOW ATTACKED WITH 'RED' POISON

Minds of Children Are Polluted by Doctrines Printed and Published by Communists From Moscow

London, March —From sowing seeds of sedition in the army and in the factories of this country the Communists have passed to poisoning the minds of children in the schools by means of printed newssheets. To ensure this the Communist Party of Great Britain, subsidized by its Moscow headquarters has set up a special press at Castleford to print these publications.

One of these is the Young Pioneer which, circulated among the scholars of the Whaldon Lane Children's School, announces that since the last number "the teachers had rallied in thee hief superintendent of police to try and frighten the young Communists."

But the kiddies were urged to "fight for better conditions and never mind the bobbies." Another copy gave the "Red Flag" in full, details of the alleged cruel conditions of miners and letters from Russia translated and forwarded by the Communists' headquarters in London.

The "editorial" matter, supplied by the section leader who produces the sheet, tries to instil more serious principles. Two slogans are: "The poor always work and have nothing" "The rich never work and have everything they want."

Children in other towns have their school sheets. A boy who attends Homes Road School, St. Pancras, London, states that at present their news sheet was not sent round because the Communist group in the school had fallen through. "The headmaster told all the boys he would cane them, and they were frightened," explained the intrepid leader, aged 12. At Rhyl Street School, St. Pancras, London, there is a similar position.

Sisters Foil Pitfalls Of Broadway Together

Fay and Florence Courtney Avoid Perils of Player's Life In Pairs

New York City.—Fay and Florence Courtney have found a way to foil the ancient prejudice among parents against letting their daughters go on the stage.

Says Fay, "Simply take sister with you!"

"Then," adds Florence, "stick together! Where Fay goes, I go, and vice versa. It works like a charm. It even works almost too well. I have heard all my life about the pitfalls of Broadway, but have never seen a one."

"Nor I," says Florence. "Perhaps there has been some exaggeration in the home town papers anyway about the perils of a player's life—but even allowing for that, it may be that there are managers who make unwelcome advances and stage door Jangerins who insult the ambitious young girl.

"Only they don't do it to you when there're two of you. That's all we know. So our parents never worry. Moreover, mind you, we get our best results when we do things together. The biggest song hit we've put on this year, 'Sleepy Time Gal,' we sang as a duet. Our business and even love affairs turn out better when we both have a hand in 'em. Oh, we find the sister stuff has myriad uses."

ParisCelebratesMi-Carenne Crowning Queen of Queens

Paris, March 12.—The ancient colorful ceremonies of mi-careme, originated in the fifteenth century as a pleasant break in the observance of Lent, were revived in Paris yesterday with considerable pre-war gayety.

Parisians quit work at noon and, donning their clothes in varicolored masquerade costumes, hurried to the boulevards to watch the procession of twenty queens of the Paris districts and the queen of queens, attended by an elaborate court. A dense mass of people packed both sides of the long boulevards, completely blocking traffic.

Mlle. Izembert, who was elected elected queen of all the Paris queens from among thousands of young girls engaged in the various business houses, sat upon an elaborate throne surrounded by the queens of each environment in Paris. Hundreds of fantastically attired girls and young men followed in the wake of the queen, while numerous other floats, some an amusing satire on current events, continued the cortege.

After leaving the boulevards, the queen and her twenty attendant queens, still no floats, were driven to the courtyard of the Elysee Palace, where the President of France formally received them.

Last night Mlle. Izembert was solemnly crowned queen of queens at the grand opera, where thousands of persons in costume will dance until morning to the tune of fifteen jazz bands and orchestras. The students of Paris declared a holiday and had a parade of their own.

MYSTERIOUS VISIT. TO MILAN

Milan, Italy, March 12.—Forest Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany paid a flying visit to Milan last night. He stayed only a short time and left during the night, causing much wonder concerning his reasons for his trip. It was learned today that he was travelling in the strictest incognito and that he has returns die villa Rocabella, near Locarno, Switzerland, where he is now living.

HEALTH ESSENTIAL TO HAPPINESS

Without health, money, fashion or fame cannot bring happiness to any woman. Thousands who suffer from such ailments as headaches, backache, pains in side and nervous trouble are restored to health, and happiness every year by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This is evidenced by the grateful letters of recommendation which are continually being published for this old fashioned root and herb medicine.

Won Scheduled Fixture—Maroon Cripples Defeat New York

Montreal, March 12.—Montreal Maroons played a tottering team on the ice against the New York Americans and surprised themselves by winning 3-1. Nebedeay and Murray came out of sick beds to play. Holmes and Dunmore were unable to leave their rooms due to severe colds, while Siebert and Rothschild only came out on retirement of their teammates. The Maroon defensive had all the appearance of Montreal ward before the game.

In contrast was the gay scene in the New York dressing room, where Frank Boucas, former Montreal amateur, got now a rub with the Americans, was being noisily complimented by his teammates and many friends. Boucas became the father of twin sons.

At Toronto—St. Pats defeated Canadiens 5-3.

PROBING THE FIRE IN WARKWORTH HOME

Search of Ruins Has Not Disclosed More Than Part of Woman

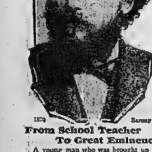

Inability to find in the ruins of their home more than portions of the back and breast of Mrs. Stuart West, who with her young son was burned to death, took Inspector Gourrett of the Provincial Police to Warkworth. The body of the child cannot be found, although men have been searching the ruins for the better part of two days.

Dr. West was found wandering around the burning house clad only in his night clothes, when the villagers responded at two a.m. yesterday to the fire alarm. He was unable to give any coherent account of the fire. All that he would say when found was "I did my best to save her," and when asked as to the cause of the fire, "I cannot say as to that."

Dr. West had been sleeping on a couch downstairs while Mrs. West and the babe slept in an upper room

BULL RESENTED CARESS Knocked Woman Down and Now Is Dead

Nelson, B. C., March 12.—"I went to put my arm around his neck, and said: Nice boy; let's go for a walk,' and the bull reared up and knocked him down. I can't understand why the bull should knock me down, as I have always been kind to animals," testified Mrs. C. Jacobson, of Deer Park, in County Court here yesterday, in a damage suit for $500 general damages and $350 hospital expenses, against William Schubert, of Deer Park, owner of a two-year-old bull.

From School Teacher To Great Eminence

A young man who was brought up on a farm in Western Pennsylvania studied diligently and qualified for district school teacher. Further pursuing his studies and teaching, he managed to save up enough money to put him thru medical college. After the Civil War, he began the practice of medicine in the rear of section of Pa., and often rode horse-back thru the woods to reach and relieve those who were seriously ill. He was a student of nature, who knew and could easily recognize most of the medicinal plants growing in the woods.

Later, he moved to Buffalo, N.Y., where he launched his favorite remedies, and, in a short time, they were sold by every druggist in the land. Today, the name of this man, Dr. R. V. Pierce, is known throughout the world. His Golden Medical Discovery is the best known blood medicine and tonic. More than fifty million bottles have been sold. If your druggist does not sell the "Discovery," in liquid or tablets, you can obtain a trial pkg. of the tablets by sending 10c to Dr. Pierce's Reach Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont.

YAWNING CRATER DRINKS UP RIVER

Part of Bed of Western Kansas Stream Sinks Five Hundred Feet

Sharon Springs, Kansas, March 12.—A yawning crater was drinking up the head waters of Smoky Hill River, a western Kansas stream, after a short stretch of water only 500 feet near here yesterday, leaving a great funnel-shaped hole.

Water pouring into the opening from the river and subterranean streams crumbled away sides of the cavern, until today it was more than 500 feet in diameter. The water was gradually rising in the pit, indicating that a lake may be formed.

An earthquake or a subterranean explosion of gas was the conjecture of persons in Wallace county who rushed to the scene, following the rumble and cloud of dust which accompanied the phenomenon. But as far as is known, the cause is not known, and no such earth disturbance was felt any great distance from the river bed.

That the river bed dropped into a subterranean cavern was the opinion expressed by Walter Shoewe, associate professor of geology of the University of Kansas, who arrived at the scene with news of the contents of his tomb, it will be re buried shortly in one of the smaller chambers of the tomb, and this will be then sealed up.

Owing to the fact that three of the enclosing coffins of gold will remain in the Cairo Museum, the mummy will probably be encased and reburied in an ordinary iron box. The massive stone sarcophagus will remain in its original place in the burial chamber as part of the ornamentation of the tomb for the delectation of tourists.

BRAIN TUMOR REMOVED

Operation Considered Triumph Of Surgery

New York, March 1.—Oscar Ficker returned to his home here today after an operation in Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore which is considered a triumph in brain surgery. A tumor on his brain, described as being the size of a baseball, and which in its early stages induced a desire to commit suicide by leaping out of a window, was removed. The operation necessitated the removal and replacing of a large sector of his skull.

Ficker, is 18 years old. A similar triangular sector of his skull was lifted by the tumor removal. During the operation it was necessary to inject the necessary air pressure to save his brain from shringe. The removed section of the skull then was returned temporarily until it was certain that the healing process was satisfactorily under way. Then the skull sector was reset permanently.

FARM CONDITIONS UNDER REVIEW

Hastings People Have Wood and Ice Away —Details

The following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

DUFFERIN—There seems to be a keener demand for heavy horses of good draft type than for some time. Some local sales for right good draft ters have ranged from $175 to $225 each.

FRONTENAC—The demand for fresh milk cows, that have freshened or are about to freshen, is real good, prices ranging from $75 to $100. Farmers are holding their stock of cows and consequently not many sales are being made.

GLENGARRY—Live stock generally are in very fair condition, abundance of feed with favorable weather. Brood sows have increased about 18 per cent. over last year but so far the mortality in young pigs has been fairly heavy.

The winter has been very fine but this week brought the storm of the season. The snow fall was very heavy and the wind very strong and it continued from Monday morning until Friday.

HALTON—The fruit men have commenced then pruning of their orchards. It is quite noticeable that much better methods of pruning are being employed each year. Small fruits vhae wintered well to this date.

Poultry thieving has become very acute in the country this month, many farmers complain of losing their total flocks. This has become so general to the country that some means of apprehending the offenders should be sought and the offenders vigorously dealt with in order to stop the practice.

HASTINGS—The majority of farmers have harvested their ice crop under favorable conditions and more ice than usual has been stored this winter. Farmers fortunate enough to have wood lots have a good year's supply cut and generally speaking the winter's work is in good shape.

KENORA—This has been an excellent winter for all outside work. There has been no extreme weather, with just plenty of snow for good sleighing. An excellent crop of ice is being harvested about 22 in. in thickness. Indications at present are, that farmers are intending to go in strongly for dairying. Practically two carloads of cattle have been spoken for, for spring delivery, a number of these will be pure-breds. It is interesting to note that nearly all of the farmers who got cattle from the shipment from the East last fall are wanting more this spring.

LAMBTON—The largest creamery in the county reports a fair increase in the amount of cream received this winter. The dairy cow is gradually becoming more popular on our farms. Poultry and the dairy cow are branches of our mixed farming that add considerable to the farmer's income.

LINCOLN—There is quite a healthy activity in the hog business. Young pigs are few in numbers at present and demand is good. Prices range from $14 to $16 per pair for 6 weeks old pigs. Killers are scarce and prices range from $13 to $14 per cwt.

PEEL—Strong demand for good sires in all breeds of cattle. More interest shown in the beef breeds and very few recommended sires of serviceable age are now being offered. This is a noticeable change in the situation of past few years and good Shorthorn bulls are bringing fairly good prices.

RADIO LISTENER MAY FORECAST

Weather Has Lot To Do With Distance Reception

Chicago, Mar. 1 —Distance radio reception forecasts not only are considered possible but data obtained in official tests made by a Chicago experimenter indicate that each listener, with a little study, can be his own forecaster.

Numerous factors were taken into consideration in making the forecasts. Prevailing weather conditions played a large part, with the temperature being given the most thought. Presence of the aurora borealis also was noted, and to it was attributed some of the poor receptions.

One feature was the fact that excreme cold seemed to have the opposite effect on reception than has been the general belief. Zero weather with clear skies developed the poorest nights. On cloudy, rainy or snowy nights conditions were reversed, with signals stronger and fading minor. Local static, however, was somewhat heavier but not of such a character as to be discreedable.

The best reception periods were noted as coming with stabilized temperature. Either a falling or a rising thermometer affected signals to such an extent that at times difficulty was had in logging an average number of stations. Predictions of reception based upon the temperature nearly always could be relied upon.

Static predictions also were based largely on the same factors. Here it was noted that a steady temperature seemed to hold down this type of interference. The same was true of fading, which caused signals to come and go at regular intervals.

"Blanketing", a phenomenon that tends to smother signals from all directions, appeared to be likewise governed. Whenever the northern lights were present, they intended to hold back signals, demonstrating that they must be given consideration.

Approaching and prevailing storms did not have the effect here, before considered a detriment to good reception.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT GRIFFINS

The dissemination of governmental information reached a higher official mark when the Bureau of Navigation announced its interest in a photodrama that was produced under its supervision at Ann-polis.

That photodrama is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Midshipman," starring Ramon Novarro, and will be presented at the Griffin Theatre Saturday.

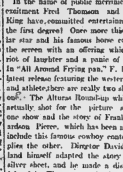

This is the first instance in which the U.S. Bureau of Navigation has utilized a popular form of universal entertainment to bring to the public attention the life, benefits of, and important work performed at Annapolis.

The task of picturizing "The Midshipman" Carey Wilson's well-known story, was placed definitely into the hands of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and Admiral W. R. Shoemaker. A whole production unit numbering at least 250 people were engaged in the filming of the story on the Naval Academy grounds.

AT THE BELLE

In the name of public merriment and excitement Fred Thomson and Silver King have committed entertainment in the grand manner. The screen's one-horse star and his famous horse come to the screen with an offering which is a riot of laughter and a paean of thrills. In "All Around Frying pan," F. B. O.'s latest release featuring the western actor and athlete-there are really two shows in one. The Allstar Roundup which supersedes all shot for the picture supplies one show and the story of Frank Richardson Peters, which has been made to include this famous cowboy contest, supplies the other. Director David Kirkland himself admitted the star genius for silver sheet, and he made a distinctive job of it. The new production will be seen here today when it opens a 2 day run at the Belle Theatre.

Beaded Bags—How To Clean Them

MANY of the beaded bags and purses which are in vogue this year are very light in color and also will suffer being carried a very few times.

And no matter how gorgeous such a bag is in the beginning, as soon as it becomes soiled it is no longer a thing of beauty.

It is really a very simple matter to clean these pretty and useful articles in perfect condition.

The necessary equipment consists of plenty of very soft cloths, some lukewarm soft water and a bar of ivory soap. Place the bag on a cloth laid out flat on a table. With another cloth dipped in water and rubbed over the cake of soap, go quickly and briskly over the surface of the beads. Rinse off the soap by rubbing with a cloth squeezed out of clear warm water. Try not to allow any more moisture than is absolutely necessary to sink into the fabric which lines the bag.

This is a perfectly safe treatment, which will not destroy the luster or remove the color from the beads, unless, of course, they are treated with a color which is soluble to water. This, however, rarely happens, and thus one of the very cheapest imitations of beaded bags.

And evening at the Arena the "Shamrocks", winners of Group "A" of the Intermediate Sunday School Hockey League demonstrated their superiority over the Tabernacle Sunday School team, winners of Group "B" by a score of 4 to 1. The Tabernacle team lost several splendid players, but teamwork and combination was lacking. Their goal-tender, Everett Dickey, was especially good. Those that took him were really hard, and twice he came out of the net to break up plays, and save the goal. The Irish six was due to their manner of playing their positions, and back-checking. In the first game of the play-off, the Shamrocks won by 2 to 1, as the group score is then by the score of 6-2. The game was handled by Frank (Pick) Arnott.

Pigeons Were Postmen in Old Ragusa

Cloak-and-Cane House Ragusa.

Seven hundred years ago, the pigeons of the Free City of Ragusa, in Dalmatia, were postmen. They carried across all the seas in boats, travelled with all the caravans, and knew all the routes of the air which brought them back to Ragusa. Like the sailors of Ragusa, they were known in all the ports of the world as a profession, they were made citizens of the Free City of Ragusa. Any person molesting or insulting a pigeon was therefore guilty of offence against the state, and was brought before the tribunal.

Homers were built for these pigeons in the city walls, and the streets and tops were filled with the many who entered at the city gates was obliged to offer as tribute his love-town two pigeons. These lived in wooden cages labeled with the name of their homes, and gossiped news of their neighbors until their time came to carry out a letter. In this way, Ragusa enlarged its postal system.

But the centuries rolled by, Ragusa lost its freedom. Battleships powers on the seas, Venice usurped its command up and down the Adriatic. With the other citizens, the pigeons lost their rights, and were forced to associate with the gulls from Lazzaretto, an island to the north, sometimes suffering the indignity of hanging grain from their birds with whom in the days of their seafaring splendour, they would not associate.

Today, the port of Gravosa, Ragusa's harbor, is crowded with ships bearing the new flag of Jugo-Slavia. Passengers from the Cypress of France, the Canadian Pacific steamships which next year will add Catalan and Gravosa ports on its annual Mediterranean cruise, will have a chance to scatter crumbs to the thousands of roving pigeons still crowding Ragusa's streets and adding to the beauty. The white city, "Queen of the Adriatic," some poet has called her, would be less beautiful if the little descendants of the pigeons do not make small splotches of color on the broad flagstones and the grey white buildings.

ONTARIO DEFICIT NOW REDUCED

ing everything on both shoes, the revenue was short one million dollars of meeting the road expenditures without establishing a sinking fund.

DEBT OF $219,000,000

Mr. Price said that the total debt of Ontario today amounted to $219,000,000. Mr. Price dealt in detail with the plans for the redemption of this debt and the establishing of sinking funds. The Government had adopted the instalment annuity plan to retire the debt. By this plan $1,462,311 extra money is required to be raised in the ordinary revenue to pay the interest on the retirements. Mr. Price announced that he would lay the complete plans of this debt retirement scheme before the House in a few days. He declared that it would enable the province to save $128,000,000 during the next forty years.

Mr. Price said that the special audits of Government departments were not yet complete, but already large movements had been made and money was being saved. Comparing taxation, Mr. Price gave figures showing that Canadians had a lower taxation than Americans. This, he said, was because of the heavy municipal taxes in the United States.

In announcing that there would be no new taxation, Mr. Price said the Government had been waiting for a turn in the tide of improved income and with a feeling that revenues would increase in every department. The decline tax had proved a very fruitful source of revenue, and he thought it would bring in $2,400,000 in a full year. During five months last year it had brought in $2,003,000.

ABANDON SOFT DRINK TAX

The tax on wines, beers and carbonated drinks he dont been an experiment. For five months it produced $275,000. The tax on carbonated drinks only brought $60,000. We have decided to abandon the tax on carbonated drinks," said Mr. Price.

"This is done partly on account of the small revenue received and the considerable difficulty found in collecting the tax."

Mr. Price, presenting supplementary estimates to the amount of $1,821,500 explained that there would be further supplementary estimates, but at present he could not tell what the amount of these would be. "Last year I estimated that the provincial revenue would be $46,000,000," he said. "The actual amount was $46,500,000. I am not sure that I can be so accurate this year. However, I estimate the revenue for the current year at $50,569,000. I estimate the expenditure at $50,555,300. This leaves a deficit of about $1,200,000.

"If we add to the estimated deficit of $1,500,000 the first instalment for the sinking fund for debt retirement, there will be a total deficit for 1926-1927 of $2,900,000. The Government in 1927 intends to put into effect the policy of debt retirement, which I will shortly explain to this House. The plan involves sufficient revenue to balance the budget yearly. The Government are anxious to see how this fiscal year will work out. If revenues increase, it will not be necessary to put up new taxation, but if our anticipations are not realized we will have to take under advisement the providing of new revenue," said Mr. Price in conclusion.

RETIREMENT OF DEBT

Perhaps more important than the review of finances was the treasurer's declaration of policy in the retirement of the provincial debt, which, he stated, had reached a total of $219,000,000, upon which the interest paid last year was $11,520,000. He plans by what he knows as the "instalment annuity method", to retire the debt in 40 years. The same system will be applied to all future loans made by the Government so that they will not be added constantly to the debt. Explaining the method, Mr. Price said: "In the annuity bonds the payments on principal and interest are so arranged that when added together they provide for the payment of the same amount each year during the "period of the loan. The result is that the interest payment in the first year is high and decreases to a very small sum in the last year, whereas the principal payment in the first year is low and increases to quite a large sum for the last year." Mr. Price illustrated by showing that, by the payment of $35,275 a year for 40 years a million dollars of debt could be wiped off.

The Hydro Electric Commission capital debt of $127,198,646 will be looked after by the sinking funds already established within that system and Mr. Price proposes to wipe out the provincial debt of $135,511,454 by the method mentioned above. To do this, he stated, he must have $1,456,311 a year from ordinary revenue. Therefore, the scheme could not be worked until deficits were wiped out, which would not be next year.

The provincial treasurer proposed to start the debt retirement in 1927, when he felt deficits would "be a thing of the past." He said that the Hydro was able to pay the province a sufficient sum yearly to pay off the debt on the campana Canal and the Niplssing systems in 40 years. "We now propose to live up to our obligations and funds will be set aside for the annuity system of paying off all loans," said teh treasurer.

Mr. Price also informed the House that a reserve fund would be created for the provincial sanitary offices and also for the agricultural development board, which makes loans to farmers. The reserve for the sanitary offices in five months already amounts to $19,267.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"Hallo!" he exclaimed; then, as he saw Constance, he removed the soft cap he was wearing and bowed. "You are a nice young traitor! What do you mean by keeping me waiting all this time?"

"I'm very sorry, Uncle Wolfe," said his young beckoner, with his mouth full, "but Miss Grahame wouldn't come, and so I said I'd wait for her."

"That's a full and sufficient apology," said the marquis, "but you might have sent me word instead of going on with your breakfast and keeping me cooling my heels in the paddock. You forget that I might be hungry as well as you."

"Are you so very hungry, Uncle Wolfe?" Constance said, and she down with us?" cried Arol. "He may, mayn't he, Miss Grahame?"

"That does Miss Grahame say?" asked the marquis.

"That the breakfast has nearly all gone, my lord," she said, rather coldly. "Oh, but there is some porridge left; I don't like it," said Arol.

"And I do," said the marquis. "For supper? What supper! Many a time I've been content to breakfast off a stale crust."

"I hate crusts; nurse always eats mine," remarked his little lordship.

"Give me some porridge, please, Miss Grahame," said the marquis. "And so you deserted me for Miss Grahame, did you, Arol?"

"I thought I wouldn't come without her. But I say, Uncle Wolfe, why did you eat crusts?"

The marquis looked up from his plate with a smile and leaned back, balancing the spoon on his fingers.

"Because I couldn't get anything better," he said. "I was in a rough, wild place where even crusts were scarce."

"How jolly—I mean how interesting —very," said Arol. "Where was it? Tell us all about it, Uncle Wolfe," and he leaned his arms on the marquis's knees and looked up at him eagerly.

"Well, it was in— Oh, that's a big story; I'll tell you some other time," he broke off.

"You have any wild horses there?" asked Lord Lanerbrook.

"Oh, yes."

"And with a sigh, "I wonder you ever came back, it must have been so delightful," and seeing that there was no more to be got out of the marquis, Arol mounted to the window.

The marquis's gaze followed him thoughtfully.

"Can you guess one of my reasons for remaining away so long, Miss Grahame?" he said, quietly, as if he had been following out a train of thought.

Constance colored faintly.

"No, my lord," she said.

"Because I thought that he was some one to take my place," and he nodded to the boy, who was hammering on the window seat and humming a tune.

Many a time I have thought of the old place, and of my mother." His voice softened as he spoke the word, "and I felt that longing for home, that strange kind of home-sickness, which they say the worst of us feel sometimes. And then the thought his come to me—what if it matter what becomes of you? There is one to take your place. You go and get your rest broken, as you deserve, and take room for the boy, your brother's child, to be the Marquis of Brakeyeare."

He was silent a moment, then tilted his chair back and leaned his head upon his folded arms.

"Poor little beggar; it's rather hard for him! He'd make a better marquis than I shall—ever so much better." He seemed to forget that he had a listener, and went on smoothly. "It's a pity I didn't get my neck broken, or wind up the music with a bullet; he would have done splendidly! There is no black record against his name—"

He stopped suddenly, and Constance, whose eyes had been fixed upon him, attentively, colored again.

He laughed and passed his hand across his brow.

"Don't mind me, Miss Graham; I'm given to reflection of this kind sometimes. Bend as I can comfort myself with the thought that Arol has a chance or two still left. There is plenty of time for me to break my neck yet."

It seemed hardly so Constance to remain perfectly silent, so she said, quietly:

"I don't know why you should want to break your neck, Lord Brakeyeare. You have so much of your life before you—a great title—"

She stopped abruptly, startled by her own audacity.

He looked forward and looked at her, his dark handsome eyes fixed on her, as if he were attaching an importance to her words far and away beyond their significance.

"You think so?" he said almost eagerly, certainly with something of earnestness.

"You think that even I may do some thing with my life, that I have so much of it before me? Oh, you, but what of that which is behind—the past?"

His face seemed to darken, and his voice grew very low.

Constance faltered with the breakfast cups, not knowing what to say, and she was saved the trial of finding words to answer this strange speech, for at this moment Lady Ruth swept into the room.

"Wolfe," she began, then she stopped short, and her glance, almost severe and vindictive, rested on Constance. "I have been looking for you everywhere; the breakfast bell has rung some time ago, and we're all waiting."

Captains of Spring

Tailored Suits with all their traditional smartness lead the parade.

There is, as has been said before, nothing quite like a suit, especially when it's Spring. They have a place all their own in women's scheme of clothes. And this year it is a very good place—suits are "high style". If you want a really stylish turnout for the new season you are almost sure to choose a suit—tweed, tailored navy blue, or ensemble, as the foundation.

Navy Blue is Welcomed Back

The "old favorite" is with us again and will be stronger than ever, or so advance style notices report. These new navy suits are tailored in every line, with notched lapels, three-quarter length coats—single breasted, many of them with looped buttons—and plain skirts. They are made of good quality poiret twill, the coats lined with silk crepe. Sizes 18 to 42.

$35.00

Another style in a navy blue suit is less tailored looking and more dressy—these suits have short coats, braid-trimmed, dainty white silk vestees and other distinctive style features.

$59.50 and $65.00

There are also some beautifully-tailored navy blue suits, with slightly fitted three-quarter length coats, for larger figures. Sizes 40 to 46.

Jaunty Tweed Suits

Wearing a very fashionable air, yet so serviceable are these new tweed suits in fancy weaves. Everything from "salt and pepper" patterns to large designs. Grey is a favorite shade, as well as fawn mixtures. They have short coats, patch pockets, some have narrow belts, and most of the skirts have side or front pleats.

MOON GIVEN LIFE IMPRISONMENT

B.H.S. STUDENTS SCORE TRIUMPH IN BARRIE PLAY

Well Known Satire on Upper Classes is Presented in Griffins

PARTS WELL CAST

Large Audience Manifestly Enjoyed the Performance

In presenting "The Admirable Crichton," last evening, the Belleville High School Literary Society scored a real success and the nine hundred persons who filled the theatre almost to capacity, enjoyed a real dramatic treat.

The story by Sir J...M. Barrie is too well known to be gone into in detail. It is a whimsical tale of a wealthy British family, the girls brought up in the lap of luxury despising the servants who they feel have been born exclusively to serve them—the men leisure-loving, highly educated, useless creatures who have a sort of divine right to be amused. Tired of the rameness of life the Earl of Loam decides to get back to nature and chargers a ship to sail the Southern seas, taking with him his daughters, a young cousin and two servants, the Admirable Crichton and Tweeny. Fate wrecks the craft and the party, thrown up on a tropical island, get back to nature in a most surprising manner.

Court Indicates Personal View Jury Lenient In Their Verdict Clemency Appeal to Government

David Arthur Moon was to-day sentenced to imprisonment for life by Hon. Mr. Justice Hugh Kelly for the killing of John McGie in Lattimer's drug store here on April 6, 1925. The prisoner stood erect in the dock at the military position of attention and never turned a hair. A moment later, apparently unmoved, he conferred quietly with Robert D. Macaulay, associate counsel for the defence, before being handcuffed and led back to the cells.

Moon's only hope of ever regaining his lost liberty was indicated in the trial judge's reply to the plea for leniency expressed by Moon's counsel and raised because of the prisoner's war service.

"While I repeat," said His Lordship, "that I yield to none in my regard for the men who saved us from possible invasion, it is not for the court to be swayed by any such consideration. Rather it is a matter for those whom Moon more directly served, namely, the government of his country, and to whom he must look for whatever clemency he might be able to secure.

A GRAVE CRIME

Justice Kelly demonstrated plainly by his address to the prisoner that he regarded the crime of which accused had been convicted with the utmost gravity.

Mr. Macaulay made an eloquent plea for his client on the ground of his years of service on the firing line in France and Flanders. Rising when the prisoner was placed at the bar, counsel said:

"My lord, in your charge to the jury you urged them not to be unmindful of considerations of accused's war service, and rightly urged them, I think. But now in the time when those services should, I believe, be taken into consideration. The verdict having been reached, will your lordship not remember this man's four long years, during which he fought for his little children, his little boy and girl, and all little boys and girls in this country, that they might live in peace and safety for the rest of their lives. On almost every war memorial in this country there is engraved 'Greater love hath no man than that he shall lay down his life for his friends.' I would enlarge that sentiment, my lord, and say it can be construed to mean 'Greater love hath no man than that he shall be willing to lay down his life for his friends.' Moon showed that willingness through four years of hardship and danger. I ask your lordship to take that into your consideration now."

THE COURT'S ADDRESS

"You have had a fair trial, Moon", said the judge. "You have been ably defended and it has been largely due to the ability of your counsel and to the lenient view taken by the jury that you are not standing before me now for sentence of death.

"It has been urged in extenuation that your motive was consideration for your family. Such a motive is often urged, but I seldom find that any consideration is asked for the families of those who are the victims of a criminal's acts. What of the young man, a fine young man I am told, against whom you had no grievance, and who was hurried by you unprepared for death. If you are to be believed your wife is a very undesirable persons, but you were warned by your friends and by the police officer, Trunisch whom you trusted yet you defied them and turned direct counsel. You had no intention of killing, but I can only conclude you acted very deliberately.

"You carried a deadly weapon in your pocket, you proved your expert marksmanship by shooting two men through the heart. Surely that could not have been accidental."

GENEVA AFFAIRS CALLED HOPELESS BY BRITISHERS

Briand For France and Stresemann for Germany Deadlocked

TANGLE TO COUNCIL

What To-day's Sessions May Finally Evolve Is Unguessed

Geneva, March 13.—Failing to reach a solution of the deadlock that has existed since Sunday over the re-organization of the League of Nations Council, Premier Briand of France, and Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, decided to throw the entire tangle before the Council, to-day

Foreign Minister Stresemann, angered at the attempt to place the blame on Germany for the situation, categorically declined to commit Germany to a policy that she would adopt after becoming a member of the League, while still outside. Dr. Undeh, Foreign Minister of Sweden, also refused to announce his stand on a hypothetical situation.

BRIAND THERE

M. Briand's statement that he had gone the limit to secure conciliation, brought from the German the charge that he had returned to his original position except that he now suggests a non-permanent seat for Poland and it was not necessary to consider Berlin's position.

The gleam of hope that appeared when Dr. Stresemann volunteered the information that Germany might not oppose Poland's entry even in a permanent member in September, vanished when the Poles and French refused to accept this. The French Premier indicated he would favor postponement of both German's entrance and the re-organization of the Council, unless an agreement is reached to-day.

SITUATION HOPELESS

The British Foreign Secretary declared that the situation is hopeless. He blames the Germans, but holds Sweden responsible for creating the division that irreparably compromised the League regardless of future developments.

The compromise proposal that Dr. Stresemann considered and rejected a provisional seat for Poland, was Lord Cecil's contribution and was forced out of Sir Austen Chamberlain by M. Briand when they realized that everything was apparently lost.

Sunday morning is almost inconceivable after hectic all-night efforts, during which both M. Briand and Sir Austen pursued other bids, appointments and other engagements.

ELLIOTT TO FACE STERNEST BATTLE IN W. MIDDLESEX

Believed Eliott's Defeat Would Mean Government's Resignation

LEGISLATION READY

Old Age Pensions Bill Printed—Appropriation For Hudson Bay Railway

Ottawa, March 13.—Members of Parliament start returning to Ottawa today for the resumption on Monday of the sessional business. During the recess, activity has been evidenced on both sides. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen has been been steadily, while Hon. H. H. Stevens has had the opportunity of going into the mass of evidence he proposes to offer to the special committee in support of his charges. There are hints of further sensational disclosures in the Government camp the "co-operative" agencies have been at work all the week, turning out legislation, and it is said that it is pretty nearly all ready. The old age pensions bill is printed, and the rural credits bill is finally drafted. The estimates of the Railway Department there will figure a large appropriation for the Hudson Bay Railway, which is one more of the considerations through which Progressive support has been secured. Other amending acts are very numerous.

VARIETY

The session resumes with at least the assurance of variety. The order paper is cluttered with questions, motions for papers and private members resolutions apart from what the Government will put there. A great deal of the legislation that will be proposed is extremely controversial, and some of it—such as the Hudson Bay Railway vote—promises to enlist the strongest kind of resistance from the Conservatives. If the Government survive, the passing of many of its bills through the House will likely call for closure, while, if progress in that way is secured the Senate will be on its job and prepared to exercise its penalty of legislation from the other House.

IN MIDDLESEX

Much interest is taken in the West Middlesex by-election, and the Conservatives propose to put up the strongest kind of a fight following their nomination on Saturday. Several M.P.'s are to go to the riding to take part in the campaign, and the customs inquiry will probably have a very conspicuous part in the discussion. A defeat of the Premier minister under the conditions that prevail would entail the resignation of the Government, leaving the supreme import once of the by-election.

The general sessional outlook can be gauged only in the light of what has happened so far Conservatives will keep up their bombardment, and they have confidence of being able before long either to compel the ministry to quit or else prevent it from functioning. In a way degree it will be dependent upon the conduct of the Liberal members, especially from Quebec. Apparently Progressives and Independents are content to look up to the Government. They are in control and getting what they want If this gulling fact should create among the Liberal following an unrest of which there are already symptoms, only a very slight defection would be necessary to accomplish the rout of the Government.

William Duff, M.P. for Lunenburg, will be proposed for deputy Speaker of the House if he will accept it.

MAY SUCCEED COL. COCKSHUTT

Senator Hardy's Seat In That Event Open for Mr. Graham

Toronto, March 13.—Senator Arthur C. Hardy, of Brockville, Ont., may succeed Colonel Henry Cockshutt as Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, says an Ottawa despatch to the Toronto Telegram, which goes on to say that, in that contingency, Right Hon. George P. Graham will be appointed to the Senate. Colonel Cockshutt's term expires next September.

HOGG ACTION IS DISMISSED

Jury Named $250 As Damages If Negligence Had Been Found

In the case of Hogg vs. Potter an action for damages to plaintiff arising out of a runaway in Belleville on January 3rd, 1925, the action was dismissed with costs. In one of the questions submitted to the jury as to what they considered would be fair damages had they found negligence the answer was $250. This would be the amount mentioned were the case appealed which may possibly not be the case. R. D. Macaulay and D. C. Donnan for plaintiff; Ponton and Ponton for defendant, with Major Ponton acting in the case.

REDUCE CHARGE AGAINST WOMAN

Mrs. Dwyer Lxke Her Husband Now Faces Neglect Commitment

Peterboro, March 12.—Instances of ill-treatment of the Dwyer children were related by Kathleen Dwyer, 10-year-old sister of John Dwyer, 12 years old, when she was called as the first witness in the preliminary hearing of a charge of manslaughter against Mrs. Mary Dwyer which was later reduced to one of neglect. The girl told of having seen her step-mother "beating John with a pail, about as thick as your thumb."

Kathleen also told of one occasion that summer when the children had come home from berry-picking. She said the father, George Dwyer, who was previously committed for trial for neglect," had kicked John and knocked him over, so that his head was struck on a stone and when John got up his face was bleeding. John had seemed stupid, as though he did not know what he was doing.

On many occasions she had not enough to eat, the girl said. She testified that her father was worse when he returned from service overseas. "All of us were frightened of him," she said.

Nellie, 13-year-old sister of the dead boy, also stated that at times she had not had enough to eat. She did not know if the others had.

Mrs. Dwyer broke down as Kathleen told of the work of the household and said that her stepmother had a hard life, being compelled to chop wood and to carry water for them.

Mrs. Mary Dwyer was committed for trial on the charge of neglect.

RANEY TRACKING SOME OF LEGALS IN BOND SCANDAL

Says Some Paid "Rural Canada" For Conservative Advertisement

RAN 175,000 EDITION

Issued Carried Pictures Of Sir W. Hearst and Hartley Dewart

Toronto, March 13.—The Public Accounts Committee of the Ontario Legislature, heard W. E. Raney, Progressive leader, declare that he was tracking some of the "legals," or thousand-dollar bills, which figured prominently in provincial bond scandals of a few years ago. Mr. Raney said that a publication known as "Rural Canada" in 1919 published an advertisement for which a Conservative association paid $6,000, and that the payment was in the form of two of these legals, and one $500-bill, and a cheque for the remainder.

A. W. Gray (Conservative Leeds) and W. Finlayson (Conservative, Simcoe) objected to the committee hearing this new question, and Mr. Raney agreed to leave his motion call, to get certain witnesses, over to the next meeting.

A large number of motions were put on concerning the relations of the Lyons Fuel and Supply Company to Government contractors and others. The former Minister of Lands and Forests, James Lyons, M.L.A., who has resigned in president of the company. A motion by W. Finlayson that a firm of chartered accountants be retained to investigate the company's accounts, so far as they relate to Government work was carried.

Mr. Finlayson introduced a motion calling Mr. Lyons as a witness for the next meeting, together with a number of other witnesses.

The committee passed a motion by R. H. Kemp (Progressive, Lincoln) that George Oakley, member for the Riverdale division of Toronto, be called before the committee to testify regarding the contract for the Government printing administration.

Albert Nash, special auditor, who has been working on Government documents, will also be called to give evidence concerning his audits.

HEARST AND DEWART

Mr. Raney, in explaining his motion, said he proposed to show that a publication called "Rural Canada" was paid $5,000 for a special edition which carried large pictures of Sir William Hearst and Hartley Dewart prior to the 1919 campaign.

Mr. Raney continued by reading the Queen's Printer's estimate of Sir William Hearst and Mr. Dewart, the former being liberally praised and the other being termed "a great promiser."

"I propose to show that a special edition of 175,000 copies was got out under contract, by this magazine with the Conservative Association," stated Mr. Raney. "The payment of $5,000 was made partly in bonds and partly in smaller bills. Two legals of $1,000 were paid over, $500 in cash and part by cheque."

A members of the committee asked if it was suggested the Government had anything to do with the matter.

Mr. Raney: "No, it is merely suggested that the legals came from the same place as those that found their way into the bank account of Peter Smith in Stratford, for which Mr. Smith is now serving time in Kingston. These legals are very rarely in circulation, being used almost entirely by the banks in straightening their clearances at the end of the day."

Following some discussion, Mr. Raney agreed to let the matter stand over until next week.

RIGHT TO WEAR BRONZE BUTTON PROVINCIAL POLICE HIGHLY LAUDED

Toronto, March 13.—In the Legislature on Friday Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General took some time to explain that a wrong had been revealed by duns to a member of the provincial police operating at Sault Ste. Marie. Early press reports stated that the man had been wearing a returned soldiers' button to which he was not entitled, and that he had used the badge to re-organize and properly outfit Mr. Nickle explained that he had looked up and verified the war record of the man concerned. The man enlisted in Canada in 1914. He had done barrack duty at Stanley Barracks, Toronto, and early in 1915 went to Scotland where he enlisted with a Scottish unit, with which he saw heavy service in France. The medals to which he was entitled. He was allotted a returned soldier's button quite properly. Mr. Nickle said that the explanation was necessary in the House as Zone Sergeant Caldwell, Sturgeon Falls, had mentioned the matter in the Legislature.

Mr. Manson quickly expressed regret for his remarks. "I wish to withdraw anything I may have said about the man, as the circumstances are entirely different from what I took them to be," he said. "My information was based on the newspaper despatch which I read at the time, and which now turns out was wrong."

W. E. Raney remarked that about 40 per cent. of the provincial police were returned soldiers, and he thought the force compared favorably with any one on the Continent. Mr. Nickle also expressed appreciation of the provincial police.

KITCHENER TRAGEDY SEEN O. FILM AUDIENCE CALLS FOR INVESTIGATION

London, March 13.—The agitation concerning the death of Lord Kitchener, of fame in the Boxer uprising, of the Sudan, of the Boer war, of "The Retree," by Frank Powers, assumed a new aspect today, when a film entitled "The Tragedy of the Hampshire" was shown to nearly 2,500 persons in the London Opera House. The exhibition was what is known as a trade show, but among the audience present were a number of official representatives of the Dominions and several members both of the Lords and the Commons.

Powers has claimed that the British Government, if not absolutely guilty of sending Kitchener to his death, at least was guilty of the utmost negligence. He maintains that the Hampshire, the cruiser on which Kitchener travelled, was a dangerous old vessel and some of the crew had been suspected of disloyalty. He also alleged that the lifeboats were forbidden to try to save the 600 men aboard her besides the Kitchener party and that he has in his possession one of her boats in which Kitchener tried to leave her. That boat had been on exhibition in a large dry goods store in London, and Admiralty officials admitted the boat had anything to do with the wreck or that Kitchener ever left the Hampshire.

The film today was supposed to show what really took place in the tragedy. "The Last Post" was sounded before the shows and the audience was asked to stand in silence thirty seconds. Four of the few Hampshire survivors were present. Powers himself made an address attacking the naval officials responsible for Kitchener's transportation and everything was done to work up the audience's feelings.

Extraordinary scenes occurred. At the end of the film a resolution for a public enquiry was put. One man objected and it was not carried unanimously. He was greeted with cries of "Traitor," "Throw him out." A policeman was produced and nearly all the audience signed.

The Admiralty held a full enquiry into Kitchener's tragedy, but has always refused to publish the results in full, though it has permitted Sir George Arthur, Kitchener's biographer, and other persons with a legitimate interest in the matter to see the official documents.

KINGSTON BREWERY CLOSED BY ATT-GEN.

Kingston, March 13.—"I am utterly at a loss to understand why the Attorney-General cancelled the permit for the Lake Ontario Brewing Company at Portsmouth," said John F. Sowards, president of the company. "The order was issued on the 9th to take effect on the following day. It arose, apparently, out of the Smith's Falls case, in which it is stated that the evidence went to show that our beer, when placed in a higher temperature than that in which it is brewed, increased in alcoholic content. The magistrate, however, dismissed the case, and I am at a loss to understand the action taken by Mr. Nickle and the Board of License Commissioners."

Incidentally, John F. Sowards, who is president of the brewery closed down by Mr. Nickle, told The Toronto Star this morning that in the event of an election he would be behind Mr. Nickle, notwithstanding his withdrawal of our permit," said Mr. Sowards, who is president of the Liberal-Conservative Association. "I could be behind Mr. Nickle in the event of a contest. We are good friends and he would have my support if another candidate came forward.

TOO LITTLE BLOOD

The Cause of Nearly All the Everyday Ailments of Life

Too little blood—that is what makes tired and women look pale and sallow and feel languid. That is what makes men drag along, always tired, never real hungry, unable to digest their food, breathless after even slight exertion, and often feeling that life is scarcely worth living. The doctors tell them they are anaemic—the plain English being too little blood.

More weak anaemic people have been made strong, energetic and cheerful by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than by any other means. The case of Mrs. A. P. Foster, Bowden, Alta., is excellent proof of this statement. Mrs. Foster says:—"Some years ago I was very badly run-down. My doctor attended me for several months and then told me I had better go South to spend the winter as my blood was so poor that he feared I would not stand the cold of our winter. I took his advice and went to my mother, and as soon as she saw me she said, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are what you need." She got a box for me and I began taking them. I had intended staying three months, but at the end of the second month I came home a well woman. When the doctor saw me he said, "You are all right now, but don't let yourself get run-down again or nothing will cure you." Then last winter I had the influenza, which left me so weak and pale and miserable as before. Again I took Williams' Pink Pills and Dr. Williams' made me well and strong. I can gratefully recommend the pills for I feel that they have saved my life."

Weak, ailing men and women should begin taking Dr. Williams Pink Pills today and note the progress made entirely from follows. You can get these pills from medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MEXICAN STATES DIVORCE RIVALS

Guarantee Marital Knots Untied With Neatness and Speed

Tucson, Ariz., March 13.—Mexico seeks in bidding for foreign recognition, but not through the department of state. This time she is bidding for recognition by foreign citizens who wish to serve marital ties quickly and painlessly and who are willing to pay the price.

Three states—Morelos, Sonora and Chihuahua—have entered into reciprocal competition for the trade that brings in its wake a pleasant jingle of coin, and all three offer procedure and publicity enough to cause sleepless nights for divorce lawyers who practice in other climes.

None of the three states requires legal residence for divorce decrees of mutual consent. They only ask that provision be made for complaint. However, the provisions for speed vary with the state of Morelos "leading by a nose."

Morelos divorce lawyers point out that their state requires but ten days between the filing of the suit and granting of final papers, that no personal service is required unless the suit is contested and that legal residence is not required whether the action is contested or not. They also point to Cuernavaca, the state capital, as a pleasant resort city in which to spend the time while connubial knots are being untied.

CUSTOM OF READING DEBASED, CORRUPTED

Less People Read Poetry Than Those Who Follow Painting, Music

Princeton, N. J., Mar. 13.—Professor Morse W. Cook of the Princeton University Department of English, believes that "the old custom of reading has been debased and corrupted by dictation" and that "the great mass of pure literal or trivial writing makes it impossible to attend to the meaning or the nuance of great literature."

Dr. Cook, in the Princeton Literary Observer avers that the most conspicuous feature of poetry in the last two years has been its continued unpopularity.

"Though the number of readers and the number of poets might not be taken to indicate the fact," he writes, "it is probably true that the public which really reads poetry is smaller than that which follows intelligently what is being done in painting or music."

"The explanation seems to me to be that the old custom of reading has been debased and corrupted by a hitherto, excess and haste in consumption. There are so many words that the art of words has little chance."

STEAMER BEING TOWED TO LAND DRIVEN BACK OVER HUNDRED MILES

St. John's, Nfld., March 13.—A 24-hour long-drawn battle to save a valuable cargo boat from the perils of the North Atlantic in midwinter, details of which have been meagre, was evidently turning in favor of the rescuing craft this afternoon, according to a wireless message received at Cupids from Captain Mitchell of the Red Cross liner Silvia, which for a week has been attempting to bring in the disabled French steamer Kentucky.

At one o'clock this afternoon Captain Mitchell reported that he had succeeded in getting under way again with the Kentucky in tow, and, assisted by the Canadian lime-coastal steamer Sable I., expected to overcome the handicap of head winds.

He was at that time sixty-seven miles east of Cape Race. Over a fortnight ago the Kentucky sent out calls for assistance, having been struck in the ice floes while on a voyage from Dunkirk to New York. Several steamers answered the call and found the Kentucky with some twenty feet of her bows crushed by the ice, but still holding day and in no immediate danger.

The Newfoundland sealer Terra Nova made a vain effort to tow the steamer to St. John's and later the French liner Duguay-Trouin attempted to aid the disabled freighter. The Terra Nova, after making some headway, suffered minor damages in a collision and returned to port. Over a week ago the Silvia, operating a regular passenger service between St. John's, Halifax and New York, after hailing passengers here, set out to attempt the salvage of the Kentucky. After numerous disappointments the Silvia managed to take the Kentucky in tow and was successful in reaching a point only a few miles off the Narrows

COLLINS ONE MANAGER WHO FAVORS GOLF IN TRAINING

Chicago, March 13.—There are several pilots in the major leagues who cling to a belief that golf and baseball are, individually, excellent but, collectively, not so good, especially during spring training.

Connie Mack was one of the first managers to take drastic measures against golf during the training period. John McGraw stands pat for strictly concentration on baseball.

One of those who countenances golf bags is Eddie Collins, White Sox chief and himself a golf addict. Collins insists that all eighteen holes be played on the courses prescribed by law and not on the ball field or in the clubhouse.

The interim since the 1925 season has given the Sox manage additional reason for belief in golf. Drubbing a forty-yard shot for the green led Willie Kamm, Collins' third baseman, to the discovery that he possessed a voice.

Kamm has been described as the man who invented silence on the ball field. Bill Glenson, former Sox pilot, always contended that the player plus a sympathetic hot-corner voice, would be one of the greatest third basemen. The Scotch pastime did for Kamm what many a ticklish situation around third did not—made him talk.

Willie was playing a tight match in a foursome recently in San Francisco, and dubbed his shot on a nicklie near the green. Tense, he tried a tentative swing before getting set —and the mulligan flew deep into the turf, sending the ball ten feet or so and losing the match.

Kamm found his tongue, and the plunged into caustic and explicit comment on things in general and golf in particular.

The gallery was shocked. Kamm may have been, too, but he immediately dispatched a gleeful letter tell ing Collins of his great discovery.

The net result may be that the White Sox infield, last year a somewhat sedate quartet, will be quite a bit more noisy during the coming season.

STEAMER BEING TOWED TO LAND DRIVEN BACK OVER HUNDRED MILES

St. John's, Nfld., March 13.—A long-drawn-out battle to save a valuable cargo boat from the perils of the North Atlantic in midwinter, details of which have been meagre, was evidently turning in favor of the rescuing craft by this afternoon, according to a wireless message received here from Captain Mitchell, of the Red Cross liner Silvia, which for a week has been attempting to bring in the disabled French steamer Kentucky.

At one o'clock this afternoon Captain Mitchell reported that he had succeeded in getting under way with the Kentucky in tow, and, assisted by the Earquhar Line coastal steamer Sable, expected to overcome the handicap of head winds.

He was at that time sixty-seven miles east of Cape Race. Over a fortnight ago the Kentucky sent out calls for assistance, having been stove in by heavy seas while on a voyage from Dunkirk to New York. Several vessels answered the call and found the Kentucky with some twenty feet of her bows demolished by the seas with her holds dry and in no immediate danger.

The Newfoundland sealer Terra Nova made a rush effort to tow the steamer to St. John's and later the French Dogger Gerasse attempted to aid the disabled freighter. The Terra Nova, after making some headway, suffered minor damages in a collision and returned to port. Over a week ago the Silvia, operating as a regular passenger service between St. John's, Halifax and New York, after hailing passengers here, set out to attempt the salvage of the Kentucky. After numerous disappointments the Silvia managed to take the Kentucky in tow and was successful in reaching a point only a few miles off the Narrows at the entrance to St. John's harbor, arriving only daylight to make the point. During the night a gale blew up and the rescue vessels were blown back over the way, they had come near a few hundred miles. Captain Mitchell said at noon he expected good headway in reaching port, but hoped to make it soon.

COLLINS ONE MANAGER WHO FAVORS GOLF IN TRAINING

Chicago, March 12.—There are several pilots in the major leagues who cling to a belief that golf and baseball are, individually, excellent but, collectively, not so good, especially during spring training.

Connie Mack was one of the first managers to take drastic measures against golf during the training period. John McGraw stands pat for the concentration on baseball.

One of those who countenances golf says is Eddie Collins, White Sox chief and himself an enthusiast. Collins insists that all eighteen holes be played on the courses prescribed by law and not on the ball field or in the clubhouse.

The interim since, the 1925 season has given the Sox manager additional reason for belief in golf. Dubbing a forty-yard shot for the green led Willie Kamm, Collins' third baseman, to the discovery that he possessed a voice.

Kamm has been described as the man who invented silence on the ball field. Bill Gleason, former Sox pilot, always contended that the player plus a sympathetic hot-corner voice, would be one of the greatest third basemen. The Scotch pastime did for Kamm what many a ticklish situation around third did not—made him talk.

Willie was playing a tight match in a foursome recently at San Francisco, and dubbed his shot on a nicelie near the green. Tense, he tried a tentative swing before getting set —and the mildmannered boy into the turf, sending the ball ten feet or so and losing the match.

Kamm found his tongue, and the plunged into caustic and explicit comment on things in general and golf in particular.

The gallery was shocked. Kamm may have been, too, but he immediately dispatched a grieful letter tell ing Collins of his great discovery.

The net result may be that the White Sox infield, last year a somewhat sedate quartet, will be quite a bit more noisy during the coming season.

OLD IMPERIALISM IS GONE FOREVER

Replaced by More Splendid Idea of Real Commonwealth of Free Nations

PATTERN TO WORLD

League Commissioner Addresses Kiwanians of Montreal

Montreal, March 13.—Imperialism as preached in the 90's, that of the Motherland surrounded by devoted daughter states and dependencies, has gone, never to return.

So declared Robert A. O'Brien, of London, England, a nephew of the late Lord Northcliffe, special commissioner of the Overseas League now touring Canada to increase interest in the league, who addressed the Kiwanis Club in the Windsor Hotel.

Drawing attention to various aspects of the Overseas League in his address to the club, Mr. O'Brien said:

"The Overseas League does not stand for the old kind of Imperialism as preached in the '90's, a Motherland surrounded by devoted daughter states and dependencies. That is gone, never to return. But the league stands for that which has taken its place, and which is surely far more splendid—a real British commonwealth of free nations with complete local autonomy, but co-operating together for the good of mankind.

BEACON TO THE WORLD

"It stands for a better understanding between the different parts of this great Empire. Its aim is to build high the torch and so to illuminate in its moments the idea for service, that in the British Empire of the future even more so than in the past, will be found the champion of liberty, the defender of the weak, the foster-mother of progress, a pattern and beacon to the world.

"The Overseas League is today by far the strongest patriotic society of the kind in the British Empire. Its membership amounts now to nearly 33,000 subjects of the British Commonwealth of Nations, scattered over the face of the earth.

PRINCESS ERIK IN N.Y.

Royal Couple Returning to California Chicken Farm

New York, March 13.—Princess Erik of Denmark, formerly Lois Booth, granddaughter of the late J. R. Booth, Canadian lumber king, prefers farm life a part of the time to conventional social activities. She said so when she arrived here aboard the liner Lithuania, en route to the hidden farm of her husband, Prince Erik, first cousin of King Christian. The farm is at Arcadia, California, near Los Angeles, and the royal couple expect to proceed there almost immediately.

The Prince, on disembarking, said he would rather raise chickens than anything else. He is already the owner of 5,000 of them and he declared he expected to add to this number greatly.

PITTSBURG IN LEAD

B. H. S. STUDENTS SCORE TRIUMPH

THE ADMIRABLE CRICHTON

On the island, Crichton, the butler, proves himself to be the only real man in the party, assumes the leadership, and real worth and ingenuity command respect rather than noble birth and wealth. Under Crichton's directorship the desert Island is turned into a little spot and Crichton is the governor. Petted and spoiled, the Earl's children and guests are transformed into real men and women and they like it and when the climax of the play is reached, Crichton signalling a passing ship, Lady Mary Lasenby, who has fallen in love with him, bids him not to refrain from thus transferring them back to the plain atmosphere of society life, but secretly the signal is given, however, Crichton reassumes his rank of servant and the party return to civilization, back to the old standards of living, and Tweeney wins out by marrying the condescending Crichton.

THE CAST.

Lawrence Wray as Honorable Ernest Woolley, was extremely clever depicting the role of a favorite of the ladies most faithfully and displaying real humor.

Percy T. Cole in the title role not only possessed the ideal physique for that part, but was equal to all elevations, very easy, very convincing throughout the action of the play.

Marjorie Hudgins was charming as Lady Agatha Lasenby, Carol MacArthur made an ideal student English girl, beautiful to look at.

Miss Alice McIntosh in the role of Lady Mary Lasenby, a part which required some clever acting, was equal adequate for every demand made upon her.

George Fitzkinen, the young cursist, newly appointed to a good living was exceedingly good, Mac Farrell as the Earl of Loam was equally clever while Murray Rowland gave a most intelligent interpretation of the difficult part of Lord Brockhurst—a man with a host of good points, but too lazy to use them.

Marion Ketcheson filled the role of Mrs. Perkins, the housekeeper, admirably; Jack Robertson played the part role of a very French chef and a ship's officer splendidly; James Lafferty was an ideal upper valet, and Leale Pearsall brought down the house in his impersonation of a cockney man.

Grace Olliver made a very sprightly and delightful lady's maid, Catherine; Russell was also splendid in a similar role and Marjorie Hall was equally good. Harry Redfern as Thomas, the first footman, Roderick Palmer, the second, Olive Hamilton the second table maid, Louise Wallbridge the parlor maid were equally splendid, while too much cannot be said for the really talented manner in which Miss Dorothy Robinson handled the part of Tweeney, the humble kitchen maid. She was perfect at all times and invoked real sympathy for the class she represented. Wilfred Flower and Gardiner Daly as Odds and Ends were sprightly and good.

The Countess of Brockleburst, a formidable old lady who manages everyone, including her son, was acted in a most talented manner by Miss Ruth Cronk who displayed not only talent in acting but in the art of make-up.

ROSES AND A SPEECH

Previous to the finale, Mr. P. C. MacLaurin after thanking the audience for their appreciation of the play, presented with huge bouquets of roses. To Miss Young was due much of the success of the play, stated

ITALY HAS MUCH TO EXPLAIN

That Premier Mussolini should be striving to organize the Balkans into an anti-German bloc need astonish no one. The effort springs logically from the South Tyrol row. But Italian diplomacy will have some hard nuts to crack before its proposed task is done. To begin with Jugoslavia and Greece will doubtless first have to be convinced that the alleged German menace is really more ominous to them than the menace of Italian imperialism. Despite all efforts at an understanding, the Serbs and Southern Slavs seem unable to forget Fiume, Trieste and the Dalmatian coast which Italy appropriated.

Similarly, Greece remembers the Corfu incident; nor is she very successfully concealing her anxiety over Italy's ambitions in Asia Minor, long regarded by Hellenism as its own preserve. Even if the prospective allies are fully reassured concerning Italian imperialism, it will be up to somebody to arrange certain troublesome affairs as between the allies themselves.

Bagrade has kept Greece out of the Little Entente because Athens hedged about granting a further extension of rights to the Jugoslavs at the port of Salonica. To render the two countries agreeable bedfellows in a pact with Italy may require not only a good deal of outside medication (and-ife is at least doubtful whether both parties will accept Mussolini as a go-between) but also more moral pressure than the German bogey is likely to exert.

To be sure, the Jugoslavs are on their own account grimly determined that Austria shall never be united to Germany, whether the pretex for union be the liberation of South Tyrolians from Italian rule or any other. But the Jugoslavs still have their friends of the Little Entente and France to count upon in warding off the peril. Moreover, with such support they can do without placing themselves in a position of countenancing the Italianization of the Upper Adige—an awkward position, considering that Italy seems equally bent on eradicating every trace of Slavic Slav language and culture in the territories which Jugoslavia ardently hoped to get and which she abandoned only under protest.

Another thing the Balkan peoples may not readily understand is the abruptness of Rome's conversion to the German menace. Before the war, in the days of the Triple Alliance, Italy seemed placidly unaware of it. And since the war, beginning at the Versailles conference, throughout all subsequent diplomatic history, Italian policy went out of its way to give Germany aid and comfort, often contrarily to the interests of Allied solidarity.

REPORTERS WANT THE FACTS

By Observer, In Border Cities Star:

If you think a newspaper reporter is a nuisance, he probably thinks the same of you. That statement was made the other evening by the owner of a large Canadian newspaper during the course of an address to a group of Montreal business men.

There are a great many people who have an idea that the newspaper reporter is a sort of moron, who thrives on sensationalism. They never think a newspaperman is simply interested in the gathering of facts concerning the events of the day. They never think that the newspaperman is always willing to go more than half ways towards co-operating in putting over any big question that his paper deems of vital importance to the community. They never think that a friendly reporter can often help them considerably by publishing some little story about something or other in which the particular individual may be interested. They never think that the newspaper is as vitally concerned, and more so, in the prosperity of the community as anyone else. They forget to remember that the success of the paper, and therefore the reporter, who is the "front-line soldier" of the paper, depends on the success of the community.

These people, whenever they are asked a question by a reporter, always choose to adopt the "Holier than thou" attitude and sometimes try to be nasty. Sometimes the reporters resent it, but usually they can piece the pharasaic exterior and they pass the insult off with a quiet laugh to themselves. In every city there are certain people whom newspapermen simply hate to be assigned to see. These people think the reporter is a nuisance. What the reporter thinks of them would, if put in print, put this paper in grave danger of falling under the "Boivin Ban".

The good reporter always wants a story. That is his work. But he also wants the true facts and data. He is proud of his business and his paper. He never wants to write anything that is not absolutely correct. Fortunately most people appreciate that any they help the reporters. The others don't. They always claim they don't want to be mentioned by the papers. But how those same proud folks love to see their names in print!

PRACTICAL MEASURES

A story which comes from Rhode Island is a good illustration of the sentiment inspiring the various movements which have been launched from time to time to stimulate native industries. In this case, it is not a province, or rather state, but an individual firm which is concerned, but the moral is the same. A certain factory which produced hide-thread stockings was approached by its employees for a rise in wages. It was explained that business was not good and orders were coming in slowly. Why not try to get more business? asked the spokeswoman for the workers. The manager warmly approved of the suggestion and thought it would be a good idea for the girls to assist by wearing the stockings made in the factory. He went so far as to promise a 10 per cent. increase in wages to every girl who was then wearing lisle hose; but not one could qualify—for every one of the sixty was wearing silk stockings.

The moral of the story needs no emphasizing. Of course, these young ladies had a perfect right to wear what they liked and there was nothing wrong about their action on ethical grounds. But the manager gave them a practical illustration of the way in which declining business could be stimulated, to their own direct advantage. If Canadians want to pass up home products and buy something else to the detriment of local and national trade, they cannot be stopped from doing so; but the consequences are inevitable.

HOPE IT'S PERMANENT

If the Stillmans can stand their reconciliation the rest of the world should be able to; but it should only be on condition that their affairs henceforth be kept a private matter.

For almost five years the inconsequential couple have cluttered up the columns of the press to a degree that would be justified only if they had been the greatest benefactors of their race. They have had more free publicity than M. and Mme. Curie.

Of course, the public has been interested which may have justified the expenditure of woodpulp and ink, but their profitable use has been made of the knowledge thus broadcast we have had no reports.

Rather does it suggest the celebrated reply of Cherokee Hall when the Stinging Lizard truculently asked if the faro banker knew who he was. "I have from time to time," said Cherokee, "much useless information thrust upon me, but I sincerly don't recollect your name." Most of the Stillman revelations are distinctly in that category.

So let us hope they stay reconciled or else keep quiet about it. A scientist says the earth is going to turn into lava in 40,000,000 or 50,000,000 years; and we ought to be getting ready.

THE THREAT OF SECESSION

It is a pity that people in the Maritime provinces, imitating some fiery wheat-growers in the west, see fit to threaten to "smash Confederation" by seceding from the Dominion unless the grievances of the Maritimes are promptly attended to and remedied. That this is the best way to obtain redress of grievances is doubtful. It does not make for national solidarity. But in a young country like ours it is perhaps to be expected. The spirit of nationality is not yet strong enough to overcome the temptation to the smaller provinces to wring sectional advantages and privileges from the greater Central provinces.

Interesting evidence that the United States suffered from this experience early in its history is found in a recently published biography of Aaron Burr, the famous American political adventurer. In 1804 Burr approached the British Minister at Washington with an offer "to lend assistance to his majesty's government in any manner in which they may see fit to employ him particularly in endeavoring to effect a separation of the western part of the United States."

Commenting on this offer, the authors of the biography say: "There was nothing extraordinary about this, of course. A few months before, almost every Federalist in Washington had been to see Mr. Merry (the British minister) to enlist his efforts on behalf of New England separation, in which venture they were naturally expecting support and assistance from England. The idea of separation as a solution of domestic disputes was considered perfectly normal and logical, even by Mr. Jefferson himself, the guardian, ostensibly, of the constitution. If the obligations of membership in the Union became too irksome, if the federal policy ran counter to local interests—leave the Union. The west had been talking about it for years."

Perhaps Canadians also will get over the habit in the course of years, as our neighbors have.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Australia means to be white. Ontario must see that its newcomers are loyal Britishers.

Speaker Joseph Thompson of the Ontario Legislature seems the man for the job; he has the wit and judgment necessary and preserves a nice sense of balance.

The enormously important report of the British Royal Commission on coal is definitely opposed to nationalization, demonstrating at least that British Socialists know and unknown have taken another severe rebuff.

The plan to induce a fuller partnership between Employees and Employers is a sufficient step in that direction at one time.

If a field of live seeds 8 miles by four miles—32 square miles in elementary arithmetic—be converted into dead seals and then into coats for milady, (as indicated in a Canadian Press despatch) how many square miles of fur-clad women is the result?

Do the I.B.S.A. teach a second chance? We give you the Scriptures for an answer. "God will have all men to be saved (from the Adamic fall) and come to a knowledge of the Truth." "The Scriptures foreseeing that God would justify the heathen through faith", (not through ignorance). "The Lord Jesus Christ who gave Himself a ransom for all to be testified in due time."

These Scriptures prove that all must come to a knowledge of the "Truth" before they could be on trial for life. The Scriptures show that Jehovah has set apart this Gospel Age for the selection of "The Church of the first borns whose names are written in Heaven," (not "the second death" roll and that if any of this class fall away "it is impossible to renew them again to repentance." Heb. 6: 4-6. 10: 26-29. Those who do not belong to this class (and that includes all of the heathen the majority of Christendom) including most of their so-called religious teachers) will under Messiahs Kingdom now taking control of earth's affairs have an opportunity of proving their heart-loyalty to Jehovah's laws and return up to Perfect Holiness", to life everlasting on this earth then a restored Paradise, but no one will have life either in Heaven or on this restored earth without implicit obedience after coming to a knowledge of the "Truth" all others will go into the second death—extinction—not eternal torment. So we conclude that the Scriptures DO NOT teach a second chance for anyone, but one full fair trial for life for everyone.

ANGLO-U.S. UNION FOR WORLD PEACE IS CANADA'S WISH

C. H. Cahan Addresses Annual Banquet of N.Y. Canadian Club

PROBLEMS DISCUSSED

Quebec, Domestic Politics, Foreign Policy and Aspirations Chief Points

New York, Mar. 13.—"Canadians ever hope and pray that the British Empire and the United States may continue, but the cultivation of good-will, mutual understanding and conciliation, to co-operate in every cause which tends to promote and ensure peace and harmony throughout the world," declared C. H. Cahan, K.C., Conservative member of Parliament for St. Lawrence-St. George division of Montreal, in concluding his address at the annual banquet of the Canadian Club of New York, here.

Mr. Cahan said that while he did not feel free to discuss the "unprecedented returns" of the recent federal elections in Canada, the results demonstrated that Canada was resolved to conserve and maintain so far as possible, "its industrial independence of all other countries, even of Great Britain."

Canada's development in collegiate training, arts, medicine, law, engineering and in all the chemical and mechanical arts and sciences, were dealt with by Mr. Cahan, who said that despite the influences of American life, which had permeated social life in Canada, a Canadian nationality, politically independent of the United States, was the main object and ambition of the Canadian people.

CONSCRIPTION ISSUES

After describing the part Canada played in the Great War, the speaker said the most deplorable result of the war was the resentment that was created in the Province of Quebec over conscription, which he claimed had resulted in the retention in office of the present Liberal government with the aid of the western Progressives. The success of the Liberals in Quebec in 1921 and 1925 was not due to a division of political opinion upon fiscal and economic issues, he said.

"These domestic estrangements are, I am confident, only temporary" Mr. Cahan said., "The resentment in Quebec is rather directed against individuals than against the people of other provinces; and the western provinces are even now realizing that their permanent prosperity will be enhanced by inducing industrial enterprises to establish in their midst."

Mr. Cahan predicted that the Canadian people would conciliate and re-adjust their divergent domestic differences with a national spirit similar to that created after the Civil War in the United States, when there was divergence between the agricultural and industrial interests.

Canada's constitutional status, which the speaker felt was not fully understood nor justly appreciated in the United States was explained by Mr. Cahan. The Dominion's participation in the Great War led to a notable extension of her constitutional rights, which ended in her being representated at the Versailles peace conference and being accorded membership in the League of Nations, in which she had played a prominent part.

Since the war Canada with the other Dominions had acquired the constitutional right to accept or be excluded from the operation of treaties made by the British Crown, which directly affected Canada's international obligations and interests. She could also determine whether or not and to what extent, if any, she should actively participate in any foreign war in which Great Britain might become engaged.

NEW, PRESSING PROBLEMS

But the Dominions were now faced with new and pressing problems, which had arisen by reason of these constitutional developments. The question of her future ability to accept the obligations of the Locarno pact was now of grave concern to the Government and Parliament of Canada and Canada's future relations to Great Britain and the Empire would be determined by the action taken.

GENERAL BUTLER CAUSES ARREST OF DINNER HOST

Intoxication Charge Follows Report to Head of Marine Corps

WAS GUEST OF HONOR

San Diego Society Leader Says Unethical Action Is Unforgiveable

SanDiego, Cal., March 13.—Brig.-General Smedley D. Butler, who recently was assigned to the command of the Marine Corps here before the leave of absence as head of the Philadelphia police department, where he carried on a liquor and vice crusade, caused the arrest here of Colonel Alexander Williams of the Marine Corps on a charge of intoxication. The charge followed a dinner given at Col. Williams' home in Coronado in honor of General Butler, at which cocktails are said to have been served.

It was on the same evening that the Colonel was under the influence of liquor in the Hotel Coronado, according to the General's charges.

As news became public that General Butler had preferred complaints against Colonel Williams the former officer left for Los Angeles. Williams is expected to face a general court martial on the charges if he navy department carries out the intention indicated in the order of ar rest.

The dinner Saturday night, with Colonel Williams, now commanding the Fourth Regiment of Marines here, as host, was attended by almost all of the marine and navy officers in the city, it is said.

General Butler is said to have sent a report of the dinner to Major General Neville, at San Francisco, to be forwarded to Major-General Lejeune of Washington, commandant of the Marine Corps.

Rear-Admiral H. H. Rousseau, commandant or th Eleventh Naval District, in whose hands the case rested, would not state definitely what would be his next step in pressing the case, but it was generally known among officials that Colonel Williams already was arrested. He was not on duty at the time after 10.30 o'clock this morning, but was at his home in Coronado.

"What is your side of the case?" he was asked by telephone.

"What case?" he replied.

"The charges against you by General Butler."

He replied a moment then announced that it was against military rules to discuss any matters of superior officers without permission of the officers.

The charges by General Butler did not mention the dinner at Colonel Williams' home. But the dinner party is known to have been discussed thoroughly by General Butler and Rear-Admiral Robertson, when General Butler first announced he was preparing the intoxication charges.

The attitude of naval officers toward the charges varied considerably from the phrases "Oh, he is out for more headlines!" to a "Well if he wants to rob with an iron hand, he might as well begin now."

Other discussions dwelt on the propriety of a guest preferring a charge against a host. But the announcement that the actual charges did not mention the party at the colonel's home rather upset the discussion, and it immediately changed to one regarding the ethics of an officer offering drinks without first "finishing his guests."

Rumors that the big party, attended by both marines and navy officers, was not exactly in accord with the eighteenth amendment have been drifting about the city since Sunday.

It has been suggested in some quarters that General Butler's course will not prove popular in the army and naval social set here.

"His unethical action toward the host of a party where he was guest of honor is unforgiveable," was the comment of one society leader.

When a member of the International Typographical Union begins to lag behind in the swift rush of the modern printing industry, he may repair to the Union Printers' Home in Colorado Springs, Colo., to live the life of a "clubman" for the remainder of his days. How he pays for his home under such advantageous circumstances is revealed in the motion picture, "Home Builder's Keeper," which will be shown in the program of Griffin Theatre here commencing March 22nd.

Finotype workers left behind by the old printers who enter the Home. The best of food, comfortable quarters, clothing and all necessaries of life are provided for Home residents and in addition a small sum weekly, adequate for tobacco and amusements, is supplied by the International Union. Residents who possess savings or who have pensions from local unions practice thrift without depriving themselves of pleasure or comfort.

The Home library is one of the most extensive in the West. Magazines and newspapers from all parts of the world enable residents to keep abreast of the times. Lawns and gardens, covering a large part of the Home's three hundred acres, afford workers a sunny pleasure walks. The most famous scenic region of the Rocky Mountains is only a few minutes distant by street car. Croquet courts provide outdoor recreation. Many interesting excursions are conducted back into the mountains and over the plains of prehistoric animals. The retired printer finds it possible to live in comfort in the Colorado Springs district, for living in mountain climates offers a positive attractive to many of the old timers.

Books, card game, pictures, chess, the radio, strolls in the gardens, rides over the mountains and excursions of prehistoric animals the retired printer finds it possible to live pleasantly and have served in pro- homes in, preference to residing at fessional capacities. The tuberculosis sanatorium at the Printers' Home is said to be one of the finest and best equipped in the world. Specialists on the hospital staff have been encouraged to investigate every method for treating especially diseases to which printers are susceptible because of the nature of their work. Facilities for treating other diseases are also provided. The capacity of the hospital was increased recently by more than fifty beds.

The Typographical Union pays pensions of $5 a week to old members who prefer to remain at their the Colorado Springs institution.

She Escaped It by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Windsor, Ont.—"After the birth of my first baby I was very much run-down in health and the doctor said I must have an operation as I was suffering from a displacement. KINGSTON BEATS QUEBEC CHAMPS

Young Sons of Ireland were Fast But Were Badly Out-Scored

Kingston, March 13.—More than 3,000 fans crowded the Jock Harty arena here to see the clash between the Young Sons of Ireland, Quebec champions, and the local junior O.H.A. and provincial champions. Kingston won 11-6, score by periods being 5-0, 5-4.

It was the first appearance of the locals on home ice since their terrific battle against the North Bay Trappers, which they made hockey history in a ninety-minute battle in which they were three goals down at one stage and came from behind twice and notched the winning goal in the closing minutes of the last overtime period.

The Quebec Champions reported here, travel and hockey tired and sore after their gruelling battle in Montreal against the Royals which finished after midnight.

In their dressing room they were confident of the result and figured on their dazzling speed to outfoot and outscore their heavier opponents, the Ontario champions. They got a great cheer as they came on the ice, and when Referee Harold Mitchell called the teams together the fans settled back to see what promised to be a great battle between the two provincial championship teams. But it was at times mediocre hockey.

PITTSBURG WON FROM BOSTON

Pittsburgh, Mar. 13.—The Pirates won a notable victory last night over their chief rivals for the "short" season in the N.H.L. Race by beating Boston Bruins 2-1.

"HAIR-GROOM"

Keeps Hair Combed, Glossy, Well-Groomed all Day

"Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which costs only a few cents a jar at any drug store. Millions use it because it gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to the hair — that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions. Even stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is greaseless; also helps grow thick, heavy, lustrous hair.

Under the batting leadership of last converted into a pitcher, while he fame with the Baltimore Orioles then Dave Bancroft and Art Fletcher, two has frequently been used at first base, with the Boston Red Sox, before sellor former Lieutenants of John McGraw. It was as a pitcher, that he first gained ing record feats as a home run hitter. these clubs are convincing observers they will be stronger pennant factors than was anticipated.

RUTH HIMSELF SHOWS WHY HE IS GREAT ALL-ROUND PLAYER

New York, March 13.—Babe Ruth's prowess as a hitter has had a tendency to obscure his versatility in filling other positions on the diamond, in the opinion of the Yankee slugger himself. He has offered information which he believes should entitle him to consideration as one of the game's leading all-round players.

"If you could catch you would qualify for all-round honors," Babe was told recently by a fan.

"Catch?" said Babe. "Why, until I was eighteen I never filled any position but catcher. That was while I was playing at St. Mary's school, Baltimore."

Babe, always a powerful hitter, was

RUTH NOT HITTING

YANKEES WORRIED

Boston Braves and Phillies Judged Stronger Pennant Factors This Season

New York, March 13.—The failure of Babe Ruth so far to show anything approaching his old-time batting consistency in the training camp battles is beginning to worry the Yankee's followers. The big fellow's more ardent supporters feel that it is too early to become alarmed; that it is only a question of time before the Yankee star strikes his real stride.

The entire and highly-touted slugging cast of the Yankees thus far has not distinguished itself, judging from reports.

Tony Lazzeri, the coast league commander and infield candidate is playing second fiddle for the present, while Mark Koenig occupies the shortstop post, and Spencer Adams plays the keystone bag.

While these mournful notes are being struck by Yankee correspondents, report from the camps of other clubs which occupied second division depths in 1925, are more encouraging. This is especially true of two National League trailers of last season, and Boston Braves and Phillies.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

The United States liner Leviathan forms the background of many important scenes in Thomas Meighan's "The Paramount Picture, "Irish Luck." The Meighan company made both East and Westbound voyages on the Leviathan, en route to Ireland for location scenes.

The scenes of the picture called for several sequences to be shot at sea, showing Meighan, as a New York traffic cop on holiday, getting acquainted with life on shipboard, playing deck games, and falling into the clutches of a pair of confidence workers.

Several hundred of the Leviathan's passengers volunteered as extras and Captain Herbert H rsley appeared with the Paramount star in several scenes.

Lois Wilson is featured in the cast of "Irish Luck," which heads the bill at the Belle Theatre next Monday. Victor Heerman directed the production which was written for the screen by Tom Geraghty. "Irish Luck" finds the "good luck" star in a dual role—the finest portrayal of his screen career. Don't miss it.

AT GRIFFIN'S

Rex Beach's thrilling novel of the Alaskan gold rush has finally been brought to the screen. Frank Lloyd, who gave us "The Sea Hawk" and other fine screen dramatics as the producer as well as director, with First National. It opens at the G riffins Theatre Mon. Tues., and Wed.

Dealing with the romance and the struggle that was the gold rush to the Klondike in 1897 and 1898. "Winds of Chance" presents the first accurate and big conception of the event that brought thousands of eager men and women into the Arctic to face untold hardships in their lust for the precious ore.

Beach has long held first position among the fictionists of Alaskan history days and in "Winds of Chance" his best known characters are brought together in a closely woven adventure in the procession up the Yukon to Dawson City and the gold country.

In giving life to the human epic, Lloyd has provided not only the most pretentious out-of-doors screen play of the past decade but the most truthful picturization of Alaska, during the four seasons of the year, ever brought to the screen.

VINEGAR USED IN NEW DRINK

Synthetic Alcohol Made as Cheaply as 50 Cents The Gallon

Philadelphia, Pa., March 13.—Vinegar, an article hitherto used exclusively by housekeepers is now being used in large quantities by bootleggers in the manufacture of synthetic alcohol, according to John Whitehead, an agent of the Internal Revenue Bureau. Mr. Whitehead says the "new" alcohol is made of vinegar, combined with two chemicals. These chemicals can be adds, are obtainable at any drug store and with them and the vinegar, alcohol may be made as cheap as 50 cents a gallon. No still is required for the process and, the agent says, there is no way to prevent the manufacture unless the bootlegger is caught with the alcohol in his possession.

BASEBALL GOSSIP

New York, March 13.—The following baseball gossip is gathered from the major club camps.

Max Carey will join the Pittsburgh Pirates Monday. He has been suffering from influenza.

If the batting stances of Johnny Hodapp and Rube Lutzke can be corrected, Cleveland couches believe the two will develop an infield which will hit better than .300.

Arrival of Adolfo Luque, Cuban pitcher, was the one bright spot in an otherwise dull day at the Cincinnati Reds camp. He is entirely recovered from appendicitis.

All the Detroit Tigers ordered to Augusta for training have arrived with the exception of Lou Blue, first baseman, and Emory Rigney, shortstop.

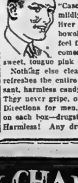

Chicago Cubs commence a three-game series with the Los Angeles Angels today.

He Davis, Bob Falk and Ted Blankenship are the only absentees of the Chicago White Sox regulars.

St. Louis Browns meet Brooklyn again Saturday. In the last tilt they but five to four.

The Boston Red Sox are handicapped by Fielder casualties. Charley Ruffing and Fred Wingfield have sore arms and Hal Neubauer pulled a Charley Horse.

COSTS MONEY TO FEED SIX-DAY BIKE RIDERS

Three Shifts of Chefs Employed to Prepare Food—Must Not Over-Eat

New York, March 13—Six-day bicycle race fans are having the first "sleepless week" of the winter at Madison Square Garden, while the riders who maintain the dizzy whirl live off the "fat of the land."

It costs approximately $100,000 altogether to put on this unique sporting spectacle, with the payroll of the peripatetic mounting to $15,000, but the item of principal interest is the food bill. It amounts to $3,500 for the week, an average of more than $100 for each of the 22 riders who started the race last Monday night.

Nothing is spared in providing those wheeled athletes the utmost in nourishment. Charts are kept of the amount of food, water and sleep they get. Their digestion, pulse and general condition are carefully watched, their gain or loss in weight registered.

Three shifts of French and German chefs prepare the menus. There is an abundance of expertly prepared food, will over-eat," says Charlie Stein, a especially selected to provide energy.

"Our greatest danger is that the boys former rider and once national amateur champion, who has served as chief steward since 1915 for the Madison Square garden races.

Stein lists the following as a "sample" of a week's food order: 300 dozen eggs, 600 steaks, 42 braces of lamb, 62 beef roasts, 480 pounds of chicken, 10 crates of grapefruit, 6 crates of oranges, 45 pounds of rice, 75 pounds of coffee, 350 quarts of milk, 40 quarts of cream, 310 loaves of bread, 110 pounds of butter and 600 individual bags of tea.

Such vegetables as spinach, celery, onions, peas and asparagus also form parts of the menus, but few potatoes are used, and only two pounds of flour are required for the week.

Sharing Stein's task in keeping the riders in condition is Jack Neville, the head trainer.

"Those boys drink no plain water during a race," Neville explained. "We have mineral water by the case, and they can have all the they want, aids their digestion.

"The riders are paid by the day, and it is to the advantage of each one to keep in the best physical condition. Only in case of a serious accident is a rider who quits the track before the end of the race paid in full," said Neville.

In addition to about $75,000 which is paid for salaries, guarantees and prize money during a race, all the care necessary to keep the performers in good riding condition is provided free by the promoters of the race. Tires also are furnished.

SHOT FROM CATAPAULT

Bark of 3-Inch "Blank Cartridge Which Did Trick; Like Salute

Washington, D.C., March 13.—Another stride in development of catapult devices to shoot navy aircraft directly into the air from the decks of fighting ships was made here recently when a three-seated amphibian plane was successfully launched in the face of a stiff wind.

Built at the navy gun factory here, the catapult was mounted on a coal barge which was towed into the Potomac River for the test and with engines roaring the plane swept down the catapult track and leaped into the air with a dip before it soared upward. The kick of a three inch blank cartridge which hurled the air cruiser on its way, sounded like a salute to a new mechanical triumph.

Style Reflections

Of Gloves and Hosiery

The new Spring suit is not a complete success without dainty new gloves with frilly cuffs. In silk and suede fabric these that have just come in are very smart looking. And when the streets are dry again, and we leave off those galoshes with a sigh of relief, the hosiery problem presents itself. As long as skirts remain short it is necessary that the expanse of silk from ankle to knee be not only presentable, but beautiful. The prettiest new tints imaginable make hosiery fair from the "ugliness" affair it was a few years ago.

Over, 700,000 motor vehicles now travel the Canadian highways.

Over 2,000,000 Canadians ride in these cars every day in the year.

Safety for this vast army of travelers is a national issue, and where safety is involved plain speaking is a public duty.

It is high time the public realized—as experts have long realized—that automobile bodies should be made of steel —not of wood or any other fragile material.

Indeed, it is one of the mysteries of this usually progressive Industry that the all steel body is not already in universal use.

It will be before long. Public opinion will demand it—as it now demands that railway sleeping cars be all steel.

For even a child knows that steel is stronger than wood —that steel will not splinter or burn—and that all steel bodies will stand up under impacts that would crush ordinary bodies to bits.

That is why Dodge Brothers pioneered in introducing the all steel body—pioneered again recently, in improving and perfecting it—pioneer, now, in urging its adoption by every automobile builder in the world.

The issue is plain—

Manufacturers must build safely if the automobile industry is to hold its present high place in public usefulness and esteem.

And the all steel body—as exemplified in Dodge Brothers Motor Car—is the greatest single advance in motoring safety made in the last fifteen years.

The car will continue to be a "." No reasoning buyer will be distracted from the issue of QUALITY by mere CYLINDER propaganda.

GOOD NEWS

Nine Extra Years of Life

HEALTH is improving — disease is decreasing — life is lengthening. You and your family have a better chance to live long and happily than people ever had before in the history of the world.

Splendid gains have been made in the United States and Canada within the last thirteen years. Stated in an insurance man's language, five years have been added to the average expectation of life.

But more encouraging — in the same period, nearly nine years were added to the life expectation of Metropolitan Industrial Policyholders — a gain, over the general average, of four extra years.

How was this done? — Largely through the inspiring work of our Metropolitan men and women. They sent trained nurses to the homes of millions of sick Policyholders. They fought disease and taught the well how to keep well.

Your Health in 1926

Use the helps offered by medical science to prevent disease. You need never fear typhoid. Inoculation will prevent it. Your children need never have diphtheria. Anti-diphtheria treatments will safeguard them. Smallpox will not touch your family if all are vaccinated when necessary. One by one, dread diseases are being conquered. In ten years the tuberculosis death rate has been reduced more than one-half. Five years ago the diphtheria death rate alone was higher than that today for diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and whooping cough combined.

Send for a Life Table

Have you ever seen the figures shown in Life Tables that tell the average life expectations for each age? While these tables may not apply to you individually, they do apply to the composite you — you and all the other tens of thousands at your age.

Send to our Head Office for Canada, in Ottawa, for a Life Table so that you may see how many years it allots to persons of your age. It will be mailed free on request together with a list of many free booklets prepared by the Metropolitan, covering the cause and prevention of almost every disease by which you are threatened.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company cordially invites all of its friends and neighbors to share and use the knowledge that is conquering disease and building longer, happier lives.

EXPECT TO FIND ELDERLY BONES

Neanderthal Man Had Ancestors and Chapman Is After Them

Providence, R. I., March 13.— Roy Chapman Andrews, explorer upon whom Brown University recently conferred an honorary degree, discussing his forthcoming expedition into the Gobi Desert in search of further evidences of the Neanderthal man, whose instruments were found in the course of explorations last year, declared he was "sanguine of brilliant discoveries that would make rich finds."

"We have found evidence of the stone age man going back as far as 100,000 years. This is the neanderthal man, whose bones have been found in Asia, Africa and Palestine. The discovery of his instruments in Asia gives us a beautiful migration route, the theory of which it is our purpose to prove by further investigation.

"For many years scientists have cherished the belief that the stone age man in Europe came in tribes from somewhere else. It was a theory with no facts to support it until our explorations of last year proved its truth so far as the existence of the same man in Asia at the same period is concerned.

"We believe that we have a hypothesis that there was a migration from Central Asia to Europe as the Gobi Desert gradually dried up. Now we wish to prove that hypothesis. We know from what we have found that we can read the whole story of the stone age in Asia. We are only at a beginning now, but in a few years we ought to make important discoveries."

"We have now reached the time when Mrs. Andrews will be willing to say that we expected to find human bones," said Mr. Andrews. "Now I thoroughly expect to find them, because we know that prehuman mankind did exist in this region. We withdraw again to continue our investigations, and are going to investigate the cradle of the late Pliocene and the pole out from wherein we hope to find the earliest stone of man who lived, but all of 1,000,000 years ago. We are meantime going into a new region. It is a region of arid barren, but we believe we can make it bear fruit."

EXPECTATION OF LIFE INCREASING YEAR BY YEAR

Interesting Facts Revealed by Metropolitan Life Company

One of the most interesting facts that has come to light recently is the news that over five years has been added to the expectation of life of the average citizen. Thanks to increased knowledge of how to prevent and fight disease has given to mankind five years more in which to live. In the case of Metropolitan Life policyholders the expectation of life has been increased nine years through the welfare work that organization has been conducting on a large scale for many years past. It is further interesting that the death toll from tuberculosis has decreased over 50% in the last ten years, while diphtheria, typhoid and similar ailments are gradually being eliminated by the progress of science. Over $4,000,000 was spent by Metropolitan Life in 1925 through various offices on this continent in health and welfare work among its policyholders. In Canada no less than 212,261 visits were paid by Metropolitan nurses to 45,574 patients among their industrial and group policyholders. Over two and three-quarter million pamphlets were distributed in Canada, some two hundred and thirty thousand being used by Health Departments, Social Agencies, Doctors and Teachers, who were very appreciative of them.

Mr. A. F. C. FISKE,
Third Vice-President and Manager for Canada, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

In addition to its direct work the Company has co-operated effectively with others similarly engaged. Substantial financial aid has been given to the Canadian Social Hygiene Council, the Canadian National Committee for Mental Hygiene, the Province of Quebec Safety League and to local Anti-Tuberculosis Leagues. To McGill University a special contribution of $25,000 was made to assist in Industrial Hygiene research work, while a generous subscription was sent to the University of Montreal in aid of a school of Public Health Nursing that institution inaugurated.

Metropolitan representatives aided in the control of twenty-five epidemics throughout the country, participated in forty-five health campaigns, arranged thirteen clean-up campaigns and seventeen health exhibits. A notable activity in Montreal was their action in supplying the children of some three hundred families with free immunization against diphtheria, with the object of giving the city health authorities a practical demonstration of the value of such prevention work. The direct result was that the City Council voted money to supply the poor with sera and vaccine free of cost.

The total insurance in force amounts to $17,097,266,792, on 35,229,304 policies, representing a gain in 1925 of $1,574,763,023.

COLOGNE GOLF COURSE IMPROVED BY BRITISH

Cologne, March 13. — Golfers in Cologne are jubilant. The British evacuation of the Cologne zone has left the Cologne Country Club with the best 8-hole course in Germany, and they layers are polishing up their clubs in anticipation of a big season.

Along with the requisitioning of 2,650 apartments, 52 hotels, 84 schools, 41 garages and two moving picture theatres, the troops in 1919 took over the city's one and only golf course.

Not satisfied with the layout, the golfers in the occupational forces improved the greens and fairways each year, put in a few more bunkers and added a water hazard. The course is now considered the classiest in the country, which can boast of not more than half a dozen 18-hole courses. There is talk of moving the German open Championship from Salzbrunn to Cologne next fall.

IF THE PRESS CEASED

Speaking on "Advertising" at the Stationers' Hall last night, Sir Charles Higham said: "If newspapers were to cease tomorrow, goods and therefore money, would cease to circulate so steadily.

"Shop would begin to empty. Warehouses would become congested. Machinery would become idle, and we should have twice the unemployment in a month that we have today."

He did not agree that newspaper advertising was dear and stated that the day of the circular was passing.—London Daily Graphic, Feb. 11, 1926.

To Help Schools in Rural Districts

The Trustees and Ratepayers' Association for the County of Ontario met at Cobourg on Mr. J. Pratt, President, presided and addresses were delivered by Mr. J. T. Bell of Cannington, and Mr. W. M. Morris, of Toronto. The Township School Boards Bill was the chief topic of discussion. The following resolution on motion of Mr. Wm. Bagshaw and Mr. J. Reid, was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved that we, the Trustees and Ratepayers of the County of Ontario, express our approval of the Township School Boards Bill, with the following amendments:

1. That Section 3 which states that "a township board bill consist of not less than three, nor more than ten members", be amended as follows:

"The Township Board consist of as many members as there are school sections in the township, giving one representative to each section, and that township having fifteen or more schools be given two boards.

2. That Section 11 which states that "all the assets and liabilities of the Boards of the several sections of the Township shall be vested in and assumed by the township board" be amended by doing that adjustments be made, to protect the interests of those school sections that have recently finished paying for new schools. The reason assigned for this amendment is that, as the Township School Board would naturally undertake to spread the cost of education equally over the whole township, some sections that have already paid off the debenture debt for new schools might be required to commence bearing their share, of the burden for new schools in adjacent sections that had neglected to keep their buildings in repair.

3. That Section 14 which reads, "the members of the Township School Board shall be paid for their attendance at meetings, etc., be amended, leaving it optional with the Township Board.

4. That the adoption of the Township School Boards Bill be left optional with the ratepayers of the township.

Canadial Boys Show Up Well In Recent Test

Toronto March 12—Reports on "Canadian Standard Efficiency Training" in Ontario indicate that the province has made strides in this work among boys during the past 12 months. The files in the head office show that there are 117 more registered groups than there were a year ago. The total number of boys enrolled in registered ground is 10,240 as against 9,163 of a year ago. The groups represent all of the evangelical churches and the Y.M.C.A.

The increase in the number of Train Rangers during the past 12 months was 968 and in the number of Tuxis boys 149. The figures show that there are now 5561 Trail Rangers and 4719 Tuxis boys in the province. These are actual registrations reported at the head office. Some groups have not reported.

The returns to hand in connection with the Older Boys' Parliament Bond Selling Campaign to provide for the expenses of the parliament indicate that their objective of $11,000 will be reached. A little over $9,500 has been received and reports from other centres indicate that at least $1500 is outstanding. This is the third year in which the boys have successfully undertaken to finance co-operative church work for boys throughout the province. Vernon Proctor, "Minister of Finance", in the Boys' Parliament, has the direction of this feature of the work.

For St. Patrick's Day

THE informality of the St. Patrick's day party will permit the game surrealisms given below to be played in a group of people of any age.

There is no person who will object to years enough to excuse him from the potato rolling relay race. Two sides are formed, and with a teaspoon a potato is rolled the length of a room and back again to the next person in the line, each one the new side has won. A second similar contest between two men, where a potato is rolled by pushing it along the floor with the nose is not recommended for every group, but is certainly amusing if two vain faces can be obtained to try it.

A peanut hunt is another test to the apple peeling contest of Hallowe'en time. The person who removes the skin first without breaking it wins the favor, which is of course something appropriate. A pot of shamrocks or a clay pipe ornamented with a green bow.

Children always enjoy the following adaptation of an old game. Some one at the piano plays matches of familiar airs for everyone to guess. But when the "Wearin' of the Green" is played, as it is at intervals, no one must call out the name—there should be complete silence. Anyone who answers is out of the game and must go and sit in a corner.

To find partners for lunch, matchdivided sections of familiar Irish quotations, part being written on one piece of paper the remainder on another. Among the short quotations which can be used are:

The Harp that — Once thru Tara's Halls
The Rifle — of Shannon
They're Inagin' — Men and women
The Wearing — of the Green
Mother — Machree
The Lakes — of Killarney

For table favors, pigs can be made of fat little green pickles with toothpick legs and tail, clove eyes and nose, and a bit coaxing. These will prove useful as well as ornamental, for they can be eaten with the sandwiches which are made of white bread decorated with green peppers cut into shamrock shapes.

For dessert, pistachio ice cream is always effective, accompanied by small cakes iced with green frosting. A recipe is given for a cake which can be baked in a sheet, cut into squares and iced with the green frosting.

Grasmere Cake

1 cup flour
1 tablespoon sugar
6 tablespoons melted Crisco
4 eggs
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon almond extract
½ teaspoon salt

Break eggs into bowl, add sugar and beat for ten minutes over a pan of boiling water. Remove from water and beat until mixture is thick and cold. Remove bowl, sift in flour, salt and baking powder, mix carefully, add melted Crisco and almond extract. Turn at once into square, greased and papered tin. Bake in a moderate oven, 350° F., 25 minutes. Turn out and remove paper. Cool and cut into square blocks. Cover with the following icing:

Business Efficiency Reduced to Science

Most people have heard the story about the window-cleaner who, having completed his job, received his pay from the lady of the house, who knew him only a strange man with a demand for his share.

"But you didn't do anything!" remonstrated the lady.

"No, mum, but I'm the gent as owns the washleather."

That story might not be true; but this one is, and the episode took place in Belleville yesterday:

Householder had the snow cleaned from her sidewalk. The job finished, the lady said:

"I shall have a couple of carpets to beat in a day or two. Where can I find you?"

"I'll leave you my telephone number, mum. My charges are forty cents an hour."

"Well, my carpets are about six by nine. How much are they likely to cost?"

Carpet beater pleated his brows for a moment. Then he said:

"They will be each one hour and a half carpets, mum."

Gas Officials Were In City Inspection Of Plant Is Made Ample Ground for Additions

Have affairs started moving in the matter of Belleville's gas plant renovation?

At a special meeting of the City Council held on Monday, October 6th of last year, after considerable discussion and investigation a proposition made by Mr. J. Handley Yates in regard to taking over and operating the gas plant here. The proposition as accepted in brief was as follows:

The company was to take over the Plant for 20 years and undertake as follows:

(1) Pay off the bank overdraft.

(2) Erect a new holder.

(3) Put every part of the system in perfect order as particularized by Mr. Wynne Roberts.

(4) Instal a coal carbonization plant.

(5) Supply gas at—$1.20 per 1000 cubic feet.

Covenant at end of 20 years to restore same, if desired, (together with new holder erected by the company) back to the city.

(1)	$ 50,000
(2)	70,000
(3)	60,000
(4)	170,000
	$350,000

A bylaw to authorize and confirm this agreement was submitted to the electors at the municipal election last December and was carried by a large majority. This was an evidence that citizens generally considered the agreement was one that was in the general interest of the city.

On Saturday last Messrs. H. Tully and J. Handly Yates were in the city as representatives of the company which has taken over the gas works plant. Their visit was a brief one but while here they took occasion to visit and look over the plant. Little comment was made by either of the gentlemen, otherwise than that Mr. Tully remarked that there was plenty of ground for the proposed enlarging of the plant. The gentlemen later left the city for the west.

NEIGHBORS SAVED DR. WEST'S LIFE AS HOME BURNED

Veterinary Surgeon Was Heart Broken Over Loss of Wife, Child

Warkworth, Mar. 15.—Members of the jury who will hear evidence at the inquest of the late Mrs. Dr. West and child who lost their lives at a fire which destroyed the home, are W. A. Kelly, foreman; John Lessenger, Frank Smoker, George Walker, A. B. Armstrong, Oscar Phillips and Elgin Edgar.

The property destroyed belonged to Dr. West who purchased it from Mrs. F. W. Garbutt of this village some time ago, the sale having been made by Mrs. Garbutt's brother, Wilbert S. Nelson, the cattle buyer. Dr. West had they late leased for some time before he bought it. The price paid for the home was $18000 and the owner carried a small amount of insurance. Mr. Nelson says that the doctor was a model tenant and that the late Mrs. West was an excellent housekeeper. Both she and her husband worked hard to meet the payments on their home as they fell due. For some time past the illness of husband and wife, Mr. Nelson says, appeared to be perfectly satisfactory. The doctor had built up a large practice and was successful in his work.

When the neighbors first gathered at the burning house they found a ladder up on the rear porch and some of the neighbors are of the opinion that he, too, would have perished if they had not come to his rescue. It seems to be settled that the fire started in the room that was occupied by Mrs. West's child, a child upstairs, the doctor sleeping on the lower floor. It is also said by the neighbors that Mrs. West's lamp was burning in her room all night and there are some who believe that the origin of the fire can be traced to this light.

The West baby was a cripple when born, both feet being deformed. Mrs. West took the child to Toronto several times for expert treatment and wasp lanning to go again in a few days, having been assured by the Toronto surgeons that after one more treatment the child's physical condition would be normal.

President E. W. Beatty in Speech at Montreal Kills Bogey

IN FAIR COMPETITION

Some Railway History made Public For First Time

Montreal, Que., March 15.—In his address to the Canadian Club here today, E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, made an important contribution to public understanding of the Canadian railway situation in that he outlined more clearly than he has yet possibly done the position taken by the Canadian Pacific and its executive head towards the general situation and the publicly-owned railways of Canada.

While frankly stating his lack of faith in the principal of public ownership, Mr. Beatty said that the Canadian Pacific was not now and never had been anxious to take over the other company lines, or any part of them, and that the Canadian Pacific was in no way chargeable with the desire or act to injure the publicly owned railways, that his company had met them only with fair competition and proposed to continue along such constructive lines, developing its facilities and business as the growth and development of Canada required.

Mr. Beatty vowed his belief in competition as a spur to efficiency and said that he did not now see the advisability of a railway monopoly for this country, whatever might happen in the future.

Both methods were tried and continue ton by the government failed while that by private enterprise in this instance succeeded. When later ambitious railway prospects failed because conceived long in advance of national or commercial necessity and were taken over by the government to prevent their physical dissolution, and to save the credit of Canada and Canadian institutions, the action of the government was variously viewed throughout the country.

NEVER MADE BID

Many accepted it as necessary, others opposed it fearing the consequences of the extension of the government into business on such a gigantic scale. But others unreservedly approved because they believed in government ownership and regarded it as a panacea for many of our trans-portation and economic ills. The amalgamation of these systems under the policy of government had not changed the views of a great many of our most patriotic and experienced financiers and business men. For the beginning the successive steps toward government acquisition of these properties was explained and justified by the heavy of the Canadian Pacific railway company. When the absorption of the Canadian Northern was proposed the people were told that the Canadian Pacific had never really made a very favorable bid for them.

"The Canadian Pacific," said Mr. Beatty "were not anxious to acquire, therefore had not made no offer of any kind for them."

Parliament was later urged to support government acquisition of the Grand Trunk Pacific on the ground that otherwise those roads would "be gobbled up by the C. P. R."

Head Of Beauty Parlor Sues Ex-Father-In-Law

COURT IS GIVEN MINUTE DETAILS IN DAMAGE CASE

Mr. Justice Kelly Dispenses With Aid of Jury In Deciding

WOMAN AS PLAINTIFF

Claims Damages From Father of Fromer Husband

Court was resumed this morning at 10.00 a.m. before Mr. Justice Kelly. With reference to the McDonald Bintery case, the verdict was withheld, as all the jurymen were unable to be present when proceedings began this morning.

McKECHNIE VS. ARMSTRONG

The first case to be brought before Mr. Justice Kelly was that of McKechnie vs. Armstrong. Mr. Mikel, counsel for the defendant, Mr. Armstrong, submitted that the case was not such as to be tried before a jury, but it was improper to try an injunction claim before a jury, in connection with the actual case. Mr. Justice Kelly then decided to handle the case himself with out the aid of a jury.

PLAINTIFF'S EVIDENCE

Florence McKechnie, plaintiff took the stand questioned by Major Pouton explaining to Judge, que ner father-in-law. She had obtained a divorce from his son, and had since had custody of her two children and had supported them. She stated that defendant, Mr. Armstrong, had, about a year ago, threatened to take steps to get possession of the children. A similar incident had taken place at a later date.

On Nov. 6th last, Mrs. McKechnie explained the defendant had appeared in Belleville. She had seen him in the Quinte Hotel and had been told that Mr. Armstrong was near plaintiff's home.

Thereupon Mrs. McKechnie stated that she went over to the Hotel, thinking it her duty, and asked him "What was the idea of appearing in Belleville and appearing near my home? She answered him that if he did not cease his attempts to see the children, she would have him arrested.

"What happened then?"

The next thing I knew, he grabbed me by the neck and threw me down the Hotel steps.

"What were the injuries."

"An injury to the collar bone and lips and bruises and abrasions being accorded by the man in a public place, directly opposite my place of business.

The Judge asked the jury if or it (in the evening) when plaintiff came, she stated that Mr. Armstrong had made slighting references relative to her character.

Following this incident, in police court the following morning, defendant had been fined $10 and costs to keep the peace.

Defendant stated that following the injuries she had received, she suffered a nervous prostration for some time, two weeks had been unable to perform her business duties. As a result she was claiming damages for the assault and also injury.

WAS HER DUTY

Mr. Mikel for the defendant cross examined plaintiff, who repeated that it was her duty as a mother to go over to the Hotel and question him. Mr. Mikel endeavored to show that previous to the incident in question, defendant had apparently been on friendly terms with plaintiff, and was obviously inclined, as plaintiff admitted, one who had to her knowledge never previously hurt anyone.

"Why didn't you write a letter or phone if you found him inclined to go line to the hotel?"

"Because I didn't want to expose my self in Belleville."

Mr. Mikel also brought out that the defendant had on one occasion paid $270 rent, when plaintiff and her husband were living together, although plaintiff maintained this had been done for the sake of defendants son, Mr. Armstrong, Jr.

Defendant had supplied later some $300 to help.

IN OTTAWA

Plaintiff started a beauty parlor business in Ottawa and defendant supported his grand children after plaintiff's divorce.

Mr. Mikel: "Was there anything unusual in a grandparents desire to see his children?

"I had severed all connection with the Armstrong family and didn't want him to see them."

Mr. Mikel's further examination of plaintiff endeavored to establish the reasonableness of the defendant (Mr. Armstrong) in his desire to see his grand children. Also, referring to the assault itself, that the chief hurt—and only hurt—was due to the fall from the iron railing (which defendant first struck) to the steps. Mr. Mikel endeavored to ascertain here if plaintiff had fallen to the steps after striking the rail. It happened that it was the front part of the body which had been injured, as had been the case.

Mr. Mikel—"What injured the muscles of your neck?"

"The stone steps."

"There were no stone steps there."

"Well, whatever they were, they were pretty hard anyway."

Witness said nothing to defendant on getting up, but had gone directly across to her friends.

Plaintiff had been present at her place of business the day following the alleged assault, but was unable to work.

BUSINESS FELL OFF

Plaintiff stated when questioned by Mr. Ponton that the receipts of the beauty parlor business conducted by her, fell off considerably during the three weeks following the alleged assault. This was substantiated by figures produced showing the receipts of the business, from October to December.

Mr. Mikel endeavored to elicit from plaintiff the names of any who might have been served during the three weeks referred to but were not served, due to plaintiff's injuries, but no names were forthcoming.

It was established that the total loss financially to the plaintiff during her three weeks inability to perform her duties was approximately $50.00.

DR. STOBIE CALLED

Dr. Stobie was next called to witness. Questioned by Mr. Ponton he stated that on the date in question, he examined Mrs. Kechnie, found a stiffness of the muscles of the neck and a swelling. The patient appeared nervous, and inclined to weep, that she had been unable to sleep and was disinclined to work.

Mr. Mikel—"How did you know that plaintiff was suffering from when she came to you."

Mr. Stobie—"She voluntarily kept her head unmoved and flinched when I sought to move it, and to touch the muscles of the neck."

Mr. Mikel endeavored to ascertain the possibility of witness having been deceived as to the pain alleged to have been suffered by plaintiff. Dr. Stobie stated that in a case of this nature, this could scarcely have been possible; five days after the incident. The witness had seen no external signs of injury. But he point

MUSSOLINI ALL KING IS IGNORED

Popolo D'Italia Extols Premier and Hints at Greater Power

REVELATION LIKELY

May Declare Himself Emperor—Fascism's Anniversary Near

Paris, March 15.—The National Jingo campaign in the Italian newspapers in the last few days is attracting more than the usual amount of attention. Thought active to be merely home-bent-heating to distract attention from Chieti, where the allegede murderers of the Socialist Deputy Matteotti go on trial Tuesday, the propaganda appears to be taking on a more serious aspect.

Premier Mussolini's personal organ, the Popolo D'Italia, writes: "It is characteristic of Roman imperial tradition that there has always been present in a great moment: inseparable chiefs such the Roman emperors and their armies, Catholic artists and our own Duce. These are immortal beginnings with vision, who have guided the nation, and in themselves have concentrated and are thus able to express its genius."

The Popolo goes on to show how Napoleon achieved greatness because he was an Italian. Then enlarging on the growth and power of Fascism and its expression in Fascism, the paper says:

"Fifty million Italians are reestablished into moral unity under a single chief, who in every way surpasses Mazzini, Garibaldi and Cavour."

And the Popolo is accused carefully to get the first expression of Mussolini's latest notion, it is comparatively late that the new movement centralises everything around the Premier, and ignores the King completely. What this process is not clear, but many do not put it beyond the Duce to declare himself emperor.

They are awaiting the seventh anniversary of Fascism, which takes place in a fortnight. If some unexpected turn in Chieti does not bring it sooner, a revelation may be expected then.

CUSTOM'S PROBE LIKELY TO GIVE NEW SENSATION

Ottawa Says Proceedings To Be More Startling Than Ever

HOUSE STARTS AGAIN

King to Take His Seat After Opening This Afternoon

Ottawa, March 15.—The customs investigation committee probably will prove more interesting than the House of Commons during the next week or two. It is learned that further information of a startling character has been forthcoming in connection with the smuggling situation and the liquor traffic.

A further element of investigation that will be followed is said to lead in the direction of the Government and has to do with suggestions that persons profiting from the smuggling business and the liquor traffic were contributors to campaign funds for the last election.

Although the House convenes to-day the Stevens committee does not resume its sessions until Tuesday. It is understood that Hon. H. H. Stevens has got together the loose ends of much of the information on which he based his charges in the House of Commons and will be in a much better position to push forward the inquiry this week. He has been busy through the documents in possession of the committee during the recess and now has the matter well in hand.

The Government has not definitely decided on a successor for the committee to replace Hon. J. C. Elliott. The choice appears to lie between W. F. Goudson of West Lambton and C. W. McPhee of Yorkton, Saskatchewan.

This will be private members' day in the Commons, the first since the session opened. There are more private members' resolutions on the order paper than can be reached this session, but two days a week, Monday and Wednesday, will be given to them for a while.

One of the ministers is responsible for a statement, that the main estimates will be presented to the House on Wednesday. Government business has progressed slowly on Tuesday and probably one of the bills framed in the joint Government-Progressive conferences will be introduced then.

Premier King is to take his seat after the opening of the House this afternoon.

P. E. Casgrain, chief Government whip, wrote members of Parliament notifying them of the date of the Premier's return and asking that they make arrangements to be on hand to give him a welcome.

If Hon. Charles Dunning gets an acclamation in Regina, he probably will be in his place before the end of the week.

SEE OPPOSITION TO PARK DEAL

City Council will Hear Both Sides of Story at Meeting

A regular fortnightly meeting of the city council will be held this evening and the session will no doubt be interesting. There are several recommendations to be considered and opposition is likely to develop in reference to the one that the city purchase certain properties on the north side of Pine street between Dufferin and McDonald Avenues for park purposes.

THE WEATHER.

Mostly cloudy; local snow flurries Tuesday—Fair; not much change in temperature.

ALL TRIMMINGS ARE TORN FROM GENEVA BATTLE

Plain Fight for Prestige Between France and Germany

SETTLEMENT POSSIBLE

Sabbath Brought No Peace —Solution May be Found On Eve of Assembly

Geneva, March 15.—The Sabbath brought no peace to Geneva. With thirty-six hours remaining before the meeting of the League Assembly which is supposed to mark the success or failure of this conference the French and Germans remain firmly in their positions. The German position is that they must join the council alone or they will not join the league while the French position is that the Germans can not join the council unless the Poles get a seat at the same time.

All the trimmings have been torn off the situation plainly now is a diplomatic fight for prestige between France, backed by England, on the one hand, and Germany on the other. Theoretically, one can find a great deal to say for the German position, in that it was generally supposed this meeting was to help admit her into the League and put the Locarno treaties into effect. Technically the French position, that until Germany become a member, the council is free to do as it likes, including the creating of a new place for Poland, is sound. But one wastes time in talking about legal and technical rights.

What is going on here is a fight for prestige between France and Germany, and there is nothing else to it. It is a trial of strength, the majority of the assembly is on the side of France, for while the delegates admit Germany has a very strong case and France has a case possessing weaknesses, they think it will be best for the League if Germany enters wearing the laurels of a hard fought victory over France. And there you have the reason for the assembly meeting Tuesday morning. If in the meantime the council somehow reach a settlement over the issue of seats the assembly will vote Germany in and the matter will be ended. If there is no agreement one may here and now take it for granted there will be a long series of speeches criticising Germany, with Germany not present to answer, and that thereafter France and England will not shoulder the whole blame, but there will be a whole list of nations blaming Germany.

COBHAM RETURNS ON LONG FLIGHT FROM CAPE TOWN

British Flyer Welcomed at Croydon After Great Air Voyage

London, March 15.—Alan Cobham, the British flier, arrived at Croydon at 4.45 o'clock Saturday afternoon, caughet ing his return flight from Cape Town. When, amid the cheers of a big crowd, he dropped from the airplane, he had completed a 16,000 mile journey from London to the southern tip of Africa and return, one of the greatest air voyages ever made. He was escorted by two big air liners which set out to meet him as soon as it was learned he had started from Paris at 1.35 p.m. and by a flock of small planes, one carrying Mrs Cobham.

Cobham came into view at 4.15 p.m. A great cheer went up as his plane circled like a homing bird over the airdrome and settled earthward. As Cobham, his mechanic and his motion picture men were then hoisted on the shoulders of the crowd, which surged about them, and carried them shoulder high in the airdrome, where Mrs. Cobham, who had waved a welcome to her husband from her plane over Seven Oaks, met him.

After the famous aviator's departure the crowd turned its attention to his plane, which has flown more than 30,000 miles in various journeys.

Interviewed concerning his flight, Cobham said that South Africa was the best country in the world over which to fly. Rhodesia, he added, was hopeless from the viewpoint of prevailing air conditions.

Regarding the possibility of an air service over the Mediterranean, he said: "You can wash that out completely."

DR. W. H. MILSAP IS DEAD AT NAPANEE

Napanee, Ont., March 15.—It was with a sincere sense of personal loss that the people of Napanee and the surrounding country learned of the passing of Dr. W. H. Milsap on Saturday morning, the cause of death being heart trouble and other complications. Deceased was apparently in his usual health until Thursday morning, when he had a bad seizure and Dr. J. D. Willoughby was called in. He found the patient's condition so grave that Dr. Clarence Howard, of Kingston was called, and the two medical men were in attendance until the end.

Dr. Milsap had a very large practice, and was in his office all day on Wednesday. Dr. Milsap was born at the family homestead, Moscow Township, in 1876. He was educated at the Newburgh Academy and the Napanee Collegiate Institute. For six years he was a school teacher. Then he took the course for dentistry at Toronto, and graduated from that college in 1903 with the degree of D.D.S., starting practice in Napanee. Fifteen years ago Dr. Milsap was married to Blanche A., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Williams of Shilley, by whom he is survived, also three children. Dr. Milsap was always much interested in the welfare of the town and country, and took a lively interest in sports. He was a member of the Masonic Order, of the Canadian Order of Foresters, of the School Board, of the Chamber of Commerce and of Trinity United Church. In politics he was a staunch Conservative.

Moscow, Russia, March 15.—War has been declared by Russian moonshiners on the government vodka monopoly. Since the government decided to manufacture and sell forty per cent vodka to the public, the state authorities have confiscated tens of thousands of stills with their own home-brew. Russian homebrew is called "samogon," it can still be had in the villages, but the peasantry ermment price for vodka.

The samogon moonshiners are operating throughout Russia. In the Ukraine alone more than 1,000,000 illicit stills from Cleveland continued their clean-

Agricultural Inquiry Committee Recommends Manitoba Plan

TO SUBMIT REPORT

Advantages of Co-operative Marketing Set Forth By Committee

Toronto, March 15.—The report of the Agricultural Inquiry Committee of the Ontario Legislature has been completed, and only awaits the signature of all the members of the committee before being tabled in the House. General expectation is that it will be one of the most interesting documents of the session. It will represent comprehensive investigation of the problems of the farm enterprise, which still forms the backbone of Provincial industry. Its entry into the Chamber, is tentatively fixed for this afternoon.

As indicated by the representations made before the many sittings of the committee, the agricultural is pressing problems, for the relief of which he looks toward legislative action and Government leadership. The committee has endeavored in its report to give a sincere study of the situations in the light of the facts as revealed. Prominent amongst the policies advocated are, It is understood, the co-operative marketing of cattle upon the Manitoba plan; the practicing of certain early and other fruits and vegetables by a tariff, and the co-operation in export marketing of the provinces under Federal leadership, or of the provinces acting together should the Federal Government not be prepared to act, or of the Ontario farmers acting alone should the sympathy of the other provinces prove impossible to marshal.

The Manitoba plan for the sale of cattle will be amongst the major recommendations of the report. It is of particular interest because of its success in Western Canada. It is one of the activities of the United Grain Growers which has been conspicuously successful. Its fundamental feature is that it is based upon an elaborate plan of grading, and its great recommendation is that it gives to the cattle raiser instead of the cattle dealer, the profit to be made by "reading" the cattle. Purchasers of cattle as a rule want them in car lots, uniform in quality, and cattle so sorted are worth more and will bring more money from purchasers than if sold individually or in twos or threes. Sorting is simply preparing the product for the market in the way purchasers will pay the most for it, and under the pool system this is done for the producers, instead of being left for the dealers to do for their own benefit.

FINN'S STORE DREW CROWDS

Poetic Message To Potential Buyers Was Fine Fine Success

The Finn Electric Store started passing on Saturday with their window display which drew home the need of the modern Electric Washer. In one window appears a grave, complete with headstone bearing the legend "Mother" hacked by an old fashioned wash tub. The following poetry explains the significance of the display:

IN MEMORIAM

Here lies the body of Mother Lusher
What happened to her you can plainly see,
She has gone to another land
From doing her weekly wash by hand.

This tub and bench beside her grave
Are just the great mistake she made.
She washed with this for many a year,
And that is why she is lying here.

Now what you see before your eyes
Is not many a mother lies,
Just take a tip from what is here
And do not wait another year.

Inside this store is on display
The greatest washer of the day.
If you have time just step inside
And you'll no longer quite satisfied.

One dollar down—see ad no more
Either the washer of your door
Tub-bench, tubs, and hamper too
Will, also, then belong to you.

In the other window a pretty little girl of ten years of age operates one of the last model "Beatty Bros." Electric washers without effort, fuss or noise.

Crowds blocked the sidewalks most of Saturday and while everyone got a good look from it, the message it carried was not lost.

Incidentally Mr. Finn reports the sale a big success—the difficulty being to keep washers in stock. Another rush order went to the factory this morning, the last washer in stock being sold Saturday and more orders taken for future delivery.—Advt.

ed out that serious external injury could have been possible lacking external signs. Witness stressed the possibility of pain being caused by strain apart from the actual contact.

BELL BOY A WITNESS

Hugh McLachlan, bell boy at the Quinte was next called and related Mrs. McKechnie's coming into the Hotel Quinte on Nov. 6th, hearing plaintiff's warning to Mr. Armstrong to keep away from her house. He told of Mrs. McKechnie turning and leaving the hotel door, followed by defendant, who he stated, pushed her as she went through the door. Witness saw Mrs. McKechnie fall then stated that Mr. Armstrong returned to the Hotel and warned witness twice that "he never saw anything".

Albert Hill, another bell boy at the Hotel Quinte also told of seeing the defendant enter the Hotel, address Mr. Armstrong, then of seeing defendant follow Mrs. McKechnie through the door and push her, whereupon she fell to the steps. He told of having been warned, together with the previous witness, to "know nothing about it." Witness stated that Mrs. McKechnie in address ing defendant had spoken quite loudly.

Mrs. Samuels was the next witness. Duly sworn, she stated that she was a partner of Mrs. McKechnie in the Rose Beauty Shop. Witness related having seen Mrs. McKechnie through the window talking to Armstrong, of having seen her fall to the steps after coming through the doorway.

Mr. Ponton—Did Mr. Armstrong say anything to defendant.

"He said he would blacken her name so that she would do no further business in Belleville."

Witness stated that following the arrival, Mrs. McKechnie had been unable to work for three weeks, her sight being unsettling, and the receipts had suffered, as the week Mrs. McKechnie did was their chief week, and could not be done by witness. Witness was asked by Mr. Mikel to produce the names of any who had passed during the three weeks, had requested service, and had been unable to get it. He was did not produce any names of such parties.

Mr. Ponton read evidence given at a previous date telling of Mr. Armstrong's movement or that day (Nov. 6th). He had gone to Mrs. McKechnie's home in the afternoon, had seen some little boys outside the house and had asked them if they knew of two little girls living there. He had gone to the front door of the house, knocked, but received no answer.

We had gone back to the little boys and asked them to tell the little girls their grand-daddy had called to give Melba—one of the girls—her watch.

IN THE HOTEL

Defendant had known of the granting of the divorce from his son. About 8 o'clock on the evening of the 6th of November, Mr. Armstrong had been sitting at the window of the hotel in question and that Mrs. McKechnie had entered at 8.30 or 9 o'clock. He had been intending to return to Ottawa that night. Defendant had told plaintiff that "he would see the children if he wanted to" and had been told "he would not". He had opened the door and told her to go out.

And what happened then?

"Just put my hand on her back as to help her out of the door, closed the door on the inside.

"On what part of the back did you put you hand?"

"You knew you could not legally place your hand on a woman?

"I never was called to defend myself in court before."

"What happened after that?"

"She settled down the steps quickly. My placing my hand on her back may have made her go down fast."

"Defendant had spoke to the bell boys on his return to the hotel. About a half hour later he had received a phone call and had learned there was a complaint laid against him at the Police Station.

"Did you go to Ottawa that night?"

"No, because Chief Kidd requested me to remain."

The large congregation remained and listened with rapt attention to the numbers as they were given the final one "William Tell" being perhaps never more beautifully nor brilliantly done in Belleville.

Saturday evening, March 13th, the Helping Hands Class of Bridge St. Sunday School, through the kindness of Mrs. Harry Roblin, Front St., enjoyed a very pleasant social evening. Mrs. Roblin gave a birthday party for Miss Kathrien Roblin and Miss I. Thompson, (two members of the class). About fifteen girls with their teacher, Miss A. Morton, spent the evening in music and games, after which a very dainty birthday luncheon was served. After thanking the hostess for her kindness, all left for home voting it one of the happiest evenings ever spent.

COL. PRICE'S BUDGET SPEECH

Provincial Treasurer Price, in his annual financial statement, presented to the legislature, was able to show a surplus on ordinary revenue and expenditure, but had to confess to a net deficit, though a reduced one. The surplus amounted to the respectable figure of $2,200,900. The deficit on account of excess of interest payments over interest revenues was over $7,900,000.

It is a satisfactory showing; and the Ferguson govern ment can at least claim credit for having first reduced the ordinary deficit considerably and then charged it into a surplus. It was $9,548,000 in the year before the government took office. In 1924 the expenditure ex ceeded the revenue by $1,573,000. Last year the ordinary revenue exceeded the expenditure by more than two millions.

Still there is a net deficit. And Mr. Price estimates that next year there will be another net deficit even with expected increased revenues, for he is preparing to make provision for a fund for the retiring of the provincial debt of $319,000,000, which will require an annual appropriation of nearly $1,800,000.

No new taxes are to be levied this year. Indeed, one of the provincial taxes is to be repealed—the tax on soft drinks. That is to be dispensed with partly be cause the revenue is not worth the trouble of collection, being only $80,000. The revenue from the tax on wines and beer has proved to be disappointing—less than $300,000. The reason there are no new taxes this year is that Mr. Price looks for increased revenue from the existing taxes on account of more prosperous conditions but he warns us that unless the revenue expands con siderably during the present year we must expect new taxes next year.

CAN COSTS BE CUT ?

The Hamilton Spectator wonders what has become of the candidates who were around soliciting votes on the promise that they would reduce the tax rate. Twenty-one of them were elected on that plea, according to the Spectator, but the tax rate in Hamilton is due for a stiff increase.

In Hamilton a house worth $5,000 is assessed around $3,800, and on the proposed 1926 basis of taxation the levy will be about $125 a year. Local improvement charges, etc., will increase this to around $180, accord ing to the Spectator, which means that a man pays $15 a month for the privilege of living in his own house. Taking his $5,000 investment at 6 1-2 per cent. adds another $325, and insurance, repairs, etc., will make his annual outlay not very far from $600. That is $2 per day for each working day of the year, a fairly stiff levy for the man who has only his wages on which to depend.

Is there anything better in sight? No, there is not.

City councils have learned how to spend money. The debenture plan had as much as anything else to do with leading them on. The people themselves have in many cases brought taxation on themselves through carrying money bylaws; in other cases they have achieved the same result by staying away from the polls when such voting was on.

As a people we are demanding more service. We have moved rapidly away from old conditions. In Ontario we have spent $95,000,000 on permanent roads; we have piled up an accumulation of debt which now amounts to $319,000,000. We have municipalities so close to the margin of their borrowing powers that they have had to have a straight increase in assessment.

We have depositions elbowing their way into minis terry and members' rooms at Ottawa, suggesting places where public funds can be spent or sunk. Other groups keep up an agitation for more millions to be poured into the construction of a railway leading to Hudson Bay without any confirming knowledge that it will ever be seasonally possible.

We have in provincial and federal governments many members who want work carried on in their ridings be cause it means contracts and patronage which can be turned into votes at the next election.

And yet we all back and howl that our taxes are high, that our living costs are high, that business tax is cum bersome and that income levies are a nuisance.

The plain truth is that when the people insist on ec onomy they can force economical management. When they learn to quit demanding services they can do without, they can have their costs cut. Unless the theory of responsible government is a useless awful myth, the people can have what they want if they are willing to get both feet on the ground.

VOICES ACROSS THE SEA

talk across the Atlantic developed an amazing cynicism, says the New York Times. "The better people know each other," said Mr. Harper of the London Daily News, "the more apt they are to quarrel." Trouble-makers were even then at hand. Eavesdroppers in Berlin made remarks for publication on "the perfect drawing-room tone" and the dullness of English speakers as contrasted with the eager restlessness of American accents. Ger man feminists declared that if they could only "catch the voices" of American women, they would be able to pull off a revolution and emancipate the Hausfrau. It is very sad. Yet it may be noted that the tactful French shamed themselves, or at least made no public com ment. They have a proverb worth a dozen of Mr. Har per's Shavian cynicisms. "To understand all," they say, "is to a pardon all."

Beyond question, understanding is broad among na tions. Progress from the mechanically stuttering dots and dashes of the Morse code to the instant give-and take of live voices perfect to the accent is only an index and an imperfect one, of what has been going on for half a century in every sphere. We live in a new world which as yet we dimly comprehend. The nations are held in touch by ties at once stronger than the electric current and more subtle. If we had "really under stood" the crisis of 1914, should we not have seen from the start that the war was "our war"? A few of us have learned that peace also is our peace, but the old spirit of isolation dies hard. Our representatives in Congress have lately acknowledged, though with mani fold misgivings and reservations, that world justice is our justice; but through wide regions even that gospel has yet to be understood. In material science we have gone forward amazingly; we have conquered the im palpable air, the imponderable ether. But toward that other understanding which pardons and aids to a more helpful living we have made only faint advances.

Many observers, and among them minds of the best, look to telepathy as the hope of spiritual regeneration. After studying it for a lifetime with keen critical acu men, Frank Podmore put a crucial question. Is it the beginning of a new faculty, slowly evolving, which will put us in close touch with one another and with eter nity? Or is it the vestigial remains of a primitive fac ulty that has been dying of disuse since the learned ar ticulate speech—the faculty that makes every worker bee and their queen a slave to the spirit of the hive? We cannot say with certainty that, even among insects, there is such a thing. Yet this we know: In the new world in which we live, our nearest needs and most sa cred fortunes, like articulate speech, have become tele pathic.

INEFFICIENCY EXPOSED

Scarcely in the best kind of advertising has been direct ed lately toward the county of Peterborough, with all the misery laid bare in the Dwyer trials at the Lindsay city courts. That same city and the surrounding towns and villages have all the equipment for "doing good" in the way of Children's Aid Societies and the like, yet conditions as exposed in the township of Dummer are revolting and for some reasons or other seem to be out side the power of these agencies to deal with, to root out. It is not a pleasant thing to contemplate that this sort of thing is possible in this great province of Ontario. Indeed in this very county of Hastings the Inspector of the C.A.S. has had cases to investigate which while not paralleling the Dwyer case are still very unpleasant. We are still far from the perfect; shiftlessness and ignorance and cruelty often are found together. The point is what can be done about it? It's a large question.

The Peterborough Examiner in editorial reference to the Dummer case which has attracted somewhat unfavor orable attention, lately brings public attention to the fact that whether the terrible stories of ill-treatment are true or not, it must be remembered that this is but one instance. There are, according to the latest census, 1,505 persons in Dummer Township, and only eight of them were involved in this lamentable case. There are in Dummer, several thriving villages, populated with citizens of the highest type. There are on the farms in Dummer agriculturists of hardy stock and high princi ples.

Evidence produced by the Grand Jury in 1916 indi cated that there exists in Dummer Township a tract known as the "bad lands" and it is here that unhealthy conditions are said to predominate.

If there is such a section, and the present case is not an isolated one, then the plain duty of the people, act ing through constituted authority, is to weed it out. If, within the bounds of Peterboro County there is a tract of land unfit for farming, where so low living conditions exist as have been told of during the last few days by reputable witnesses, then the plain duty devolves upon the people to insist that missionary work be done here at home. If, thirty miles from this modern city, it is necessary, in order for the parents to live, that children of tender years go to work in winter in the woods, mis sing their schooling, it's high time to find a remedy.

Not a sweeping condemnation and a holding up of hands in a "holier than thou" attitude is needed here, but a practical alliance of church and education, law and society, to eradicate the evil and make life worth living for the unfortunately situated people and thrice unfortunate little children.

THE DOORMAT AT NO. 10

Mr. Bernard Shaw has had installed at the main en trance of 10 Adelphi Terrace, off the Strand, a letter box with a slit wide enough to admit the Evening News writer.)

The doormat is impossible as a momento. A chain and padlock fasten it securely to the threshold.

THE FOUR WOMEN

I often wonder how the women members of Parliament "hit it off" in the little room which they have re served for their joint comfort on the ground floor (ob serves a writer in the Evening Standard.)

It abuts—as the auctioneers say—on to the Terrace, and therefore has a pleasant view. But, panelled cheer fully in light-colored wood, it is unsuitably—in view of its occupancy—adorned with etchings of eminent male statesmen.

There are four little writing desks in the four corners of the room. Now that there are only four lady mem bers this is quite satisfactory, but there were eight in the last Parliament!

DEATH—AND BEYOND

Between this Now and that Then there was the in terruption of Death. Thank God we can now speak quite calmly about it. It was not so once. Only a few weeks ago, whenever the subject was mentioned, one of us would either say, "Oh let's talk of something less dis agreeable," or else I burst into tears. But we have got over that now, and we look upon Death very much as we look upon the train that took one of us for a holiday The parting at the station was always disagreeable, so too, the fuss in getting things packed, seeing the lug gage labelled and put into the van, but we know that we should meet again, and had that as our chief expec tation. So now in this longer journey there must be the preparation and there must be the parting, and des perately trying it is sure to be. But we are sure God will give us strength and help us through. No, it is not the New nor the Then that is so difficult to know and imagine, but the period between, when he is in one sphere and I am in another, for it did seem as though it were possible, and your last words did suggest it, that one would outgrow the other. And then the dreadful possibility of forgetting—I don't mean completely for getting; that is, of course, impossible—but of not re membering clearly. You know how even here the im pression which we make upon one another every day might be dimmed, does get dimmed, when husbands and wives have been away from one another for five years. The vivid realization has faded somewhat, so it might be after death, chiefly owing to the inability to keep up with one another's interests as we do here. . . . Of course, for me, being in the light instead of the dark, as I trust by God's mercy I shall be, and in the fellowship of the best, who will no doubt nurse me and soothe all my disquiets till I grow wise enough to know God's plans, being in the clearer Presence of perfect love in stead of groping about and trying to feel Him, for me there cannot be any worry.—Walking.—The Right Rev. G. H. S. Walpole, D.D., Bishop of Edinburgh (Wells, Gardner, Darton & Co.)

IODINE AND GOITRE

Rapid advance is being made in the United States and Iodised salt seems to be the favorite vehicle to meet the needs of childhood there. In Switzerland, in August, already one noticed the relative rarity of goitre, as com pared with past years, amongst quite young girls in Basle Lausanne and Geneva. The Government of New Zea land has taken up the matter, goitre being very common in that Dominion. There also, iodised salt seems to be the chosen vehicle. Before me is a paper by Professor Rozsa of Graz, in Styria, which is both philosophical and practical. More clearly than most writers he brings out the relations between geology and the distribution of goitre, having shown, for instance, the shortage of io dine in the soil and the water of the Austrian goitre centres. I hope in this connection, that inquiries will be made in the Far East on these lines, and I repeat the suggestion made elsewhere last year that remarkable consequences may follow the systematic and continued administration of iodine to members of the Mongolian race, which is evidently at present of the sub-thyroid type, probably owing to the geological facts of its part of the world. We begin to see a general law of the re lation of the type of man everywhere to the composition of the soil from which he and his ancestors have sprung. —Dr. C. W. Saleeby, in The Outlook.

LAST WEEK IN THE LEGISLATURE

Toronto, March 13.—(By Mail).—Presentation of the annual Budget was last week's feature. In his first budget speech, two years ago, Hon. W. F. Price had to report a provincial deficit of over $15,000,000. This has been gradually cut down by increased revenues and corbed expenditure until now the estimate for the current year is a deficit of only $1,500,000. The minister announced that no new taxation would be imposed, and in fact the government has decided to forego the somewhat vexatious tax on pop. A very important reform is to be undertaken forthwith in the way of debt retirement, and the treasurer's announcement in this connection is one of the most noteworthy in years. The plan is founded upon the report of a special committee of experts appointed to study the matter, and is technically known as the Instalment annuity method. It will be in full operation in 1927, and is expected to save the province no less than $128,000,000 in the course of the next 40 years. The treasurer presented it to the House as a "positive definite advance in the handling of provincial finances."

Ordinary revenue for 1926-5 totalled $34,400,000, an improvement of $11,500,000 over that for 1922-3, while ordinary expenditure, $34,250,000, is $10,000,000 less. It will be seen that as ordinary revenue, and expenditure, there is an actual surplus for the year of $2,500,000 as compared with a deficit of over $9,500,000 in the last year of the previous administration. The interest bill of the province more than counterbalances the surplus on ordinary revenue, but Col. Price explained that if the accounting methods of the Drury Government had been followed, the deficit shown the year would have been less than $1,000,000.

Supplementary estimates tabled on Thursday total $1,951,501. Items of special interest therein include $20,000 additional for inspection and grading of dairy produce under the new Act; a vote of $5,000 to equip a farm for reception and training of British boy immigrants, and $10,000 for establishment of correspondence courses and extension by travelling teachers for pupils in isolated sections of the province. There is an item of $2,000 for attendance to the Ontario Hospital at Brockville, and one of $100,000 for a building at the Ontario Hospital, Woodstock, to accomodate 300 patients, also $15,000 for a new building to house criminally insane at Guelph. For a school of habitat at the O.A.C. $39,250 is approved, and $7,500 is set aside for a mining recorder's office at Red Lake. The Department of Labor asks $12,000 additional, this item being for mothers' allowances.

Col. Price at the close of his budget speech departed from Budgetal matters to pay a tribute to the leader of the House, and to express regret at mere charity and regard for public interests in the conduct of the Opposition. He said, in part: "Hon. members will recall when we occupied some 25 seats over in the far corner of this House, and what a tremendous fight was put up against the government of the day in many things it was trying to do. The present prime minister, sitting then as leader of the party, was on the job hour after hour, and just as good at two o'clock in the morning as at three in the afternoon. (Applause). He was a fighting leader of an active virile Opposition that commanded my apologies. (Applause). I like to see a fighting Opposition, but I like to see a fair Opposition, making its points and asking its questions without causing the people of Ontario to wonder if this is an Assembly of gentlemen or a boar-garden. I say the province owes a great debt of gratitude to the present prime minister. I have not taken part in many debates nor laid many bouquets on his desk, but I have listened to a lot, and I say to the House now that no stronger or cleverer man, or man with more outstanding ability, has ever led this House than the present prime minister. (Applause). It is a difficult period, and what I appeal for to members opposite is just a little more charity in their criticism and I believe we will get farther. Every minister is prepared to give information to members but when things are done which border on petitchness, they hardly appeal to a man who wants to look after his reputation and uphold the honor of the House. Questions should be treated on their merits, and that is the treatment I ask for the things I have presented to the House today."

Debate on the Address wound up in a remarkable way on Tuesday evening, when the House adopted without a division a motion to the speech from the Throne. Mr. Raney, Progressive Leader, having failed in an argument that Premier Ferguson's enfranchisement was out of order, announced that "having no possible objection to the principle of responsible government, I shall decline to take any further part in the proceedings." This was a reference to the plurality of the Government's amendment, which did, indeed, leave the Progressive Leader in an awkward position in event of voting against it. The Address, as passed by the House, follows the customary thanks to the Lieut.-nant-Governor with these words: "This House desires, furthermore, to assure your honour that it is of the opinion that, in enactment of important public legislation the principle of reasonable consultation, which our British democratic institutions rest should be observed in order that such legislation should have the undoubted sanction and support of the people, as expressed through their representatives in the House, and to the end that all such legislation should possess the authority and support necessary to command due respect and observance by the community."

This was in substitution for Mr. Raney's motion, subsequent, of which was to call for referenda on plebiscites on the prohibition issue.

During the closing hours of the Debate, several noteworthy tributes to the prime minister were made by members of all parties in the House. H. S. Colliver, of Prince Edward, in commending the work of various ministers, said: "With the administration of the day I wonder that my constituents have a feeling of thankfulness and calm contentment, in lieu of the restless, unsettled feeling which they had under the former administration." C. R. McKeown, of Dufferin, recalled the attitude in Opposition of the Conservative Party: "We will stay in Opposition until Doomsday, if need be, but when we come into power we will come sailing under our own colors. We will be there with the policy of the Conservative party, and welcome anyone, whether calling themselves Progressive or Liberal or U.F.O.; we will welcome them into our band-wagon, but they have got to play our music." (Applause).

Anticipating discussion on the Curtis bill sale of liquor under government control, Col. J. A. Currie and W. G. Weichel (North Waterloo) took advantage of the Address Debate to make formal presentation of a change in the liquor policy. Mr. Weichel said: "The country needs action on the C.T.A., and the government that thinks otherwise will get the biggest surprise of its life when it goes to the country. They would get 75,000 majority today for the C.T.A. because Ontario is wakening up." Colonel Currie pointed to the action of other provinces in regard to sale of liquor, and charged that leaders of the "light against real temperance" were bamfoozling. He declared the C.T.A. as American law thrust into a British country. In regard to 4.4 beer, he said the government had tried to do what was right, and therefore ought to be supported, and failed to do so. Mr. Currie declared that the Curtis bill was "a step in the right direction," and that "the people of Ontario are entitled to it."

Mr. Weichel, in a speech which was applauded from both sides of the House, said, in a general disrespect of law, and the course of intoxication among young people. When Sam Clarke (Northumberland) asked, "What is the issue?" Col. Currie replied: "The issue will be a dam treasurance law that will appeal to every body. I am not in the confidence of the government any more than my friend. The surest law I know is what has been adopted by all provinces except one tore or two down by the sea, a government controll measure, and I say if a government control measure is adopted by this province alone these lines prosperity will come with us will get rid of all this vilifferism."

While Government supporters have been riding up to call the premier blessed, and giving evidence of loyalty and harmony in the Conservative party, the Liberal group is having domestic troubles. It is well known that exactly half its membership is "wet", notwithstanding the fact that W.E.N. Sinclair, leader, recently came out on a definitely "dry" platform. On Thursday at six weeks, when Col. Price finished his budget speech, and before the Liberal financial critic, Harold Fisher, of West Ottawa, got on the floor, Attorney-Gen-eral, his colleague, J. A. Pinard, of East Ottawa, claimed the right to adjourn the debate, on behalf of R. B. Brackin, West Kent. There was a mild protest from Mr. Sinclair, but Mr. Pinard insisted this was "a courtesy of three speech" and consequently Mr. Fisher la sidetracked, and the stage is set for a contribution from Mr. Brackin on Tuesday.

Public Accounts Committee held its organization meeting on Friday morning, when Major Alex. Fraser, Toronto N.E. "A". was elected chairman. Through William Finlayson, East Simcoe, the government conveyed the information that it was prepared to facilitate in every way investigation of the public accounts, and that it would not avoid any appearance of administration interference, members of the Cabinet would be asked not to attend the sittings of the committee. It was in fact, Mr. Finlayson, who moved a resolution "that the committee proceed with the investigation requested by Hon. James Lyons into the connection of the Lyons Fuel & Supply Co., limited, with the government of Ontario, that Messrs. Clarkson, Gordon and Dilworth, chartered accountants, be instructed to make an investigation into the relations of Lyons Fuel Supply with all or any branches of the government," etc. etc. Under this resolution, the former minister and chief will be called as witnesses, and Mr. Sinclair asked that E. L. Bee-ford, Sault Ste. Marie, and the president and secretary of the Lyons Construction Company be summoned. The next sitting will be on Wednesday.

The Legislature on Friday afternoon unexpectedly entertained a distinguished visitor, Hon. Rudolphe Lemieux, Speaker of the Dominion Commons, to whom Hon. George S. Henry, leading the Assembly at the time and leaders of the Liberal and Progressive groups paid their respects from the floor of the House and joined in a warm welcome extended by the Speaker of the Legislature, Hon. J. Lyle Thompson. As an added tribute to his honor, two short speeches were delivered in French, by A. Belcourt (Lib. Russell) and H. Morel, (Con. Nipissing).

FRENCH BOXING COMMISSION PROPOSES TO ELEVATE GAME

New York, March 13.—The New York State Athletic Commission has been requested by the French Boxing Federation to "outline some international plan which would place boxing on a much higher plane and People proper surveillance of amateurs."

"Under such a plan as we feel confident your board can outline, steps and pass on to other nations in your country we are certain that such a fiasco as now exists in the heavyweight division could not possibly take place," writes Paul Rousseau, president of the French organization.

Rousseau desires to present the New York board's plan of action, at a boxing control to a meeting of the International Boxing Union in Paris next July.

SHOW FILM OF PRINTERS' HOME

Proves Realization of Trade Union Vision

(Boston Globe)

"Am I My Brother's Keeper" is the title of a film that was privately exhibited in an exchange on Piedmont street yesterday afternoon. It ought to have as a sub title, "The Realization of a Trade Union Vision."

For in reality that is what it is—a vivid, picturesque portrayal of the vision of the early trade unionists printers, a half-century or more ago when they founded the printers Home at Colorado Springs. There were some doubts of the wisdom of such an undertaking at the time but doubters disappeared long ago when they saw what it all meant in health and happiness to the inmates and in pride and inspiration to all the members of the International Typographical Union.

The picture deals a little with the organization headquarters at Indianapolis but three-fourths of the reel are devoted to that wonderful home out at the Rocky Mountains where the air and the scenery are unrivaled.

Like Beautiful Hotel

The thing, however, that will most impress the ordinary observer of the film is the fact that this home seems to resemble entirely near in the way of "homes" that are provided by philanthropies and charities. This is more like a beautiful hotel with splendid grounds and flower gardens all around it. This is accounted for by reason of the fact that the plan has been from the beginning to preserve the self-respect and independence of the inmates. The beautiful spirit of mixing, and it also preserves the spirit of craft-fellowship—that indefinable something which is part of the life and traditions of every craft.

And it is a splendidly equipped home in all that pertains to the health and comfort of the inmates. Here are splendid herds of cattle and thousands of hens; here are vast acres of pasture lands and fine stables. There are hot houses and beautiful flower gardens in charge of a printer who was sent there for ill-health. Here are seen rags—of tubercu-losis.

Up-to-Date Hospital

He looks as if he had discovered the Elixir of Youth. The cooking and other storage arrangements are perfect; the hospital is up to date and especially so in the equipment for the care of tuberculosis patient.

There is what is known for recreation—both indoors and outdoors. In point of fact this home is in every way a model institution and its inmates seem as happy as were the officials of the union who figure in the reel. It is an inspiring evidence of the power to which the founders of theo ioneers who laid the foundation and perhaps beyond the dreams of George W. Childs, who helped found it.

"His Brother's Keeper" will be shown at Griffin's Theatre during the week of March 22, in conjunction with the regular programme.

THE GREAT MONTROSE

Tragic End to a Short but Brilliant Career

By William Graham, In The Edinburgh Scotsman

The death of the fifth Duke of Montrose, K.T., himself a worthy representative of a great name, recalls that his family has contributed many illustrious names to the pages of Scottish history. One remembers Sir Patrick Graham, who ushered every English knight at a tournament; Wallace's greatest friend Sir John Graham, killed at the Battle of Falkirk, whose sword is preserved at Buchanan House; Earl Marof the Duke of Montrose; and the glory of his race, James Graham, first Marquess of Montrose, who suffered death for his loyalty to the Throne in 1650.

It is James Graham chiefly that we would write. At the age of 14 he succeeded his father as fifth Earl of Montrose, and in 1637 Sir Andrew University and married Lady Magdalene Carnegie, daughter of the 1st Earl of Northesk. He early showed a taste for history and for literature, especially poetry. His poems are full of "sweetness and long-drawn-out line," and, if not too much to say that they are quite equal in this respect to his more famous successor, they are not unworthy of him.

He either fears the world too much or his efforts are too small.

Who dares not put it to the touch

To gain or lose it all.

Even his devotion to Montrose has been questioned.

SIGNING OF THE COVENANT

After some years spent in foreign travel, Montrose returned to Scotland in 1637. That was the year in which Jenny Geddes hurled her folding stool at Dean Hannay when he talked in St. Giles', Scotland's cathedral church, and which saw the signing of the National Covenant. Montrose, who had been one of the first to subscribe the Covenant, was now one of its most strenuous opponents. He was sent to Aberdeen to endeavor to induce the Covenanters there to sign the document, and, failing in this, he proceeded to harry the district with fire and sword. Then he returned to Edinburgh, and, after a short visit to London, he was appointed Lieutenant-General of the King's forces in Scotland, and set out to raise an army to crush the Covenanters.

CONDEMNED TO DEATH

In 1644 he was created a Marquess. At the date of the King's execution he was on the Continent. When he heard the news he fainted. He swore to avenge his death or lie dead. His attempt was a failure. He was captured, taken to Edinburgh and hanged there on a gibbet thirty feet high on 21st May, 1650. He was only 36. The heroic firmness he displayed at his death harmonised well with the gallantry exhibited in his short but brilliant career.

As he was driven on the hang-

CEREMONIAL INTERMENT

After the Restoration, by order of Charles II., the Magistracies raised the trunk of the Marquess' body from under the gallows in the presence of a great number of noblemen and others This, being wrapped in "curious cloths" and put into a coffin, was carried, under a velvet canopy, to the Tolbooth, the nobles and gentry attending on horseback, while many thousands followed on foot, colours flying, drums beating, trumpets sounding, musketa crackling and cannon roaring from the Castle.

At the Tolbooth, the head of the great Marquess, which had been exposed there for ten years, was taken reverentially down, and placed in the coffin. The coffin was then carried in solemn procession to Holyrood Palace to await the ceremonial funeral of four months later to St. Giles' Cathedral. There the body was interred beside that of his predecessor in the prestrue aisle. A handsome effigy and memorial window there commemorate him.

It is interesting to note that Montrose's literary gifts have been inherited by at least one of his living descendants, Lady Helen Graham, whose delightful short tales charm the readers of Blackwood's Magazine from time to time. Lady Helen has also written on her great ancestor.

LAST WEEK IN THE LEGISLATURE

Toronto, March 13.—(By Mail).—Presentation of the annual Budget was last week's feature. In his first budget speech, two years ago, Hon. W. F. Price had to report a provincial deficit of over $15,000,000. This has been gradually cut down by increased revenues and curbed expenditure until now the estimate for the current year is a deficit of only $1,500,000. The minister announced that no new taxation would be imposed, and in fact the government has decided to forego the somewhat vexatious tax on poolrooms. A very important reform is to be undertaken forthwith in the way of debt retirement, and the treasurer announced in this connection is one of the most noteworthy in years. The plan is founded upon the report of a special committee of experts appointed to study the matter, and is technically known as the instalment annuity method. It will be in full operation in 1937, and is expected to save the province no less than $128,000,000 in the course of the next 40 years. The treasurer presented it to the House as a "positive definite advance in the handling of provincial finances."

Ordinary revenue for 1925-6 totalled $36,600,000, an improvement of $11,-600,000 over that for 1922-3, while ordinary expenditure, $34,200,000, is $1,-200,000, less. It will be seen that an ordinary revenue and expenditure there is an actual surplus for the year of $2,900,000 unaccounted with a deficit of over $9,500,000 in the last year of the previous administration. The interest bill of the province more than counteracts the surplus on ordinary revenue, but Col. Price explained that if the accounting methods of the Drury Government had been followed, the deficit shown this year would have been less than $1,000,000.

Supplementary estimates tabled on Thursday total $1,951,501. Items of special interest therein include $20,-000 additional for inspection and grading of dairy produce under the new Act; a vote of $10,000 to equip a farm for reception and training of British boy immigrants, and $10,000 for establishment of correspondence courses and instruction by travelling teachers for pupils in isolated sections of the province. There is an item of $20,000 for extensions to the Ontario Hospital at Brockville, and one of $100,000 for a building at the Ontario Hospital, Woodstock, to accomodate 300 patients, also $15,000 for a new building to house criminally insane at Guelph. For a school of baking at the O.A.C. $19,500 is appropriated, and $7,500 is set aside for a mining recorder's office at Red Lake. The Department of Labor asks $51,000 additional, this item being for mothers' allowances.

Col. Price at the close of his budget speech departed from financial matters to pay a tribute to the leader of the House, and to suggest a litle more charity and oratory for public interests in the conduct of the Opposition. He said, in part: "Hon. members will recall when we occupied some 25 seats over in the far corner of this House, and what a tremendous fight was put up against the government of the day, many things it was trying to do. The present prime minister, sitting then as leader of the party, was on the job hour after hour, and just as good at two o'clock in the morning as at three in the afternoon, Hopkins. He was a fearless leader of an active virile Opposition that made no apologies. (Applause). I like to see a fighting Opposition, but I like to see a fair Opposition, making its points and asking its questions without causing the people of Ontario to wonder if this is a Parliament of gentlemen or a bear-garden. I say the province owes a great debt of gratitude to the present prime minister. I have not taken part in many debates nor laid many bouquets on his desk, but I have listened to a lot, and I say to the House now that no stronger or cleverer man, or man with more outstanding ability, has ever led this House than the present prime minister, (Applause). It is a difficult period, and what I appeal for to members opposite is just a little more charity in their criticism and I believe we will get further. Every minister is prepared to give information to members on any things are done which bear on petitishness, they hardly appeal to a man who wants to look after his reputation and uphold the honor of the House. Questions should be treated on their merits, and that is the treatment I ask for the things I have presented to the House today."

Debate on the Address wound up in a remarkable way on Tuesday evening, when the House adopted without a division the reply to the speech from the Throne. Mr. Raney, Progressive Leader, having failed in an argument that Premier Ferguson's administration should be censured announced that "having no possible objection to the principle of responsible government, I shall decline to take any part in the vote on this procedure." This was a reference to the phraseology of the prime minister's amendment, which did, indeed, leave the Progressive Leader in an awkward position in event of voting against it. The address, as passed by the House, follows the customary thanks to the Lieutenant-Governor with these words: "This House desires, furthermore, to convey to your honor that it is of the opinion that, in enactment of important public legislation the principle of responsible government on which our British democratic institutions rest should be observed in order that such legislation should have the sanction and support of the people, as expressed through their representatives in the Legislature, to the end that the acts of the government may be subject to command due respect and observance by the community."

This was in substitution for Mr. Raney's long amendment, gist of which was that no referendum to plebiscite on the prohibition issue.

During the closing hours of the Debate, several noteworthy tributes to the prime minister were made by members of his party in the House. J. S. Gillespie, Progressive leader, commending the work of various ministers, said: "With the administration of such a leader I wonder that the constituents have a feeling of thankfulness and calm contentment, in lieu of the nervous, unsettled feeling which they had under the former administration." C. R. McCrea, of Dufferin, recalled the attitude in Opposition of the Conservative Party: "We will stay in Opposition until Doomsday, if need be, but when we come into power we will come sailing under our own colors. We will be there with the policy of the Conservative party, and welcome anyone, whether calling themselves Progressive or Labor or U.F.O.; we will welcome them into our band-wagon, but they have got to play our music." (Applause).

Anticipating discussion on the Curtis bill sale of liquor under government control, Col. J. A. Currie and W. G. Weichel (North Waterloo) took advantag) of the Address Debate to argue for insurance of a change in the liquor policy. Mr. Weichel said: "The country needs action on the O.T.A., and the government that thinks otherwise will get the biggest surprise of its life when it goes to the country. They would not get 32,000 majority today for the O.T.A. because Ontario is wakening up." Colonel Currie pointed to the action of other provinces in regard to sale of liquor, and charged that leaders of the fight against real temperance were paid agents. He declared the O.T.A. as American as the threat into a British country. In regard to 4.4 beer, he said the government had tried to do what was right, and therefore ought to be "forgiven" but had failed to do so, he said, in a general disrespect of law, and the course of intoxication among young people. When Hon. Clarke (Northumberland) asked, "What is the issue?" Col. Currie replied: "The issue will be a sane temperance law that will appeal to every body. I am not in the confidence of the government any more than my friend. The same law I know is what has been adopted by all provinces except one or two down by the sea, a government control measure, and I say if a government control measure is adopted by this province along these lines prosperity will come and we will get rid of all this vilification."

While Government supporters have been rising up to call the premier blessed, and giving evidence of loyalty and harmony in the Conservative party, the Liberal group is having domestic troubles. It is well in one that exactly half its membership is "out," notwithstanding the fact that W.E.N. Sinclair, leader, resolutely came out on a definitely "dry" platform. On Thursday at six o'clock, when Col. Price finished his budget speech, and before the Liberal financial critic, Harold Fisher, of West Ottawa, got the floor, according to custom, his colleague, J. A. Pinard, of East Ottawa, claimed the right to address the debate, on behalf of E. L. Brackin, West Kent. There was a mild protest from Mr. Sinclair, but Mr. Pinard insisted this was "a country of free speech" and consequently Mr. Fisher is sidetracked, and the latter gets for a contribution from Mr. Brackin on Tuesday.

Public Accounts Committee held its organization meeting on Friday morning, when Major Alex. Lewis, Toronto, N.E. "A," was elected chairman. Through William Finlayson, East Simcoe, the government conveyed the information that it was prepared to facilitate in every way investigation of the public accounts, and that in order to avoid any appearance of ministerial interference, members of the Cabinet would be asked not to attend the sittings of the committee. It was, in fact, Mr. Finlayson, who moved a resolution "that the committee proceed with the investigation requested by Hon. James Lyons into the construction of the Lyons Fuel & Supply Co., Limited, with the government of Ontario; that Messrs. Clarkson, Gordon, Dilworth, chartered accountants, be instructed to make an investigation of the relations of Lyons Company with all or any branches of the government, etc. etc. Under this resolution, the former minister and eight witnesses will be called to testify, and Mr. Sinclair asked that E. L. Bedford, Sault Ste. Marie, and the president and secretary of the Walsh Construction Company be summoned. The next sitting will be on Wednesday.

The Legislature on Friday afternoon unexpectedly entertained a distinguished visitor, Hon. Rudolphe Lemieux, Speaker of the House of Commons. Hon. Peter Smith, K.C., M.P.P., leading the Assembly at the time, and leaders of the Liberal and Progressive groups paid their respects to the Speaker of the House and joined in a warm welcome extended by the Speaker. The Legislature, Hon. Joseph Thompson, M.P., added himself to his honor, two short speeches were delivered in French, by A. Bel anger (Ldh. Russell) and H. Morel, (Co. Nipissing).

FRENCH BOXING COMMISSION PROPOSES TO ELEVATE GAME

New York, March 13.—The New York State Athletic Commission has been requested by the French Boxing Federation to "outline some international plan which would place boxing on a much higher plane and enable more effective surveillance of it.

"Under such a plan as we foresee, different your board can outline, could and pass on to other states in your country so as to certain that no such fiasco as now exists in the heavyweight division could not possibly take place," writes Paul Gallimard, president of the French organization.

Rousseau desires to present the New York board's plan of information, at single control of the leaders of the International Boxing Union in Paris next July.

SHOW FILM OF PRINTERS' HOME

Proves Realization of Trade Union Vision

(Boston Globe)

"Am I My Brother's Keeper" is the title of a film that was privately exhibited in an exchange on Piedmont street yesterday afternoon. It ought to have as a sub title "The Realization of a Trade Union Vision."

For in reality that is what it is—a vivid, picturesque portrayal of the vision of the early trade union printers, a half-century or more ago when they founded the printers Home at Colorado Springs. There were some doubts of the wisdom of such an undertaking at the time but doubters disappeared long ago when they saw what it all meant in health and happiness to the inmates and in pride and inspiration to all the members of the International Typographical Union.

The picture deals a little with the organization headquarters at Indianapolis but three-fourths of the reel are devoted to that wonderful home out on the rocky Mountains where the air and the scenery are unrivalled.

Like Beautiful Hotel

The thing, however, that will most impress the casual observer of this film is the fact that this home must be something entirely new in life. Apparently it is not provided by philanthropies and charities. This is more like a beautiful hotel with splendid grounds and flower gardens all around it. This is accounted for by reason of the fact that the sum has been from the beginning to preserve the self-respect and independence of the inmates. The institutional spirit is missing. It is also gratifying to the spirit of craft-fellowship—that indefinable something which is part of the life and traditions of every craft.

And it is a splendidly equipped home in all that pertains to the health and comfort of the inmates. Here are splendid herds of cattle and thousands of hens; here are vast acres of pasture lands and fine dairies. There are gymnasiums and beautiful flower gardens in charge of a printer who was sent there to direct two-three years ago—of tubercular toxis.

Up-to-Date Hospital

He looks as if he had discovered the Elixir of Youth. The cooking and cold storage arrangements are perfect; the hospital is up to date and especially so in the equipment for the care of tuberculosis patients. There is also provision for recreation—both indoors and outdoors. In point of fact this home is in every way a model institution and its inmates seem as happy as were the officials of the union who figure in the reel. It is an inspiring evidence of the pioneers who laid the foundation of their home—of the faith, devotion and perhaps beyond the dreams of George W. Childs, who helped found it.

"His Brother's Keeper" will be shown at Griffin's Theatre during the week of March 22, in conjunction with the regular programme.

THE GREAT MONTROSE

Tragic End to a Short but Brilliant Career

By William Graham, In The Edinburgh Scotsman

The death of the fifth Duke of Montrose, K.T., himself a worthy representative of a great name, recalls that his family has contributed many illustrious names to the pages of Scottish history. One remembers Sir Patrick Graham, who unhorsed every English knight at a tournament; Wallace's trusted friend, Sir John Graham, killed at the Battle of Falkirk, whose sword is preserved at Buchanan Castle, the seat of the Duke of Montrose; and the glory of his race, James Graham, first Marquess of Montrose, who suffered death for his loyalty to the Throne in 1650.

It is of James Graham chiefly that we would write. At the age of 17 he succeeded his father as fifth Earl of Montrose. At 17 he left St. Andrews University and married Lady Magdalene Carnegie, daughter of the 1st Earl of Southesk. He early developed a taste for literature, and especially poetry. His poems are full of passion, but are now little known save this one stanza only—

He either fears his fate too much
Or his desert are small,
Who dares not put it to the touch
To win or lose it all.

Even his ascription to Montrose has been questioned.

SIGNING OF THE COVENANT

After some years spent in foreign travel, Montrose returned to Scotland in 1637. That was the year in which Jenny Geddes hurled her folding stool at Dean Hannay when he began to read the Collect in St. Giles'. Scotland was ripe for revolt. Charles I. had attempted to force Episcopacy upon the Scots, and the National Covenant was the result. It is an inspiring evidence of the power of the pulpit that the whole of the Lowlands of Scotland, and the greater part of the Highlands, signed the Bond, which was drawn up by Alexander Henderson, minister of Leuchars, and afterwards of Edinburgh. Montrose was one of the first to append his name to the Covenant, which he took, and he added—

"Bishops, I care not for them. I never intended to advance their interest. But when the King had erected you all your desires, and you were every one sitting under his vine and under his fig tree, that then I should have taken a party in England by the hand and entered in to a league and covenant with them against you, this I think and I judged my duty to oppose to the utmost."

CONFIRMED TO DEATH

In 1644 he was created a Marquess. At the duty of the King's execution by way of the Continent. When he heard the news he fainted. He swore to avenge his death or to die. His attempt was a failure, and he was captured, taken to Edinburgh and hanged there on a gibbet thirty feet high on 21st May, 1650. He was only 36. The noble firmness he displayed at his death harmonised well with the gallantry exhibited in his short but brilliant career.

As he was driven on the hang-tion which he was to emerge two days later to walk to the gallows, a gay wedding party was assembled in Moray House, in the Canongate. The wedding party crowded the balcony, still standing unchanged, to gloat over him. The marriage had just taken place of Lord Lorne, the son of Montrose's enemy, the Marquess of Argyle, to a daughter of the Earl of Moray. Just eleven years later Argyle suffered the same fate in Edinburgh, and Montrose's son, the second Marquess, had the good taste to refuse to sit as one of his judges.

From the indignities heaped on Montrose's body, one turns with relief to record the tender action of his kinswoman, Lady Napier of Merchiston. The trunk of his body was inhumed with the gibbet at the Burghmuir. Lady Napier sent her by night who dug up the body and brought her "decently" home. This relic she placed in a steel case, made out of Montrose's sword. She then ordered the case of a gold filigree box which had been presented by a Doge of Venice to her husband's grandfather, the inventor of logarithms. The heart and its urn were retained in the possession of the Napier family for several generations, but were lost during the Revolution, amid the confusion of the French Revolution.

Montrose was a strategist of the highest order, and a scholar and poet as well. He was finely proportioned, handsome, of excellent address and a singularly fine horseman. So good a judge as Clarendon records:—

"He was fearless of danger, a man of the clearest honour, courage and affection to the King's service, and of as exemplary integrity and loyalty as ever the Scottish nation bred."

CEREMONIAL INTERMENT

After the Restoration, by order of Charles II., the Magistrates raised the trunk of the Marquess' body from under the gallows in the presence of a great number of noblemen and others. This, being wrapped in "curious cloths" and put into a coffin, was carried, under a velvet canopy, to the Tolbooth, the nobles and gentry attending on horseback, while many thousands followed on foot, colours flying, drums beating, trumpets sounding, muskets cracking and cannon roaring from the Castle.

At the Tolbooth, the head of the great Marquess, which had been exposed there for ten years, was taken reverentially down, and placed in the coffin. The coffin was then carried in solemn procession to Holyrood Palace to await the ceremonial funeral of four months later to St. Giles' Cathedral. There the body was interred beside that of his grandfather in the Montrose aisle. A handsome effigy and memorial window there commemorate him.

It is interesting to note that Montrose's literary gifts have been inherited by at least one of his living descendants, Lady Helen Graham, whose delightful short tales charm the readers of Blackwood's Magazine from time to time. Lady Helen has also written on her great ancestor.

MAROONS BETTER THAN CANADIENS

Bitter Struggle Saw Teams Reduced Once to Two Men Each

LAST AWFUL WEEK

Pittsburg and Boston In Clash For Third Place in Loop

Montreal, March 15.—Bitter rivalry between the Montreal Maroons and the Canadiens, local teams in the National Hockey League, developed in all its rancor during their final clash of the season at the Forum Saturday night. The result was that 8,500 spectators witnessed a repetition of the former guerilla battles waged by these adversaries in the winter campaign now concluding, in which fighting, deliberate slashing and tripping, bickering between players and officials and other minor fouls produced a game which provided plenty of excitement, but ruinal contest as a hockey spectacle. Twenty-eight penalties were inflicted by the referees and at one stage of the first period the teams were reduced to a goalkeeper and one forward each, four men on the ice out of twelve. One of the messy Montreal Maroons emerged victors, 4-2.

A HECTIC WEEK

Teams in the National Hockey League enter the last three days of the scheduled season today with Ottawa definitely assured of first place through the point garnered when they drew with St. Pats at Toronto. Montreal Maroons are certain of second place, and the fight is still on between Pittsburgh and Boston for the third playoff position.

The attention of all pro hockey fans will be directed towards Pittsburgh tonight where the Pirates will be at home to the Ottawa Senators. A victory for the Buccaneers will qualify them for the play-off. A draw between Pittsburgh and Ottawa will still leave the Corsairs tied for third position in the event of Boston beating Montreal Tuesday night and will necessitate a play-off to decide which of the two teams will enter the series, while Pittsburgh would still have the berth in its grasp if they lose to Ottawa and Boston stops its game to Montreal.

PETES QUALIFY IN ALLAN SERIES

New Hamburg Was There There With Speed But Could Not Score

Toronto, March 5.—Peterboro, Senior O.H.A. champions earned the right to meet University of Toronto in the finals of the Ontario Allan Cup elimination series next Tuesday and Thursday, when they defeated New Hamburg O.H.A. intermediate champions in their return game at Arena Gardens this afternoon, the final score being 2-1 and on the round 5-4.

The intermediate champions had a big margin of the play throughout, their lack of finish around the Peterboro net, however, was largely responsible for their defeat.

For the first and second periods there was no score due to the fact that Peterboro elected to play a defensive game, while the lack of sharp shooters on that others from the kept them out of the scoring columns in the period.

The flashy Peterboro centre ice player sent his team four up on the round. He repeated a few minutes later and Peterboro had the game on ice.

Joe Dwyer, McLeod and Collins starred throughout for the Petes, while for New Hamburg, Bellemore, Trunskii and Roth appeared best.

Peterboro will now meet Varsity here on Tuesday and Thursday nights of next week. The winners will then meet the victorious team of the Ottawa Gunners and the Quebec champion series.

McCULLY HAS DOCTORED NOTED HORSES IN ALL PARTS OF WORLD

country today is inspected by him before it is permitted to get the "feel" of an American track.

Dr. McCully once received a call from J. B. Haggin, the California turfman, to go to the Rancho del Paso in that state to treat several horses. Among the string were the great, though not retired, Salvator and Firenzi.

Upon returning he received a call to go back to the Coast, this time to treat the string of the late Marcus Daly at the Bitter Root Farm. Later when Harry Payne Whitney maintained a racing string at Newmarket, England, Trainer Jack Joyner cabled Dr. McCully to come across the Atlantic.

Dr. McCully is a specialist on horse diseases and has developed remedies himself for many thoroughbred ills.

As Manager McGraw's chief south paw dependence, critics believe his comeback effort after a poor 1925 season will be one of the outstanding factors of New York's drive to regain the National League honors.

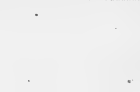

Since the close of last season, the veteran New York pilot is considered to have immeasurably strengthened his flinging corps through the acquisition of Jimmy Ring from the Phillies and patching up of the club's differences with Hugh McQuillan. But he has improved merely one side of the pitching, for the added strength is confined to right-hand moundsmen. Nehf continues to be his choice to shoulder the left-hand pitching assignments.

Failure of the Giants to come through last year was attributed largely to undependable hurling at crucial periods, although McGraw contends that the morale of his entire line-up was shaken by injuries.

Nehf, whose arm began to give him trouble in the last half of the 1925 race, was one of the chief disappointments. Art completed only eight full games, but was credited with eleven victories and nine defeats as a result of his frequent use in utility roles.

Nehf's greatest years were his first three with the Giants in 1920, 1921 and 1922, during which he won 60 contests and lost 35.

Spring Pruning.

The question, "How late can the apple, peach and pear trees be pruned in the spring?" is often asked. It may be answered by saying that it can be done with entire success any time during the spring months.

It is natural that it is quite successful and satisfactory to do the work before growth starts in the spring. Do it when your knife is sharp, and don't delay a single day on account of inability to find time early in the season. The tidy pruning is done in the spring the greater the tendency toward the checking of growth, and results in accomplishing no more than the removal of the wood. Early pruning leaves all stimulating influences for the benefit of the fruit buds, results, and results in increased fruitfulness and development where desired.

Wounds made on large branches sometimes exude considerable sap when made in the middle of the growing season, so if pruning is done after the growth starts some care should be exercised in painting over the cut surfaces. Bordeaux mixture or water glass is one of the best coverings for wet wounds as it will soon form a hard, protective and corrosive sublimate solutions are also good, but wax or gliss may be applied when the surface becomes dry.—L. Stevenson, Director of Extension, O. A. College.

Y's Men Hear Talks And Discuss Affairs

Mr. J. O. Herity Is Heard On "Citizenship"—Expert Gives Hints

On Friday evening last at the regular weekly meeting of the Y's Mens Club, Mr. J. O. Herity, Manager, the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, was the speaker for the evening. Mr. Herity's address to Y's Men was one of particular inspiration and one which contained much of interest and values his talk being on "Citizenship", a subject with which Mr. Herity is very competent to deal. Appreciation of the message brought was expressed by Ya man Army Armstrong in a vote of thanks, which was seconded by Norm Edwards.

Mr. Otter, who is engaged in the field of Men's work in Canada, was present and gave a short talk on the place Y's Mens organizations fill in the community and the great possibilities of service open to them.

It was announced at the meeting that as a result of a meeting of the Board of Directors held at the home of Vice President Geo. Pauley on Thursday evening, it was decided to hold a dance on Monday, April 26th for the purpose of raising funds to assist in the undertakings of the Club in connection with boys work.

Y's Man Les Woodley favoured those assembled with a solo which was much enjoyed.

SINCLAIR LAIRD ISSUES CHALLENGE

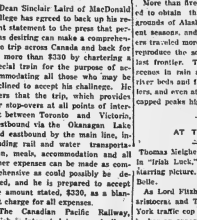

Dean Sinclair Laird of MacDonald College has agreed to back up his recent statement to the press that persons desiring can make a comprehensive trip across Canada and back for not more than $330 by chartering a special train for the purpose of accommodating all those who may be inclined to accept the challenge. He avers that the trip, which provides for stop-overs at all points of interest between Toronto and Victoria, westbound via the Okanagan Lake and eastbound by the main line, including rail and water transportation, meals, accommodations and all other expenses can be made as comprehensive as could possibly be desired for the price listed to accept the amount stated, $330, as a blanket charge for all expenses.

The Canadian Pacific Railway, which is interested in several all-expense tours this season, is acting as the booking agent for the party to leave Toronto July 10. The route he has planned is via Port Arthur to Fort William, Winnipeg Beach, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Banff, to Windermere across the Rockies by auto, to Kootony Landing thence by water through the Arrow Lakes through Doukhabour country to Hope and Vancouver. The return from Victoria will be via the Crow's Nest Pass and Rockies and stopovers have been arranged, among other places, at Lake Louise and Emerald, Gap Camp, Kenora. A trip across the Great Lakes to Port McNicoll, thence rail to Toronto will terminate the excursion.

Dean Laird contends that this trip will not be an experiment as he has made two previous trips of this nature as organizer of teachers tours. This trip he is throwing open to all and sundry, the only stipulation being that members of the special train party be chosen as being compatible with the whole.

Apply Dean Laird, MacDonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, or any Canadian Pacific Agent.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT GRIFFIN'S

"Winds of Chance," Rex Beach's story of the Alaskan gold rush, picturized for First National by Frank Lloyd, creator of "Black Oxen," "Dark Star Hawk" and other memorable screen hits, will be the feature offering at the Griffin Theatre tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The new Lloyd picture is said to represent not only the most accurate drama of Alaskan life ever made, but is exactly as it should be. Much which has seldom, if ever, been seen in a single attraction heretofore.

More than 2,000 miles were required to obtain the atmospheric background of Alaska during four different seasons, and Lloyd and his players traveled more than 12,000 miles to reproduce the scenic splendor of our last frontier. The cameras obtained scenes in rain and snow storms, on river beds and frozen lakes and glaciers, and even at the summit of snow-capped peaks high above the clouds.

AT THE BELLE

Thomas Meighen plays a dual role in "Irish Luck," his new Paramount starring picture, due today at the Belle.

As Lord Fitzhugh, a young Irish aristocrat, and Tom Donahoe, a New York traffic cop, in behalf of which he has an opportunity to portray two sharply contrasting characters. On the one hand, as the Irish nobleman, he is suave, sophisticated, political and something of a black sheep. As the Irish-American traffic cop, he is good-natured and simple-hearted, an easy victim of a confidence game, and a terrible foe of a band of evil conspirators.

But the greatest differentiation in Meighen's portrayal of the two characters lies in the Meighen smile. Lord Fitzhugh is a sober individual, he never smiles. Tom Donahue's nature is whimsical and good humored. When he finds himself entangled in Dublin with only a few shillings in his pocket, he smiles. And again, confronted by a band of murderous cut-throats he smiles.

MEDICAL

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed
External treatments seldom cure Piles.
Nor do surgical operations.
The cause is inside—bad circulation.
The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.
The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.
Only quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.
J. S. Leonhardt, M.D., a specialist at work over 25 years says he has real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take and can always be found at J. S. McKeown's who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

BALDWIN FACES MUCH TROUBLE IN PARLIAMENT

Geneva, Mining and Power Issues Menace Government

FIERCE FIGHTS COMING

Outcome Will Depend on Whether Premier Has Gained Goodwill

London, March 15.—The Baldwin Government is headed for troubled waters. After a long period of smooth sailing, it suddenly finds itself confronted with a series of difficulties, any one of which might be a real menace to an administration which did not command an enormous majority.

First there is trouble at Geneva. Usually foreign affairs have little effect on domestic politics. But there are special reasons why Sir Austen Chamberlain's success or failure at the League should have an influence now. It was his great achievement at Locarno which heightened the popularity of the Government when it manifestly slumped last year after the severe shock from the grant of the coal subsidy.

When it was feeling its lack of prestige, Sir Austen Chamberlain came back from Locarno flushed with the triumph that threw lustre on all his colleagues.

Then, rightly or wrongly, there is a feeling in the country that the extraordinary mess which has appeared at Geneva is due in a great measure to Sir Austen's lack of firmness when he saw Premier Briand in January and that he there fore went to the League bewildered.

The attitude of the Government toward the mine owners and the miners' toward it is still indeterminate, but it will be a tremendous blow to the Ministry if their own device proves to have produced nothing of value.

In addition, the time for the annual budget debate is approaching. The Government can slightly get any credit out of the last. The country is ready to give up hope of a remission of taxation and there will be satisfaction but no jubilation if Winston Churchill manages to balance expenditure with revenue. He will only do that if he can steer his economy bill through the Commons unimpaired. It is a confusedly cheese-paring measure, saving here and there a little, and each of its clauses is sure to irritate someone. However as I could it is he must look for stormy debate in the Commons.

Finally, there is the bill for organising the electrical production of the country, and that by interfering with many vested interests, will antagonize important elements among the Government's own supporters. It would surprise none if the official measure has to be modified in certain particulars.

In any case it will have to meet strong criticism.

Against all this the Government's chief dependence lies in the Premier himself. He is in no way taken by surprise by these difficulties, and in a sense he has deliberately laid his plans for getting out of them at convenient times. He has been carefully trying to build up confidence in his own personality and fair-mindedness.

He has refused to play a party game and has striven in many speeches to sympathy with the less fortunate classes. His sole idea being to create a reasonable opinion in the Opposition in case of clash of interests arose. He has succeeded in instilling considerable trust and confidence on both sides of the House.

The real crux of some of the fiercest political battles of the near future will be whether Mr. Baldwin has gained sufficient goodwill to have his decisions accepted as fair by all.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"I say, It ult, we're waiting for you now!" came his voice up the stairs.

Lady Ruth opened the door.

"Remember!" she said, and went.

Constance waited a moment, then went into the schoolroom.

"If thought you were never coming," he said. "What has Cousin Ruth been talking about at such a rate?"

"Never mind, Arol," said Constance, seating herself beside him and opening the books. "Now let me see what you know, and how far you have got."

"All right," he said, promptly. "Hullo! why, what's that dropped on the book? Why, its Grahame, you're crying."

"Oh, no, I think not," said Constance, with ghostly h rightness.

"Oh, but you are!" he persisted, and his arm stole round her neck. "Don't cry, Miss Grahame, dear. What is the matter?"

"Nothing nothing!" said Constance, hastily. "Now let me see how far you have got in your spelling. You can," with an attempt at jocularity, "you can spell 'cat,' I suppose."

"Oh, yes. C-a-t," he replied. "Yes," thoughtfully, "that's what Mary, the housemaid, called Cousin Ruth."

"Hush!"

"Yes, it was very rude, wasn't it?" and she had to go." She was such a nice girl, and so kind, but she and Cousin Ruth used to quarrel, and," with a sigh, "after she called her 'cat' she had to go. Everybody has to that Cousin Ruth doesn't like, I hope," with a sudden alarm, "that she likes you, Miss Grahame, dear."

"Yes, I hope so," said Constance.

CHAPTER VII.

The news that the marquis had come back spread like wildfire and the whole place seemed surrounded with an atmosphere of curiosity and excitement. People were so eager to see him that they began to call immediately, and Constance from her window could see the carriages driving up the avenue all the afternoon.

The great castle was all astir, servants hurrying to and fro, grooms attending to the horses of the callers, and the murmur of voices rising the echoes of the place, which had seemed so unnaturally quiet to Constance the afternoon she arrived.

She had lunched in her own room, and was sitting there with a book in her hand, but looking out upon the carriages in the drive and the beautiful gardens that stretched in Italian fashion away to the very edge of the park.

Lord Lancebrook had been carefully dressed by his black satin suit, with its old Honiton lace collar, and was in the drawing-room assisting at the marquis' reception, for as it might almost have been called.

Six long days had passed since Lady Ruth had found the marquis eating porridge in the nursery, and expressed her views on propriety, but Constance had lived almost entirely in her own apartments. In the morning she taught Lord Arol, and in the afternoon, after another hour of "school" she and he went out for a drive or a walk, sometimes accompanied by the nurse. Then Constance would come back to her own room and Arol would join the marchioness and Lady Ruth in the drawing room.

Each day the marchioness had sent up to ask if Constance would not come down, but Constance had only appeared at dinner once in the three days and on that evening the marquis was not present; he had gone to dine with Lord Elliot.

Lady Ruth treated her with that marked politeness which is more distant than absolute rudeness; but the marchioness, absorbed in the society had been so assiduously devoted to her, saw nothing of this.

Although Constance had not been in his presence, she had both seen and heard the marquis.

Every morning she heard him pacing up and down the terrace before breakfast, generally surrounded by dogs of all breeds and kinds, but all evidently passionately devoted to him; and sometimes she saw him as he walked across the lawn, or rode in a dress making Irish chestnut which had been the terror of the stable, but which the marquis seemed to manage without any difficulty.

She could hear his voice, deep, full and musical, with the Brakespeare ring of masterful command, calling to a groom, or humming a song as he came up the stairs or passed through the hall.

She thought he had only been so few days at the castle, all the servants worshipped him, and exhibited a most unusual alacrity to obey his commands.

The grooms and stable helps watched him as he rode off on the big chestnut as if he were a hero they had been waiting for all their lives; and if he spoke to one of the maid servants when she was at her work in the house, that girl carried her head above her fellows for the rest of the day.

On this morning the family lawyer had come down from town, and, with the steward, had sought an interview with the marquis that they might render some account of their stewardship during his absence.

But the interview had been a very brief one.

The marquis had listened to them for a quarter of an hour with some what remarkable patience, but at the end of that time he remarked:

"My good sirs, I've no doubt in the world that what you say is perfectly correct. I'm delighted to hear that the estate has improved so much during my absence. I'm sure it couldn't have done as if I'd been here, and as to all the, rest of it, why"—he shrugged his shoulders with the Brakespeare gesture—"if you talked for an hour you wouldn't get me to understand it."

The lawyer sighed.

"Well, my lord, we will leave you the papers and statements, and perhaps——"

"Oh, no!" said the marquis, seizing the chance of escape. "and I'll go over them—some time or other."

"He has not changed in one respect," said the lawyer, watching the tall figure as it strode across the lawn, followed by the dogs, who were always at his heels. "I remember that as a boy it was impossible to fix him down to his books, and he is just the same as a man. The Brakespeares were always restless, all of them."

"I expect his lordship will marry and settle down," said the steward, and it is scarcely necessary to say that many others were thinking the same thought.

The marquise was one of the old est in England, the estates were enormous, and the wealth had been increasing and breeding during the marquis' absence; there were few better parts in the kingdom, and the mothers of marriageable daughters were beginning to discuss their chances and to cast angling eyes toward him.

To be mistress of the castle, the future Marchioness of Brakespeare, and the leader of the country! It was a prospect the mere thought of which made the hearts of every ambitious girl leap and thrill.

Invitations to dinner poured in upon him and his mother and it was made evident that he was to be feted and treated like a "lion," but the marquis did not seem very much disposed to be lionized, and after accepting one or two dinners, informed the marchioness that he preferred dining at home to eating in company with a dozen or more of fellow creatures who either stared at or inveigled upon talking to him as if he were a licensed curiosity, and fair game for any amount of mild inquisitiveness.

"Dare", is the word for before many days had passed all who had come in contact with him recognised the fact that with all his frank and genial manner the marquis was made of somewhat stern material, and the sudden flash of the dark eyes or a swift answer indicated that under the good-tempered, easy manners lay more than a touch of the Brakespeare nature.

What he gave an order it must be executed at once, and no questions must be asked. With servant or horse his way was the same; obedience was acknowledged by a smile and a nod; disobedience, or the least sign of it, with a swift anger and sternness which were irresistible. Not a man in the vast place, from Belford the butler to the smallest of the stable helps but flew to do his bidding and seemed more than repaid by the prompt thanks, or the nod and smile.

A Coat--

You will like at a price surprisingly low

Easter is only three weeks away. Already New Coats appear here and there on the street. There is nothing drab about these particular new coats for misses and young women. Anyone can indulge their love of color this year, for they appear in any number of lovely shades. Tweeds, of course, are here in numbers too. Experience of pre-Easter buying would advise that choice now is best.

Plain Velours---New Colors

It wasn't always usual to see such pretty colors in coats. They can be very becoming, though, and so suggestive of Spring—soft grey-greens, light blue, coral and watermelon shades, rose and rose-browns, as well as all the varieties of fawn and the red-browns. Nearly all there coats have slight flares at the sides. Braid and fur-braid trims collar and cuffs and braid or buttons form panels at the sides. Sizes 16 years to 40 inches.—

$12.00 to $15.00.

Tweeds and Velours

This lot of coats is composed of tweeds in fancy diagonal patterns and other new weaves, and some plain velours, in all the new colors. The tweed coats are in plain tailored styles, the others trimmed with braid and buttons.—$13.75 and $16.75.

Poiret Twill---Tweed

The tweed coaas in this group are charming. Their new herringbone weaves and pretty shades—light blue and light brown—make them distinctive. There are "furrow" pleats at the sides. The dressier coats of poiret twill are lined with crepe de chene and trimmed with braid—in some cases embroidery. These coats have modified flares. In navy, fawn and rosewood. Sizes 16 years to 40 inches.

$19.50.

CHINESE FIRE UPON 2 JAP DESTROYERS

Peking, March 15.—While two Japanese destroyers were proceeding up the Pei River, below Tientsin, they were fired on from the Chinese forts near the mouth of the river, held by troops of the Kuominchun (National army). Machine guns and field batteries were used in the bombardment. One Japanese and two Chinese were wounded.

The Japanese decided to abandon the attempt to move up the river and the destroyers returned to Taku, near the mouth of the river where two other Japanese destroyers are lying.

It is not clear whether the Japanese returned the fire of the forts. The Japanese consul-general at Tientsin has taken leaders.

KING TAKES SEAT IN COMMONS TO FACE MANY QUESTIONS

TORONTO SCOTS ASKING COUNCIL FOR MORE CASH

Were Kept Here Later Than Expected, Gave Extra Service

COUNCIL GETS LETTER

Votes To Take No Action —Assuming of Deficit Is Recalled

It was thought that when the Council of 1925 after donating $1,000 for the Old Boy's Re-union and Peace Celebration and assuming a deficit of $2,000, that all obligations had been met, but such is not the case, according to a letter read in Council last night. This letter was from an officer of the Toronto Scottish Regiment which took part in the celebration. It is to the effect that although the regiment was paid $1,500, there was still due it $1,150 which the Council was asked to pay.

The epistle set forth that the Regiment was kept here at night later than was intended and it gave extra services. The letter also stated that ex-Mayor Mikel has promised that the Regiment would receive the extra remuneration.

Mayor Graham stated that the letter never came before last year's council and there was no legal claim against the city. It is a moral claim and not a legal claim. The Regiment thought they were dealing with ex-Mayor Mikel and the letter states that ex-Mayor Mikel said they would get the receipts of the Monday evening entertainment. Last year's Council assumed a debt of $2,000 which was a deficit. The officers of the Regiment believe that they were dealing with ex-Mayor Mikel entirely in this matter. Ex-Mayor Mikel denies that he promised what it is alleged he did.

Ald. Wilmot moved that no action be taken in the matter and the officers of the Toronto Regiment be notified that the council can not assume the liability.

Grenfell Labrador Mission Grateful to Belleville Ladies For Many Generous Gifts

In a letter to the local branch of the Grenfell Labrador Medical Mission, Miss A. M. Wace, corresponding secretary of the Association at Ottawa encloses a comparative statement for the past years in which appears the encouraging and stimulating proof of increased givings to the Mission, Belleville alone having increased her givings from $27.00 in 1924 to $161.00 in 1925. Practically all other cities have backed their sentiment by collateral.

"You have probably noticed that Dr. Grenfell is making a special appeal for funds, this winter, toward the new concrete, fireproof hospital in course of erection at St. Anthony. I enclose a couple of "brick" cards and Grenfell is that connection. I hope, through members of your committee it may be possible to get some of these cards filled out and returned. At one time or another I think I have spoken for at least five Sunday Schools in Belleville and now is their chance to reciprocate. I can send more of these cards and folders when you let me know how many can be used. These funds, of course, would come forward ear-marked, and be acknowledged through the Magazine. You will notice by the October issue, when it arrives, how the Fund is growing. Please do your best."

Miss Mason, secretary of the local branch of the Mission has also received the following letter from Harrington Hospital, Labrador, in acknowledgement of bales sent from Belleville:

Mr. Bear Miss Masson,—

Your bales of clothes arrived in good condition and are very much appreciated. As you doubtless know the families here are large and the weather hard most of the year, so it is quite a job to keep them all clothed. Thursday afternoon is store day; the people come fully an hour or two before we are ready to open shop and wait. It is a busy afternoon and a very popular one with the people. They exchange their fish, berries, wood or skins for clothes. This keeps the dentifrice supplied with clothes yet eases their pride.

This summer has been very dark and wet but today the sun is partly out and every man, woman and child is on the rocks turning fish to dry. It is quite a sight to see thousands of fish gleaming on the rocks. All the traps are up now, but the people still go out with hook and line.

We appreciate the thought and interest and work put into it.

Very sincerely,

(Signed) Marion A. Murray.

GILBERT CASE WAITS A WEEK

Officials Found Delay while Regretted Was Necessary

It was anticipated that the preliminary trial of William H. Gilbert, on a charge of manslaughter arising out of a motor car accident on the Provincial Highway, would have been proceeded with today, but an adjournment for a week was granted.

When all the parties concerned in the case appeared in court this morning, Mr. C. A. Donnan, Gilbert's attorney stated he was compelled to ask for another adjournment of the case. An application had been made before Judge Wills for a commission to be appointed to secure the evidence of a witness who is at present in Detroit. This witness, while the Crown did not disclose the name, is Mrs. Naylor, wife of Alfred Hewitt Naylor who was killed as a result of the crash near Bayside.

Mr. C. A. Payne Counsel for the accused stated that while he was opposed to a further enlargement he would no doubt have to be content to another delay.

Mr. Donnan—I am not favorable to these postponements but it is necessary.

Magistrate Masson granted an enlargement for one week and bail for the accused was renewed.

GIRL AWARDED $300.

Belleville Needs Two V.O.Nurses Council is Told

At the City Council session last evening Miss E. Stephenson, of Ottawa, who is an official in connection with the Victorian Order of Nurses addressed the members relative to the work of the Order and also asked co-operation in securing two by the members. Miss Stephenson stated that in company with Miss Shore the Victorian Nurse in Belleville she had during the day visited many homes in Belleville and conditions in some cases were not at together good. In one of the visited the city has 1,200 families and in this one year was $1,870.51 and 2653 visits were made. These visits cost 70.1 cents each. Miss Shore, the speaker said, was an excellent trained nurse and was doing fine work. If all the obligations are to be met another nurse will be secured and the city must make much extra expenses. It was necessary to make all the visits that were made last year. There is still much more work to be done in this city in regard in this matter. The speaker said that a grant was necessary from the city to assist in carrying on the work.

Mayor Graham thanked Miss Stephenson for her address and stated the Council was in sympathy with the work being done by the nurse here.

Police Chief's Annual Review Shows Decrease in Offences Youths in Majority of Cases

A decrease in the number of cases before Police Court, but included in these a great number of offenses by young men, is shown in the annual report of Alexander Kidd, Chief of the Police Department of Belleville made public to-day.

He recounts in his report some facts on the epidemic of petty thefts, which occurred last summer and how they were wiped out; reference is made to the Moon case and to a number of other cases of lesser interest.

Not only were the vast majority of offenses committed by young men but the same ratio holds in the matter of nationality, by far the most cases were of Canadian-born young men. The text of the report follows:

TEXT OF REPORT

To the Chairman and members of the Board of Commissioners of Police, City.

Gentlemen,—

I have the honor herewith to present for your information and consideration, my annual report for the year 1925, with the usual statistical information.

During the year there were 363 cases before the Court, namely 339 males 22 females, 1 Club, and 1 Company, a decrease of 14 cases from 1924. The amount of Fines and Fees collected during the year and handed over to the City Treasurer amounted to $3,840.85 but through application to the chairman of the Board of License Commissioners, for persons who had been convicted under the Ontario Temperance Act, $380.00 was refunded to them. During the summer months we had a large number of houses and shops broken into, Although very little was stolen, from the places entered, it caused a great deal of annoyance to the citizens, however we were successful in rounding up the gang, prosecutions followed, and since then we have had no more trouble.

There was also one hold up and one attempted hold up, a man who was walking south on Station street, when a man stepped out from behind a tree, caught hold of his arm, and took a small amount of money out of the man's pocket. The attempted hold up took place on the Market Square. A young man went into a shop, struck the proprietor over the head with a revolver wrongly. Before he could get any money out of the shopkeeper, someone entered the store and the young man ran away. He was arrested later and admitted the offence, but before he came up for trial he was extradited by two officers sent to Rockwood Hospital for treatment.

During the year there were 5 motor cars stolen, against 14, for the previous year; 4 were recovered. The car which is still missing is the property of Mr. Vernon Wells, and as I have sent the description of the car all over Canada I have failed to get any trace of it.

During the year there were 26 bicycles stolen, 22 being recovered. There was a bicycle left at the Police Station which were found by the Police and have never been claimed.

During the year, 722 transients were given a night's shelter at the Police Station, an increase of 291 over 1924, and an increase of 291 over 1923, which goes to show the amount of men that are travelling the country looking for employment.

The number of Fire alarms which were received and transmitted to the Fire department numbered 72.

I am sorry to have to report that we had a double murder by shooting during the year, when two promising young men were shot in a store on Front Street. The accused person was arrested the same night, and is now in the County jail awaiting transmission to the penitentiary where he was sent for life.

There was also one attempted murder. A woman came here from Toronto to see her son who was residing in the city with the intention of getting him to go back to Toronto with her. They had some words and in the excitement she took a large butcher knife out of her hand bag and tried to stab him with it. She was arrested shortly after the offence took place, and to the noted peculiarity she was examined by two Doctors and committed to Rockwood Hospital for treatment, and I believe that her case is now under consideration for deportation.

REDUCE CABINET TO 14 MEMBERS KING ANNOUNCES

Trade and Commerce and Immigration Portfolios To Be Filled

HOUSE MADE PROGRESS

All But Score of Questions Disposed of—Demonstration on King's Return

Ottawa, March 16.—Directly after the House of Commons reassembled after its recess of a week and a half, Premier Mackenzie King announced the new member for Prince Albert and took his seat as leader of the Government. The Prime Minister's followers in the House made an occasion of his return, and when he was led in by Hon. Ernest Lapointe and Hon. W. R. Motherwell they gave him prolonged applause, Bottomsiders of red and pink carnations were distributed among the members of the House and the members of the press gallery in honor of the event and were worn by all the Liberals and by many of the Conservatives, including Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and other front benchers of the Opposition. A bunch of the carnations were on the Prime Minister's desk when he took his seat. The flowers were contributed by C. S. Howard, of Sherbrooke, it was said.

The galleries were filled on the opening of the House in expectation of a demonstration in behalf of Mr., King, but apart from the applause, which was renewed when the Premier had occasion to make his first remarks in answer to a question, there was little to reward the spectators for their presence.

In the three hours of the afternoon much progress was made in reducing the contents of the extensive order paper. Of the 181 questions on the paper, all but about a score were disposed of in answers tabled by ministers. The whole list of motions for the production of papers was gone through and the House proceeded with certain members' resolutions for motor car registration, etc., shortly before the dinner hour. J. S. Woodsworth, of Winnipeg, having the floor for a proposal that a legal minimum wage be established in order to provide a reasonable standard of living.

Shortly after Mr. King took his seat the leader of the Opposition took advantage of the opportunity to ask press for information as to the intention of the Government regarding the filling of cabinet vacancies. Mr. Meighen also wanted to know the status of Messrs. Herbert Marler, Vincent Massey, and J. E. Sinclair, who were ministers without portfolio before their defeat in the general elections.

WILL OPPOSE ELLIOTT IN WEST MIDDLESEX

Strathroy, Ont., March 16.—Thos. Elliott, former reeve of West Williams, was named by Conservatives of West Middlesex to contest the federal bye-election for the constituency on March 29th against Hon. J. C. Elliott Minister of Agriculture and Minister of Labor in the King Cabinet. The Conservative nominee contested the riding against Mr. Elliott at the last general election on October 29th when the Liberals won the seat from the Progressives, whose candidate was Mr. McDougall. The figures on that occasion were: J. C. Elliott (Liberal), 4,878; Alex McDougall (Progressive), 3,548; T. Elliott (Conservative), 2,618.

At an executive meeting of the West Middlesex Farmers' Political Association also held here it was decided that no action be taken to place a Progressive candidate in the field.

78 BELOW ZERO EIGHT MILES UP U.S. FLIER FINDS

Lieut. MacReady Made Record Flight on Saturday

Dayton, Ohio, March 16.—Lieut. John A. MacReady threw over McCook Field here Saturday in an attempt to get a new world altitude record, and the instruments on his plane, indicating 39,000 feet, led officials to believe that he had achieved his ambition.

Calibration is expected to increase his record to 41,000 feet. The present world mark is held by M. Callins, the French ace, at 39,586 feet.

The semi-official calibration, completed at 2 o'clock showed a height of 39,025 feet, 561 feet short of the record. Hope that the bureau of standards would raise the height to 41,000 feet was held, however.

On MacReady's flight on January 19 the instruments indicated 38,900 feet. This was raised by calibration and by recheck at the bureau to 39,704 feet.

MacReady's ascent began at 10:43 a.m., and he remained in the air an hour and 50 minutes. A temperature of 78 degrees below zero was encountered at his highest point, eight miles above the earth. He had made a previous stop at 9:25 a.m. but was forced down by ignition trouble. He said the plane performed satisfactorily, although not in perfect condition.

"I believe I reached the absolute limit of the plane," he said afterward. His supply of oxygen gas was exhausted before he reached the peak and he was forced to use his reserve supply. He said he did not suffer from the cold.

MacReady's plane climbed so quickly that it was nearly out of sight in six minutes. The stream of exhaust could be seen behind the plane, stretching out like a white ribbon. Weather and visibility conditions were perfect.

"Did you make it?" was the question on the lips of everyone when the altitude ace brought the ship to the ground.

"Well, if the bureau of standards does its stuff," he said.

GILBERT JAILED FOR 18 MONTHS

Found Guilty of Blackmail Of Millbrook Man at Cobourg Trial

Cobourg, Ont., March 16.—Harold Gilbert was sentenced to 18 months in Ontario Reformatory on each of three charges of blackmail, the sentences to run concurrently. He was found guilty on the first charge, and changed his plea from "not guilty" to "guilty" on the remaining two.

The trial was before Judge J. E. McGlade. Gilbert was committed for trial at a hearing at Millbrook a few weeks ago when the complainants were arrested. He confessed and the accused was held behind closed doors. The trial was in open court, and about fifty people present for the opening. He was convicted for blackmail of John Peel of Millbrook.

INTENDED FOR TWINS COLT HAD EXTRA TUSK

Cobourg, Sask, Mar. 16.—(By Canadian Press)—Suffering the inconvenience of a miniature tusk, which had forced its way through the flesh between the eye and ear, a young colt from a farm in this district is recovering from the most unusual operation performed here in years.

A local anesthetic was administered to the animal and the bony growth removed through an incision four inches long. The attending veterinary claimed that the growth was really an extra tooth and explained its presence by a peculiar freak of nature, which had induced the colt to be one of twins. This he said had been prevented by some prenatal influence.

The tooth was two inches long, one and a quarter inches in diameter and four inches in circumference.

NEW CUSTOMS PROBE

Ottawa—An investigation into the conduct of the express and postal office of the Department of Customs here is now being undertaken by C. Hartle, Customs Inspector of Niagara Falls, Arthur S. Cole, collector for the port of Sarnia, said that a report on the result would have to come from Ottawa.

REDUCE CABINET TO 14 MEMBERS

Mr. Meighen asked if they were still members of the Government.

The Prime Minister replied that one Cabinet vacancy had been filled in his own person, and that two others were in process of being filled, reference being to Messrs. Dunning and Elliott, now seeking election in Regina and West Middlesex, respectively. Mr. King announced that he intended to fill two other portfolios, those of trade and commerce and immigration. He did not intimate when he would take action toward the appointment of these ministers.

The Cabinet, the Prime Minister said, was to be reduced to fourteen members. It had contained 16 members under the last Conservative Government and had been reduced to 15 since the Liberals came to power. Although Mr. King declared that the number was to be further reduced to 14, the estimates tabled provide for the salaries of eighteen ministers and a Solicitor-General. The Department of the Secretary of State was to be joined with the Justice Department and the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment was to be merged with another, the Premier said.

Mr. King declared that the ministers without portfolio who were defeated in general elections had at their own request ceased to be tariff, to Cabinet meetings subsequent to the elections and before the opening of the session.

McKeown's Drug Store

FOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY

The memory of St. Patrick the white and decorated with green icing, potices salat of Ireland is kept alive green as the Emerald Isle be forgotten by the holiday named after him on March 17th. The celebration of this day offers an opportunity to the hostess to prepare colorful and unique table arrangements and to plan novel parties which they be intended for the oldest or the youngest set.

Naturally and fittingly green is the keynote color in both decorations and foods, while the gold found in the harps so associated with Irish folk lore and history and borne on its flag, may be combined with it. All typical Irish products from potatoes to pigs, and from shamrocks to shillelahs may be featured in the menu, the favors, place-cards and games. Many families may be purchased at gift or candy stores, or others made inexpensively at home by those with deft fingers. Crepe paper in two shades of green, a bottle of gold paint, some artificial shamrock leaves and a few national flags are sufficient to furnish decorations aplenty.

Plan as centerpiece a group of irish flags stuck into an immense white potato; or imitate the Blarney Stone by using a very large cobbler and placing near it a little stone castle such as may be bought for a few cents at stores carrying souvenir supplies; If the castle and Stone are laid on the middle of a flat mirror as a base, mounded in a nest of green velvet, the illusion will be still more perfect. For place-cards use small green paper hats, on which are pasted scenes or faces typical of Ireland; or utilize their characteristic high hat in a pose or favor form, filling with salted nuts and writing the name of the guest on its white hatband; "snappers" or "mottoes" secreting a paper cap or verse and made of fringed paper add to the gayety of each plate.

The planner or whiter the dishes used in the service, the greater the contrast and charm of the distinctive St. Patrick foods. If possible have white and green china, or use a quantity of glass so that the emerald shade of salads, jellies and ices will shimmer thru and display to the best advantage. Tall goblets and delicate glasses of green crackled ware so popular in refreshment sets are ideal for this decorative scheme.

The menu will to some extent depend on whether it is a luncheon or afternoon or evening frolic, and if for old or young. A luncheon lends itself particularly to the day and because the many potato dishes possible with baked "Murphys" plain or mashed, mashed or in salad form. Green peppers, too, because of their rich green hue can play an important part, either baked with some zestful ham filling, or raw as a garnish, or as cups to hold delicate jelly or aspic for the salad course; many peppers too, when cut in half, look harp-shape, and may be devised into salads carrying out the harp idea, as with golden pineapple slices, cream cheese and other contrasts.

Keeping a white-green or green-gold color scheme in mind, combine in salads the vegetables like shredded cabbage, string beans, peas, celery, pepper and potatoes in many effects. Or using fruits in the same, and white pears, apples, white grapes, grapefruit; from which to select, in effect, easy chocolate a white mayonnaise or whipped cream dressing in harmony with the idea. Meat and fish salads of white flesh such as chicken and tuna, are likewise suitable. Relishes appropriate are green olives, cream cheese, pickles and the small white potato onions.

Cakes and desserts and candies must also carry out the typical color, or be pure white. It is best to cut cakes small or in squares after baking in a flat sheet which may be iced

LIFE INSURANCE MEN AT DINNER

Changes in Staff of One Company Occasion For Function

NEW MANAGER HERE

Representatives From Many Parts of District, In City

On Monday evening, March 15th, a dinner was given at the New Queen's Hotel. The guest of honor was Mr. Harry L. Hurlin, recent collector of the Company's branch office at Kingston, who has been promoted to head office in Toronto.

After the very sumptuous repast the gathering was called to order by Mr. F. W. Rose, district representative of Belleville. The toast to the King was proposed by the chairman and responded to by those present by the singing of the national anthem.

Mr. Milton Storms, representative of the company from Picton, gave a very interesting talk on "The Needs of Life Insurance."

Mr. R. W. Gunter who is the Manufacturers' agent at Coe Hill, and who is noted for his wit and humour, gave to the gathering a few well chosen remarks. From his enthusiasm and optimism, it is felt that this year will see a large increase in his personal production.

Mr. Harold C. Martin, representative of the company from Stirling outlined very concisely "The Double Maturity Endowment Policy" which is becoming one of the most popular contracts of the present day.

Letters of regret were read from several representatives who were unable to be present, including J. H. Nichol of Smith's Falls, E. H. Code and P. C. Avery of Perth, and F. L. Jackson of Kingston.

Mr. Hurlin spoke of his deep regrets at leaving the Branch Office of the company. He very ably outlined the relations of the cashier and the Branch Office to the Agency Force. He thanked those present for their support and hospitality during his two years in the Branch Office and wished each man success in the future.

Mr. Fred Lander who has been city representative for the last year expressed his regrets at Mr. Hurlin's departure, but said he was assured that Mr. Hurlin's promotion was well deserved and that his new work would bring him further advancement and commendation.

In closing, Mr. F. W. Rose, who has only recently come to Belleville District from Sydenham where he represented the Company for five years, referred to this gathering as a very auspicious one, not only because of the fact that it is the first gathering of the representatives of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company of the Bay of Quinte District. He said that there was a bright outlook for 1926 and that he was assured by the capital account manifested by those present that this year would show a large increase in the production of business for the Manufacturers Life in this locality.

HUSKEY MANGLED CHILD PLAYMATE TURNED UGLY

Port William, March 16.—Terribly mangled by a husky pup, Mary Sharpe, aged two and a half years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Sharpe, farming near Flint, died from hemorrhage and shock, Sunday.

The husky was four months old and he and the little girl had been playmates and there was no suspicion that he was dangerous. On Saturday Mr. Sharpe went out in the evening to do the chores at the barn and little Mary followed him, as she often did, but when he returned to the house he missed the child, and went back to see where she was. To his horror he found her in a snowbank close to the barn with the puppy tearing at her, her body being terribly lacerated and the flesh almost all erased from her left leg. In spite of all that could be done she died next morning. The dog was immediately shot.

It is believed that while playing the pup's teeth drew blood and the taste of this excited it to attack the child and tear her flesh.

RUN-DOWN AFTER BIRTH OF BABY
Ottawa Woman Made Strong by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ottawa, Ontario.—"I was terribly run-down after the birth of my third baby. I had awful bearing-down pains and was afraid I had serious trouble. I was tired all the time and had no appetite. My sister-in-law is taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and cannot praise it too highly and asked me to try it. I have had splendid results and feel fine all the time now. Any one who needs a thoroughly good clean-up soon learns from me what to take."—Mrs. Rena Plaquin, 220 Cumberland Street, Ottawa, Ontario.

Terrible Backache

Hamilton, Ontario.—"After my baby was born I had terrible backaches and headaches. I could not sit down and rest a little time but what I got up. But worst of all were the pains in my sides and I worried about it, had to sit or lie down for a while afterwards. I could keep my house in order, but many things had to go undone at the time, because of my ailments. I was told by a neighbor to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as she said it would build me up. I was relieved before I had taken the first we bought and have not had any trouble like it since."—Mrs. T. Marack, 116 Ferguson Ave. nue South, Hamilton, Ontario.

SHOW ESTIMATES OF EXPENDITURE AS DECREASED

Total Is $345,771,351—Hudson's Bay Railway Included

PREVENT SMUGGLING

Amount Required for C.N.R. Is Again Separated—Cut by $19,000,000

Ottawa, March 16.—Estimates of governmental expenditure for the next fiscal year show a decrease from those for the present fiscal year of $6,552,875.66. The total main estimates for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1927, amount to $345,771,351.47, while those for the year ending March 31 of this year were $351,424,024.13. Supplementary estimates, to be brought out later in the session, will increase the amount required by the Government to meet proposed expenditures.

These main estimates include the promised provision toward the completion of the Hudson's Bay Railway, the appropriation being $3,000,000. They also include $100,000 for the smuggling preventive service, this being $90,000 more than was provided in the main estimates a year ago. These two items are the principal features of the general estimates.

The amount required for loans to the Canadian National Railways to meet deficits is again separated from the general estimates. It is decreased by $19,000,000 from the estimate for the year ending this month. The appropriation is $21,000,000, as against $50,000,000 in this year's estimates. The estimated deficit is the Canadian Government Merchant Marine for the ensuing year is $600,000, as against the estimate for this year of $685,000.

The principal items of reduction in this general estimates are: $1,125,000 in the appropriation for soldiers' land settlement, $1,004,450 in that for the department of Trade and Commerce, $1,898,460 in capital expenditure on public works, $2,756,450 in income expenditure on public works, $412,201 in the appropriation for immigration and colonization.

The principal increases are: $1,043,-967 for pensions, $127,520 for Soldiers' lands and parks, $376,761 for the Department of Customs and Excise, $257,646 for the Post Office Department; $2,965,895 in capital expenditure on railways and canals.

Of the total estimates $132,872,410 is for interest on public debt, including sinking funds, this being an increase of $29,240. The estimate for civil government totals $11,510,030, this being a decrease of $47,000.

Public works estimates for the Province of Quebec include: Improvements to Dominion buildings $107,000, this being the same as last year; $37,-000 for a public building at Kenogami; $50,000 for a public building at Maisonneuve, this being a revote; $12,500 for a public building at Mont Laurier, part of this being a revote; $50,000 for the Montreal General Post Office; $34,550 for ordinance stores in Montreal; $20,000 for a postal station in the St. Denis division of Montreal; $13,-570 toward the purchase of the Laval building for postal station "G" in Montreal; $20,000 for the installation of motor generator sets in Montreal public buildings; $19,000 for a public building at Waterloo; $16,000 for a public building at St. Jacques L'Achigan; $13,190 for a public building in Rimouski.

The estimates for harbor and river works, mostly for wharfs, in Quebec total $636,225, as against $1,211,255 for the present year.

Provision of $40,000 is made for the payment of salaries and expenses of advisors engaged in tariff inquiry, this being $10,000 more than the last appropriation.

An appropriation of $25,000 is made for the expenses of a Royal Commission on Maritime rights. The sum of $100,000 is provided for the Banting Research Foundation.

The estimate for Canada's share of the permanent maintenance of war graves is increased by $98,780, the total being $672,720.

Provision is made in the estimates for remission of the excise tax paid by automobiles remaining in the hands of dealers and unsold at the time the tax was repealed by order in council of December, 1925, the amount being $1,650,000.

In addition to the $90,000 increase for smuggling prevention, there is an increase in the provision for the customs department of $271,000 for salaries and contingencies and on building accounts at the various ports.

Apart from the inclusion of the $3,000,000 for the Hudson's Bay Railway, the Banting Research Foundation provision, the allowance for smuggling prevention, and the appropriation for the proposed maritime rights commission, also, is nothing unusual in the estimates as they are tabled today.

The House will go into committee of supply on the estimates today.

Social and Personals

Mr. Duke of Rossmore arrived home yesterday after visiting in Cleveland.

Mr. Reginald Hampstead has returned to the city after completing a military course at St. John's, Quebec.

At the home of Mrs. Carl Read, 157 Ann street, this afternoon, the "S. and T." Club of John Street United Church were hostesses of a very successful St. Patrick's tea. In the parlor reception room with its lovely bouquets of daffodils Mrs. Read was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. Wm. Hunter. In the tea room where the table was most artistically finished with bright green candles with a central decoration of a large silver bowl filled with shamrock, Mrs. Kinnear presided and was assisted by Miss Olive Elson, Mrs. Clifford Andrews, Miss Nellie Campbell and Miss Helen Rogers. Little Miss Elizabeth Kinnear answered the door for the afternoon and Miss Jessie McGie took the guests from the reception to the tea room. A short and delightful musical programme was given to which Miss Dorothy Doyle contributed a piano selection and Mr. Jack Andrews a solo.

ULTIMATUM IS GIVEN IN RADIAL QUESTION

Peterboro' Council Is Told Hydro Has No Money For Road

Peterboro, March 16.—The net loss on Peterboro' Radial Railway of $218,-000, including $76,000 for last year alone, announced in the Provincial House on Friday, brought W. R. Robinson, Superintendent of Hydro Radials, to Peterboro last night to meet the City Council with an ultimatum. The Hydro-Electric Power Commission has no money to put the road in paying shape, he said, and if it is not taken over by the city it will probably be closed. The railway could, Mr. Robinson said, be made to pay a surplus over operating costs of about $14,-000 a year if $65,000 was spent on rehabilitation.

MISS McKECHNIC AWARDED $400

Head of Beauty Parlor Here Had Sued Ex-Father-in-Law

INCIDENT AT HOTEL

Defendant Denied He Had Caused Her Any Injury

Mr. Justice Kelly granted Miss McKechnie (plaintiff in the case of McKechnie vs. Armstrong) $400.00 award. There was no injunction granted.

Mr. Armstrong, the defendant, went into the stand. His business brought him to Belleville occasionally and this had been the case on the day in question, Nov. 6.

Mr. Mikel—"You have been told by Mrs. McKechnie in Ottawa not to come to the beauty parlor. Why did you go there?"

"Because I had heard Miss McKechnie had intended having the child ren, placed in an orphans' home."

Mr. Mikel—"The evidence shows you put your hand on the plaintiff's back. What happened?"

"She ran quickly down the steps to the landing, she then came back. I held the door while she called me names. I then opened the door and went out."

"What did she say?"

"You d——— old ———."

Witness stated he had not said, as alleged by plaintiff, that he would blacken her character. When plaintiff had first entered the hotel, defendant had merely warned her not to speak so loudly and create a disturbance. In the police court the following morning witness had not made, nor been asked to make any admission of assault. He had never previously assaulted plaintiff, and had had no intention of taking the children from plaintiff.

Witness stated he went to the door of the hotel.

Mr. Panton—"Will you deny the sworn testimony of the plaintiff and other witnesses that plaintiff opened the door?"

Witness—"I opened the door."

Mr. Ponton—"Was Miss McKechnie injured?"

"I don't believe she was injured at that time because she did not fall."

"Why did you push her out the door?"

"Because she was creating a disturbance."

Mr. Ponton cross-examined defendant as to why he had acted solely on gossip. Witness said that Miss McKechnie had maintained, educated and supported the two children following her divorce, yet he had not gone to her and asked permission to see the children.

Frank Donoghue was the next witness. As a clerk at the Hotel Quinte he had been in the hotel at the desk on the date in question, Nov. 6th. He had heard defendant ask Miss McKechnie to "get out quietly."

Questioned by Mr. Panton he had seen defendant push plaintiff out through the door.

Miss McKechnie again took the stand.

Mr. Panton—"Mr. Armstrong has sworn that you returned to the door is that true?"

"No, it is not true."

"You have heard what Mr. Armstrong had said regarding what you said to him outside the building. Is that true?"

"No."

This concluded the evidence.

Rotarian curlers were guests of their victims to-day at the Kiwanis Club luncheon at the Queens. Being so adjacent to St. Patrick's Day they asked James D. Bankier, a Scotsman, to sing them an Irish song, and faith, he did. Mr. Webster, new manager of J. & J. Cash Co., who was a guest at Rotary yesterday was at the Kiwanis club to-day and was welcomed to Belleville.

The address of the day was by Judge MacLeaf of Picton. He outlined the history of Common Law and Statute Law very interestingly.

BUILD PROVINCIAL ROAD TO AID IN RED LAKE AREA

Toronto, March 16.—Ontario itself will tap the Red Lake gold district with a railway if the gold strike turns out to be one of magnitude. Premier Ferguson stated yesterday in discussing the probable benefit to accrue to Manitoba and Ontario in a big gold strike. The T. & N.O. is several hundred miles away—too far to be extended into the gold area.

Hon. Charles McCrea yesterday announced the sending to Red Lake by the Mines Department of an Assistant Mining Recorder, R. Tyre, of Toronto, an overseas man, and the Government's proposal to make a survey of a town plot at Hudson, the rail way jumping-off place. The purpose, he said, was to subdivide Crown lands as a base of supplies, where merchants and prospectors outfitters might erect their establishments.

H. E. Hollund, Red Lake Mining Recorder, has conveyed to the department the information that the number of claims daily being staked and recorded at the department's office on the ground is exceeding 100. As the rush continues unabated, assistance is deemed necessary for him. T. A. McArthur, Inspector of Recorders' Offices, is "coming out," and instructions were wired for him to be brought out by aeroplane.

THIS ALASKAN FILM FOUND VERY PLEASING

In presenting "Winds of Chance" the management of Griffin's Theatre has made a most happy selection, the film being one of the most interesting shown in the city in many weeks. The story of the great rush to the Klondike teems with human interest and combined with this are most beautiful scenic effects into which some clever color photography is introduced. From the opening of the play's action in the arrival at the Klondike of a young prospector, his being victimized by shell game men and other crooks, to the very happy ending, the play is of never ending interest. Some bright and humorous episodes keep the plot from becoming monotonous or commonplace and the caste is chosen from the best the movie world has to offer. Combined with the feature picture several smaller films are shown, all of a very high order and unusually interesting.—G.F.P.

"If there be harmony in things essential—liberty in things not essential—Charity in all."

WHY NOT?

Kansas farmers suffer from high winds which sometimes level the grain and at other times blow it out of the ground altogether. A Kansas paper suggests that the legislature be invited to pass legislation against high winds or to clap on a prohibitive tariff shutting high winds out of the state altogether.

It may come to that. Probably the most remarkable feature of present-day democracy in the United States is the belief in legislation, and especially prohibitive legislation, for all purposes. If evolution can be stopped by legislation why not high winds? What good are high winds anyway? And what are legislatures for but to pass laws?

WAGES AND PROSPERITY

Lady Cynthia Mosley and her husband, Captain Mosley, British Socialists who hope to be elected to parliament, have been impressed with several things during their brief visit to this continent. They were greatly impressed with the fame of hockey as played by Canadian professionals, declaring it to be much more exciting than the game as known or even golf. Even more were they impressed with the evidences of general prosperity which they witnessed in the United States. They think they know the secret of this prosperity. Wages, they discovered, are much higher in the States than in Britain. As high wages synchronize with prosperity in the States and low wages synchronize with industrial stagnation in Britain, what is more clear than that high wages are the cause of prosperity? This is their conclusion. They will, as soon as they get back home, propose that employers raise wages all along the line in order that the purchasing power of the nation may be raised, production stimulated, and general prosperity restored.

But the Mosleys perhaps err in assuming that high wages are the primary cause instead of a secondary one. In many industries, British employers could not raise wages, because if they did production would cease. They would be undersold in the British market. A flood of European goods, the products of cheap labor, would drive their own products from the markets. That does not happen in the United States, for American labor is protected by a high tariff, which can be and is raised whenever there is danger of foreign goods, the products of cheap labor, interfering seriously with the sale of American goods of the same sort.

If high wages are a cause of prosperity, then tariff protection must be the primary cause, for it is tariff protection which enables American employers to pay high wages.

THE CRISIS AT GENEVA

To those who heard Sir George Foster or took the trouble to read his speech delivered here recently the importance of the present situation at Geneva will be easily apparent.

Great issues are involved. All the splendid work done at Locarno is imperilled. The peace of Europe may be at stake. Failure to reach a settlement is not unlikely to restore pre-war conditions, with Europe divided into hostile national groups, all feverishly arming for emergencies.

The blame must be divided. It was wrong in the first place for Poland and Brazil and Spain to demand permanent membership in the League Council at the same time that Germany was to be admitted to the League and the Council, and it was wrong for France and Italy to encourage those nations or any of those to make that demand, for Germany had good reason to believe that the demand was made in order that her influence in the Council might be counterbalanced. No such arrangement was heard of until recently. It is believed to have been conceived by French politicians, jealous and suspicious of Germany.

But how the responsibility for failure, if failure come must be shared by Germany. Briand proposed terms of compromise. Those terms were reasonable. He had succeeded in inducing Spain and Brazil to withdraw their claim to permanent membership in the Council, and he proposed that at the present session one of the powers represented in the Assembly be chosen as a non permanent member of the Council, the choice to be left to the Assembly. Here was a chance for the German delegates to ensure a settlement without compromising anything they had from the first insisted upon. Germany alone must be admitted to the Council as a permanent member at this session of the League. But it is open to the Assembly to elect one of its number as a temporary member at any time. The German delegates might gracefully accept that compromise.

Bob Messrs. Luther and Stresemann obstinately refuse to budge an inch from their original position. They say that all in a nutshell.

that if any power other than Germany be admitted to the Council, whether as a permanent or a temporary member, at this time, they will start for home, and Germany will not enter the League at all. In such case, all the work at Locarno will go by the board.

Should such a disaster occur, the continued existence of the League of Nations would become doubtful. People might well ask, if the members of the League cannot agree among themselves, but squabble like a lot of bad-tempered, selfish children or savages, how can they be trusted to maintain the peace of the world upon fair terms?

GETTING AN INTRODUCTION

Writer in Toronto Mail and Empire:

There is no doubt many young people are prevented from meeting through "conventionality", and some old or even. The worst feature of it all is, that it is the best of them that suffer from this cause the most. I think parents are very much to blame. A young man that is attracted by a girl and because of conventionality cannot speak to her, should be encouraged to tell his father and mother, and they should be able to speak to the girl's parents with a view to an introduction. There is too little interest taken by parents in their children's welfare, and the spirit of independence of their age is another cause. Promiscuous acquaintances "picked up" on the street car, may some times turn out all right, but in the majority of cases, the result would be worse than at present. Parents should encourage the young people to bring their friends home; and a little party at which parents would invite those whom their young people want to meet, would often be effective.

ODDS AND EVENS

A friend of mine who drives a little car in Paris has just been "had up" by the police for leaving her car standing outside a house of uneven number on an even-numbered day of the month!

As the streets in Paris always seem to be full, at the kerbs, with standing cars, I had an idea that Parisians, more fortunate than Londoners, might leave their cars standing anywhere.

But this lady, thinking likewise, was visiting No. 17 in such and such a street, on the 26th of the month—and now she knows that she should have left her car outside N. 16 or No. 18, on the other side of the road!—Daily News.

"Ah don' know dat, suh."

"Then why do you give it to me?"

Vapors Check a Cold Overnight

There are many ways to treat a cold but only one DIRECT way —with vapors that can be inhaled. Vapors penetrate immediately into every corner of the air passages and lungs, soothing and healing with every breath.

Vicks is so remarkably successful in treating cold troubles because it sets like a "vapor lamp" in salve form.

When rubbed over throat and chest the body heat releases vapors of Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

This double, direct action often checks the worst cold overnight.

PLEADS FOR "CHANCE" FOR THE EX-CONVICT

Winnipeg, Mar. 16.—(By Canadian Press)—Aiming at the reclamation of former prison inmates, an organization to be known as the Prison Gate Association" was recently formed here, at the instance of T. O. Wood, organizer of the Western Prison League. An advisory council was appointed, consisting of a number of churchmen and business workers. A small group of former convicts enrolled as members.

In urging the public to support the movement, Mr. Wood declared, that punishment started, when a person left prison. "It is not by choice that an individual goes back to jail," he said. "It is as much a crime as robbery to force these unfortunates back behind prison bars. There are as good men in jail as out of it, but those who have once run afoul of the prison sentence, have not much of a chance to reestablish themselves.

"Give the ex-convict a chance," he urged. Mr. Wood added that the general public was inclined to sidetrack its responsibilities and were loathe to ignore the pleas of those who ought to go right."

Efforts will be made to organize similar bodies in other cities of the Canadian West.

Florence, Italy, March 16.—Italian cells are waiting for foreigners who are indiscreet enough publicly to voice criticism of Premier Mussolini, according to a court decision here.

Acting on the case of William Ellison, an Englishman, charged with having made "offensive remarks" about the Premier, the court held that the recent law rendering such conduct criminal was applicable to all foreigners.

Ellison was sentenced to serve eight months and five days in prison, and to pay a fine of 1,550 lire, although it was recognized by the court that he was in an irresponsible condition when he made the remarks.

HAYWARD CASE BEFORE ASSIZES

Nine-Year-Old Girl Struck By Car on Murney Hill

VICTIM A WITNESS

Had Seen Car But Was Unsuccessful in Dodging It

The next case to come before Justice Kelly was that of the action of Fred Hayward, who, on behalf of his daughter, 9 year old Grace Hayward, claimed $800 damages from Messrs. Carter and Ralph Huffman.

The case arose out of an accident sustained by little Grace Hayward on Sept. 11 last on Murney Hill on Bridge street, west, when a motor car driven by Huffman and owned by Carter is alleged to have struck Grace as she was attempting to cross the street. The car was travelling east from Trenton at the time and the little girl was crossing from the north to the south of Bridge street.

Mr. E. D. O'Flynn represented the plaintiff, Mr. B. B. Jordan was acting for Mrs. Carter, the car owner, and Mr. H. D. Graham for Mr. Huffman, the car driver at the time of the accident.

The jurors chosen were: Messrs. Geo. Ellis, Percy McGuire, H. H. Armstrong, J. B. McKinney, Harry Fleming, Leonard Keene, J. B. Bateman, Paul Radford, Wm. O'Sullivan.

Mr. E. D. O'Flynn outlined the case of the plaintiff. How on Sept. 11th last about 1.30 p.m. a motor car driven by Huffman, travelling east on Bridge street, had struck 9-year-old Grace Hayward, breaking her thigh and causing abdominal injuries. It was claimed by plaintiff that the accident was due to faulty condition of the car brakes.

Little Grace Hayward took the witness stand and told of setting out to cross Bridge street, getting about half way over, being careful first to look to left and right for approaching cars, Grace had then seen the car near her, coming east down the hill and had unsuccessfully attempted to dodge it. The car had struck her, rendering her unconscious and necessitating her removal to the hospital for four days, and a resultant nine weeks out of school.

The next witness, Franklin Bryant, age 9, corroborated the evidence of the previous witness. He had witnessed the accident from the opposite side of the street. He stated that after the car struck Grace it had travelled some 15 or 20 feet.

Mr. Campbell, City Engineer, gave the street measurements, etc., at the point where the accident occurred and the approximate nature of the grade.

Mrs. Frank Wilson was next called and corroborated previous evidence as to the manner in which the accident happened. Witness stated that after striking Grace, the car did not stop until it reached the foot of the hill, near Cedar street. Mrs. Wilson had picked up the child after the latter had been struck and carried her into Dr. Morgan's house. She stated that the car was over Grace's body. She also stated that the approaching car was travelling at a "fast rate". It was brought out that it had been the right front wheel of the car which had struck the little girl.

Mr. Fred Hayward, father of the plaintiff, took the witness stand. There had been a matter of $350 expense connected with the accident. Witness had talked with one of the defendants on the day of the accident. Mr. Huffman had seen the child when one or three car lengths from it and had stated to witness on day of accident that his failure to stop had been due to faulty brakes.

Mrs. Fred Hayward was next called. Witness knew nothing of the accident itself. She stated that for a period of eight weeks plaintiff had remained indoors. Prior to the accident, Grace's health had been good. Since the accident, on certain days, the child suffered from abdominal pains. Other troubles too were present such as nausea and fever, which the plaintiff had not suffered previously.

Mr. O'Flynn read evidence of Huffman previously taken. When defendant had seen the child cross the street he had applied brakes which would not work. About 20 or 40 feet from the child the brakes had been applied and slowed the car to five or ten miles an hour. He had skidded 20 or 40 feet after he had struck the child. Following the accident the brakes had been tested and found faulty. Thereupon defendant had paid a $20 fine in police court.

Douglas Moxam, motor mechanic, was called. He had tested the brakes and found both the emergency and foot brakes useless in the car. This test had been made the same day as the accident. Witness stated that, assuming the brakes had been efficient, defendant's car should have been stopped in about one foot. Witness was of the opinion from his examination that the clutch of adjustment of the brakes had not come about suddenly, due to the accident, as nothing was "stripped".

Witness—"The brakes were useless when I examined them."

Chief Kidd took the witness stand. He told of getting word of the accident and of being told by P. C. Booth that the brakes were little use. Later witness had travelled 97 feet in the car at 20 miles an hour with both brakes on and no skidding occurred.

Walter Roblin, another motor mechanic of 14 years experience, testified that an efficient brake would skid and at the very outside the car in question should have been brought to a dead stop within 15 feet.

Sergt. Daniel Boyd was called. He had examined the hill immediately following the accident and had seen no skid marks.

Dr. John Robertson testified to examining Grace Hayward on the day in question and had found bruises on her head and on her left thigh and across the abdomen. An x-ray plate was exhibited showing the leg injury sustained. Witness stated that in his opinion an improvement in the child's condition would result sooner or later. He stated it would not be advisable to operate.

Mr. Robertson's evidence concluded the plaintiff's evidence.

Mr. Jordan next called Dr. John Austin, Professor of Surgery at Queen's University. He had examined Grace in consultation with Dr. Robertson. On examination of the abdomen he had found a normally sloped, moving naturally and no rigidity of muscles. Pressure had produced pain, but in the opinion of the witness not a great deal. The bone adhesion had never been at all serious and was completely recovered. The abdominal condition was probably due to adhesion and would tend to improve.

"I found no permanent injury resulting from the accident."

It was witness' opinion that the bruise sustained on the child's body was probably caused by a blow, though not through being run over.

Dr. Ernest McQuade testified also to having made a physical examination of the plaintiff and with similar results to that found by the previous witness.

Justice Kelly adjourned the court at 9.00 p.m.

TUESDAY'S PROCEEDINGS

Court proceedings were resumed at 9.30 Tuesday morning before Mr. Justice Kelly, further evidence being taken in the case of Hayward vs. Huffman and Carter.

The evidence previously heard had established that the brakes of the car which struck nine-year-old Grace Hayward were defective and practically useless; that the car had been travelling between five and ten miles an hour when the child was struck. Medical testimony had been to the effect that the hip injury sustained by Grace Hayward had been recognized at once but that the plaintiff was still suffering from abdominal trouble, probably due to adhesions which would "possibly tend to improve in time."

OWNER OF CAR

The first witness called Tuesday morning was Stanley Carter, owner of the car. He identified exhibits in the wheels did skid, and that he had seen the skid marks. Previous to the accident, witness stated that the brakes on this car had been good; also that plaintiff had reached the curb on the south side of the street, and had stepped back. He had regarded Huffman as a capable driver previous to the accident.

Mr. O'Flynn: "He was so good that you discharged him shortly after the accident?"

"Yes".

Mr. O'Flynn: "Your brakes were so good that you paid a fine of $20 for defective brakes as a result of the accident?"

"Yes".

Mr. Justice Kelly suggested to witness the possibility of the skid marks he had seen not being those of any other car, as witness had not seen the marks until some time later.

A PASSENGER

Mrs. Elizabeth Ellis, a passenger in the car, testified that the driver Huffman, had applied his brakes and tried to avoid striking the plaintiff. A photograph of the hill was produced in evidence which showed the approximate location of the scene of the accident.

Witness testified that the child had "grabbed the bumper" and had "gone under the car", and that witness had seen the child picked up shortly after the accident. She had also stated that after the brakes had been applied the car had stopped within a "very short space."

RUN TOWARDS CAR

Ernest Bland was next called. He had witnessed the accident and testified that the child had run into the path of the car, it was also his belief that the right front wheel had struck the child.

Mr. Tripp, another witness of the accident, was of the opinion that Huffman could have done nothing more than he did to prevent the accident. He testified that there were "five or six cars" between him and his view of the little girl at the time of the accident.

Ralph Huffman, driver of the car, was next called by Mr. Graham. He testified that he had been driving some five years, and at the time of the accident was employed as a driver by Mr. Carter.

"I was near the top of the hill when I saw the little girl run from the north side across the street. She had almost reached the south side and was some four or fifty feet away from the little girl. I eased the brakes and let the car proceed under its own power, on our own side of the street. Then the little girl turned back and ran north to the centre of the road. I then applied the emergency and foot brakes and reversed to the north to miss her. When we were within five or six feet of the child I turned again to the north and the right-hand corner of the bumper struck her." At that time brakes were locked, as the left rear wheels were skidding—the car moving in a north-easterly direction. "Then I jumped out, ran down the bumper" and go under the car and that she had been picked up immediately behind the car.

Witness had then driven the car across the street and parked it on the south or right-hand side of the road, further down. Witness also stated that later on, when the car brakes had been tested they did not take nearly as much effect as previous to the accident, due probably to the strain produced at the time. This concluded the evidence.

FORT McMURRAY RED LAKE'S RIVAL WITH SILVER STRIKE

Edmonton, Alta., Mar. 16.—(By Canadian Press).—While despatches from Eastern Canada indicate that the Red Lake goldfields will see a genuine "rush" next spring, trappers scattered throughout the Northwest Territories, are making their way to the scene of the reported silver strike near Fort McMurray and to Fort Smith from where stories have come of a promising platinum find.

The trek to both these centres, while it has not assumed the proportions of a "rush" has been one of steady movement. Many trappers have already abandoned their trap-lines in response to the more alluring urge of hidden wealth. Old-time prospectors from many points in the province, are preparing to leave for the North, early next spring, while a number of adventurers have already left to stake claims.

Several shipments of horses and supplies will leave for Fort McMurray this month and definite explorations work in the district is under way with the break-up of winter.

KINGSTON LADS BEAT QUEBEC

Young Sons of Ireland Team Lost Second Memorial Game

Montreal, March 16.— Kingston Juniors, champions of Ontario defeated Young Sons of Ireland, of Quebec, by 3-2 here last night and thus won the round by 14-8, the game at Kingston having been 11-6 for the Limestones.

The O. H. A. junior champs thus win the John Ross Robertson Memorial Cup eliminations.

Kingston were heavier and the defense pair Voss and Cliff Mc Kelvey, rugby stars, were too good for the Quebecers.

HISTORIC MANSION BURNED IN ENGLAND

Tenth in Three Months and Public Excitement Has Reached a High Pitch

London, March 15 — Excitement among the owners of historic English residences, and the public generally, has reached a high pitch as a result of the burning yesterday of the tenth country mansion within three months.

The latest mansion to go up in flames was Woomore Farm at Melksham, Wiltshire, which once was the residence of Oliver Cromwell. The Battle of Roundway was fought nearby, between Parliamentary and Royal troops. The house was 160 years from an ancient tree known as the Cromwell oak on which a servant was hanged on his orders.

Resurrences of fires among country mansions have roused some talk of incendiarism, but Scotland Yard as yet has been unable to find any connection between the fires. Some nervous persons have attributed them to Communists. Another theory is that the antique electric fittings of most of the old English houses are suddenly going bad. Certainly one reason for the immense damage is the inadequate fire protection, and once a country mansion catches fire it is practically doomed, as no arrangements have been made for a supply of water sufficient to quench a major blaze.

Writing in to-day's London Times, an old-time butler advances his reasons for the fires as follows:

"I am an old servant of forty-five years' experience and have seen many fires, who, perhaps, did not know or appreciate the beauty and value of the things in their charge. The owners don't always know this and think if the propoerty is well insured it doesn't matter. Many houses have fire extinguishers which have been allowed to get out of order I would urge upon all head servants the importance of utmost care and the avoidance of risk in such matters."

Recent fires have not only caused great financial damage, but in one or five lives were lost when Oulton Hall at Cheshire was burned.

A MODERN JEAN VALJEAN

Honore Chantecaille, Twice Escaped From Prison, Becomes Honest

Paris, March 16.—President Doumergue has reprieved Honore Chantecaille, an escaped convict, who, like Jean Valjean, in "Les Miserables," worked twenty years as an honest man and became a respected citizen of Angouleme, under a false name.

Chantecaille was sentenced to hard labor at the age of 20 for petty theft. Escaping from prison he was caught and exiled for life to the convict colony of Cayenne. He soon escaped again, and succeeded in reaching France, where he made good as an honest worker. He is a married man the family of a family. Chantecaille two years ago, during an attack of malaria, contracted in Cayenne, was rendered delirious by the fever. He rushed to a police station and gave himself up, crying: "Arrest me; I am an escaped convict!"

PIRATES DEFEAT OTTAWA BY 2-0

Makes Them Pretty Safe For Third Place and The Big Money

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 16.—The Pirates and Ottawa, league leaders, clashed here in the final game of the regular schedule here last night. Despite the fact that they had been able to score only once in the five games they have clashed with the Dominion players, the locals were buoyant and hopeful and by ball-dog work managed to win 2-0, although at that the game meant nothing to Ottawa.

The chances of the Pirates entering the play-off depended on this game. A victory made third place certain, while a defeat would have placed them in a precarious position, as a victory by the Bruins over the Maroons would put the Pittsburgh skaters out of the running. However the Pirates are sitting p retty.

plonships of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada for 1926 will be conducted by the Thunder Bay branch on July 21 and August 2, it is also announced that the intercholastic meet will be held in the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium, in Montreal on May 29.

Sport Notes

Winnipeg, Mar. 16.—(By Canadian Press)—President A. J. McVicar, of the Amateur Athlete Union of Canada, has announced that he will leave about April 1, on an official visit to all the cities in western Canada. He will be accompanied by P. J. Mulqueen, of Toronto, president of the Canadian Olympic Committee.

Fort William, — (By Canadian Press)—The track and field championships of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada for 1926 will be conducted by the Thunder Bay branch on July 21 and August 2, it is also announced that the intercholastic meet will be held in the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium, in Montreal on May 29.

New Westminster, B.C.—(By Canadian Press)— Amateur lacrosse appears to be in for a period of organization, particularly along the lines of introducing the national game of Canada into the schools. Books of rules including instructions on how to play the game and methods of organization and coaching of the boys are to be supplied to every one of the six provinces. This announcement is made by W. S. Simpson of this city, a member of the board of governors of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

Montreal—The amateur boxing and wrestling championships of the Dominion, staged under the auspices of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, will be held in New Westminster, B.C., on April 21, 22 and 23. Entries for the contests must be filed on or before April 7 with W. S. Simpson, 374 Simpson street, New Westminster. Competitors from distant points will be provided with billets provided by the local association.

Montreal—(By Canadian Press)— Due to heavy financial obligations in connection therewith, it is announced by officials of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, that no team will be sent from Canada next month to compete in the Pan-American boxing championships to be held in South American. Last year Canada produced three winners: Agnew Burtle, Toronto, featherweight; Charles Belanger, Winnipeg, lightheavyweight, and A. E. Snider, Winnipeg, heavyweight. The latter pair have turned professional and in their early bouts gave a splendid account of themselves.

NEW REGULATION TO DRY BORDER AND HALT EXPORT

Absolute Stoppage of Liquor Flow Forecast as Probable Result

WHISKEY PRICES UP

U. S. Authorities Placed in Position to Capture Smugglers

Windsor, March 15.—Not only assistance to the United States authorities in enforcement of the United States prohibition laws, but absolute drying up of the Boarder Cities as far as whiskey is concerned, is forecast as a probable result of new Customs regulations issued at Ottawa.

While a million and a half dollars' worth of export dock property along the river front is trembling in the balance, local Customs officials have commenced the walk which will check all shipments of liquor reaching the border and require an accounting for every bottle.

OFFICERS ALREAD AT WORK

Officers have already started at each dock point on the border, checking the customs. Future shipments coming to the border will all be sealed, and, therefore consigned direct to parties in the United States or elsewhere outside of Canada. Every shipment taken out of bond for export to the United States will be checked at central Customs offices and the United States authorities notified that it is on its way.

Comparison of export papers with shipments received by local exporters, and with the customs officers' check of stocks in warehouses at present will enable the Customs Department to account for every case of liquor reaching the border. In this way the department apparently hopes to stop the domestic supply of liquor shipped here for export and alleged to be turned back into Canada.

Meanwhile it is pointed out that while false shipping papers may enable hundreds of liquor to be transported across the river as easily as before, enormous loss by United States authorities of shipments reported by the Canadian Customs which were not seized on the other side, will enable the United States department to determine the points at which the largest supplies of liquor are getting across, and consequently double their guard at these points.

Tightening up of enforcement has become apparent already since the new ruling went into effect.

PRICES ARE BOOSTED

The net result of the gazzet uncertainty which threatens to wipe out a lot of valuable dock property and bring back the days of blackleg and night runners, has been to boost the prices of liquor along the border. Stocks of whiskey in warehouses along the front, which ran to an estimated total of approximately 2,000 to 15,000 cases a few months ago are now believed to total less than 2,000 cases, with no more coming in.

Neither the railways nor shippers will take a chance until the full details of the new regulations are known. Liquor prices have jumped $10 a case within the past two weeks, and supplies of locally distilled brands are completely exhausted in the district within a mile or two of where they are made.

Croiton Street where Dublin's fashionable shopping center is, around St. Stephen's Green and out through Baile Bridge, the tram carried Meighan all over town. From his elevated seat in the van the brewing plant of A. Guinness & Son, Dublin Castle, the skeleton walls of the Four Courts, the Nelson Pillar, Phoenix Park. And all the while Director Herman with all staff of camera men and assistants, perched on the forward end of the tram, were weaving together the scenes for the picture.

Meighan got his first glimpse of the famous Lakes of Killarney from an old-fashioned open barouche.

AT GRIFFIN'S

Featuring an unique, varied and colorful romance of Alaska and its pioneer days, Frank Lloyd's "Winds of Chance" opened at the Griffin Theatre yesterday and sets the most critical film fans away shouting its praises.

"Winds of Chance" is one of the few pictures with the power to sweep one completely off his feet. From the moment it starting pace, this latest First National epic combines the elements of scenic beauty and spirited action with out detracting from any and there are so many celebrities, in the cast that the reviewer feels that he has been entertained by a club composed of stars only.

And all of the stars in it share about as equally as it is possible for so real a drama to divide the honors. Anna Q. Nilsson, Viola Dana, Ben Lyon and Victor Macl.aglen are the principal quartet in the picture.

Either Party Can Arrange It And Divorce Costs Only $2.00

Lenfgrad, Russia, Mar. 16.—Government has published statistics which show that the average duration of marriage in Leningrad is only four years. There being 227 divorces each year for every 1,000 marriages. This condition is explained by the ease and small expense with which divorces can be obtained under the new Soviet civil code. The only requirement is that the desire of either party that the marriage relations be annulled, be expressed. A divorce costs only $2.

GAVE AWAY $7,000,000 BUT DIED RICH MAN

Leopold Schepp Aided Young Who Lived Straight Lives

New York, March 16.—Leopold Schepp,financier and manufacturer, who gave away millions in philanthropies and then appealed to the world for advice on how to give away more for the betterment of humanity, died last night in his $50 per day Fifth avenue palace of philanthropies, many of them so quietly done that they are unrecorded, reached a total of fully $7,000,000.

Mr. Schepp's two outstanding philanthropies were a $2,500,000 endowment fund known as the Leopold Schepp foundation for the aid of boys who gave and kept for a number of years a pledge to "live straight," and a similar fund of $1,000,000 for girls.

The public disappointed him in his appeal for suggestions in giving away the "unnecessary surplus" of his fortune.

None was satisfactory. Not more than five per cent. were anything more than appeals for individual assistance. The complete answer to the problem had not been found when he died.

Mr. Schepp was born in New York. When he was ten years old he invented his equitail—it rests on palm leaf fans and sold them at a profit of 100 per cent. to passengers on horse cars. Soon he had three or four other boys working on films, and an income of $15 or $20 a week.

When he was 17 he bought a horse and wagon and went into the coal business. Three years later he opened a shop of his own. He soon began to specialize in importing and selling tea, coffee and spices, and was worth $200,000 when he was 27. He put up the building which his firm now occupies and he has lived in the penthouse apartment for 25 years the firm was doing a business of $1,000,000 a year.

Mr. Schepp was a widower. One child, a daughter, survives him.

Children's Colds

Are quickly, pleasantly relieved by Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

If children's colds are neglected, it promptly there will be less tendency to pneumonia and consumption in later life. It is the simplest, happiest cold that weakens the lungs and develops infection trouble.

No treatment for coughs and colds has ever proved more widely popular than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It is so pleasant to the taste, so delightfully soothing and healing and affords relief so quickly that children soon learn to it instinctively when choked up with a cold or attacked by coughing.

It is mother's favorite treatment for croup and bronchitis, for she knows it will prevent and relieve the most distressing coughing spasms set in. It is wise to always have a bottle at hand for prompt use in emergency.

Cure for Sleeping Sickness Claimed by Pasteur Savants

Remedy Is Found by Scientists Experimenting in French Congo, Is Announcement Made in Paris and Which Is Received With Enthusiasm

Paris, March 16.—According to an announcement from the Pasteur Institute, received from their laboratory at Brazzaville, French Congo, they have perfected a definite cure for sleeping sickness.

The news was hailed with the greatest enthusiasm by French scientific circles, which are proud of their supremacy in bacteriological attainments. According to advices received here, the new cure, which is called No. 270 and 272, has reduced the mortality of the most advanced cases to less than 2 per cent.

A great advantage is claimed for it over "trypanamide-tryparamide," developed by Dr. Louise Pearce of Rockefeller Institute, New York.

The new cure, which is accepted here as final, was actually discovered by Prof. Fourneau and developed by Dr. Laiguet and Mme. de Trevise, of a company of scientists at the Pasteur Institute sent out to work in the quarters of the world said to be most ravaged by strange diseases.

They have experimented with tryparsamide in the Congo district, but claim it is too costly and not as effective as "270 and 272," which has been proved in a great number of experiments during the last year, with cases where the malady had already advanced to the point of paralysis and decay.

Millionth Ot Degree Affects Ice Jam

Prof. Barnes Tells of Great Importance is Study of Temperature

Franklin, Pa., March 16.—Professor Howard T. Barnes of McGill University, who came to this region to dedicate a new engineering laboratory at the Allegheny River by the use of thermite with its property of generating 5,000 degrees of heat, has told his friends a secret.

He is at work on a new chemical process all the good properties of thermite, but able to generate even greater heat and having a more intense wave of attack. Once the new chemical is found to work, then, he thinks, the task of disintegrating ice gorges or even "burning up" ice bergs will be comparatively easy.

PLANS EXPERIMENTS

This summer, he is to accompany a University of Michigan expedition headed by Professor William Hobbs to Labrador and Greenland to carry out experiments like those which he has made in the river here and at Oil City.

A student of ice conditions, ice gorges and formations of ice for thirty years, he has made this his hobby and does not allow anything else to interfere with it. To the committee to whom he talked about the problem here he explained something of what he had learned.

IMPORTANCE OF TEMPERATURE

"I have found that, while ice is formed at 32 degrees Fahrenheit, a millionth of a degree difference in temperature can work wonders. A millionth of a degree above 32, and ice is no longer ice; a millionth of a degree below 32, and wonders take place. Perhaps a millionth of a degree below that, and two ice cakes, placed together, must, are solidified and the line of division is gone. But raise the temperature one millionth of a degree and the two cakes are separated—there is the fascination of temperature.

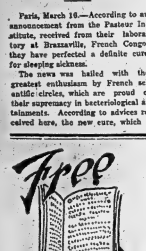

"It is by taking advantages of just such conditions that this thermite acts in its work—the thermite raises the temperature to the point where the coagel ed ice resembles no longer ice, together, but float about and become disorganized; then the river current or tide later gets in the work and soon the ice is longer united. Then the breaking up process goes it ward."

MARAUDING BRUIN IS VICTIM OF GUNS IN HANDS OF POSSE

Mabelle, Ont., Mar. 16. — (By Canadian Press)—A two-hundred-pound black bear that has wrought much havoc in this district and generally shadowed the community during the past year, is no more.

Trappers throughout the district have trailed the animal and resorted to devious plans in an effort to slay the beast. Enjoying an apparent charmed life, it consistently defied capture and to add insult to injury paid regular visits to the lumber camps and farms, where he replenished his larder in addition to doing much damage.

Recently old Bruin was caught napping near his lair in the woods. The ponderous beast was aroused from its slumbers by the flame of a birch torch which had been fixed to the end of a long pole. Frightened by the flame, the animal bolted amid savage snarls and growls. Its retreat was checked by a well placed shot. Although seriously wounded the bear turned upon his assailants and sent them to cover. The murderer was not subdued before a half dozen bullets had found their mark.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

The great chestnut which had won an ill-renown for itself by about as bad a temper as ever a horse had the misfortune to own, and which invariably either kicked or shot off its rider, gave in to the marquis after the first tussel and would now, though only six days had passed, come up to him at the word of call, and stand like a statue to be mounted.

One of the first things the marquis did was to fulfill his promise to Arol. He rode off to Wavertree, the large market town, and bought a pony which was quiet and manageable and yet possessed sufficient spirit and jumping qualities to clear a decent hedge, and with this boy by his side the marquis riding over the Bucking hamshire hills and through the green valleys, seemed happier than anywhere else. Indeed, for Arol, the frank, outspoken child, he displayed a affection which was remarked by all observers and the boy would come home from one of his rides with Uncle Wolfe all aglow with a child's gratitude and love.

The marquis bid fair to be popular among his people, too. For one thing, he always had a kindly word for all who greeted him and the women and children, who were at first rather awed by the flash of his dark eyes and the sudden shrinking of the thick brows, soon got used to them, or forgot them, as they looked up at the handsome face and listened eagerly to the musical voice and the good-natured laugh.

Of all that was going on, and the impression the marquis was making, Constance heard indistinctly through Arol, or the servants, or from some of the village people at whose cottage she and Arol would sometimes stop in their rides to get a glass of milk, or chat with the women, who always eagerly craved a word with the "beautiful young lady."

But on this, the sixth day, she was to see more of the marquis.

While she was sitting by the window, feeling, if the truth must be told, rather dull and depressed Arol came running into the room and flung himself across her lap.

"Oh, Miss Grahame," he exclaimed, breathlessly, "Uncle Wolfe says may I go for a ride with him? I told him that it was just my time for beginning lessons again, but he said I was to come and ask you, and to tell you that it was the only way of escaping the crowd in the drawing-room; he said that in a whisper, of course."

"Yes, you may go, dear," said Constance, and a little sigh escaped her, for she had been looking forward to the time when he should return and relieve her solitude.

"Why do you sigh, dear Miss Grahame?" he asked, instantly. "Aren't you well? You look rather pale."

"I am quite well, dear," said Constance, smiling.

He looked at her for a moment or two rather strangely, then ran out of the room.

Before five minutes had elapsed, however, he was back again.

"Oh, Miss Grahame," he said, joyfully "Uncle Wolfe says you must come, too."

"I?" said Constance, rather bewildered. "But you said you were going for a ride, Arol."

"So we are," he responded, eagerly "and you are to come for a ride as well.

"But I can't—how does the marquis know that I can ride?" said Constance

"Why, because I told him," retorted his lordship.

"You told him!" exclaimed Constance, more bewildered than before "How could you tell him that?"

He took her hand, and dragged her into the dressing-room and, opening the wardrobe door, pointed to a habit which Constance had half absently packed up with her dresses when she left Melbourne.

"There!" he exclaimed, triumphantly "I saw that one day when Mary was arranging your room, and I quite forgot all about it until just now when I saw Uncle Wolfe that you sighed, and was looking pale. And then he said, as the others couldn't hear, 'Go and tell Miss Grahame that I shall be obliged if she will accompany you this afternoon and he said that he feared you had been ill as he had not seen you for some days. So make haste, dear Miss Grahame, and get ready. I'll tell nurse I hurry with me. I'm going to have a pull of cords made, Uncle Wolfe says, and they'll be more workmanlike than there velvet things, which are only fit for a child."

"Wait—stop!" said Constance, clutching him as he was bounding off. "I cannot go with you, Arol."

His lordship's face fell pretty considerably.

"Oh!" he said. "Won't you? Am I to go and tell Uncle Wolfe that?"

"Yes," said Constance, concisely. "Tell his lordship I am very much obliged, but I would rather not go. I had to go out for a walk—no, I have some letters to write."

"Very well," said Arol, with a sigh of disappointment, and he left the room reluctantly.

Constance looked out of the window with a feeling that was very much like disappointment, too. A ride on such an afternoon through the leafy lanes and over the green velvety meadows!

The sigh had scarcely repeated itself when there came a knock at the door, and on her answering "Come in," it opened and the marquis entered.

He was dressed in a suit of velvet riding cords of a silvery gray which fitted him to perfection, and had that peculiar look of having come into their place which is so indescribable, and he carried in his hat and hunting crop in his hand.

Constance rose and stood red for a moment, then pale and reserved.

A thousand pardons for intruding, Miss Grahame," he said, as he inclined his head. "But from the answer this youngster brought me to my message, I was afraid he must have bungled one of both. I sent him to ask you if you would be so kind as to accompany him this afternoon in a ride."

"That's what I—" put in Arol, eagerly, but the marquis's hand pressed his shoulder as a sign to keep silent.

"Thank you, my lord, but I would rather not," said Constance, her eyes lowcast.

"Are you unwell?" he asked, after a pause of a second or two. "You are looking paler than when I saw you last. You have been cooping yourself up here," and he looked round, "and are simply dying for want of fresh air."

"I have been out every day, Lord Brakespeare," said Constance, scarcely repressing a smile.

"I know! A quarter of a mile erawl to the lodge gates or the village! There's not what you want! What you require is a good gallop. You do ride?"

"Yes," Constance replied, and there flashed a crom her mind the long hours she had spent in the saddle beside her father in the Bush. "Yes," she admitted, reluctantly. "But—but I am engaged this afternoon, my lord."

"So am I," he remarked, coolly. "I'm engaged to ride with Arol and you; so please be quick."

"But—" began Constance firmly, at most coldly.

He turned his head and looked at her over his shoulder, and there came the look into his eyes and the straightening of the brows which all knew so well already.

Give me one good reason for declining, Miss Grahame, and I say no more. If you cannot—I will give you fifteen minutes."

Dr. West's Clothing Analyzed To Check Alleged Blood Stains

Warkworth, March 17.—A. Phillips, village constable, with two assistants, resumed the gruesome task of digging in the ruins of the Dr. West home, looking for further evidence that might lead to throw light on the tragedy in which the doctor's wife and child lost their lives on Tuesday morning of last week. All the cement debris has been removed from the cellar, so that nothing now remains but a pile of cinders. The searchers proceed themselves with a large screen such as is used for preparing sand for a mortar bed, and the cinders were slowly passed through this, and everything was carefully examined. It is known that the late Mrs. West wore a valuable diamond ring, and no trace of this has been found in the ruins. Other articles of jewellery, which it is believed would not have been entirely consumed, are also missing.

THE CHILD'S FOOT SUPPORTS

It was thought that an important discovery had been made when the search was in progress, and one of the foot supports that had been worn by the child, this article being recovered in the rear part of the premises, some distance from the room that was occupied by the boy and his mother.

The child had worn these foot supports since infancy to correct, as far as possible, the deformity in his feet, for which he had been taken to Toronto several times for expert surgical treatment. On the Sunday before the fire the police have been thorough in their search for evidence.

had been abandoned, and on that day the late Mrs. West, with all a mother's pride, showed a neighboring lady how her child had been so benefited by the Toronto treatment that he was able to walk without artificial aid, and to wear shoes for the first time.

ANOTHER PUZZLE

Another point in the case which is puzzling the police is the chain set up at the time of her death. Mrs. West was at least partially clothed. When her remains were found the steel springs in her corsets were found around her charred body, and the police are at a loss to understand how this situation is believed to have met a tragic end at 2.30 o'clock in the morning, would have been so stirred. Other portions of the body besides the head are still missing. The police seem to agree that while the skull and other parts of the body may possibly have been burnt to ashes, the metal teeth will resist the action of fire, and it is for these that the most careful search is now being made.

THE BLOODSTAINS

It has been already stated that when the neighbors gathered at the burning house and found Dr. West on the back porch apparently in a fit, his hands were scratched and bloody, and there were marks that looked like blood-stains on the coat clothing which he wore. To settle all doubts on this question portions of the clothing have been sent to Toronto, along with the bones found in the kitchen, to have the marks analyzed.

WARKWORTH'S GREATEST TRAGEDY

This is the greatest tragedy that has ever happened in the usually peaceful little village of Warkworth, and the excitement that the news of it first caused has not yet died out. All kinds of rumors are still in circulation, and if the true story ever does come to light, it will not be until the evidence is heard at the inquest. The real facts of this villian are entwined that the police have been thorough in their

Thieves Steal From Children Corbyville School Ransacked

Thieves whose ambitions do not soar above robbing children, entered the Consilium at Corbyville school on Saturday evening after removing the wire screens from the window and breaking the glass and cleaned the building out of all the canned goods and staples stored in the cupboard.

It is the custom of the school to keep a somewhat large store of articles in the school in order to serve hot free lunches to the pupils from November to March.

Recently an epidemic of measles had obliged the trustees to close the school for some few days and Mr. Wm. Irvine Cole, Sec.-Treasurer of S. S. No. 6 Thurlow with the caretaker, on Sunday went to have the school preparatory to fumigating the building. There they found the goods gone, the teachers' desks ransacked and matches by the score strewn about the floor, the evidence indicating the care the petty thieves had taken in not having too much light on the scene during their nefarious activities.

BRAZIL IS ADAMANT

Sir Austen Chamberlain Finally Decides No Action Possible

Geneva, Switzerland, Mar. 17.—The League of Nations assembly to-day voted to adjourn the question of Germany's election to the League until the September session. Senor Mello Franco informed the assembly that Brazil's demand for a permanent seat in the council was irrevocable. Then Sir Austen Chamberlain gave notice that it would be impossible for him to propose the admission of Germany into the League at this time.

LOCARNO IS SAVED

Locarno has been saved temporarily and while the terms of Germany's admission to the League of Nations which have been fought out in the past ten days come to naught, Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and Germany issued a joint communique rejoicing over the fact that their labors last October on Lago Maggiore will not be unavailing.

Germany's admission must be postponed for the present.

Bickerings among themselves petty jealousies, national prestige and their various aspirations prevented the Locarnites from seizing the psychological moment when Brazil was yielding

FALSE CHECKS STIR MONTREAL

Bankers Say Police Have Failed Though On Hunt For Weeks

Montreal, March 17.—According to officers of the Canadian Bankers Association, a gang of fake check artists have been reaping a rich harvest here during the last few months and the merchants of Montreal have been swelled to the tune of several thousands of dollars. Police who have been notified of the gang's operations have so far been unable to discover any clues. For the most part checks have been drawn on large and well known construction companies and cashed in small stores.

MOON TO PEN THERE TO STAY WHILE HE LIVES

Prisoner Escorted By Sheriff and Governor of Jail

HE REMAINED SILENT

Arrived According to Plan At Portsmouth Penitentiary

David Arthur Moon sentenced to penitentiary for life for the killing of Jack McGie was taken this morning to Kingston penitentiary under an escort of Sheriff J. H. Clare and Mr. Tom Ketcheson, Governor of the County Jail.

Moon submitted very quietly to the formalities and precautions taken in removing him and during the drive to the station to catch the 11 o'clock train to Kingston talked very little. He sat at the front of the car driven by A. Burgoyne, with Sheriff Clare, both his hands being handcuffed, while another person to be taken to Rockwood Asylum sat with Mr. Ketcheson.

During the entire trip Moon maintained the serious attitude he has shown since the address of Mr. Justice—Kelly when apparently he first realized the attitude the law had taken toward his act. At the station he attracted little attention, only a few apparently realizing who he was, or why he was about to take the ominous journey. Moon's fellow passenger talked almost incessantly, referring to the job of wood in the jail yard, and commenting upon his work in the institution and his pleasure at having a trip. The train was well filled.

Moon arrived at Kingston according to plan and soon the gates of the Penitentiary were in view. Inside he was given a number, and was put through the routine of being prepared to be a permanent inmate—there for life.

"LEGALS" HEARD ONCE MORE NOT ANY PUBLIC CONCERN PETER SMITH QUIZ IS AIRED

RANEY IS SQUELCHED BY VOTE OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE — JAMES LYONS IS QUESTIONED BY MEMBERS ON HIS COMPANY'S BUSINESS IN SAULT STE MARIE

Toronto, Mar. 17.—W. E Raney, leader of the Progressive party in the Ontario legislature was prevented by Chairman A. C. Lewis, who was upheld by a vote of the committee, from airing in the public accounts committee of the Legislature to-day, his charge that "legals" or thousand dollar bills were paid by the Conservative Association for a political advertisement in October 1919, about the time that the former Conservative Government was defeated and the Drury Government came into power. The committee took the stand that the money was not paid by the Government and that therefore the deal was a private matter. Mr. Raney pointed out that the public accounts committee had been very active in 1924 in trying to trace certain "legals" that had left the Home Bank and he could see no difference between the situation then presented and the case he desired now to investigate. He desired to read an affidavit dealing with a payment to Rural Canada, a publication now defunct and also to call certain witnesses who could, he said, throw light on the matter.

Chairman Lewis ruled that the motion was out of order and he was upheld by a 19 to 12 vote of the committee on straight party lines, all Liberals and Progressives voting for the Raney motion.

THE PETER SMITH QUIZ

Mr. Finlayson and Mr. Raney had fiery exchange over the matter of sub-committee taking evidence at Kingston last year from Peter Smith and Chas. Matthews.

"We didn't get anything because you wouldn't let Matthews answer the questions" said Mr. Raney. "I deny that emphatically" said Mr Finlayson. Mr. Sinclair said if Mr. Raney had information he should be asked to give it to the committee. "That information is just as revelant to-day as it was last year," said Mr. Sinclair. The Liberal leader said, "counsel paid by the government" had prevented Smith and Matthews from answering questions. He contended that the committee should investigate fully the Raney motion.

Toronto, Ont., March 17.—The public accounts committee of the Ontario Legislature commenced work in earnest today with the object of making a thorough enquiry into the operations of the Lyons Fuel and Supply Co as far as they related to contracts for government work. The investigation was requested by James Lyons, head of the company when he resigned as minister of lands and forests some days ago.

Chairman A. C. Lewis, Conservative Toronto North East replied to a question by Mr. Raney that the accountants at present investigating the Lyons firm books had been furnished with questions asked in the legislature regarding the Lyons firm operations.

W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, said the enquiry was going in the wrong direction. The Government was examining Mr. Lyons, of the ex-"The government is examining the government", he said. Col. Currie said, missed the minister." Cries of "No, No," greeted this statement.

MR. LYONS EXAMINED

The examination of James Lyons late Minister of Lands and Forests was then started. Mr. Finlayson doing the main questioning. Mr. Lyons gave all his personal history. He 1900 he went to Sault Ste. Marie and worked in a pulp mill. Later he came to Toronto where, he ran a butcher shop and was for a time manager of a big farm near Toronto. Later he returned to the Soo where he had a butcher shop and later a grocery store. He got into the building and real estate business and was also in the city council and was mayor. The James Lyons Fuel and Supply Co. was incorporated in 1916. Mr. Lyons said that after he was appointed Minister he left the Soo business for his son and Mr. McAllister to manage.

He refused to disclose the turnover of his business or profit. Mr. Lyons said that the business of his concern with the Governmentcontinued after he became minister. Dealings were made with the Northern Development branch of the Government. The witness read a long list of firms in Sault Ste. Marie which has sold materials to the Government which the Lyons firm could have supplied. He denied that he had any interest in road contracts.

This Egg Was Not a Good Egg

Just an ordinary hen's egg packed in the fall yielded unusual contents when Mrs. George Madden, 29 Albion street opened it on Saturday to add it to a cake. Securely embedded in the albumen of the egg lay a little snake about four inches long curled up but apparently dead. The body of the freak was about that of a good sized fish worm, and the head rested in a slightly raised position. The yolk was in apparently perfect condition and the egg, except for its unusual and revolting contents, perfectly "normal".

Mr. Madden has preserved the egg and snake in alcohol and will send it immediately to Guelph to be examined.

ONTARIO BUDGET HAS AMENDMENT ON LOCAL OPTION

E. L. Brackin, Liberal, Proposes System of Government Control

O.T.A. AGAIN RAPPED

Says People of Province Expect Legislature To Do Something

Toronto, March 17.—E. L. Brackin, Liberal, West Kent, in the Ontario Legislature moved an amendment to the budget providing for the government sale of liquor under a system of local option.

Mr Brackin said the present temper rance act had injured the morals of Ontario more than any other act in history. He declared that something must be done this session, as the people of Ontario expected it. He thought it should be done on the budget, as the House had had enough discussion on resolutions which were nothing but an expression of opinion.

Mr Brackin's amendment, which was seconded by J. A. Pinard (Liberal, Essex Ottawa) was as follows: "This House regrets that the financial statement by the honorable provincial treasurer indicates a large deficit last year of approximately $100,000, and forecasts a deficit next year of at least $1,500,000, and this House, recognizing the necessity of other sources of revenue, urges upon the Government the adoption at this session of a system of sale of spirituous and malt liquors in the province under Government control with provision for local option, believing as this House does that such a system will divert to the treasury of the province the millions of dollars now annually going into the pockets of illicit vendors of liquor, and will prove of great assistance in wiping out the business of bootlegging, illicit manufacture and smuggling of spirits with all their attendant evil consequences".

Every agreement so made with a Provincial Government will continue in force so long as the provincial statute remains in operation or until after the expiry of ten years from the date upon which notice of an intention to terminate the agreement is given by the Lieutenant-Governor of the province.

Before an agreement with a province comes into operation, the Dominion Government is to approve the scheme for the administration of pensions proposed by the province. No change is to be made in the scheme without the approval of the Dominion Government.

CUSTOMS CHIEF ADMITS TAKING PUBLIC MONEYS

Said He Had Been Forced To Augment Income to Make Ends Meet

IN LIQUOR VENTURE

Had Destroyed Notebook When "Bodily Fired Out" Of Customs Service

Ottawa, March 17.—J.A.E. Bisaillon, former chief preventive officer at Montreal, admitted to the Stevens committee that he augmented his income as a customs official by executing in the liquor business, and, contrary to the departmental regulations, by sharing in moneys paid to officers from the proceeds of the sale of seized goods.

He was quite frank in saying that, when he became chief preventive officer in July, 1924, he reached a salary which carried him from further participation in monies arising from seizure sales. But, he swore: "I had to do it to pay my bills, to make both ends meet, to live decently," and he pointed out that the officers who shared with him did so as "volunteers—they were not conscripts."

Just when Bisaillon was in the liquor business was not clear. He did say, however, that inspector Busby reported the matter to Ottawa in 1921. He had been in partnership with another previous officer named Brien, the pair operating under the unregistered firm name of J. E. Bellsle, Sons of the committee members, noting the similarity between Bisaillon's initials and those of the firm suspected that J. E. Bellsle was J. E. Bisaillon.' But the witness insisted that Bellsle lived, though he could do little to aid in what K. L. Calder, K.C., counsel for the committee, termed "materializing this individual."

Mr. Calder grilled him unmercifully, piled him with a torrent of questions, taunted him, sometimes became sarcastic and even bitter. The witness' mode of reply did not impress the lawyer. There were gibes. Once Bisaillon flatly refused to give information, and Mr. Calder cad to appeal to the committee to secure an order.

Mr. Seaborn Adams and Mr. Herman Wenzo trusted cars last week.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Emith Brown on their new son.

SINCLAIR QUITS BEFORE ELECTION

Retirement of Liberal Leader in Legislature is Freely Predicted

BRACKIN TO SUCCEED

His "Wet" Principles Command Support From Majority of Party

Toronto, March 17.—The Mail and Empire says:

The status of Leader W. E. N. Sinclair in the Provincial Liberal party is the subject of many rumors, all of which agree in presaging his replacement before the party goes to the country in the next general election. Mr. Sinclair himself has given denial to the reports, but since there is a definite cleft between himself and the party's officialdom, rather more reliance is being placed upon the stories which are in circulation than upon Mr. Sinclair's denial of them.

The person prominently mentioned for the leadership of the party in the event of Mr. Sinclair's retirement is R. L. Brackin, K.C., M.P.P. for West Kent. Substance to the rumor of his accession is lent by the fact that in adjourning the budget debate last week Mr. Pinard, acting in the absence of Mr. Brackin, created an unprecedented situation by disregarding the arrangement of his party's whip and securing the adjournment for Mr. Brackin, wherever Leader Sinclair had arranged that Harold Fisher, of West Ottawa, should continue.

Mr. Brackin has all the qualities for leadership, including brilliance and excellence in debate. He is furthermore acceptable to the Federal wing of the party, which has decided wet leanings and nothing in common with the dry policy which Mr. Sinclair has laid down. Mr. Sinclair has been known to be in conflict with the Federal wing of the party and in the controversy to have thrown off the yoke of the Federal party entirely. Since the Federal party, however, controls the party funds and war chest, it is believed that Mr. Sinclair's independence will be short lived and that the election campaign will be fought under a leader acceptable to the Ottawa interests.

Mrs. A. H. Easton has returned home after spending a couple of weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Rev. R. J. Sherman, Napanee.

Miss Mildred Hamilton and her friend, Mrs. Edna Baddeley, 8th line, spent last week with friends in Sidney.

Mrs. J. E. Cooley has returned home after spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. W. A. Emond, Foster Avenue, Belleville.

AMAZED AT PAY GIRLS GET IN N.Y.

Delegation Going Through Big Shops to Investigate Labor Conditions

GET $45 PER WEEK

Say Mass Production and Good Feeling Responsible For Results

New York, March 17.—The delegation of British trade union representatives who came here to inquire into the mysteries of the high wages and prosperous living conditions of American workmen got their first glimpse of the secret.

Under the guidance of several American industrial executives and representatives of the London Daily Mail, including Sir Percival Phillips, special correspondent on whose invitation the tour was undertaken, the delegation visited some of the city's larger industries and made hurried studies of their conduct and operating methods.

From a first impression, they offered the opinion that the high wages of the American toiler were apparently due to mass production, close co-operation between worker and employer and the remarkable degree of organization and standardization for which the American industrialist has long been noted.

They marveled that women working side by side with men were paid on a par with their male co-laborers, that girls who could scarcely utter a syllable of English in the garment industry got from 9 to 12 pounds a week, and that the physical effort expended by the American employee was no greater than that of the British worker despite the Americans' higher pay.

Taken all in all, they said they were frankly envious of the size of the American's pay envelope and that if the British worker were paid so generously as the American he would be a happy man indeed.

OUR GIRLS ARE JOLLY

Nor did they overlook, although it was not within their schedule for close scrutiny, the more obvious aspects of the American scene. Of course, they were amazed at those heights of skyscrapers, and at the roaring streams of traffic, but the streets did not seem to be so well filled for a Briton in Great Britain or New York city. Even these horrible handed sons of toil from across the sea could not help remarking: "Your girls—oh, they're not only so very, very pretty, but they're so jolly too."

The party consists of eight men associated with the mechanical wing of British industry, including a fitter, a turner, a machine man, a boiler maker, a moulder and a patternmaker, under guidance of Fenton Mac-Donald, of the Daily Mail and William Mosses, J.P., formerly secretary of the United Patternmakers' Association and of the Federation of Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades.

SHIRLEY BETTY COOKE UNDER CAREFUL GUARD

Precautionary Measures at Salt Lake City Against Abduction

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 17.—Precautionary measures were taken today to guard against abduction of Shirley Betty Cooke, object of numerous court actions by her parents, James H. Cooke, Toronto barrister, and Hilda Betty Cooke, his estranged wife. The child was not in court today when hearing of Cooke's writ of habeas corpus to obtain custody of the child was resumed before Judge Chris Mathison, as referee for the State Supreme Court.

Sam A. King, counsel for Mrs. Cooke, asked a court order directing the sheriff, Ben Harris, to produce the child. The Court denied the action, stating that precautionary measures against possible abduction was being taken.

Plan to Use Air-filled Pontoons In Attempt to Raise Submarine

Operations to Be Started by U.S. Navy in April to Lift Sunken S-51 From Its Ocean Grave Off Block Island

New London, Conn., March 17.—The forces of nature will be used where the power of man-made machinery failed when operations are stated by the Navy next month to life the sunken submarine S-51 from its ocean grave off Brock Island and tow it to Brooklyn Navy Yard, 150 miles away.

There are 25 bodies of the 33 victims of the collision between the submarine and the steamship City of Rome last September still unaccounted for. Some of the crew are believed to have been washed overboard, but others are still imprisoned in the steel hull and will not be removed until the S-51 is in drydock.

Plans for towing the water logged undersea craft so long a distance to drydock before raising it, it is believed, is one only of the many difficulties to be unique in the tragic history of such salvage work. Capt. E. J. King, commandant of the New London submarine base, announced the new plan, which includes the use of air-filled pontoons to be placed on each side of the submarine. Operations will be started in April.

Work will be started as soon after April 15 as weather permits. Two of the five compartments in the sunken ship have been sealed. The engine room will be sealed and the air will be pumped into the three sealed compartments, forcing out the water. The remaining compartments damaged in the collision will remain flooded until the S-51 is in drydock.

Two fuel tanks and seven ballast tanks are also to be pumped out, and eight pontoons, six of them attached to the hull, it is believed will furnish enough lifting power to wrench the partly imbedded craft free and force it upwards. When it is within 60 feet of the surface it will be started on its journey to Brooklyn.

The submarine cruising on the surface late on the night of September 25, was run down by the City of Rome, which ripped open the submersible hull. The S-51 sank almost at once and only three members of the crew were rescued.

Salvage operations started within an hour by divers and diver tenders unable to budge it, and during the first week in December work was postponed until Spring.

NAVAL DIVISION EN ROUTE CHINA

Fourteen Destroyers and Nine Gunboats Will Be There To-day

ULTIMATUM EXPIRES

Blockade of Port Tientsin Must Be Ended at Noon

Washington, March 17.—Fourteen United States destroyers and nine gunboats will be in Chinese waters at noon Thursday, when the ultimatum of the powers to the opposing military forces at Taku expires. In addition, several Japanese destroyers have already arrived off Taku and British naval units are there and en route.

Administration officials are hopeful that the Chinese military leaders will recognize that the powers are not making a mere bluff in this instance, and comply with the demands that the channel to Tientsin be opened and made safe for foreign commercial vehicles.

Otherwise the United States Government is prepared to co-operate fully with the other powers that are parties to the Boxer Protocol of 1901, in taking such measures as may be necessary to clear the channel, keep it clear, and prevent the shaking factions endangering ships as they leave and enter the Pei River.

While the division of destroyers now en route to China could not be ordered there to relieve a like number of destroyers now stationed in Chinese waters, its arrival apparently was timed to coincide with the expiration of the powers' ultimatum.

DEMAND LIFTING OF BLOCKADE

Pekin, March 17.—The signatories of the protocol of 1901 today delivered an ultimatum to Chinese factions, demanding that blockade of the port of Tientsin be ended and all impediments to harbor and river traffic be removed by Thursday noon.

The ultimatum was handed to the commanders of the forts at Taku and Chinese vessels outside of Tientsin. Great Britain, the United States, Japan and Italy have a dozen or more naval craft in these waters.

CARGO OF MUNITIONS SEIZED.

Tientsin, March 17.—A cargo of munitions valued at $2,500,000, Mexican money, fell into the hands of Fengtien warships of Marshal Chang-Tso-Lin, the Manchurian war lord, with the seizure today of the Russian ship Oleg at Taku Bar. The Oleg from Vladivostok, a Russian port, was found to have aboard automatic rifles and large quantities of other munitions.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

There was an unusually large attendance of the brethren particularly from the Counties of Hastings and Prince Edward.

Grand Lodge opened in the Scarlet Degree and after transacting the necessary business of that Degree, received and proceeded to the Green Degree.

ALL INVITED

W. C. Mikel, K.C., attended and extended a welcome to the visiting brethren from the Royal Black Preceptory and Deshmik L.O.L. of Belleville, and announced the big 12th of July celebration in Belleville when 15,000 Orangemen will be in the parade, and invited all Orangemen to be present. He also announced the public meeting in the City Hall tonight and the dance afterwards at the Armouries. He said that Prince Edward had Saturday night at the Johnstone Academy.

FROM LADIES

A deputation from the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association of Belleville being announced were admitted and extended a welcome to Grand Lodge. The deputation consisted of Sisters Holst, Kennedy, Hanna, Smith, and Gerow.

GRAND MASTER

Rt. Wor. H. A. Graham, the Grand Master, in his address said:

"We meet today in the City of Belleville, beautifully situated on the shores of the Bay of Quinte, where Orangeism occupies a large place in the esteem of the community, and from where some of our greatest leaders have risen to the highest honors in the Orange Order.

"At the last meeting of this Grand Lodge held in Ottawa, I was requested to visit every County if possible, in the jurisdiction of this Grand Lodge, and while I have not been able to visit every County, I am glad to say that I have visited twenty-one counties in Ontario East and seventy-two Primary Lodges during my term in office. It is impossible to give a detailed report of each visit, but such figures as Pembroke, Lindsay, Ottawa, Belleville, Perth and Brockville, Kingston where the work was conferred during my visit, are at least worthy of mention on account of the way the Initiations and Degrees were being exemplified.

DEDICATIONS

"My first official duty as Grand Master, accompanied by R. W. Bro. C. H. Wood, Grand Treasurer, was to dedicate a beautiful lodge room in the town of Picton, County of Prince Edward. A very large turnout of the members from all parts of the County were present, and Worshipful Brother Hepburn and his officers are deserving of much credit for the Orange Toronto, March 17.—A very severe earthquake was recorded on the Toronto Seismograph at seven o'clock this morning. The distance of the earthquake from Toronto is estimated at 2,030 miles, in a southwesterly direction. The record lasted two and a half hours.

GRAND LODGE OF BRITISH AMERICA

"It was my privilege as four representative to attend the annual meeting of the M.W. Grand Orange Lodge of B.A. which was held in the city of Vancouver, B.C. last July. The gathering there was large, and to my mind was the best meeting of its kind I have ever had the pleasure of attending. Every part of Canada was represented, and from the time of our arrival in the beautiful City of Vancouver, until our departure, the greatest fraternal kindness was shown to every delegate by the members of the Orange Order and from the civic authorities.

LOYAL TRUE BLUES

"It affords me much pleasure to say that we are all gratified with the progress and fraternal work that is being done by the Grand Lodge, and I can say that in my visits all over this jurisdiction during the past year, that wherever I have found the Ladies' Orange Benevolent and the Loyal True Blue Associations I have also found our Primary Orange Lodges in a much stronger condition, and I feel that these two organizations are rendering excellent services and are deserving of much loyal support of the members of this Order.

"During the past year it has been my privilege to meet with the members of the Orphanage Board and see this fine building and also learn some of the work it is doing in providing a home for the helpless children in this beautiful building. I am glad to say, as free from debt and reflects much credit on the management and the generous support given in the past.

THE SENTINEL

"I cannot too strongly emphasize the value of the Sentinel for the splendid service it has rendered to the Order, and is worthy of the loyal support of every Orangeman.

ATTITUDE OF THE ORDER

A good Orangeman is a good citizen, and a good citizen will watch with close attention, all matters of municipal, county, and federal problems that are presented for his determination at the polls. He will liberalize more closely matters such as the Public Schools, Immigration and the selection of individuals for public offices.

"In conclusion, brethren, I desire to express my sincere thanks for the honor and distinction bestowed upon me by electing me to this high and important office, and for the many courtesies received during my term as Grand Master, especially from my Grand Sec'y R. W. Bro. Sutherland, also from R. W. Bro. Wood, Grand Treasurer.

The civic welcome to the Orange Grand Lodge was given by Ald. E. Wilmot and Ald. A. B. Colling, Other members of the council present were Aldermen E. T. Cherry, A. H. MacConnell, G. R. Sinclair, M. D. Duff, J. L. R. Gorman and Dr. A. Proctor.

Appropriate replies to the address were given by Ex-Mayor Graham of Lindsay, P.G.M., and Judge E. H. McLean of Picton, Past Grand Master.

WITH THE LADIES

This morning's session of the Ladies' Orange Lodge of Ontario East was occupied principally by the reception and greeting of delegates. Up to noon today about one hundred and thirty-five delegates had arrived representing Kenora, Peterboro, Cornwall, Brighton, in fact every community in Eastern Ontario. Sister L. Clarke of Cornwall was in the chair.

POWER FAMINE TO BE AVOIDED

Toronto Star Says Chats Falls Will Help Hydro Electric

Toronto, March 17.—The Daily Star today says that it "is reasonably certain" that the power famine with which Hydro Ontario has been threatened will be averted by the bringing of a large voltage of power from the Ottawa River. The news paper points out that matters have been simplified since the parties who obtained the rights on the Quebec side of the River at Chats Falls got together with Hydro and the two provincial Governments and that at this and other points 250,000 horse power could be developed and another 70,000 horse power on Gatineau River.

FARM ON BORDER A PRIVATE YACHT TOWN RESIDENCE

Former Customs Agent Made More Money in Liquor Business

Ottawa, March 17.—Activities of E. A. Bisaillon, former chief preventive officer of the customs department at Montreal were quoted for time light at the customs probe this morning. In answer to a series of questions by the Hon. H. H. Stevens, Mr. Bisaillon admitted having made large profits from his liquor business while he was working for the department on a salary of $3,000 a year. In answer to a question by the Hon. Mr. Stevens he admitted that he had a summer home at St. Agathe, a private yacht and a home in Montreal. Mr. Stevens referred to evidence taken in the Quebec liquor cases and Quebec to the effect that Bisaillon had in his personal accounts amounts totalling $45,000 during one five year period. "That was while I was in the liquor business" witness replied.

CHURCH BOARD SUGGESTS PLAN

Not Sure of Jurisdiction in Recommending Payment of $250

Toronto, March 17.—The Ontario Property Commission while not clear that they have jurisdiction, have recommended that the Presbyterian congregation at Stella, Amherst Island, pay $250 to the congregation of the United Church. The application for the adjustment was made by the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church, in 1918 the Presbyterian and Methodist churches at Stella decided into a plan of co-operation in pursuance of which the two congregations worshipped together using the church by alternately. The vote was 56 to 20 against union. Methodists not voting. Since the agreement was stopped, the $1,250.19 had been spent on the Presbyterian property and $156 on the Methodist property. The Commission thinks that the payment of $250 to the United Church would be fair.

It was feared that he was badly injured and was quickly as possible conveyed to the Belleville hospital, but there it was ascertained no bones were broken, so that his legs were bruised and severely scratched, but due to his attendance upon the young man.

WELCOME, ORANGEMEN

Eminent members of the great Orange Order and of kindred organizations within the Order are here from all over Eastern Ontario for deliberation. These gentlemen are not only prominent in the Order but are necessarily that calibre of person prominent in many other walks of life. They are here to decide on matters of future policy. The city welcomes them with that cordiality for which it is noted. May their stay be pleasant and profitable for all concerned.

LIFE INSURANCE

Figures made public by the federal department of insurance reveal the fact that Canadians took out new life insurance last year to the amount of $807,097,091, an increase of nearly $110,000,000 over the business for the previous year. The total of life insurance in effect in Canada at the end of 1925 stood at $4,254,908,278. That is a large sum, considering the size of Canada's population, but there is still plenty of scope for expansion. It is gratifying to note that Canadian companies hold about twice the amount of insurance held by foreign companies in the Dominion. These statistics are a striking indication of the increasing popularity of life insurance on the part of the citizens of this country. From every point of view, it is cause for satisfaction that more and more people should be making provision in this way for their dependants or for their own future. Many have learned from bitter experience of the risks involved in ordinary investments and are turning to the insurance companies as a safe and profitable method of saving.

The primary purpose of life insurance, to create an estate for those left behind, is not being forgotten, but there is an increasing tendency for policy-holders to choose that form of insurance which will ensure for themselves in after years a comfortable return on their investments, as well as provide for their dependants in the event of death. The contract is definite and there is no chance of mistake. It is not surprising that the attractiveness of life insurance should be gaining greater recognition in the community; the fact that so many extra premiums are being written, however, is a sign of greater prosperity. Those who decry the thriftlessness of the workers are apt to overlook this very important item of insurance. The efforts made to maintain the payment of the premiums is plainly shown in the report. Only under the most unfavorable circumstances are the policies allowed to lapse. This large fund of insurance money is a testimony to the general forethought and carefulness of the Canadian people.

SMUGGLING INQUIRY

Mr. E. P. Sparks, president of the Commercial Protective association, does not subscribe to the suggestion that politics are playing a controlling hand in the smuggling investigation now proceeding at Ottawa, but he does affirm that "if business men do not take a more definite step right now, politics will enter into the investigation." He appeals to business men who believe their trade to be injured by contraband trading to "come out before the committee, or forever hold their peace." That is the trouble with matters of this kind. Rumors are plentiful and criticisms loud and frequent but when it comes down to the actual work of co-operating in the task of discovering and applying practical remedies, enthusiasm is apt to wane almost to the vanishing point. Public indifference is responsible for a great many of the evils from which democracy suffers. Democracy is supposed to be government by the people, but so long as the public declines to do its proper share in the governing, it cannot live up to its name. The opportunity is now presented of cleaning up this unsavory mess. Business men are vitally interested in seeing that it is cleaned up, and the public at large is interested in scarcely less degree. All the facts must be brought out and a thorough house-cleaning conducted. The Conservatives have done their part in instituting the inquiry, the effectiveness of which depends, in large measure, on the action of those who are concerned in the suppression of such illegal trading—which includes all self-respecting citizens.

TALKING AT CONCERTS

A correspondent writes to an Ottawa paper protesting against the habit some people who attend concerts have of talking during the performance. The correspondent says it is bad form. Some people would give it even a harsher name. There are those who do not hesitate to say that it is a form of theft. The talk is disturbing to those who want to listen and interferes with their right to secure the worth of the money they have paid for admission. The talking is also disturbing to the artists.

Why do people insist on talking during concerts and other forms of entertainment? One answer is that they are not interested in the program, and they have paid their money to attend just because it is the "proper" thing to do. If they are not interested why do they not leave and allow others who are interested to listen and enjoy?

Respect for the rights of others is one of the basic principles of good citizenship. It is demanded in places of entertainment as well as elsewhere.

IN THE REALM OF SPORTS

The Kingston Junior O.H.A. Champions have a trip ahead of them to Port Arthur in quest of the Dominion title. One hopes fervently that they bring the John Ross Robertson Memorial Cup down to Central Ontario. And if the Petes still manage somehow to walop University of Toronto we shall call it a good year.

A MODEL TOWN

Many a time, no doubt, town-planners and civic reformers, seeing the innumerable blunders that were made, the abuses that were allowed and the want of foresight shown by the authorities of old towns during the long period of their growth and realizing the tremendous cost and difficulty of correcting the effects of these errors and abuses, have felt somewhat as old Omar felt when he said, alluding to a larger subject:

"Could you and I conspire
To grasp this sorry scheme of things entire,
Would we not shatter it to bits—and then
Re-mould it nearer to the heart's desire?"

Such an opportunity is afforded those who are to be entrusted with the building of the city of Arvida in northern Quebec, except that it will not be necessary to smash anything to bits. Theirs will be the task of planning and building a model city where none is now a wilderness, a city with 30,000 inhabitants, and doing it in a year or two. The site is on Lake St. John, at the head of the Saguenay river. Arvida is to be the centre of the great aluminum works to be established by a company backed by $100,000,000 of American capital. The company has applied to the Quebec legislature for extraordinary municipal powers. It asks to be vested with all the authority and privileges which are possessed by municipal councils—and more too. It proposes to build a model town, with wide, well-paved streets, a thorough system of drainage, electric services, residences with all modern conveniences, local transportation facilities, public library, parks and recreation grounds—everything, in short, which helps to make urban residence desirable. There is to be a city manager and a council, but we may be sure that the power behind the throne will always be the company.

It is a great opportunity in town planning, and the results will be awaited with interest by all who give much attention to civic government and urban development. But there is one privilege demanded by the company which is questionable. It asks the Quebec legislature to exempt Arvida from the law which provides that only British subjects shall exercise the voting franchise and be eligible for public office. The Quebec legislature should not grant such a privilege without very careful consideration. It would establish a precedent of which mischievous use might be made in other parts of the country. Surely it would not be desirable to have an important industrial community in the heart of Canada wholly under the control of aliens.

LAVISH WITH "HONS"

Hamilton Herald:

It is a rather singular fact that the Toronto Globe, while it revolts at Imperial titles, is of all Canadian news papers, the most lavish in its use of the American title of "Honorable." So much in love is it with that distinctive prefix "Hon." that it habitually bestows it upon persons who have no right to it—members of former Provincial Cabinets, for instance. It might as well give the "Hon." to every member of Parliament and every member of a Provincial Legislature. Perhaps the Globe is so lavish with its Hons. because it feels that some compensation is due our public men for the withholding from them of real honors that mean something.

TOO MUCH MACHINERY

Toronto Mail and Empire:

"With a population less than the City of Toronto," said Premier Rhodes, of Nova Scotia, in moving a resolution for the abolition of the Second Chamber, "we have all the legislative attributes that should deck a nation." He advocated not only the abolition of the Legislative Council but also a reduction of the Legislative Assembly from 43 members to 30 members.

TELLING THE WORLD

Colliers:

A philanthropist left an estate which now amounts to some $13,000,000 to be devoted to the advancement of good music. Years have passed since the bequest was made but even now the trustees have not been able to spend the money.

The other night a manufacturer of radio equipment employed Walter Damrosch and his orchestra to broadcast symphonic music. Through a linking of stations millions listened in upon a program of the best the world can afford. Yet the cost to A. Atwater Kent, who was incidentally advertising his products and promoting general interest in radio, reception, was only about $2,500 and the fee of the broadcasting stations.

It is safe to guess that no other dollars ever did more for musical education. Théodore Thomas said: "Popular music is familiar music," which means that the people will love good music if they hear it often enough.

HOOVER IS CRITICIZED ON HIS TIRE ATTITUDE

American Tire Manufacturers Increase Prices, Says Nebraska Man

Washington, March 17.—A charge that American tire manufacturers made the "so-called British control an excuse for boosting the price of their product," and a criticism of Secretary Hoover's recommendation that American producers should withhold credit from foreign combinations curtailing supplies of raw material urgently needed, in this country, were embodied in a report to the House today by Representative Shallenberger of Nebraska, Democratic member of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The report was critical of the one made to the House on Saturday by the majority of the committe by Representative Newton of Minnesota, Republican, who the British rubber control had forced the final publicity of the actions of it to reduce the price of raw rubber in the American market.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

That cold may turn into "Flu." Grippe or, even worse; Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster; does the work without blister.

Rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

Plain Tales For And About Women

Ottawa.—Ottawa women who go to the movies in the afternoon leaving their small children locked up at home are not only careless but are heartless, according to Fire Chief Robert Burnett, who is very much concerned for the safety of little ones. "Something should be done to protect the children of Ottawa," Chief Burnett stated. "Mothers go out leaving their tired children locked up. The child may play around for a while and find matches, and in a twinkling will set fire to the house and thus be at the mercy of the flames." Chief Burnett said that in some cases mothers go out to a theatre or go shopping, leaving an infant at home sleeping. "If fire breaks out that baby wouldn't have a chance, and it's time something should be done about it."

Montreal.—The Gazette now has a woman's page, catering entirely to women's new interests, foreshadowing perhaps the paper of the future. The editor of the page refers in a note to the return of a delegation of women which had gone to Quebec to fight for their rights as citizens." Much satisfaction over the outcome of their efforts was expressed by members of the delegation, who returned to Montreal. The fight for their rights as citizens has been a long one and great credit is felt to be due to the Montreal Women's Club and other organizations whose united efforts have at last resulted in abolishing the discrimination against married women in the matter of the municipal franchise in this city. This amendment giving married women the same civic rights as those enjoyed by their unmarried sisters, removed a long felt injustice, is the view expressed."

Toronto.—"A child of seven is too young to go to a 'moving picture show alone," writes a mother in offering to a recent case of a little girl of that age, enticed away from a local moving picture show, and assaulted. P. C. Johnston, of the Home and School Council says the responsibility rests with mothers, who should see that children are properly attended.

Montreal. — The Gazette says editorially: The burden of home lessons falls hardest, there can be no doubt, upon the girls, whose nature it is to be more patient, passive receptive and conscientious than the boys. Consequently, they will work persistently until their lessons have been accomplished and well done, by the sacrifice of recreation and often with harm to their health. School-boys, on the other hand, invariably are loud so scrupulous. . . . Home lessons, as pointed today, are too much of a tax upon school children's mental reserves. They take up time that could be better spent in healthy recreation and it is difficult to see in what way the children's education would suffer if such lessons were abated.

Vancouver.—Lucille McRae, of this city, is only 13 years of age, but tiring her own horses at the Oakland California horse show. She drives that did not prevent her from exhibiting her small hackneys tandem, four-in-hand, rides gaited horses and puts her jumpers over the high hurdles.

Winnipeg.—Sister Siachita, in describing conditions in Hungary at the meeting of the Women's Press Club, explained the situation of women suffrage. Previous to the war every woman over 24 years of age was accorded the franchise, but they were in such a majority following the war that their vote has since been restricted. Qualifications for suffrage are altered so that a woman of university education of any age may vote, a woman of high school education is she is over 24, and all married women with three or more children.

Sister Siachta also discussed the reforms she had introduced as the only woman member of the Hungarian legislature. One bill which raised much opposition among the men was that calling for an increase in the taxation of horse races. This increase was to be utilized in social service work among children. At first they were strongly opposed, but were finally brought to see the merits of the measure.

Sister Siachta said she was much concerned by the condition of her countrymen on farm settlements in Canada. It was hard for them to be isolated in the prairie country, accustomed as they were to living in small communities. Her suggestion was that intensive cultivation and farming from a community centre, be adopted in the place of the block section divisions now existing.

Ottawa.—Charles W. Bell of West Hamilton, the "first successful play right to occupy a seat in the Canadian Parliament" is quoted in an interview as saying: "There is nothing in life that calls for more courage than writing plays. The majority of Canadian men study the stock market reports and the sports page. If Canadian writers are encouraged, the encouragement must come from the women of this country."

Montreal.—"A lady who loved the animals in her coat-of-arms had pictures of them embroidered in her bridal gown," said Dr. W. D. Lighthall, K.C., in a lecture on "Old pictures were impressions that the Memorial Bronzes" given before the Montreal West Women's Club. The president of the Numismatic and Antiquarian Society, had taken when he had access on a tour of England to the brass tablets on floors and walls of cathedrals and colleges, commemorating the deeds and prominent figures of the Middle Ages.

Fort William.—The Times Journal pays editorial tribute to Mrs. J. M. Sherk, who, as "Guy Page", has had charge of the woman's page of the paper for many years, and who has had a long career in journalism both in Fort William and in her home town of Stratford, Ont. She severed her connection, after years of faithful work, to make her home in Winnipeg. "Possessing the priceless gift of enthusiasm, she is a tangible instance of the worker who works, not as much for the material reward that it brings, as through sheer joy in the work itself."

Edmonton.—As part of a publicity campaign for the province, "Miss Alberta", a pretty young woman, spoke from the Speaker's Chair in the local House. She wore a buffalo coat and Stetson hat and recited poetry in which the heritage of Alberta was glorified.

Toronto. — Elinor McGillicuddy, age 12, won a prize of $25 for her answer to the question, "What picture do I like best at the Art Gallery, and, why?" Elinor won in 24 words. "I like the Venetian Bath, by Paul Peel, best because I never realized before how beautiful God made us until I saw this picture." Paul Peel's picture, as shown at the new Art Gallery during the recent opening exhibition, showed an unclothed child.

Montreal.—The right of a Protestant Minister to marry a Catholic and non-Catholic was declared before members of the Orange Order by Rev. R. B. McNish, of St. Paul's Church, Cote St. Paul. "Rome," he said, "due to the efforts of the Loyal Order, the Protestant Minister's action is no longer null and void in the eyes of the law." Among those at the service in the group of lady members of the Order, was Mrs. J.

Why Women Age So Fast

One often sees telltale signs of approaching age in women earlier than their years warrant them. Lines appear, the complexion is sallow, the hair is prematurely grey, the zest of life has gone. There are women who are subject to headaches, backache, dragging-down pains, irregularities, displacements, nervousness and despondency. A woman's health controls her looks, and if suffering from any of these ailments, why not restore health and sparkling youth by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

First impressions are at error when the one-piece frock hands itself at the hip with a belt that carries the conviction of a blouse and shirt.

ALMOST anything in the shape of a woman can wear this particular type of dress of one-piece cut and two-piece suggestion. The group of fine plaits divide the front and back for the large figure and all in the bolero of the woman who is overslim. The full sleeve veils the fat arm and the body elbow alike, and the collar is an easy one to wear. The plain colors in flat crepe, crepe Roma, etc., are the best choice for the woman over forty bust, while her slim sister can indulge in prints.

Toronto.—It is announced here that a method has been found for the moth-proofing of clothes by the dry-cleaning process. Formerly this was carried on only by means of a wet process, which often spoiled the appearance of the article. Laundries, while keeping abreast with feather beds, which are still in favor with such old-fashioned things as the times, occasionally have to deal with some. The story is told of the Torontonian, who recently moved to Vancouver, and in breaking up his home here sent his treasured feather bed to a laundry plant, where it was washed and dried and shipped direct to the Coast. Interesting among orders filed by a local steam laundry has been the laundering of the collection of Union Jacks belonging to a city industry—the flags being successfully washed and ironed, mended and returned in excellent condition to wave their glory on holiday occasions.

London, Ont.—The urgency of conservation and the recklessness of waste which is the besetting sin of Canada, were brought home to women citizens by Major W. H. Wood, of the Chamber of Commerce, in an address to the Women's Canadian Club. Major Wood entitled the address "Canada's Untouched Riches", and it was because of the greatness of these riches, he thought, that the habit of waste had grown to be so formidable. Major Wood stressed particularly the matter of Canadian forests, 1,200,000 square miles of them, and declared that some 66 per cent. has been destroyed through cutting and fire. He stated that two-thirds of the newsprint being used in the United States came from Canadian wood, a demand on Canadian resources that is bound to increase. "A shortage of accessible supplies is already in sight," he pointed out.

London, Ont.—Modern surgical appliances saved the 18-month-old child of William Nichols, of Thorndale, from an operation when the youngster swallowed a metal washer which lodged in the child's throat, which it found about its home and The child was in danger of strangulation until the washer was removed by London doctors by means of a recently developed tube which is inserted down the throat. The tube has a tiny electric light by means of which the operator is able to see the day with which the obstruction is removed. Although this is not the first time this tube has been used successfully in this city, and is in use in some of the big American cities. The delicate operation is still sufficiently unique to cause more than passing interest.

Liftlockers Weary From Long Grind, No Match For Collegians

Toronto, March 17.—The Petes have apparently met their waterloo. Varsity, fresh and keen was from the crippled Petes who have survived a hard fought series only by sheer cussedness, have lost eight by 7-1, and now nobody concedes the Liftlock crew a chance.

Varsity rushed from the face off and Old Man Dwyer in the Petes nets never had so busy an evening. The Petes did not show at any time the flashy form of their earlier games and were evidently very stale and weary. They are no quitters however, these Petes and forced the play once or twice. Their only tally come in the last period.

Sport Notes

Toronto, March 17.—(By Canadian Press)—More of an international flavor is given to the Stanley Cup hockey championship games this more of the National Hockey League year by the possibility of one or more being "pelt in the running for the big honors.

The Stanley Cup, which is now emblamatic of the professional hockey championship of the world, has been in existence for 33 years. It was donated in 1893 to the Amateur Hockey Association of Canada, by the late Lord Stanley of Preston, then Governor-General of Canada, as a challenge trophy to be competed for and held by the champions of recognized senior leagues at that time.

The first holders of the cup were the Montreal Amateur Athletic team champions of the Amateur Hockey Association of Canada in 1893. From 1893 to 1898, the contests for the cup consisted of single matches. In 1899 the idea of playing best two out of three games for the cup was inaugurated by the association, the Victorias of Montreal and Victorias of Winnipeg making the request to the trustees to play under that arrangement.

The Stanley Cup remained an amateur trophy for 20 years, until in 1914 it was turned over for competition by professional teams. The last amateur team to hold the cup was Quebec, which in 1913 defeated the Sydney, N.S., team in the ancient city.

Toronto was the first professional team to win the Stanley Cup, beating the Victorias of the Coast league three straight games in Toronto. The cup went west in the following year Ottawa winning the National Hockey Association championship but losing to the Vancouver team.

Stanley Cup championship for 1926 will be eventually decided by the result of the coming series of games between the head-liners of the National Hockey League season and the champion team of the Western Canada Hockey League. The winner of the N.H.L. playoffs will meet the western champions to contest for the trophy.

The Stanley Cup at present is in the West, being held by the Victoria Cougars of the Western Canada League through their win over Canadiens of the N.H.L., in Victoria last season. This year the Western team winning the Western Canada League title will travel east and play in the city represented by the team which emerges on top after the N.H.L. play-offs.

The record of teams winning the Stanley Cup since it became a professional trophy in 1914, is as follows:

SHAMPOO POWDERS

BAD FOR THE HAIR

Most shampoo powders, and prepared shampoos, contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use).

BETTY BALFOUR Says: "Mulsified is the best shampoo I have ever used."

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store—it is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations—look for the name Watkins on the package.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT GRIFFIN'S

Another good house greeted the presentation of "Winds of Chance" at the second showing at Griffin's Theatre last night and witnessed one of the most interesting and entertaining pictures to be shown locally for some time. Depicting days and nights on the Klondike gold rush of 1898, the picture is replete with thrills as it attended the struggles of these prospectors in their rush to the Klondike. Excellent acting and a really good theme, beautiful photography and thrilling ladore combine to make the picture an outstanding production well worth seeing. It will be shown tonight for the last time.

COMING TO GRIFFIN'S

Rex Balto, canine hero of the Alaskan trail to Nome, first arrived in Los Angeles in his motion picture, "Balto's Race to Nome" which will be at the Griffin Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, among the stenographic thousands who swarmed to the pier to greet him. A man who needed a dog sled more than half-way across the continent sought to pay him a visit. Belleville abiding a dark-haired girl of exactly 21 years of age, and possessing a personality and pack rat similar to Balto's own right parties, Joan's was the task that beset Rex Whittier, Z. Leonard for the making of "Balto's Race to Nome," which comes to the Griffin Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. For the mechanics of the film, good Padgett, such a woman had to be found. EAST AND WEST MET AT COAST

Colorful Trappings of China Form Contrast to Occidental Gowns

SERVICE ODD MEDLEY

Bride and Groom Were "European" In Costume Only

Victoria, B.C., March 17.—East met West with a vengeance and mingled in utter confusion here at one of the most extraordinary weddings ever held under Christian auspices. Pretty little Mabel Low, child of the Chinese girl of Victoria, and Lee Ho Shout of Canton were the principals, and they stuck pretty closely to European customs. But their sisters and cousins and their aunts, whom they reckoned up in proverbial dozens, dragged all the colorful trappings of China into the ceremony. In the end every one was thoroughly satisfied.

VIOLENT CONTRASTS

Miss Low and her venerable mother produced the most violent contrast of the happy event when they marched into a large room in Chinatown where they found several hundred guests massed to meet them. The bride was garbed in the most modern Occidental wedding gown, including the orange blossoms, long white veil, and appropriate blush. But Mrs. Low marched proudly after her daughter, a stout Chinese lady, resplendent in the old-fashioned silk trousers, the vividly painted lips, black hair, smooth and black as jet, and eyebrows carefully pencilled—the accepted costume of all Chinese gentlewomen of the old school. And to make the contrast all the more bizarre, she persisted in carrying not a bouquet, but a large black umbrella.

The guests were decked out in costumes varying from the usual dress of the Occident to the more colorful garb of the Orient, with odd combinations, in between. Some of the Chinese girls showed off their beauty to great advantage in the latest Paris styles, and with up-to-the-minute flapper bobs and shingles. Other more demure, came in the highly proper silk trousers, with their faces painted a brilliant crimson in two large spots, with lips to match.

SERVICE IS MIXTURE

There was nothing Chinese about the bridal music. As the bride and groom entered, a blushing Chinese maiden pumped the unwritten strains of Wagner's Wedding March out of a tiny organ. But when it came to the actual ceremony, the Christian clergymen, a Chinese, used his native language in the usual peculiar sing-song. After the Christian rites came the ancient Chinese heathen ceremony, and then a reception and feast in the best European style. Returning to the Chinese custom again, however, the bride went home with her mother to spend three days there before joining her husband.

Plainfield News

About fifty people drove to Carnel to the home of Mr. E. Horton on Thursday evening in sleigh loads, where a surprise party was very heartily rendered. After the guests arrived all were called to order and Mr. and Mrs. E. Horton and Ivah and Clare were seated together and the following address was read by Miss Bertha Tummon.

Plainfield, Mar. 17, 1926

Dear Mrs. Horton, Hazel, Ivah and Clare,—

Your friends and neighbors from your old home, have taken the liberty of in vading your new home tonight to spend a pleasant hour or two in social intercourse. In this way they wish to express their sincere best wishes for your future happiness and prosperity and their regrets at your removal from their midst.

We have been rather tardy in expressing ourselves as circumstances have made it impossible to carry out our desire up to the present time. This delay makes us realize more clearly just how much we miss your genial spirits in our social functions, church and school. We have found you, one and all ready and willing to assist your friends in their difficulties and troubles.

We miss Ivah and Clare during the hours spent at the school where we found them faithful students and jolly companions.

We also miss Hazel who was always happy to return when ever holidays permitted either while in Belleville or Peterborough where she is training for a teacher.

Your three children, Mrs. Horton, are just now gaining an education to fit them for their future life. The main object of this training is character building. Education in itself would be a futile thing without the foundation of a worthy character. We feel by the cheerful attention revealed to us in our associations with them that they are not losing sight of this high aim of education.

We are reminded that you are only a few miles away and that we shall meet you all occasionally. As a token of esteem and remembrance we ask you to accept these gifts not for their intrinsic value but something tangible by which you may remember the friends of your old home.

Signed,

Mr. Joe Gow,
Mrs. N. Beatty,
Miss B. Tummon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Horton each made a fitting reply in a few well chosen words, after which there were recitations by Mrs. Pate and Miss Olive Rouse, and Mrs. Gow sang.

Then refreshments were served and the remainder of the evening was spent in social way or games. The happy gathering broke up at a late hour all feeling they had enjoyed a pleasant evening.

Mrs. Horton was presented with a Coleman Everedy flash lamp, Miss Hazel a purse, Ivah, a music case and Clare a genuine eyeshade pencil.

Oak Hall

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

Constance was silent. His face cleared, and he laughed slightly.

"Good. Will you come down to the courtyard door, please? I'll have a horse ready for you. You need not be perceived." He stopped and glanced at her. "I mean I will see that you have a quiet horse."

Constance stood in the middle of the room for several minutes after they had gone, trying to decide what she should do. Finally—

At last, with a shrug of the shoulders which would not have disgraced the marquis himself, she took off her dress and put on her habit.

It was not new by any means, but it was of the strongest medium, and well made, and it fitted her like a skin. She had bought a workmanlike brown felt hat, a regular bowler, for the wet weather, and the fifteen minutes had not expired as she opened her door and made her way down the small staircase which led to the courtyard at the side of the house.

She had had scarcely time to consider the matter, or she effect it would have upon Lady Ruth. What would she say when she heard that the marquis had left the small crowd of visitors and gone off in a gallop with Arol—and his governess!

And yet, as Constance put it, she could scarcely help herself. If not her master, he was the son of her employer, the head of the house whom all obeyed, and his request had been very considerably like a command.

"After all," she thought, as she went down the stairs, "if Lady Ruth should consider another lecture necessary, I make up my mind to go."

But as she thought of leaving Arol her heart smote her.

Quick as she had been, the marquis and the boy were waiting for her.

Arol was already mounted, but the marquis was standing beside the chestnut and a remarkably light and pretty mare that, quick, eager eye and impatient tow of the head and pawing of the slender foot, indicated her good blood.

The marquis turned his head, and his expression of approval flashed into his eyes as they rested on the slim, graceful figure in the well-worn habit well fitting habit.

"You have been quick," he said, with a nod. "And here is your horse. It's the best I could get; they are all exceptior her, too heavy for you. Why, you are lighter, than I thought; the habit makes a difference, I expect."

And he looked at her again with more distinct and marked approval. "Now, this mare is very good tempered; I think she is very good tempered; I know because I've tried her pretty hard; but she wants to go. You won't chafe her?"

"No," said Constance in a low voice. "You are not timid?" he said, glancing at her quickly.

Constance succeeded in repressing the scoffer that rose in her throat like a flash at a stretch on horses little better than wild, and over country from which most Englishmen would shrink aghast.

"Come along, then," he said, and he held his hand for her.

She sprang into the saddle. The mare went off, but was instantly checked. The marquis, after watching her for a second, mounted quickly, and the three passed out of the courtyard.

They turned abruptly to the left, to avoid the front of the house, as Constance guessed, but they were notwithstanding within sight of the rows of carriages and led horses, and she saw him smile a half smile of amusement.

Cantering along one of the side paths they gained the park, and made for the open country beyond. For some time the marquis said nothing, bending down now and again to arrange Arol's reins or give him a word of instruction; and gradually the color came into Constance's beautiful face, and the light into her eyes, making them brilliant with the deep brilliance of the violet and the purple combined; her blood began to dance in her veins, and her heart to thrill.

The marquis glanced toward her with a curious mixture of surprise and admiration, but still remained silent, until they reached a ditch with a broken hedge before it. It was not a formidable jump, even for Arol, but the marquis looked at Constance.

"Shall we take this little impediment or go round?" he said.

Constance looked toward Arol.

"Oh, he's all right," he said, smiling down at the boy, whose eyes began to flash eagerly.

"I can do it, Uncle Wolfe! It's no harder than the one we tried the other morning in the park," he said, enthusiastically.

"Come on then," he said, leaping over.

Constance let her mare go, and she and Arol went over together.

The marquis had swung round in his saddle to see the result, and nodded twice with sharp approval.

"Where did you learn to ride, Miss Grahame?" he asked, bending his dark eyes on her face, all flushed and aglow with the delight of even such a wee thing of a jump.

Constance was about to reply "Australia," but reflecting that she could not be said to have learned there, she replied:

"In Ireland, my lord."

Three Spring Maids And This Is What They Wore

Being a description of the imaginary promenade of three Spring Fashion exponents. And every bit of Spring finery that helped them look so beautiful, you will find in Ritchie's.

THE SLENDER DARK-HAIRED ONE—

Looked as fresh and neat as could be. Her little hat had the fashionable high crown, in fact it was nearly all crown, made of black corded silk, with a round top and two bands around it of brilliant "lovebird" green. Her suit was perfect—it was a short-coated model in navy poiret twill, and had an extra touch of smartness in the white crepe de chene collar, vestee and tiny frills showing below the cuffs. Her gloves were grey silk, with turned-down cuffs, and her silk stockings were grey, too. She carried a little flat leather bag, black, with a metal band and clasp.

WITH A SPORTING AIR—

The second girl—athletic type, with medium coloring—wore her perfectly-tailored coat of Donegal tweed, swinging along, the fullness supplied by two inverted pleats at each side. Underneath the coat she wore a beige frock in a silk and wool covert weave, which showed several new style features. It had a two-piece effect, there were ties of silk faille at the neck and the skirt had three box pleats in front. Her hat, beige faille with a rosy tinge, was turned up at the back, and had rows of overlapping suede cut-outs on the crown, in all colors. A pouch bag of light brown calfskin, with modernistic painted "moons" on it, beige silk stockings and chamoisette gloves to match, completed her costume.

BUT THE DIGNIFIED BLONDE—

was perhaps the smartest of them all. Fashion has nothing newer in Coats than the one she wore—a cape coat in a beautiful shade of blue—rich and deep without being so dark as navy. The lovely lines of the coat gave this Spring Maid genuine distinction. The cape was detachable and coat and cape were both lined with silk crepe in the same shade of blue. With the coat she wore a one-piece dress in a "wild honey" shade which blended perfectly. This is one of the ivory tints. The dress had the new "plastron" in front, formed of pleated georgette in pale pink. Her hat of straw and ribbon, combined a wild honey shade with blue, and she wore a filmy georgette scarf, pale pink, with pointed ends. She had a "champagne" for her stockings and gloves, and she carried the prettiest little pouch bag in this shade, with a jewelled frame.

"Where You See the Right Things for Spri

The RITCHIE Co

"In Ireland," he said, "oh, yes, that accounts for it. You hunted a great deal?"

"Not a great deal," said Constance. "We were too poor. My father's practice—he was a doctor—was small, but I got a run now and again; on a friend's horse generally."

He listened to her, intently, as it seemed, for he brought his horse nearer to her.

"And how long have you been at the castle?" he asked.

"Just six days, my lord," said Constance.

ALBERT COLLEGE MADE HABITABLE BY SEPTEMBER 1

Board of Governors Gives New Contract to the Dickie Co., Toronto

IS ALL INSIDE WORK

Firm Which did Stone Work Entrusted With Finishing

Albert College the magnificent stone edifice overlooking the Bay of Quinte will really be ready for occupancy by September 1st.

This was made doubly certain today by Principal R. N. Baker, D.D., in announcing the awarding of the contract to complete the work necessary to make the place habitable as a College.

The Board of Governors of the College met yesterday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce to receive the report of the Building committee. This committee reported that after full and careful consideration of all tenders the Dickie Construction Company's (Toronto) tender was the most satisfactory and the Board confirmed this action. The Dickie Company it will be remembered was the firm which did the remarkably fine stone work some two years ago.

The work to be completed this summer includes the finishing of the Administration Building, the Alexander Memorial) Hall, the Dining Room, the gymnasium, the swimming tank, the kitchen quarters, the Junior school and the Senior dormitories.

For various reasons, said Dr. Baker the Board could not give out even an approximate figure as to what this amount of work will total in dollars and cents.

WHAT HAVE EX-MINISTERS AND NEAR-MINISTERS COST ?

Ottawa, Mar. 18.—"With respect to following ministers and ex-ministers without portfolio, Hon. Messrs. Marler, Sinclair, McGiverin and Dandurand, what has been the cost to the country, inclusive of expenses, secretarial and other assistance, of each of such ministers, for each year up to January 1 last during which they were in office?" asks Hon. J. W. Edwards, Conservative. Frontenac-Addington, in a question placed on the order paper of the House of Commons.

SEES PROSPERITY IN WEST CANADA COAST THRIVING

A marked improvement in business in all the Western cities is the optimistic report brought back to the city by Mr. W. E. Deacon who is back in Belleville after an extended trip to the coast where he visited Seattle and Vancouver. He was in Edmonton and Calgary, in fact in all the big centres of the prairie provinces as well as British Columbia. Of all cities Vancouver, however, seems to have made the most vast strides, and this Mr. Deacon accounts for largely by the enormous wheat shipments which are being made from that port. The housing conditions and office buildings are also, Mr. Deacon stated much improved.

FRUIT TREES BLOSSOM

It was rather a shock for Mr. Deacon to have arrived in Belleville, the country a thick cloak of freshly fallen snow having overspread the city, cover where trees are in bloom and where householders instead of wielding shovels are busy with the lawn mowers. There has been no snow west of the Rocky mountains this year.

To the large wheat, crop, the high prices and the wheat pool Mr. Deacon

TALK OF RESIGNING

This is Put Down to Hope Of Enemies For Defeat of Gov't

London, March 18.—Discussion of Sir Austen Chamberlain's mission to Geneva will be a feature of next week's sessions of the House of Commons and it is possible, although this has not yet finally been determined upon, that a vote of censure may be moved against him.

In such a case present indications are that the Foreign Secretary would be saved by a big Conservative majority. There are rumors that he may forestall an attack upon him by resigning his portfolio, although these seem to be based on speculation. The anti-government press is making every effort to bring about the political downfall of Sir Austen Chamberlain who with Premier Briand of France is declared to be the author of the Geneva collapse.

TANTAMOUNT TO ADMISSION

Geneva, March 18.—Decision by the League of Nations' council at its secret session last night to put Germany on the commission which is to study revision of the covenant clauses concerning the composition of and methods of election to the council, roused considerable discussion today. The decision was interpreted by many as indicating that the council virtually regards Germany as a member of the League, despite yesterday's adjournment of action on her application for membership until September. Germany's acceptance of representation on the commission is expected.

Belleville Waterworks Dept. Complimented on Its Pumphouse

Belleville's Pumphouse, its equipment and appliances and the property generally are kept in a condition "unsurpassed by any plant in Ontario."

This opinion is not merely local but comes from no less an authority than an inspector of the General Accident Assurance Co. of Toronto, Mr. Villiers, who has large experience of plants throughout the country. This very pleasant information came to Manager E. T. Austin, in the following letter:

The General Accident Assurance Company of Canada

Head Office,

Toronto—2,

15th March, 1926.

E. T. Austin, Esq.,
Mgr. Waterworks, City of Belleville,
Belleville, Ontario.

Dear Sir:—

Mr. Villiers has asked me, when writing to you, to state his appreciation of the very excellent care which your plant receives. He says that in his opinion, the equipment and the condition that it is kept in is unsurpassed by any plant in Ontario.

I am very glad indeed to pass this message on from Mr. Villiers, and may say, that, coming from him with his large experience of different plants, you are to be congratulated.

Yours very truly,
(Sgd.) Thos. H. Penner,
Mgr. Engineering Dept.

Hi-Jackers on Montreal Street Got Load of Customs Whiskey

Ottawa, March 18.—A hijacking episode on the streets of Montreal was recounted before the customs committee this morning by C. M. Latimer, the driver who carried goods for the customs office in that city. On the instructions of one of the customs officers Latimer took two barrels of whiskey from the office and was driving through the streets when he was assaulted by four men, an overcoat was thrown over his head and he was pulled down.

According to his own story, "a lady" jumped in the sleigh and drove it away. He himself was not injured. Latimer reported the incident to Officer Quirk of the department whose only comment was, "Well if it's gone, it's gone." The same driver testified to having frequently delivered bottled from the customs office to individuals.

R. D. Tighe of Edmonton was, on the motion of D. M. Kennedy of Edmonton, appointed junior counsel to the committee.

ST.PATRICK'S DAY IN THIS CITY

St. Patrick's Day was observed more joyously in Belleville this year than ever before, many organizations welcoming the brief respite from long days of lenten observations by dances, concerts and many other celebrations. The children of St. Michael's school were especially lucky in having a whole day's holiday in honor of Ireland's Patron Saint.

AT THE TABERNACLE

"Patsy" a breezy bright Irish comedy in two acts was presented to an almost capacity audience at the Tabernacle Church in the Sunday School Room and in the Miss Doris Roe in the title role was most delightful, Miss Henrietta Ryan and Miss Lizzie and Miss Helen Owens as Nita Farrell, Miss Lane's lovely voice allowed marked ability, Kathleen Tuck made a very pleasing Ruth Fielding and Ruth Case and Clarice Stewart were very bright. Miss Lillian Sprackett as Hilda Williams, the insurance agent was most entertaining. All in all the play was presented in a most talented fashion.

THE BINGO PARTY

A bright musical programme supplemented the evening's entertainment and to this every one contributed.

A piano solo by Miss Barlow; vocal solo by Miss Greenleaf; vocal solo by Dr. Ryker; vocal solo by Miss Rose; vocal solo by Miss Rainbird; piano duett by Miss Kindred and Miss Barlow; the ceremony acted as chairman.

REFRESHMENTS SERVED

Dainty refreshments were served at the conclusion of the programme in the two rooms which were neatly decorated with their green and white decorations in honor of St. Patrick's day.

AT ST. MICHAEL'S ACADEMY

Two hundred persons attended the bright St. Patrick's concert and card party given last evening in St. Michael's Academy under the auspices of the Children of Mary and a most enjoyable time was spent by all present. With Mr. Thos. Cushing as chairman of the evening, a very excellent musical programme was presented to which Misses Bowerman and Ethier contributed a piano duet, Miss Katherine Smith a recitation, Miss Katie Carden a solo, Miss Ida Folwell a dance, with Miss Helen Byrne as pianist, Mr. Jack Belair and Miss Mae Carew latter a piano and violin selection, and Miss Gladys Bryce a solo. Mrs. Grant was the very able accompanist.

THE PRIZES

Winners of the ladies' prizes for the evening were: 1st, (set of bonds) Jampai Mrs. James Lynch; 2nd, (5 lbs. box chocolates) Mrs. John Walsh; 3rd, (silk stockings) Mrs. Ed Brown; 4th, (fancy plate) Miss Marion McDonald; consolation, Mrs. St. Louis.

Winners of the gentlemen's prizes were, 1st, (white silk scarf) Mr. Robinson; 2nd, (Handkerchief and tie) Mr. F. Allen; 3rd, (toilet outfit) Mr. Hugh Dogovan; 4th, (box of cigars) Mr. J. McDermott; consolation, Mr. Jack McKinney.

The door prize was won by Miss Katie Bawden.

DAINTY REFRESHMENTS

The refreshments served were most delicious and most daintily served by the young ladies in charge.

AT THE JOHNSTONE ACADEMY

Johnstone's Academy was really artistically decorated last evening for the dance given in the hall and one hundred couples spent a thoroughly enjoyable evening. The walls were gaily decorated with countless shamrocks and flowers were lavishly placed about the hall while many birds completed the artistic background for the dance. A specialty which was thoroughly enjoyed was an Irish reel by Kitty Torrance, Kittie Howie, Doris Calcutt, Jean Gross, Margaret Gynne, Margaret Savage, Ruby Kiser, Kitty Johnstone, George Taylor, Earl Gray, Edward Gardiner and Clifford Howie. The participants in the dance who are all unusually talented proved vocal entertainers and were encored repeatedly. Miss Brown and Mr. Joseph Allison won the first waltz prize. Pretty features of the entertainment were the Irish favors, green polka bonnets, etc., presented to each guest by the management of the Academy and worn by the recipients.

AT KING GEORGE SCHOOL

In fitting recollection of Ireland and the Saint, St. Patrick, the King George pupils and staff were treated to a delightful talk on Ireland by the chairman of the Board, Mr. John Elliott.

Shortly after three the pupils entered in the large assembly hall fittingly decked with Shamrocks and after hearing "O Canada" Mr. Don. Bleecker took the chair. His remarks as chairman were brief but full of humor and delight reflecting his genial spirit among the youth of his ward.

The school then sang "Where the River Shannon Flows" lead by Professor Hunt at the piano and Mr. Elliott was called upon, and for a few minutes spoke of Ireland, dwelling chiefly upon the Saint St. Patrick, the Shamrock Emblem, the city of Dublin with its famous library, the Coronation Stone and many scenic spots of the Old Emerald Isle, among which he seemed to live again as he spoke. These he intermingled with fond old Irish stories so pleasing to juniors. Following this the school sang "My Wild Irish Rose," which was repeated by the boys whistling to the girls' singing.

Trustee Mr. George Sprackett then spoke on the history and significance of the old red, white and green.

A vote of thanks was tendered by Mr. Simpkins, the principal, the school responding with a "Jolly Good Fellow" led by the chairman.

Leon Turner, the Co. Com. of the Cadet Corps then moved a hearty vote of thanks on behalf of the Cadet Corps to Trustees Messrs Bleeker and Sprackett for their interests in the Corps and donation of $5 to the same which was signified to by three rousing cheers from the cadets.

The pupils were then dismissed and the guests including Nurse Sinclair, Mrs. Simpkins and Miss Jean Stobie repaired to the library where a real St. Patrick lunch was given by the staff.

It was regretted that Inspector Clark owing to duties from the city was not able to attend.

PASTIME SOCIAL CLUB

Moose Academy where the Pastime Social Club was entertained in a large crowd and a thoroughly enjoyable time was spent by all present. The committee in charge had looked after every detail of the evening most efficiently and nothing marred the five hours of real enjoyment. Some clever specialties were presented by Miss Wellman, E. F. Lee and N. Davison, of Kingston acting as judges and to Miss Wellman and Mr. Harry Blisbel was awarded the first prize for waltzing and to Mrs. H. Boyle and Mr. Hogan the second. Messrs. Ward, Fenwick, Ivor, V. Bennett, Thomson J. Fagey, Jack Diamond, Miss Goodfellow and Bud Oakes were amongst the novelty prize winners. An interesting feature of the evening was a demonstration of the Charleston by Mr. Gates and Miss Jessie Mason and Mr. C. Bennett, also an Irish jig by Miss Ida Folwell and step dance by Fred Elliott. Music by Young's orchestra proved excellent and was thoroughly appreciated.

ST. ANDREW'S HONORS ST. PATRICK

Five hundred and fifty people, representing every congregation in the city attended the annual St. Patrick's Supper given at St. Andrew's and fine banked and fifty pounds agreed that the affair was one of the most delightful of its kind ever held in the city. The basement of the church had been transformed into a bower of real beauty, the walls cleverly obscured by what nature profusely festooned with great green shamrock leaves. Six

Orange Order Given Praise For Fine Work

Has Been Great Agency For Simulating Loyal Principles

BRITISH CONNECTION

H. C. Hocken, M.P., is Principal Speaker Of The Evening

Orangeism and the good it has done for religious thought was referred for religious and thought was referred to by the speakers at the open meeting held last night at the city hall in connection with the Grand Lodge of Eastern Ontario. The hall was well filled and the programme presented was varied and interesting in its character.

REV. A. L. GREEN

Rev. A. L. Geen, Grand Chaplain of the Black Preceptory of Eastern Ontario occupied the chair and in a few well chosen words extended a hearty welcome to all present.

Addresses given were interspersed by a vocal selection by Mrs. H. McKay entitled "Sing Me to Sleep."; dances beautifully executed by Miss Ida Folwell, with accompaniments played by Miss Hazel Byrnes; musical selections by Masters, Raymond Lennox at the piano and Leslie Lennox on the violin, and morning pictures.

TELEPHONE PICTURES

The latter were most interesting, showing the reception of the Bell Telephone to its present magnitude. The pictures were much appreciated.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS

Worshipful Master H. A. Graham of Kingston was the first speaker. Belleville, he felt, was almost his home town. The city had been a fountain for the Orange Society. Some of the greatest members of the Orange Order came from Belleville, and our town the late Sir Mackenzie Bowell. Another veteran was Bro. F. M. Clarke. Recently a Past Grand Master was elected a member of the Dominion Parliament. "We will never forget the kindness extended to the delegates to the Grand Lodge by all citizens of Belleville and some day the Grand Lodge will meet here again."

FROM WEST ONTARIO

Bro. J. J. Hunter of Kincardine, D.O.M. of Western Ontario enjoined upon all Protestants to be friends of the Order. We have made ourselves known as earnestly as we should. The Orange Order has done much for Canada. Never in the history of Canada did we need a united Protestant body as today. "There is danger ahead of us and we should be prepared to meet the emergency. The time to prepare for war is before war is declared. Are we training the young men to take our place and their place in public life? All members of the Order should study well its principles. We desire to hold all we have and to add to it also in by vigilance," he said. The speaker referred to mixed marriages and the evil to Protestantism that it caused such marriages. In conclusion the speaker made an eloquent appeal for unity among all Protestants and especially amongst the members of the Orange Order.

TWO REASONS

Two reasons why all members love British religious liberty and all that is good and noble in life, said Pro. H. M. Scott of Lindsay, D.G.M. "We should all check up our lives and see if we are doing something to perpetuate these two great ideas."

FROM KINGSTON

Col. T. H. Kidd of Kingston in his few remarks augmented the impression there was for the young men to be identified with the Orange Order. In 1920 the Society was at a comparative stand still but during the past five years the Order has made rapid progress. This was inspiring to all members of the Order. During the great

CHANGE NAME OF BELLEVILLE TO QUINTE CITY

Mr. Robert Bogie Writes Letter to Paper Giving Views

Mr. Robert Bogie has written a letter to this paper suggesting that for reasons which he outlines and which he thinks are of great importance the name of Belleville is not a happy one under the circumstances and that it would be more fitting to change it to Quinte City. His letter follows:

"To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

"Belleville's natural advantages are undoubtedly wonderful. Its location is the best that could be desired. Its transportation facilities both by land and water are unequalled by any city of like population in Ontario. It is well provided with good banks. Everything that is required by its inhabitants is amply supplied by its merchants. In the way of churches and other religious associations the moral and spiritual interests of its citizens are well catered for. Its schools and colleges compare favourably even with the cities of larger population. Its parks are unexcelled for the excellence of their accommodation and service. Its market for variety and abundance is unsurpassed by any other town in Ontario. Its four theatres together with church shows and dances, Y.M.C.A. shows, High School shows and dances, shows and dances of the many societies, clubs and dance halls, exclusive or private so-called dancing parties and all the indoor and outdoor popular games afford all that could be desired in the way of entertainment and amusement. There is sufficient to supply and satisfy the requirements of all the bobbed flappers and bald headed sheiks in Ontario. Its professional men are well qualified to attend to all the requirements of its inhabitants. In fact everything that is essential to insure the development of a city is within its boundaries.

"The question now is, 'WHY DOES BELLEVILLE NOT GROW?' Can any reader discover the cause of its retarded growth? The writer has come to the conclusion that the trouble lies entirely in the name, that if we desire to develop rapidly we must change our name. It is quite apparent we have too many cities within close proximity, for instance, Belleville, Shannonville, Corbyville, Marysville, Tufurville, Redneerville, Allisonville, Unfruvilie. People at a distance who are considering a good place to locate would be apt to think that Belleville was a village or very small place owing to the fact that so many insignificant places end their names with ville. I presume Shannonville is as well, if not better, known by people at a distance than Belleville because Shannonville has for many years never failed successfully to operate a World's Fair and while doing so Belleville for many years had no annual fair. This fact being known by outsiders they must have been impressed with the idea that Shannonville was a larger place than Belleville. I know many people are much attached to the name "Belleville." They are very fond of it. In a way this is all right, like having a pet vice a pet name. It is all right to call a little girl "Birdie" but when she grows up to womanhood and weighs 200 pounds to call her Birdie then would seem ridiculous.

"So with Belleville. Belleville was named after some girl named Belle, I believe, and when named it was an insignificant place. Doubtless such a name was appropriate at that time but at the present time I am fully convinced that we must have, if we wish to make advancement, a different name. I would suggest "Quinte City" because such a name would give everyone the impression that it was a real city. One would never think of classifying or associating the name "Quinte City" with Cobdenville, Pumpkinville and innumerable other villes. In talking with business men on this subject they have been in favor of a change of name. One said we have so little to show for our efforts of 110 years that when he was abroad he was ashamed to admit he was from Belleville as it was being advertised as a bigger and better Belleville, a city of joy and prosperousness when it is well known the population is less now than it was 10 years ago, Optimism is an excellent quality when founded on truth, but optimistic boom bust is of as much value as a passing cloud.

Robert Bogie.

FORT WILLIAM SET FOR GAME

Expect To Win From Heavier Kingston Team With Their Speed

Fort William, Ont., March 18.—Tonight the first of two game series between Fort William and Kingston will be played to decide the team that will give battle to the winner of the Calgary-Winnipeg series in the final of the Allen Cup, carrying with it the junior hockey championship of Canada.

Speed versus strength it is declared will be the deciding factor in the contest. Kingston team is far heavier than the Fort William representatives but will find the latter one of the fastest scatettes ever turned out at the head of the lakes. Great interest in the coming contest is shown by local fans, thousands of whom will witness tonight's game and the ushering in of a cold wave this morning promised ideal ice conditions. Kingston team arrived this morning.

con attributes the bulk of western business activity.

Asked if he saw many Bellevillians in the west Mr. Deacon laughingly observed The Intelligencer that they are everywhere. Not only that but they are everywhere prosperous. "Any one who works steadily in the west gets on", he said in an implied compliment to the industrious habits of the city's sons. Mr. Deacon was much impressed by the prevalence of Chinese, Japanese and Hindus out at the coast.

But with all the allurements of the west Mr. Deacon says he is glad to be back.

AGE OF WOMAN BAFFLING

Statistician Puzzled by Number Between 20 and 25

London, March 18.—A curious and scientifically inexplicable fact concerning the feminine sex was revealed today at Glasgow University by Sir Josiah Stamp, the eminent authority on statistics.

Why, he asked, were there, according to unimpeachable census returns, so many women between the ages of twenty and twenty-five in the country? If one took the number of girls recorded in the census between the ages of ten and fifteen, and compared them with the number of young women in the next ten years between the ages of twenty and twenty-five, one found the second total exceeded the first. Yet he had never noticed any marked immigration of young women into the country. He could only assume the rumored tendency of all women to underrate their ages was indeed a scientific fact.

HUDSON - ESSEX AT EASY PRICES

At Most Favorable Levels of Their Entire History

NEW SYSTEM USED

New Reduction on Coaches and Brougham is Pleasing

Prices of Hudson and Essex cars are now at the most favorable levels of their history as the result of their recent manufacture moves by the Hudson organization.

The first announcement of this event was the adoption by Hudson-Essex distributors and dealers of an at-your-door system of quoting motor car prices, reducing the f.o.b. factory plan of many years' standing. Closely following this came the action of making the federal automobile tax reduction immediately effective. On top of these moves, the announcement was made this last week of a horizontal reduction of $50 a car on the Essex and Hudson coaches and the Hudson Super-Six brougham.

"With these three actions all to his advantage, the Hudson-Essex buyer today is obtaining these standard, well-known automobiles at the lowest first cost and at the best terms we ever have known," said J. B. Boyer, Hudson-Essex distributor. "Any one of these steps might have been a great event in itself, combined, they make up a most aggressive and forceful bid for a tremendous spring business.

"Today, the successful automobile maker must not only be able to produce his cars with economy, but also he must see that the economies in his plant are duplicated in the economies of selling. When savings in any direction are possible, the public will reward the concern which passes them along. It has rewarded Hudson-Essex by making it the biggest builders of six cylinder cars in the world.

"The steps taken in these latest Hudson-Essex activities are well in line with these principles. The cars are made economically, and are sold on terms and conditions which are clearly in the buyer's interests. The at-your-door plan, for instance, tells the buyer at his first inquiry the whole amount which his car will cost him; there is no fix, bonus price, to which he must add $100 or more to get the actual price. A buyer has a right to expect to buy a car at one price, and then find that this is got the actual expense he must incur.

"Hudson-Essex at-your-door prices are the figures at which an equipped car will be delivered at any buyer's residence, with no further 'extras' to pay. It is my prediction that this program will find ready favor that public response will make it universal. Whether that is so or not, it is an advantage now available to all Hudson-Essex buyers."

war Orangeism played a prominent part. So every lodge room there is a memorial roll. The speaker referred to some incidents of the war, also to the fact that a year ago he visited some of the cemeteries where lies the bodies of those Canadians whose lives were sacrificed. The cemeteries are kept perfectly. In concluding his remarks, Col. Ketcheson stated that Orangeism stood for noblest principles.

M. P. SPEAKS

The speaker of the evening was Most Worshipful Bro.-H. C. Hocken, M.P., of Toronto West, who stated that not withstanding the fact that Orangeism had not been properly understood by many in Canada it had grown and prospered.

The reasons for this is that it stands for grand principles and that an open Bible is always in the lodge room. One of the cardinal principles of the Order is to assist in the preservation of the British Empire and this means civilization and religious liberties. It took a thousand years to bring this about. The battle of the Boyne is celebrated because it was the most momentous victory of the ages. We owe our free institutions to Britain. All the notions of the world are indebted to the British people for what ever liberties they enjoy. We are justly proud of Great Britain. Britain has renewed the world and carried liberty over the world. There are no slaves living under the Union Jack. She has gone in the waste places of the world and established civilization. Those who would sever Canada from the Motherland are striking a disastrous blow. We should by our environments be a strong arm to the Empire. Canada is a wonderful country and God never gave any country a greater climate than we possess. It feeds strong men and women. At times of trouble this was demonstrated. Our duty first is to Canada and second our duty to the Empire at large. Even on the Order papers at Ottawa is a motion which has in effect the independence of Canada and doing away of assisting Britain in trouble but they cannot stop the red blood of Canadians going over if the Empire needs them. Much of this is due to Orangeism which inculcated the principles that are for the general good. The Orange Society has done much to maintain loyalty to the British Empire. We stand for the defence of Christian civilization.

In concluding his remarks Mr. Hocken made an appeal for those not members of the Order to join it and give their help.

ELECTING OFFICERS

At yesterday afternoon's session of the Orange Grand Lodge the business brought before the delegates was of such a character as to be for members only. The attendance was exceptionally large being greater than in former years. Many Past Grand Masters were present some of whom have been members of the Order for 50 years and over.

This morning's session was devoted to routine business and the resolution committee had some resolutions in preparation to present to the Grand body this afternoon. It is expected that the Grand Lodge will complete its duties in the early part of this evening. The election of officers for the year and the installation of same was the concluding business before the Grand Lodge.

MR. HOCKEN'S SPEECH

Past Grand Master H. C. Hocken, M.P. of Toronto, gave a heart to heart talk to the delegates of the Grand Lodge this morning. He reviewed the growth of the Order from a handful of men who organized the first Grand Lodge in Canada in 1830 to the present time when hundreds of thousands throughout the Dominion are members in the organization. The record of the Association, he said, was one of a century of public service of the greatest value to the Dominion. From 1837 till the present time the Orangemen had been the spearhead of the loyal Protestant forces that have put down rebellion, resisted invasion and successfully opposed all attempts to separate Canada from its allegiance to the Mother Country. He urged them to keep in mind the history of the Order in Canada, and to hand it down to their children as a glorious heritage of patriotism. Mr. Hocken paid a high tribute to the Ladies Orange Benevolent Association, which he said, would be their time be numerically equal to the fairest organization of men. The future of the Association was bright. In Western Ontario there had been a substantial numerical increase during the past year and the Order everywhere was showing signs of vitality.

McKeown's Drug Store

AT CHICAGO

Chicago, March 18.—Owing largely to higher quotations at Liverpool than had been looked for, the wheat market here took a sharp early swing upward today. The opening 7-8 to 1 1-8 cent higher was followed quickly by material further gains. Corn and oats derived firmness from wheat strength. After opening unchanged to 3-8 cent higher, May 77 3-8 to 77 1-2 the corn market held near to official figures. Oats started unchanged to 1-8 cent up and later hardened a little more. Despite lower quotations on hogs, provisions were responsive to the upward trend of grain.

St. Patrick's Day In City

tables, each accommodating about thirty persons were reared parallel to one another and each was most artistically and suitably decorated with flower candles, Irish flags and shamrocks. Here the refreshments furnished, each table being plentifully supplied with bright green jellies. The young ladies of the church who waited on the tables were very prettily attired in white while each wore a green bandeau in her hair. They with the assistance of several committee men of the congregation most efficiently saw to it that every smallest want of any of the visitors was immediately attended to and the vast assembly thoroughly enjoyed the abundance of good things with which the tables were laden and replenished immediately. The menu included cold meats, every known brand of salad, jelly, pickles, teas of every description, coffee and cakes.

Every detail was most carefully attended to and there was an absence of crowding due to the efforts of Mr. Alexander Kidd who, standing at the doors of the supper room admitted the people as places were announced as ready.

AN ORGAN RECITAL

While people awaited their call to supper and after finishing, Prof. Wheatley gave a most delightful organ recital which was heard with profound interest and enjoyment by the persons who had not before realized the music the organ is capable of producing. Irish airs interspersed the various selections by Professor Wheatley and all was most delightful.

AT JACKSON'S HALL

St. Patrick's day was celebrated in Palleville with numerous dances, but none surpassed the dance held in A. Jackson's hall last night.

The hall was very prettily decorated and about fifty couples danced to music furnished by the young "Rereaders Jazz Trio" which furnished music that would be a credit to any larger city. There were all kinds of dances to satisfy all the guests from young people to the older people that were present, introducing the favorite old-time square dances to the young people, and also taken part in by all the older guests. The lucky number foxtrot was won by Mr. D. Doran and Miss Pearl Spencer, the lucky number being 13, the prize consisting of a box of cigars of the best brand, and the lady a very pretty beaded bag. The best-costumed couple were judged by Mr. Summers and Mr. Chas. Grant and the prizes were awarded Miss A. Loney and Mr. H. Doolittle. Mr. A. Jackson in costume came a close second in doing a real step dance, but was counted out by not having a partner.

VISUALIZING THE STEAL

The notion that the lake levels can be appreciably affected by the diversion of lake water at Chicago is ridiculed by interested parties. Even Secretary Hoover declares that it accounts for only a sixth of the degree by which the levels have been lowered. But the-loss to the lakes system is put by a writer in the Montreal Gazette in concrete form which will enable anyone to realize the extent of the loss.

The 9700 cubic feet per second now being stolen from Lakes Huron and Michigan," says the writer, "is equal to a river about 485 feet wide and 20 feet deep flowing at a rate of 60 feet per minute for 365 days annually." By the flow of such a river the water would be lost permanently to the great lakes. It could not be replaced. And the longer the river flowed the more water would be lost. In twenty years it would lower the two great upper lakes 4 feet 5 inches, and eventually it would lay every harbor on Lakes Huron and Michigan and the lower lakes.

GREATER THAN EVER

Mr. Ilamon Houghton, ambassador of the United States to the court of St. James, returning to New York after a year in England, reports that conditions in the Old Country are getting better all the time, and expresses his belief that Great Britain will be more prosperous in the next twenty years than ever before. This is fine news for Britishers to read and is in pleasing contrast to the gloomy predictions of ex-ambassador Davidson. Nothing wounded the feelings of Britain more than the insinuations of the colonel that the Old Country had become decadent and insolvent. The British people are bitterly disappointed that they should have been so greatly underestimated and misunderstood by one whom they regard as a friend of their nation, who has had every opportunity of learning the truth. "We do not greatly care about what most nations think," says Mr. J. L. Garvin, in the London Observer, "we do care about what America thinks," and when the distinguished editor proceeds to put Mr. HaVey right, and does so most effectively, John Bull does not relish being regarded as a corpse, however eloquent and laudatory the funeral orations may be. He feels himself to be much alive, just as much alive, in fact, as the tearful mourners. Take the Empire as a whole, say the spokesmen for Britain, there is as much and more potential wealth, initiative and enterprise as are to be found in the United States. Britain cannot be separated from the Empire in an appraisement or her economic condition, and even if she could, she is able to give an excellent account of herself. What hurts in this misplaced sympathy on the part of United States orators is the fact that, were it not for the insistence of that country on the repayment of war debts, Great Britain would be in a comparatively comfortable position. Because of the failure or inability of other nations to pay Great Britain what is owing to her, and the necessity of meeting the capital and interest payments to the United States, there is a certain amount of embarrassment; but with the inventiveness, the courage, the inherent resources of the Empire, it is regarded as of a temporary nature only. The British people have complete faith in their powers of recuperation, and are undoubtedly justified in their faith.

Taking Colonel Harvey's points one by one, Mr. Garvin answers them in detail—the national debt, the crisis in the coal industry, the iron and steel situation, shipping, all aspects of the industrial situation are passed in review, and the assurance is given that "if Colonel Harvey will come over once more we shall give him a better time amongst us than he ever had." He would be told of new industries established and in a flourishing condition, of big orders in the world's markets in successful competition with other nations, of the improvement in the employment situation and many other things which point to steady progress.. "With her seas, ports, roads, minerals, her forty millions of people, her quick-working education, her host of searching and thoughtful brains, this island is going to regain a great producing and trading country for many a generation to come," declares Mr. Garvin. "We will, indeed, confess this—that many of us quite quietly expect Britain in due time to be greater than ever." Not only Britain, but "it is absolutely certain that all Europe is going to be greater. Its post-war nations do not in the least intend to be dislocated and poor for ever."

PHOHIBITION UNDER FIRE

New York Evening Post:

Five years ago certain prophets were proclaiming prohibition was no longer a political issue. They were false prophets. At no time has this ceased to be an issue in at least a dozen States. It has been making and unmaking Senators, Governors and Congressmen and influencing government in many ways. The big wet rally in Washington and its branding of criticism against the Volstead Act indicate it may be even more disquieting and aggravating than usual in 1926.

DISCOURAGING GOSSIP

Forest Standard:

An anti-telephone-gossip union is about to see the light of day in London, whose specific purpose is to obtain legislation to charge all telephone gossips $1 a minute after five minutes' use of the wire, the revenue to be applied to a reduction of the civic income tax. Roughly 10,000 members have already signed on the dotted line in the Forest city, it is stated, 90 per cent. of'wom ars men, and the executive of whom will shortly be elected and installed. The idea is a good one and similar unions will in all probability spring up all over the country.

THE MOTHER OF A PRETTY GIRL

E. W. Howe's Monthly:

A seventeen year old girl lately called at our house. I have not seen a prettier girl in years, or one better behaved.

But she said several things indicating that her mother has a good deal of trouble. Every day the girl is invited by some of the boys to a dance, but her mother does not approve of the boys, and will not let her go.

The young lady does not say, "Mother, your judgment is better than mine; I will decline the invitation." On the contrary she makes a row; not occasionally, but every day.

She is not in school this winter. Her mother wants her in school. More trouble.

And it is safe to assume that the girl and her mother do not always agree about dry goods bills; that there are many rows over the girl's clothes.

The mother of a beautiful girl is to be congratulated of course, but there is another side to the story; the father of such a girl also makes life a burden for her mother.

McQUILLAN AND HIS VISOR

W. Ol McGeehan, in New York Herald-Tribune:

Hughey McQuillan, the Giant pitcher, set the fashion in Carsatos of wearing a Helen Wills visor, instead of the conventional baseball cap. Your correspondent had made the guess that the influence of tennis was being felt in the national pastime.

"You are wrong as usual," volunteered the Trojan crustacean, Mr. John Evers, who is now on the staff of the Giants. "Those birds are wearing those things because they think exposing their beans to the sun will make the hair grow."

"It won't, because I tried it, and so did some of the other ball players years ago. We shaved our heads and rubbed the skulls with vaseline. Then, we cut away all of the caps, excepting the peaks, and let the old sun bake out the domes. It didn't do a bit of good. It just blistered the skulls and when the hair did come back, it was thinner than ever. And I'll tell you something else, even if you do shave some adult so that they look just like eggs, it won't help to hatch out any new ideas. You can't make an incubator of domes that have nothing to hatch out. There is nothing personal in this. It is just one of those facts."

PROVINCIAL OFFICERS ARE NOW UNDERPAID, IS VIEW OF BRACKIN

Toronto, March 1. —Better pay for Provincial police officers was strongly advocated in the statutory resolution moved by R. L. Brackin, Liberal member for West Kent, who, speaking from first-hand knowledge of the situation at Windsor and along the border, contended that any investigation of the activity of the force there would show that revenues derived by the Province from prosecutions conducted by that organization far exceeded the cost of its maintenance.

"A self-sustaining force," said Mr. Brackin, "and yet underpaid. I am told that some of these officers—and they all have families—men—get but $125 per month, it's impossible to keep a family on that money at the border. Why, they have to pay half of it out for rent."

No More Piles

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Physician Who Discovered This Common Sense Remedy

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

The Doctor's treatment is internal. By experimenting for years he discovered the exact cause of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy that would remove the cause.

Dr. Leonhardt wants every sufferer to benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no doubting or delay, McKeown's Drug Store and all druggists are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every sufferer should secure a package of Dr. Leonardt's HEM-ROID to-day.

QUESTIONS THE COST OF WHITEHALL SENTRY

Lieut.-Commander Kenworthy Suggested Foot Soldiers to Save Expense

London, March 17.—One of the minor but most popular sights of London is patrolled by the two mounted sentries, who, in the full panoply of the Life Guards, invariably keep watch before the quaint-looking group of buildings at Whitehall known as the Horse Guards. The mounting of the guard in the morning and the dismounting in the afternoon are picturesque ceremonies which usually are witnessed by many London visitors.

Lieut.-Commander Hon. J. M. Kenworthy, Liberal M.P., one of these stern economists who harass members of the Cabinet with flank notices on minor items of expenditure, wanted to know in the House of Commons today what was the actual cost of this guard.

Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, secretary of state for war, was unable to say what the cost was.

Commander Kenworthy suggested that foot sentries would be cheaper than Horse Guards.

The War Secretary admitted that this would doubtless put the horses, but it would not save their keep.

Another economist in the House made a suggestion that during wet weather the sentries might be used.

Sir Laming Worthington-Evans did not desire to make reply to this, and the House then hurried on to a discussion of the Government's economy bill, which according to hostile critics, merely nibbles at saving thousands of pounds, where millions ought to be saved.

PROVINCIAL FORCE URGED TO REPLACE POLICE OF COUNTY

Toronto, March 17.—Some sharp comments upon conditions in outlying rural Ontario, as revealed in several cases before the courts, are contained in the annual report of Ontario Police Commissioner Victor Willians, shortly to be presented to the Legislature. The Commissioner, it is understood, comments upon the inefficient policing of some counties and districts, and in that connection has urged the replacement of the county police system with an all-Provincial force.

The conditions to which the Provincial Police Commissioner is said to take particular exception are those revealed in a Police Court proceedings in the North and East, and relate to moral conceptions. Some of the proceedings, as related in the report, have revealed conditions where families of seven persons have lived in two rooms, with resulting demoralizing conditions.

Ontario Temperance Act administration it is understood, is not discussed at any great length in the document.

LORD OXFORD'S RISE; BRIEF FOR GLADSTONE

A writer in the London Sunday Express says: I have just had a most entertaining dinner.

To my delight, I found myself sitting next to Lady Oxford and Asquith. There is no woman I know who has more of a gift for pointed and epigrammatic conversation.

I asked her the truth about a story which had just been told to me about Lord Oxford.

It appeared that when Lord Oxford was an undergraduate in Balliol, Lady Portsmouth wrote to the famous Master, the Rev. Dr. Jowett, and asked if he could recommend an undergraduate to read with her son Lord Lymington, during the long vacation.

The result was that Dr. Jowett suggested a certain Mr. Asquith.

FROM POVERTY TO PREMIER

Mr. Asquith proved to be perfect, but there was a great drawback about him. He was penniless and extraordinarily attractive. In fact, brief for Mr. Gladstone, who was he was most upsetting to young ladies.

The result was that Lady Portsmouth had to ask for somebody with less destructive charm or brighter financial prospects.

Times changed, Mr. Asquith became Prime Minister and Lord Lymington became Lords Portsmouth.

Lord Portsmouth kept clamoring to his former tutor for advancement, but, alas for him Mr. Asquith was only too well aware of his rather limited capacity.

LORD JAMES OVERWORKED

Lady Oxford said this story is not quite true because Lord Oxford was Lord Lymington's tutor for two years, and after that still remained a friend of Lord Lymington's parents. About Lord Portsmouth's subsequent demands she made no comment.

However, she told me that Lord Oxford was desperately poor as a young man. For five years he was a briefless barrister till one day Lord James of Hereford had to put up a brief for Mr. Gladstone, who was bringing in the Affirmation Bill apropos to the Bradlaugh case.

Lord James was extremely busy, but he had heard of a clever young man who lived overhead in Paper-buildings, called Asquith.

Lord James called him in and told him what he wanted.

VALUE OF HANDWRITING

Mr. Asquith's summary was masterly.

When Mr. Gladstone had read the brief, he said, "I must see this young man at once."

When Mr. Gladstone saw it he exclaimed, "What beautiful handwriting! Is this by you, Sir Henry?" I must explain that Lord James was then Sir Henry James, and Attorney-General.

"No," said Sir Henry, "I meant to explain to you a young man called Asquith is responsible. Would you like to congratulate him personally?"

Thus started Mr. Gladstone's friendship with Lord Oxford, which eventually resulted in Mr. Asquith going into Parliament.

THEY DESERVE IT

Ottawa, March 18.—In the main estimates tabled in the House of Commons, provision is made for the payment of annuities to Dr. F. G. Banting, discoverer of insulin, and to Dr. Charles Saunders, who originated the famous Marquis wheat. The annuity paid to the former is $7,700, to the latter $5,000.

GAS TAX NOT LEGAL

Vancouver—The fuel oil tax of one-half cent a gallon passed by the British Columbia Legislature in 1923 and estimated to return an annual revenue of $800,000 was declared illegal by Justice Sproule A. Morrison in the Supreme Court on the ground that the tax is indirect and ultra vires of the Provincial Legislature.

Lord Oxford's rise now was meteoric, for he straightway rose from being a back bencher to the Home Office without any intermediary steps.

I am told there is a moral to this story: Always write clearly and with as fine a Spencerian hand as possible.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT GRIFFIN'S

Vaughan Glaser is cast for a lot of good-natured kidding by Claire Windsor in "Dance Madness," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production now appearing at the Griffin theatre, Robert L. Leonard directed the picture.

Miss Windsor has accumulated a few mannerisms from every screen vampire, and by adding a few of her own, plays in this picture what might be termed a symposium of vampires. Theda Bara, Nita Naldi, Barbara La Marr, Carmel Myers, and other stars as the object of Claire's good-natured burlesque.

Balto, canine hero of the most remarkable frontier exploit of the last decade, and Owned by Leonhard Seppala, invincible driver of the team that ran the last, thrilling lap of the perilous race with death to Nome, carrying the precious diphtheria serum, have recorded their historic race in film, "Balto's Race To Nome." The picture has been secured by the Griffin theatre and it will be shown there tonight, Friday and Saturday.

The "voice of the Nightingale," at Griffin's is not a fiction. It is but an incident in the program. Yet it typifies what motion pictures for children ought to be. Its production here has been brought a poetical artistry rarely equaled in the studios that provide our daily entertainment.

COMING TO BELLE

Among the outstanding features of the latest Williams Fox photoplay sensation, "Kentucky Pride," due to be shown at the Belle beginning tomorrow is Gertrude Astor, a stage-wise beauty, blonde and stunning. She enacts the leading feminine role in this classic of life on the American turf, a delightful bit of histrionic glory in one of the truly great artists of the silent drama, she is said to rise to the heights of histrionic glory in one of the most difficult characterizations of the current season.

Despite the fact that Miss Astor is in her early twenties, she is one of the real veterans of the screen and her rare beauty coupled with her exquisite artistry make her accredited as having won her a very high place in the esteem of film fans throughout the world.

Life Underwriters Were Given Tips On Business Policy

The Life Underwriters' Association of Canada, Belleville Branch, held a special meeting and luncheon at Queen's Hotel on Wednesday, for the purpose of meeting Mr. A. L. Petty, President of the Life Underwriters' Association for the Dominion of Canada, the guest and speaker of the day. Mr. Petty is one of the most consistent and largest producers for the Great West Life. He has been with the Association since 1917.

The meeting opened with J. F. Hinchey, Local President, in the chair, the speaker was introduced by Mr. George A. Reid, who is also a Great West Life man. Mr. Petty told the Association here, that it was twenty years ago the Association started and at that time the agents were cutting each others throats by rebating, switching, misrepresentation and estimating. The Association formed and enlisted the co-operation of the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Insurance and the head offices of the Companies in eliminating the above unethical practices. The Association was responsible for the Institutional Advertising Campaign.

Mr. Petty stated that we should do all we could for our Association and that every man who carried a rate book should be a member of it. Life men, by getting together could do so much by co-operation and good fellowship in the Life Underwriters' Association, and the Companies are co-operating with them. We must put the Life Insurance business on a professional basis like a lawyer or doctor as the time is at hand when that idea has become possible. We are now an incorporated body and the Dominion Parliament has shown such confidence in us that we are now legally authorized to grant a degree to members who live up to certain requirements and pass an examination.

Mr. Petty expressed his hope that the Life Underwriters would be able to get every College in Canada to put on a Life Insurance Course, for then only begin to find out the high ideals and high standards of ethics of life insurance when he joins the Life Underwriters' Association.

RIGHT THINKINK. To think right is to act right. "As a man thinketh, is he."

Mr. Petty closed his most interesting and instructive talk with a poem by Edgar A. Guests from the Red Book called "Like Calls to Like."

Winnipeg.—A recent announcement that the Provincial Government would take another $50,000—making the total amount $100,000 out of the municipalities' share of liquor profits—for enforcement of the province act, is meeting with protest.

Overworked?
Avoid Constipation

Long hours at the desk, shortened hours of sleep, hasty and irregular meals, lack of exercise—these are the vitality of the strongest body.

At such times the ugly spectre constipation is more commonly with us.

Constipation is dangerous for everybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach, and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubrication in the intestinal tract. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular intestinal action without griping.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. Under all conditions, it does just the right work, and can be discontinued at any time.

DANGEROUS WALKS

Belleville, March 19, 1929.

To the Editor Daily Intelligencer, Belleville.

Dear Sir:—

May I through your columns draw the attention of the streets commissioner, to the very dangerous condition which exists at the corner of Victoria Avenue and Pinnacle street, at the north side of the Bridge Street crossing.

The hill at this corner is steep and the ice which annually collects on the sidewalk, despite the efforts of the men sprinkling and creates a real danger to pedestrians I myself have several people fall there, though none have suffered serious injuries I would suggest as a temporary (at least) precaution that a stout iron railing might be put on at the outside of the sidewalk that those who have to crawl up the icy block may at least have some support in crawling.

Yours Very Truly

A Rate Payer.

Drive Out the Poisons and you Conquer Fatigue

Miss Katie Wilcox, R.R. No. 2, Watford, Ont., writes:—"My stomach troubled me and I had frequent headaches. I felt tired all the time and could not sleep well. I was in this condition for a year. Then I was told about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver pills. After several boxes of them and they did me a wonderful lot of good."

FATIGUE and tired feelings, as well as pains and aches are the result of the accumulation of poisons in the system.

The liver section is torpid, the overworked kidneys have broken down, the bowels are sluggish—consequently you are suffering.

Rid the poisons from the system by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and you conquer these discomforts.

Digestive troubles disappear when these vital organs are aroused to action. Headaches and billiousness are overcome. You feel well and happy.

The Doctor Says
You're Full Of Poison

Your liver is clogged up. The bile instead of going into the bowels is going into the blood, causing that muddy, dirty complexion, headaches, billiousness, sour, sickening, backache, constipation, rheumatism, etc.

Do you know that most sickness, aches and pains are caused from an inactive liver. There is only one drug that acts upon the liver and that is calomel; in its new form called taste calomel. Start today and take one tasel calomel tablet before meals or two at bedtime. Next morning drink plenty of warm water and away goes all previous days wastes and poisons before more food is taken in, making you feel 100% better. You will then eat better, sleep better, work better, filled with vigor and vivacity and ready for a good days work. Get some of these tasel calomel tablets from McKeown's Drug Store and they will sure make you feel much better in everyway.

NO BRIGADIER-GENERALS

Ottawa, March 17.—Canada has no brigadier-generals in answer to a question in the House of Commons today, the Minister of Defense pointed out that "there was never a substantive rank of brigadier-general in the Canadian militia." A temporary rank of brigadier-general was absolished by order-in-council in 1921, when sixty colonels were granted honorary rank of brigadier-general in lieu of the temporary similar rank held by them during the war.

Of the officers holding this honorary rank in Canada eight are on the active list, drawing pay which ranges between $5,900 and $6,000 per annum.

VICKS VAPORUB

The Marquis

BY
CHARLES GARVICE

Constance flushed as she thought how very unlikely it was that she would be at the castle in the hunting season, but she said nothing, and presently the marquis remarked:

"What do you say to a gallop, you two?"

"I'm ready," declared Arol, promptly.

They started and sped over the heath at a good pace, and every moment Constance was feeling lighter and happier.

Now and again the marquis, unseen, by her, glanced at her, keenly face, and smiled to himself. Suddenly he pulled up, and erased back over his saddle as if looking at something.

CHAPTER VIII.

"What is the matter, Uncle Wolfe?" demanded Arol.

Constance looked in the direction of the marquis' gaze, but he could see nothing calling for such attention. There was, indeed, nothing to look at beyond the ruins of a shepherd's hut; not a living soul was in sight.

"What is it, Uncle Wolfe?" repeated Arol.

The marquis turned to Constance with a singular expression in his eyes. They seemed to have grown smaller and sharper, as if they had been concentrated on some distant spot.

She had seen just such an expression in the eyes of the scouts in advance of a squadron.

"Did you see nothing?" he asked her.

"No, nothing, my lord," she replied. He laughed.

My eyes are quick—and no wonder," he put in under his breath. "You didn't see a man with a gun sitting on the heap of bricks and stones by that old hut?"

Constance shook her head and stared at the ruin.

"I don't see him," she said, with some surprise. "But he is not there now, Lord Brakespeare."

He laughed.

"No, he's not; but he was a moment ago. Directly he saw us he sank down behind the wall. What is he doing there with a gun, I wonder? Poaching?"

"Shall we go and rout him out, Uncle Wolfe?" asked Arol.

The marquis laughed again and shrugged his shoulders.

"No, I think not. We'll let him alone, Arol; but you master's tell Henderson, the keeper, or I shall never hear the last of it! Poor wretch! not a very pleasant life, eh, Miss Grahame?"

"To be hunted and driven from pillar to post, and forced to slink away at the sight of a fellow creature? Also no, my lord," she said.

He pressed a little on his twist and almost pulled the horse up, as his eyes seemed to grow on her face.

"You speak feelingly," he said, very quietly, and almost too gravely, as it seemed. "Do you always sympathize with that kind of person?"

"Always, I'm afraid," said Constance, with a little laugh.

"Remember," he said, smiling down at her curiously, "this man is sprocket, a thief; a fellow with a gun for rabbits and the keeper's body if need were."

"Yes, I know, my lord," said Constance; "but one does not know how he was led, or perhaps driven, to the life, and it must be such a wretched one. I think I can see—although I down behind the stones and w striking her happiness with wretched, miserable eyes."

He was silent a moment, looking thoughtfully between his horse's ears.

"Oh!, so you are happy, then?" he said with half a smile.

Constance flushed and turned her face away, annoyed at her blushes; then she met his half earnest, half smiling gaze calmly.

"Yes, my lord, I am happy," she said; "it should be very ungrateful if I were not. It is such a lovely afternoon, and this horse—" she bent down and stroked its soft shining neck. "I am very fond of riding, my lord," she broke off, simply.

"Then perhaps you'll tell me why you were so unwilling to come this morning," he said, promptly.

Constance bent down to put the reins straight in Arol's hands, and made no reply.

"Am I to have no answer, Miss Grahame?" he said.

"I beg your pardon, my lord," said Constance, "I thought that you did not need one—or wouldn't press for one."

"But I do both," he said. "Come! be candid, if a woman can."

"If you must have an answer," said Constance, flushing, "it was because much as I longed for the ride, I—" she stopped a moment then turned her pure eyes to his face with a courage that cost her more than he guessed. "I knew that I had no right, that it was not my place." She stopped again, then went on—"I am Lord Lanesbrook's governess, my lord, and though I don't know much about it, I am sure— Oh, why will you force me, my lord?"

He regarded her with a half-amused intensity.

"Do you mean, are you trying to say, that I can't ask a young lady to come for a ride because Arol has the luck, the young dog, to have her for a governess?"

"Yet, that is what I meant, my lord," she said in a low voice, "and I would have refused but you—" Well, and a faint smile rippled on her lips, "you chose it a command, and I obeyed."

He laughed.

"By George!" he said, "I commanded and you obeyed. Well, I've heard it's the only way with women, and I think it's right, and let me tell you, Miss Grahame, that seeing the amount of good the ride is doing you, I shall issue my commands pretty frequently."

"Until Lady Rush renders them impossible," thought Constance, but she said nothing.

"Miss Grahame I'm so thirsty!" exclaimed Arol, while the other two were silently riding beside him. "There's Abbeyford Hamlet just on the hill there, Uncle Wolfe; shan't we go and get something? Mother Marsh will have some milk."

"All right," assented the marquis, "let us go and see old Mother Marsh. I used to rob her orchard when I was Arol's age; but then I hadn't a beastly stern governess like you, Miss Grahame, to keep me in order."

They rode on to the little thatched cottage, and at the sound of the horses' hoofs an old lady came out and greeted them with an animated bustle and astonishment and delight, and a couple of children clung round her and fobbed curtsies at the sight of the castle.

"Well, Mrs. Marsh," said the marquis, in his free and easy fashion, "so you remember me, do you?"

"Ay, my lord," crooned the old lady in a strong falsetto; "you be come back then! Lor' a me, what a fine man you be, too! The very image of your father, too! It might be him a sitting there. You, a rare and mighty man ye have got, my lord."

The marquis laughed.

"You see," he said, turning to Constance, "I've got one admirer, at any rate."

"And this be the young lord?"

"Yes," shouted Arol, holding out his hand; "and how are you, Mrs. Marsh?"

The old lady bobbed another curtsey; then shadings her eyes with her yellow wrinkled hand peered at Constance.

"And this? have ye now my lord but this pretty lady is the new marchioness; isn't it now?"

Constance's face and neck went crimson; the whole of her body felt burning and scalding and the flame was not decreased by Arol's boyish burst of laughter and his joyous enthusiasm of:

"Oh, Miss Grahame, Mrs Marsh takes you for Uncle Wolfe's wife."

Constance could not lift her eyes; there seemed a ton weight on each lid.

"No—such luck for me, Mrs. Marsh," said the marquis, with the perfection of good breeding. "This is Miss Grahame, the young good-for-nothing's governess."

"I beg the young lady's pardon, my lord," said Mrs. Marsh, curtseying, but evidently suffering from no very great remorse. "But she be main beautiful, my lord," she added in what she thought quite an aside, but in a tone quite audible to Arol and Constance.

"I say, Mrs. Marsh," said the former, "we want some milk, please."

The old lady hobbled off followed by the children and presently reappeared with a brown ewer of milk and a glass. She filled it, and one of the children handed it to Constance, but she refused with a smile, and it went to Arol, who polished it off at a draught.

"Do 'ee taste the milk, my lady," said the old woman, almost piteously. "It be counted the best milk in those parts, beant it, my lord?" and she appealed to the marquis.

"Certainly, Mrs. Marsh," he said. "I speak with authority, for I used to rob the dairy as well as the orchard, didn't I?"

"That 'ee did, bless 'ee," assented Mrs Marsh, as cordially and approvingly as if he had remarked that he had been in the habit of building churches.

She filled up the glass and handed it to Constance as she spoke, and Constance drank a little and was handing the glass back to her when the marquis stretched out his hand and intercepted it.

AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Mrs. Dayman Gives Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the Credit

Colborne, Ontario.—"When I was first married I was very thin and weak. The doctor said I was weak and would never be able to have a child, but I did, and from the time my baby came on I suffered all the time and doctored and took medicine. Life became a burden, and doctors said an operation could help me, but my husband was opposed to that. I had seen Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines advertised, so I said to him-baoff that I thought I would try it. I took it and got some relief, if not a cure. I had not taken the bottle when I could feel it helping me. I took five bottles and had better health. Now I have three girls and a boy and have done my work up to confinement. I am now at the Change of Life and owe my good health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I take a bottle when I think I need it."—Mrs. Susan Dayman, R. R. No. 5, Colborne, Ontario.

Rock and Gravel Fill at Sicamous Lake Sank In Water

OTHER TRAINS HELD

Vancouver Hears Victims Were Beating Way On Freight

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 19.—Fears that six men may have lost their lives when fire or six cars of a C.P.R. east bound freight train left rails at Sicamous Lake late Wednesday night, was expressed by travellers who arrived here last night on a passenger train that was held at the scene of wreck for more than two hours Thursday.

According to information brought here, trainmen who were on the scene, found one man lying half in the water at the foot of the rock and gravel fill, the sinking of which caused the derailment. Both his legs were broken.

He told his rescuers, it was stated, that he was one of a party of eight men beating their way east on the cars. Search disclosed one of his companions who was slightly injured but no trace was found of the other six.

Neither of the two men rescued was able to give the names of the missing men. W. A. Rogers, address unknown, was the name of the man who suffered the broken legs.

COUNTESS VERA FINDS "ASHES OF LOVE" TOO TRUE

Washington, Mar. 19.—Countess Cathcart and Earl Carroll appear to be at the parting of the ways in their week old venture as star and producer, respectively, of the countess' play, "Ashes of Love". Carroll who put on the play here last Monday, said in New York last night that he had sold his interest in it to the Countess because she insisted upon an immediate presentation of it on Broadway. At the same time an announcement credited to the Countess was made here that she had asked Carroll to close down the show to-morrow and cancel its New York engagement. The Countess was represented as being already tired of the foot lights. The statement quoted the Countess as blaming Carroll for the play's chilly reception.

BONES SENT ON THOSE OF HORSE

Inspector Cuddy of Provincial Police Makes Announcement

Toronto, March 19.—Bones found on the scene of the fire in Warkworth, Ontario, which destroyed the home of Dr. Stuart West, are believed to be those of a horse. They were forwarded by Provincial police inspectors who investigated.

Dr. West's wife and two-year-old son died in the fire but no trace of them other than the bones in question could be found. Announcement that the bones were not human remains was made today by Inspector Cuddy, Assistant Commissioner of Provincial Police, after he had received a report from the anatomist to whom they were submitted.

Inspector Gaudett, of the Provincial Police, said that it would probably require three weeks to make analysis of the bones and it is not likely that any thing will be done till after the inquest.

Many of the people here seem to think that conditions called for an investigation and that the officers have done everything in their power to hush the mystery. Even if the facts were no un usual circumstances connected with the affair, such a tragedy would warrant the fullest investigation, which is being made so that all doubts might be set at rest.

GOV'T DEFEATED IN SNAP DIVISION VOTE IS 74 TO 41

Reverse on Item in Estimates Does Not Entail Resignation

TO STOP SMUGGLING

Customs Department to have Force of 260 Men—90 to Be Allotted to Quebec

Ottawa, Ont., Mar. 19.—Liberal members in caucus to-day decided that members should hold themselves in readiness at all times in view of the possibility of snap votes in the House such as was staged yesterday when the government was out-voted in committee.

Ottawa, March 19.—The Government was decisively beaten last evening in a vote on an item of financial appropriation for the Customs Department with the House of Commons in committee of supply. With Hon. George Boivin opening for the adoption of a vote for the smuggling preventive service a motion of Sir Henry Drayton that the consolidating fund be reduced by the adoption was carried by a division of 74 to 41.

The Government was beaten on a snap division with a standing vote, the majority of both the Liberals and Progressives being absent. Although the adverse vote does not entail the defeat of the Government and its resignation, it interrupts its programme on the estimates and is an indication of trouble for it in the future. The effect of the vote is that the committee of supply on the estimates is abolished, and must be reconsidered after meeting of the Government. The Government met the House after the dinner hour without being able to proceed with preventive industrial business. A motion for the re-establishment of the committee of supply will not be in order until to-day.

Sir Henry Drayton's objection to the passage of the items for the smuggling preventive service was based on the ground that the House had not had the reports from the customs investigation committee before making provision for further activities. The amount included in the vote was $350,000.

It will be possible for the Opposition, owing to its numerical superiority, to vote down the Government on many occasions during the session.

Repetition of such votes could not but be embarrassing for the administration. Liberals of the House are critical of the course taken by Mr. Boivin in providing for the passage of preventive service items in face of the reasonable objections offered by Sir Henry Drayton.

Great Gathering of Orangemen and Ladies Comes to Close With Election of Officers and Dance at Johnstone's Academy

At the afternoon and concluding session of the Orange Grand Lodge of Ontario East yesterday, the greater portion of the time was occupied in the election of officers which was conducted by Wor. Bro. Judge E. H. McLean of Picton. The officers selected were as follows:

Lt. Col. T. A. Kidd, Kingston, Grand Master; E. Armstrong, Ottawa, Deputy Grand Master; Lieut.-Col. A. W. Grey, M.P.P., Brockville, Junior Deputy Grand Master; Rev. A. L. Geen, Belleville, Grand Chaplain; D. J. Sutherland, Ottawa, Grand Secretary; S. M. Scott, Lindsay, Assistant Grand Secretary; C. H. Wood, Kingston, Grand Treasurer; M. Carl, Sidney, Grand Lecturer; H. B. Prettetly, Winchester, Deputy Grand Lecturer; H. Shipman, Ottawa, Grand Marshal; F. G. Reid, Thorlow, and G. M. Campbell, Deseronto, Grand Auditors.

The officers were installed by Rt. Wor. Dro. Duncan Munro of Cornwall, P.G.M., who is in his eighty-fourth year. Cornwall was selected as the place for the meeting of the Grand Lodge in 1927.

Fred Dane of Toronto, President of the Imperial Grand Orange Council of the World, was present at the session and addressed the Grand Orange Lodge.

He said that it was at the suggestion of a Brother connected with this Grand Lodge in 1865 that the Imperial Orange Council of the World came into existence. Bro. Shannon made the suggestion to Bro. Wm. Johnston, M.P., of Darlington, Ireland, who presented it to the Grand Lodge of Ireland, and it was organized at a meeting which took place in London, Eng., in 1867.

Canadian Orangemen have always a leading part in the Triennial Council and have had more Presidents in that body than any other Grand Lodge. He intended to be present at the next meeting of the Triennial Council in London, Eng., July 7th and 8th.

You here in the Grand Lodge of Ontario East are living in what may be described as the cradle of Orangeism, and you should be Orangemen and good ones, for the blood of the early founders still courses through your veins. We today are standing on foundations laid by our forefathers of civil and religious liberty, and need no United States appendages to the institutions. The people of this part of the Province are largely descended from the grand old U. E. Loyalists who came to this country to support liberty and freedom under the British Flag.

DANCE IN EVENING

Probably the largest assembly which has ever attended similar functions in Johnstone's Academy, six hundred all told, enjoyed the splendid dance given last evening in honor of the delegates of the Grand Orange Lodge which met in Belleville this week and a thoroughly enjoyable time was spent by all present. The floor was in ideal condition and Sprague's six-piece novelty orchestra left nothing to be desired. Novelty dances of all kinds were introduced during the evening and dainty refreshments were provided.

WITH THE LADIES

Sister Clarke, of Cornwall, was elected Worthy Mistress of the Grand Lodge of Ontario and Sister Bevin, Ottawa, Deputy Mistress of the Lodge both by acclamation at to-day's meeting of the lodge here. On behalf of the lodge Sister Bevin presented Sister Clarke with a handsome silver cosy pot while Sister Proudfoot, Past Grand Mistress presented a card tray to Sister Bevin also on behalf of the lodge.

At the dance given for the visitors attending the Orange dance last evening, the entertainment was opened by a grand march headed by Grand Lodge Officers of British America and Provincial Grand Lodge Officers of Ontario East and West. During the evening Brother Foster of Belleville, gave several selections on the bagpipes to the music of which the Grand Master Duncan Munro of Cornwall danced accompanied by Sister Nellie Gillespie. Past Grand Auditor for Ontario East. Miss Ida Febrell danced the Highland fling and sword dance.

WHY LYONS RESIGNED

Wouldn't Tell Business Secrets in the Provincial House

Toronto, Ont., March 19.—When the public accounts committee of the Ontario Legislature met this morning W. E. Raney, Progressive leader moved that the following members of the civil service be called before the committee to give evidence concerning certain accounts of provincial motion picture bureau: G. W. Brownridge, G. E. Patton, W. H. Harland, J. M. Rutherford and G. L. Jones.

MR. LYONS TELLS

The examination of Jas. Lyons, M.L.A., former minister of lands and forests, on transactions of his company the Jas. Lyons Peat and Supply Co. of Sault Ste. Marie, with government contractors and others was continued by W. Finlayson, Conservative M.L.A. Mr. Lyons said that a traveling auditor visited all construction engineers working for the provincial government in northern Ontario and checked their accounts.

Questioned about certain street paving in Sault Ste. Marie, Mr. Lyons explained that Wellington St., five miles long, was the continuation of the Sudbury-Soo Road. Drury Government had spent $46,000 on the street and the present government was continuating the work. The present government he said, was paying fifty per cent of the Wellington Street pavement. The Timmins-South Porcupine Road was being similarly treated by the present government, said the witness.

ROAD POLICY

As minister he had arranged for the construction of the Sault-Espanola in construction of the Timmins-Porcupine Road and the big mines had also contributed several thousand dollars. The Government's share was about 70 percent of the cost. Mr. Lyons explained his purchase of the Sault Coal and Wood Co. in June 1925. He bought the stock and assets outright and then sold about 45 percent of the stock to residents of the locality. The mines however held control of company, said Mr. Lyons.

None of the stock of this company, said Mr. Lyons, was held in men having transactions with the Government.

WHY HE RESIGNED

Examining Mr. Lyons, the Liberal leader, W.E.N. Sinclair wanted to know what questions asked in the House had caused him to resign. The witness replied there were informers that he had profited through dealing with Government contractors.

"Would not an answer have cleared them up," asked Mr. Sinclair. Mr. Lyons replied that he gave the answer would have entailed divulging a lot of private business.

"But you are doing it now," remarked Mr. Sinclair.

"Yes. I am doing it now so close the air," replied Mr. Lyons.

"You resigned then for no good reason," said Mr. Raney.

"Exactly," replied Mr. Lyons. "I wouldn't let private business conrad in the House."

MORE QUESTIONS

In a reply to a question, Mr. Lyons said his firm had sold $12,000 worth of tile to a man named Bedford who in turn had sold the tile to the Northern Development branch of the Government. Continued further Mr. Lyons declared that Bedford's profit "was very small."

The committee meets again tonight when W. E. Raney, Progressive leader, will examine Mr. Lyons.

FINANCE CHIEF PROMISES A CUT IN TAX BURDEN

Did Not Say Whether Income or Sales Tax To Be Reduced

AN EXCESSIVE IMPORT

T. L. Church Called for Cut In Income Tax—Euler "Nuisance Taxes"

Ottawa, March 18.—Intimation of some moderation of the burden of taxation was given in the House of Commons by Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, on a resolution proposed by T. L. Church, of Toronto, calling for a reduction in income tax. While he did not make any definite promise that it would be in either the income tax or the sales tax, the minister declared that he "hoped to give some little relief to the people." What that will be must remain a secret until after Easter, when the budget will be brought down.

EXCESSIVE BURDEN

Mr. Church maintained that the income tax was formerly the exclusive right of the provinces, and as they had not many sources of revenue, it should be restored to them now that the war which had led to the invasion of the provincial field by the federal authorities was over. He further argued that the income tax was an excessive burden on the salaried class, who provided 85 per cent. of it, and who were liable to pro vincial and municipal taxes which would not be so heavy if municipalities had the right to impose their own income tax instead of the Dominion Government.

LESS TAXATION?

Mr. Robb was not, however, prepared to agree with the argument of the member from Toronto. Although the war was over, the liabilities incurred in it by the Canadian people still remained and had to be met. He contended, and quoted figures to support his contention that Canada bore less taxation of various kinds than did either Great Britain or other parts of the commonwealth of nations, and were less than the United States.

Quite a variety of suggestions were proffered the Minister of Finance from various parts of the House.

"NUISANCE" TAXES

Mr. McLean, with his usual insistency, looked for the solution of many problems by the amalgamation of the two railways, while W. D. Euler urged the abolition of the "nuisance taxes" about which business men from all part of the country have periodically complained as being of a nature to hamper business without bringing much revenue to the public treasury. He also put forward the suggestion of a tax on steel market transactions and advocated the basing of the income tax on the income of a three-year period, as being more equitable for business men subject to the fluctuations of trade. This latter proposal found a supporter in T. L. Brown, Progressive, from Lethbridge, but his colleague, John Millar, of Qu'Appelle, held that income tax was the fairest form of taxation that could be devised.

LAXITY IN COLLECTION

Hon. J. W. Edwards cast some doubts on the vaunted prosperity of the country, as indicated by Government speeches, and urged that if this were true the income tax returns would be heavier instead of showing a steady decline—unless there was gross laxity in collection of the tax.

The viewpoint of labor, as expressed by A. A. Heaps, of Winnipeg, was that ability to pay should be the keynote of all taxation, and therefore it was the business not that was the best means of securing revenue for the country.

NO SIGN OF RANCOUR

The discussion throughout the afternoon was conducted in the best parliamentary debating style, without any sign of rancour or bitterness—merely an academic decision to place the minister on his feet with the views held by the different parts of the country, with a view to helping him to frame his budget and give the public any little relief that he thinks they would be able to bear. Having accomplished its object, Mr. Church withdrew his resolution on the suggestion of the minister, and the House thereupon adjourned.

Here and There

Vaper Valley, a virginal tract of land 185 miles from Vancouver, between Fort Douglas and Lillooet on the Canadian Pacific Railway line, is to be the location of a large medical sanitarium and hunting lodge which is to be established this summer by a syndicate of Vancouver men.

General conditions on the prairies and in British Columbia indicate that Western Canada is headed for a period of real prosperity. Charles Murphy, general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Western Lines, after a periodical, trip of inspection, stated that farmers and business men alike have not been so optimistic on the prairies in years.

On March 3 a crowd of representative citizens gathered at the Canadian Pacific depot at Vancouver to welcome His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Robert Randolph Bruce, of British Columbia. Four years ago the hardy Scot left his ancestral home in Invernere, Scotland, to seek his fortune in the Canadian West. He found it.

During the month of January 1926, 15,706,700 pounds of refined sugar valued at $1,000,000 was exported from Canada as compared with 197,400 pounds valued at $14,893 for January 1925. Of the total amount the United Kingdom took 11,850,000 pounds while Sweden was second on the list with 2,250,000 pounds.

A commission of three professors in agriculture will make a survey of the province of Ontario to ascertain the soil best adapted to the growth of tobacco. The commission will act under instructions from the Minister of Agriculture. Its results are to be made on various farms and also at the government experimental stations within the tobacco districts.

Government statistics show that this average wages per month paid to farm helpers in the summer of 1925 over the whole of Canada was $40 for men and $22 for women. The value of board received was reckoned at $23 for men and $12 for women. The total received, therefore, for wages and board in 1925, was $63 per month for men and $43 for women.

With a population of 9,000,000 Canada has as much foreign trade as the United States had with a population of 75,000,000. Mining production in the Dominion is as great as when the United States had 28,000,000 people while factory manufactures as much as the country across the border did with 92,000,000 inhabitants. Today the Canadian per capita export trade amounts to $134 while in the United States it is only $37.

LYONS DENIES ANY CONNECTION

Former Ontario Minister Testifies as to Sault Contracts.

Toronto, March 19.—Denial that he had any interest in or connection with certain contractors at Sault Ste. Marie, who were successful bidders for Government work, was made by James Lyons, who recently resigned as Minister of Lands and Forests, when the Public Accounts Committee of Ontario continued their investigations into Mr. Lyons' company and his business. The ex-Minister also declared that when he opened any tenders for work, to be done under his department he was always careful to have his deputy or other officials present, and they signed the record to show that they were present "Never were tenders opened privately," he said.

Questioning queries regarding the new aerodrome in Sault Ste. Marie, Mr. Lyons stated that the aeroplanes which it housed were required for forestry patrol work. He claimed an actual money saving to the province by the introduction of these aeroplanes of $25,000.00 through the protection against fire. He was not interested in the companies which built the aerodrome, although his firm may have sold them materials.

Mr. Lyons quoted figures showing the trade of his company with various big pulp, timber and con-truction firms in Northern Ontario. In most cases, according to the figures, his company was doing better business before he entered politics than after.

GREAT NEW POWER LINE

Would Carry Power From Gatineau District to Toronto

Toronto, March 19.—Provision for the construction of a high voltage power line from Toronto to Ottawa, to bring to this port of the province power developed on the Ottawa or Gatineau rivers, is made in the estimates of the hydro-electric commission, which will be tabled in the Ontario Legislature shortly. This does not indicate that the line will be built immediately, but if necessary work can be commenced without delay. A sum sufficient to permit at least a proper commencement of the work will be offered in the estimates if the commission so recommends.

Power carried thus to Toronto would, it is expected, prevent any possible future shortage of power here or in western Ontario.

A LEGLESS MAN QUITS GAY LIFE

Made $250 a Week Begging But Spent it Buying Drinks for Crowd

New York, March 19.—Arthur Buckingham, a legless man, 58 years old, who came here from Binghampton two weeks ago, checking his wooden legs at the Pennsylvania Station at that time, a rotund man in an opulent state towel if not as much as $250 a week soliciting alms on the Bowery and spent royalty, treating left and right.

"I made as high as $25 a day but. But he'd always with the rest life. Judge I was too liberal with my money. I spent it right and left. I treated everyone. I bought drinks for the crowd. It was a gay life. I'll tell you. I worked part of the time, but I was making about $250 a week and living high. I began to see the wisdom of my friend's advice."

He remarked, incidentally, that he had some money laid by. He lost his legs in a railway accident seven years ago and received $25,000 in damages, he said. He has $5,000 put away.

"If you'll let me go, I'll return to Binghampton," he said.

The Magistrate agreed.

'FLU SPREADING IN U.S.

New York Hospitals Crowded—83 Deaths in Week

New York, March 19.—Prolonged winter weather has continued the spread of influenza and pneumonia in several northeastern cities.

Of 60 infants at the babies' hospital here, 45 have pneumonia, and other hospitals are taxed to capacity with the influx of patients.

Last week 883 new influenza cases, with 83 deaths, and 1,107 new pneumonia cases, with 358 deaths, were reported to the Department of Health. For the corresponding week last year there were 118 deaths from influenza, and 328 from pneumonia.

CATTLE SALES SUGGESTED

Ottawa, March 19.—Steer gates which could be locked at sundown are suggested by one customs officer as a precaution against smuggling at principal points on the international boundary. Hon. G. H. Boivin, Minister of Customs, told the House of Commons today that this was one of the proposals submitted to him as a prevention against smuggling in and out of Canada and the United States. He had not yet decided on the merits of the suggestion, he added.

Loose Panels Fly the Gay Colors of the New Prints

Frocks that go to lunch, to tea and are among those pretest of brides' parties and weddings, express the new styles with formality and elegance.

Frocks that combine the straight lines of the one-piece dress with the flying mollon of loose panels are very wearable, for they give the same wider look to the hips without sacrificing the slender silhouette. The new prints combining stalked glass cobes in small, broken clusters are used with a plain color in the one-sided sash and trimming bands. In blond, bois de rose, cocoa tree and wine-colored Georgette with matching bands of taffeta of satin, the almost sleeveless frock answers for semiformal dinners and the theatre as well as for afternoon engagements.

The Prince's holiday, about a fortnight, is likely to be spent somewhere in the south of France.

PROPOSE ACTION TO SAVE NIAGARA

Canadian and U.S. Officials In Conference at Washington

ENGINEERS PRESENT

Steps Urged to Prevent the Breaking of Encampment at Falls

Washington, March 19.—Preservation of Niagara Falls, including methods to prevent enlargement of the notch, was taken up at a conference between Canadian and United States Federal officials at the State Department here, Hon. Charles Stewart, Dominion Minister of the Interior, headed the Canadian group.

Secretary Herbert Hoover, of the United States Department of Commerce, who declared in a recent address at Chicago that if steps were not taken to prevent breaking of the escarpment at the falls, Niagara would become a great rapids instead of a gigantic waterfall, led the representatives of this country. J. T. Johnston, Director and Chief Engineer of the Canadian Interior Department, and Dr. O. D. Skelton, Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs, were also on the Canadian delegation.

The opening aroused considerable speculation as to whether the joint Canadian-United States Engineering Commission was considering the St. Lawrence waterways project and its relation to the question of water diversion from Lake Michigan in the Chicago sanitary district. Several of the participants serve as commissioners on this subject, but it was said at the Commerce Department that the Niagara question was the only one discussed.

After opening 1-8 to 1-2 off May 57 3-8 to 7-8 the corn market underwent further sag to well below 70 for May. Oats started at 1-8 cent off to shade advance. Later all months showed some loss. MAY AUGMENT BORDER FORCE

Hon. Mr. Boivin Outlines Tentative Plans to Stop Smuggling

90 MEN FOR QUEBEC

Number of Patrol Boats Along Coasts May Also Be Increased

Ottawa, Ont., March 19.—Tentative plans to stop smuggling into Canada were outlined in the House of Commons by Hon. G. H. Boivin, Minister of Customs and Excise, when the estimates of his department were under consideration. While these arrangements were under his consideration, Mr. Boivin emphasized that it was his desire and intention to carry out whatever recommendations were made by the present Customs Enquiry Committee.

The special preventive service force, he declared, which had been authorized last year under an appropriation of $350,000, was not operating satisfactorily. Forty men out of 67 now engaged, would be dismissed, and a force of approximately 200 men established. Fifty-six members approximately, would be allotted to Nova Scotia, 20 to New Brunswick, 10 to Prince Edward Island, 90 to Quebec, 54 to Ontario, 10 to Manitoba, 12 to British Columbia, and a certain number to Alberta and Saskatchewan.

This preventive force would not be entirely engaged in patrolling the boundary points, but would also be employed also was to group two or three men at in guarding junction points. The chief important junction points coming into Canada, such as new Victoria Bridge, Montreal. A double clock would be made to increase. In addition, in certain number of officers would be equipped with motorcycles or high-powered cars for the purpose of keeping a watch on small country roads provid ing a means of access to the Dominion.

An increase in the number of boats performing patrol work on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts would also in his opinion, be a proper step. A certain number of boats would be added to those now doing service in the vicinity of the three Maritime Provinces and British Columbia.

ADVERTISE IN THE INTELLIGENCER

NEWS-LETTER FROM AUSTRALIA

Sydney, N.S.W., Feb. 10 (By the Australian Correspondent of The Canadian Press).—Having been defeated in its endeavours to deport the two leaders of the Australian Seamen's Union—Tom Walsh and Jacob Johansen—the Federal Labor Government has introduced an amendment of an existing Act, designed to meet any similar future cases which may arise.

It will be remembered that the Government arrested Walsh and Johansen and imprisoned them prior to deportation. The Federal High Court, on a motion for a writ of habeas corpus, ordered their release. Walsh has been thirty years resident in Australia and Johansen about ten, the latter having become naturalized.

In outlining the new measure and explaining the High Court's judgment, the attorney-general—J. G. Latham—said: "We can legislate on immigration, but the High Court says that it is for the High Court to say what is immigration. The Ministry accepts the judgment of the High Court as declaring the law, but this matter of deportation could not have arisen in Canada or South Africa (in fact in most of the other countries of the world). We can pass laws to prevent any immigrant from coming here and to deport any immigrant, providing he is within our immigration power. According to all the judges, a person is an immigrant when he enters Australia for the first time. According to some, once an immigrant, always an immigrant. According to others, he passes beyond the scope of our powers when he settles down and decides to make a home here."

Deportation, continued Mr. Latham, had always been a function of the Commonwealth and large numbers of people had been deported from Australia. Only last week, on the application of a Labor ministry in one of the States, he had assisted in making arrangements for a deportation. The bill would afford a means of punishment to people who were convicted of certain crimes. It was reasonable and moderate and no person would suffer under it who had not been convicted of a crime. The legislature approved the necessary means of protecting Australia from extremists and carried out the promise of Mr. Bruce to the electors. It was submitted to the House without an apology or excuse as legislation the people had demanded. It represented a resolute effort to preserve the freedom of all classes in Australia. Trades unionists were the people who had suffered most from revolutionary upheavals which, in such a country as this, could bring nothing but suffering and distress. The bill was designed to maintain the principles of a free constitution and democratic element.

Strong measures are proposed against the formation of unlawful associations ,which are described as follows:

"A" Any body of persons incorporated or unincorporated which by its constitution or propaganda or otherwise advocates or encourages.

(1) The overthrow of the Constitution of the Commonwealth by revolution or sabotage.

(2) The overthrow by force or violence of the established government of the Commonwealth or of a State or any other civilized country or of organized government.

(3) The destruction or injury of property of the Commonwealth or of property used in trade or commerce with other countries or among the States; or which is or purports to be affiliated with any organizations which advocate or encourage any of the doctrines or practices specified in this paragraph.

"B" Any body of persons incorporated or unincorporated which by its constitution or propaganda or otherwise advocates or encourages the doing of any act having or purporting to have as an object the carrying out of a seditious intention as defined in the previous section.

Any person who advocates or incites to crime will be liable to two years' imprisonment. The giving or soliciting of contributions for unlawful associations will be punishable with six months' imprisonment. There will be a similar penalty for the publication or sale of books issued by unlawful associations.

The Governor-General may at any time declare that a condition of serious industrial disturbance prejudicial to trade or commerce with other countries exists, and issue a proclamation to that effect.

Anyone who during the operation of such a proclamation urges, aids, or encourages a lock-out or strike affecting transport or public services will be liable to one year's imprisonment and, if not born in Australia, to deportation. Similarly, obstructing or hindering the performance of services will constitute an offense.

The measure is before the House and will, in due course, pass into law.

MR. RANEY SQUELCHED

The Private Bill committee of the Ontario legislature the other day took the time properly to squelch the Hon. W. E. Raney and they made a good job of it. Mr. Raney's day is not complete apparently unless he throws out a flock of insinuations and he does that because he thinks he understands "politics" and has the notion that that is what politics consists of to the elimination of everything constructive or courageous. In his day Mr. Raney to give him his just due has brought very little to the Government of this province and in opposition has been an obstructionist with little to commend any of his actions.

CHAPMAN TO HANG

It would seem as if the last chapter is about to be written in the interesting case of the slate of Connecticut v. Gerald Chapman. In less than three weeks, unless the notorious desperado's resourceful counsel can find in the meantime another loophole in that surprising structure our American cousins call the law, Chapman will go to the gallows and pay with his life for the murder of a police officer. This crime of which he has been convicted was perpetrated so long ago the name of the deceased and the details of his passing are hazy. This is not surprising, considering that the crime itself has been treated by the chroniclers for the great American press as merely incidental to the killer's spectacular fight to save his own neck. There is an illusion that if you give a man enough rope he will hang himself. The Chapman case teaches the lesson that if you give your lawyer enough rope he can hang you just as effectively. The mistake Chapman's counsel made was that he was too sensational. Had he contented himself with finding holes in the law, he might have saved his client. But when he began roaming those holes and putting fancy beveled edges on them, he overstepped himself. He demonstrated that he had no more respect for the court system of the United States than Chapman had for that country's social conventions and created a public demand for a return of capital punishment in the treatment of criminals. Chapman has been reprieved so often that it will not be surprising if he secures another postponement of his engagement with the noose in the short time intervening before the date fixed for his execution, but the odds are against him. The murder of the police officer and his career of crime might have been overlooked, but when he rubbed the vanity of the great American public the wrong way he signed his own death warrant.

"WET" LIBERALS IN QUEEN'S PARK

Mr. R. L. Brackin, Liberal member for West Kent, sprang a surprise in the Ontario legislature when he moved an amendment to the provincial treasurer's motion that the house go into committee of supply to consider the budget, to the effect that "this house, recognizing the necessity of other sources of revenue, urges upon the government the adoption at this session of a system of sale of spirituous and malt liquors in the province under government control, with provision for local option." It was necessary, in order to make the motion relevant to the issue under discussion, namely, the budget, to emphasize the financial aspect of government control; but in the course of his speech Mr. Brackin made it abundantly clear that he regarded such a change as desirable on social and moral grounds, as well as from the point of view of public revenue. The resolution is brought forward ostensibly to find out just where the various members of the house stand on this question. The mover protests that "it is high time that we should get in this house, and of this house, come out from under the barn and let the electors know where they stand." For his part, he certainly leaves no room for doubt as to where he stands. He is an unconfromising opponent of the existing system, though at first, he says, he was an enthusiastic supporter—one who "voted 'No' four times". Converts are notoriously more zealous for the cause they espouse than the original adherents, and Mr. Brackin lashes himself to be an out-and-out champion of government control, now that he has taken it up. In his newfound ardor, however, he swings too far in the other direction. There is no need to exaggerate to the ridiculous extent he does. Only one-tenth of one per cent. of offenders are caught, he declares; distilleries are running night and day overtime to supply the demands of liquor in the province, and wistful allusions are made to buy the old, well-matured "fifteen or twenty years of age," now no longer so easily obtainable. The inference is that, under prohibition, the appetite for liquor has grown so insatiable that all the old vintages have been consumed and it is proving beyond the capacity of the distilleries to work fast enough to satisfy the prevailing demand. "Watch a sheep", as Euclid might observe.

Mr. Brackin explains that his own riding is dry in sentiment, but he holds it to be the duty of every member "to take a stand on the question, regardless of his riding. We are sent here to voice our opinions; not those of the riding." That sounds tremendously heroic, but the effect is somewhat spoiled by Mr. Brackin's admission that he proposes to retire from public life at the close of the present legislature. His attack on the O.T.A. is, therefore, in the nature of a Parthian arrow Those who do not intend to retire will have to proceed more cautiously. There are plenty of people who voted for prohibition who still regard it as a beneficient piece of legislation which has wrought obvious good in the province—obvious that is, to every one who sees with unbiased eyes. There are abuses, no doubt, gross abuses, arising from the fact that the law, duly endorsed by the community, is being violated, because of half-hearted support on the part of those who are themselves persuaded of its merits. Even with this half-hearted support, however, a great deal has been accomplished as all fair-minded critics have to admit. Let the bankers the insurance people, social workers, magistrates and everybody with insight and a memory which goes back a decade or so, give unprejudiced testimony on this point, and the degree of failure, of which so much is heard, will appear comparatively insignificant. As for the "bootleggers and blind-piggers", there have always been individuals who would sacrifice their self-respect and honor for the sake of gain, and they would be at the same or some other equally nefarious business under government control.

WILL BE NEEDED YET

Woodstock Sentinel-Review:

The government of British Columbia is said to be considering a proposal to offer a grant of 16,000,000 acres of land to a syndicate of American capitalists to build a railway into the Peace river district. The proposal furnishes additional evidence that land is plentiful in Canada. That is no reason, however, for giving it away. There is a long future before this country, and the time will come when land will be needed.

FARMERS AND FAKERS

Sherbrooke Tribune:

It is, unfortunately, a known fact that a great number of our honest farmers become great victims every year of professional crooks, who promise the world and wonders to the subscriber "on the ground floor." The towns as well as the rural centers suffer from the wicked practices of these swindlers, but it seems that in recent years they have preferred to operate in the country, as though they felt more sheltered there. Comfortable fortunes, the result of persevering economy, have thus been swallowed up to the distress of the thrifty poor.

MORE BIRDS, FEWER INSECTS

St. Mary's Journal-Argus:

The value of bird sanctuaries which so greatly increase the bird population is everywhere apparent. Two birds can kill in a single day more insects than two men with a compressed air sprayer in an orchard or a farmer with a two-horse duster in a field. Bird refuges in such places as parks, town or country woods or forests, or on private property should be encouraged by farmers more than by any other class. The more birds the fewer insects.

A BOY AND THE SNOW

Youth's Companion:

A 14-year-old boy who lives in Lynn, Mass., was so discouraged by the depth of snow on the sidewalk in front of his house that he ran away rather than shovel it.

When he was found, two days later, and taken home, instead of expressing or feeling any shame or remorse at the cowardly shirking, he was delighted to find that the walk had been cleared. Unless something works a reformation in him, his life will be a melancholy failure. Into each life some snow must fall. The real man loses no time in removing it from his pathway.

ON FLORIDA'S OCEAN STRAND

O. O. McIntyre, at Palm Beach:

The beache here was a slight disappointment. I do not think it compares with Atlantic City, yet I doubt if smarter crowds loll on the sand of any beach in the world. Ladies must wear stockings with their bathing costumes. That is one effect here—smartness. The entire resort appears to be a gorgeous private estate and a stroll along its lined paths seems a vulgar intrusion.

The pelican is another Florida attraction to help in the boom loafing. It is the most graceful of birds, spiraling, skimming and floating about on the boom of a breeze and then suddenly taking a nose dive to come up with a fish in its long beak. Despite its elfin grace it has an incongruous expression like a tired, grim old man.

Palm Beach exudes an aura of artistocratic arrogance. It bends a silver-buckled knee only to wealth. The hand-kissing princes and the count who sticks close to the cocktail shaker are as plentiful as the pelican. Some one reamrked that Palm Beach real estate was so valuable that many traffic cops stand on one foot.

FIX UP DIVORCE WITHIN A MONTH

Agents Investigating Alleged Activities in Many U. S. Cities

PHILADELPHIAN HELD

Divorces Offered Were Singularly Convenient

Philadelphia, March 18.—Federal officials today were investigating an alleged international ring to obtain divorces fraudulently in Yucatan.

Agents of the ring, the headquarters of which are believed to be in Merida, Yucatan, were said to have been operating in New Orleans, San Francisco, New York, Philadelphia and other American cities. For $300, prospective clients were alleged to have been promised divorces within thirty days and "without the knowledge of the other spouse."

Postal inspectors have questioned Gordon W. Disharoon, said to be the Philadelphia agent of the ring, in connection with its operations and he admitted, the inspectors declared, that he had "sold" nearly 100 "divorces" within the last year. Disharoon's business records, the inspectors said, bears his name and in one corner is the word "divorce." On the reverse side is printed:

"Divorce in thirty days."

"No legal clause necessary."

"Notice given after decree is granted."

"All transactions absolutely confidential."

MEXICAN CHANCES

No charge was lodged against him and he was permitted to return to his home with the promise that he would be available when he was wanted.

Postal inspectors said the state department at Washington would be asked to investigate "any illegal practices emanating from Yucatan."

Marital "freedom while you wait" one to the quick divorce system adopted by several Mexican states has become somewhat of an organized industry with rival states competing for "the American trade."

Yucatan, Morelos, Sonora and Sinaloa, the latter two having become the easiest laws affecting foreigners. Their laws require legal notice of only "sought or less and do not require residence at all when the divorce is being sought by mutual consent.

Recently a Nogales attorney sent out a price list for divorces in Sonora, promising a 30-per cent. split to other lawyers who brought him cases.

SINCLAIR ANGRY WITH BRACKIN

Takes Opportunity to Emphasize Split Within Party Ranks

O.T.A. STILL FOOTBALL

All Signs Point To Show Down During Life of Legislature

Toronto March 18. — Before the orders of the day were called in the Legislature on Wednesday, W. E. N. Sinclair, leader of the Liberal party, rose to speak on the budget debate speech of R. L. Brackin, as reported in the press paper, where it was said that he spoke "for the group."

"I will read my statement to the House" said Mr. Sinclair. "On June 25th and 26th, 1919, a provincial Liberal convention was held in Toronto representing some 90 constituencies and from which 500 delegates were present. Among those present were J. A. Pinard and R. L. Brackin, the former then a member for East Ottawa in the Legislature. Both of them were appointed to the policy committee."

That committee had brought in a resolution affirming the party's support of "progressive temperance legislation" and carrying into effect the will of the majority as expressed by referendum. This policy was not changed at the convention, which chose Wellington Hay as leader in 1922.

DON'T SPEAK FOR PARTY

"They have chosen to create discord in the ranks of the Liberal party in this House by abandoning and denouncing the policy and platform of 1919," resulting the Liberal party who adopted their policy and platform of 1919," went on Mr. Sinclair. "They have a right to their individual opinions on any question. They do not speak for the Liberal party when they speak and act as they have done in this debate." The honorable member for West Ottawa is the recognized financial critic of the Liberal party. It was his right to move the adjournment of the debate and speak first, following a custom in vogue here for years. The financial critic of the Budget debate speaks for official Liberalism. "I spoke in the debate on the address and expressed myself as the official Liberalism upon the O.T.A., until a convnetich of Liberals proclaimed otherwise."

PERSONAL REFERENCES

"I will go further, and say that no leader of the Liberal party in this House, while he conducts himself in another province which by law is illegal in this province, as does the member for East Ottawa, and as a member of the Liberal party in this House who holds a retainer as solicitor for distillery interests, as does the member for West Kent, will be recognized as speaking for the Liberal party in this House upon the temperance question.

"Members of all parties in this House will regret the episode which has occurred, and will deplore the discordance the effort made to disrupt the Liberal party on question which thoughful men will solved by careful thought and disinterested parties.

ANGORA TAKES UP DANCE

Scarcity of Partners Makes Little Sisters Popular

Constantinople, March 12.—The women of Angora, capital of Turkey are making rapid progress in the adoption of modern ideas, and in some respects have even surpassed the women of Constantinople, who hitherto have led in the race toward modernization.

In the adoption of the western hat the women of the capital have gone further than the women of the metropolis, partly because of the keen disapproval of President Mustapha Kemal, of the Moslem veil.

SINCLAIRS

Your Easter Suit

With Easter so close and the promise of fine weather, Suits become of very great importance. Styles are divided between the short and very long tailored jacket. Tweeds and beautiful qualities of Poiret Twill and Charmeen are the materials used in these Smart Suits.

There are several three-piece Ensembles of jacket skirt and blouse, which are the last word in style. Prices from $16.50 to $85.00.

SINCLAIRS

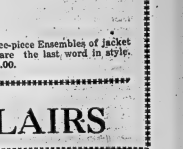

Public dancing, inaugurated at Angora only a few months ago, is now extremely popular. The Government club house is the center for weekly tea dances and balls, but the space is so limited and the number clamoring for admission so great, that "stags" have been banned. Although all the Turkish ladies of high society are turning out for these functions, there are still not enough to provide partners for all the men present. Therefore, many men, in order to be admitted to the dance's bring their little sisters, some still in pinafores.

MANXMEN L... RETIRING CHIEF

Some Resentment That Sir William Fry is Leaving Governorship

London, March 19.—(Canadian Press Dispatch)—Sir William Fry, Lieutenant-Governor of the Isle of Man, has received notification from the Home Office that his term of office is to expire next month. The islanders will receive the news with considerable and general regret. Sir William Fry was appointed to succeed Lord Raglan in 1919. Many Manxmen at the time would have preferred a younger man and a civilian but Major-General Fry, apart from his personal qualities, carried a recommendation to the goodwill of the islanders in the fact that his wife was a Manx lady, the eldest daughter of the late Sir John Goldie Taubman, Speaker of the House of Keys. In his six years of office Sir William Fry has carried himself with extreme discretion and in the years immediately following the war, when the Isle of Man suffered bitterly not merely in the loss of its sons at the front, but in the almost complete loss of its normally tremendous holiday traffic, Sir William and Lady Fry's encouragement did much to cheer and comfort the people of Man in recovering from their trials.

Some weeks ago a majority of the House of Keys approached the Home Secretary, begging that Governor Fry should be appointed for a further term. ome resentment is felt that their wishes have not been respected.

Before assuming the governor-ge ship Sir William Fry was for five years Colonel of the West Yorkshire Regiment, and commanded the Second Battalion in the South African War. He also served in the Afghanistan campaign.

TO DEPORT CANADIANS ILLEGALLY IN DETROIT

Authorities Have Made Arrests And Expect To Round Up 500 More

Detroit, Mich., March 19.—An intensive campaign to round up and deport aliens who have entered this country without observing the required formalities, with reference to Canadians, has been launched by the Detroit office of the United States Immigration Bureau, it was learned to-day.

Twenty-five women, most of them of Oriental birth, have been arrested this week, and are being held at police headquarters on charges of violating the immigration law.

Eighty deportation warrants for both men and women have been obtained in the last month, and by June 1 the where abouts of about 500 Canadian aliens who are illegally in Detroit will be known or less definitely known, according to Alexander M. Doig, Chief Immigration Inspector for Detroit.

Doig said the arrests were being made on information given him office by other Canadians living in Detroit illegally.

Chocolate Stains Removing Them

It is very easy to remove chocolate and cocoa stains from any fabric which is not affected by the action of water.

If the garment or material is washable, simply tub it up in lukewarm suds as you would if it were merely soiled.

If for any reason it seems desirable to remove the stain without washing the garment, it can be done successfully in most cases.

Place the soiled spot on a flat surface with a dry soft absorbent piece of cloth, such as Turkish toweling, between the fabric and the surface. Have ready a basin of lukewarm fresh soda as well as a second basin of clear water. With a soft cloth dipped in the suds, rub lightly all around the stain, finally reaching the cocoa or chocolate spot itself. Continue until the stain is completely removed.

Rinse in the same way with clear water, being careful to rub lightly as large an area as possible so that there will be no danger of a ring left on the fabric when it was dry. Rub lightly with a dry cloth until almost dry. Then after placing a fresh cloth underneath the fabric, press on the wrong side with a moderately hot iron.

BIRTH CONTROL UP TO GENEVA

Another Conference Called By Dr. Little Head of I. B. C. L.

New York, N.Y., March 18.—A call for the seventh international conference on birth control at Geneva next August has been issued by Dr. C. Ill Little, president of the University of Michigan and of the International Birth Control League.

At this meeting, it was explained by Dr. Little, statements from various countries will assemble to discuss the problems involved and a permanent bureau will be established to coordinate the birth control movements in those countries now actively interested in the movement. The conference will meet on August 25, 26 and 27, just prior to the seventh assembly of the League of Nations.

"I believe," Dr. Little said, "that the movement for birth control is making progress. The thinking public is discussing the question and the younger generation enjoys a more active social consciousness than did its parents. They are more interested in the well-being of their own children."

Dr. Little intimated that it appeared to him unfortunate that all birth control activities should be herded into one unit in the public consciousness. He spoke of his organization as representative of the most conservative element in the movement. He believes the world ready at this time only for the dissemination of information about so-called "medical" cases, where direct injury is threatened to children.

MANY SOILS NEED LIME

CHEMISTRY DEPT. AT O. A. C. HAS MADE SPECIAL STUDY.

Is Your Soil Acid or Sour? If So Lime Will Help—Anyway the subject Is Worth Your Study.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

What is soil acidity?

When we speak of a substance being said we think of it having a sour taste, something that will pucker the teeth on edge, like lemon juice, or vinegar. This is acidity. Chemists go much further and draw much finer distinctions, one of which is the effect on certain substances that we call term indicators. A common one is blue litmus paper. This paper changes color from blue to red when it comes in contact with an acid. Many substances when dissolved in water have an acid reaction. One of these is copper sulphate or blue stone. We know that if we dissolve it in a tin or iron pail it will "eat it." This is due to acid formed on dissolving. There are many compounds in a soil which have the same property—not copper compounds but compounds of silica, aluminium and iron. For example if we treat ordinary sand in steam tight vessels it becomes an acid, silicic acid, which has properties common to all acids. Sour Soil.

So often we hear the expression "sour" in speaking of soils. It is generally used to describe a soil which is poorly drained, more or less waterlogged and in poor physical condition. It may be acid or it may not, and therefore the term is misleading. Again, in only one case can we correctly use and that is "acid." If a soil behaves under chemical testing as an acid in any way it is acid. So we will drop the term "sour" when speaking of soils.

How Soils Become Acid.

The acidity of soils is, therefore, due to acid salts, those that have an acid action when in solution, or to free acids. These acids and acid salts may result from decomposition of organic matter or from changes in the mineral portion of the soil, by leaching or washing away of bases from the soil. Thus we have two types of acidity which may occur singly—and they generally do—or may occur together.

Decaying Organic Matter.

Acidity due to decaying organic matter is largely found in peaty soils which are not affected by washings from surrounding high land. We find this condition of affairs in Northern Ontario muskegs, where the sub-soils which normally, might counteract, are buried deeply under a soil composed entirely of decayed plant matter.

High Lands and Acidity.

High lands tend to become acid first. This idea is new or comparatively so and contrary to the belief of many. It has been generally understood that the rolling land is generally acid but now the opposite has been proven. Let us take this case. In a climate like ours we get about 25 inches of rainfall in a year. And this rain falls on the soil it soaks in. In passing through the soil it dissolves carbon dioxide which it always present and forms a very weak acid. So weak is this acid that we cannot detect it except by very delicate tests. This acid dissolves the lime out of the soil, and though it is very slow in action, within a hundred years it dissolves out a great deal. "Many strokes will fell great oaks," and though the solution of lime is very slow we can readily understand that after a hundred years a great deal would be removed. How do we know lime is dissolved? Look at the inside of a tea kettle and ask yourself how this lime got there. Plainly from the water. The water comes from the well or spring so that the rain water must have dissolved the lime in passing through the soil. We can readily understand that these areas are more subjected to washing in leaching than more level lands. Don't forget this—all lands will become acid in time. It is only a question of time; but the lighter portions will be quicker to decrease the lime removed from them will largely be carried to the lower levels. Lime Counteracts Acidity.

Let us now look at the case of a soil in which lime is present. Some dissolving action takes place in the soil, and the water passes downward carrying lime with it. It then passes into the soil below and forms little or natural channels or remains in the soil, gradually being removed by evaporation. The fact has been established, however, that in evaporating water rising to the surface to replace that lost by evaporation does not restore the lime removed in the downward movement. So we see that there is a tendency to concentrate the lime in the lower layers of the soil, while the soil at the surface may become distinctly acid.

Another line bearing on this particular phase is that the water by the time it reaches the sub-soil is saturated with respect to its solvent power and has no further effect. Therefore, the lime in the lower layers of a soil is little affected and remains unchanged for perhaps centuries. At the same time the acid layer is deepening and we must, therefore, supply the lime deficiency before it becomes serious.

Don't Plant Diseased Potatoes.

It would seem wise on the part of everyone who plants potatoes to make a thorough examination of the stock before planting. If people plant diseased potatoes they are committing a crime, because they are propagating a disease in the district which may spread and do much damage to another grower's crop. With diseased seed potatoes being offered in many markets and by many who sell direct from the farm, it will pay the grower to put on his specs and carefully look over the offering before ordering shipment.—L. Stevenson, Director of Extension, O. A. College.

Ottawa, March 19.—"There is no announcement to make," was officially stated following a caucus of the Conservative members.

Bishop Dewdney's Mission Embraces Vast Northland Travels 16,000 Miles Yearly

Winnipeg, Man., March 19.—(By Canadian Press)—In charge of a diocese reaching from the Arctic Circle to the United States boundary, with an average width of 300 miles, Bishop A. D. Dewdney, of Keewatin, in on his periodic tour of the jurisdiction. He travelmostly among Indians and Esquimaux approximately 16,000 miles a year.

Each year Bishop Dedwney visits some part of his diocese and every two years takes a trip to the more remote parts, each trip taking about three months. Last year he made the tour from Montreal via the St. Lawrence river, along the bleak coast of Labrador through the Hudson Straits and across the bay at Port Churchill. His usual route into the north is by the Hudson Bay railway and then by canoe to York Factory.

From Trout Lake, which is in the heart of the Patricia district of New Ontario, the Bishop made a side trip last year involving a canoe journey of 18-days duration. "We did not meet a single person during the whole trip," he said.

Ojibway, Swampy Cree and Chipewyan Indians and various tribes of Esquimaux, all have a claim on the Bishop's ministry. He is also responsible for the spiritual welfare of residents in numerous pulp-wood settlements, mining camps in remote areas and railway divisional points.

At the present time Bishop Dewney is looking for an assistant to carry on missionary work among the Esquimaux. The Church of England, he says, is the only body carrying on missionary work among these northern tribes. The efforts of the Church had proved highly satisfactory in improving the habits, appearance and general condition of the people.

PHONE BELL RANG ONCE IN 3 YEARS FAMILY IN GREAT FEAR

New Rochelle, N.Y., March 19.—A house of barred doors and windows, occupied by six persons, in a state bordering on hysteria, Charles Sperucco, his wife and four children, was discovered by police in New Rochelle's business district yesterday.

Sperucco, alone of all the family, had occasionally crossed the threshold in three years. He ventured forth to procure food and pay the telephone bill.

ONE CALL IN THREE YEARS

The telephone, suspended from a copper cord in the kitchen, rang only once during the three years, and the family were terror-stricken. The last child, Sperucco said, had paralyzed his parents' imaginations. But Sperucco used the telephone yesterday to summon the police, saying his life was in danger from Blackhanders. Among the "rang" whose names he gave were several prominent and respected members of New Rochelle society.

After the police received no response to their knock, they broke down a heavily barred door and found the family in a state of abject fear. Sperucco was held for mental examination, and the family was taken care of by charitable organizations.

PETES DEFEATED BY VARSITY 7-1

Students Repeated Score To Win Round by 14-2

SPEED DID THE TRICK

Trottier, Plaxton, Porter And Hudson All in Scoring

Toronto, March 19.—Peterborough is through. Varsity repeated its 7-1 score again last night and therefore won the round 14-2.

And the fans now agree that even with the Petes at their best Varsity would have probably won by quite a margin. The students had perfect condition and a fast skating front line and their playing clean hockey had they everlastingly bombarded Dwyer (as they have every other goal tender) and then into the lain. Varsity will, with average luck, knock their coming opponents for a row of Arctic inches.

Petes last night were reported in better shape all except McLeod and he was on the line-up. He was lamentably weak on the checking and sad help for the humiliation of it, he would have been benched. He improved a bit as the game progressed but there was no steam to his work.

Hudson, Trottier, Plaxton, Porter were the ham-and-egg boys for Varsity, scoring all the goals in fairly rapid succession.

Rose got Peterboro's lone tally near the end of the second frame. He shot from outside the defence following in fast to tally. Rogardis and Cox showed good form when used as subs, but they could not beat Hebenton. Penalties were more frequent. Dwyer made many fine stops in succession and the students must have fired six or seven dozen slams at his devoted carcass during the pastime.

The Petes are through after a great season. They were called on now-ever to do the impossible and so they now can hang up the old pads. They are a wonderful team and have nothing to worry about. Last night's teams:

Varsity		Peterboro
Sullivan	Goal	Dwyer
Porter	Defence	McLeod
Kirkpatrick		Ross
Plaxton	Centre	Collins
Hudson	Wing	Bailey
Trottier		Ranger
Wright	Subs	Cox
Richards		Rogardis

KINGSTON HOLDS FORT TO TIE 3-3

Head of Lakes Outfit Were Once Leading Limestones by 8-1

Port William, March 19.—Kingston Juniors tied with the locals here last evening 3-3 after a wonderful final period exhibition of gameness and skill. The O.H.A. Junior Champs were tired after the journey on the rattler and seemed unable to get going properly in the first part of the game; the locals leading 3-1 at the mat stage. But the Limestone City lads never quit and for forth the exhibition ended had tied it up.

Kingston are therefore in a position where they still have a good chance to win.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

A promising thoroughbred of the Blue Grass state has been named after the title of the new William Fox screen production, "Kentucky Pride," a romance of the kings and queens of the Turf, which opens a two days' engagement at the Belle Theatre today.

The Kentucky Derby, greatest of the nation, at its recent convention, named the colt, which was selected by Polk Laffoon, and presented it to Tom Mix, celebrated western film star, who spent several days in Cincinnati following his return from Europe.

The colt, from his first Pullman Chinstable and now that it is the property of the movie-cowboy king, it will be featured on the round Mixville, where Tony, the wonder horse of motion pictures, makes his home."

The motion picture, "Kentucky Pride," was produced for Fox by John Ford, who directed "The Iron Horse," on many of the noted horse farms near Lexington, Ky., and all of the members of the Lexington Thoroughbred Association are interested in its success.

AT GRIFFIN'S

This year has seen more dramatic actors turn to comedy rather than any other and in "Dance Madness," which opens to-day at three days' run at the Griffin theatre yesterday, Claire Windsor and Conrad Nagel are seen in romantic comedy roles. And they both make the grade with ease. While Nagel has had a little experience in "Seventh Heaven" and "Miss Mix," Miss Windsor here makes her first appearance in a comedy.

There is, this is a comedy year, and everybody seems to be turning out. Miss Windsor brings a refreshingly sincere note to her performance, and her knowledge of motion pictures serves her to advantage in a number of the scenes. She has adopted a new style of hairdress, which adds immeasurably to her beauty as well as changes her personality.

"Dance Madness" treats a dramatic plot in a farcial manner. The story is the one of the husband who becomes infatuated with his wife's attentions and goes, elsewhere for his love-making. It is done in an entirely refreshing manner, however, and proves that the treatment of the story is the only thing that counts.

TEMPERATURES

There were but slight changes to note in the temperature yesterday and that of a year ago that date. Both days were comparatively mild. Figures are as follows:

March 18th, 1926—40 33.
March 18th, 1925—30 33.

Tired, Nervous Mothers

are the direct cause of much unhappiness in our homes; their condition irritates and worry upon the husband and often ruins a child's disposition. The condition of the mother is often due to some weakness which makes her entirely unfit to perform her household duties and bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves. Every woman who finds herself in this condition should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and lose no time in giving it a fair trial.

HOW ABOUT LEGUMES?

IMPORTANT TO MAINTAIN NITROGEN IN THE SOIL.

Alfalfa, Red Clover, Sweet Clover and Soy Beans All Have a High Value —Inoculation Helpful.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

As a source of nitrogen the legume crops, as alfalfa, red clover, sweet clover and soy beans have a high value. Different crops grown on different soils show some variation in the total nitrogen accumulated and held for return to the soil. A heavy crop of red clover has been estimated to contain 170 pounds of nitrogen per acre. Alfalfa is credited with the high figure of 200 pounds per acre, sweet clover and vetch if heavy crops will pull down 170 pounds of nitrogen per acre.

To return these quantities to the land it is necessary to produce the entire crop, as at seed harvest time there is approximately 15 per cent. of the total nitrogen in the plant and the plant above ground. The nitrogen values added to the value of potash, phosphoric acid and other building materials gives a very high value to the legumes when grown as a soil improvement crop, so much so that we wonder why they are not more often used.

Harvest under as green manure the clovers will contribute the largest possible amount of nitrogen for the use of succeeding crops. If clovers are fed to stock on the farm and the manure returned to the soil, there will be much nitrogen for succeeding crops. Cut off and sold, there is likely to be loss in nitrogen values, as the amount left in the roots may not be sufficient to keep up the addition of nitrogen sufficiency, existing before the crop was grown.

The legume plant is the link between air nitrogen and the soil. The great difference between legumes and non-legumes is that the former has the ability to obtain nitrogen from the air. With 5,000,000 pounds floating over each acre, this should not be difficult, but it is. And the partnership of the legume and bacteria are essential for the work of nitrogen gathering. The legume root nodule is essential, it results from the presence of the bacteria. If there are no nodules present then there are no bacteria working, and the legume plant then depends, in any other plant on the nitrogen stored in the soil. The legume alone is of little value to rob her, but give it the bacteria to work for it, and it then becomes a very great storehouse for nitrogen. In a poor in nitrogen or in legumes without nodules grows poorly or not at all.

Natural Inoculation.

The presence of nodule forming bacteria in the soil where the young legume plants are starting growth, results in a bacterial infection of the fine rootlets of the plant. The plant in its efforts to repair the injury produces the nodule formation which is literally a house for the bacteria in which they live while extracting their food from the plant juices. They get their board with big interest for their home and food. They repay the plant, by giving it a continuous supply of nitrogen in a form that it can use. This nitrogen comes from the air. When the plant dies the the nodules decay, or grow, shrink and decay, the bacteria are liberated and remain in the soil awaiting the next growth when the start their work of creating new colonies and infection over again. Natural or chance inoculation is not always to be commended, it may be too slow, as it takes time for the bacteria to become distributed through the surface soil of a field. Better to aid the natural, by applying the nodule bacteria to the seed at time of sowing. The cost is small and the gain is usually large. That is clear crop insurance is evidenced by the fact that over 4,000 Ontario farmers used the O. A. C. nodule bacteria on their clover, alfalfa and other legume seeds last year.—L. Stevenson, Dept. of Bacteriology, O. A. College.

The English Walnut Tree.

King Solomon planted gardens of nuts. Surely a wise thing to do and further evidence of the wisdom of this anti-suffragette King.

Canada is a nut consuming country, but not a nut producing country. The largest nuts grown in Northern foreign lands nuts to the value of $5,000,000 dollars, and imports no more than ever balances the value of our maple exports. The only nuts Canada than we are selling apples, there are distinct reasons for considering the culture of nuts in our Lake Ontario countries. There are about 100 bearing English walnut trees now in Northern Ontario. If 900 thrive, why not 900,000, there is lots of room for them.

In the Isere Valley, France, the home of the best walnut in English walnut, there are thousands of walnut trees, but only a few planted in regular orchard rows, most of the trees are scattered along the roads, about like bulldings. Where it would be inconvenient to raise other kinds of crops. Even under these supposedly adverse conditions the hundreds of individual trees annually sell highly profitable crops which in the aggregate total several thousand tons. The favored Lake Erie counties have many acres suited to the walnut, and every farm could accommodate 50 trees or more distributed about the dooryard, buildings, along fence rows, even without reducing the grain production of any farm by one bushel.

Indeed modern agricultural industry is to make land produce more food than tree crops should be given consideration. This walnut is more hardy than the peach, and the crop will not spoil overnight. When you plant another tree you may not plant a hardy northern grown English walnut.—J. H. Grevisse, Director of Extension, O. A. College.

AT GRIFFIN'S.

A programme of surpassing merit was presented last evening at Griffin's theatre in which added to the feature picture "Dance Madness" were pictures each well worth the admission were shown. The first "Voice of the Nightingale" is one of the most charming dainty piece of color photography ever produced telling as it does the fable of the nightingale. Into the delightful picture are introduced all the little people of the woodland, including dainty fairies who with their magic wand cause the lillies, roses and wild flowers to open A pretty story nestings the interest throughout. The jerky "Bill" Ballo's Race to Noose, that epic of the north when in 1925 Gunner Kasson and his dog Balto saved the plague stricken town of Nome, and the "Battle of Ants" two principals themselves appearing. The arctic scenery in this picture is particularly beautiful and the story has many thrills. —C.F.P.

CHARGE WAS DISMISSED

Before Magistrate Masson today Dr. D. R. Benson, a well-known veterinary of this city, who was charged with an infraction of the Ontario Temperance Act. It was alleged that he did on the 11th of the present month sell some liquor contrary to the O. T. A. The accused pleaded not guilty and the evidence was such as to warrant the charge being made against him. Magistrate Masson dismissed the case. A more serious charge will be investigated against the party alleged to have procured the liquor. County Attorney B. C. Donnan appeared on behalf of the prosecution and Mr. C. A. Druses Did Not Spare French Wounded on Field

Beirut, Syria, March 19.—A detachment of French and Senegalese troops marching from Karakbale to Rachaya, were ambushed today by Druse tribesmen and most its members killed. Only a few escaped to rejoin their comrades at Rachaya. They reported that the Druses had massacred the wounded on the field.

A French relief column later attacked the Druse bands and dispersed it after inflicting heavy losses.

The French estimate their losses in the ambush at about fifty.

ASKED PARDON AFTER WHIPPING

Early Morning Scene in Apartment Has Sequel in Harlem Court

SENTENCE SUSPENDED

Judge Advised Accused to Take Pledge—Pair Reconciled

New York, March 1' – When a gentleman decides to use a dog whip on a lady, the wise policy is to pick a lady with a forgiving disposition— a forgive-and-forget nature, such as Miss Betty Scott Lloyd, dancer and an actress, the playrel today in Harlem Court, toward William C. May, 23 years old, said to be the son of a wealthy ship chandler in Merion, a suburb of Philadelphia.

It is a far cry from staid Merion to Miss Lloyd's apartment at 15 East 90th street, just of Fifth Avenue, and while they elbows with the home of the late Andrew Carnegie. But May had met Miss Lloyd when she was playing Philadelphia with a "Rose Marie" company, and they had become engaged.

It was a shrill cry at 3 o'clock this morning that awoke the neighbors wake up and realize that things were happening in Miss Lloyd's apartment, and as they listened a chorus of cries prompted a telephone call to the East 104th street station. Patrolman Franklin went around.

He reported finding Miss Lloyd in tears and the apartment in disorder. May, in the opinion of the officer, had been polling himself on prohibition and rooting a straight wet ticket. A police dog, even though he saw Franklin's uniform, cowered beneath a lounge. On the bed was a broken dog whip.

"What is the trouble here?" said Franklin, after taking in the locale. Miss Lloyd said there had been a dispute over "Wolf." The police dog which failed to recognize a brother in the craft. Although May had given her the dog, he insisted on taking him back to Merion. And, more than that, said Miss Lloyd, May had struck her over the shoulders with the whip. Patrolman Franklin said that he had noticed "welts" on the actress' shoulders.

"You're under arrest," said the officer to the Philadelphian, who asked if he could take "Wolf" along with him. Diplomatically, Franklin with persuasive power that would befit a Borah, induced May to part company with "Wolf."

The actress' complaint was read before Magistrate Corsi. It charged May with being under the influence of liquor, calling her names, striking her with the whip, and refusing to leave her apartment. May pleaded guilty. Miss Lloyd then begged the court to suspend sentence.

"You know the laws of New York," said the magistrate, 'do not permit the housekeeping of people I don't know what the laws of Philadelphia permit."

"There should be no such things anywhere," said May, who reiterated his sorrow at what had happened.

"You ought to take the pledge," said the court, "and quit drinking this stuff that makes you crazy or blind. Wait until Congress permits you to drink light wine and beer."

Turning to Miss Lloyd, the magistrate said:

"Well, if I suspend sentence and let him go what do you intend to do with him?"

"I am going to take him with me," replied Miss Lloyd with a smile at her fiance. So the magistrate waved him.

Miss Lloyd said later that May went right back to Merion and that all had been forgiven. All is serene.

HUNTING RULES LITTLE CHANGED

Reduce Limit on Ducks and Number of Daily Catch Of Bass

Toronto, March ..—The fish and game committee of the Legislature at a meeting today rejected the recommendation of various hunters associations for a closed season for bear. The committee also decided to leave the present regulations on beaver in effect for another year. A recommendation that shooting does be prohibited by permitting only the shipment of bucks during the deer season was not adopted. The committee took the view that does would be shot by mistake and then left to rot in the bush. The committee decided not to change the present season for hunting of deer except on St. Joseph's Island, where at the request of the municipal council the season will be limited to November 15 to November 30.

The 200 yard limit on ducks was eliminated. The committee this afternoon reduced the number of daily catch of bass from eight to five in an effort to conserve the game fish of the province. Lange and Pikrul were left as they are.

GOODISON MAY GO ON COMMITTEE

Ottawa—W. T. Goodison (Lib., Lambton, W.) will probably succeed Hon. J. C. Elliott on the customs inquiry committee. The appointment of a successor to Mr. Elliott is made necessary owing to the latter having entered the King Government as minister of labor.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"I've changed my mind," he said, carelessly, but without lifting his eyes to Constable's face as he drank off the milk.

"We've all three drunk out of one glass," laughed Arol, with a laugh. "So we have," said the marquis, dryly. "Well, good-by, Mrs. Marsh. You must come up and see your old friends at the castle; I see there are some of them there still," and with a yell of "Good-by, Mrs. Marsh, and thank you for the milk!" grun Arol, they rode off.

Constance did not fail to notice that no money was offered to hurt and wound the old lady w hose diary and orchar the marquis had robbed in days gone by.

"Well, now, after that heavy repast, let us have a spin," said the marquis as they turned their horses homewards.

They went off at the word, and Constance, having grown accustomed to the pace, let her go a little more freely. Being so much lighter in herself, and having no light s weight, she soon shead and left the other two behind.

The marquis, who with all his seeming carelessness had kept a close eye upon her, called out:

"Don't let her get too warin and run away with you, Miss Grahame."

Constance looked, but her blood was running riot under the excitement of the gallop, and she did not attempt to check the mare. Instead, indeed, she urged it with a touch of her hand, which was all that was necessary and the wild thought flashed through her that she might with ease give them both the slip, ride home to the castle, change her habit and meet them at the door of the courtyard look as if she had never left her room.

She glanced back. The marquis was thundering on behind on the great chest nut horse, Arol, evidently in high spirtations, was cantering in the background.

"He means to race me," she thought, and for the moment she felt the mad desire to beat him, that and longing which seizes the rascest of us at times. She leaned forward and let the horse pick and covertly touched her with the whip.

The mare simply seemed to fly, and Constance, glancing over her shoulder, saw the marquis's face flushed and eager looking, and his dark eyes all aglow.

"I will race him to the but," thought Constance, and she touched the mare again.

The hut was within a few yards, but in the excitement of the run no one had was close behind. She would lose after all! Forgetting everything in her excitement she raised her whip. As she did so, a player rose from right in front of the mare, with such startling suddenness and with such a shrill cry that the animal, frightened and excited completely out of herself, swerved and rose.

Constance, all unprepared, and sitting as lightly as she knew how, sharp clearly flung, like a stone from a sling, upon her side.

For a moment she thought the mare had fallen on top of her, for a dead weight seemed to crash down upon her being; then all was dark.

The next thing she was conscious of was feeling something clasping her lightly round the waist, and in a hazy fashion she was aware that the marquis had got her in his arms, and that her head was lying on his shoulder.

She tried to speak, to tell him to set her down, but the crushing weight descended again, and once more all was dark.

When she opened her eyes again she was still in his arms, but he was kneeling on the ruined floor of the hut.

"Thank God!" he ejaculated, as she opened her eyes. "Don't try to speak yet. Are you in pain? Shake your head or nod, don't speak."

She tried to shake her head, but the mere effort rendered the gesture an unutterable one.

"You are! I was afraid so. I have sent Arol for some water," he said, and his voice was infinitely gentle and tender. "You will be better directly. It was an ugly fall, and there was a stone—"

He stopped, and thinking of nothing but his anxious dread that she might be hurt, gently and softly smoothed the soft silky hair from her face and laid his hand upon her brow.

Constance was too faint to blush, but she felt his touch tingle through her whole frame, and she closed her eyes.

"Ah, don't faint again!" he murmured, more to himself than to her.

She opened her eyes, and met his earnest, anxious ones with a hard attempt at a reassuring smile.

"That's right," he said, gratefully. "I can't bear to see you go off as you did just now. My God! I thought——"

He stopped short as Arol came running in, pale and frightened.

"Oh, Uncle Wolfe, I can't find any water—not a drop!"

The marquis groaned.

"Go down the hill on the other side of the hedge there," he said. "Be quick, there's a dear boy!"

Constance made a great effort.

"Don't— don't send him," she managed to articulate; "I am better. Will you let me get up?"

"No, no," he said, and his strong arms subdued her firmly, though gently. "Lie still; you don't know how weak you are."

But she could guess, for the attempt at movement had jarred her to the core and she sank back with a sigh.

"If I had only some brandy!" said the marquis aloud.

The words had no sooner passed his lips than a shadow darkened the door way and a man entered.

"If it's brandy you want, guv'nor," he said.

Constance opened her eyes and saw a man looking like a rustic tramp. She could not distinguish his features for his back was to the light and a hazy sensation of well-being everything a new and a dull, booming noise to mix with every thing she heard.

So it was that she only caught in a vague, indistinct fashion, so vaguely that trying to recall it afterwards it Ex-faded from her memory, and got confused with the visions which had floated through her brain as the lazy succeeding.

But she seemed to see the man start, and heard or dreamed that she heard him speak, some name and fashion with an oath, as if in wild amazement.

"What, is it you?"

Then came—or did she still dream?—the stern voice of the marquis!

"Silence, you dog! Give me the brandy and go. If you are here when she comes to I'll——"

She heard no more, saw no more till the hot spirit seemed to burn her lips and throat.

Then when she opened her eyes and came back to perfect consciousness the marquis was there alone with her, and the man was gone.

But for the brandy, which still made her shudder, she could have fancied that the whole scene, the man's sharp exclamation, and the marquis's stern response, were fictions of her disordered imagination.

But the brandy was there, and—still further evidence—white, with a burning blush, she raised her head from his breast and essayed to rise, her eyes fell upon a gun standing in an angle of the ruined wall.

CHAPTER IX.

As consciousness returned fully, Constance, looking up at the face of the marquis, saw no trace or sign of the stormy, almost savage calmness, which she had seen, or dreamed she had seen, up on it when he dismissed the man, if indeed he had dismissed him; but instead there was an expression of praying anxiety which was full of manly tenderness.

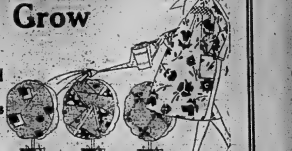

With the hot blood coming and going fitfully in her face, she raised her head and tried to get up. He held her for a moment or two, chafing his head wearingly, then allowed her to rise, h in sloye her arm within his and supported her with a firmness which, insistent as it was, was full of respect and reverence.

"Are you better?" he said. "You are still trembling. Sit down on these stones and rest a little longer."

Constance shook he rhead as she tried to rearrange her hair.

Copyright, Packard Motor

ONCE again has the Spring Season rolled around and once again do budding nature and balmy air combine to lure mankind out of doors, to take to the beautiful highways which now weave their way throughout the district surrounding our city—aptly termed "Ontario's Garden Land."

So with the Spring come thoughts of the Motor Car, whose ever increasing utility and popularity have been so enhanced by the efforts of our Department of Highways in providing residents of this District with excellent roadways, running to the north, to the south, to the east, and to the west.

With the purpose, then, of presenting the public of Belleville and district—and in fact everyone interested in Automotive transportation—with an idea of the newest developments in the motor industry, and to facilitate selection on the part of prospective buyers, the Motor Dealers of the city will co-operate all next week in staging a Spring Showing of the new models in each line. Each dealer has arranged in his own showroom a complete and attractive display of the New Cars, Trucks, Tractors and Accessories handled and the dealers' showrooms have all been attractively decorated for the occasion.

If you are the owner of a motor car, truck, etc., if you contemplate buying one, or if you're just merely interested and have no intention of buying, the dealers below unite in cordially inviting you to visit their respective showrooms to-day, or any day during next week to inspect the newest in the Automotive industry.

In this number you will find represented the offerings of the various dealers taking part in the showing; a summary of many of the latest developments in motordom, together with other features which will interest every motorist.

Aim To Complete Windsor-To-Montreal Highway This Year

ROADS IN LAKE FRONT SECTION ALL TO BE STANDARD THIS YEAR

ACTIVITY FROM TRENTON WESTERLY

When the Honorable Mr. Henry became Minister of Public Works and Highways, he surveyed carefully the road problems of the Province.

These problems are now and have been of a three-fold nature and naturally include the construction of the most approved types, the maintenance of all roads under the charge of the Department and the making of these roads safe for the travelling public.

It is to be expected that from a local point of view that the most important road in the Province is that road which passes the ratepayers door. Nevertheless, having in view the circulation of traffic upon the highways of the Province and with knowledge which has been gathered by having had prepared a carefully taken traffic census covering the entire Province, it is quite easy to determine those roads which not only require to be constructed of a high type, but which are used most by the travelling public. The traffic census so taken shows the accumulation of traffic around the larger centres. This is true throughout the Province.

There is also today an increased use of the highway even for long distance purposes, while the commercialized use of roads is very apparent. In 1916 when the motor truck registration was separated from that of motor cars, there were as few as 2,500 trucks operating in the Province at that time. This number has increased to nearly 85,000 and the operation of these trucks has in many instances been placed upon a commercial basis. It would thus appear that the highways are more and more serving the public, not only locally, but also for long distance purposes and are today real competitors of the transportation systems.

The desire of the Minister has been to complete the highway from Windsor to the Quebec border and it is anticipated that with the work which will be done this year in the Counties of Northumberland and Durham and a few of the western counties, there will be a continuous pavement from Windsor on the west to the Quebec border on the east. Considerable of the work will be done Trenton westerly and naturally the people in Hastings County are interested in this work.

During the past year all Provincial Highways have been assigned numbers. The highway passing through Belleville on the Kingston Road is Number 2. This road is of Interprovincial import as it carries this number continuously from Windsor on the East through the Provinces of Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, having its eastern terminus in the city of Halifax. All the Provincial Highways in the Province have been duly numbered and signed. The advantage of having numbers and showing the numbers of the highways makes it very easy for the travelling public to travel safely to a destination without the necessity of making the usual inquiries.

The danger and direction signs which are placed upon the highways are today adopted by all the Provinces in the Dominion, and while these are free from words, they in themselves are easy of interpretation and undoubtedly are assisting materially in keeping down the number of accidents upon our roads.

The increased use of the highway appears to be almost one of the modern miracles. The growth in the use of the highways can possibly be more clearly demonstrated by the fact that in 1914 when the first traffic census was taken on the Toronto-Hamilton Highway on Labor Day showed the total number of vehicles passing a given point was 2,200. In 1925 at this same point the total of 18,032 vehicles was reached. What is true of the Toronto-Hamilton Highway is true to a greater or lesser extent of all the roads within the Province.

Traffic census taken west of Belleville in 1914 showed a daily average of 68 automobiles and trucks with 165 horse drawn vehicles. Thus the total daily average of both was 233. During the summer of 1924 we found at the same point that this traffic had grown in the ten years until a daily average of 932 Ontario owned cars passed over the same road, while there were 120 foreign cars, 67 trucks and buses, with only 16 horse drawn vehicles, the daily average having risen from 233 in 1914 to 1175 in 1924.

The effect which this increased traffic has upon our other means of transportation is undoubtedly very marked and affords the public men a very great problem to discover the economic relationship between the various means of transportation. During the past few years electric lines have been discontinued in the cities of St. Thomas, Chatham and Woodstock and in the towns of Ingersoll and Dundas; while more recently it has been determined that the electric roads in the city of Peterboro will not be continued.

It is quite evident that with the investment which the people of this Province and other Provinces are making in highways that they are creating an opportunity for the travelling public to use gasoline propelled vehicles to a much greater extent, not only for pleasure, but also for business than was previously possible.

The increased commercial use of our roads places another responsibility upon the authorities and that is the necessity of keeping roads open for twelve months' service. This has occasioned the placing of snow removal machinery at various points of vantage and keeping same constantly employed. During the past Winter nearly 500 miles of Provincial Highways have been kept in such a condition that, with the exception of very few days, motorists have been travelling from Windsor to Kingston. What has been accomplished during the past Winter will undoubtedly be a challenge to the Highways Department during the years to come and it is to be expected that the public will be more insistent with their demands that roads be kept in condition to be used twelve months of the year. This factor will have an important bearing upon the use of our other means of transportation for local traffic. It cannot be considered in the interest of the public and interest of economical transportation to have one means of transportation provided the travelling public for certain months of the year to the disadvantage of our steam railways and electric lines and then expect that these steam roads and electric lines will provide the service for the public at such seasons when the need of transportation will be at its peak.

It is expected that the highway from Windsor to the Quebec Border will be fully completed by the end of 1926 and that serious detours will not be found upon this road. It is expected that with this addition that Belleville and the eastern part of the Province will profit very materially by tourists and others who have the time and disposition to travel over the Ontario roads. It is expected that the appeal to the millions of Americans who are living within a few hundred miles of the Niagara Frontier will be to take the trip from Detroit or Niagara along the north shore of Lake Ontario on through to Quebec, returning possibly by the American route.

The increase in traffic which has taken place in the last ten years has been very marked, but it will be a surprise indeed if, particularly in the eastern part of the Province, traffic on the highways does not multiply even within the next five years.

It must be appreciated that it is absolutely impossible for a government to build all the roads or to make all improvements to highways in a short period of time. The principle upon which the Department has been acting is that of the greatest good to the greatest number and with the desire of connecting East and West, the larger centres of the Province with a net work of first class roads at the same time encouraging the improvement of all township and country roads so that every producer or citizen might have a good road affording an easy means of transportation between his farm or his closest market, and in turn giving him access to these main arteries which will extend from East to West and North to South through out the Province of Ontario.

McLAUGHLIN CARS BETTER, CHEAPER

G.M.C. Products Have Been Refined to Meet Big Demand

The well-known McLaughlin-Buick cheaper—when better automobiles are built McLaughlin-Buick will build them—has been amply justified by the present line of McLaughlin-Buick cars. In every way these cars are better—better than any previous McLaughlin-Buicks.

No other automobile has all of the features that make McLaughlin-Buick better—the Sealed Chassis, Triple sealed motor with Air Cleaner, Gas strainer and Oil filter, flexible tube drive, Mechanical four wheel brakes, Fisher closed bodies, Duco Duotone finish, Automatic lubrication.

Features such as the Valve-in-head engine, Multiple dry-disc clutch, Cantilever rear springs, which have been largely responsible for McLaughlin-Buick popularity, are not new—but have been refined and improved, to make the McLaughlin-Buick the fine car they are to-day—the result of the combined resources of General Motors.

In spite of the many improvements McLaughlin-Buick is now lower in price than ever. The present prices are only possible through the much greater production which public demand has made necessary. The new low prices are a revelation to many who have had to drive a smaller car and more and more of these people are now coming to McLaughlin-Buick.

GREEK ELECTION NEEDED

Athens, Greece, March 19.—Admiral Coundouriotis has resigned the Greek presidency. An election will be held April 4 to decide his successor. Admiral Coundouriotis assumed the regency of Greece when King George 2nd was forced to leave the country in December 1922.

CHRYSLER PLANT AT SYRACUSE, N.Y. ENGAGED IN FINDING ROOM ENOUGH TO TURN OUT THE CARS DEMANDED

One of the most remarkable facts in connection with the large production increase effected by Chrysler during the last two years is that it has not necessitated the addition of very much new floor space. Ornarily, the consideration of increased manufacturing schedules is the signal to increase at once the working space, but with Chrysler the tendency has been to increase the effectiveness of the already available space rather than add new space. There operating expense and upkeep have been kept at the absolute minimum, and consumer values have been improved proportionately.

That there was a limit, however, to the possibilities of "space engineering" became apparent several months ago, with the result that there is now in process of construction at the Highland Park Plant a new five-acre addition to be devoted chiefly to increased motor production.

This new building is of the most approved machine shop type of construction, namely one-story structural steel, with saw-tooth roof and with unbroken walls of steel windows, to insure the daylighten of every square foot of its working area.

The new building was staked out December 4 and according to working schedules, will be completely equipped and in operation by March 15, be available in time to meet the increased spring demand for Chrysler cars.

It may be added from the fact that it is one of the largest construction jobs ever built during a northern states winter and completed in less than ninety working days. The total cost of the work will be approximately half a million dollars.

Special attention has been given to the matter of arrangement and equipment, with reference to employees comfort and welfare. Recreation rooms, rest rooms and bath rooms are provided in all departments.

Additional new Chrysler construction, now under way, includes (1) an entire new system of receiving and shipping docks, comprising a total trackage of more than five thousand feet, with depressed tracks to facilitate car loading and unloading; (2) a new service garage for the storage of factory trucks and cars; and (3) a new factory parking space of 600-car capacity for the use of employees.

All phases of the work are being rushed at the utmost possible speed in order that the new facilities may be available in time to meet the in-

Greatest Values In Their Price Class

THESE Three Cars—McLaughlin-Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac, have achieved value-leadership in their respective price classes. Each a quality car, each built to unwaveringly high engineering standards—each having as a background, the vast General Motors research laboratories and proving grounds—these three automobiles represent the latest developments of the world's greatest automotive organization. Public acceptance, resulting in increased production, has made possible many economies of purchasing and manufacturing. Additional savings have been effected by the combined facilities of the entire General Motors organizaton. Hence, notwithstanding the enormous sums invested by General Motors in perfecting the cars themselves, great economies are being passed along to the purchaser, of what we confidently believe to be the greatest values in their respective price classes.

Motor Car Industry Means Enormous Sums in Circulation

G. M. C. TALKS ONLY IN MILLIONS HAS LEFT MORE CASH IN CANADA THAN IT TOOK OUT, OSHAWA SAYS

Oshawa, Ont., Mar. 19.—A summary of the year's operations of General Motors Company of Canada, Limited, shows a marked stepping up in the business, compared with 1924. During the year closed, the amount paid by the customers of the General Motors for the purchase in Canada of the various types of cars and parts produced by this company ran to $34,044,645, while the corresponding figures for the year previous were $26,000,000. The sums in each year include the freight and taxes, and they represent the amounts which the company's dealers received from their customers who live in Canada, either in the form of cash or in old cars turned in on the purchase of new ones.

But perhaps the most interesting feature of the year's operations of Oshawa Motors is the fact that this company left more money in Canada than it took out. The amount received from customers, in cash or used cars, was the $34,044,645 mentioned above, while the actual money which the company left in the country reached $35,732,390. This, however, does not represent a loss on operations, but is due to the fact that 40 per cent. of the manufacturers done in Canada is for the export trade, and that, in turn, means that General Motors carried on a manufacturing business here which meant the purchase of material and labor in Canada for articles sold in the export market, to an extent which offsets the materials imported for the cars sold in the domestic market.

VALUE OF THE INDUSTRY

The outline of the year's operations, as presented by Mr. R. S. McLaughlin, president of the company, is interesting from the standpoint of showing how the $35,732,390 was distributed. And it shows at the same time the value to Canada of industries of this scope. The $35,732,390 was made up as follows: Money paid for material purchased from Canadian manufacturers, $9,942,823; money paid to employees, $5,187,859; dealers' gross profit, from which they paid their mechanics, salesmen, rent, taxes, and from which they took their net profits, $8,253,251; money paid to the Government for duty on imported parts, sales tax, excise tax and other taxes, $5,484,621; money paid to the railways, etc., for freight, express and cartage, $2,641,304; money spent in Canada in plant or factory improvements, tools, supplies, etc., $1,321,344; amount spent in Canada for advertising, branch operations, service parts, depots, etc., $1,246,444. This makes a total of $34,647,526, but, in addition, there was the matter of dividends. There are 1243 people living in Canada who own stock in General Motors, and the dividends declared in 1925 by the international corporation known as General Motors Corporation and which stock is held by the 1,243 Canadian stockholders, amounted to $1,085,644, thus making up the grand total of $35,732,390. All the General Motors put into Canada during the year which has just closed, or, $1,639,342 more than was taken from the Canadian public for the products sold in the Dominion.

MARRY NEPHEW OR NIECE

Just as the materials purchased in Canada were concerned, Mr. McLaughlin pointed out that they fall into two classes, raw materials and fabricated goods. In the raw material class there are such articles as lumber, steel, copper and brass, while a few of the fabricated lines purchased from manufacturing plants in Canada were tires, wheels, springs, sheet metal stampings and pressings, leather, plush, cloth, coated fabrics, paint, body hardware, glass, windshields, mufflers, axles, nuts, screws, bolts, etc.

LARGE WAGE BILL

From the standpoint of furnishing employment in Canada, the operations of General Motors are exceedingly important. The wage bill, as will be noted from the above figures, reached $5,187,859, which money was spread over an average of 3,909 employees. The employment story does not end here, as will be appreciated from the above list of fabricated goods purchased in Canada. But apart from that, there is the fact that the General Motors is responsible for maintaining a large number of distributing organizations. There are 1,705 automobile dealers in Canada, from coast to coast, who handle the products of General Motors, and 85 per cent. of these handle the General Motors products exclusively. The employment roll of these distributing agencies runs between 4,000 and 5,000. On top of that, there is the small army of salesmen, approximating 2,500, who sell the products of General Motors, and 85 per cent. of whom make their living solely through those agencies.

General Motors has undoubtedly become an important factor in the economic life of Canada, and Mr. McLaughlin hopes that the success of the past will be improved upon from year to year, and that the company, of which he is president, will go on playing an increasingly important part in the life of Canada and that it will continue to contribute its share towards the prosperity of the big army of workers who depend upon it, either wholly or in part.

WILMOT MOTORS IN NEW HOME

Building's Capacity Now Doubled With a Second Storey

One of the features of Motor Show Week will be the opening of the Daly-Wilmot Motor's enlarged Storage Garage and Show Rooms. The new building has just double the capacity of the old; space which was vitally necessary for their constantly growing business.

The building has been raised a full storey for its entire depth, the ground floor being left for storage purposes only. Up stairs are large bright attractive show rooms with the repair shop in the rear. At the front of the building Mr. Wilmot has his private office and a store room for spare parts.

MORE SPACE

The entry to the garage gives ample room for cars to pass and go out into the storage room, which has space for more than double the number of cars to park which was formerly available. The lighting has been given special attention so that no dark corners exist.

On this floor, too, is the indoor wash rack, equipped with hot and cold water. An ice-coated car can be cleaned and polished in a few minutes.

SHOW ROOM UPSTAIRS

The show room for new cars upstairs is flooded with daylight and well equipped with lighting for night display. Entry to this floor is gained by a wide, drive up an easy grade. Wide doors admit cars to the show room and to the repair shop situated to the rear.

Every comfort and convenience is arranged for visitors and staff and the Belleville Motor boys are happy in getting settled in their new home

HUDSON-ESSEX AVOID THRILLS

Sound and Standard Car Giving Reliable Service Is Aim

In a spring season when various car paint jobs and similar details of finish have received much mention, one important producer of cars has announced a re-emphasized program of simplicity and standard value. This is the Hudson Motor Car Co., which is outspoken in its opinion that motor buyers are still primarily interested in reliability, all-round utility and economy in first cost and operation.

The company has expressed its firm faith in this program in a message to its distributors and dealers which reads as follows: "A man attending the automobile shows last winter, or reading comments on them might have been pardoned for thinking that nickel plate and bright colors were the outstanding features of the year.

"Such may be the opinion, indeed, of certain factors in the industry, but not of Hudson-Essex. The selling plan for Hudson-Essex again is based on sound and substantial values at rock-bottom prices—the supplying of useful and satisfactory transportation at the most favorable prices offered.

"Now, is Hudson-Essex right? Well—at the New York show, with all the New Yorker's love for display and individuality, Hudson-Essex displayed simply four standard cars—not even chasses. Yet sales—in New Yorkers—were far greater than ever before. Shows and sales elsewhere tell the same story.

"In the history of the industry, there have been many instances where it has been sought to evade the issues of value and utility by the featuring of colors, trims or mechanical specialities. Such plans have been able to support small business ex, but never large and growing ones. They attract 'looker' interest rather than a genuine buying impulse."

On its new six-year-door selling plan, the company says: "Frankness and candor have a confidence-building effect almost impossible to over-estimate. That is the strength of your a. y. d. prices. The price you quote is the price you mean—and the price which meets any interest of your buyer. That gives you a big moral start with him. You immediately talk on a basis of mutual understanding. If your prices are de-bunked, the reference is that your whole proposition is especially one deserving of confidence."

OLDSMOBILE STILL WINNING TESTS IN FIERCEST KIND OF BAD WEATHER RUNS 21 MILES ON ONE GALLON GAS

Plowing through a 12-hour blizzard and racing over a route largely of ice covered, rutted gravel, a stock Oldsmobile coach raced for seven days and nights without a stop, rolling up a total mileage for the 168 hours of 5,950. This distance is believed to be a non-stop record for an automobile, particularly at the rate of speed, which averaged better than 35 miles an hour for the entire week.

This is the second annual Battle Creek endurance run made by an Oldsmobile. Last year a professional driver broke both car and driver endurance records by driving an Oldsmobile 2,555 miles in 171 hours and 13 minutes. This year Leo Barnhart, of the Barnhart Motor Sales Co., Oldsmobile dealer in Battle Creek, determined to further test the Oldsmobile reliability, continuously at high speed for a week.

Mr. Barnhart and six other amateur drivers took turns in sending the Oldsmobile coach over a 783.2 miles course, of which 55 miles is poor gravel. The route consisted of a mass of sharp curves and was through three cities and two towns, at each of which stops were made each lap for registration. Each time the endurance racer passed through the cities a legal speed rate was maintained, thus necessitating road speeds of 55 and more miles an hour to maintain its high average.

Saturday night, the fifth day of the run, a blizzard raged for 12 hours. During this time the Oldsmobile plunged its way through snow drifts and over roads other drivers considered blocked to traffic. The only mishap occurred during this storm when large snowbanks ahead of the car filled the radiator honeycomb openings, necessitating stops to chop the ice from the core. In the 24 hours including the storm period a total mileage of 573 miles was made. The best day's mileage was 877.7 miles.

From one to four passengers beside Critzer were carried at all times so that the test was under constant observance. Careful check of gasoline and oil was kept, which showed an average mileage of 21 miles per gallon.

The result of this severe day test is most conclusive proof of the advancements made by the best automotive engineers in recent years. Less than a decade ago 5,950 miles would have been considered excessive driving during the entire year.

After the test the Oldsmobile was dismantled and proved to be in excellent condition despite its gruelling experience.

The Battle Creek run is the latest of several held during recent months in which Oldsmobile has demonstrated the remarkable endurance, stamina and power built into 1926 automobiles.

OAKLAND SIX

PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

THE mechanical excellence of the new Oakland Six expresses itself in a spirited performance and an abundance of power for every demand. It rides more smoothly and with less vibration at any speed than cars selling for a thousand dollars more—this is due in part to the Harmonic Balancer, a device built into the crankshaft which effectually eliminates torsional vibration, but more particularly to the advanced design and construction of the entire motor and chassis.

The Fisher-built body finished in lustrous, durable Duco, always commands a second glance of admiration, while the luxurious interior and comfortable seats belie any previous impression you have had of Coach construction.

Three purchasers of Oakland benefit by General Motors own New Time Payment Rates (the GMAC plan).

CARS THAT NEVER DISAPPOINT

THE STUDEBAKER

THE CHRYSLER

These Two Cars Have Excited Favorable Comment Than Any Other Productions of the Motor World for Many Years

The Studebaker

Makes No Annual Announcement of New Models to Make Your Car Obsolute Next Month!

No longer need the public hesitate to purchase an automobile fearing that the car bought now will be made obsolete artificially by the announcement of new yearly models a few months hence. Studebaker has discontinued the custom of presenting yearly models. Studebakers are kept up to the minute in body styles and chassis design regardless of the calendar.

A One Profit Car and What It Means

Studebaker has achieved one profit manufacture through years of far-sighted management and through sacrifice on the part of stock-holders. Earnings which might have been distributed have been retained in the business to erect stamping mills, to build one of the largest gray iron foundries in the world, to purchase the finest labor-saving machinery and to construct enormous body-building plants.

As a result resources totalling $100,000,000.00 are concentrated upon the production of this one profit car.

What Does This Mean to You?

To you as an automobile buyer this means two things—

1.—A lower price

2.—A better car.

A LOWER PRICE, because STUDEBAKER does not need to pile its profit upon the profits of outside parts, manufacturers, and body builders.

A BETTER CAR because it is a thoroughly co-ordinated harmonious unit. Every part designed, engineered and manufactured under one management to work more efficiently with every other part.

A BETTER CAR, because Studebaker can afford to use finer upholstering, better steel, higher grade of lumber, more painstaking workmanship in hundreds of unseen places.

The Studebaker Corporation of Canada, Limited has made it possible for the Studebaker dealer to sell you any car in his stock on a fair and liberal budget plan.

Talk it over with him.

LINCOLN SHOWN GREAT IN DEFEAT AS IN SUCCESS

Life of Great Emancipator Deftly Pictured by Lecturer

REV. DR. JOHN M'NEIL

Says "Abe" Would Have Compromised on Slaves To Save Union

Abraham Lincoln's greatness was eloquently outlined in Belleville last evening by one of the foremost speakers in Canada when the Rev. D. John MacNeil of Walmer Road Baptist Church, Toronto, gave out of the talks for which he is internationally famous in St. Andrew's Church auditorium to an audience which entertained many not only from St. Andrew's but from Victoria Avenue Baptist Church and from other denominations as well.

A FINE ADDRESS

Dr. MacNeil is one of the outstanding men not only of the Baptist denomination but ranks high in the estimation of people and all faiths. His sermons each Sunday, models of eloquence and inspiration, are broadcast to all who listen in. His address last evening was one which it is safe to say will not soon be forgotten. It illumined the life of the great emancipator as few in the audience had known it before and brought sharply into focus the high lights of that remarkable time of civil war and tragedy, the loss of many thousands lives and of millions of dollars, that the Union of North and South might be saved and secondly (in fLincoln's thoughts) that slavery might be abolished.

The life of the most famous rail splitter was carefully paragraphed; his antecedents outlined; his accomplishments pictured. His efforts on behalf of the blacks dated from the time he had seen in New Orleans girls working his passage down the Mississipi a slave auction with all the heart breaks it entailed. His country came first in his affections however, and MacNeil in his lecture made it plain that Lincoln would have compromised on the slave issue in order to save the union. His greatest test came in his patient waiting until the hour was ready to strike the blow for the freedom of the blacks. Treason among his closest associates and inefficiency in his army chiefs eclipsed him not. Never in all the three years or more of defeats and heavy disappointments did he utter or write a bitter word. He was revered his great manhood.

GREAT UNDER FIRE

No one man faced more heavy responsibilities as he assumed in the Presidency of the United States and no man ever faced more difficult duties were made enormously more onerous with the outbreak of the war. Lincoln's ability to organize and reorganize, to weed out treacherous friends and to supplant them with those of a better will be in his great task. His greatness under fire of this kind ultimately won him support from quarters that had settled enmity of the bitterest kind. He was the biggest man of his generation and one of the outstanding men of the ages.

Dr. MacNeil touched brilliantly on Lincoln as the poet in language and the stylist in speech or dictation. This quality or virtue had come only from the most profound concentration and private study for he had only twelve months of school ing in all his life.

His fifteenth address, taking two minutes to deliver, stands of course as the model for terseness and eloquence and it was composed while aboard a rattling branch line train.

The last night of his life was the story with which Dr. MacNeil closed his address and the tragic scene was deftly painted. Lincoln was a marty'r but on his death became a "child of all mankind."

Government Officials Confirm Jib t3ory of Master.

Prince Rupert, B. C., March 20.—The sea serpent is no myth but a real fact. Reports were prevalent throughout last summer of the strange monster inhabiting the water near Prince Rupert, and on Tuesday Capt. C. J. House, of the Provincial fishery protection boat Clear, confirmed its existence.

—While cruising near here on Tuesday, Captain House and members of his crew witnessed the antics of the serpent. It raised its head thirty feet above the surface of the water, and remained in that position for half a minute. It looked according to Captain House, almost like a telephone pole except that the head was wider than the body. It was seen just opposite Turtle Point, the body coming up suddenly just like a snake. The head looked about 18 inches wide, two and one-half feet long and was of greenish gold color.

PORT ARTHUR QUALIFIES FOR ALLAN CUP FINALS

Regina Wins Second Game 2-1, But Loses On the Round 7-6

Port Arthur, Ont., March 20.—Coming through one of the toughest dreadlings of their career, the Port Arthur hockey team won the championship of Western Canada and once more qualified to play in the Allan Cup finals. The championship was made possible when they held the Regina team to a 2 to 1 score, which added to the figure for round by a total of 7 to 5.

The game developed a tough battle for the reason that the ice was soft and sticky, thereby preventing the Port team using their customary system and at the same time giving the big and husky Regina team an opportunity to drive home a telephone offensive that resulted little care from a defensive point because it was for them a case of risk everything to win all.

With a three goal lead from the first game the Ports from the opening played a careful style of hockey and it was noticeable in the first period that they practically never went over the blue line, but contented themselves with batting the shots at Counting from outside the defence.

THANKS FROM GUESTS

Visitors to Recent Trustees Convention Were All Pleased

Abraham Lincoln's greatness was eloquently outlined in Belleville last evening by one of the foremost speakers in Canada when the Rev. D. Port Arthur, Ont., March 20.—Coming through one of the toughest greatlings of their career, the Port Arthur hockey team are again champions of Western Canada and once more qualified to play in the Allan Cup finals. A London record crowd of 7,000 saw them hold the Regina team to a 2 to 1 score, which, added to the figure for round by a total of 7 to 5.

An application of Miss N. Peck to be placed on the teaching staff of the public school when a vacancy occurs was referred to the School Management Committee.

TEACHERS' CONVENTION

On motion the members of the city were given permission to send one of the Principals of the public schools to the teachers' convention to be held at Toronto during the Easter holidays, Principal McLaurin of the High School will also attend.

Mr. W. G. Anderson made application to be appointed as the Board's representative on the examination board at the entrance examination. On motion the request was complied to.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT

Mr. G. J. Rogers, ,High School Inspector in his report of his inspection of the High School stated that the accommodation was bad and the school not clean. All teachers were qualified and text books used were authorized. He could not recommend the legislative grant to the school.

Mr. Elliott—"The report should be forwarded to the City Council to let them see the condition of the school as reported by the Inspector."

HIGH SCHOOL

Mr. McLaurin, Principal of the High School, presented a report for the month of February which showed the pupils had been free from any epidemic. The night school would close on the 30th and he suggested that a closing night be named for April 1st when members of the Board and others could be present to see what had been done. He also referred to the Literary Society and the play presented by the Society which was a success and much credit was due to Miss Young who took a prominent part in its preparation.

ADVERTIZEMENTS OMITTED

Owing to pressure of space in this edition some notices from automobile advertizers have had unfortunately to be omitted. They will be inserted in issues of The Intelligencer during the coming week.

March Weather Dangerous to Baby

Our Canadian March weather—one day bright, but sloppy, the next blustery and cold—is extremely hard on children. Conditions make it necessary for the mother to keep the little ones indoors. They are often confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms and catch colds which rack their whole system. To guard against these colds and to keep the baby well till the better, brighter days come along, a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach sweet and his bowels working regularly.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which never fail to regulate the stomach and bowels and thus relieve colds and simple fevers and keep baby fit. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HOME DESTROYED BEYOND FOXBORO

While he was away at a sale, the home of Mr. Mike York, about a mile north of Foxboro, was burnt to the ground and the entire contents destroyed with the exception of a trunk and a small box. Mike York the other occupant of the house who had remained at home was at the barn collecting the eggs when glancing at the home she noticed smoke coming from the walls. She immediately investigated and found the blaze to have become too far advanced to control. Combined with this the house is very isolated the only near neighbour being a boat half a mile away.

AN OLD LANDMARK

The home, the old Marinder homestead, is a landmark having been built early in the last century and was owned by Mr. J. G. Gay. The building was formerly a log cabin partly covered.

LOST EVERYTHING

Not only was all the household furniture destroyed but all the personal property of both Mr. and Mrs. York. By a strange coincidence, Mr. York had gone to the Sale hurriedly, leaving his fur coat behind.

Fortunately the wind was in the right direction otherwise the sparks flying would undoubtedly have destroyed the barn, winter crops and stock. The origin of the fire is believed to have been over-heated pipes.

ADDRESS ON LINCOLN

ular fact that Lincoln's birth in 1809 coincided with the year of birth of a score of men who later became famous in England and on the continent. They were all born when the old world had been upset by a reverberation with wars and revolutions. They became the great men of the wondrous Victorian era. Disraeli, Gladstone, Bright, Cobden, Shaftesbury, in England; Longfellow, Stowe, Emerson and Lincoln in the States, the latter the flower of American manhood. Six feet four inches tall when he was seventeen years of age, Lincoln's appearance was all against him but his power of mind overcame all such liabilities and his grotesqueness was forgotten in the fire and glory of his eloquence and the simple greatness of his life.

The minister of St. Andrew's the Rev. R. G. Stewart, presided and on the platform with him was the Rev. N. S. McKechnie, pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church. Solos were given by Mrs. Maurice LaVoie and by Dr. Allen Haffner, Miss LaVoie and Mr. Lee Riggs playing the accompaniments. Mr. Riggs also gave a short organ recital as the audience was gathering.

GAVE ADDRESS ON TEMPERANCE

Mrs. George of London, Ont., Talks to W.C.T.U. Workers Here

The Assembly hall of the Y.M.C.A. was well filled on Friday afternoon when the W.C.T.U. and their friends gathered to hear a message from Mrs. George of London, one of the field workers of that organization.

Among other business matters discussed was the question of inviting the County Union to hold its annual meeting in this city in June. It was decided to extend this invitation and arrangements were left in the hands of the Executive. The sum of $5.00 was voted to Miss Sinclair to meet the present needs of some undernourished children in one of the city schools.

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Miss Florence Barker sang sweetly "Just Today" after which Mrs. Pettit, the president, introduced Mrs. George who was given a hearty welcome. She spoke in a quiet, conversational tone, but kept the attention of all throughout. After touching on the various departments of W.C.T.U. activities she said, "But the greatest problem of today is the Liquor traffic. This is not a new problem, but it is the most far back in the past. In 1916 an Algonquin chief called his people together and warned them to shun the white man's fire water. In the 19th century, an American woman named Mrs. Lewis, who had suffered in her own home from this curse, took her Bible to the tavern and read it to the saloon keeper the passage "Woe to him that giveth his neighbor drink, that putteth thy bottle to him", and then knelt in prayer. The bar-tender pledged himself never again to sell liquor, and kept his word.

CONTINUOUS EFFORT

"The fight for clean land and good moral conditions, the speaker said, can not be won for one generation alone, they must be continuous effort. Conditions in Quebec and Manitoba were touched upon, and the much vaunted revenue from Government sale was shown to have cost the people 8$ for every one dollar of revenue. In Regina the jails were so full that recently a car load of prisoners had to be shipped to Prince Albert—a new commodity for the rail ways!

A recent decision of the Privy Council had placed all Provincial works under the Provincial authorities, so that the way was clear now for the Ontario Legislature to deal with the question.

Waving and Curling Dries Life from Hair

The constant curling and waving demanded by present styles in bobbed hair, slowly burns the color, lustre and very life from the hair, leaving it dry, faded, brittle, and full of standruff; then the hair roots shrink and the hair falls out fast.

Since girls just must curl and wave the hair to appear their prettiest, try "Danderine" to offset any bad effects. After the first application your hair will take on new life that healthy, youthful lustre, become incomparably soft, wavy and appear as thick as it really is. Full ing hair stops and dandruff appears.

A 35-cent bottle of refreshing "Danderine" from any drug store or toilet counter will do wonders for any girl's hair. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.

A Tired Feeling In Springtime

With the passing of winter many people feel weak, depressed and easily tired. The body lacks the vital force and energy pure blood alone can give. In a word, while not exactly sick, the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon them. A blood-building, nerve-restoring tonic is needed to give renewed health and energy. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an all-year-round blood builder and nerve tonic, but are especially useful in the spring. Every dose helps to make new, rich, red blood, and with the new blood return ing strength, cheerfulness and good health quickly follow.

If you are pale, easily tired, or breathless at the least exertion, if your complexion is poor or you are troubled with pimples or eruptions, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are just what you need to put you right. If you have twinges of rheumatism, are subject to headaches and backaches, if you are irritable and nervous, if your sleep does not refresh you, or your appetite is poor, you need the treatment Dr. Williams' Pink Pills alone can give—you need the new blood, new strength and new energy the medicine always brings. Mrs. Emma Fraser, Thessalon, Ont., Says: "Two years ago my nervous system was in such a condition that life seemed a burden. I could neither work, eat or sleep well. I tried several medicines, but did not get any relief. Indeed my condition seemed to be growing worse. Then Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were brought to my attention and I decided to try them. After using a few boxes there was no room to doubt that they were helping me. I continued their use until I had taken eight boxes, when I was completely restored to health, and I have not any time since had a symptom of the trouble. When I began the use of the pills I weighed only 95 pounds, while under their use with increased health I now weigh 125 pounds. I feel it impossible to praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly."

Keep Your System Toned Up. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, indigestion or nervousness. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a positive that will keep you well and strong. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Sure to sever our Province clean of dilleries and breweries, and the speaker appealed to all to use their votes and their influence for this purpose, and for the protection of their homes and their children.

GIVEN A PRIZE

Mrs. (Dr.) Baker in a few appreciative words moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. George, which was seconded by Miss Jack and heartily endorsed by the audience. Mrs. Widner was then called to the platform to receive from Mrs. Baker the prize she won in the recent county competition. The temperance poster shown by Miss Widner was adjudged the best in the County.

CYCLIST GETS WARNING

Police court proceedings were brief this morning. A boy was summoned for riding a bicycle on the sidewalk. Magistrate Masson after warning the lad not to repeat the offence allowed him to go, but threatened to impose a heavy fine if the act was repeated.

A Boon to Mothers

Mothers everywhere who realize the danger to delicate little stomachs of too much dosing appreciate the value of Vicks in treating croup and children's colds.

With Vicks Cloves is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on. The body heat releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine—in the form of vapors which carry the medication directly to the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

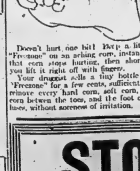

Colds go overnight, croup is generally relieved within 15 minutes.

SIR AUSTEN'S TROUBLES

The realm of politics vies with the realm of sport in the one particular that a man may be a hero one day and something very different the next. This time take the case of Sir Austen Chamberlain, who a few months ago was acclaimed and given a title for the successful finish of the Locarno Security pact. And today, Geneva has seen the same S Austen as has been the same Sir Austen humiliated by the action of some lesser nations, notably Brazil, and his plans for the accomplishment of the "Locarno spirit" to attempt forcing the adjournment of the entry of Germany at least until September when the regular sessions of the League of Nations Assembly are held but with not any too sure notion that Germany may even then become a member. Sir Austen has been made the target at home for a good deal of sharp criticism and some of his former friends and supporters have become openly hostile to his policies like being said-able according to cable advices since the Burmingham speech. Hints that he may resign had better be taken with the customary grain of salt. Premier Baldwin of course has faith in Chamberlain and the great mass of the Government supporters here also but it is distressing that a man of Sir Austen's type and distinguished services should have to run the gauntlet of such a fire of words and printed brie-bats. Still that is what public men sooner or later almost always get.

BITS OF OLD LONDON

Way back in 1690, when William of Orange was King of England, a resturant keeper named Birch, opened an eating house in Cornhill, London, hard by the Bank of England.... From that day to this Birch's has been a favorite eating house for men carrying on business in the financial district, and who knows what mighty decisions affecting the empire have been reached at its table afters a good meal, while the diners quaffed the rum punch for which the house was and still is, famous, and noted their churchwarden pipes. But now, Birch's has to go.... A bank is to be built upon the site. The wooden frontage of Birch's is a magnificent specimen of the carving by the Adams brothers, originators of Adams' furniture. The front is to be transferred to the British museum, but the interior is to be pulled down and re-erected on the new site not many yards distant. The same old business will be conducted in the same old way, and patrons can order their rum punch, which is made of Jamaica rum, sugar and the lemon liqueur brandy and a dash of claret. And so the old world goes on, merging into the new but clinging affectionately to old traditions.

THE ESTIMATES

The estimates of expenditures of the Government of Canada for the year which begins on April 1st next call for appropriations by Parliament of $346,771,000, some of the items suggest that the narrow escape from death on October 29th may have convinced what remains of the Cabinet that the taxpaying public really thinks economy in the outlay of national money is a proper—even a necessary—thing, and that it would be well to give some attention to its desires. The opportunity for reducing the national expenditure is limited. The system that requires the national treasury to collect a large proportion of the revenues of the provinces and pay it over in half-yearly subsidies, was added a huge outlay on the uncommercial railway and navigation schemes, which added hundreds of millions to the debt and brought no compensating revenue. All the great interest charge comes out of taxes collected from some nine millions of people. Then there came the war and its debt increase and resultant pension and like charges. There can be no doubt about the industrial resources of Canada, or that any are being disliked by a capable and industrious population. None else could meet such national and other governmental outlays and still show evidence of increasing business and wealth. The economies shown in the estimates are not great and may be doubled by later sums to be asked for, and voted, by Parliament. The changes in the monetary markets of the world and the good credit of this country have permitted the redemption of maturing high interest-bearing bonds with those of lower rates, and this has been chiefly instrumental in permitting a reduction in the interest charge, which this year is $125,120,940. There is a decrease in the cost of soldiers' civil re-establishment and soldiers' land settlement of well up to $2,000,000, which may be regarded as permanent, but an increase in pensions of a million, the result of Parliament's action, which may further add to the outlay. There is a decrease of $2,756,000 in the estimate for public works, and of a goodly sum in the allowance to the Department of Trade and Commerce, which as a spending institution has never seemed to justify itself by returns. Minor decreases are noted in other departments, which promise, if they do not assure, economies that will be right welcome as suggestive that something may be done in the way of a start at a reduction in national taxation.

GREY DAYS, GOLDEN DAYS

A grey day on the moorland, and a grey day in the dale,
The spirit of a stricken year in the moaning of a flail;
A mist that makes theh arnyard a grey wet world apart,
And yet the day is golden in a grey old heart.

June, sunlight in the barnyard, and a merry milking song,
Diamonds on the duck-pool, where the thirsty cattle throng,
Young laughter down the white road that led me fa the years,
And yet the day is dimming in a mist of tears.

Thomas Moult, in the Windsor Magazine.

Matter of Fact

The minister was addressing the Sunday School.

"Children, I want to talk to you for a few moments about one of the most wonderful, one of the most important, organs in the whole world," he said. "What is it that throbs away, never stopping, never ceasing, whether you wake or sleep, night or day, week in and week out, month in and month out, year in and year out, with out any volition on your part, hidden away in the depths, as it were, unseen by you, throbbing, throbbing, throbbing, rhythmically, all its life long?"

During the pause for oratorical effect, a small voice was heard.

"I know; it's the gas meter."

A New Use for a Voice

"I can see red roses bloomin'!" sang the street vocalist inharmoniously, and he was about to begin the second verse when a carpenter's apprentice beckoned him to his side.

"I'll give you a penny," he said, "if you'll stay in this shed until I come back. I'm dying for a drink." And the songster assented.

Soon the apprentice reappeared and paid over the reward as he had promised.

"I s'pose," said the vocalist, knowingly, "that my voice is about the same as your own, an' that you thought your boss wouldn't know the difference—eh?"

The other looked at him indignantly, and replied: "Your voice the same as mine! I should hope not. If you want to know, it's the same as the noise my saw makes, and I wanted the boss to think I was workin' hard!"

The Far-Away Look

While Miss Pounder was playing I noticed you had a far-away look in your eyes.

Yes, very likely I had.

Were you so much affected?

Oh no! I was merely thinking of certain faraway places where I wished I was.

A Sad Place

Two friends are walking along the street. One of them, pointing to a house, says:

There's a beautiful place, but it's enough to make a man sad to look at it.

Why so?

On account of its history; for despite its calm and serene surroundings, it was built upon the groans, tears, wailings and blood of widows, orphans, old men and struggling women.

You don't say so! Was it built by a monopolist?

Oh, no; by a dentist.

Not What He Meant

The husband of a churchgoer had set out on a sea voyage, and the wife wrote and requested the parson to conduct a prayer for his safety during the service.

What she intended to be read out was this:—

"Mr. Sparkes having gone to sea, his wife desires the prayers of the congregation on his behalf."

Imagine her confusion, however, when on Sunday the parson read severely:— "Mr. Sparkes, having gone to see his wife, desires the prayers of the congregation on his behalf."

Of Course No

Nell—Charlie has acted very indifferently lately. I wonder if he intends to marry me just for my money?

Clara—Oh, I'm sure not, dear. I had a talk with him this evening, and Iam sure he intends nothing of the kind.

But what makes you so sure?

Well, you see, he proposed to me!

A Warning

The entire Brown family was attacked by poisoning. The doctor was called, and as soon as emergency treatment had been administered he tried to find the source of the trouble.

"Did you all eat something that had been left standing in tin?" he asked.

Mr. Brown thought hard for a moment. "By gosh," he cried, "that's just what we did. We had a picnic yesterday, and we left the lunch in the car all morning!"

Is your home your prison?

YOU virtually make a prisoner of yourself in your home, when sickness and disease shackle you and restrict your activities. Inactive, inflamed, and deranged kidneys are too frequently the vigilant jailers who keep you indoors and separate you from health.

Free yourself from the fetters that bind you. Gin Pills will quickly release you from pain and suffering and unlock the door leading to health and happiness.

If you are distressed by weak spells, blurred vision, loss of appetite, distracting headaches, or dull pains in the back, be warned. They all indicate congested or inflamed kidneys, frequently resulting in rheumatism, lumbago, and other serious ailments.

Gin Pills clear the kidneys, strengthen them, and exercise a soothing and healing effect upon these delicate organs. As soon as they are cleansed, the kidneys filter the blood stream and assist in the evacuation of all poisonous secretions. Constipation is relieved by the mild laxative action of Gin Pills.

For twenty-two years Gin Pills have been the never-failing remedy for all diseases of the bladder and kidneys. They are made of the most diuretic and antiseptic products, including the oil from the health-giving Juniper berry.

Let Gin Pills restore you to good health. At all druggists —50c a box.

"The Three Pegs" Heard at Bridge St.

Put on by the young people of Bridge Street United Church, "The Three Pegs" was enjoyed by a large audience in the Sunday School room of the church last evening and the young people taking part demonstrated their abilities on the stage very convincingly.

The story is very clever and most amusing, telling of a young lady, Emily Weston, who eager to adopt a child to take the place of a maiden aunt for company, by a strange misunderstanding adopts three and a hopeless tangle results to be cleared up after many ludicrous situations.

The young people taking part in the play were:

Emily Weston .....Helen Lattimer
Aunt Euphalia .....Ada Ketcheson
Marguerite .....Dorothy Diamond
Madge .....Ruth Bond
Pat .....Theo Reid
Sarah .....Dorothy Stewart
Lizzie .....Lorna Ridley
Mrs. Conli .....Muriel Moran
Mrs. Barclay .....Ella Earle

Between acts solos by Miss Margaret Stewart and Miss Florence Barber were much enjoyed.

Women's Club Hears Lecture Upon Art

At the last meeting of the Women's Canadian Club for the season, held last evening, Dr. Barker Fairley of Toronto, gave a most interesting illustrated lecture on Canadian Art, demonstrative the revolution which has taken place in it during the last twelve or fourteen years.

The speaker referred to the essentially English aspect Canadian art had adopted prior to A. Y. Jackson's exhibition in Toronto when the artist practically started the revolutionary step in Canadian Art, the English feather sentimental touch being eliminated and the bold features of real Canadian scenery being introduced. He dwelt upon the progress given to design in the new Canadian pictures and with some splendid slides demonstrated his point.

English art since 1534 had been based upon pastoral scenes, abbeys and other subjects depicting scenes in which man and nature have been in harmony. Canadian landscape was however quite different, being untamed by man, therefore the key to English landscape is foreign to Canada. Our scenery is vivid while the European is subdued. As art, the speaker contended, may flourish only when inspiration is taken from nature it was necessary for the Canadian painters to break away from the English traditions which were not suitable to Canadian landscape, and so during the last twelve years we find the traditional note dropped and almost new subjects, but beautiful inasmuch as their being characteristic is concerned. In modern Canadian art one of the chief characteristics is color but the thing more important than color is design which is emphasized in the modern painters productions.

A vote of thanks was moved by Miss Hurley to the speaker for his interesting address.

AT THE BELLE

"Lord Jim" is at the Belle Monday and Tuesday.

The great author, Conrad, a great character story, plus action, heart interest, everything that appeals to all of us.

Trying to flee from the world, he eventually found he was fleeing from his own conscience—that the world of "coward" that kept ringing in his ears were the words of an accusing conscience, not of the outside world. On the beautiful, lonely and adventurous island of Patusan, he walks into certain romance, certain danger and almost certain death. How, in that world after thrill, he redeems himself and eventually becomes the ruler of the island, "Lord" Jim, how he married Jewel; how he sacrifices himself for his great love; how his romance, his heroism, his victory build up to the tragic climax, are all revealed in fiction, with Percy Marmont, Noah Beery, Shirley Mason, Raymond Hatton. Don't miss it.

ON WAY TO BURWASH

A young man named William McMillan was last evening brought to the city as he lodged in the County jail. Yesterday at Marmora village before Magistrate Jarman he was convicted on a charge of theft and sentenced to Burwash for an indeterminate period, of not less than 6 months and not to exceed one year. He was brought here probably about noon and to Burwash. The theft was committed at Deloro where McMillan had been working.

The Doctor Says You're Full Of Poison

Your liver is clogged up. The bile instead of going into the bowels is going into the blood, causing that muddy, dirty complexion, headaches, biliousness, heart burn, indigestion, backache, constipation, rheumatism, etc.

Do you know that most sickness and pains are caused from an inactive liver. There is only one drug that acts upon the liver and that is calomel in its new form—Dodson's Liver Tone. Start today and take one tonic calomel tablet before meals or two at bedtime. Next morning drink plenty of warm water and away goes all previous days wastes and poisons before more food is taken in, making you feel 100% better. You will then eat better, sleep better, feel like working and have pep and vivacity and ready for a good days work. Get some of these tonic calomel tablets from Ward's Rexall Drug Store and they will sure make you feel much better in everyway.

AT GRIFFINS

Those who enjoyed the stage version of Ziegfeld's noted musical success "Sally," in which Marilyn Miller made her permanent success, will find added joy in Flora Finch's screen version of the same piece, starring Colleen Moore, which comes to the Griffin Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Colleen Moore brings to the role of "Sally" a genius for sympathetic characterization that unquestionably will make this role an outstanding hit of her long list of successes. "Sally" calls for much human interest, pathos, fire of temperament and delightful sentiment.

Miss Moore possesses all of those qualifications as she ably demonstrated in "Flaming Youth." "The Perfect Flapper" and "So Big."

June Mathis, who has transferred to the screen such successes as "The Four Horsemen" and "Blood and Sand," did the adapting of "Sally" and also was editor-in-chief of production.

Her Suffering Relieved and Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ontario.—"I am certainly very grateful for the benefit I have received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, also the Sanative Wash and the Liver Pills. In the early spring I was suffering so much I was down in bed that I thought I would never be any better as doctor's medicines relieved me only for the time being. I saw the Vegetable Compound advertised in the 'Toronto Star,' and I find the Vegetable Compound Tablets the best for me. I have been taking them since Spring, and I intend keeping them also all the time. After reading your Private Text-Book I sent for the Sanative Wash, and I can safely say I feel a different woman. My friends remark how well I look. I am a very busy woman, but I am ready at all times to boost your medicines."—Mrs. Charles Gurney, 549 Sandowne Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

You may be having an experience similar to Mrs. Gurney's and will be interested to know what she did. Every sick woman can feel confident that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help her, since we are told that it does help 9 out of every 10 women who take it.

HOLWAY STARTS WITH MAROONS

Pittsburgh, March 20.—The seat sale indicates that Duquesne Gardens will be jammed to the rafters tonight when the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Montreal Maroons play the first game of their series for the right to contest the National Hockey League championship series with the Ottawa Senators. The second game will be played at the Montreal Forum Tuesday night, total goals to decide the winner.

Interest in tonight's contest is intense, with even money ruling among those who would speculate on the outcome. In their six league games the teams have won three each, two on home ice and one away. There is no advantage in their scoring records, which show they have each scored ten goals against each other.

The regular santaries with one exception, Captain Dunc Munro of the Maroons will be in position when the teams face-off. Clint Benedict, a Stanley Cup veteran, will guard the Montreal net with Holway and Reg. Noble in front of him. Nelson Stewart, voted the league's most valuable player, and also the leading shirebloter, will beat centre, flanked by Punch Broadbent, of world's series fame, and Babe Siebert.

Worters, the diminutive goalie, will start, and the local defence will comprise Lionel Conacher and Reginald Smith. Milks will face-off, with Stewart and Darragh and Drury will be on the wings.

The Holloway girls were leading in the first game by 32 pins but Christ Church reversed this and after the second game were up 56. Holloway coming strong in the last game cut this lead to 30 pins. Miss Ross had the high single and Miss Wright-mayer the three string with 200 and 501, while for Christ Church Miss Mouck was high with 405. In the Men's league the Holmens won from the Y Reds by 68 pins the former breaking the alley record for one game formerly held by the Semi-Centennials when they rolled 1133. Silk Stockings For Easter

Darning--A Disappearing Art

In these days of short skirts, stockings have become a very important article of apparel, and the "darns" that were permissable when most of the stocking was covered by skirts of shoes, are out of the question.

Thanks to reinforced tops, runs are not so often happening, but when one appears, it usually destroys the stocking. Regrets if any, are lost in the possession of a new pair. Darning is fast becoming an accomplishment of the past

On the right Choice of Hosiery may depend the whole success of your costume

Stockings have a wonderful "style value" this year. They receive the scrupulous consideration by the well-dressed woman which used to be given exclusively to gloves, and she who would walk in the Easter parade with confidence chooses her stockings with care. This can hardly be done without taking everything—hat, suit and shoes into consideration. There is one shade of hosiery—maybe more—that will link them all into a harmonious ensemble, and it is a mistake to suppose that "any old shade" approximating the right one will do. It is easy to choose the newest and most becoming shades from our full selection.

"High Lights" in Hosiery Colors

Light shades lead.

In the light shades, pastel or "subdued" tints are best.

The very light and the medium greys, and greys with a rose or mauve tint are "very best" just now, in the large style centres.

Parchment and biscuit shades are good for wear with the new shoes in these colors.

Pale and dull rose tones, and all the beige and tan shades are in favor.

MOIRA'S 1926 BREAK-UP PEACEFUL; NO FLOOD NOW LIKELY

CHAMBERLAIN IS FACING GREAT STORM TUESDAY

Attack May Be So Furious as to Sweep Away His Reputation

CABINET IS CONFIDENT

Supporters Outside Government Also Stand By Loyally—Comment

London, March 22—The Cabinet had before it today discussion of arrangements for the expected debate in the House of Commons tomorrow on the recent breakdown of the League of Nations meetings, which was to have sted Germany to membership in the League.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary was to unfold to Premier Baldwin and the ministers, his views on the Geneva situation where he was chief representative of Great Britain. Mr. Lloyd George is expected to move in the Commons tomorrow for a reduction on the foreign office appropriation as a means of calling attention to the foreign secretary's alleged delinquencies at Geneva.

London, March 22.—Sir Austen Chamberlain, acclaimed and knighted as the "hero of Locarno," is girding himself to face the fierce rain of those who brand him "the villain of Geneva." He is not above all others typified the "spirit of Locarno"—prepared himself to stand against the chance that he, above all others, has contributed toward designing spirit.

Hints that there is nothing left for him to do but resign his post of Foreign Secretary are still being thrown at him—despite the unmistakable resolve of Premier Baldwin and Sir Austen's colleagues in the Cabinet to stand by him to the uttermost limits of loyalty. The harassed Foreign Secretary has also found supporters outside the Government. In fact, one feature of the last few days has been the more confident tone adopted by Sir Austen's friends, contrasting with their unquenched gloom when he left Geneva a few days ago.

Nevertheless, signs continue to multiply that the storm may meet Sir Austen in the House of Commons on Tuesday.

Bitter comment on Geneva continues, to be the order of the day here. It grows in bitterness in proportion as the commentators reflect on the abortive conference. Some idea of the kind of things being said about it may be gained from the leading article in the New Statesman.

IMPRISONED AIR TO FLOAT VESSEL

Unsinkable Ship Claimed to Have Been Invented by American

BEFORE U.S. EXPERTS

Collapsible Air Cells Would Prevent Vessel Go-ing Down

New York, March 22.—A plan to render ships unsinkable by means of collapsible air cells which would resist any attempts to dislodge them and greatly increase cargo space is now being urged upon the House Naval Affairs Committee by its inventor, Adam T. Drekolias, of New Brighton, S.I. His invention would have saved the submarine S51, he says, as well as the various surface craft which have been sunk in recent storms.

Mr. Drekolias has demonstrated a model ship, equipped with his gas unsinkable air chambers, before the Naval Affairs Committee, and is now in Washington striving to have his invention adopted. He says he has successfully demonstrated the scheme 700 times.

Essentially the air chambers upon which the invention depends are like the rims of a collapsible drinking cup except that each ring has a bottom in it, and the last one is a sealed chamber. When not required to keep the ship afloat they would be telescoped within each other on the under side of decks, against ceilings or in other space ordinarily wasted in liners and battleships.

In case the vessel started to fill with water, the chamber would be expanded by mechanical methods, automatically filling with air from an intake pipe leading to the mast head. Their function would be to imprison sufficient air within the hull to keep the ship afloat, no matter how badly damaged its walls might be. There is provision to fill the sealed bottom chamber with gas under pressure for fire extinguishing purposes.

In warships, Mr. Drekolias claims, it would be possible for the crew to sink their own ship until only the guns remained above water and then offer practically no target to the enemy.

What Us "Authors' Have to Endure

London, Eng., March 22 (Canadian Press Dispatch.)—For years authors of fiction have been tormented by the nightmare of a possible action for libel, on the ground that they have endowed a fictional character with the name of some living personage. They are to suffer no longer, evidently, for the House of Lords has declined to proceed with a Bill which was designed to protect them.

Lord Gorell, how moved the second Reading, said the Bill was designed to protect authors merely from vexatious and frivolous charges. His Lordship declared there were extremely few genuine grievances arising from the use of the name of a real person in fiction, but on the other hand there were quite a number of serious claims for damages, which amounted to literary blackmail. Lord Gorell mentioned that only that morning he had happened to come across the name of Sanderson and Winkle in the Telephone Directory.

Lord Sumner deprecated the Bill on the ground that it would create a specially privileged class, and on the suggestion of the Lord Chancellor the Bill was withdrawn.

One suggestion to get over the difficulty is that writers of fiction should use one author's name for their characters. Something in this line:—

"What, you here?" hissed Conan Doyle between his tightly clenched lips.

"Yes, villain," responded Ethel M. Dell, her face blanching.

"Ha, ha! but you must also reckon on me," proudly declaimed Edgar Wallace.

And so on.

KENORA WANTS RED LAKE LINE

Premier Tells Deputation No One Is on Ground Ahead of Them

Toronto, Mar. 22.—A deputation from Kenora, Ontario, headed by Col. A. H. C. Machin, former member of the Ontario Legislature was today met by Premier G. Howard Ferguson and the Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, that no special legislation was necessary for the construction of a railroad from Kenora to the Red Lake mining field. Regulations of application charter to build railroads to Red Lake had caused apprehension in Kenora, the deputation pointed out, as Kenora was the nearest large town to the Gold fields and desired a railway from that point. No definite steps to construct a railroad to Red Lake, either in this province, or Manitoba, have yet been taken, the Premier told the deputation and they might go ahead with any plans they might have.

ROTARY CHOIR AT ST. ANDREW'S

Ten Members of Local Service Club Sing at Evening Service

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church contained a large congregation last evening, the occasion being the visit of the Rotary Choir and the final appearance there as organist at Mr. Leo Riggs. The choir sang three numbers, the stirring Recessional by Kipling to the very beautiful music of Reginald de Koven (who wrote among other things Robin Hood), The Heavens are Declaring by Beethoven; and I Heard the Voice, using the music of Drink to Me Only. Ten members of the Rotary Club make up this choir which has been trained under the direction of Mr. F. D. Hunt, organist and choirmaster of Bridge Street Church, himself a Rotarian. These are Messrs. Jamieson Bone, A. F. Stillman, P. G. Kinsella, F. M. T. Little, W. E. Scott, J. L. Thomson, Dr. M. A. Day, F. B. Smith, Sandford Burrows and M. P. Duff. The minister, Rev. R. G. Steward, preached an eloquent sermon on "Life's Best Things," and spoke the thanks of St. Andrew's to Mr. Riggs and to the Rotary Choir for their valued assistance at last evening's service.

Tells of Change in Life of Orientals as They Become Christian

Services in Bridge Street United Church yesterday were marked in the fact both morning and evening a woman, Miss A. W. Allen, Toronto, graduate of Toronto University, was speaker, and large and interested congregations heard her enlightening addresses. Miss Allen, under the auspices of the W.M.S. of the Methodist Church, now the United Church, spent out to Japan twenty years ago to engage in social service work amongst the Japanese and is well authorized to speak upon conditions existing in the far east.

MORNING SERVICE

At the morning service the speaker contended that while visitors in Japan take a great interest in the country, they very seldom study the people. She said that in her twenty years of experience she had found that a Japanese is just the same under his or her skin, as her western sister in the same station of life. While their language and customs of course differ materially, they are the same in thought and aspiration.

COMMUNITY CENTRE

Continuing, Miss Allen said that the Mission Society has in addition to educational and evangelical work, a community centre at Kanieho, a suburb of Tokio which employs a staff of seven Japanese and two Canadians. These under the community's supervision is run a factory for working girls, a personal problem depot, a kindergarten, a Sunday School class, clubs, night schools.

CHANGE IN CHARACTER

Miss Allen dwelt upon the change in character and life in the Japanese in the acceptance of Christ's creeds, a change similar to that which comes to any human with the acceptance of the Saviour. She stressed the needs that the Missionary Society is not working only for but with the Japanese.

PROF. HEATON ROTARY GUEST

Shows Difference Between Canada and Australia

The Rotary club was regaled today at noon with a racy account of the life, customs and manners of this country and Australia by Prof. Heaton of Queen's University who assisted in eleven years' residence out there (not 30 months' residence here and) resolutely remarked that if Canadians were like Australians he was particularly regard they would resent bitterly anyone describing them who knew nothing about them.

The two Dominions have many things in common such as the development of resources and faith in themselves and adherence to British institutions but they are as wide as the poles on many other questions and responsibilities. There is no such sense of isolation here as Australia feels; here Canada has no defence problem. On the other hand Australia is 85% British and has no problem of language as Canada has.

Australia is more willing to let the state do things than Canada seems to be in the way of advanced legislation. Prof. Heaton remarked, and he said he doubted very much if you that it is not Socialism but just letting the State do it.

Prof. Heaton's talk was a running fire of humorous reference to the "little" things wherein we differed or quite as remarkably were similar, but forgetting that both countries were sufficiently well Hollywood films

River Icebergs Whirl On To Bay Without Hindrance

Spring commenced officially yesterday morning, March 21st, and the weather this year proved most favorable to the breaking up of the winter in so much as instead of the usual flood resulting from the breaking up of the river, with rain and gradual rise of temperature, the ice in the Moira was gradually literally washed away. Yesterday great blocks of ice some fourteen and twenty feet square, commenced to flow toward the bay so evenly and gradually no blockade resulted.

The stores along Front street were unaffected, many of the merchants not having moved the contents of the cellars from the bottom story of the buildings.

EAST SECTION FLOODED

The east section of Belleville suffered from Saturday's thaw and rainfall and on Bleecker avenue between Pine and Sidney streets, many of the cellars were flooded suddenly. At two o'clock yesterday all was serene, the furnaces doing their bit and not a drop in seemingly safe storehouses. At three, however, the deluge commenced, furnaces blazing and pulling gave up the fight and crowds of furniture, tubs, baby carriages, trunks, cradles, boxes, fruit jars, and wood and all other articles customarily stored in cellars commenced to float about and today cellars are miniature swimming tanks.

STREETS BAD

Sunday proved the worst day this year for motorists and a trip in a car or bus provided all the thrills of an ocean voyage. Once the wheels of the cars left the city chaos resulted and in many cases the cars left the roads for the nearby ditches.

The streets of the city are in a pretty fair condition at present.

A SURE SIGN

Robins have been seen, butterflies caught, crows shot at and marbles and skipping indulged in, but the final sign of spring appeared yesterday when small boys were seen in the swampy sections with great armfuls of pussy willows. They are not very well developed yet, but nevertheless they are pussy willows and that means spring.

FLOODED DISTRICTS

Over in West Belleville the areas which annually flood have sustained their reputations with added zest this year and many of the vacant lots look like No Man's Land as depicted in the movies.

WHAT IT ALL MEANS

Sunday was marked by the commencement of the vernal equinox which means that 12 days and eights of for a short time equal, the days gradually extending in duration, and the nights decreasing in the northern hemisphere, and on June 21, when the days begin to decline until Dec. 21, which is commonly known as "the shortest day." The autumnal equinox occurs around Sept. 22, when again the nights are of equal length.

Debate on Labor Motion on Imperial Relations Will Be Important

COVER WIDE RANGE

Believed Canada Has Refused to Become a Signatory to Locarno Treaty

Ottawa, March 22.—Today's discussion of J. S. Woodsworth's resolution, "that, in the opinion of the House, Canada should refuse to accept any responsibility for complications arising from the foreign policy of the United Kingdom," it is anticipated, will produce many opinions on Imperial relations, without a parliamentary decision of, such a drastic character as contained in the resolution. Whether the adoption of the resolution, it is believed, could mean little short of the withdrawal of Canada from the British Empire within a short period.

It is certain to-day's discussion will cover a wide range, and Canada's obligations under the League of Nations, the Locarno Treaty and the views of political leaders on Imperial relations will be to the fore. Owing to the uncertainty of the situation in Geneva Premier King a few days ago requested Mr. Woodsworth not to precipitate an immediate discussion on this subject, but apparently he has received information which is to the contrary of this opinion and is ready to give an explanation of his attitude to Parliament. It is considered quite probable the Government will definitely refused to become a signatory to the Locarno Treaty and believe that Canada's position should at once be made public.

The subject of Canada's relations to the Empire was certain to come before Parliament, Premier King declared, and Great Britain this has become a serious problem, particularly in Canada, where a group of Communists, Nationalists and anti-British propagandists have conducted a campaign that has resulted even if it has not seriously alarmed loyal Canadians.

THRONG ATTENDS TO PAY RESPECTS

Funeral of Late Mr. Cross In Tyendinaga Very Large One

One of the largest attended funerals which has taken place in Tyendinaga Township for some years was that on Sunday afternoon of the late Mr. James Cross.

It was held under the auspices of the Carter Lodge L.O.L. No. 325 and the brethren were out in large numbers, also members of other lodges. A cortege was formed and proceeded from the residence of the deceased, Township of Tyendinaga to the Presbyterian church at Roslin. The sacred edifice was filled to its doors and many were unable to gain admittance. Rev. Mr. Knox conducted a service and delivered an appropriate sermon, basing his remarks on the 29th verse of Hebrews, 9th Chapter: And it is appointed unto men once to die but after this the judgment.

At the Presbyterian cemetery, Roslin, the interment took place, and the burial services of the Order were taken by Bros. G. Bowerman and C. Howard. The many beautiful floral tributes were not only mute expressions of sympathy, but also an evidence that deceased had many friends. Mr. Cross was a man highly esteemed in the locality in which he resided. He was Orangeman, namely, Bros., B. Hamilton, R. Copeland, W. Alford, W. Venallen, G. and N. Colder.

BRIGHTON PRESBYTERIANS LOSE BEFORE CHURCH BD

Toronto, Ont., Mar. 22.—No relief is forthcoming for the Presbyterian minority of St. Andrew's Church, Brighton, on their application under Sections 9 and 10 of the United Church of Canada Act to the Ontario Church property commission.

R. S. Cassels, K.C., who writes the judgment, in which the other commissioners concur says:—"It is a great pity that there was not at once a decision to allow a vote to be taken. But after a meeting at which the requisitions were ignored and it was decided not to take a vote, those who wished to have a vote will have saved the cost of their statutory proceedure to procure one, and the position is not at all similar to that in one or two cases whereby in something akin, at least to sharp practice, the right to vote was barred.

"It is very evident that another church is not needed in Brighton and it is hoped that further consideration of the problem by the parties may lead to an economical and reasonable solution of the joining of forces by former Presbyterians and former Methodists, thus leaving the Presbyterian Church sensible for the applicants."

THE WEATHER

Moderate winds, unsettled tonight and Tuesday with showers.

New Cars As Shown Bear Out Claims For Super-Excellence

OVERLAND SIX POPULAR MAKE

Taken Strongest Hold For Favor in Competitive Class

STANDS RIGID TEST

Performance is There and Price is Not Beyond Average

Each year sees an outstanding leader established in the various price and general type classes which make up the wide range of motor cars. The greatest struggle for supremacy during the past twelve months has been in the moderate priced six cylinder class in which several new entries have been made.

The total aggregate volume of sales in the six cylinder moderate price class, constitutes around a third of the entire output of motor cars of all classes going to a group of buyers which make up the cream of the volume of business done by the industry as a whole.

In the moderate priced six cylinder class are included all sizes selling at a factory price of from $1196 to $1700 with the big balance of popular favor centering around the $1250 price mark.

The presentation of the Overland Six by Willys-Overland a year ago was accepted as the bid of this strong organization in the most high ly competitive field in the automobile world.

From its position as a newcomer in the six-cylinder filed, this car has forged ahead until at the present time it is accepted as the outstanding leader in its entire group, offering more power, great flexibility, a wider range of performance and a greater body beauty and comfort than is found in any one of its broad list of competitors.

Priced at $1275, Taxes extra, at the factory for a full sized five-passenger Coach, its strategic position from the point of cost alone is markedly in its favor.

Equipped with a motor which develops a full 53-brake horse power, it has established its superior performance value in the greatest of all tests that of service in the hands of owners.

In its first year of production it has gone through a steady process of improvement, both in mechanical merit and in nicety of design and finish until it ranks in external appearance alongside the majority of cars selling in the price class of from $1500, upward.

The tremendous demand for this car has caused the factory schedules to be increased each month and now better than 5000 of these cars are being delivered to new buyers every month.

As shown at the automobile show this year, the Overland Six Coach stands direct mechanical comparison with other sizes costing several hund red dollars more. From the viewpoint of the trained mechanical mind the Overland product is an engineering masterpiece incorporating the highest developments in general mechanical design and utilizing the finest materials which can be put into an automobile.

The motor dimensions are: bore 3 inches, stroke 4 inches, cylinders and crank case being a monobloc casting, wrankshaft being drilled and oil cooled. Crankshaft and connecting rods are oiled by a force feed system, the pistons and valve actions being lubricated by a spray. The motor is hung exceptionally low in the chassis affording the advantages of a straight line drive and keeping the centre of gravity well down in the car.

Smooth control and transmission of the driving power is obtained through our easy acting clutch and transmission gears of a special alloy steel. The service brake operates on rear wheel brake drums while the hand or emergency operates on a transmission brake drum insuring positive and quick control of the car in case of emergency.

The construction of the bodies show equal superiority. The sedan shows dimensions which are on a par if not greater than those of the larger sizes.

The seats are wide and deep. There is an amazing amount of leg room in both the front and rear compartments, (due to its extra-long wheel base). Upholstery in the Overland Six Coach is done in fine velour of tasteful design serving both the requirements of appearance and of wear.

Windshield is of the one piece type. The windows are unusually wide and when opened give the same freedom as the average touring car. Finish is in the highest quality of polished lacquer, the body being a beautiful two-tone grey, with a fashion black leather material top and rear quarter.

An analysis of the sales made by Willys-Overland dealers in this model alone during the past year shows that it is replacing cars which, at their present prices, are in a general group ranging from $300 to $500 higher.

Autos are Both Cause and Effect Of Good Highways

The automobile is both the cause and the effect of good roads. People are using automobiles more and more, not because of any fad or fancy, but because they are useful. Progressive communities can no longer get along without automobiles, and most efficient and economical operation of automobiles demands good roads. On the other hand, as roads improve, the demand for motor transportation increases.

Transportation has ever been demanded and that demand will continue. The automobile fulfills every requirement of a most exacting public. As roads are built, giving physical demonstrations of their advantages, they will then readily propagate more roads, and as more roads come into existence the demand for automobiles will accordingly increase. The automobile is going to invade every quarter of the globe, because, since the beginning of time people have wanted transportation, and the automobile today furnishes that ideality.

An Exploded Theory

One does not have to be so very old th be able to recall when every state to establish good roads was bitterly contested as a tax extravagance. I recall very well a certain middle western governor who made a campaign on the farce that the farmers of his state were being robbed by taxes to build roads for city people to use. The people of that state today own more than three-quarters of a million motor vehicles and it is essentially an agricultural state. How far do you figure that politician would get today on an issue of that kind?

One has only to look at the figure on the growth in mileage of surfaced highways in the United States and compare them to the expansion of the automobile industry to observe how the two supplement each other. In 1904, when the automobile industry was in its infancy, there were 2,151,379 miles of roads in the United States, of which only 153,570 miles, or 7.14 per cent, of the whole were surfaced. In 1924, although the total milage of roads had increased to only 2,841,294, the mileage of surfaced roads had increased to 450,000 or 15.98 per cent of the whole.

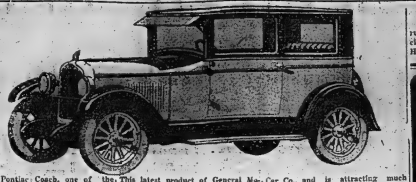

Automobile Pays for Roads

And it is the automobile that is paying for these new roads and opening to year round communication districts that were "mudded in" for weeks at a time at certain seasons of the year. I am indebted to Alfred Reeves, general manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, for figure showing that taxes paid by motor vehicles are greater than the entire cost of construction and maintenance of all federal and state highways. Government figures for 1924 show that motor transportation taxes for the year were $550,000,000. The federal and state highway program for the year amounted to $512,000,000. The roads covered by this government and state program constitute the main highways of the nation and serve about 80 per cent. of total vehicular mileage.

The total highways bill, including county roads, amounted to about $1,000,000,000. It will be seen that special motor taxes cover more than one-half this amount. The remaind er is paid out of general taxes, federal aid and bond issues, the interest and amortization charges of which are borne eventually, in part at least, by motor vehicle users.

State motor vehicle taxes are paying an increasing part of the state highway expenditures, a condition which was not true prior to 1912. Figures by states are not available for 1925, but it is estimated that the proportion of these taxes to highway costs will exceed 33 1-3 per

The Pontiac Coach, one of the "debutantes" in the Spring Motor Showing this week, Mar. 20—27th.

This latest product of General Motors is being displayed at the showrooms of the McLaughlin Motor Car Co., and is attracting much favorable comment.

Pontiac Good Name And It's Good Car

As the name of its newest product General Motors has chosen that of "the greatest Indian chief who ever appeared on the American continent"—Pontiac, renowned leader of the Ottawa, Ojibways and Pottawattomies. It is the first motor car to take the name of a renowned Indian.

The name Pontiac carries a reader back to school days and history lessons and that colorful period before the Revolutionary War when the French and red-coated English were struggling for the possession of this continent and using every art to persuade the Indian tribes to join forces with them.

Pontiac played a powerful role in these struggles. Being born of an Ottawa chief, and an Ojibway mother proved a decided advantage for this natural leader by increasing his influence over both tribes. A traveller who visited this country about 1760 had the following to say about him: "Pontiac, their present king or emperor, has certain ly the largest empire and the greatest authority of any Indian chief who has appeared on the continent since our acquaintance with it."

Pontiac made his home at an Ottawa village about five miles from Detroit on the Canadian side of the Detroit river, in very simple manner, and it was here undoubtedly that he began dreaming of how best to unite his tribes against the invaders. The first time he appeared from all historical accounts, was in 1760 or the year after the English took Quebec. When the English extended the Great Lakes to take possession, Pontiac became their ally.

CHASSIS

This Demonstration is of real value to every person interested in Motor Cars

IT is a rare occasion when the average motorist has an opportunity of having the functions of the many parts of an automobile chassis demonstrated by an expert, using a cut open motor and stripped chassis. Such an opportunity happens only about once a year and should not be passed up. Every motorist should be familiar with the fundamentals of motor car construction. The expert will demonstrate the why and how of all the major motor car parts. For instance, he will explain in detail why the three-point motor suspension reduces vibration noise — why Chevrolet will flash from 5 to 25 miles in less than 8 seconds.

The lecturer, who comes to us direct from the Chevrolet factory at Oshawa, will also explain why the improved Chevrolet incorporates many mechanical features heretofore only found on high-priced cars.

Regardless of what car you drive or are interested in, this Chassis Demonstration will be a real education.

cent. These totals do not include federal excise taxes which bring the proportion of highway cost borne by the motor vehicle to between 45 and 50 per cent.

Farmers Buying Cars

My friend, the governor, to whom I referred a moment ago, would hesitate now before making a campaign against good roads in the interest of the farmer if he saw the figures showing that of the 17,501,981 motor vehicles registered in the United States in 1924, 3,821,035 were owned on farms and 4,265,280 in communities under 1,000 population. That was a year ago, and it is expected that the figures will show a large increase in the farm use of motor transportation, as this field did not gain as rapidly as the rest during the depression years. As a straw to show the direction of the wind, 304, or 75.6 per cent. of the 402 farm families in Livingston County, N.Y., own automobiles.

Growth of the automobile industry and increase in good roads mileage, which are going hand in hand in the United States, will be duplicated in other countries. Australia has become the greatest foreign market for American cars. South America is close behind. Delegates to the recent Pan-American Good Roads Convention in Buenos Aires found South American business men, particularly those of Argentina, awake to the necessity of better roads and improved methods of transport, which the motor car will give. Recent exploits of Dodge Brothers cars in penetrating the Gobi Desert of Mongolia and the deserts of South Africa where no vehicle transport of any kind had ever before been known have quickened interest in motor transportation in those parts of the world.

The condition of Mrs. J. F. Dolan, who is in the Belleville General Hospital shows improvement to-day.

Mrs. J. G. Meagher has returned home after visiting Mrs. C. Page, 149 Mantiu Ave., Buffalo, N.Y., who has been seriously ill. Mrs. Page is now recovering.

Miss Annie Allen, B.A., speaker at both services at Bridge Street Church yesterday was the guest while in Belleville, of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Reid, Charles Street.

William C. West of Stirling and A. L. Perry of Deseronto are amongst students who are taking a special three day's creamery course at the Ontario Dairy School at Kingston.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Short, Centenary was the scene of a happy gathering on Friday night, when their daughter Miss Laura entertained about thirty of her young friends at "Progressive Lost Heir", seven tables were played and at midnight a dainty luncheon was served, the remainder of the evening was spent in music and dancing.

Mrs. Gribble was hostess of the musicale and tea given on Saturday afternoon in the Armouries by the Argyll Chapter I.O.D.E. in aid of the Madeline Fralick cot at the Grenfell Memorial Hospital, and the affair was enjoyed by a large number of per sons who keenly appreciated the splendid programme presented. At the tea table, with its pretty decorations of many colored hyacinths, Mrs. D. T. McManus presided and was assisted by Miss Rita Allen, Mrs. W. E. Scott, Mrs. E. A. Geen and Mrs. Eric Keeler. To the delightful programme Misses Alice McIntosh, Phyllis Temple, Barbara Parker and Mary Voss Thomson contributed pretty dances, Miss Evelyn Jack, Miss Muriel Wardner and Miss Frances Morton piano selections and Master Freddy Forster and Muriel Rose recitations. In "Bobbed Hair", Master Freddy Forster literally brought down the house.

On Saturday evening Mr. Bill Davis was host of a delightful dance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Boyes, attended by about thirty guests, all of whom wore most charmingly attired as juveniles. The girls dressed variously as Mary Jane, Bubbles, babies, etc., formed a grand march and the boys balloted upon them, Miss Ruth Jamieson dressed as a baby being voted the best dressed girl. Similarly the Buster Browns, Lord Fauntleroys, Hans and Fritzes were balloted upon by the girls and to Bob Boyes as Lord Fauntleroy fell the honors of the evening, Phyllis went the gentleman's prize. Clam Allen carried off the special prize in a most unique and artistic juvenile costume. Dancing was enjoyed until about midnight, Miss H. Brynes presiding at the piano.

The Greatest Electric Range Improvement ever made—the New Element—SPEEDIRON

The Speediron Element overcomes all the weaknesses common to open elements and combines the advantages of protected elements.

Can Be Removed Instantly

McClary's new Element—Speediron—can be removed in a second or two—no bolts, screws or wire connections to loosen. Just lift it up—that's all.

—has a smooth top cooking surface without open grooves or exposed wires that water or grease might harm or "muck up."

You can use the smooth top of a McClary's Electric Range with Speediron Elements just as you would an old-fashioned cook stove—it cannot be damaged by pots or pans or knocks or spills.

Lifetime Service Coils—Easily Renewed

As durable as iron protection can make it, with coils that last much longer than coils in open elements, because they are not exposed to accidents and can be easily and inexpensively replaced should they burn out.

In a moment, by removing one bolt in the unit, the burnt out coil is exposed and may be replaced—almost as easily as a burnt out bulb in a lamp socket.

The Protected Element Now Perfected

Come and See It

If you have an Electric Range you will want to see this new, splendid improvement, because you know all about Electric Range troubles now. If you are going to buy an Electric Range you should see the Speediron Element in McClary's Electric Range—the trouble-proof Element. The Speediron Element is now on view at all leading dealers. Come and see it—today.

INCOME TAX

Mr. Thomas L. Church, M.P., in the house a few days ago made quite a pretty good case for the abolition of federal income tax, but, unfortunately, Hon. Mr. Robb made out a better one for its retention when he replied: "The government needs the money." What Mr. Hays, Labor member for Winnipeg made, was only himself ridiculous, when he declared the existing tax was unreasonable and should be left alone. Mr. Church is a Conservative, but it was labor's battle he was fighting when he pressed for abolition of federal income tax and he should have been able to count upon the support of labor's accredited representatives in parliament. Mr. Church quoted statistics to show that 80 per cent. of the burden of income taxation is borne by the salaried class. The Toronto member proved the inequitability of the tax and was on firm ground when he enumerated the many burdens of the municipalities—the increased services they have been called upto to provide, unemployment relief and other outlays made necessary by a continued period of depression, but his attempt to prove the need of federal income tax no longer existed fell a little short. Federal income tax was instituted in 1917 to help meet the demands resulting from Canada's participation in the war. The actual conflict is over, but quite a number of obligations remain and it is Hon. Mr. Robb's contention that federal income tax cannot be dispensed with in its entirety until these obligations are liquidated. He holds out a promise of relief—just how substantial this will be must remain a matter for conjecture until the budget is brought down.

SENDING THEM BACK

Migrating Canadians who entered the United States illegally, deluding themselves this was cheaper than passing through the regular channels of immigration, are being given cause for worry by recent activities of investigators in the border cities. In Detoit, 25 women of Canadian birth were detained at police headquarters, eighty deportation warrants have been obtained in the last month, and it is predicted that by June 1 the whereabouts of nearly 500 Canadians, illegally resident in Detroit, will be known. Human nature being what it is, the deportees will be aggrieved. They will feel they have been shabbily treated. Some of them will write letters to the papers. That they brazenly flibbed to the immigration officers at the time of their entry to the United States will be, of course, considered by them only as a minor detail. The United States' immigration laws, so far as they affect Canadians, are not drastically restrictive. The quota regulation does not apply to immigrants from the Dominion, born in this country. Neither is it compulsory upon Canadians who secure passports to the United States to take out naturalization papers, after a six months' period of residence, as many suppose. The United States' government welcomes naturalization of Canadians resident within her boundaries, but does not insist upon it. Canadians who enter the United States illegally, and whose deception is detected and that it is then too late to do what they wished they had done—apply for permission to enter in the regular way. Employers of labor in the United States have been embarrassed so often by the activities of inspectors of the immigration department that it is becoming almost impossible for Canadians who enter the country illegally to secure employment. The answer seems to be apparent. If Canadians must go to the United States they should go honestly.

BISAILLON'S PICK-UPS

Opportunities for federal offials to get rich quickly seem to have been abundant in Quebec province in recent years. A glimpse into such possibilities was afforded at a session of the smuggling investigation committee in Ottawa, J. E. B. Bisaillon, former preventive officer in the Customs department, gave testimony. Mr. Bisaillon was in receipt of an annual salary of $2800. On this he managed to live like a millionaire, with a town house in Montreal, a summer residence, a yacht and other visible evidences of affluence. True, his official income was supplemented by other earnings. He was engaged in the liquor business and profited so much by his activities in that field that within two years he was enabled to deposit in the bank $67,000 in addition to what he spent in high living. Even after he quit the liquor business he appears to have been able to do pretty well for himself, for in the three years 1922, 1923 and 1924 he deposited in one bank more than $36,000.

Mr. Bisaillon is apparently less prosperous now than he once was, while he was in the public service. He confesses that he lost almost all his wealth in betting on horse races, a pastime to which he had been addicted from youth.

You might suppose that Mr. Bisaillon, being in the liquor business himself would be peculiarly capable of fulfilling the duties of preventive officer so far as the prevention of illicit liquor traffic was concerned, on the principle of setting a thief to catch a thief. Perhaps he was. But it appears that Mr. Bisaillon, in the performance of his official duties, was somewhat hampered by his devotion to the interests of the political party to which he belonged. There was produced in evidence a letter from him to the minister of customs. Hon Jacques Bureau, in which Mr. Misaillon advised his superior that "in the interests of the party it would be preferable to discontinue to watch the frontier." Mr. Bisaillon admitted that the "party" alluded to was the Liberal party. His conception of his duty as an officer in the service of his Majesty evidently was that the first interest to be served was the interest of his party, and that the public interest should be sacrificed to it when the two clashed. However, Mr. Bisaillon seems to have made his own personal interest harmonise fairly well with the interest of his party.

Some very interesting information is being disclosed at that investigation. It is like to prove useful.

NEWSPAPER DIFFICULTIES

Duluth Herald:

There is no field in which costs have mounted so rapidly in the last few years as the newspaper field. The time when any man with money or credit enough to buy a few fonts of type and a few sheets of paper could start a newspaper and hope to succeed is long gone by.

Thanks partly to the war, but more largely to a tense rivalry in news and feature services as well as the general mounting of costs, nobody is warranted nowadays in starting a newspaper unless he is backed up by ample capital. And the fact is that virtually no new newspapers are being started, while many that have long been in operation are dropping by the wayside.

BALFOUR CALLED FRIVOLOUS

London Sunday Express:

Lady Cunard was sitting next to Lord Balfour one night at dinner. Lord Balfour was in a scintillating mood. Everybody was delighted, but, strangely enough, Lady Cunard was not taking her usual place in the forefront of the society battle.

Concerned at this unwonted silence, Lord Balfour turned to Lady Cunard. She seemed rapt in thought.

"What are you thinking about, Maud?" he asked.

"I was thinking what a very frivolous person you are," answered Lady Cunard.

I doubt if Lord Balfour had been called frivolous before. All the same, he is famous for having delved deeply into philosophy.

BURDEN OF HOME LESSONS

Montreal Gazette:

The burden of home lessons falls hardest, there can be no doubt, upon the girls, whose nature it is to be more patient, passive, receptive and conscientious than the boys. Consequently, they will work persistently until their lessons have been accomplished and well done by the sacrifice of recreation and often with harm to their health. Schoolboys, on the other hand, invariably are not so scrupulous. Home lessons, as prescribed today, are too much of a tax upon school children's mental reserves. They take up time that could better be spent in healthy recreation and it is difficult to see in what way the children's education would suffer if such lessons were abated.

BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT

Border Cities Star:

Edward W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, agrees with the late Warren G. Harding, that there should be less government in business and more business in government.

Canadians of all political stripes, contemplating the waste and inefficiency at Ottawa as well as the conduct of provincial and municipal affairs, may fervently echo "Amen"!

Mr. Beatty, like Mr. Harding, has put his finger on the cause of high taxation and the general unsatisfactoriness of public affairs as now conducted. Men who are successful in their own lines of business appear unable to adapt the same methods to the conduct of the people's business. The result is over-manning, over-spending, poor decisions, bad policies, generally mediocre management and high taxes.

ALLENBY HEARD BY VAST CROWD

Spoke at Massey Hall on Campaigns in Palestine And Syria

TURKS' ARMY BROKEN

Germany's Dream of Eastern Prestige Shattered —British Fag There

Toronto, March 22.—A reception such as is accorded few notables was given Field Marshal Viscount Allenby at Massey Hall here Saturday night, when he addressed a capacity audience under the spaces of the National Council of Education. He was cheered for some minutes when he rose to speak and applauded when he had concluded his address. Lord Allenby spoke of his campaigns in Palestine and Syria, modestly alluding to his own work, and praising that of his men.

He told of the different campaigns in which his forces were engaged, of the struggles they endured and of their ultimate success. "The Turkish army was more completely destroyed than any army in the history of battle," he said. "Moreover, Germany's dream of Eastern prestige was destroyed. Palestine is now under a British mandate for the League of Nations. Mesopotamia is under a similar mandate."

"What would have happened had the war gone against us? What moves would have been made, in such an issue by Germany, Australia, their Balkan allies and by Turkey?

"What chance would we then have had of using the Suez Canal, so vital to the conduct of our imperial relations? As a great soldier truly said: 'the master of Egypt is the master of the world.' Had the war gone against us we could not have used the Suez Canal. We would then have lost our road to India, to Australia, to New Zealand, to our islands in the Pacific, and our Pacific approach to Canada. We should again have to double the Capes of Good Hope and the Horn. Our commerce would have been demoralized. Our plans of naval strategy would have been destroyed. Our Empire depends upon unity, which in turn depends upon communication, which, for our needs is the water."

Lord Allenby was introduced by Sir John Finley, of the New York Times, who was in charge of a Red Cross unit in Palestine during the war, and became a close friend of Lord Allenby's during that time and the author of "The Crusaders" of all ages", was his description of Lord Allenby, who, he believed, was "chosen of the Lord to deliver Jerusalem."

BETTER TIMES ARE INDICTED

Royal Bank Monthly Summary Talks in Optimistic Vein

Toronto, Ont., March 7.—"The generally favorable annual reports issued by the leading Canadian corporations combined with the excellent position of all Stock Exchange indices and a general increase in the volume of forward buying, indicate a more encouraging outlook for Canadian business in 1926 than at any time in the past five years," says the monthly letter for March on the Royal Bank of Canada. "The annual statements recently published by the leading industries and public utilities, with few exceptions, show an improvement in earnings over 1924.

"Reports of a larger volume of forward buying throughout the country are substantiated by the manufacturing employment index which is much higher than for the same date since 1921. Textile plants, with the exception of garments and personal furnishings, are working at increased capacity, and the iron, steel and enformous metals products industries are well employed. An increase in the car loadings of merchandise L. C. L. and miscellaneous freight indicate that the general distribution of goods continues on a broad scale.

"Further confidence in the general situation is reflected in the security market, the index of which has established a new high record. Commercial failures continue to decline both in number and volume of liabilities."

HON. MR. ELLIOTT
ACTED AS RESCUER

Guided Woman and Man to Fire Escape at Hotel Blaze in Strathroy

Strathroy, Ont., March 22.—Fire of unknown origin, starting in the basement of the Queen's Hotel, here, menaced the safety of about 20 tourists, including Hon. J. C. Elliott, Minister of Labor, and Hon. Duncan Marshall, who is assisting him in the West Middlesex by-election campaign. Mr. Marshall made his escape from the building to the roof of an adjoining building, from whence he reached the ground by a ladder. Mrs. F. J. Newton, wife of the proprietor, escaping scantily clad from her bedroom, became confused in the smoke-filled corridor and was in danger of collapse, when Mr. Elliott, hearing her daughter's cries for help, located Mrs. Newton and assisted her to the fire escape. Mr. Elliott went back to the corridor, which by this time was filled with dense smoke, and found Edward Rowland, 79 years of age, Strathroy's veteran banker, still in the place; Mr. Elliott guided him to the fire escape. Other guests got out in various degrees of deshabille. The fire was extinguished after $1,500 damage had been caused.

SINCLAIR LAIRD ISSUES CHALLENGE

Dean Sinclair Laird of MacDonald College has agreed to back up his recent statement to the press that persons desiring can make a comprehensive trip across Canada and back for no more than $330 by chartering a special train for the purpose of accommodating all those who may be inclined to accept his challenge. He avers that the trip, which provides for stop-overs at all points of interest between Toronto and Victoria, westbound via the Okanagan Lake and eastbound by the main line, including rail and water transportation, meals, accommodation and all other expenses can be made as comprehensive as could possibly be desired, and he is prepared to accept the amount stated, $330, as a blanket charge for all expenses.

The Canadian Pacific Railway, which is interested in several alleged expense tours this season, is acting as his booking agent. Dean Laird plans to leave Toronto July 19. The route he has planned is via Port Arthur and Fort William, Winnipeg Beach, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Banff, to Windermere across the Rockies by auto, to Kootenay Landing thence by steamer to Nelson and through the Doukhabour country to Hope and Vancouver. The return from Victoria will be made via the Selkirks and Rockies and stop-overs have been arranged, among other places, at Lake Louise and Devil's Gap Camp, Kenora. A trip across the Great Lakes to Port McNicoll, thence rail to Toronto will terminate the excursion.

Dean Laird contends that this trip will not be an experiment as he has made two previous trips of like nature as organizer of tourist parties. This trip he is throwing open to all and sundry, the only stipulation being that members of the special train party be chosen as being compatible with the whole.

Apply Dean Laird, MacDonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, or any Canadian Pacific Agent.

SEE QUEENS CO-EDS IN MOVING PICTURES

Kingston, March 22.—A number of the co-eds of Queen's University have entered the movies. The first scene was shot last night at the Jock Harty arena when the Ontario Government moving picture bureau took views of the Queen's girls' hockey team, intercollegiate champions of Canada, in action.

The pictures are to be fitted into the film, "Queen's, Old and New." This film when completed will show the life of the University from its start in 1841 up to the present day.

The history of the University will be treated with episodes of student life, especially being laid on "the good old days," of twenty-five or thirty years ago. The present day development of the college both from an academic and athletic viewpoint will likewise be quite fully dealt with. The ice hockey scene had to be taken before the arena closed, but the other scenes will be left until weather conditions are more favorable. The arena closed last night for the season.

WENT DOWN WITH CAR THROUGH AN AIR HOLE

Autoist Sank 25 Feet, But Managed to Swim to the Surface

Wallaceburg, Ont., March 22.—Word has just been received of a narrow escape from drowning which occurred at about nine o'clock on Friday night, when a car driven by Winfred Laleun, an Indian, broke through the ice on the River Sare.

Laleun, who lives near the dark bend, was on his way to visit some friends on Walpole Island. Taking the ice road on the river, he came upon an air hole which had frozen over. Without any warning the car crashed through the ice to the bottom of the river, while in about twenty-five feet deep at the spot, taking Laleun down with it.

Reaching the bottom, Laleun managed to unfasten the curtain of the car and extricate himself and swim to the surface, his head coming up under the ice with his feet at the opening of the hole, and he was able to pull himself to safety. Calling for help, several neighbors came to his assistance and helped him to the river bank, little the worse for his experience.

KINGSTON JUNIORS IN CUP FINALS; MONTREAL AND VARSITY ARE WINNERS

TWO-GOAL LEAD OVER PITTSBURG

Maroons Came from Behind to Score 3-1 Win in First Play-off Game

PIRATES SLOWED UP

Buccaneers Had Best of First Period—Second Game To-morrow

Pittsburgh, March 22.—The "Marvelous Maroons," of Montreal, by virtue of a well-planned, systematic form of attack have stolen a two-goal march on Pittsburgh in the play-downs for the National Hockey League championship.

With the use of strategy in combating the Pirate force which was looked for by the majority to win, Eddie Gerard led his maroon-clad holders of second position in the league to an honestly earned 3-to 1 victory against the locals Saturday night. It was a thrilling battle from the start with the contest Contains dashing about like maddened devilsets and the Montreal men answering with their machine like charges and iron-clad defence. More than 7,000 jammed Duquesne Garden for the fray; another 2,000 were turned away owing to lack of seating space; but the seats sold were little used for it was the sort of battle that keeps the gallery on its feet.

In this city Saturday the local swashbucklers were favored by as much as 5 to 3 to win. Capt. Dunc Munro, a defenceman on the world's champ Maroon assemblage, was missing because of illness. So too was Hobio Kitchen, one of Gerard's reserves. Looking back, the Pirates have been waging a vicious winning fight in the last lap of the league race and it was that which landed them in third place. Meanwhile, Montreal was in the throes of a slump. And to crown it all the Corsairs have tagged Stanley defeats to the Maroons in their last three tilts.

For the first period it appeared that the "dope" would be right, for the Pirates sent charge after charge into the Montreal territory. The Maroons were thrown onto the defensive and the whirling Pirates literally poured rubber in the direction of the Montreal goal cage. Manager Odie Cleghorn, seeing the advantage, maintained a fresh forward line with the constant use of reserves and the pace was kept at a feverish pitch. Four minutes from the period's end, the gruelling efforts of the Canary-sweatered six finally bore fruit when Roger Smith, lanky defence pilfer, slammed in the opening goal of the game.

The Montreal team had been playing with exceptionally strong tactics around their tottering citadel, but to the onlooker it seemed they would be forced down before the superior speed of Cleghorn's charges.

PIRATES BEGAN TO WEAKEN

With the coming of the second period, however, Gerard sent the men in to fight the Pirate crew with their own weapon—speed. Nels Stewart, the centre pin of the Maroon attack, led his wings on trip hammer rushes far into the Pittsburgh goal zone. The Pirates fought back viciously but the brutaling ripping they had received at the hands of the maroon-colored larks in the opening stanza had effectively weakened them. Most of their dash was gone and they willingly fell back to the defence of their cage.

But the Montreal bombardment was not to be denied and after fourteen minute of the threatened charges Reg Noble, veteran Maroon back, tore through alone to drive a high one past Geolie Roy Worters. Only one minute, and forty-five seconds more had elapsed by the Garden clock when "Punch" Broadbent and Charlie Dinsmore, the latter doing substitute duty, rushed with a smooth-working combination and the second Montreal tally was registered. The goal went to Dinsmore on a flip from close in.

The final twenty minutes of play was nearly a repetition of the second period, only the ruling hand of Gerard appeared even stronger. The "finis" goal of the contest went to Billy Phillips, spectacular forward line reserve, after one of the prettiest pieces of stick handing of the evening. Capturing the puck away from Cameron near centre ice with a poke-check, the diminutive sub went squirming through the Pirate opposition to send a choppy backhander behind Worters from close in.

Both teams left for Montreal after the game, where, at the Forum on Tuesday, they will clash in the final game to decide who shall meet the Ottawa Senators for the N. H. L. championship and the Prince of Wales trophy. The goal advantage run in by the Maroons gives them a wide edge on the swashbucklers, for the total score of the series in the deciding factor.

LIMESTONES BEST IN SECOND GAME

Defeated Fort William 2 to 1 After Being Deadlocked In Previous Game

PLAY BECAME ROUGH

Officials Handed Out Penalties for Slightest Infractions

Fort William, March 22.—Kingston defeated Fort William, 2 to 1, here Saturday night and won the semi-final round in the play-off for the Canadian junior hockey championship. The game was the second of the two game series and as the first game resulted in a 2 goal tie, Kingston won the round, 3 to 4.

The ice was extremely soft for Saturday night's game and this condition favored the hefty crew from Kingston, which had quite a weight advantage over the locals.

FIRST PERIOD

The first period witnessed all the scoring of the game, every goal scored being made in the final eight minutes, with Kingston having a very slight edge on the play.

The period began with a rush down the ice by Hall, but the defence relieved and presently Kingston was pressing on the Fort's net.

They mixed matters up close to the Fort William goal, and the first counter was put in by Patterson in four minutes and thirty-five seconds. From the face-off, Fort William took the offensive and pushed the play back into the visitors' territory and in three minutes Hogg took the puck on a fine pass from McLeod and hit the twine.

The tie was broken in five seconds when, right from the face-off, Hartley broke through and beat Strang with a close-in shot and scored what proved to be the winning goal. McLeod, who roughed matters up a bit during the game, was penalized for hunting, and shortly after he left the box the period closed.

A ROUGH FINISH

Twice Fort William played one forward against three and the crowd finally became angered at Referee Mitchell.

McLeod and Patterson were sent to the box together, Patterson having left McLeod and McLeod retaliating. Cardinal was put off for a poke at Yost, and Lockhart was also penalized.

When McLeod and Cardinal came out the referee sent them back and the most unfortunate incident of the game occurred when McLeod, irritated by Mitchell, made a pass at him and was again put off the ice. Then pandemonium began to reign and the game was finished to amid a storm of protests and catcalls at the referee. When the bell rang and game was declared for Kingston, the crowd surged on the ice, but Referee Mitchell managed to leave the rink unmolested. He required police protection on the way to the hotel.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

"Lord Jim" is at the Belle Monday and Tuesday.

The great author, Conrad, a great character story, plus action, heart interest, everything that appeals to all of us.

Trying to flee from the world, he eventually found he was fleeing from his own conscience—that the words of "reward" that kept ringing in his ears were the words of an accusing conscience, not of the outside world. On the beautiful, lonely and adventurous island of Patusan, he walks into certain romance, certain danger and almost certain death. How, in thrill after thrill, he redeems himself and eventually becomes the ruler of the island, "Lord" Jim; how he married Jewel; how he sacrificed, himself for his great love; how his romance, his heroism, his victory build up to one of the most gorgeous moments of fiction with Percy Marmont, Noah Beery, Shirley Mason, Raymond Hatton. Don't miss it.

AT GRIFFIN'S

Figures which spell success are always interesting because in many instances they stand for romance. A case in point is "Sally," the Ziegfeld musical comedy success.

"Sally" is now in the movies, presented by First National with Colleen Moore as the star, and is being shown at Griffin's Theatre. Floyd Hughes and Leon Errol, Broadway comedy kings, head the big supporting cast.

As a stage vehicle for Marilyn Miller the production is declared to have proved more than $1,000,000 and is acclaimed perhaps the most successful of all American stage hits. Not even the Jolson, Golden play, "Lightnin'," excelled its record. "Lightin'," although enjoying a longer run than "Sally" did before the Ziegfeld success in gross receipts fell some $200,000. New York alone is said to have paid $2,000,000 to witness "Sally" on the stage. What the comparity at large will spend to behold "Sally" on the screen is as yet entirely problematical, but it can be assured that the figures will not be far behind those of the spoken theatre.

Letters To The Editor

FROM CLERK OF PRESBYTERY

To the Editor of the Intelligencer:

Because of the various incomplete and misleading reports of the applications by the United Church to the Ontario Commission for the possession of certain Church property by the Presbytery of Kingston (Continuing Presbyterian Church) and the issues thereof and to meet the general interest taking in these cases, I wish to state the facts as follows:

Applications for four of our church properties were made before Sept. 10th last, as the law requires. The irony of this was in the fact that three applications were signed by two former Presbyterian Ministers. The properties claimed are St. Paul's Amherst Island, Sunbury, Cataraqui East and Innerkip Union Church. These were all co-operative charges. The grounds of claim were irregularities in the voting, such as insufficient notice, that only Presbyterian voted, irregularity of pew ownership, non-equitable use and ownership. Covering all was the claim that Co-operation was eventually Amalgamation leading into organic Union.

Our answer to this in our defence was and is that Co-operation is not Amalgamation. I quote from Minutes of Kingston Presbytery May 13, 1920:—"It must be distinctly understood," said Dr. Byrnes, "that in no sense is it a matter of Amalgamation. The various churches of their own accord agree to work together in order to better serve God and Community Wherever two or more churches so agree to Co-operate, no transfer of property is made, the status of the elders and other church officers is in no wise altered; the Committees roll are kept separate and entire; in every way the rights of the individual and the Communion are safe-guarded." The result of the voting in these four congregations in accordance with the Act was; Cataraqui Island 20 for, 60 against. Sunbury 3 for, 25 against. Earnestown 1 for, 22 against. Camden East 1 for, 10 against. It is well to note that all property, funds, equipment, everything of value were claimed. The application came before the Ontario Commission at Belleville on Feb. 26th.

Result: The applications were withdrawn, because of the decision of the Commission in the Case ever given a few days previously. This judgment upheld our contention that Co-operation is not Amalgamation, and that the Presbyterians only were justified in voting, where property is involved.

This judgment constituted the United Church Counsel to withdraw the Applications and by conference with our Counsel—Messrs. Cunningham & Macdonnell—to arrange some minor details if the issue the situation there is: (1) Faulty Anthem Libel remains in Presbyterian, but on the piles of hardship the United Church ask that the moneys contributed for upkeep and maintenance during Co-operation by the Presbytery and who have gone into the United Church, the sum of $230.00 be paid to the U.C. Committee on ascertainment. 2. Sunbury. The Church property remains Presbyterian. A few articles of furniture from the Methodist Church used during Co-operation are taken back. The Presbyterians pay $21.00 insurance adjustments, while the plans remains Presbyterian.

3. Camden East Church is secured to the Presbyterians instead of being under a Community Hall.

4. Earnestown United Church claimed absolutely by the United Church is to be used jointly by Presbyterians and the United Church in virtue of the original deed of gift to Lutherans, Wesleyans and Presbyterians.

One closing remark; while the Commission has decided in our favour in these four cases, it must be borne in mind and ever engendered by these utterly unjustified applications, that have caused rancour and strife and the breaking of close ties of friendship in the several localities concerned. But such is ever the result where those who are leaders will not put the Church first.

(Sgd.) R. J. Craig.
Clerk of Kingston Presbytery.
Pres. Church in Canada.

Demorestville, Mar. 15, 1926.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

She tore off the habit with impatient fingers, and flung it from her as if it were answerable for all that had occurred, and bathed her hot face in the cold water.

He had said that it was not necessary that any one should know of the accident, but a chance word from Arol might spread it abroad and she would have to endure some kind of insulting reproach from Lady Ruth. What would she say if she knew all, and could have seen her lying in the marquis' arms!

The maid came to the door while she was brushing her hair.

"The marcheness will be pleased if you will dine down stairs tonight miss," she said when Constance had let her in.

Constance stood with her hair brush upraised. She would have given anything to spend the remainder of the evening in the solitude of her own room.

"Certainly, if Lady Brakespeare wishes it," she said, with an involuntary sigh.

"Yes, miss. Shall I—may I—finish your hair? Oh, how lovely it is, and such a lot of it," she added as Constance surrendered the brush with a grateful "Thank you."

"Lord Elliot is going to dine here tonight. I heard my lady ask him when he was here this afternoon. He was asking after you, miss, and saying that he hadn't seen you lately. He is going to bring a friend with him tonight."

"It is going to be a dinner party, then?" said Constance, with dismay, as she thought of the ordeal she would have to endure, sitting at the table all through the long meal, under the eyes of the marquis, and feeling every time he glanced toward her that he, too, was thinking how she lay with her head upon his breast.

"Oh, I cannot!" she exclaimed aloud involuntarily. "Will you please tell the marchioness that I will come down after dinner if she will allow me. Thank you for doing my hair, you have done it so much more than I should have done."

The girl, fully repaid by the grateful words and the sweet voice in which they were spoken, went away and Constance threw herself upon her bed and tried to get rid of the confused and conflicting feelings that harassed and worried her.

She lay there till the chiming of the great clock warned her that it was time to go down, then, putting on her black silk dress with its simple ornament of lace, went down the staircase—her heart still beating uncertainly—and into the great drawing-room.

The marchioness and Lady Ruth were alone, the gentlemen not yet having left the dining-room, and the old lady looked up as Constance entered and greeted her with a kindly smile of welcome.

"You are quiet a stranger, my dear," she said; "you must not allow Arol to be too exacting. Come and sit down."

Constance went and took a low chair near her, and as she passed Lady Ruth that lady with a sharp glance said:

"I hope you enjoyed your ride this afternoon, Miss Grahame."

For a wonder Constance's courage seemed to fly to her aid, and instead of crimsoning as she had feared she would do, she met the sharp eyes steadily and replied in a perfectly calm voice:

"Thank you, yes; very much, Lady Ruth."

"Have you been for a ride, my dear?" asked the marchioness with gentle surprise; "I did not know that."

Constance felt the color rising to her face, but fought it down.

"The marquis wished me to go with Arol," she said, quietly.

"Ah, yes," responded the old lady; "I dare say he finds him a little troublesome. I did not know you rode, and I am glad you enjoyed it. You must go often. I will speak to the marquis about a horse for you. It is a very healthy exercise, and I think you are looking none the worse."

Constance felt Lady Ruth's eyes piercing her with sharp scrutiny, but before another word could be said the door opened and the gentlemen came in.

Constance looked up and saw the marquis' glance wander round the room. It rested upon her for a moment with a flash of intent earnestness then as if satisfied, he turned and went on talking to a gentleman by his side.

He was a short, wiry-looking man of rather more than middle age. A alertness in his manner and voice which belongs to the business or professional man, as distinct from the class who his content with doing nothing and doing it gracefully.

Constance was wondering who and what he was when Lord Elliot came across the room to her and held out his hand.

"How do you do, Miss Grahame?" he said, "I thought—I was afraid you were unwell," and he dropped down in the chair beside her. "Why it's ever so long since I saw you," he said, and his frank, pleasant voice was full of an unmistakable and eager pleasure; "and I have been here every day, too. You have not been ill?"

"No," said Constance.

He looked at her questionously.

"I don't think you are looking so well as when I saw you last. Perhaps you have been sticking to the house too much. I always say the English want twice as much fresh air as any other people. Now if you—and Lady Ruth and Arol," he put in hastily, as if with an afterthought—"would like to go for a drive, I think, I flatter myself that I've got a pair that would be difficult to beat even by the marquis. Will you come, Miss Grahame? What do you say tomorrow, now?" he said eagerly.

Constance shook her head.

"I'm afraid not, Lord Elliot. Arol's lessons and——"

"Oh, Arol will be all the better for a holiday. I'll ask Lady Ruth," and he was rising when Constance in her earnestness laid her hand on his arm.

"Don't, please, Lord Elliot," she said. "Indeed I couldn't go."

He sank back, with a blank look of disappointment.

"Some other time, perhaps," he said quite ruefully. "I'm—I'm awfully sorry. I think you'd like my pair; I do indeed."

"Will you take some tea, Lord Elliot?" broke in the sharp voice of Lady Ruth. "This is the third time of asking."

"Thank you, thank you, yes," he replied, rather confusedly. "I beg your pardon!"

He went across and got his tea, and came back with a cup for Constance and resseated himself.

"You haven't spoken to my friend yet, have you? No, of course not. I wish you had been at dinner. Why weren't you? Lady Brakespeare promised me this morning that you should be."

Constance flushed slightly at the compliment implied.

"I—I was tired," she said, telling the truth in her embarrassment.

"There you are!" he said. "I knew you were not well! Now you must go for this drive!"

"You were going to tell me about your friend," said Constance, to draw him away from the subject.

"Oh, yes," he said; "I was saying I was so sorry that you were not at dinner. He was awfully interesting; his name is Hendrick and he's a great traveler. Have you ever heard of him?"

"No, I think not," replied Constance, glancing at the gentleman as he stood talking to the marquis who was lounging against the pedestal of a statuette, with his dark eyes fixed upon the ground and rather as if seeing no Constance an absent and preoccupied expression on his face.

"I thought you might have done so, or read some of his books."

"I'm afraid I am terribly ignorant," said Constance.

"Oh, no, you're not!" he retorted. "Well, Hendrick is a great traveller, hens everywhere, you know and, strange to say, remembers everything he has seen. He had all the talking at dinner and very well he did it. Didn't bore us in the least. I'll bring him over to you; I'm sure you'll like to hear him."

He rose and went across the room in his impetuous way, and while he was standing waiting for an opportunity to cut in upon the great traveler's flow of words, the marchioness turned to Constance.

"Do you play or sing, Miss Grahame?"

"A little," answered Constance.

"Then will you give us some music my dear?" said the old lady. "The marquis likes to hear some after dinner. He was always fond of music," and she looked across at him lovingly.

"But Lady Ruth," suggested Constance.

"Ruth is busy with the tea," said the marchioness, "and she is not fond of playing."

Constance went to the piano and at the moment Arol came in. He ran toward her, and linked his arm round one of hers.

"Oh, dear Miss Grahame, did you wonder where I have been all this time? I wanted to go to you, but Uncle Wolfe said I wasn't to; that you were to be left alone to rest. Are you rested now? You had such a jolly time at dessert and are you going to sing? Oh, Uncle Wolfe, Miss Grahame's going to sing!" he cried, running up to the marquis. "Isn't that jol—I mean nice?"

The marquis raised his eyes and glanced toward the piano, then laid his hand on the boy's shoulder and kept him still.

Leonhardt was first to find the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside application. Get a package of HEM-ROID from McKeown's drug store today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you.

DRAMATIC SCENE AT NOMINATION IN MIDDLSEX

Hon. J. C. Elliott Admits He Is Man Referred to In Land Deal

CASH PROFIT $38,400

Land Near Regina Bought For $9,000 Sold to Government For Jail

Strathroy, Ont., March 23.—Yes I am the J. C. Elliott referred to," said Hon. J. C. Elliott, Liberal candidate nominated for the by-election in West Middlesex, when Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion yesterday produced a telegram from W. A. Foya, M.P., Conservative while at Ottawa, to the effect that in 1912, one J. C. Elliott, then a farmer of Grenow, Ont., had purchased land on the outskirts of Regina, making a cash payment of $900, and that within three months and five days had transferred said lands to the Saskatchewan Liberal Government for a jail site, receiving his $9,000 cash payment and a still tion $38,400 cash profit.

Mr. Elliott said that political capital was sought to be made out of the statement of facts at the time. It was investigated by a Royal Commission at which Chief Justice Hamilton was chairman. After the evidence of the men who brought the matter up declared Mr. Elliott, personally, to be a man of "regular, correct, honest and square," and he (Mr. Elliott) was not called up on to testify.

The text of the telegram from W. A. Boys, M.P., Conservative whip at Ottawa, to Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, M. P., Conservative, Port William, was as follows:

"Following message just received, the facts are taken from public records, Saskatchewan Legislature, on November 22, 1912. John Campbell Elliott, Grenfell, Grenow, Ontario, purchased through his friends, F. J. Robinson, then a prominent Liberal worker of Sask atchewan, who had just resigned as deputy minister of public works for Saskatchewan, and Sid Porter, Liberal organizer, a section of land situated six miles from Regina, and there was a cash payment of $9,000; that within three months and five days after, namely, on February 27, 1913 Premier Scott sold land to the Saskatchewan Liberal Government for a jail site, receiving immediate by $9,000 cash payment, and in addition $38,400 cash profit. The public accounts, Saskatchewan, page 38, 1913, and 1914, page 37, show $47,400 to said J. C. Elliott. Full details follow. Ascertain at joint meeting if J. C. Elliott, above mentioned, is present minister of labor."

WILL TALK REFORESTATION MORE STRESS WITH MINING SEEK EXPERIMENTAL FARM

A deputation of members of the County Council will proceed to-morrow to Toronto with a three fold object in view.

The Minister of Lands and Forests will be interviewed relative to having a waste tract of land somewhere in North Hastings secured for the purpose of reforestation. There is every prospect that this will eventually be a reality. The Intelligencer was assured to-day.

The deputation will also wait upon Premier Ferguson who is at present assuming the position of Minister of Mines with a view to getting assistance for greater activity in the development of the mining resources of Hastings County.

The third minister to be interviewed will be the Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture and he will be requested to have established in Hastings County an experimental school of agriculture. Col R. Vanderwater, D.S.O., Deputy Reeve of Sidney Township, who is chairman of the County agricultural committee is much interested in this matter and every effort will be made to have such a school established in the county.

Should the deputation succeed in the missions they have in view it will mean much for Hastings County.

J. S. WOODSWORTH CAUSED UPROAR IN PARLIAMENT

Hot Warfare of Words in Debate on His Resolution

Ottawa, March 23.—The proposal of J. S. Woodsworth, Labor member for North Centre Winnipeg, for keeping Canada out of British wars developed a miniature warfare of words in the House of Commons Monday afternoon, the question of Canada's relations with Great Britain being largely translated into a consideration of the personal loyalty of Mr. Woodsworth and his Labor colleagues, A. A. Heaps, of Winnipeg Centre.

For almost an hour after Mr. Woodsworth had proposed and discussed his resolution the verbal battle waged, being precipitated by statements made by Major W. W. Kennedy, Conservative member for Winnipeg South Centre, regarding the purpose and motives prompting the Labor members. Messrs. Heaps and Woodsworth were repeatedly on their feet demanding the withdrawal of Major Kennedy's assertions as to their conduct and sentiments, and Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Hon. Ernest Lapointe and others participated in the crossfiring. Even Speaker Lemieux, who was kept busy imposing order on the disorderly debate, was moved to an expression of his own opinion regarding the Woodsworth conduct in connection with the Winnipeg strike of 1919, declaring that he was satisfied the Labor member had not been the chief mover in the strike.

CRY FOR PEACE WHEN REVERSES COME THICKLY

That is the Chinese Way—Reward of Million for Leader

Shanghai, China, Mar. 22.—The Shanghai Evening News says the Military Governor of Shantung has offered a reward of one million dollars for the head of General Feng Yu-Hsiang, leader of Kuominchun.

Peking, March 23.—Leaders of the Kuominchun or National army are crying for peace, giving as their reason the desire to save the country further bloodshed. Official declaration of the anti-peace policy was broadcasted today, coupled with a plea for other belligerents to follow their example. The move is thought by foreign observers to be really due to exhaustion of supplies of munitions and enemy occupation of all fronts. Thus far the retreat of the National army has been orderly. They are expected to evacuate everything beyond the Nankow pass. Marshall Feng Yu-Hsiang, the Kuominchun Leader, is reported at Urga.

Prettiest Feet to be Booted Other Gifts For Prize Winner

A novel "Cinderella" contest is announced by Vermilyea & Son in this issue of The Intelligencer to discover the most beautiful feet in this part of the province. Vermilyea, of course, are interested in feet as their business is to make feet attractive and comfortable and they are offering quite valuable prizes in gold and new Easter footwear to the ladies who rank highest in this contest.

The details of the competition appear in their page advertisement on page three. The prizes are well worth winning, to say nothing of the gratification the winners will feel in their success.

The Intelligencer would like to add congratulations to the owners of the most charming feet, and to emphasize this will present the winner with two pairs of fine silk hose which she may purchase herself at any Belleville store.

The Intelligencer will not attempt to decide any such delicate question—Vermilyea & Son have arranged for impartial judges who will accept that responsibility. Their decision will be final and The Intelligencer will present its prize with best wishes to the judges' choice.

OFFER TO QUIT BY CHAMBERLAIN IF VOTE ADVERSE

Foreign Secretary Replies To Criticism of Former Premier

FAILURE AT GENEVA

Sir Austen Accuses Lloyd George of Unfriendly Acts

London, March 23.—Former Premier Lloyd George initiated the Geneva debate before a crowded house of commons today.

He moved a reduction in the foreign office estimates, in order, he said, to call attention to the recent League of Nations proceedings at Geneva and the action of Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British representative there. The motion is equivalent to one of censure.

Mr. Lloyd George said his criticism was two-fold, first, that the Locarnist powers were responsible for the failure at Geneva, and, second, that it was a failure which damaged the machinery of peace to such an extent that many of the best friends of Premier Secretary Chamberlain were despairing of its effect.

SIR AUSTEN'S REPLY

Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign secretary, took the floor in the House of Commons this afternoon in defense of his policy at the League of Nations meetings in Geneva. Replying to Mr. Lloyd George, he said the former premier came before the house in the guise of an open minded and disinterested inquirer. However, he had not even awaited his. Sir Austen's, return from Geneva, before attacking the action of the North American press his condemnation of the foreign secretary's action and his suspicion of motives in the case of Austen Chamberlain, defending his record at Geneva indicated that if the vote tonight on Mr. Lloyd George's motion to reduce the foreign office estimates were against his Government, he would resign.

AS TO M. BRIAND

Sir Austen categorically denied again that, during his interview with Premier Briand of France on his return from his stay on the Italian Riviera, any engagement was made regarding the Polish claim to the Council seat in the League of Nations, or regarding anything else. Neither had he instigated or encouraged M. Briand to press the Polish claim. Dealing with the charges that he had been disloyal to the agreement made with Germany at Locarno regarding the Geneva membership, the foreign secretary said he was strange that this charge should be laid by one of his countrymen and that the Germans themselves had not raised it. Regarding the feeling in the United States, Sir Austen, continued, Mr. Lloyd George had, in his speeches and his articles, in which he had insinuated what he dared not say in the commons today.

BUS BROKE A SPRING

The wrecked condition of the greater portion of Yeomans street car responsible for the interference operating in West Belleville being put out of commission for the remainder of the night. A rear spring broke, thus rendering the bus useless. The break was repaired during the night and the bus was again in commission, this morning.

IS SENT TO TRIAL

A few days ago a citizen was charged before Magistrate Masson with selling liquor but after evidence had been heard it was dismissed. At that trial this man was cautioned that the effect that he had secured liquor from the party charged and he also denied that he procured liquor His evidence was of such a contradictory nature that a charge of perjury was laid. The charge was investigated this morning with the result that he was committed for trial at a higher court. Mr. B. C. Donnan for Crown and Mr. C. A. Payne for the accused.

MAKING STRONG PREACHERS

Making sinners, indignant at an illustration on the wage question, declared from the pulpit, stated Rev. A. C. Bradford Kennedy and ducked like a pond. They were after the bishop, but failing to get him, seized the dean. To give point to their feelings they paraded, carrying the dean, "he had with deans and bishops, we want a living wage."

The fact that this militant dean got the ducking intended for another of his not silenced him. Writing in the Forum, he takes the ground that to make a preacher a pulpit must speak out ... in his own words:

"The point is that the parson has to speak out, whether people like it or not, and if they duck him, that's all right. He is mild—they crucified Christ. If you are going to muzzle parsons you are going to kill the church and the world into more than coldness, creeds and every other bunch of people that have lost their tempers to do with us, the louder will the brawl last. The more you shut the conversation down. The only thing a parson has to stand for is his right to speak his people like sinners and get to him on his knees, and if he allows the fear of any form of persecution, whether it be ducking the person or docking his salary, to lead to the road of that, he must reckon with the Lord he serves and with Whose name he speaks."

There is no room for argument in the parson's attitude. The trouble is that many men who will subscribe to this view in theory will be the first to dissent from it in fact.

They are champions of fearless preaching as long as a foreign or is being gored, but when the shafts fly close home and are driven with the force that ours asunder, the applause dies.

Fearless preaching ought to be good preaching, provided it meets the stipulation of this parson, that it be the message sent to the speaker from headquarters.

Churches can have that plain, outspoken brand of instruction if they encourage their leaders in giving it. When they are moved by considerations of what it will mean in the way of decreased attendance, dropping financial support, the loss of "prominent" members—and try to strike the nearly-mouthful medium where they will get sermons that will neither sting nor convict, they have created an atmosphere where conviction rots and faith withers.

PASSING THE BUCK

Moving picture magnates are reported to be again preparing for war on censorship of their productions. Total abolition of state boards, whose seal of approval must now be placed upon films before they can be released for public view, is their announced objective. Reformatory and social service organizations will be eager for the fray and will count upon the parents of the United States to make their voices heard at Washington, in protest against any modification of the censorship law. It is a question that lends itself to debate. Convincing arguments can be advanced both for and against. But on the folly of leaving the responsibility of the upbringing of any child to the state there can be no argument. Censorship boards became necessary when parents protested that certain parts of certain films had a harmful effect on children. Instead of seeing to it that children did not attend shows and places of entertainment that were not good for them, the parents passed the buck to the state and made the censors responsible. Every big city of the United States and some Canadian municipalities have dance hall inspectors on the pay rolls and any number of laws touching on what may and may not be done at these places—all designed, of course, "to protect the young people." As with the movies this means nothing more or less than to blame if something happens—the youngsters, the speed cops—or the parents?

ABSURD CLAIMS

It appears that U.S. Senator Borah is preparing to press for claims against Britain for losses suffered by American shippers through the British blockade of Germany in the early period of the great war, while the United States was as yet a neutral. Those who have read the life and letters of Ambassador Page know that the British government made large concessions to American shipping interests in connection with the blockade. Indeed, it is quite probable that but for the restriction of restrictions in response to American protests the blockade would have brought the war to an end before the date when the United States entered it. As a matter of fact, the blockade restrictions were not nearly so drastic as those imposed by the U.S. government against the trade of neutrals with the South in the civil war. It might be well for old British firms which suffered losses from the American blockade back in the 'sixties to hunt up the records and file claims for compensation for those losses, with interest to date, to offset these ridiculous claims that Senator Borah proposes to press.

DISCOURAGING GOSSIP

Forest Standard:

An anti-telephone-gossip union is about to see the light of day in London, whose specific purpose is to obtain legislation to charge all telephone gossips $1 a minute after five minutes' use of the wire, the revenue to be applied to a reduction of the civic income tax. Roughly 10,000 members have already signed on the dotted line in the Forest City, it is stated, 90 per cent. of whom are men, and the executive of whom will shortly be elected and installed. The idea is a good one and similar unions will in all probability spring up all over the country.

SHIP 126 YEARS OLD

London cor. New York Herald Tribune:

Not many ships built today will last as long as the Jane, the oldest vessel in the world, which has just changed hands for the—fourth time. The Jane is 126 years old, and thus the oldest ship still at work. Her early history is obscure, but it is known that she was in company with the frigates of the line and heavily laden transports when the Peninsular War was taking place, and she was still young enough to be chartered by the British government in 1914 when she piled up and down the Channel, untouched by submarines or mines. Now she is past the prime old age as a lighter up and down the Avon, through Shakespeare's county. She is built of oak, and so well built that her late owner-skipper believes that she has another century of life before her. She pears so he put a new lining into her and found that her frame was as solid as on the day she was built.

INTERESTED IN RED LAKE

Manitoba Free Press:

If a Manitoba railway were completed to the border of Ontario and within fifty miles of Red Lake there would be little probability of a line being built in to the district other than a connection with the Manitoba system. If transportation facilities could be provided by building forty or fifty miles of railway, no company or government would be so foolish as to build 150 miles of line to get in from another point and from another direction.

Manitoba must look out for her own interests. This is a time when she should be first in the field.

New Cars As Shown Bear Out Claims For Super-Excellence

FOUR TYPES OF OLDSMOBILE

Deservedly Popular Car is Showing Finely Appointed Turnouts

LOOKS AND ACTS WELL

Dependability and Rich Appearance Favorable Features

With the addition of a coupe to the line, displayed for the first time at the Montreal Motor Show, four body types make up the Oldsmobile line of quality six cylinder cars.

Beauty of line and refinement in details and appointments are features of all body types. Durable Duco of high luster in two-color combinations is used for the exterior finish. Real leather cloth is used for the upholstery of the open model, and a heavy cord cloth which combines beauty and exceptional wearing qualities is the interior finish of the closed cars.

The new coupe is finished in Dagonan blue Duco with a white stripe outlining a band, ending in flat rails along both sides of the body from radiator to the back of the rear deck. The top has black fabrikoid over the metal sheathing and has landau side bows. The body is designed and built by Fisher, as are all Oldsmobile closed bodies.

The rear deck of the coupe is high and symmetrical, giving the upper structure a low, racy appearance and providing an exceptionally large luggage compartment. Almost the entire top of the rear deck opens as a single door, forming an opening into this compartment sufficiently large to accommodate a trunk. A smaller door on the side also gives access to the luggage space.

The sedan, is done in Bloomfield gray Duco with black Duco upper structure. The upholstery is a rich dark brown shade of cord plush. The windshield is the full vision and ventilating patented Fisher type. Standard equipment includes an automatic windshield cleaner, rear vision mirror, dome light and four-way gasoline gauge on instrument board.

The coach has Duckingham gray Duco body and black Duco upper structure. The doors at either side are of extreme width, which with the sliding backs of the front seat, give room for rear seat passengers to enter or leave without disturbance to those in the front seat. This model also has the Fisher V.V. windshield.

The touring car is finished in Bonnan brown Duco up to a beading near the top of the tonneau. Above this a Berkshire gray is used, which forms a panel stripe at the sides and back and a saddle across the top of the hood. Genuine Spanish leather in grey is used for upholstery.

The six-cylinder, L-head Oldsmobile engine was specially designed by engineers of Old Motor Works. It has a 2¾ inch bore and a 4½ inch stroke with 169.7 cubic inch displacement. It develops 40 horse power on block test.

The steering gear is semi-irreversible of the worm and split nut type. This assures safety and ease in driving. The springs are semi-elliptic and set in direct line with the frame and wheels to give the maximum in comfort.

Delco two-unit electric system is used with the latest electrical improvements including an automatic spark control. All instruments are conveniently grouped on an oval panel on a Duco finished instrument board. The gear shift lever is unusually long and accessible. The steering column is adjustable so that it can be placed to conform to the position of individual car owners.

The chassis wheel base is 110½ inches. The frame is of heavy channel section carbon steel, 5½ inches deep. It is braced by four cross members rigidly welded to the frame.

Automatic forced feed lubrication is used. The cooling system consists of a centrifugal pump, which sends water simultaneously to both the front and rear ends of the cylinder block through a manifold cast to the block, a distinctive Oldsmobile feature.

PROFESSIONAL OR SPORTING MODEL

The Improved Ford Coupe, an ideal car for sporting or professional use in the city, where its short wheel base makes it exceptionally easy to handle in traffic.

SEE FORD CARS IN RICH COLORS

Your Choice is There and You Will Be Pleased With Result

We are now in the midst of an era of color, the demand for which knows few restrictions. Color, as never before, is to be found in the personal attire, in building, furniture, auto, art objects—in fact, everything that the public buys is now colored to meet the popular demand.

The color option presented to motor car buyers in the new Ford models on display this week in the local motor show is one instance of how manufacturers are adding to standard practice in order to give the public exactly what it wants.

Each of the colors included in the option presented to Ford car buyers is such that it adds to the attractiveness of any of the models whether roadster, touring car, Tudor sedan, Coupe or Fordor sedan.

For example, green, a striking, rich shade gives a particularly pleasing appearance to any of the closed models as well as the roadster Molokain with brown trimmings, another of the Ford colors will doubtless find immense popularity with the public as the two tone effect is just as predominatingly desired as solid color.

In addition to those colors is added a gray that to many will have a greater appeal than the other colors. The Ford Sport Roadster model, which is fast becoming a favorite car among the younger set, appears in beige brown.

Altogether the choice of colors offered in Ford cars is one of the outstanding features of this year's showing and well worth the "few moments" of every visitor to drop in at the Ford dealers show rooms Belleville Motors during "Showroom Week."

MOTOR SHOW MAKES GOOD

Dealers Are Pleased With Interest Manifested By Public

Belleville's Spring Motor Show got away to a flying start on Saturday last in the showrooms of the various automobile dealers of the city, and from reports to date, the week's showing of the new spring models will develop into one of the outstanding events of the season.

From Saturday afternoon when the show officially began, the showrooms of the dealers participating—and the list covers practically every dealer in the city—have been scenes of enthusiastic citizens eager to view the latest developments in the automotive industry, which are being specially presented during the present week.

Visitors to the premises of each dealer are impressed with the fact that the big event is strictly a show—not a sale, and no effort has been spared on the part of those displaying the newest in automobiles to make the week's showing a real success. Noticeable in several of the showrooms are the displays of the striped chassis of the cars, giving those more mechanically inclined a chance to study minutely the mechanical working of frame, engine and axle.

Outstanding throughout the entire show of all models is the fact that closed cars have now apparently come to stay and an ever increasing trend in this direction is strikingly indicated by the fact that in several makes no open models are offered at all. The motor car of today is as all year round vehicle of transportation as the preference for the closed models is not hard to understand.

Another noticeable feature of the show is a tendency to produce lower slung cars, with a lower center of gravity, producing a long fury effect in many models, yet the roominess is not sacrificed, the dealers declare.

That feminine fancies have considerable influence with the motor car manufacturers is quite evident too. Upholstery has been given increasing attention, especially in the higher price cars and striking color effects in the finish of the various models will add to the gayety of the highway scenes during the coming season. As one local dealer pointed out, however there is not the tendency in the more bizarre colors this season that was noticeable during the last year or two. Many of the cars are strikingly finished in two-tone effects. Four wheel brakes are evident on many models and have been improved vastly. The standard colors are pleasing, the combinations have been formed to take shelter during the last two years since their introduction. Smart, new roadster models are presented in several lines.

The dealers are doing all in their power to put the show over in proper style and the acceptance of their standing in relation to the public of this city and district is the only thing necessary for the complete success of the Spring Showing March 20th-27th.

CHASSIS

This Demonstration is of real value to every person interested in Motor Cars

It is a rare occasion when the average motorist has an opportunity of having the functions of the many parts of an automobile chassis demonstrated by an expert, using a cut open motor and stripped chassis. Such an opportunity happens only about once a year and should not be passed up. Every motorist should be familiar with the fundamentals of motor car construction. The expert will demonstrate the why and how of all the major motor car parts. For instance, he will explain in detail why the three-point motor suspension reduces vibration noise—why Chevrolet will flash from 5 to 25 miles in less than 8 seconds.

The lecturer, who comes to us direct from the Chevrolet factory at Oshawa, will also explain why the improved Chevrolet incorporates many mechanical features heretofore only found on high-priced cars.

Regardless of what car you drive or are interested in, this Chassis Demonstration will be a real education.

MRS. CREEGAN DIED SUDDENLY

Mrs. Creegan, wife of Rev. A. H. Creegan, rector of the parish of Tyendinaga who conducted the Friday evening Lenten service at St. Thomas Church, Belleville, died suddenly on Sunday evening.

Deceased was evidently in her usual health until the last moment. She had attended the morning service at Christ Church, Tyendinaga, and in the evening accompanied her husband in their car, from the rectory on their way to Napanee where Mr. Creegan was to have taken the service at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene. They carried on a conversation throughout the journey, until within about two miles of Napanee, when Mrs. Creegan suddenly ceased speaking and became unconscious. She was removed to the house of John Joynes. Dr. Galbraith, of Napanee, and the family physician in Deseronto were promptly in attendance but too late as she had passed away.

Before her marriage she was Miss Stofford, of Lyndhurst. Besides her bereaved husband, she is survived by five children, one son, Frank, at Maple stone Park; Jack is a student at Bishop's College, Lennoxville, Que.; Marion, of Trinity College, Toronto; Kathleen, at Nappanee Collegiate Institute, and the youngest, Isobel at home.

Rev. and Mrs. Creegan were expected in the city in Easter week to visit Rev. and Mrs. G. H. Beamish of whom they have been friends for several years.

Recreation Alleys

The New Spring Bowling League started out with a bang at the Recreation Alleys last night, the Wolves and the Ponies playing the opening game, the latter team winning three points and the former one. The Wolves were the first to score a point, but after that the Ponies played a much better game and won the next two games and on the total score, this league playing 4 points instead of three. Bill Holland for the Ponies was high bowler with 622 and J. Alexander was high for the Wolves with 563.

Two C.N.R. games were played last night, one a regular fixtures and one a postponed game. In the regular fixture Supt. McMillan's Office team No. 1 won the three points from the H. & B. Dept. the latter team being somewhat off color when they only rolled 1038 against the Office's 2492. Meagher having the highest three string with 600 for the Office and Davey rolling the highest for the B. & B.

CENTRAL "Y" TO PLAY HERE

Local Basketeers Are Matched to Meet Crack Outfit

GAME ON THURSDAY

Re-arrangement Made After First Drawn to Meet Orillia

Just a week ago word was received from Mr. C. R. Sinclair of Windsor, who is President of the O.A.B.A. asking that Belleville play off with Orillia's Intermediate Entry, the first game to be played in Belleville on the 30th and the return game in Orillia on the 27th. This necessitated expensive trip for both teams and forthwith the management of the respective teams asked that the schedule be changed so that either one could meet Toronto Central Intermediates, Champions of the Toronto and District groups.

Yesterday afternoon a wire was received from headquarters of the O.A. B.A. asking if Belleville would be able to meet Central Y team on Thursday the 25th and play the return game in Toronto on the 27th. Following a lively enthusiastic meeting of the officers and management of the local club it was decided to accede to this request. As a result, all devotees of basket ball and any who have even a slight curiosity as to what the game may be like, will have an opportunity of witnessing one of the best games of basket ball that have been played here for many a moon.

The Toronto Central Intermediates who won the T. & D. title from the Young Mens' Hebrew Association are one of the best Intermediate teams that the city has turned out for a good many years. In fact it is claimed for them by some Toronto fans that they are worthy of senior calibre and the fact that they held the strong West End Senior Aggregation to a 23-17 score almost bears out that testimony as to their capabilities.

As for the local Y Basketeers, they have been practicing faithfully since the conclusion of the Queens-Belleville series and are in the best of Condition. At point count on the round of the two game series, Armstrong, Weir and Cole will go right in at the first blast of the referees whistle and endeavor to pile up a good lead to take to Toronto for the final game Saturday night.

The local line up will include the following: Armstrong, Weir, Cole, Faulkner, Morrison, Hetty, Buchanan and Barlow.

Dunc Munro's Crowd Expect Pirates to Show Improvement

Montreal March 23.—Announcement was made last night by the officers of the Montreal Professional Hockey Club that the players have an opportunity to earn over $1,200 as a bonus this season. The Club will give each player $1,000 to win the Stanley Cup, while that amount does not include the share of the playoff games with Pittsburg and Ottawa. This offer will not each player a tidy bank account should the team capture the Stanley Cup. The players sharing in the N.H.L. play-off receipts is due to the efforts of James Strachan. To-night Pittsburgh Pirates and the Montreal Maroons meet in the second game of their two-game series to decide which team will meet the Ottawa Senators in the finals for the National Hockey League title. The Maroons will enter the tussle with a two-goal lead gained over the Pirates at Pittsburgh Saturday. Naturally, the local team is favored to hold its lead on home ice, though the Maroons are anticipating an improved showing by the Pirates, who were not at their best Saturday night.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT GRIFFIN'S

All the splendor that figured so largely in the life of "Sally" when Florenz Ziegfeld first established a vogue for girls in a not only equalled but excelled in this screen version in which First National is starring Colleen Moore, the little girl with the great enthusiastically for its initial showing at Griffin's last night.

Sally is the little scene where little Sally blossoms out, impersonating the notorious Nookerous, Russian danseuse, that the gowns play their important part. Jackie Coogan and her own ideas about the costume in which she was to do her dance number, and all of the accessories necessary to designers and milliners on the United "list" were called to her aid.

From Miss Moore's own designs they assembled a truly ravishing garment of turquoise blue pan velvet trimmed in rhinestones and silver braid. Around the bottom of the skirt and the sleeves are wide bands of platinum fox. The hat is of silver set trimmed with rhinestones and aigrettes.

Silver boots complete the effect.

Interest is being shown in the coming contest.

The race last year was distinguishing in the fact that there was a cold wind which churned the water up to such an extent that the Oxford and Cambridge rowers and the Dark Blue was unable to remain in the contest to the end. The Thames was very rough, especially in the vicinity of Surrey side, which the Oxford crew preferred had to take because Cambridge won the toss and chose the Middlesex or north shore, which formed some protection from the biting wind. Cambridge finished the race alone—the time being 21 minutes and 31 seconds, slower than usual but, regarded as creditable in view of the wind and water conditions.

Grippe

Now when the germs of Grippe abound, physicians advise keeping the bowels open. Constipation poisons the blood, lowering your resistance to the germs of infectious diseases.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

FLOODS IN PENNSYLVANIA

Oil City, Pa., March 23.—Industry was at a standstill, principal markets of the city closed, and several hundred people had been driven from their homes here today as the result of flood conditions which followed a partial movement of the 25-mile section of ice gorges in the Allegheny River last night. River was rising and weather forecast of rain tonight and tomorrow gave situation still more serious aspect.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Stoutsville, March 22.—Burns caused the death of Mrs. Thomas Burnside, and her husband's death from shock followed. Both were aged 72.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

Lord Elliott turned and went to Constance at once.

"What are you going to sing?" he asked. "Shall I find you something?" and he was at the canterbury in a moment.

There were one or two she knew, but they bore the name of Ruth Fortaire, and she could imagine how delightful that lady would be at hearing her songs sung by Constance.

"I think I must try and remember one," she said.

He opened the piano and placed the stool for her, and Constance, after a moment or two, remembered one of Moore's melodies, and began it.

She had a sweet voice—a voice that would have filled Tommy Moore himself with delight; and the voice of a trained musician, with all the stereotyped shakes and trills, but full of expression and real feeling.

An instant silence fell upon the room. The great traveler himself even yielded to the spell of the touching words and exquisite melody, and when the song was finished and Constance rose, Lord Elliot let his hand fall upon hers, and in an eager pleading voice said:

"Oh, not yet! Please sing us something else, Lady Shakespeare, do please ask Miss Grahame to sing again."

The marchioness smiled up at Constance.

"That was one of my old favorites, and you sang it very prettily, my dear. Do you know another?"

Constance sat down again and sang another of Tom Moore's and, as nothing succeeds like success, sang it better than the first, and amid an profound a silence.

When she looked around she found that Mr. Hendrick was standing close behind her; the marquis still lounged against the pedestal, but his eyes were upon her and seemed to join in the general approval and pleasure.

"Charming!" exclaimed Mr. Hendrick, with a slight bow. "You have the very voice for Moore's melodies, Miss Grahame. One hears them often, but very seldom properly sung. Comparisons are odious, but the last time I heard "The Minstrel Boy" well sung—and by well I mean feelingly—was by an Irish consignee girl out in the Bush. It came very appropriately from her, an exile from her beloved country, and I think the tears were in her eyes; they were in her voice, I know! I heard her as you sang, though in truth your voice was the sweeter, Miss Grahame. It was one evening when our party was resting in an old shepherd's shanty. We had had a long ride and an exciting chase, and were revelling in a rest after supper, stretched on our backs with our pipe in our mouths."

He addressed Constance, who sat listening, her eyes downcast, her hands folded in her lap; but all the rest were listening, too, and none more eagerly and intently than Arol, who had rested himself at her feet and leant his golden brown head against her knee.

"Hunting game, Hendrick?" asked Lord Elliot.

Mr. Hendrick smiled slightly as he leaned up against the piano as if prepared to go on.

"Well, yes; and big game, too—very big game."

"Lions?" inquired Arol, in an awe-struck voice.

The great traveler looked down at him and touched his curls.

"Well, tigers they were generally called—two-legged ones." Oh, Mr. Hendrick, you know there aren't any; are there, Miss Grahame?"

Constance waved him into silence by a touch of her soft hand, and Mr. Hendrick laughed slightly.

"Oh, yes, there are, Lord Lascelbrook, and they are far safer and more savage as a rule than the four-legged ones."

"Tell us about them; do!" exclaimed Arol in an eager whisper.

"Yes, fire away, Hendrick," said Lord Elliot, and he sat himself close beside Arol, and played with his curls, but with his eyes straying every now and then to the lovely face near him.

"These same tigers, Arol, were called bushwhackers."

"Oh, I think I've read of them. Haven't you, Miss Grahame?"

Constance shook her head, and put her hand on his head, not noticing Lord Elliot's, which she touched; his face flushed, and he drew his hand away for one moment, but the next it went back to the boy's silken hair again.

Coconut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure vegetable and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can not possibly injure the hair.

BETTY COMPSON
"I have given Mulsified a trial and find it is just what it claims to be. Pure in form."

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

RUB CHEST COLD AWAY; STOP PAINS

Pain and congestion is gone Quickly!—Yes. Almost instant relief from chest colds, sore throat, backache, lumbago follows a gentle rubbing with St. Jacobs Oil.

Rub this soothing penetrating oil right on your chest and like magic relief comes. Jacobs Oil is a harmless liniment which quickly breaks chest colds, soothes the inflammation of sore throat and breaks up the congestion that causes pain. It never disappoints and does not burn the skin.

Get a 25 cent bottle of St. Jacobs Oil at any drug store. It has been recommended for 65 years.

Which Will It Be

It's your choice—for the coat and the suit will walk side by side in Fashion's Parade at Easter.

Perhaps the tailored suit has a slight lead in style, but the eternal usefulness of the coat brings it up in importance, and this year's coats have some wonderful new style features. If you want to feel that your Easter ensemble is correct choose your outfit from our large variety of authentic styles for Spring.

COATS ARE GRACEFUL AND ELABORATE—OR MANNISH TO A DEGREE

There is no "half-way" in coats. In the dressy style of coat, there is, first, the cape coat, with beautiful lines; there are coats of fine poiret twill with turn-back "tuxedo" effect all the way down the front, often braid-trimmed. Narrow self-ties at the neck, small back collars of fur, and graceful side flares are important. Sleeves are often wide at the wrist and lavishly embroidered. The coats are beautifully finished in every detail and full silk crepe lined. New colors include Italian Blue, Gendarme Blue, Meerschaum, Oakbuff, Dove Grey and Leaf Green.—$12.00 to $65.00.

A SUIT HERE FOR EVERY TYPE

Short-coated, dressy little suits in navy blue with silk vestees, have a particularly Springlike air, severely tailored navy suits with three-quarter coats are correct in any company, and tweed suits of every description help to give the younger generation the smartness that only tweed can impart. Coats often close with one loop fastening and skirts have one or two inverted pleats.—$25.00 to $65.00.

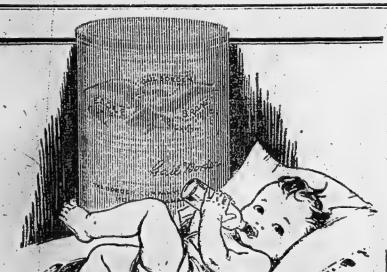

IN LARGER SIZES

We have a full selection of stylish coats and suits for larger women, in this season's newest styles. They are in sizes up to 46 1-2 inches, and are correctly proportioned in every way.

Your Easter Hat

Have you seen our Spring Millinery? You'll find a fascinating assortment of little tailored hats for the suit and tweed coat, as well as dressy models, in the newest shapes and materials.

Does your mortgage contain a clause which guarantees that on your death all unpaid instalments will be cancelled?

Albert Lawson could not find any such clause in his mortgage, and he was worried about the fate of Mrs. Lawson and their children in case he should die before his payments were completed.

He needn't have worried. He could have secured the same protection through a North American Life Mortgage Policy. This special form of Life Insurance was designed by the North American Life Assurance Company to save widows from foreclosures. It is worth your consideration.

CHICAGO POLICE CLAIM TO HOLD HEAD OF BANDITS

William J. White Alleged To Have Been in Eight Big Robberies

Chicago, Ill., March 24.—William J. White, alleged slayer of a motor cycle policeman and believed to have taken part in eight robberies which netted $224,000 is in the custody of the Chicago police to-day.

Shortly after his arrest he was identified as the leader of the band which recently secured $80,000 in the spectacular payroll holdup at the International Harvester Co.' There witnesses later pointed him out as the murderer of Edward Plunkett, a suburban officer shot last December 13.

After White's arrest, the police squad lay in wait at a road-house for his pal, Tommy Maloney, waited in connection with machinery and Harvester robberies.

Maloney attempted to escape but was apprehended after a chase in which his automobile was wrecked. Two other men identified as members of the Harvester holdup band were held by a grand jury yesterday. They are James Genaile and Joseph Leopold.

"We knew four weeks ago who killed Taylor but this eastern trip was for the purpose of getting corroborative evidence." Mr. Keyes was quoted by the Herald and Examiner as saying. The Herald and Examiner quoted Harold Davis Keyes' assistant as saying that the eventual naming of the slayer and conspirators who plotted the crime would be a surprise, declaring that the plot involved persons heretofore not mentioned in the case.

GIRL'S DEVOTION TO DUTY UNDER STRESS IS ACCLAIMED

London, Mar. 24.—Light in Saint Helen's Lighthouse, near Cambridge on the Isle of Wight was kept flashing for three nights by a fourteen-year-old daughter of Lighthouse Keeper Langton. The girl was marooned there Saturday afternoon without food, except one loaf of bread and a small piece of cake, but nevertheless she carried out her father's duties valiantly.

Langton and wife on Saturday rowed ashore in a rough sea to fetch food and oil to light the house, says the Daily Mail. While they were ashore, the sea rose in its fury and the father and mother were unable to return to the beacon until Tuesday afternoon. Aside from anxiety for his daughter, left alone in the lighthouse with scarcely any food. Langton worried as to whether she would realize the necessity to light the lamp which is one of the most important beacons along the coast. Great was his relief when punctually the light beamed and remained flashing throughout the night. It again flashed regularly during the succeeding nights. The girl kept awake at night and wound every four hours the clockwork apparatus which turns the light.

DIES OF INJURIES AFTER EXPLOSION IN MADOC MINE

Charge of Dynamite In Workings First Failed To Detonate

HIT IT WITH PICK

Richard Cowan, aged 33, son of C. J. Cowan, manager of a Perrycroix mine near Madoc, south of the Moira Lake, died early this morning as a result of an accident incurred while working in his work as prospector at the mine.

A charge of dynamite had been laid in the mine but with its failure to detonate, Cowan accompanied by another worker, A. Casselman, descended into the mine and Cowan struck the charge with a pick axe causing it to explode immediately.

Both legs were broken at the hips and the unconscious man was taken to a nearby building and Dr. Dafoe of Madoc called. He was put on the C. P. R. train to be taken to Peterboro to Nicholl's hospital, but due to loss of blood and shock he expired as the train reached Havelock.

Deceased is survived by his married sister, Mary, in Hamilton; school at Campbell, his father, Mr. R. J. Cowan, resides in Tweed.

Mrs. K. J. Cowan, 218 Victoria Avenue and Mrs. Florence Countryman, are sisters-in-law of the late Mr. Cowan.

Mr. and Mrs. Bateman, 218 George street, Toronto, cousins, left for Peterboro to be with their daughter.

Casselman escaped with minor injuries.

An inquest into the circumstances surrounding the death of Mr. Cowan will be held in Madoc on Wednesday afternoon March 31 at 5.30 p.m., Crown Attorney B. C. Deanna will be present and the inquest will be conducted by Coroner W. S. Hamer, M.D.

ANOTHER DINNER AND DISCUSSION OF LOCAL TOPICS

Deputation at Ottawa to Get Assurance Of No Early Change

MAYOR WAS THERE

Offer Not Yet Taken Up By Province of Ontario

Another of those interesting open forum meetings under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Queen's Hotel this week.

The last meeting, held on the evening of March 19th, was attended by about eighty of the members and this week's function will probably be more widely patronized.

Two main topics are on the program for discussion: (1) The City Market; (2) Civic Economy and How It May Be Attained."

The first of these will be introduced by Ex-Mayor Geo. A. Bennett, who has made a special study of the market and its problems. Belleville is said to have the second largest country market in Canada and the city has in this feature of its business life a great community asset. Other markets in various cities of Ontario have degenerated into a group of stalls where hucksters and foreign fruit vendors do their best to attract the most money from the public for the least value. The Belleville city market has pretty well retained its original character of being a meeting place and an allround benefit for buyer and seller. At Belleville market the original producer can and does meet the ultimate consumer without paying any toll to middlemen. Mr. Bennett has some important ideas about making the city market even better than it is and it is expected that what he has to offer will precipitate a lively discussion.

Mr. W.B. Deacon, well-known manufacturer as well as careful student of municipal problems will introduce the other important theme for the consideration of the meeting, "Civic Economy and How It May Be Attained." Mr. Deacon has just returned from a tour to the western coast and has been gathering many valuable ideas en route. Some of these he will communicate to the meeting as well as bring in others that have come to the notice of the manufacturer in the business experience in Belleville. Those present will be given an opportunity to join in the subsequent discussion which should prove most profitable.

The meeting which will be presided over by Mr. C. A. Cameron, chairman of the civic forum committee, will gather punctually at 6.15 p.m. for the dinner and close promptly at 8 o'clock in order that members to fill other evening engagements.

LATE MRS. ROSEVEAR

The funeral of the late Mrs. Sarah Roseveare who passed away at Kingston will take place Thursday afternoon, from Sydenham Street Parsonage, King street, at 3 o'clock. Interment will take place at Cataraqui cemetery.

STOCK PRICES BROKE SHARPLY

New York, N.Y., Mar. 24.—Stock prices broke sharply to-day under a flood of selling orders for both accounts. Pessimistic reports on, natures of spring business, a higher call money renewal rate, disappointing 1925 earnings, a report of the General Electric Co., the failure of directors of the Republic Steel Company to authorize a resumption of dividends, omission of the Pittsburgh Coal preferred dividend, and establishment of another new low level by French francs were all contributing factors in the day's selling.

The swiftness of the decline resulted in the ouching off of a number of stop-loss orders and closing out of weakened marginal accounts.

CA ROF LIQUOR FOR DISPOSAL

The case of the car of liquor seized here on 20th Feb. by Inspector Napkin was before the courts here this afternoon when Mr. James Hanratty presenting some parties still undisclosed was here from Toronto.

Mr. Napkin said he seized the car and found that it contained 1125 cases of liquor and some kegs of malt. He opened a case, took out a bottle and had it sent to Toronto for analysis. Later the car was sent forward to Toronto to the officials there. The bill of landing showed that the car was given from the Dominion Distillers Montreal, to a man named F. Parker in Ford City, Ont. Mr. Napkin said he had not been able to find any such man a resident of Ford City.

City Agent Coppin, of the C.N.R., said that he had a message from Montreal to send the car back to Dominion Distillers and he would have done so but it not been seized. It had been here for two days before the day Inspector Napkin took it over for the Department.

The case is proceeding.

FISH HATCHERY IS IN LIMELIGHT NOT TO CLOSE

C. of C. Is Arranging Second of Series of "Open Forums"

AT QUEENS HOTEL

Ex-Mayor Bennet and W. B. Deacon to Lead Talks

Mayor Graham returned from Ottawa this morning where he was at the Capital as one of a deputation of heads of municipalities on the Province of Ontario in which there are Dominion Fish Hatcheries. The deputation was in Ottawa for the purpose of finding out the government with respect to these hatcheries in view of the fact that the Dominion some time ago announced its intention of offering them to the Province of Ontario "without any strings" as it was stated yesterday.

The fish hatchery in Thurlow Tp., just out side the city is of course one of these and Belleville and the whole Bay of Quinte section is interested vitally in the outcome for it had been stated that there was also a possibility of this and other hatcheries being closed.

The deputation has as yet made no move it was stated towards assuming charge and the situation is therefore one of waiting.

The deputation was assured of great consideration of their request that nothing be done which would disturb the operation of these hatcheries.

These hatcheries were first established under the terms of the British North America Act by which the dominion assumed control of all fish and game. Ontario is one province however that has its own fish and game department and there has been some overlapping. That has made the situation the more unsettled. Some time ago a policy was devised at Ottawa by which Ontario could if it desired take over the operation of these provincial but Ottawa says has made no move to do so. There has been no recent development but the deputation including men from Sarnia, Warton Cullingwood and Queens were told that they would be advised when any changes were imminent.

FRED MILNE UP AGAIN

The electric lighting fixtures are arranged to give perfect light on all tables, towards the front of the building. Merged Choirs Sing Delightfully Oliver to Calvary Fine Success

Technically one of the finest performances yet presented by any of Belleville's choice Oliver to Calvary by the choirs of Christ Church and Victoria Avenue Baptist Church in Christ Church last evening was enjoyed by an almost capacity congregation notwithstanding the adverse weather conditions. The soloists, Mrs. M. R. Lavoie, soprano; Mr. J. D. Bankier, tenor; and Mr. James S. Dyer, of Toronto, baritone; and the choirs met every demand for sweet and delightful music rendered effectively and all the finest points of Maunders magnificent cantata were brought out admirably.

Miss Laura Lavoie at the organ and Miss Eva P. Lavoie conducting reached a high level of achievement in each capacity.

THE CANTATA

The cantata was prefaced by the singing by the congregation of the hymn "O Come and Mourn with Me Awhile" Jerusalem was depicted in chorus and in solo which the story of the event from Jerusalem with the massed choirs chorus of "When Oer the Steep of Olivet". Then action continued to Bethany for Jerusalem when Mr. Bankier rendered "Like a Fair Vision" with notably fine vocal quality and Mr. Dyer, of Jerusalem with great finesse of expression, the clarity of his tones and excellence of diction adding greatly to the result. In the third station "In the Temple" a tenor, and baritone duet "And Jesus entered into the Temple of God" was very fine and the tenor solo "All other Temple Awaits The Lord Divine" was brilliantly sung. The fourth station The Mount of Olives was portrayed very beautiful consisting of Air, (Tenor) —"No of this world ,Kingdom of Our Lord; Chorus—"Turn night ove lonely Olives"; solo, (Tenor)—He was despised; solo, (baritone) and chorus—"Come unto Him".

In the second part the selections were, "A new Commandment. Brett, and Air, (Baritone)—A new commandment; chorus—O Thou Whose sweet compassion. Gethsemane. Brett. (baritone) —And when they had sung a hymn. Betrayed and Forsaken. Chorus—And while He yet spake; Brett. and Air, (Tenor)—Ye who sin and ye who sorrow. Before Pilate. Chorus with solo (Pilate)—Crucify Him!" The March to Calvary. Choral March—The Saviour King goes forth to die. Calvary. Brett. (Baritone)— And when they came to the place; solo (soprano) and chorus—Brown, Scared Head; solo (soprano) and chorus—Hosanna Granicy.

Mrs. Lavoie's voice in both soprano solos was emotionally beautiful, clear and resonant.

The fine power of the massed choirs, the enthusiasm in crescendo and expressive quality, called for superlatives.

HOUSE QUIZZED ON INDIES PACT

Ottawa, March 24.—Disinclination to ratify Hon. J. A. Robb's West Indies trade treaty without some estimate by the minister as to what its effects there were likely to cost the country, was manifest in the House of Commons Tuesday afternoon, various quarters of the Opposition. The attitude of critics of the treaty was that the Government was asking Parliament for a blindfold endorsement and that it should produce some evidence as to what the convention entailed. Members who discussed the proposal expressed that impression and thought that if the West Indies was desirable and no serious question as to the value of the arrangements itself was raised, but there was some doubt as to whether this country would benefit to the extent justified by the cost. Preference entered largely on the obligations of Canada in the matter of steamship service, and the opinion was expressed by several members that that would involve the country in excessive expenditures.

Tabernacle Ladies Hold Daffodil Tea

At the home of Mrs. F. Sharpe, 52 Gordon street this afternoon, the ladies of Tabernacle United Church were hostesses of a most successful daffodil tea. The guests were received by Mrs. H. B. Gregory, president of the W.M.S., and Mrs. F. Sharpe while Mrs. G. H. French took them to the tea room. At the pretty tea table where Mrs. Esmond presided, the color scheme, yellow, white and green, was adapted from the colors of the Mission Circle and was carried out in the flowers, china and refreshments. A great bowl of daffodils graced the table and daffodils were in the tea room—were members of the Mission Circle and the treasurer of the afternoon was Mrs. Black, president of the Circle.

Lovers of the Great Outdoors Form Quinte Nature Club Here

Nature lovers of Belleville met in the Y.M.C.A. last evening and formed "The Quinte Nature Club."

Dr. F. E. Malott who acted as chairman, was chosen as President.

The membership fee was set, for the present, at fifty cents, and Mrs. W. H. Robb was appointed Secretary-Treasurer to receive the funds as several memberships were paid immediately.

The objects of the new organization will be suitably worded at the next meeting, which is to take place about the middle of April and which will be announced in the course, but it was the enthusiastic opinion of the meeting that the objects should be, in general terms, the enjoyment of wild life, wild flowers and such like, and the preservation of them for the welfare and enjoyment of future generations; the exchange of ideas, knowledge and outdoor observations among the members, and the provision of worthy Canadian nature literature for children and adults alike.

Wallace Havelock Robb was invited to give some general ideas on the activities of nature lovers in other centres in Canada and the United States and was chosen Councillor.

The next meeting will be announced in the press, but in the meantime all nature lovers are requested to either phone or send in their names to Dr. Malott or Mrs. Robb, that they will help the new organization greatly.

Local Motor Display Draws Crowds to Dealers' Showrooms

New Fords Make Hit With Public

Plant of Ford Company of Canada Working at Peak Production

The Ford plant of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, is working at peak production. Evidently, as was anticipated, the new better models with their lower sizes, more stylish straighter line bodies finished in attractive colorings and more luxuriously equipped than their predecessors are making a big hit with the public.

The improvements of course, by no means have been confined to those so shockingly synopsized in the foregoing paragraphs. The bodies are refined and entirely new throughout. The heavier domed mudguards not only add much to the appearance of the car but retain the gulf better and are much more rattle-and-squeak-proof than those with which former models were equipped.

The lower, springing is only one of several noteworthy chassis changes including a higher, narrower radiator, balloon tire steering and revisions to design that simplifies transmission band adjustments and replacements.

The relocation of the gasoline tank with the simple but ingenious filling arrangement is not the least popular of the changes made. The lowered centre of gravity with the improved seating arrangements as to tilt, elevation and so forth puts balloon equipment has increased the riding comfort and roadability of Ford cars very appreciably. The recent substantial reductions in prices of a number of models is resulting in an increasing demand for this new series that bids fair to eclipse the company's record.

Studebaker Cars Have Large Range

Three Chassis Sizes and Great Variety of Fine Models

When the Studebaker Corporation announced a discontinuance of the practice of producing yearly models, if any people presumed that that meant a determination on the part of the company to permit their products to stagnate in design, their minds were speedily disillusioned on that score. One illustration willsuffice as to that—three times within a year of the announcement to which allusion has been made, the design of the radiator of the standard six was modified.

This with other changes made it clear that the Studebaker Corporation would make change currently in models as the corporation's engineers recommended, and not wait for the advent of any arbitrarily determined year.

Certain overslaughed body models have been discontinued. Even so there are nineteen body models on the three chassis—"the big six"—the special six," and "the standard six." The elimination of the models referred to in the opening sentence of this paragraph was made at the time prices were revised afterwards. The big demand for the "big six" permitted a large reduction in the prices of this series.

The three Studebaker chassis models vary considerably in size and engine capacity. Some bodies, too, are more luxurious in external and internal finish equipment and appointments to meet the varying demands and pockets of motorists. A Studebaker official refers to the models in this way: "While the big six' sedan may be compared to the drawing room on the Twentieth Century Limited—every Studebaker corresponds to Pullman car transportation."

Willys-Knights All Sixes Now

They are Fine, Smooth Performers and are Handsome in Appearance

The Willys-Knights are exclusively sixes now. The "Great Six" is continued with modern refinements—the de luxe product of Willys-Overland. It is not damning the car with faint praise to state that its performance eclipses the anticipations engendered by its appearance for the Great Six is a car of handsome dignified aspect with the suggestion of abundant power and speed in the pleasing sweep of its long low symmetrical lines. The upholstery appointments and equipment are very complete including a permanent dash light. The power plant equipment likewise is up-to-the-minute including an oil purifier. In its price class the Great Six shattered all lib-

This most luxurious of Willys-Overland products incorporates an engine activity that is more than equal to the most stubborn of traffic demands. Its engine, which has a bore of 2¾ inches and stroke of 4 3-4 inches, develops 60 horsepower at 4,000 r.p.m. Seven bearing crankshaft of heavy duty type, together with the Knight engine's ability to explode the cylinder charge with little or no detonation, provides a delightful freedom from vibration and the exhilarating sensation of counting the kilometers

SAY 4,300,000 CARS TO BE MADE IN 1926

New York.—Alj is well in the automotive industries and every man concerned in the business is on tip toes today for the big business that is being passed around. All talk of 5,000,000 car production has been given up. The business will make that many cars—should demand require so many, but predictions now are for a 4,300,000 car year. Should this be too much of a production for America to absorb then the world at large will take up the slack. Export business is going to require more and more cars and the real extent of the year's shipments cannot be determined by any matter of guess work. By all indications America is going to

This Demonstration is of real value to every person interested in Motor Cars

IT is a rare occasion when the average motorist has an opportunity of having the functions of the many parts of an automobile chassis demonstrated by an expert, using a cut open motor and stripped chassis. Such an opportunity happens only about once a year and should not be passed up. Every motorist should be familiar with the fundamentals of motor car construction. The expert will demonstrate the why and how of all the major motor car parts. For instance, he will explain in detail why the three-point motor suspension reduces vibration noise—why Chevrolet will flash from 5 to 25 miles in less than 8 seconds.

The lecturer, who comes to us direct from the Chevrolet factory at Oshawa, will also explain why the improved Chevrolet incorporates many mechanical features heretofore only found on high-priced cars.

Regardless of what car you drive or are interested in, this Chassis Demonstration will be a real education.

BOOK ON HOGS NOW AT BANKS

Interesting and Useful Pamphlet Here For Distribution

"When well managed the hog is one of the best sources of farm income. Hogs have come to stay a farm." We n pull hogs at any time of the year and almost at any age and weight."

This is one of the introductory statements in a remarkably interesting and useful booklet entitled "Hogs for Pork and Profit," just issued by the Bank of Montreal, and offered free to farmers at any branch of that institution.

For some time past the Department of Agriculture of Ottawa has been doing commendable work all over Canada in encouraging the production of hogs as a supplementary source of income for farmers, and the booklet will admirably assist this movement by making available to those interested plain and detail ed descriptions, illustrated by over 200 photographs and diagrams, of the guiding principles of successful and profitable hog-raising. While the booklet is of a general character, covering methods under a wide variety of climatic conditions, particular attention both as regards text and illustrations, has been paid to conditions pertaining to hog raising in Canada, and a special introduction has been contributed by Mr. G. B. Rothwell, B.S.A., Dominion Animal Husbandman at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Mr. Rothwell give an outline of the principal breeds and types and the accepted methods of feeding in Canada, and after general advice in regard to the principles described in the booklet.

Every phase of hog raising is pictured in the booklet, both by word and by photograph, the subjects dealing with the selection of sires and sows, the choice of breeds and types, and the care of young pigs from the time they are born until they are ready for the market. Feeding, housing, the prevention of ailments and diseases, and the production of particular types for the special market, and all described in fact there is no phase of the industry on which the best scientific knowledge is not made available plain, everyday language.

As the booklet says, the hog will produce more meat from 100 pounds of feed than any animal; it multiplies rapidly; and it will not only provide food for the farmer's family, but it is one of the best sources of farm income.

A free copy of the booklet may be obtained at the nearest local branch of the Bank. There was some slight delay in getting a supply at the Belleville office but the booklets are here now and the Bank of Montreal will be glad to supply a copy to anyone interested.

TO THE FOOT OF THE THRONE

Every now and again the demand for the abandonment of the right to appeal to the privy council is heard from so-called "nationalists," whose zeal is greater than their wisdom. What possible injury can be done to the interests of the Dominion by the retention of the privilege, it is hard to understand; indeed, the agitators themselves would not deny that the council serves a very useful purpose as a court of final resort. In their anxiety to cut the painter, however, the "little Canada"-party do not trouble to examine too closely into the expediency of a step, from the national point of view, so long as they can make an aggressive showing of their independence. Those who are engaged in law practice in Canada, for the most part, are in favor of preserving this valued privilege of appealing to the fountain head of justice, and there is little support for the agitation from any really responsible quarter. It is generally recognized to be a great advantage for Canada to possess this right and to work for its rejection is regarded as an act of folly. "If we had to pay a special subsidy for the expert legal offices of the privy council," says the Winnipeg Tribune, "it could be justified on the basis that the best is none too good." It is just as convenient to have this court of last resort in the opinion of this western newspaper, as to have the opportunity of calling in the medical expert, after the local practitioner has done his best. "The demand for abandonment of the privy council appeal by Canada comes largely from non-legalists and preening politicians," the Tribune continues. "The storied-up lore of British legal wisdom is a precious asset in the sense of safeguardianship of justice. Local prejudices and color are avoided by their lordships, who move in a different atmosphere. Another final argument is that the justice of the British islands is hailed through out the whole world as a thing apart in its steady maintenance and sturdy independence."

WHO IS THE VILLAIN ?

Apparently the government of Brazil is to blame for the tragic failure at Geneva. Senor Mello Franco, the Brazilian delegate to the League of Nations, stood alone at last in his opposition to the admission of Germany to the League unless Brazil also were made a permanent member of the Council. But Mello Franco made it plain that he was acting under direct instructions from his government. His statement has given rise to much speculation as to why the Brazilian government assumed its obstructive position. Why should it interpose its veto to bring confusion into the counsels of the League of Nations, imperil the Locarno pact and the peace of Europe and weaken the influence of the League, even placing its continued existence in jeopardy? The suspicion is general that the Brazilian government was not "playing off its own bat," but was acting on the secret instigation of some other power with more at stake than Brazil has.

An influential Parisian journal, L'Action Francois, boldly declares that the villain of the piece, acting behind the scenes, is the United States. The intransigeance of Brazil, says this journal, was advised by the United States government, which has no sympathy for the League of Nations, and would like well enough to show how powerless it is and perhaps provoke its dismemberment. Other journals have echoed this opinion.

There is in the United States, they say, a fear of the organization of a United States of Europe, and at the same time a jealousy of American prestige, and so there went from Washington to Rio de Janiero, and thence to Mello at Geneva, advice As push matters to an impasse.

This suspicion is no doubt without foundation. There is little love for the United States in France at present, and the suspicions of L'Action Francais and other Parisian journals are probably based on nothing more substantial than dislike.

Nearer the mark, probably, are the suspicions of those who believe that the hand that pulled the strings which made Brazil move is a fine Italian hand—in short that Mussolini is the villain of the piece. It is known that the Italian dictator has little use for the League and the Locarno pact and all means of maintaining peace. He has not yet forgotten how his hand was held by the League when he undertook to crush Greece and sent an expedition to bombard Corfu. Moreover, his recent warlike and defiant speeches against Germany show that he would like to humiliate that country. And Mussolini aims to form an alliance of all Latin countries, including the Latin-American republics, under Italian leadership.

That Mussolini is the real instigator of the Brazilian action which has brought confusion and failure to the League is now made clear by the tone of the Fascist press of Italy in its comment on the week's proceedings at Geneva. These papers openly rejoice in the outcome of the attempt to admit Germany to the League Council and praise the attitude of Brazil. As they would not dare to take this attitude without the consent an approval of the head of the State, it is practically certain that Mussolini is glad of the turn which events have taken, and it is very probable that he took a principal part in upsetting the plans of the other powers. And the suspicion is made almost a certainty by the disclosure of the fact that Mussolini issued orders for the suppression of any Italian paper criticising Mello Franco's attitude.

YOUNG IMMIGRANTS

Mr. W. M. Birks, of Montreal, had some bitter things to say of the government's immigration policies. That gentleman recently returned to Montreal from a six months' visit to the Old Country, and says the effort—lack of effort—to secure for Canada some of Britain's surplus population created in him the "saddest, most hopeless impression." Three-quarters of the money spent by the Dominion for immigration, he declares, is spent on exclusion, rather than immigration. Contrasting the feeble efforts of this country with the aggressive and successful policy pursued by the commonwealth of Australia, the speaker showed that it had been proved that the city boy from Britain, if taken young enough, made the best kind of farmer. Australia displays wisdom, he thinks, in accepting "any man under thirty willing to work on the land." Turning to Canada, he declares that "the most successful farmers in the west were nearly all city boys. The city boy . . . is the best stock we can get." By rigidly excluding all who have not had practical experience of farming, this desirable class of immigrant is being lost; but the movement in Britain for training those who want to emigrate in elementary agricultural duties, so that they may be equipped to some extent for farm work in the Dominion should encourage large numbrs of young men to come to Canada. Nevertheless, if intending emigrants were taken young, as Mr. Birks suggests, and given proper training in this country, a resourceful and enterprising farming population would be built up, which would meet all the requirements. The question of juvenile immigration is one which deserves much greater attention than it deserves at headquarters.

SAFE FINANCING

After a year's investigation and consideration, a committee of three financial experts has submitted a report to the Ontario government, recommending a plan for the retirement of the provincial net debt of about $319,000,000. The debt for the retirement of which no provision is now made out of annual revenue amounts to $185,511,454. It is proposed to pay this off in 40 years, principal and interest, out of current revenue, the annual payment being $11,218,179. For the Hydro debt of $127,198,646 there is already a sinking fund, but the committee recommends that plan of retirement which it favors for the main debt be applied also to the Hydro debt, so that the whole debt may be retired in 40 years. The Hydro payments to the government would of course be made out of earnings.

The provincial debt has accumulated without much regard to the future. Maturing loans have been financed by the issue of fresh bonds, after the manner of Mr. Micawber, who redeemed his notes by giving new ones. By the proposed plan this happy-go-lucky style of financing would be done away with and in future all borrowing would be by means of the instalment bond system.

The proposed plan will of course make necessary the raising of more revenue during the ensuing 40 years than would be required if no adequate provision were made for retiring the debt. But the plan is a measure of real economy. It is pointed out that at the end of the 40 years it will have cost the province just about $58,000,000 more to clean off its dbt than it would have cost to pay the interest on the debt without making any provision for redeeming it.

DON'T STOP AT ONE

Lethbridge Herald:

The Ottawa authorities, now that they have set the example in the case of a Chicago weekly, are fully warranted in keeping out of the country those magazines that devote themselves almost entirely to sex appeal.

TOO MANY OFFICIALS

London Sunday Express:

The taxpayer recognizes the need for a strong navy, while other nations decline to disarm. But, although he does not press for parsimony in construction, he suspects that there is ample room for economy in administration. Fifty-eight millions is a vast sum to spend on ships plus officials. If we spent less on our naval bureaucracy we could, while keeping up the building activity, save more than a beggarly two and a half millions.

INDEPENDENTS IN PARLIAMENT

Winnipeg Tribune:

Real independence, red-blooded and solidly founded on conviction, would be of immense value in parliament. On many occasions the people have thought, at election times, that they have secured it. But almost invariably they have discovered in short order a tendency on the part of independents to gravitate to the government of the day. . . . It is so in connection with all the so-called independents in the present parliament. Most of them are already out-and-out supporters of the government, and for the few exceptions it is only another step.

Letters To The Editor

FROM MR. BOGLE

To the Editor, Daily Intelligencer:

Dear Sir:—

It is quite apparent that the suggestion to change our name to "Quinte City" is meeting with, as Sinical Sadie says, "considerable approval." Personally, I am most anxious to see our City flourish.

With a better name I am confident our city will make rapid advancement, that the increase in population will be over two thousand in three years from the time of the closure of taxes and that the ratio of increase each year thereafter will be greater.

Our good, old, trusted, tried and true citizen, Tom Power, and his band of co-workers have acquired the habit of producing permanent and profitable improvements. The former would be pleased to have him give this matter due consideration and express through the press his approval.

Robert Bogle.

FROM COL. PONTON

Belleville, March 20, 1926.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—

On the front page of Friday's issue I see that you herald another splendid triumph for the Municipality in that you say a Bill has been introduced in the Legislature permitting the City, of which we are the proud citizens but the unfortunate owners of real estate in charge owners of land with the cost of affixing numbers and names to buildings and streets. This, as you say, makes it "plain sailing for Belleville" and the presumable reason is that our own City may now add another of the many luxuries to the oppressed tax payer in respect of real estate. Can ingenuity devise any further way of unloading from the general fund upon the victims who, except in rare instances, derive no income that will pay more than 3% upon the assessed value of their properties and in very many cases whose possessory ownership represents a minus quantity. It would almost seem as though the individual citizen were the enemy to be wreached by the Municipality in which he finds himself "property-poor". Can we not confer together and face conditions as they are? Do we realize how many vacant houses and apartments there are in Belleville and how many, many unproductive and vacant lots and areas In our too barely extended City? I have read the letter of Mr. Robert Eagle with interest and while I do not agree with him as to his main contention, he has certainly given us something to think about. We need more people to share our privileges of citizenship and to lighten our burdens. Can we get them under existing conditions? Is not that one of the chief problems we must face together and not as a clique? How does our "community spirit" as a whole—not a part —compare with other Cities? What is to be our immediate (not distant future) but in hope not visionary future?

W. N. PONTON.

KINGSTON LADS DEFEAT CALGARY IN FIRST BATTLE

O.H.A. Champs Outscore Conquerors of All West 4-2

Winnipeg, March 24.—Kingston Juniors took a long step forward in their quest after the Dominion junior championship, when they outplayed the Calgary Canadians in all but the third period last night, to win the first game of the two-game final series for the title 4 to 2.

The final game of the series will be played Thursday night. Kingston scored twice in the first period while Calgary was getting a single tally. They held the Western champions and Abbot Cup holders scoreless in the second period, while they added two more goals to their total. In the third period Calgary scored once, while holding Kingston without a tally.

The Canadians passed up numerous opportunities to score and found an almost insurmountable barrier in Taugher in the Kingston nets. The Kingston boys waited for their opportunities and when they came took good advantage of them, their finish around the goal being much more effective than that of Calgary. The defence of both teams was strong and honors were just about even, with Vess of Kingston probably the best. Both forward lines had a lot of difficulty in controlling the puck, which rolled continually on the soft ice. Thompson, Canadians' star centre man, was the best man on the ice, working hard throughout the entire game. He was robbed of several goals by Taugher's fine work, but his efforts were finally rewarded with the only goal of the final period. Close checking featured the contest, and this was watched closely by the officials, particularly in the second period when five penalties were handed out. Taking it all over, however, the game was clean, although the Canadians perhaps looked a little to excess. Kingston drew first blood when Vess beat the defence and gave Timmins no chance, after little more than a minute of play.

MAROONS BETTER AND PIRATES DIE FIGHTING HARD

Pittsburg Made Score 3-3 Tie at Montreal But Lose

PHILLIPS A STAR

Record Crowd Sees Game Replete With Sensations

Montreal, March 24.—The Maroons stepped up and scared the million dollar Mane last night when they held Pittsburg Pirates to a 3-3 tie and then won the contest 6-4.

The game was witnessed by 11,000 people and they had thrills every second of the co-nuuter.

The Maroons entered the game set on advancing into the final round and their followers were so they ex and wait for the breaks to come, banking on one goal as enough to take the fight out of the Pirates.

Pittsburgh, on the other hand, took the ice to the cheers of their faithful followers, determined to cut down the Maroons' lead and get right back in the hunt. As a move to steady the young and speedy Pirates in their uphill fight, Manager Odie Cleghorn stripped for action, the first time he has been in uniform for a league game in several weeks.

Odie Cleghorn won his point for permission to enter the fray, when just before the game he was informed by President Calder that there was nothing in the rules to prevent Cleghorn from letting out one of his men to the reserve list and putting himself on the active strength of the club.

Montreal's strategy proved to be the "cat's whiskers" for before the first period ended they had notched two goals to nothing, sitting pretty as that moment four goals up on the round. But the Pirates much improved over the previous game in Pittsburg were not beaten and indeed finished very strongly. Phillips and Pench Broadhurst, however were on the top of their form and Darragh who scored for the Pirates was lucky to get clear to score.

Bill Phillips drew the cheers as Most real sound ripsnorters the first five minutes and went hath to careful hockey. Phillips' poke at mid-ice wrecked many a Pirate rush and his resultant attacks were brilliant forays.

While working the defensive game carefully, the Maroons were frequent attacks through individual rushes by Stewart, Siebert and Reg Noble.

Pittsburg's were dangerous when Roger Smith broke clear and flanked by Darragh and Milks had two defence men to trick. Darragh got the pass, but his shot was wide. Noble retaliated with a neat rush and on the return Pittsburgh counted. Darragh batting Brandiet on a pass out by McGroary.

But Pittsburgh's joy was short-lived. From the face-off Bill Phillips rushed and drove a terrific shot. He got by the Pirate defence half off-balance and shot the rebound into an open net as Worters rushed out to save.

Montreal was again four up on the series with the score at 6-2.

The final period was tense, the Maroons doing the what-ever-have-we-got stuff the Buccaneers out to "get it." They scored two on brilliant efforts and won deserved applause but that's all.

BEAT CHILD WITH POKER

Mother Put on Probation; "Revolting," Says Bench

Toronto, March 24.—Despite the insistence of fifteen-yearold William Stokes that his mother had never attempted to beat him with a red hot poker, Magistrate Browne in Police Court today found Mrs. Della Stokes guilty of causing bodily harm to her son. Mrs. Stokes was placed under probation for one year. The nine Stokes children and the household as a whole were put under the jurisdiction of the Children's Aid Society.

Two years ago William Stokes was taken to hospital, with his arms and by burnt. He declared his mother had beaten him with a red hot poker. Later, however, he made the statements which he repeated today, that he had "told a pack of lies," and in court he defended his mother. A brother and two sisters backed up William's statement that his hands had "got in the way" while his mother was waving the poker.

"Three kinds of tactics are both revolting and inhuman," Magistrate Browne remarked, saying that he would have to register a conviction.

The picture goes on to show how Big Jim has his story and almost ruins things in general for himself.

AT GRIFFIN'S

"Bright Lights," which opens Thursday at the Griffin Theatre, brings Charles Ray and Pauline Starke together for the first time, with exceeding ly happy results.

Ray again plays the lovable, bashful hero, the type that won him his greatest success. There is no other actor on the screen that is seeing this character in the manner that he does. The part of Tom Corbin gives him a marvelous opportunity to display his talent for pathos, and his comedy is the best he has ever done. It is played with utmost seriousness, and is therefore all the more amusing.

Pauline Starke scores in the role of Pansi Delaney, a Broadway chorus girl. Miss Starke's other weekly bevoy is an excellent foil for Mr. Ray, and their scenes together are delightful. She shows a remarkable aptitude for dancing, and an energy and vitality that should add many fans to her already large following.

James Tinhman is delightful as Gwendolyn, the chorus girl who is quite used until it hurts. She is one of the screen's most beautiful blondes, and in the first comedy role gives a finished performance.

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A TENT

One day as I was walking amongst some tents, I heard one say, "Once I was on a bush and lived in the open air. In a few days some people came and picked me off the bush I was on. They brought me to a mill. There I was made into canvas.

"Then I was shipped to a factory and was made into a tent. I was then shipped to a store and stayed there quite a few days. Then a man came into the store and asked another man to show him some tents. The man showed him the tents and went on to his own business.

"He took a long time figuring what tents to get, for he wanted good canvas. At last he came to me and took me. Then he went on hunting for some more tents and he took some of my best friends and bought us. He took us out of the store and brought us to his home. Then he went camping, and that's where I am now."

TAYLOR SLAYER NOW IDENTIFIED

Authorities Declare Woman Kin of Actress Was the Killer

ABOUT 50 YEARS OLD

Insufficient Evidence is Blamed for Absence of Prosecution

Hollywood, N.J., March 23.—The woman who killed William Desmond Taylor, motion picture director four years ago, doubtless smiled grimly when she read in Los Angeles papers the report that District Attorney Asa Keyes was in New York investigating new clues bearing on the case. Many persons here are firmly convinced that if Attorney Keyes could persuade certain people right here to tell what they know there would be no further mystery to the killing of Desmond.

Many in the movie colony and some police officials here have no doubt that they actually know the name and residence of the matron who shot the debonair director that dark night.

WOMAN HELD SLAYER

According to motion picture producer who was an intimate friend of Taylor, the director was killed by a woman in male attire—by a relative of a prominent woman ruler in the films whom the woman who committed the act believed was being drawn into intimacy by Taylor.

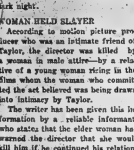

The writer has been given this information by a reliable informant, who states that the elder woman had warned the director that she would kill him if he continued his relations with the girl. These alleged relations included the playing with liquor and drugs.

Taylor is said to have told friends that he feared vengeance from the woman and meant to be careful. Members of the woman's family and police know the woman left home in male attire the night the director was killed, but she defied detectives who questioned her to produce any evidence against her.

Police, though convinced that she shot Taylor, were unable to get sufficient proof to warrant an arrest. Persistent efforts to build up a case that would stand up in court failed and the attempt was abandoned.

The woman is now about 50 years old. She is seen on Hollywood boulevard frequently she once had many friends in the motion picture industry, but today takes little part in the colony's social life.

She is not severely condemned by those who know, the facts, the belief being that she was driven to the verge of insanity by Taylor's affair with the young relative. Police who took part in the original investigation are also charitably disposed toward the woman. There is only a remote possibility that she ever will be called to account by the law. So far as Hollywood is concerned the Taylor murder has reached a stage where nobody cares, but a number do smile when they read that District Attorney Keyes is seeking new clues in New York.

REGINALD FRANK STONE

St. Catharines, Ont.—"During my first expectant period I was in very poor health, was very nervous, suffered from morning sickness, had backache, and abdominal pains. I was as miserable as could be. Then a friend learned of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and after I began taking it I got along fine; it relieved me of the morning sickness, pains and distress then my back and sides and I grew well and strong. Was able to do my own work the remainder of the time. I experienced very little suffering and had a fine healthy baby, who has never had a day's sickness except slight colds. I was very glad to know of a medicine as valuable as the 'Prescription' proved to be."—Mrs. Reginald Stone, 66 Hayes Ave. All dealers.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"Bosh-rangers," continued Mr. Hendricks. "They represent out there our Dick Turpins and Claude Duvals of olden times, and if they are not so romantic they are quite as picturesque, and, I fancy, rather daring and dangerous. I heard of them when I was staying at a place called Hoof's Glen—a wild out-of-the-way place in which an enterprising old Scotch farmer had squatted. He told me all about them.... It appeared, from his account, that the band consisted of about eighteen or twenty men. They were of all sorts and kinds, but all of them splendid riders, and all of them audacious vagabonds of the first water."

The marquis rose from his lounging attitude and came toward the group, and dropped into a chair opposite Cora Glazier in a manner that rather indicated the wish of a host to play the part of polite listener to a guest than any desire to hear the recital.

Constance, looking up for a moment, saw that his face still bore the absent, preoccupied expression which she had noticed it had worn since he entered the room.

"These men get their diplomacy living by plundering the settlers and travelers," continued Mr. Hendrick, "and their modus operandi——"

"What's that?" demanded Aral, as Mr. Hendrick waited until the laugh her had subsided.

"Quite right to rebuke me for using Latin before ladies, Lord Lanchcock," he said "I ought to have said that their way of going to work was to swoop down upon some lone man and demand a certain sum of money. If it was paid, well and good; the rascals rode off with that, doing no more any injury, and there was an end of it. If not, the rest of the men—the farmer, perhaps—was taken as hostage, and kept until he was ransomed."

"The old game the Italian brigands always play, eh, Wolfe?" remarked Lord Ellice.

"This had been going on for some time, with more or less success for the rangers, and there was not much stir made; in new communities lawlessness is always existent to a certain extent, and one gets to reckon it in the estimate of profit and loss.

Aral looked rather puzzled.

"I hope he won't use too long words, Miss Graham," he whispered.

"He can't help it; he writes books," said the marquis, bending forward with a smile, and speaking in a low tone.

"People put up with them just as we grant and pardon age put up with Turpin, Dick and John Flood and his merry men; but, all the same, a great many attempts were made to catch them. And sometimes they succeeded in getting a stray member of the band——"

"And what did they do with them?" put in Aral, eagerly.

"Shoot them in front of half a dozen men armed with guns, and—shot them!"

"Without a trial! Oh!"

"Without a trial! Yes, no power to all attempts to get hold of them fail ed, and worse—though you'll think it my heiress in some respects—barbarous—instead of being content with plundering folks upon settlements. They'd swoop the sentered fame, the band made attacks in the middle of the night, and one of the most important of the settlers, and off with him before he was scarcely awake. Then they'd lie in wait for wallthy travelers going to the big cities with their money, and more audacious still, they did not restrain to attack and pillage a government convoy once carrying bullion to Melbourne. This, of course, was getting too serious. You may plunder private individuals with more or less impunity, but when you attack the State and rob the government—oh, dear me!"

The marquis joined in the smile.

"Well—and what did the government do? Did it try and catch them?" demanded Aral.

"It did, very hard, and all it knew; but all its efforts were of no avail. For you see, Aral, the band had not a new member, a new chief, a new leader, and he was a remarkably clever fellow."

Aral drew a long breath.

"Tell us about him, please," he said, eagerly.

Mr. Hendrick nodded smilingly.

"I'm afraid there isn't much to tell. Nobody knew anything about him, excepting that it was an Englishman. Young and singularly plucky and handsome, and that he was supposed to be of better position and of higher class than the men on whom he became chief."

"Quite a romance!" said Lady Ruth.

"And was nothing more known of him than that?"

"No," replied Mr Hendrick: "He, with several others, the most prominent members of the band, always made a mark when they were on their expeditions, and his name—that is, his real name—never transpired. He was generally called Ben Gunderson Jack——"

"Oh, come, Hendrick," remonstrated Lord Ellice, "you are treating us to a chapter out of a boy's book of adventures! Or are you doing it for the amusement of Aral?"

The great traveler turned calm and smilingly.

"It does sound rather like an ultrasensational story, doesn't it?" he said. "But I assure you it is all true, and that I am not coloring it for effect or any other reason. I could recount half a hundred of this young fellow's exploits which for cool audacity and daring would match any of the most wide heroes of the dead and gone highwaymen heroes—ah, and give you greater pathos verse for them. Why, the Australian papers were full of his doings, and for some time he and his faithful band of rascals were the subject of conversation at every dinner table in the Australian colonies."

"Astounding! And this in the end of the nineteenth century!" a sid Lady Ruth.

Mr. Hendrick nodded.

"Yes, but civilization is in its infancy over there; you must not forget all," he said. "What is quite possible and easy in the Bush is quite impossible here in England with its numerous population, and elaborate detective and police system."

"And what became of him—this Gentleman Jack? What an absurd, sensational name it is!" inquired Lord Elliot.

"Ah, let us hear that, Mr. Hendrick," said the duchess, with a little shiver.

He was leaning back in his chair, with one hand thrust into his pocket, the other lying on his knee, the personific ation of polite, listless attention.

"I tell my story badly——"

"It is the interruptions," put in Lady Ruth.

"But I am coming to a denouement. While I was over there the band had been decimating themselves by some particularly daring and audacious exploits. They had stopped a guvern-

Evidence Was Startling—De troit Man Admitted Rum-Running

BROKE VOLSTEAD ACT

Had No Desire However, To Smash Canadian Law

After hearing most interesting evidence and argument in the case of the seizure of a C. N. R. car here containing liquor Police Magistrate Masson reserved judgment.

Mr. H. C. Donnan, County Attorney appeared on behalf of license Inspector Nathan while Mr. J. H. Haverson, K. C., of Toronto, and Mr. Furlong of Windsor, were present to look after interested parties.

The evidence of Frank Parker, to whom the car was shipped from Montreal with destination at Ford City, was somewhat of a sensational nature. He testified that he lived at the Clayton Hotel, in Detroit, Mich., and that he bought the car of liquor in question from a party who was interested in the Dominion distillers at Montreal The sale was made at Detroit and paid for in cash. He heard of the car being held up through his solicitor, Mr. Furlong, of Windsor.

To Mr. Donnan the witness stated he had lived in Detroit for 15 years. His occupation was that of handling liquor. He was a member of a syndicate four of whom resided in Chicago. They had no trade number. He was the actual purchasers of the liquor seized in the car and it cost $52,800. He as one of the owners made the deal through.

In answer to an question from Mr. Donnan, witness said the Volstead Act was in force in Detroit and that he was violating it. He had never sold liquor in Canada and had not broken any Canadian laws and had no desire to do

DEFER DECISION ABOUT BIDWELL

House of Bishops Considers Matter, But Declines to Issue Statement

Toronto, March 25.—At a meeting of the House of Bishops of the Ecclesiastical Province of Ontario of the Church of England in Canada, held at the Church House, Jarvis Street, yesterday, the resignation of Right Rev. E. J. Bidwell, D.D., D.C.L. as Bishop of Ontario, was considered. No announcement of the action taken was made, but Right Rev. David Williams, Bishop of Huron, who presided, said that a statement would be issued shortly.

When Bishop Bidwell submitted his resignation to the House of Bishops last fall it was unanimously declined. Later, he informed the Synod of the Diocese of Ontario of his intention to retire from office on April 15. Before he can do so, however, he must under canon law have the consent of the Metropolitan the Most Rev. Dr. Thorneloe, and the other Bishops of the Province.

UNITED CHURCH OPPOSES BILL

Efforts to Give New Powers To Property Board In Committee

Toronto, March 25.—The Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Legislature this afternoon killed by a vote of 22 to 21, the bill moved by A. C. Lewis, Conservative, Toronto North East which would give to the Ontario Church Property Commission power to enforce its recommendations.

Toronto, Mar. 25.—G. W. Mason, K.C., representing the United Church of Canada was under heavy fire at the Private bills committee of the legislature this morning, when he opposed the bill introduced by A. C. Lewis, North East Toronto, which would amend the Church Union act passed last session, so that the Church Property Commission would have power to make orders to alleviate hardship notwithstanding any previous disposition of the case.

Mr. Mason said he had instructions from the United Church of Canada to facilitate anything that would make for a friendly settlement.

W. S. Haney, Conservative, Lambton said he had not observed anything of the kind at Queen's Park. The chief attack on Mr. Mason arose out of the Owen Sound case, where the Property Commission had recommended that the United Church should sell the church to the Presbyterians for $20,000 and which recommendation has been ignored. This, Mr. Mason said was physically impossible. W. Finlayson, Conservative, Simcoe, said it was his belief that if the Rev. Dr. G. C. Pidgeon of the United Church would go to Owen Sound and spend half an hour in trying to settle the affair an arrangement could be made in half an hour.

BLAZE IN FIREMANS HOME CAUSES LOSS IN KITCHEN

It is seldom that a member of the fire brigade is called from the fire hall to attend a fire when is threatening his own home.

This, however, was the experience which last night befell Fireman Wilbert A. Carter who is stationed at what is known as No. 1 hall. At a few minutes before 10 o'clock Mrs. Carter sent in an alarm that a fire was raging at her home, 60 George street south. At the time, some friends were in the front part of the house and Mrs. Carter hearing a noise in the kitchen repaired to the part of the house and was startled to discover that the upper portion of the kitchen was ablaze. As soon as possible the fire brigade was upon the scene and while the house was saved from destruction, it was badly wrecked, the upper portion and roof being destroyed. While the loss by fire and water amounts to several hundred dollars, it is covered by insurance. How the fire originated is not known as at the time there was no fire in the kitchen stove. It is thought that an electric wire may have in some manner ignited the frame work.

Toronto, Mar. 25.—The Brackin amendment to the Budget speech was defeated this morning after an all-night session of the Legislature by a vote of 84 to 10. This amendment favored the sale of liquor in Ontario under a system of Government Control.

Further debate on the Ontario Government Liquor Policy is assured, in the view of fact that the bill by J. A. Currie, Conservative Toronto South East awaits a second hearing. Col. Currie's bill provides for Government control and the sale of liquor.

WARKWORTH FIRE INQUEST TONIGHT

Coroner Dr. W. F. Loucks Will Conduct Investigation

Considerable interest is manifested in the inquest to be held this evening at Warkworth to enquire when, where and how Mrs. Dr. West her child came to their deaths.

Dr. W. F. Loucks, coronor, will be in charge of the proceedings.

It will be remembered that at an early hour on Tuesday morning the 9th inst. Dr. West's home was destroyed by fire and his wife and young son.

FIRE REVIEWED

At the preliminary hearing of the coroner's inquest it was brought out that when neighbors came to the house Dr. West was found down stairs partially dressed, and was apparently dazed by the smoke. An attempt was made to get upstairs by means of the stairway but it was impossible to penetrate the thick cloud of smoke that belched out on opening the door. A ladder was raised to the window outside but the smoke prevented entrance by this means also. Soon the whole top of the house was ablaze, and being a frame structure, was demolished in a short time.

POLICE THERE

Inspector Gurnett of the Provincial police force in this city has been since the fire making a thorough investigation of the affair and this will be brought out at to-night's session.

COWAIN INQUEST MAY BE HERE

Helper Cassibo is Not Expected to Live—Details

The remains of the late Richard Cowain who died yesterday morning as a result of an explosion in a thorspar mine near Madoc, will be brought to Belleville from Peterboro tomorrow afternoon and placed in the Belleville Mausoleum vault, pending the inquest.

Adam Cassibo, the man who was with Mr. Cowain at the time of the accident is more seriously hurt than was at first thought and is at present in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough suffering from a fractured skull which will probably prove fatal.

Inspector E. C. Garnett has instructed Constable N. F. Maker to make a report on the accident.

THE MINE

The mine in which the fatality occurred came into prominence in August last year, when several Peterborough men combined to develop it. The ore was discovered eight years ago by Edward James Cowain, Tweed, father of the victim of yesterday's tragedy, and the mining rights acquired by him were taken over by the Dominion Resources Syndicate.

MABEL NORMAND FREED OF ANY PART IN TAYLOR CASE

Chicago, March. 25.—Mabel Normand, screen actress, has "long since been completely exonerated of any connection with the murder of William Desmond Taylor", said Asa Keyes, District Attorneys of Los Angeles County here today. He said the queries he planned to ask her upon his return to Los Angeles were "only for minor importance and on a general nature". The Chicago Herald and Examiner today said that evidence so far uncovered had focused attention upon a woman well known in Hollywood, not an actress who previously had not been under suspicion.

SOVIET'S VODKA BUSINESS PAYS 10% OF STATE REVENUES

Moscow, Mar. 25.—Russia is developing an insatiable thirst for vodka. Although the Government within the last six months has more than doubled its output of vodka it has been unable to meet the demands of the population for the national drink. According to figures announced today Government will produce 500,000,000 quarts of vodka during the coming year which will yield state about $250,000,000 of revenue or ten percent of the entire budget.

CANCER DANGER IF LEFT ALONE SURGERY CURES

Dr. G. H. Stobie Makes Important Satement Before Moira Lodge

DEATH RATE GROWS

People Aged 40 To Be most Likely to Develop Malady

Early treatment—surgical treatment is the only cure for cancer the medical profession declares.

Cancer is deadly if allowed time to develop. It should be the duty of everyone who knows that to see that his neighbor is warned and that every means possible is taken to have them given treatment. This will not prevent cancer from occurring but it will prevent it in many cases from killing.

This was impressed on his audience by Dr. G. H. Stobie who spoke before Moira Lodge A. F. & A. M. last evening on "What the Public Should Know about Cancer."

In the past, the medical profession was considered to be a more or less secret profession. It was also considered ethical to tell the laity anything about the origin or growth of disease; but recently, during the education of the public, there has been a great deal accomplished in the control of communicable diseases, such as small pox, tuberculosis, Typhoid fever—by improved sanitation, and I think it the duty of the medical profession to educate the laity in regard to diseases, that can be controlled only thro' the co-operation of the laity and the profession, and tonight I am going to try and acquaint you with one of the three or four diseases that claim the greatest number of victims—Cancer.

Cancer, according to statistics, is responsible for one in every nine deaths throughout the civilized world; to say nothing of the untold suffering and deformity which it causes.

In Canada, the death rate is 78 per 100,000 per year, with the provinces of British Columbia heading the list and Quebec with the lowest death rate. In U. S. A. the death rate is 80 per 100,000 per year.

During the years 1921-22-23-24, there were 20,426 deaths in Canada from Cancer. In the year 1924 there were 4,366 deaths from Cancer in Canada. In the year 1924 there were 5,359 deaths from the bone disease in Canada, an increase per year of 1076 within our years.

So you see how rapidly the incidence of cancer is increasing; whereas, on the other hand, the death rate from diseases such as Smallpox—Typhoid, etc., is decreasing, due to methods of prevention and treatment.

But the Nature and Origin of Cancer are yet unknown. Cancer is an unsolved medical problem in spite of the millions of dollars that are spent each year. In spite of the numerous writers in numerous articles on the subject, we do not write their whole time to the problem.

There are two theories upon which investigators are working. Namely, that it is caused by "Bacteria. If Cancer is caused by bacteria it is a type of bacteria that differs from any known bacter is at present. Second—That some cells in one of various tissues of the body take on abnormal uncontrolled growth and invade all other tissues wherever the cells may be, the fact remaining that Cancer is a frequent, dreadful and dead ly disease. Not knowing its cause it is impossible to determine the predisposing factors.

Statistics tell us that it is much more common among civilized races, than among primitive races—in fact it is practically unknown among primitive people) This would naturally make one think that it was caused by something common to civilization, something to do with our type of food; its mode of preparation or cooking. It is also more among white people than black.

SEX—is not a predisposing factor, he says there are an equal number of cases of disease in both sexes, but in the females we find the greater number of

RECORDS STOLEN FROM RAILROAD FREIGHT OFFICE

Sensation in Customs Committee on Report From Rock Island

POLICE SENT THERE

Outward Documents Covering Shipments Between 1821 and 1925 Taken

Ottawa, March 24.—Private officers of the Boston and Maine Railroad at Rock Island, Que., were mysteriously burglarized last night, and outward freight documents covering shipments between 1821 and 1825 were stolen after hours, after auditors had commenced examining them in behalf of the customs probe committee.

FRANTIC APPEAL.

Rifled in the inquiry they are making into operations of a score of garment firms located in Rock Island frontier factories, and fearing for other papers they are seeking into at Derby Line the auditors sent to the committee began a frantic appeal for protection for all documents they are likely to need, an abject specified that they want the protection to cover both Canadian and American sides of the line, since it now appears that Newport, Vt., is their last source of information. The telegram was answered with immediate instructions to K. L. Calder, K.C., the investigation counsel, to act at once. Agents of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are sped to the Canadian frontier points, there to guard the documents which the committee auditors will indicate to them. And Mr. Calder is communicating with United States authorities to effect an equally efficient guard south of the line.

INTERPOUNDED

Committee members were dumbfounded at the news from the Quebec frontier. The Hon. H. H. Stevens, father of the probe, was particularly incensed, especially since the burglary report followed a memorandum, also from the Rock Island shifters, that little is apparently being found in the shape of books and documents in the premises of the Peerless Overall Company, a firm in connection with which A. J. Bissonnet, M.L.A., at Quebec for Stanstead County, is under examination by the committee.

"We will wait for Mr. Bissonet," remarked the Hon. Mr. Stevens grimly, as it was announced that the committee is due here on Friday. After the assistant committee had calmed sufficiently to listen to evidence, it came out that in 1920, when J. A. B. Blaiklock and Ludger Brien were running a liquor business as a side line to customs work, Blaiklock, with the knowledge of A. E. Giroux, his chief at the time, had overtime pay lists padded. The witness responsible for the statement was L. B. Parteson, who swore that he often made out overtime pay slips for Blaiklock during the day. Thirteen did Blaiklock's overtime for him, and Blaiklock drew his cheque. The witness, however, added that he had received $125 from Blaiklock for the extra work he had done.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago—Wheat scored an early upturn today, influenced by unexpected strength of Liverpool market and by decided falling off in this weeks estimated shipments from Argentina. Opening prices 1-8 cent to 7-8 cent higher were followed by material further gains. Corn and oats were easy, owing to evidence slowness of demand after opening unchanged to 1-8 cent higher. May 72 1-4 to 72 1-2 corn underwent a moderate general sag.

RATES OF EXCHANGE

New York—Sterling exchange steady demand rates in cents: Great British 485 7-8. Canadian dollars 932 of one per cent discount.

NO PARADE FOR KIDDIES IS CIRCUS SEASON NOTE

Peru, Ind., Mar. 24.—The annual circus season this year will lack one of its greatest thrills for the children.

The circus parade, it has been decided by chosen here, is to be abandoned. The high priced performers, especially the Europeans, will not parade. The mile circuses now visit only the large cities, it is explained, and nowaday traffic problems and the growing distance of the circus lot from the railroad make the parade physically impossible.

Ten years ago there were twenty circuses with a train of ten or more railroad cars. Now there are only a dozen, but these have expanded until the largest circus in the country travels with 1,500 persons and the small her ones carry about 600.

The three circuses which spend the winter here have finished their winter overhauling, which includes inspection, repair and a fresh coat of paint.

There are about 250 on the permanent staff of these three, and these mostly the "canvasmen" of the traveling days, are the nucleus around which is forming the handmen, acrobatic teams and other specialties. The animal trainers, however, have been here all winter as usual, for the animals must be put through their stunts every day, else they quickly forget.

BRITISH ELECTION COSTS

London, Mar. 24.—The general election in the United Kingdom in October 1924 cost candidates 321,165 pounds. Premier Baldwin's election cost him 191 pounds, Winston Churchill's cost 1,078 pounds, Lloyd George's 668 pounds, Ramsay MacDonald's 950 pounds and Sir William Joynson-Hicks 1,116 pounds.

TEMPERATURES

Fresh winds turning colder is promised by the probs for to-morrow and possibly that will be correct. Yesterday and to-day comparatively mild weather prevailed with a light fall of snow and rain. The temperature yesterday and a year ago that date was as follows:

March 24, 1926—	42	32
March 24, 1925—	53	24.

BRISK BUYING HELPS MARKET

New York, March 25.—Liquidation of stocks continued on a large scale in today's market but strong buying support was apparently in some of the high grade industrial issues. Calling on about $10,000,000 additional in loans which sent the call money renewal rate to five percent and a sharp break of over 2 points on B'klyn. had a depressing effect on speculative sentiment. Bear traders had little difficulty in picking out the new weak spots. Renewal of selling of such issues as U. S. Steel Common, Mack trucks and Hudson failed to break them below yesterday's low levels.

OVER 50 MEN COME TO FARMS

British Training Depot In Suffolk Supplies Contingent.

KNOW ABOUT CANADA

Lectures and Movies Have Told Them What To Expect

Montreal, Que., Mar. 25.—Representatives of the Canadian National Railways will establish supervision from Ipswich, Eng., to Toronto, Ont. of the first group of men to come forward to the Dominion from the first training farm established in Great Britain by the Ministry of Labor.

This party of single men will number at least 52 and will sail from Liverpool on the Alaunia, Canard line, on Saturday of this week. With the party will also travel H. C. T. Black, who has full charge of these men during their training at the Claydon training farm, and who is desirous of learning at first hand of farming conditions in Canada.

This group will land at Halifax and when arrangements will have been completed by officials of the department of colonization, agriculture and Natural resources, Canadian National Railways will proceed to Toronto where they will be placed on farms in Ontario. These men form the first representatives of a new scheme designed to place young Britishers on the land it is thought that this plan will prove more efficacious in supplying the farm laborneeds of Canada than by taking practical experienced farm workers now scarce in the old land and the only fully employed class.

Advices from Canadian National Railways officials who saw these men at Claydon, are to the effect that they are a very fine lot and suggest that they ought to get along very well in their new surroundings. It is said that there are now more than 200,000 men between the ages of 20 and 25 years in Great Britain unemployed and eligible for such training.

Canadian representatives have lectured to the men training and they have also had the benefit of the special courses of lectures prepared under the direction of Dr. W. J. Black and which have proven so successful in describing agricultural conditions in this country.

FREIGHT RATES MAY BE CUT

Canadian National Afraid Of Retaliation From U. S. Roads

Ottawa, March 25.—Possibility of a freight rate war with American roads was not before the railway board this morning by representatives of the Canadian National Railways in replying to the application of Quebec Port Authorities for a lower grain rate on the National Transcontinental. F. J. Watson admitted that he was seriously alarmed at the likelihood of retaliation if Canadian grain rates were reduced. It would mean a sharp cut in rates from the Middle Western States to the Atlantic seaboard and Canadian Railways and ports would suffer in consequence.

REVENGE IS SWIFT "SQUEALER" IS SLAIN

Chicago, Ills., March 25.—Robert LaScrty, 24, suspected of having revealed to police the hiding place of William J. White and Thomas Thope, identified as members of a rubber band, was shot to death while he lay asleep early today. Expert in Editorial, Advertising Work Gives Tips to Men Who Use Newspaper

The following is a summary of Mr. R. Kirby's talk before the Minnesota Editorial Association Convention at the Nicollet Hotel, Minneapolis on February 20th last.

This address was taken up by the Associated Press and publishers in ten thousand newspapers throughout the United States. It is of prime importance to business men.

Before we make any attempt to reach the heart of this discussion it would be well for us to ask just what is the function of the newspaper—what is its true field and how to the course of newspaper development the field has been rapidly broadened? In other words, what has been the evolution of our conception of news?

Most of the distortions, fables, wierd accounts of the happenings of the past exist because there was no press—no body of trained observers and interpreters of the events of the day.

Exactly how true that is was brought home to me some years ago when I happened to hear a most remarkable story of a farmer's wife being charged with what was commonly known down from the haymow in the barn and according to the story the indictment was then thrown to a pig sty. As the story went the assailant entered the house, disguised himself as a woman, appropriating clothes he found in the house for this purpose, and after having robbed the place he left the premises walking backwards to cover the dirty driveway in order to confuse the pursuers.

Now this alleged assault had taken place just after the weekly papers of the county had come out and as there were no daily papers in that immediate district the story went around before the weekly papers again went to press. In the meantime the story was investigated by representatives of the various papers of the county and was entirely disproved. The investigations of the newspaper men showed that the woman was subject to sudden fainting spells, and undoubtedly she suffered from just such a spell as she was coming down from the haymow in the barn. So it turned out that without the corrective power of the newspapers an entirely false account of this occurrence would have been established and a new local legend would have been accepted as an absolute fact.

So here we see the newspaper as a stabilizer of our collective life—as a destroyer of false rumors—as an accurate chronicle of the events of the day. But the field of the newspaper is wider than that—

Its field is the realm of news and whatever is news and consistent with good public policy is the newspapers' concern.

Bearing in mind the requirement of news meeting up with good public policy—news may be defined as any event of natural public interest and importance. The great bulk of the public has not been informed.

Gradually our conception of news and our understanding of news has broadened. There was a day when no real understanding of news existed and no established standard by which news might be graded in importance.

The treatment of news in its present news story form—its grading and rating as to importance—is largely a development of James Gordon Bennitts, the elder. It was he who very largely laid the foundations of news treatment as it is followed in the newspaper world today.

To such men as Horace Greeley, Henry Watterson and Charles Dana we owe the development of the editorial page—the interpreting and developing the significance of the day's news beyond the mere recording of it in the news columns.

To Victor Lawson, late publisher of the Chicago Daily News, we owe another valuable extension of the conception of the newspaper. To him more largely than to any other individual we are indebted for perceiving that in such common place as household hints, menus, recipes, bedtime stories for children, dress patterns and manifold other bits of information there was news of vital interest to a great portion of the newspaper reading public. Today this service extends to care of the health, the automobile, the radio and to numberless other matters of intimate concern to the average individual.

Still I believe our conception of the function of the newspaper is too narrow. There is still another field where the newspaper must assume its function as a broadcaster of news and that field is advertising. Too many of our newspaper men of today especially the newspaper men of the smaller cities and towns look askance at the question of advertising. They fear lest they shall become a sordid ballyhooer of wares—a mere carrier of advertising and lose their character as a purveyor of news. To them advertising is a necessary evil, let the business office look after it but do not bring its significance too close to the editorial sanctum; hold it in its own sphere rigidly and do not let it conflict with our main business of giving the news and aiding in the guidance of the public policy through editorial expression.

Gentlemen, I believe this attitude a fundamental misconception for it is my first tenet that advertising is news and the advertising that is not news is not advertising—it is simply words in print.

It follows then that the advertising appearing in your columns is not the concern of the advertiser alone but it is your concern—its appearance, its make up, its message and its success is vitally your concern and above all its truth is your concern.

As publishers of local newspapers in town ranging in population from 500 to 25,000 you are the first line of defense for the social and economic structure of the country as it is today as against that which many conditions are tending to force upon us.

Primarily upon how attractively through your newspapers your local business people present their offerings, present the buying opportunities afforded by their establishments depends where the people of your community will do their buying. Upon where your community does its buying—at home or abroad—depends the economic development of your respective cities and towns.

You must be merchandisers today. You must understand the problems of your local business people and advise with them—guide them in their advertising—make them into advertisers or you will lose business entirely along via the automobile and good roads to other towns while your town falls by and languishes for want of the business necessary to make it prosper.

Of what value will it be finally to your community if you have carried it consistently for the Republican or Democratic party, or have seen to it that a competent man has gone to district consistently if you fail in the other great mission? You can gain all the rest and still lose all unless you have your local business men and working effectively shoulder to shoulder to keep up the business progress of your community. Otherwise the day will come, and shortly, when no one will care whether your community goes Republican or Democratic or even whether it stays put left there to make it of the slightest consequence.

America is no longer a series of isolated communities. It is a closely knit organization of urban and rural centers and the fittest shall survive.

To urge a closer working between the local newspaper and the other business establishments of your communities. There should be represen tatives of the various mercantile associations of Minnesota here today by your invitation, to present their advertising needs—to point the way whereby you can be of greater service to them and when they convene your representatives likewise should be there, co-operation is the keynote of business today.

Dell Bingers. Mail Order Houses, big city department stores and chain store combinations, gigantic in size tremendously rapid in growth are massed against the independent retailer of the smaller centers. Yet that independent retailer combined with you can lick them all.

Teach your retailers to specialize—be clothiers, dry goodsmen, hardware dealers, grocers or shoe dealers. Don't have jacks of all trades and masters of none as your business men. Have stocks that present an assortment that are well bought and then for Heaven's sake teach them how to advertise—how to cash in locally on the national advertising.

DR. WATSON'S TONIC AND STOUT

Builds Up Your Health

Read What It Has Done For Others

Jan. 6th, 1926.

Gentlemen:

After suffering for a long time from indigestion, constipation and headaches, a friend of mine persuaded me to try your tonic, from which he said he had received great benefit, his case being identical with my own. My condition steadily improved, and now my appetite is good, my bowels work perfectly and the headaches are a thing of the past.

I am pleased with Dr. Watson's Tonic and Stout.

Yours truly,

Know advertising yourself—it will not hurt you. Each one of you I wager has been letting thousands of dollars of business slip through your fingers and thousands more slip out of your communities and you primarily are responsible.

This is a vital question. Continual concentration of business in gigantic concerns in metropolitan centers will destroy the opportunity for independent business careers. It will develop a small class of big business men and an enormous group of wage workers—destroy the small towns and further crowd the overcrowded cities. An unhealthy development; one you would not want your growing boys to live under and one you can now successfully combat.

And how is this to be done? I would say through your association. Why not maintain a field starting with one man and gradually expanding? Use him to assist you in educating your retailers. Have him analyze your local situations—prepare advertising campaigns, standard ize your rates according to circulation (by the way keep after that circulation) have your circulation guaranteed through the A. B. C. and advertise yourselves through Printers' Ink and direct mail. When you land national advertising make your local dealers hook up with it. Hook up his newspaper advertising with direct mail broadsides printed by you. Such a man can keep you informed of the seasonal advertising opportunities of your retailers and enable you both to capitalize upon them. This step rightly carried out this work developed also to protect you from hostile legislation will pay dividends almost from the first day.

Your business opportunities are greater than your business dangers—make them pay you. Be proud of your function as a carrier of advertising and remember the advertising in your columns is the most vital news you carry and has the greatest power for the weal or woe of your community. This news called advertising well prepared, timely in presentation and message backed by good merchandise means dollars spent at home and prosperous home business to build up your communities and thriving towns to preserve for future generations the opportunities for prosperous and independent business careers.

FAIRIES IN IRELAND

Horns of Elfland Heard Blowing Near Milltown

London, March 23.—The horns of Elfland have been heard blowing recently near Milltown, Ireland, and hundreds of people have been travelling daily to a clump of bush, recently cut down, whence the uncanny music is said to proceed. While none could be found who claimed to have seen "the little folk," or fairies, many declared they could hear strange, haunting melodies.

According to the story, a tiny figure dressed in red has been seen mounted on a horse near the bush. The old folks say Ireland never has been good times since the fairies departed and that now that they have returned, brighter days may be ex-

Woman Suffered Nearly a Year. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Brought Her Health

Moose Jaw, Sask.—"I am going to try to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered very badly with dragging-down pains and inflammation, also pains in my right side over my hip and down my whole side to my leg. I had it nearly a year when I went to a doctor and he said I would have to have an operation. But my mother said to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it saved her life years before. I took two bottles and I found I was better, so I kept on taking it and also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I have had seven children since then and am perfectly well. I used to have to lie down two or three times a day, and now I do all my housework without trouble. In many ways keep the Vegetable Compound in the house as I find a dose now and then helps me. I am willing for you to use this letter any way you see fit and I will answer letters. If I can help any other woman I'd be only too glad to try."—Mrs. ESTHER HOUGHTON, 715 Athabasca W., Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan.

FERGUSON REPLY DEFT TO RANEY TO MAKE CHARGE

"Cigar Box Scandals" Insinuation Brings Threat Of Legal Action

PREMIER IS WRATHY

Says U.F.O. Leader Has Not Courage to Repeat Statement Outside

Toronto, March 25.—Insinuating that Premier Ferguson, as one of the members of the Hearst Government at present sitting in the House should know the details of the "cigar box scandal," Progressive Leader Raney in the Legislature today this morning drew upon himself the threat of legal prosecution by the Premier. The "cigar box" scandal was one of the matters aired at Kingston last year when the Public Accounts Committee interviewed Charles Matthews, former Deputy Treasurer, upon occurrences in the Treasury Department back in the time of a former Conservative administration. Hon. Mr. Ferguson declared with genuine rage at the conclusion of Mr. Raney that he knew nothing of the alleged incident, and that he would resign if any connection with it were proven against him before any tribunal.

SAYS LEGAL ACTION

He further told the Progressive leader that he would take legal action against him if Mr. repeated the insinuation outside of the House, and that he would see in any event if he had any recourse for the suggestions which had already been made in the debate.

Mr. Raney: "I have long since passed the point when I attempt to answer the Prime Minister in kind. I have nothing to take back, because I have said nothing against him.

"I repeat one would have thought a member of this House who had been a member of the previous Government looking to what took place at Kingston, would have seen to it that the question asked Mr. Mathews, the answer to which was prevented, was answered."

HAD HIS ANSWER

Mr. Ferguson: "This is not the first time my friend has tried to destroy me, and he has sought to prostitute the courts, but he had his answer from the Province in 1923. He can make all the insinuations of which he is capable and he will get his answer when the next election comes."

Continuing, the Premier said: "If the member will have the courage to make his contemptible insinuations outside the House, where he will be answerable to law, I will give him ample opportunity to prove his contention, either in regard to the Home Bank bills or this present advertising matter. My friend has pursued a course that is beneath any public man I have ever come in contact with in this or in any other Legislature.

HASN'T COURAGE

"My friend hasn't the courage to make a charge against anybody. What he wants to do with his usual tactics is attempt to disseminate suspicion, villify everybody that he wants to criticize without using the courage that any honest man can. I cannot use the language in Parliament that I would like to say.

"I dare him to say outside the House what he has said here, and I say further that if any accusation he has made in this House with respect to me is published in his pet journal, or any other paper and I can make him answerable to law I will do it. I do not propose to rest under the suggestion of a man who has not the courage to make a charge and attempts to hide behind his usual methods of interface insinuation."

WOULD RESIGN

"I give the House and province the assurance that so far as I am personally concerned I have never had any thing to do with any of these transactions, nor any personal knowledge whatever of the matters my friend has discussed. He has not the decency to stand up and say he accepts that, and I give it to him as a public man and Prime Minister of the province, and if he or anybody else can prove anything to the contrary, the public will have my resignation the moment it is decided."

COURT RESERVES LIQUOR DCISION

so.

Mr. Donnan—Are you what is termed a rum runner.

Witness—I am a law breaker of my country and may be termed a rum-runner. Owing to a change in the Canadian law in regard to shipping liquor the car in question was to have been sent back to Montreal to be rebilled so he (the witness) could get it.

Mr. A. H. Dalzell, Collector of Customs at Windsor detailed how cars containing liquor come to that port and how the cargo was disposed of. There were several places along the border where it was reshipped. Dominion laws he contended were in every respect complied with.

To Mr. Donnan—All shipments of liquor on C.N.R. were billed to a point outside of the United States.

Mr. John Bulger in his evidence stated that he resided in Montreal and was Secretary-Treasurer of the Dominion Distillers Produce Company Limited and was operating under a Dominion license. The car of whiskey in question was sold to Mr. F. Parker, of Detroit.

Mr. Furlong—Why was it billed to Ford City.

Witness—Because it complied with the railway regulation. The railways will not ship liquor to the United States. The liquor was paid for by a man named F. Parker and was bought through one of the Directors of the distillers company. New regulations in regard to shipping liquor having come out after the car was shipped from Montreal it was stopped at Belleville and through C.N.R. officials a request was made to have the car rent back to Montreal for rebilling, but before this was done it was seized.

Mr. Donnon—Do you know Mr. Parker.

Witness—Mr. Parker is in Belleville now. I understand that Mr. Parker deals in liquor. No part of the deal in regard to this car of liquor took part in Ontario. Considerable liquor has been shipped to Ford City by Canadian railways. In this car in question there were 1000 cases of Walkerville whiskey which were placed in the car at Walkerville and it was then sent to Montreal where more cases were added.

This concluded the taking of evidence and argument was heard.

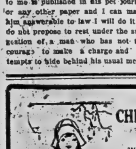

ROB ROY'S 'RENOVATION'

Highland Home of Mock-Soap Outlaw to be Modernized

Glasgow, Scotland, March 25.—Rob Roy's Glengyle house, on the border of Perthshire and Stirlingshire, where the famous Highland outlaw died in 1721, is to be modernized. It is to have electric call bells for the servants and incandescent lights for the benefit of its occupants and visitors.

The idea of doing away with candles and ancient oil lamps is that of the Glasgow municipality. Some of the townspeople regard the innovation a sacrilege. Rob Roy McGregor still has many romantic hold on the imagination of those persons familiar with the writings of Sir Walter Scott.

CANCER VERY DANGEROUS IF SURGERY NOT EMPLOYED

cancers occurring in the breast and Genitative Organs; whereas in the male, we find the larger number of cancers in the lip, tongue, stomach and intestines.

AGE—certainly is a factor of incidence. It is possible for cancer to occur in early life, but the most common age is just preceding senility. Between 40-50 years is the most dangerous time in life. Cancer is the aged, is not young men and not very malignant.

HEREDITY—is not considered by insurance companies to be a very strong factor of incidence; although the beliefs that youse cancer may be inherited.

Now let us consider what we think to be the exciting causes of cancer or at least help to determine the location of the cancer. It is generally believed that chronic irritation of tissue causes cancer, whether it be mechanical irritation, such as the irritation of the lip in the pipe smoking, or inflammatory irritation—such as ulceration of the stomach. 95% of ulcers of the stomach eventually become cancers. A great many warts, moles birth marks, chronic sores on the skin, that are repeatedly subject to injury and irritation, eventually turn to cancerous growths.

Cancer is always a localized disease in its beginning but as it grows and invades surrounding tissue, blood vessels are invaded and then the cancer cells float away into the circulating blood, and lodge in other organs and tissues, and begin to grow, forming generalized cancerous disease.

The control and prevention of any disease, depends upon a knowledge of its cause. And this is exactly what we do not possess in regard to Cancer. Therefore if we cannot abate the incidence of a disease, the next good thing we can do, is combat it when it does occur and keep the death rate as low as possible.

It is obvious our only hope resides in early diagnosis, and early treatment while the cancer is still localized. And this necessitates the education of the public as regards to importance of constant vigilance for suspicious lumps and chronic sores.

Is a sore curable? Yes, if removed thoroughly when it is still a local disease. Many of you have known people, who have had growths removed from the skin or lips or other regions, and have remained well for 5, 10 or 15 years without a recurrence. Those people were cured.

The two greatest causes of failure to cure cancer are; First; Neglect to remove cancer in its early stages, before it has become general in the treatment of cancers, some hoped were entertained that they were a cure, but now that sufficient time has elapsed for the infallible test of time to have been tried, the greatest optimist have been somewhat disappointed. These agents in conjunction with the knife are very useful in the treatment of superficial cancers. Removing a growth from the body can be compared to pulling a poisonous weed from your garden. You never feel quite certain that you are done with it until sufficient time has passed for the seed if any, to grow. X-Ray and Radium are excellent agents for killing the seeds when they lie close to the surface of the body, but unfortunately not much good for deep seated cancers.

I warn you, you or his sis, and those who

Now the object of this short talk is to soon will be, at the cancer age, to be constantly on the lookout, and NOT to neglect suspicious sores or lesions. I also want to impress upon you the necessity of giving good advice to others who you see them suffering with doubtful sores. You are the leading citizens of this community. You employ and come in contact with a great number of men. Make it your duty to let others benefit by the knowledge you now possess of this disease. By doing so, you will contribute in saving many death by cancer, as many people as we see. This, you will do, not in preventing cancer from occurring, but in preventing it from killing.

People should know that cancer is curable when removed early, and that the treatment is by surgery. They should also be warned against those who claim to cure their cancer by burning. There are unfortunately, too many cancer burners extant. Too frequently we see some poor individual who has lost his one chance of cure by wasting valuable time having his cancer burned.

The only hope is in surgery for either cure, relief or prolongation of life.

WOMAN ON TRIAL CHILDREN TESTIFY AS TO CRUELTIES

Ottawa, Mar. 25.—The trial of Dora Nevien Paquette, charged with the murder of her common law husband William Henri Martel, who died of paris green poisoning last September, is being continued today in the Hull Criminal Assizes. The feature of the trial so far has been the pathetic evidence of two of the children of the accused. The eldest Dorothy Martel, who is eleven years old and her nine year old brother Henry.

The evidence of the two children was contradictory to a considerable extent. Both told that their father had beaten their mother on several occasions and on the morning when the tragedy was enacted, he had thrown her against the gas stove in their home in Hull and hurled blocks of wood at her. Afterwards he went out to feed his horse and later returned to drink a liquid which proved to be water and paris green.

ENDS "WIRELESS PROBLEM"

Sir Oliver Lodge Claims Elimination of "Howler"

London, March 25.—The Evening Standard says that after three years of research, Sir Oliver Lodge, the emi nent scientist, has solved the problem of the wireless "howler" or oscillator, which has baffled experts throughout the world.

By this means, the paper says, the discovery will assure perfect reception without aerial trailer, thus avoiding the use of reaction (regeneration). It will not add to the cost of new sets, but will mean the alteration of existing receivers.

Sir Oliver expects to publish the results of his activities soon.

SIR JOHN MARTIN-HARVEY

Sir John Martin-Harvey will pay Belleville a visit during his Canadian tour. TOIL NEAR END UPON RAILWAYS

Throngs of Trackmen Being Displaced Through Labor-Saving Devices

BIG SAVING ON RAILS

Lengthening Life of Steel; Machines to Dig; Handling Heavy Materials

Chicago, March 23.—(To Christian Science Monitor).—Prophetic of a gradual passing into the long history of the world on wheels of those vast throngs of railroad track workers so intimately associated in the United States with progress of transportation is the increasing use of time and labor-saving mechanical devices that replace the manual laborer. This wider use of many modern inventions is spelling relief from heavy toil, long enjoyed of certain railroad employes, as seen in the opportunity of an intensifying of seven labor-saving devices by a committee of the Engineering Association at its annual convention here.

These are motor cars, speed devices, rail cutting, drilling and bolting up devices; tie tamping machines, rail layers, ditchers, and locomotive cranes. Declaring what these are going to relieve burdensome tasks was reported by a committee of which G. M. O'Rourke is chairman, and which obtained data from various railroads of the United States, Canada, and Mexico.

FIGURES DRAMATIC RECITAL

Though telling technically what economies are being realized, this report, when reviewed from a broad perspective of the future, is a dramatic recital of great progress in releasing muscled from physical drudgery.

The majority of railroads have accepted the motor car as the most economical means of transporting section gangs and their men in being extended, the report states.

Mechanical means of cutting weeds along the shoulder of the railbed are being used extensively and the work is being accomplished at considerably less cost than hand weeding. Fuel oil in gangs of weeders formerly observed constantly moving along railroad tracks of the United States is climated in this report. Relative cost of mowers operated along the tracks, of weed burners and chemical processes of destroying weeds were revealed.

NEW RAIL DEVICES

Lengthening life of rails two to four years and helping solve a problem long regarded by railway engineers as difficult, is being accomplished now by the use of stationary or portable rail cutting, drilling, and bolting up devices. These treat the battered ends of rails and return them into useful service at a great saving in equipment.

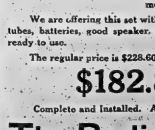

Passing of the laborer with his hand pick to tamp rails, to keep up an even surface, is seen by the committee in the increasing use of mechanical tie tampers, operated by compressed air or electricity.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

hunt-master and robbed him of the bullion, notwithstanding that he was escorted by a strong guard of mounted police, and in the scuffle one of the escort had got wounded. I ought to say that these rangers were by no means bloodthirsty, and that in all their raids they had shown themselves anything but reckless of human life. This was especially so after Gentleman Jack had joined the band; indeed, stories were told of his having stepped in and prevented any violence, and that on several occasions." But in this case of the government train a man was killed, and the government was so incensed that it offered a reward of £2,000 for Gentleman Jack, and it was pretty plainly intimated that the money would be paid whether he was handed in alive or dead."

"This is getting exciting!" said Lady Ruth.

"We acted upon the suggestion, elected the ex-trooper captain, and being well h cased, started at once. There were ten of us, and on the principle that one honest man is a match for three rogues, we were quite confident that if we could get a pop the trail of the rangers we should overmaster them."

"Quite so," assented the marquis.

"Well, we started," continued Mr. Hendrick, "and luck was with us. We had not been on the hunt two days before we "struck" them. An escort had started to guard a gold train—that is a home carriage, of course—to Melbourne. The rangers had got intelligence of this, had stopped the escort, seized the gold and half the horses, and escorted the escort backwards back again. That was enough for us. Carefully examining our weapons, we started on the trail. We came to a farmhouse this was at the end of the third day—where the rangers had stopped to "requisition" hay for their horses. They had taken nothing else; indeed they had more than paid for the hay, for the Chief Ranger, with the ridiculous nickname, had thrust a huge roast, worth a considerable sum, into the hands of one of the children just as he rode off."

"That was kind; he was not so very wicked, then?" interpolated Arol.

"Oh, no; he was always doing that kind of thing," said Mr. Hendrick. "We learned from the woman at the farm—her husband was out—the direction they had taken, and rode after them. We reached a small hut quite in the wilds, and saw by the horses' hoofs that they had been there, but we were too late—"

"Oh, how you are trembling, Miss Gra hame, dear!" exclaimed Arol.

The blood rushed to Constance's face it had been white a moment before—but she said nothing.

"We are all trembling—with excitement," said the marquis feelingly. "What is that, number?"

He leaned forward and listened. They were all silent and listening.

"I hear nothing but the wind, dear," replied the marchioness.

"Excuse me a moment," said the marquis, with a nod to Mr. Hendrick.

He went across the room to the inner and smaller one, and drawing back the window curtains with a quick jerk, opened the French window, and stepped out. A gust of wind rushed in and set the wax flickering and flaring, and the sound of the rain could be heard beating fiercely on the marble floor of the terrace.

"What an awful night!" exclaimed the marchioness, with a shudder. "Would Do come in, Ernest," and she listened to Lord Elliot anxiously, "do go and tell him to come in at once, he will get wet through."

Lord Elliot sprang up with prompt obedience, but before he could reach the window the marquis appeared. He stood for a second, a second in which, with the light fully on, his face was in plain relief against the dark curtains which he took together behind his back, and Constance fancied that it was paler and stern r than usual.

"Don't be alarmed," he said; "it was nothing but the wind."

"I thought I heard voices," said Lady Ruth.

"You did," he responded, carelessly, "A dog was outside, and I spoke to him."

"And that was what you heard?" said Lady Ruth.

"What quick ears you must have, Uncle Wolfe!" exclaimed Arol, admiringly.

"Yes, I have, Arol," said the marquis, and he looked the window, arranged the curtains carefully, and came back to the rest, wiping the great drops of rain from his face and shirt-front. "Will you fellows come and have a cigar?" he said.

Mr. Hendrick straightened himself and nodded assentingly, but Arol uttered a cry of dismay.

"Oh, Uncle Wolfe, we haven't heard the finish of the story yet. What a shame!"

The marquis smiled.

"I beg your pardon, but it's late for the boys to be hearing about ugly ogres. Ask Mr. Hendrick to tell you to-morrow."

To be Continued.

PORT ARTHUR 1 TOR. VARSITY 0

Speedy Teams Play Before Small Crowd in Montreal Forum

Montreal, March 25.—Port Arthur's centre wizard, Gray, scored the only goal of a hot match here last night in the first of the two Allan Cup final games. These two speedy teams fought it out for 55 minutes through-out, neither bulging the others net, for Gray beat Sullivan soon after the encounter began.

Neither team is strange to Montreal hockey fans, the Borts having played an exhibition game here at the start of the season while Varsity has been a regular visitor playing all the Intercollegiate with McGill and University of Montreal.

About 4,000 fans were present when the two teams took the ice. The contest was worthy of a larger crowd, but the Allan Cup series are, unfortunately sandwiched in between pro hockey playoff, in which Montreal is intensely interested and four play-off games of four consecutive nights is a heavy programme for the fans.

Both teams were at full strength for the battle, the all members of the Varsity squad: Red Porter, rugged defence man, and Dave Trottier, speedy forward winger being back in uniform after recent illness. The Ports are favorite on the series though many the fans and hockey critics expect the final and heavier college team to reverse the result of last year's finals between these two teams.

Support was evenly divided between the two camps, but the Varsity followers, "varsity grads" resident in Montreal, were making the greater noise and rang the rafters with the Varsity yell.

score since they entered this league you two points from the Lucky "7" and poetically eliminated them from the race. The Rip Tracks won the first. The Rip Tracks in the C. N. R. Ladies league by rolling their best point, but the Lucky "7" came right back in the second game and easily won their first point. In the last game the Rip Tracks were up over 200 pins. Mrs. Storms for the Rip Tracks and Mrs. Baker for the Lucky 7 were the two highest bowlers.

Although the Hardware Juniors count up the five points against the Rovers and also got a load of 99 pins they lost the next two games and lost out on the total score by 7 pins, the Rovers counting three points and the Hardware one. Robinson for the H ardware and Shilbury for the Rovers were the outstanding bowlers.

FRESH FROM TRAINING CAMPS

Some of the baseball holdouts are not faring so well this year. Dutch Henline, Phillies' catcher, has just lost his job as captain for failing to report at Bradenton, Fla. Will Huber, third baseman, who came to the Phillies last year from the Beaumont team of the Texas league, has succeeded to the position.

Other managers have made plans to get along without the seekers for more salary. But managers have other problems of replacement, most of them temporarily, created by illnesses and injuries. Among the latest victims are "Jumping Joe" Dugan and Tony Lazzeri of the New York Yankees. Joe has a jumping tooth and Tony a digestive disorder, and both are out of practice at St. Petersburg.

Tris Speaker of the Cleveland Indians, pulled a slight charley horse in yesterday's game with Boston at St. Petersburg and may be out of the lineup for a day or two.

* * *

Donohue, Cincinnati pitcher, developed a rheumatic leg and could not face the Washington Senators Monday, but was feeling fit enough today to go in against the Yankees.

* * *

The new sacrifice rule was applied in the Cleveland-Boston Braves game at St. Petersburg yesterday. McNally fouled, Spurgeon dashed for second and beat the throw, but McNally was not credited with a time at bat because the runner advanced on the foul fly.

* * *

Several pitchers got away to good starts in yesterday's practice games. Quaxy Vance of the Dodgers fanned two men, gave two hits, but allowed no runs in three innings against the St. Louis Browns at Clearwater, Fla. The Browns won, 11 to 2, behind the batting of Davis and Falk, the former scoring along easily, but the latter getting nicked for five safeties in three frames. The Giants at Fort Myers, Fla., with Frisch back in the lineup, whitewashing Connie Mack's Athletics, who failed to reverse on the boys' reprimand. The New Yorkers meet the Browns at St. Louis today.

Rhem and Keen went to the mound for the Cards and shut out the San Antonio Bears, 1 to 0. Both men, obscure last season, have bright prospects for 1926.

* * *

The Senators, who dropped Monday's game to Cincinnati, drilled today. At the Georgia training camp Manager Cobb of the Detroit Tigers did some pruning, cutting Johnny Neun, first baseman, to Cleveland and Carl Hubbell and Owen Carroll, hurlers, to Toronto.

SPORT COMMENT

It is an understood fact that youth will be served. But sometimes it is served with a couple of swift kicks in a collegiate portion of the anatomy.

Youth hasn't entered any laurels away this autumn in the Montreal Maroons, Pittsburg Pirate hockey title duel which decided the winner of the initial round and the team to face Ottawa Senators in the final test says E. G. Ferguson in the Montreal Herald.

The two-goal lead which Maroons carry into the fracas was acquired very largely through the finished hockey displayed in an emergency by Rev. Noble Bradshaw, who in one of the real oldtimers of the League in point of length of service, and by the shaved unheralded goaling of Clint Benedict, another veteran. True enough, Nelse Stewart, a newcomer, has played a powerful part both in getting the club into the play-off, and in winning the first play-off game, but Stewart is a phenomena. You can't quote him as a fair example. Any player who can jump from amateur ranks to the fastest company in the world, out-cool tried and tested sharpshooters, be adjusted the most useful player in the League, and figure as favorite as this big fellow has done, is off in a class by himself.

Little "Dinny" Dinsmore, and Bill Phillips now heights but the real burden has been carried by the three veterans named. Probable "Experience" is the answer. Where a youngster, keyed up to high nervous pitch from the importance of the event, might lose his head in a pinch such a fellow as old stony to three veterans. With these tried and tested "money players", the Ottawa club normally. A less experienced other hand, be made certain of getting younger might fade to great heights what he versus will do in Canada under the stimulus of a play-off. On the certainty.

An ANNOUNCEMENT

by IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED TO THE MOTORISTS OF CANADA

ON the 20th of April we will be offering you a new motor oil which we sincerely believe is going to set aside all previous standards and introduce an entirely new era in Automotive Lubrication.

Marvelube is the name we have adopted for this new product—the nearest we could come in one word to signifying its marvelous lubricating qualities.

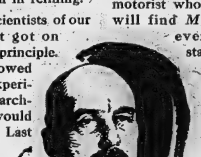

Marvelube is not the improvement of an old oil but the revolutionary discovery of a new. Its production involves a new system in refining.

Four years ago the scientists of our research department got on the trail of this new principle. Silently they have followed it ever since, testing, experimenting, perfecting, searching for the key that would unlock the ultimate. Last October they found it; and production meantime of an adequate stock to serve every motorist in Canada on the opening day, has been one of the closely guarded secrets of the Imperial Oil family.

Marvelube is a strictly Canadian triumph; the discovery of Imperial Oil scientists in our research laboratory at Sarnia, with no help from the outside world. For its base the ideal was found in a select grade of the world-famous Peruvian Crude, the product of a far foreign field developed by Canadian genius and controlled by Imperial Oil Limited.

Its lubricating qualities will recommend Marvelube at once to every motorist who gives it a trial. You will find Marvelube on sale at every Imperial Service station and at the establishments of all good dealers on the 20th of April.

Fill your crank case once. We leave the verdict to you.

H. M. Wallbridge
PRESIDENT
IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED

TO ALL DEALERS IN MOTOR OILS

Remember that Imperial Oil Limited is the sole manufacturer and will be the only marketer of this new oil. We caution you against accepting substitutes or imitations which cannot duplicate its wonderful lubricating qualities.

Before placing your order for Spring requirements it will pay you to investigate our dealer proposition.

"FILMING" THE TRENT

Valuable publicity will be given the Trent Canal, and this whole district will share in the benefit, as a result of the decision of the Ontario Government to have its motion picture department "film" the entire waterway.

While some sections have been photographed for the motion picture screen, the filming of the whole canal is a noteworthy development, particularly as the Ontario Government's educational and scenic films are now in great demand and a picture of the Trent waterway is assured a wide circulation.

It is felt that no section of the continent contains a more beautiful stretch of lake and rivers and that the depicting of the most charming portions of the Trent waterway on the screens of motion picture theatres in many cities will undoubtedly lead to more tourist traffic for this portion of Ontario.

The beauty spots of the Trent are accessible not only to motor boat owners, but to automobile tourists as well, while thse who desire to spend their holiday in a long canoeing and camping trip will find no better opportunity.

Attention will be concentrated on these opportunities by means of the film which will be taken early in the summer.—Peterboro Examiner.

INDIA'S PROGRESS

The current Round Table contains a number of articles of Empire interest, as usual, together with a discussion of Fascist Reform in Italy and an instructive article on American Prosperity and American Policy. Other contents include The Next Imperial Conference, The Control of Public Expenditure, War Graves in Flanders; United Kingdom; Light and Shadow in 1926; Ireland; the Boundary Settlement and After; reviews of current affairs in Canada, Australia, South Africa and New Zealand; and a very interesting discussion of recent events in India. We propose to devote a little attention to the latter article in this place, since it gives an authoritative and reassuring account of the latest developments. The author speaks of the "brighter outlook," saying that during the last few months "an immense change for th better" has come over the face of Indian politics. The triumph of the Swarajists, instead of weakening the influence of government institutions as they intended, has actualy operated to the benefit of constitutional methods. In those legislative bodies where th Swarajists, or home rulers, obtained a majority, they made their position impossible by their opposition to government administration. One of their first acts was to reduce the salaries of ministers to a merely nominal sum, which resulted in the provincial government taking over the administration of the transferred departments, "and everything went on smoothly as before the reforms."

There has been considerable disagreement between the Swarajists and their Mohomedan allies. The union of the Independents and Swarajists gave strength to the Nationalist party, but it is a very happy circumstance that this coalition soon began to abandon its extreme attitude and even to give active help to the government on measures which it recognized to be good for the nation. By consenting to serve on select and standing committees, the Nationalists definitely abandoned their policy of non-co-operation. "This was an event of supreme importance", comments the writer, "for it appeared to foreshadow the development of the Swarajist party into an ordinary constitutional opposition, one of the happiest developments which could take place in Indian politics. Subsequent events showed the party moving steadily in the prevailing direction, and at the moment of writing, just before the Delhi session of 1926, the Swarajists are, to all appearances, a constitutional opposition." The reasons for this satisfactory change are discussed at some length, special emphasis being placed on Hindu-Moslem antagonism.

The solution of India's difficulties is seen in a reform od constitution, now "firmly established" and gaining strength as times goes on; but "the pressing need of Indian politics at the moment is the rise of a true-party system, without which the reforms cannot go on to their next stage—the achievement of the constructive work which lies ready to the hands of India's representatives in the legislatures." The new council of state comes into being this year; it is a "true second chamber," having a majority of elected members and with power to amend and revise the decisions of the legislative assembly. For the great improvement which has come over the Indian situation, a grateful tribute is paid Lord Reading, whose "reputation, though critical eyes were always on the look-out for any slip, steadily grew with very year of his viceroyalty." He will leave India with her feet at least on the road towards the goal," concludes the article, "of which he never lost sight—full responsi'e government and true nationhood."

ANOTHER KIND

A few weeks ago, as a result of protests made by an aggrieved public, the postmaster-general closed the Canadian mails to the United States publication and served notice upon publishers of certain other magazines and newspapers, containing material offensive to Canadian readers, that they had been placed on a probationary list and would be summarily dealt with unless their editorial policies underwent a change. The public applauded. One of the banned publications, it is reported, is continuing to circulate in Canada under another name and that the publisher will change the name every day, if necessary, to defeat the ban. How different is the case of the Christian Science Monitor, published in Boston, and circulating in every civilized country in the world! Canada for many years has welcomed the Monitor, recognized wherever newspaper men gather as "the world's newspaper." Typographically, it is a model to be patterned after; editorially, it is ever sane and tolerant, critical at times of the institutions of its own country, yet never trespassing beyond the bounds of propriety in its treatment of and comment upon the news from other lands. This high regard in which Canadians hold the Christian Science Monitor has long been known to be mutual and a practical exemplification of it is now in preparation—a special Canadian number. Those intimate with the thoroughness and craftsmanship which enter into the make-up of the Monitor will await this Canadian edition with keen anticipation.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

Thrills, comedy and rare horsemanship are promised those who attend Hoot Gibson's latest Western comedy-drama, "Spook Ranch," which will be at the Belle theatre beginning tomorrow.

The story is built around a Texas cowboy who wanders into a desert town and into trouble, action, comedy, thrills and love. Hoot gets into trouble—Bill Bangs, the character Hoot portrays, is arrested in an altercation with a proprietor of a Chinese hand cart. The sheriff knows that he has no right to arrest Bill so he promises to free him if he will investigate the strange happenings at a deserted ranch outside of town.

With Bill is his negro bodyguard, who is exceedingly superstitious and afraid of ghosts. As they approach the ranch he talks and no amount of persuasion will tempt him to enter the grounds. He does, finally, with this result that some unusually good comedy scenes are taken.

There is a lot of rapid fire action and all the necessary ingredients for a real Western picture.

AT GRIFFIN'S

The combination of Charles Ray and Pauline Starke in "Bright Lights," the picture now playing at Griffin's was a happy one, according to Robert Z. Leonard, the director.

Ray was secured by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer organization for the role of "Tom Corbin" in this picture, and his work in this serio-comic part was the talk of the studio.

Constipation

Undermines Children's Health

Your doctor will tell you that constipation is what makes so many growing children sickly. Poisons from the worn matter spread through their little bodies and lower their resistance to disease. A little Nujol every night and keep them regular as clockwork.

Mothers are the best friends of Nujol. When their children's health is at stake, they rely on it—the remedy that medical authorities prescribe because it is a natural aid, so gentle, and so natural in its action.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is also for everybody. It does not affect the medicine and is not absorbed by the body.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movement without straining.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol.

"Ray's boyish chirin and unsophisticated style, coupled with Pauline Starke's wistful appeal, offered a marvelous opportunity for a type of comedy that is certain to win the approval of theatregoers," said Leonard.

"In the making of this picture we worked on the supposition that any man likes to see another in an embarrassing situation." Carrying out this idea, there are many different ways of getting a laugh, and Mr. Ray and Miss Starke utilized them all. For instance, an audience loves a naughty to foresee an actor and then see it happen. Another type is the surprise laugh; that is, when something totally unexpected occurs. A third is when the inevitable is interrupted by a totally unexpected event.

FAINTS TWICE IN COURT

Costa Rican, Charged With Murder, Dazed by Fright

Vancouver, March 23.—The trial of Benito Pasquale Costo Rican, charged with the murder of Anne Roodde, burns in the Grand Forks fire on the night of Dec. 20 last, was strenuously halted this morning in the Assize Court. Pasquale collapsed shortly after the trial opened, but was revived by physicians. Within twenty minutes he again collapsed, and Mr. Justice Murphy ordered him taken to the cells and again adjourned court. Doctors al that the collapse was due to fright.

When asked to plead, accused declared:

"I do not know what I did."

Mr. Justice Murphy entered a plea of not guilty to be entered.

"I was a great sufferer from severe headaches and bilious spells. I tried a number of remedies without obtaining any benefit, until I was advised to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. These have completely relieved me, and made me feel like a new person. I am very grateful.

When they fail they must be aroused to action by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

They are so direct in action on the liver, kidneys and bowels that relief comes quickly and serious ills are avoided.

Local Motor Display Draws Crowds to Dealers' Showrooms

Motor Makers Fear Price Cut; In Quandary As To Next Move

Detroit, March 25.—Just as automobile makers had begun to settle down after swallowing the 3 per cent tax reduction, they were thrust into another spasm of uncertainty last week by a surprise price reduction forecast.

The Hudson Motor Car Company suddenly decided to take $50 off its two cheapest and one-ton models. This followed the radical Hudson step of abolishing f.o.b. Detroit prices several weeks ago and of quoting delivered prices in various parts of the country. Hudson taking the lead in remitting the tax slash and now again by slicing price list, has focused attention on this organization.

It took the other factories, including both the General Motors group and Ford nearly ten days to decide that they would relieve the public of the tax cut to which does not become effective until thirty days from the time President Coolidge signed the bill. There were reasons for the delay. The commission noted a revision downward of income on deliveries for one month when the spring rush is to reach its height.

Ford solved it by passing half of the buck along to dealers. Certain others tried to do the same thing, but found the retail interests arranged solidly against any such sacrifice on their part. It was not until last Saturday that the majority of the factories were able to present anything approximating a unanimous front on the issue, while Hudson and Dodge Brothers got under the wire on the first day, on which was Feb. 26.

DISTRIBUTORS IMPATIENT

Competition throughout the country is so intense that certain large distributors became impatient at the factory delay and voluntarily absorbed the tax slash themselves. Others argued about it and the result will be a certain amount of confusion in otherwise orderly business for the next three weeks.

In the war-like atmosphere with which producers are now surrounded the chief battle area is in the price class below $1,000. In this class three and no less than fourteen makes with the approximately $150 from high to low. The competition takes in both the six and four-cylinder cars in the lowest price rungs and is intersectional, four competing against nine. Of the fourteen cars so designated, seven have the six cylinder engines which makers have brought out in the last year and a half as improvements in the small car division. All possess the additional advantage of being closed models which is the preferred type of car under present marketing conditions and from the price viewpoint Hudson has placed "its Essex model in a strategic position through changing its listing and successive reductions.

MOTOR SHOW DRAWS CROWD

Closed Cars Are the Thing and Public is Interested

In spite of the weather man's efforts to interfere with the progress of the local Motor show this week, the enthusiasm displayed by the public in its ready acceptance of the invitation issued by the various automotive dealers of the city is proving a source of real satisfaction to those participating in the week.

Hundreds of interested visitors are inspecting day by day the latest developments in the automobile industry and are realizing that, when the manufacturers today state that they are providing the public with greater motor car values than ever before, this statement is indeed true. Many makers have recently announced price reductions in spite of the numerous refinements that have been added. The cars of today are graceful and altogether alluring, graceful in line and fittings and alluring in the luxurious appointments with every thought for the comfort of the driver and passenger. The closed car of course, dominates the show. Strangely enough, the open car has become the luxury car, it is more regarded as the car for sport use by persons with means to maintain more than one model. The closed car is no longer a luxury—it is a definite need arising out of the exactions of modern life.

An interesting feature of the week is a special chassis demonstration of the Chevrolet, arranged for Thursday evening next, at J. T. Warren's Chevrolet Garage, to which all interested are invited. It will give the public a unique opportunity of having the functions of the many parts of an automobile demonstration by an expert, using a cut open motor and stripped chassis. Regardless of what car, a man drives, the chassis demonstration will be a real education.

Chrysler Imperial New DeLuxe Model

Very Fine Performer—Chrysler "70" Smart Six and "58" Attractive Four

Chrysler now offers three distinct chassis models of which the "Chrysler Imperial" is the latest and the deluxe model. Regarding the Imperial series, Walter Chrysler said at the time of its recent introduction: "We set out to make a car as fine as money can build. How well we succeeded only those who have driven this new Chrysler product can appreciate even in a small measure.

It has been widely described, as the 92-horse-power eighty miles per hour car. Its many unusual and advanced design features might be eloquently set forth, the meticulous care taken in the selection of materials, their heat treatment, machining and tests described in accurate detail and beyond the fact that here was a fine and rugged piece of mechanism, finely fashioned of fine materials—a "quality" product—the reader would gain no appreciation of the outstanding feature of the Imperial—a quality of performance, the smooth seemingly effortlessness of which would be well described by "floating along" had not that expression been so abused. There is a sensation to this quality of performance that those who have never flown may, by an aeroplane flight provides—a popular illusion.

CHASSIS

This Demonstration is of real value to every person interested in Motor Cars

IT is a rare occasion when the average motorist has an opportunity of having the functions of the many parts of an automobile chassis demonstrated by an expert, using a cut open motor and stripped chassis. Such an opportunity happens only about once a year and should not be passed up. Every motorist should be familiar with the fundamentals of motor car construction. The expert will demonstrate the why and how of all the major motor car parts. For instance, he will explain in detail why the three-point motor suspension reduces vibration noise — why Chevrolet will flash from 5 to 25 miles in less than 8 seconds.

The lecturer, who comes to us direct from the Chevrolet factory at Oshawa, will also explain why the improved Chevrolet incorporates many mechanical features heretofore only found on high-priced cars.

Regardless of what car you drive or are interested in, this Chassis Demonstration will be a real education.

ALCOHOL TAKEN AS POLICE WATCH FROM WINDOWS

R.C.M.P. Were Impotent Under Directions From Customs Men

Ottawa, March 26.—Thefts of large quantities of alcohol from the Customs "Bond" on the St. Lawrence main, Montreal, were described to the Customs inquiry committee by Sergeant C. P. Sgitt of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police this morning. The bond was owned by a local citizen E. M. Nolan in the name of the Imperial Export Co. Since discovery of the thefts the Customs department had taken action against the Surety Company of 19,140. Sergeant Sgitt told the Committee that he had stationed men to watch the Bond following receipt of the information that people were coming out of the building at night carrying alcohol. He had also reported the matter to A. B. Bindlimer, then Chief Preventive Officer at Montreal, to whom he was responsible.

"What happened then?" questioned R. L. Calder, K.C., counsel for the committee.

"I found that the shadow was uncovered," replied the witness. He explained that this meant that people visiting the bond apparently knew that they were watched. Few came and those coming kept an eye on Bindlimer's window at which his men were stationed.

BRIDGE STREET CHURCH SHORTLY TO CELEBRATE IT'S 108TH ANNIVERSARY

Long and Distinguished History Reviewed—Names Of Its Devoted Pastors—Famous Preacher To Be Here For the Day.

Celebrating one hundred and eighth anniversary of Bridge Street United Church, Rev. Dr. J. W. Alkens, the eminent divine of Toronto will conduct the services at the church on Sunday and the celebration will be continued during Holy Week.

The history of the Church is unique and most interesting, starting as it did when previous to 1818 little bands of worshippers gathered at homes, barns or in other place of worship. In 1818 however, an organized congregation procured a small building on Pinnacle street which shortly became too small necessitating the building in 1860 of a larger Church which is now a warehouse on Pinnacle street. THE PRESENT SITE

In 1860 when the consretation had grown beyond the capacity of the building. Hon. John Flint donated the present site which the present Church now stands. In 1846 this was gutted by fire, the wall however remaining and the present handsome building replaced the building in '46. During the pastorate of Rev. H. S. Osborne of Toronto, the church was removed, and now at present handsome seating and new organ installed.

DR. MALOTT'S PASTORATE

During the pastorate of Dr. F. E. Malott who has been minister of the Church for the past four years the congregation has made a net gain of two hundred and fifty members, the total of seven hundred and fifty having increased to one thousand.

In connection with Bridge Street's long and distinguished history as part of the life of Belleville it is interesting to note the succession of devoted and able pastors of the church. JURY AT INQUEST FINDS TWO DIED CAUSE UNKNOWN

Dr. West Could Not Tell What Happened to His Wife, Child

Inspector E. C. Garnett was back in Belleville this morning attending at the Workworth fire inquest. Mr. Garnett said that for the present no action would be taken.

The jury found after hearing a mass of evidence that Mrs. Dr. West and child died as the result of fire burning home from a cause unknown.

A score of witnesses including Dr. West himself gave their testimony. How the fire burned at first only in upper parts of the house; how Dr. West was found at the rear, moaning and rolling and pounding himself and with blood on his face and hands.

Dr. West himself was unable to say anything definite. He had no clear recollection of what happened after he had tried to go upstairs in an effort to save his wife and child.

Mr. Garnett asked if there would be any further police action said that nothing definite had developed which would cause them to take any action.

George Wiggins, the first of a score of witnesses, said that he was awakened by the fire in West's house from his bedroom window. He took a couple of minutes to dress, then ran to a neighbors home, and after that to the Methodist Church, where he rang the bell for a few minutes. Ten or fifteen minutes must have elapsed from the time he saw the fire until he reached the house. Dr. West was lying on the porch steps. He said West if his wife was in or out of the house, but West made no reply but he was moaning and groaning.

BLOOD ON HANDS

There was blood on Dr. West's hands, his face and his shirt. Witness entered the house through the open kitchen door. He hollered two or three times inside the house, but got no answer, then he went into the dining room and hollered again. There was no smoke downstairs then when he arrived at the house. The flames seemed to be rushing upwards out of the northwest bedroom. Witness next went into the hall. He was not sure whether there was any smoke there or not.

Just at this point of evidence a powerful glass in one of the bay windows broke in with a resounding crash that brought the Crown attorney to a dead halt in the belief that someone had smashed it from the outside.

TOTAL DARKNESS

Continuing his evidence, Wiggins said he went part way up the stairs, but did not go further because it was in total darkness. The smoke did not bother him at that time. Then he went into the dining room the fire was breaking through the ceiling. There were no windows broken. Witness left the kitchen door and there was none in the dining room door to attract his attention. There was a lamp on the sewing stab, where Dr. West was lying, rolling rumbling and groaning himself.

Jos. Dixon said he saw the fire first in Mrs. West's bedroom it was mostly fire and little smoke. At that time he saw no one around the place, but later he saw Dr. West coming from the back road from the direction of Norham. Dr. West came down to his garage and proceeded to the verandah of the house and then he began to shout. He could not tell what Dr. West was shouting from the distance. Dixon saw no signs of fire in either of the stoves. When he arrived fire was dropping down from the corner of the dining room ceiling.

When witness saw Dr. West coming down the main road, Dr. West was not running, but he was walking pretty fast.

SURE IT WAS DOCTOR

Questioned by Mr. McColl, witness said that both he and his wife were sure that the man was Dr. West.

"Where would you have gone for assistance in the circumstances? Wouldn't you have gone to the nearest house up the side road?"

"No man knows what he would do in the circumstances. I am not going to suggest there were neighbors up the way from which he came."

John Summers saw Dr. West coming down the road walking alongside of the house to the side door and enter the kitchen. He came out almost immediately and fell down on the steps and it seemed to witness as if he was struggling to get up and re-enter the house. West was dressed in a dark pants and socks. Summers testified that Charlie Bowen asked Dr. West where his wife was, and Dr. West replied, "I tried to get her out."

Answering Mr. McColl, witness said that the nearest place Dr. West could get help was at Cobbledick's house, which lay in a direction from which West was seen to come after the fire had broken out. They had partly to carry West down to the neighbor's house.

George Wiggins recalled, stated that the table in the kitchen had been set for breakfast the following morning.

WEST COULD WALK

Charlie Bowen said that though he and John Summers assisted West down to the neighbor's house, West was able to walk for part of the way. He saw the fire it looked like an electric light behind a curtain, but it developed into a blaze in a minute and a half or two minutes. It would be about six or eight minutes from the time he saw the fire till the 'phone call. Questioned by Mr. McColl, Bowen said he did not think that West's hands were cut at the time witness took hold of the lucky and dragged him down from the verandah.

Witness' clothes were well smeared with blood. Witness saw no evidence that he had been burned but later he saw it was blood. Witness as a guard at Burnside had seen cases of refreshment but he had never seen anything similar to that of Dr. West. All he had seen had differed out and out by contrast.

The evidence of the previous witnesses was repeated by Joseph Sermiens, the Rev. Mr. Jones, William J. Harper, James Cobbledick, Bert Williams and others.

HUSBAND TELLS STORY

West requested production of the court in giving his evidence which was presented on the condition that it should not be later used against him.

West said he met his late wife near Brussels, where he was billeted with the Canadian Army. Although their religions were different there had been no quarrel but only some differences of opinion on minor matters. They were two lamps in the house one in which leaked and had a rag tied around it. This one at the time of the fire was by his room downstairs, and the good lamp was in his wife's room upstairs. West was awakened by a crash, he said and found fire coming down from his wife's bedroom. He rushed upstairs two-thirds of the way and yelled. Then he was met by flames and smoke and rushed back down. After this he didn't remember anything. He did not remember how he got out and could not explain the fact that another witness said he found no flames or smoke on the stairs coming down after West had left the house. He could not tell how eight or nine cuts occurred on his hands nor how his hair and eye-lashes had become singed as he had not been to the room where the fire was. He identified a the Crown, wrapped up and not allowed to touch. Crown counsel urged the jury to be touched. They were left with a verdict.

GRAHAM, DAOUST AND MACKENZIE ON TARIFF BODY

Personnel of Advisory Board Announced by Premier King

Ottawa, March 26.—The Government's advisory tariff board is now a fact and it consists of Rt. Hon. George P. Graham as chairman, and Joseph Daoust, Montreal manufacturer, and Donald Mackenzie of Brandon, Manitoba, farmer, and secretary of the United Farmers of Manitoba. Premier King announced the personnel of the board in the House of commons when Right Hon. Arthur Meighen pressed for information not stated that the House should be supplied with confirmation or denial of reports that were being circulated indefinitely.

Although Premier King in voicing his satisfaction at Mr. Graham's acceptance of the position of chairman of the board, expressed the hope that the former Minister of Railways would continue in it for some years, it is believed that the appointment is not regarded as a permanent one.

Mr. Graham consented to accept the place only under pressure it is believed of his liberal party. He was reluctant to take it, but Premier King had been unable to find anyone else who could be regarded as acceptable. Hon. T. A. Low, former Minister of Trade and Commerce, who lost his seat in the recent elections is mentioned as the appointment, but Mr. King refused to give it to him.

It is understood that Mr. Graham will later on be appointed to the Senate when an Ontario vacancy occurs.

FRANCE UNHAPPY OVER HER DEBTS REVOLT POSSIBLE

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Risley Return After Spending Winter There

TELL OF CONDITIONS

Met Belleville Ladies Abroad—Incidents of Journey Home

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Risley, 184 Charles Street, arrived in the city late last evening from France where they had spent the past three months.

While in Nice, Mr. and Mrs. Risley met the Misses Wallbridge, George street, who they told The Intelligencer, this morning, are enjoying their trip to the continent, taking in many pleasant trips and all excursions available and making many friends. They were called away by Mrs. Risley's sister's death before Mr. Risley returned to Canada.

FRANCE IN A BAD WAY

Chatting this morning Mr. Risley said that France is in a really bad way, a condition which can be remedied only by the choosing of a really strong leader in politics. The politicians today are subservient to the different factions, have to please the socialists the communists, but mostly the farmers who though they pay absolutely no taxes, have control with their representatives in the making of the laws, the real "say" is in the government. The farmers are content with what they have but by some means the taxes which are almost throttling the Republic. "It is quite possible, in fact, many think it inevitable, that a revolution will shortly sweep over France" Mr. Risley stated.

THE SKINNED GERMANS

The Germans, their skinned and with out pride, are coming in harder to France and are absolutely prostrate to the mabs they receive from the French who cannot forget the war and who themselves are much too proud to go into Germany.

LOTS OF WORK

There is work for every one in France and every one is busy. Thousands of Italians and Spaniards are repopulating the country of which the population was much decimated in the war. Anything is very expensive and the laws of people who are most hit by pre war and present conditions are the middle aged people who formerly existed on slender incomes which now prove inadequate to compete with present prices. Many people have lived on forty thousand francs before the war and many did so but this would today prove inadequate. Mr. Risley stated instanced a case of a very dear friend of hers, an officer's widow, who had on her pre war income maintained a comfortable home but recently found it necessary to share it. Demonstrating the hardship which the middle class suffer Risley that it was "only for the sake of having company".

BOAT LOAD OF GERMANS

On the Arabic, on which Mr. and Mrs. Risley returned to Canada were six hundred Germans, several coming as far as Belleville, who were being deported to settle in the United States for which they were all headed. They came from Hamburg to Cherbourg, Mr. Risley also a Greek Archbishop of the Greek Catholic Church, and an officer of the Grecian army, the former coming to the States to interest people in a Greek Catholic Cathedral to be built in Salonika.

The voyage home was extremely pleasant notwithstanding the fact this is about ice-bore time, a pleasant contrast to the trip Mr. and Mrs. Risley had to France in January when the sea was very rough.

REV. FATHER KILLEEN HOME

Rev. Father Killeen, rector of St. Michael's Church, who returned this week from a visit to Europe, also to the United States, has been warmly welcomed back by his parishioners, and hundreds of friends about the city. Sunburned and glowing with health, Father Killeen is very happy to be amongst his friends again and to take up his work in the Church after his long absence.

Local Motor Display Draws Crowds to Dealers' Showrooms

CHEVROLET SHOW A FINE SUCCESS

Chassis Demonstration Attracted 250 People To Warren Premises

The Chevrolet Chassis Demonstration held by F. T. Warren's premises last evening was attended by 250 ladies and gentlemen.

Mr. Myles, a Chevrolet Engineer from the factory at Oshawa gave a very clear and concise explanation of the many features which make Chevrolet a really low-priced quality car which, naturally is made possible due to Chevrolet being a unit of General Motors of Canada, Limited, and therefore gets advantage of their tremendous purchasing power, manufacturing economies and large production, especially calling attention to the many units in this small car which are found in cars much higher in price. The valve-in-head motor, sheleton type pistons fitted with oil controlling rings, single plate dry disc clutch completely enclosed needing no adjustment and no lubrication; Banjo type rear axle, which is the strongest and most complete unit found in any car; long springs of special design for use with ballbush irons, making riding comfort in this small job exceptionally good.

Bodies of steel and hardwood construction made by Fisher, the best type of body used on any car regardless of price; it is finished in Duco applied by the best known methods. The most exceptional thing noted was that practically every moving part is completely enclosed and therefore free from water and dirt or, in other words, a sealed chassis.

It is also worthy of note that this job is now equipped with air cleaner and a Thermostat for controlling water circulation.

Mr. Warren had added to the pleasure of the evening by employing the services of a first class orchestra and an entertainer in the person of Mr. Joe Gow of Latta. Two valuable prizes were given to lucky ticket holders. Winner of 1st prize was Mr. R. W. Sherman, 191 Albert steet, and the 2nd, Mrs. Marian Wenseley, 236 Blocker Ave., and each lady attending was presented with a carnation.

New Star Cars Attract Attention At Motor Show

The body designed by Hayes-Hunt finished in Duco Maxine Blue with black bead moulding, is a splendid example of Canadian Automobile Construction. The appointments throughout are in harmony with its attractive exterior. The upholstering is of genuine mohair. The equipment includes five balloon tires, front bumper, rear bumperettes, motometer, rear view mirror and automatic windshield wiper. The beauty of line and tasteful interior finish are the outstanding features of this new model. It is a complete family car, seating five in touring comfort.

THE NEW STAR FOUR COUPE

An ideal two passenger car. A well built body finished—Duco Lake Louise Blue and mounted on the sturdy Star chassis with its five cross members. The interior is attractively finished in high grade velour. Physicians and other professional men find this model a car that fills their every need as a very moderate price. It is also very popular with ladies, who desire a car of their own for shopping and social functions. It is easily handled in traffic and efficient locomotive shock-type brakes provide safety and facility of operation.

THE NEW STAR SPECIAL TOURING

The touring model is still a favorite with those who drive for pleasure and love the open spaces. This Star Touring is distinctly unusual among models of this class, as it includes many appointments usually found only in expensive cars. Standard equipment includes front numbers, front bumpers and rear bumperettes, windshield wipers, rear vision mirror, windshield visor, cowl lights, outside door handles, motometer and bar and kick plates on the running board. The body is finished in Duco two-tone, the upper being Beaver Brown and the lower Maple Brown with English Vermilion stripe. The sweeping speed lines and low centre of gravity are particularly noticeable. The upholstery is genuine Spanish leather.

THE NEW STAR FOUR COACH

The Coach is one of the most popular closed models, and the New Star Coach shows the most modern improvement in this type. The body is finished in Duco Ontario Blue, and the upholstery is of high grade worsted. A unique Star feature is the screened Pullman Ventilators, placed above the one-piece windshield. These afford ample ventilation in inclement weather. A detail of the construction is exemplified in the rubber insulation between the rear fenders and the body, this eliminates the annoying squeaks and rattles so often found in closed cars. As in all other Star models, the engine is the famous Continental Red Seal.

The past curling season was one of the best in the history of the Belleville Club. Not only was there an increase in membership and of lady members, but the interest taken was such as to inspire the officers to greater activity.

The annual closing meeting of the season was held at the club's premises, Queens street, last evening and there was a large attendance of members and not a few invited friends. The rooms presented an inviting appearance, being most appropriately decorated for the occasion.

ST. ANDREW'S CAR FOR MINISTER

Chevrolet Landau Type Vehicle Installed in Manse Garage

The congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church owns a Chevrolet car, a beautiful piece of workmanship of the landau type, and last evening it was officially turned over for the use of the Minister of the Church the Rev. R. G. Stewart, in a pleasing ceremony at the Manse, 271 George street. The formal presentation was made by Colonel S. S. Lazier, Hon. Chairman of the Board of Managers in an address which recounted the gratifying success of the ministry of Mr. Stewart during the short time he has been in charge. The congregation is an extensive one, he pointed out, and it had been found impossible adequately to cover all the ground on foot. The Board of Managers and the congregation had felt that the work as conducted by Mr. Stewart was of such importance that it must be carried on as he had outlined it and therefore a special canvass was made and the result was that the car was at that moment, outside his door, ready to be installed in the Manse garage.

Mr. Stewart in extending his thanks for this significant expression of the generosity of the congregation said he was greatly pleased that the car had been purchased out of funds supplied in this extra and special subscription and not from the regular funds of the Church. His exhibition and endeavor was that the work of the church under his direction be done efficiently at all times and this addition to the equipment of the church would most assured- C. Elliott.

IN MEMORIAM

Of James Cross who passed away March 18, 1925.

Dear Uncle tis but a few days and years since we were called away,
Sorrow and sadness fills our hearts And will for many long days.

The happy hours we passed together Shall in our memories fold.
We'll not forget the jokes and rhymes You often to us told.

The road which you have trodden We all some day must go,
But we know that you are happy Per our God has told us so.

Yes, we know that you are happy Since your worldly toil you have met,
Your troubles all have vanished But we never can forget.

Life here is but a passing dream This earth holds fifty in store,
Fond memories will linger on Till we meet on the Golden Shore.

NO TAX CHANGES SAYS FERGUSON

Unable to Help Municipalities Who Request Assistance

Toronto, March 26.—When we feel that we can abandon some sources of taxation we will do it cheerfully", Premier Ferguson told a large deputation of mayors and other representatives of about 25 Ontario municipalities who visited the parliament buildings to-day, to ask the provincial cabinet to turn over to the municipalities, a certain percentage of various amusement, gasoline and other taxes. The deputation complained that assistance was absolutely necessary because the province had cut deeply into municipal sources of revenue.

Premier Ferguson pointed out that the government had made strenuous efforts to reduce expenditures but found it was impossible. If taxation was decreased expenditures increasing yearly. He appreciated the unanimity with which the deputation had expressed its moderate requests.

CHAMBERLAIN UPHELD

The temporary failure of the negotiations for the admission of Germany to the League of Nations—for it is only temporary—is having the inevitable, but deplorable effect of setting the British politicians by the ears. The hunt is on for a scapegoat, and the opposition has pounced upon Sir Austen Chamberlain, the foreign secretary, who was recently feted hero of Locarno, but who now has been selected as the victim upon whom all the blame must rest. One fact stands out clear by, however, and that is the sincerity and fair-mindedness of the British foreign secretary throughout the crisis. His one aim has been to protect the Locarno treaty, and it is certain that no one is more bitterly disappointed than he over the postponement of Germany's entry. He has been accused of giving promises to other powers which he should not have given. Regarding the allegation that he had supported the Spanish claims, Sir Austen neatly turned the tables by declaring that Premier Lloyd George administration had itself years ago given Spain a definite pledge of support. "I did my best," declares the foreign secretary, "to persuade other nations not to advance further claims, but to concentrate on getting Germany in the League." This assurance will be accepted by all fair-minded people. In spite of the best that Sir Austen could do, Brazil held out stubbornly for admission, and must undoubtedly bear the responsibility for what has happened.

There is no need for pessimism over the outcome, however. It is agreed by all that German's attitude was strictly correct, and the Canadian representatives testify to the fact that further progress was made during the recent session in achievement of European unity." That, surely, is cause for thankfulness. The Geneva meeting has not been in vain. The only charge which can be laid against the foreign secretary is that he was himself too shortorable to see through the trickiness of others, if there has been any underhand dealing or sharp-practice of any kind. Sir Austen has acted throughout for peace and reconciliation, and is able to say that the spirit of Locarno still prevails. It may be that the European powers have been brought closer together by the incident, rather than estranged. In the meantime the British government's action is sustained and Sir Austen Chamberlain remains as foreign secretary. The day is probably not far distant when the full fruition of the Locarno agreement will, be manifested before the world, and he will again become the object of flattering recognition from a grateful public, instead of being the target for political snipers.

OLD-FASHIONED

When Judge Hurley, presiding over a breach of promise action in a Chicago action, the other day, instructed the plaintiff to turn off her tear ducts and informed her counsel: "There will be no weeping verdict in my court, nor will I permit sentiment to be injected into a case to influence the jury," he stamped him self as a judge of the old school. The trouble in Chicago today, where the term, "the daily dozen" means the number of murders and major crimes is that there are too few Judge Hurleys and too many judges whose chief concern is that the light shall not fall on them as to be helpful to the newspaper cameramen. The fair plaintiff in this particular case is asking "heart balm" of $50,000 from an Indianapolis doctor. Her evidence up to the point where Judge Hurley interfered consisted, one gathers from the newspaper accounts of the action, of copious tears and little else. Being of the old school, Judge Hurley apparently used his head as well as his heart, and reasoned that if the young lady's tears were genuine, money could not be expected to heal her broken heart It is significant that there was no more weeping after he had served notice that a repetition would bring dismissal of the case. But what will be the effect of the judge's brusqueness upon the jury? Jurors are notoriously impressionable, where aggrieved members of the opposite sex are concerned, and it may be that the judge's attitude will win for this plaintiff the very thing the man on the bench was trying to prevent—a sympathetic verdict. The girl in the case may have a justifiable claim against her old beau, but it is, of course, too much to expect that any case in Chicago can be decided on matter-of-fact testimony.

TENDERFOOT KILLS FAMOUS GRIZZLY

From the Rocky Mountain News:

The famous old grizzly, bear Eleven Inch, which has been hunted by parties of big game hunters from all over the country for more than a decade is dead at last, shot by a tenderfoot amateur armed only with a .32 calibre automatic pistol. Eleven Inch was given his name because of his immense feet, as demonstrated by his tracks in the mud. Other grizzlies measured up to seven and eight inches and sometimes an extra large one would measure eight and one-half inches, but the famous big fellow topped the mail with an eleven-inch paw. Nobody ever measured his head for, of course, until after he was killed, but his footprint was known to all.

JESUIT MARTYRS OF CANADA

From the Winnipeg Free Press:

This week there is being celebrated in St. Boniface the beautification of the Jesuit Martyrs of Canada.

It is a far cry from the June morning in 1625, when, under the shadow of the ramparts of Quebec a vessel cast anchor and from its decks stepped three priests of the Jesuit order. The trail begins almost with the peril ous beginnings of Canada's history and winds through her forests and down her rivers, carrying the Cross to what was then a wilderness — its wilderness where beauty hung out her garlands, where savage beasts sought their meat from God, and where yet more savage men took the warpath, cruelly written on their foreheads and mercy blotted out of their remembrance.

The story of the Jesuits is the story of these times and no matter what may be one's view of their religious teachings, their contribution to Canada's history is one of the bravest pages and one of the greatest of her traditions.

NEW DEBT PLAN FOR PROVINCE

Contemplates Balanced Budget—Wiped Out In 40 Years

SAVING IN INTEREST

Bank Specialists Were Called in By Ontario Government

Toronto, March 1 (—From details of the provincial debt-retirement plan, which are released in the report of the committee of financial experts it appears that in the proposed 40 year period it will cost the province only $58,376,769 more to retire its net debt of $319,000,000 than it would to continue to any interest and retain the debt.

TO ABOLISH DEFICIT

Through a maze of bewildering figures, the committee points the way to the ideal of a debtless province, recommending as a means to this end, the "systematic and conscientious application" of ,$1,500,000 annually out of revenues. To commence the operation of the scheme in 1927, as the committee anticipates, necessitates a wiping out of the present $5,000,000 deficit by the end of the fiscal year 1926. The report follows a year of research work.

The committee members were: R. A. Daly, representing the Investment Bankers' association of Canada; J. A. C. Kemp, representing the Canadian Bankers' association, and F. Martin Turnbull, financial controller of Ontario; and the summarized recomendations are as follows:

GIST OF REPORT

Future borrowings be made through installment bonds, with certain reservations.

Bonds and stock pfchased by the province to date for account of general singing fund be cancelled.

The balance of the debt incurred for provincial purposes exclusive of debt incurred on account of the Hydro-Electric power commission be increlled stock (being retired by present sinking fund) and certificates and annuities (maturing annually), be retired out of revenue, according to schedule over 40 years on an annuity basis, involving an equal annual charge for principal retirement and interest.

Bonds of the province, deposited by the Hydro-Electric power commission to date, of par value of $4,312,500 be cancelled and credited to the commission at market value. That the balance of the commission's indebtedness to the province be paid according to a prearranged schedule over 40 years and that a like amount of the "Hydro" debt of the province be retired.

Surplus moneys in the hands of the commission after payments to province according to schedule be invested in province of Ontario bonds, and deposited with the province.

Agreement be entered into between the province and the commission establishing the schedule of repayment of the present debt.

TO AMEND ACT

Power commission act be amended to give effect to recommendations.

With regard to bond issues guaranteed by the province, provision for the ultimate redemption of such obligations by instalment bonds or otherwise should be insisted on as a condition of the province's guarantee.

In commenting on the present sinking funds, the report points out that, with the exception of the Hydro sinking fund, which has been built up by the Hydro-Electric power commission out of revenue, the sinking funds set up by the province which exist today are not true sinking funds set up out of revenue but have to a great extent been built up out of borrowed moneys.

The plan has been so arranged that the annual total payments of principal and interest will be approximately the same over the period. As interest payments decline, a correspondingly larger amount will be devoted to principal payments. A 40-year retirement period has been chosen.

Under the plan, the total charges against revenue during the 40-year period would amount to $734,945,276 with the debt extinguished at the end. On the other hand, with no such provision for debt retirement, the charges against revenue during the same period would amount to $675,768,461, or only $58,276,000 less, but at the end the province would still have debt outstanding amounting to $186,335,974.

TORONTO TEAM WON HERE 35-30

Belleville Team Were Down At Bresther and Finished Well

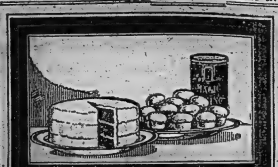

Last night at the local Y.M.C.A. the basketball fans of Belleville enjoyed what of the fastest games of basketball seen here this winter, when the Toronto Central, "Y" team defeated the local squad 35 to 30. Both teams worked hard throughout the game and twice during the second half Belleville had the Toronto lead cut down to three points.

Toronto having secured their lead in the first half were kept busy on the defense throughout the second team trying to maintain it against the onslaught of the Belleville forwards.

Belleville led in the score up to the time of the first time out, which was called by Toronto, the locals being six points up, but at the end of the first half Toronto had obtained a lead of thirteen points the score being 30 to 17. In the second frame Belleville started right in to overcome the lead and held the Centrals to a hard walk ing up thirteen points to the Toronto Squad's five.

Bodrug, Trowern and Griffith starred for the Centralsfor the Toronto team, and Armstrong, Cole, Faulkner, Barlow and Weir for the locals.

Belleville fans might bear in mind to their lesson advantage the technical foul rule which dictates that the spectators should be quiet while a player is making a foul shot, otherwise he will be given another shot—both to count.

WHEAT, CLOVER, WELL PROTECTED

Delay in Spring's Opening Appreciated By Farmers

BUSY ON NEW SEED

More Attention Than Ever Being Paid to Its Quality

The Ontario Department of Agriculture has issued the following report of farm conditions saying that the delay of Spring weather has been appreciated by farmers. To date wheat, clover and similar crops have been well protected and appear in good condition. Owing to steady weather all kinds of live stock have been fed-ing well and on the average are in good condition. There is no general feed shortage but hay supplies are low in the 1925 dry area of Western Ontario while there is a heavy surplus in Eastern Counties.

Farmers are preparing for the Spring rush. More attention than usual is being given to the securing and preparation of seed this is more particularly true where the timely visit of the Government Seed Demonstration train has stimulated interest in this most important factor of economical production. Reports from all parts of the Province indicate that there will be a phenominal increase in Alfalfa seeding.

Prices at farm sales, the increasing demand for farm help and other similar indications suggest an optimistic atmosphere and greater agriculture production in 1926.

DUNDAS—The Demonstration Seed Train visited this County Monday and Tuesday, when large crowds of farmers availed themselves of the opportunity of viewing the work of the seed cleaning plant. Many favorable comments were heard concerning the work of the machines. As a result of this visit, we expect that at least two commercial plants will be installed in the County in addition to many small cleaning mills.

DUFFERIN—Up to date there have been approximately 210 cars of potatoes shipped out from the Orangeville district ranging in price from $1.50 per bag to $2.75. There is still a considerable quantity of potatoes to be disposed of; the present price is ranging from $2.35 to $2.50 per bag. A considerable percentage of these potatoes have been exported to the U.S.A.

KENORA—With the snow going very rapidly a good many people fear that they are going to be left with a large quantity of wood in the bush which they will not be able to get out until next winter. This will mean quite a loss in some cases, especially where they have contracted to get out a certain amount. Practically all the wood that was taken out this winter around Dryden, has been taken out by the farmers, as no large camps have been put in. This means that thousands of dollars has been spent in this work, and will remain in the district. The above report of conditions, conditions here when full returns are made for this work in the Spring.

HASTINGS—Cheese factories are preparing to open up in about two weeks' time. The farmers in the vicinity of Ivanhoe are building a new cheese factory which is to be up-to-date and modern in every way. Milk production is increasing rapidly as large numbers of cows are freshening at this time.

LANARK—All classes of stock are in better condition than the average for this time of the year. The quality of stock being kept remains about constant with the possible increase in the number of sheep and a slight increase in the acreage of corn. Markets values all round are higher than usual. Ordinary good grade Holsteins and Ayrshires selling from $85 to $100. Good farm chunks around $150 and heavy horses of quality up to $200 and $225.

LENNOX AND ADDINGTON—There is a good demand for cows. Grades of fair type are selling at around $100.00. Milk production is increasing steadily. Price is about $1.35 per cwt.

Feed supplies are holding out well. A good deal of grain is changing hands for seed. Alfalfa seed is very much in demand.

LINCOLN—Egg production which has been rather low for the last month is increasing considerably. Quite a few hatches have come off and fertility of the eggs is very good. In fact some 50% hatches have been reported. Plenty of eggs are being set and practically all available incubators are being pressed into service.

MIDDLESEX—The snow is melting very rapidly but there is considerable ice in low places. However, we do not anticipate that the fall wheat has suffered any yet. Considerable ploughing has already been done and orchard owners are making application for the spray service which is being extended to Middlesex County this year. Growers state that the small fruits have been well protected by snow and that there has been very little injury.

NORTH SIMCOE—It is estimated that the acreage of alfalfa seeded this spring will be from 100% to 200% richer than last year. Sweet clover is falling off in some districts while in others it is more popular than ever. Red Clover is on the decrease.

HAIRDRESSER SENTENCED

Pays $5,000 Francs to Parents of Girl Fatally Burned

Paris, March 27.—A Paris hairdresser was sentenced to pay 80,000 francs to the parents of Mlle. Dupont, a 17-year-old girl, who died as a result of burns received while having her hair treated.

When a liquid containing a large percentage of ether was poured on her head it burst into flames. The girl was badly burned on the face and shoulders and succumbed in the hospital a few hours later.

The court found the accident was due to negligence. The hairdressing saloon adjoined a kitchen. The diver repeating the t wo rooms lacked several panes of glass, and the highly-volatile fumes from the liquid used ignited through dir ect contact with the kitchen stove.

OTTAWA IS HELD TO TIE GAME 1-1

First Tussle For Right To Meet Victoria Was Indecisive

Montreal, Forum, March 26.—Hockey's champ in eastern Canada got underway here nicely, when the Montreal Maroons and the Ottawa Senators met in the first game of the home-and-home finals for the National Hockey League championship and the right to meet the Victoria Cougars, present Stanley Cup holders for the world's pro hockey title. The second game will be played at Ottawa Saturday night between the same contending teams, total tendancy for the Grand National to be goals on the series to count.

They will each count one goal for last night's game ended in a 1-1 tie.

The game started with the crowd evenly divided as to what team would win. Montreal fans naturally anticipated a Maroon win, at least they hoped for one, but local hockey fans have been taught in the past to have the greatest respect for the fighting qualities of Ottawa's teams in games that count. The general programme opinion was therefore, that it would be a real struggle between two great hockey machines, and that no matter which team won, it would be a close tussle and the margin small. The crowd was right. The pace was terrific and penalties frequent.

FAMOUS DR. COWARD HONORED BY SHEFFIELD

Sheffield, Eng., Mar. 25.—(Canadian Press Despatch)—Sheffield has a reputation the world over for at least three things—cutlery, armor plate and choral singing. The city has resolved to confer its honorary Freedom upon Dr. Henry Coward, who has brough renown to the place of his adoption by his genius as a chorus master. Under his leadership the famous Sheffield Choir twice visited Canada, and on each occasion was received with rapturous enthusiasm.

Dr. Coward is a native of Liverpool, but Sheffield has been his place of residence from a very early age. At 76 years of age he looks as young and is every whit as active, as many a man thirty years his junior. Dr. Coward started life as a working cutler, but music was his passion. While still engaged at the cutler's bench he trained choral societies in many parts of South Yorkshire. By his own unaided efforts he succeeded in obtaining the degree of Doctor of Music at Oxford University. It is his proud boast that he never had a lesson in music from anybody else in his life. He has composed a considerable number of works, but his chief title to distinction is his ability as a chorus-master. It is doubtful if any Englishman has ever approached him in this talent.

SCORE WINNING GOAL JUST BEFORE BELL

Kingston Overcomes 2-goal Lead, Only to Lose Out in Final Minute

Winnipeg, March 26.—Calgary Canadians stayed right in the running for the Dominion junior hockey championship by defeating Kingston here last night by a score of 3 to 2.

With an even break in the two games played to date, the teams will decide the issue in a sudden-death contest tomorrow night. The Westerners launched a determined attack in the first period which netted them two goals.

The middle period was scoreless but Kingston came through with a characteristic fighting finish in the score midway through the third. Steele, defence player, stick-handled through the Kingston team to score the winning goal of the game just before the bell ended the final period.

The game was played before a small crowd of about 1,200 fans. The fast Calgary outfit showed a complete reversal of form over their first game on Tuesday, and were full value for their victory.

WELSH PRESBYTERIAN APPEARED IN CASSOCK

London, Eng., Mar. 25.—(Canadian Press Despatch)—The new Anglican Cathedral at Liverpool—the first English Cathedral to be built from the foundations since the Reformation—has offered the hospitality of her pulpit during the last twelve months to many preachers of other denominations who are in communion with the Church of England. One of the last to accept such an invitation is the Rev. D. T. Chas. Williams, a former Moderator of the Welsh Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Williams created some surprise by appearing in the Cathedral pulpit in surplice and cassock. At one time it was a very common thing to behold clergy of the Anglican Church who invariably robed themselves merely in a "Genevan" gown for the sermon, but it is seldom that a minister not an Anglican assumes surplice and cassock.

"The Bishop asked me if I objected to wearing a surplice," said Dr. Williams. "Of course I did not, and therefore I wore it. But I believe it is the first time a minister of the Welsh Presbyterian Church has done so. It may help towards religious de[no]minations appreciating one another the more."

Toronto youth who took a dive to swim the Don River at Toronto, was Lawless, and one of the most widely known men there, died yesterday.

AT GRIFFIN'S

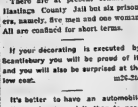

It is no seldom that a picture possesses that indefinable something called "charm" that it is a genuine delight to recommend the picture playing at the Griffin Theatre. It is not a spectacle in any sense, though possessing many beautiful sets and some germs of photographic art. It concerns itself with the five or six people in the story, and by the end of the picture they seem like old friends. It is one of those pictures that make you want to know what happened after the final fadeout, rather than trying to beat the crowd out of the door.

"Bright Lights" is the name of the picture, and it brings Charles Ray and Pauline Starke co-starring as Tom Corbin and Pearl Delaney. Robert Z. Leonard directed.

AT THE BELLE

With With fear of spooks harassing him in his effort to solve the mystery of a haunted ranch on the edge of the Mojave desert, Hoot Gibson, as Bill Banks, a TExas cowboy, solves the puzzle of the ranch and wins a girl in his latest picture feature, "Spook Ranch," which is now being shown at the Belle theatre.

In a real Western picture of the type which has endeared G ibson to millions of admirers, Hoot has added to the fun mixed comedy situations which he has been employed in his Western comedy-dramas which he is now releasing under contract with Universal pictures.

ARE "UNEMPLOYED"

On the streets the last few days a number of transients have been noticed and The Intelligencer has been informed that Toronto and Montreal are cleaning up their cities of unemployed men who have been their guests during the greater part of the winter. These are a number of young able bodied men, who presumably could do farm work.

FARM CROP EXPERIMENTS

We are informed by Dr. C. A. Zavitz, Ontario Agricultural College, Ontario, that 2832 Ontario farmers conducted experiments with field crops in their own farms in 1925. The number is increasing from year to year. Choice seed of some of the best varieties is being distributed free of cost. Any farmer who so asks for it may have the seed for an experiment with one of the classes of field crops such as oats, field corn, mangels, turnips, alfalfa, sweet corn, etc. The distribution will likely continue until April 1st or until the supply of seed of the different crops is exhausted. These co-operative tests of the Experimental Union have greatly increased yields making Ontario outstanding in this respect.

USE SULPHUR TO HEAL YOUR SKIN

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its great restraining properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, while it soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

Mentho-Sulphur fails to relieve the torment without delay. You can obtain a jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist.

Don't Spoil Your Child's Hair By Washing It

When you wash children's hair, be careful what you use. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut Oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt, and dandruff. You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store, and a few ounces will last for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations Look for the name Watkins on the package.

DUKE IN PRISON CELL

London.—The Duke of York has just paid a surprise visit to Pentonville prison, and went through every part of the building. He went into cells, passed by the scaffold, the punishment cells, and the workshops, visited the prison hospital, and inspected the warders on parade.

The Duke was intensely interested. He stayed in an empty cell for ten minutes, standing the weight on a pile of blankets, the little pile of books from the prison library, and the other features of the bare cell.

MRS. A. McDONALD

Throat Trouble

Toronto, Ont.—"For about eight years I was subject to laryngitis, my throat would get very sore and I would lose my voice. I would have a spell of this kind a couple of times a year, especially in the winter when the weather was cold and disagreeable. It would be a couple of months each time before I would fully recover from these spells and get my voice back. I doctored and took medicine with little relief until I started using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it has so completely relieved me of this trouble that I scarcely ever have a sore throat or suffer in any way from my former trouble."—Mrs. A. Golden Medical Discovery is put up in Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Buffalo, N.Y. and sold by all druggists in both tablets and liquid. Send Dr. Pierce 10c if you with a trial pkg.

NO MORE CONSTIPATION FOR HIM

Mr. Dunbar tried Senetta and mineral springs in vain. Only Kellogg's ALL-BRAN relieved him. Read his testimonial:

"I suffered from habitual and constipation and visited numbers and mineral springs, which only gave temporary relief. None gave permanent relief except Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Now I enjoy perfect health and the greatest happiness of my life." Yours sincerely, L. D. Dunbar (Address on request)

Constipation is the base of health. Over forty diseases may be traced to it. It fills the system with toxic poisons and saps strength. You can't afford to ignore its warning signals. Dizziness, bad breath, spots before the eyes, are just a few of the symptoms.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation or your grocer will refund the money. A delicious cereal, ready to serve. Fine with milk or fruit. Use in cooking too.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg in London, Canada, and sold by grocers everywhere. Served at leading hotels and restaurants.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

Constance rose and took Arol's hand, but he drew back and looked ruefully at Mr. Hendrick.

"Oh, please tell us the end. Mightn't he, grandma?"

"It will only take a few words," said Mr. Hendrick, good-naturedly. "And I'm afraid you'll be disappointed, Arol. When we reach the but we were too late; the rangers had gone—escaped as it appeared. They had sacked the place, stolen everything."

The marquis leaned forward and pointed to a candle that was burning in its socket.

"I beg your pardon, Elliot, blow that candle out, there's a good fellow. Thanks. Well, Hendrick," and he turned with a smile on his lips and in the dark eyes, "you say that they had stolen everything, and killed the simple folks of the place——"

"No, no," replied Mr. Hendrick. "They hadn't killed any one. Fortunately the owner of the place and his daughter had started for Melbourne before the rangers reached the hut. We secretly listened to the story; there was no time to leave, you see. We rode on in hot pursuit. The tracks led down into a ravine, and we followed them, feeling sure that we had the £2000—we could almost hear it clink. In the middle of the ravine we pulled up; it was thick undergrowth, and we had to go slowly, you see, and we hadn't got two paces when suddenly a voice rang out 'Halt!' We halted, and there above us on both sides we knew were a score of rifles pointing at us, covering every man of us. We were in a trap.

"We grit our teeth a minutes to lay down your arms and ride out,' said the voice. 'If one man fires you are lost. One—two——"

Mr. Hendrick paused dramatically. Every eye was fixed upon his face. Arol's like large moons.

"We threw our rifles and revolvers into the bush and rode for dear life."

Various exclamations broke from the little audience, but above them all rose the marquis' short laugh.

"Pon my word, Mr. Hendrick," he said, "it would have been better for your reputation for courage if you had cut that the end of the story."

The great traveler smiled.

"It tells against us, doesn't it?" he said. "But we weren't cowards, neither were we fools. We knew the man by repute—we had to deal with, and not one of us thought it worth while to lose his life; you see, we hadn't a chance."

"Ah, I see," said the marquis. "It's a good story, and you must put it in your next book. And now come and have a cigar."

"And Gentleman Jack—what became of him? Is he caught?"

"No one knows what became of him," said Mr. Hendrick, rather gravely. "He disappeared shortly afterwards; in fact, this was the last exploit. The island broke up and some of the men were caught, but nothing was heard of the leader."

"But surely some of the men, I mean those who were ultimately caught, could give information concerning him!" said Lady Ruth, sharply.

"They might have done, but they didn't. But I doubt their capability. The man was a mystery even to them. At any rate, nothing is known of him to this day."

"And nobody will get the £2000!" said Arol.

"I'm not so sure," said Mr. Hendrick. "The Australian Government still offers the reward. It is a large sum, and many clever men would like to earn it. I rather think that Gentleman Jack will be discovered some day! For one thing, a man who has once tasted that kind of life rarely leaves it for good and later; he is sure to go back sooner or later and sooner or later the chief of the bush rangers will be caught."

"What a doubt of it," said the marquis. "Now, Arol, there's an ambition for you. Grow up as quickly as you can, and go shooting after Gentleman Jack! But mind, don't let him lead you into a trap and take you. You get him and earn £2,000."

"I don't know," said Arol, dreamily. "I rather like him. He wasn't one very bad or he wouldn't have given that nugget to the little girl."

"Mr. Hendrick, you have corrupted Arol's morals," said the marquis, laughingly. "Come, let us go into the smoke ing-room. Your story has made me thirsty; I don't know what it has done for you."

Mr. Hendrick followed his stalwart form, but Lord Elliott lingered.

"Won't you think better of your refusal, Miss Grahame?" he said in a low voice. "Will you not let me take you —and Arol—for a drive to-morrow?"

Constance rose, holding Arol's hand. She was pale and looked tired. The recital of the most eventful incident in her life was thrilling her. The coldness of deuce was overwhelming in its strangeness.

"Say yes," he pleaded, as she moved toward the door.

Her lips moved; she found it difficult to speak. He saw, though he did not understand, her emotion.

"You are tired and unwell," he said, in a low, anxious voice, and I will not worry you. Forgive me! If you know —Miss Grahame——"

His face flushed and then went pale as he stopped.

They had reached the door and he opened it for her.

Constance held out her hand and just managed to murmur "Good-night."

Closed over hers and held it—held it so "Good-night," he said, and his hand tightly that, at another time Constance could not fail to have noticed the passionate, pleading pressure. But she was feeling dazed and bewildered by all she had gone through, and was too anxious to reach her room to remark his manner.

To get to her room she lie down and rest! She could not foresee that the night had not closed for her yet, and that it still held another exciting chapter for her!

CHAPTER X

Constance waited with Arol until he had been put to bed; for, like most children when they are overtired, he was inclined to be fretful with the upset; but Constance's sweet, gentle voice soothed him, and he fell asleep with his arm around her neck and an indistinct murmur of, "I love you, Miss Grahame, dear!"

Then she laid him down and went to her own room.

The events of the day were dancing before her like the ever-changing and confusing pieces in a kaleidoscope. That she explain her silence—silence which savored of concealment and deceit?

She could almost fancy she heard the grave voice of the marquis saying to her with reproachful surprise:

"You sat and listened to this story, you who were concerned in it, and said nothing. Why did you not speak?"

A down tumo she had tried to summon up courage to explain.

NORTH ONTARIO NOT ENTHUSING OVER RED LAKE

Sidney Man Who Returns From Kirkland Tells Of Conditions

ARE GOING IN EARLY

His Opinion is Years Will Pass Before Big Developments

Mr. Glen Meyers of Sidney, arrived home this week from Kirkland Lake, North Ontario, where he has been for the past several weeks in touch with mining prospectors coming and going in that way to Red Lake. To The Intelligencer this morning, Mr. Meyers said that the people of Northern Ontario are not nearly as excited about the prospects of the new gold fields as those of Southern Ontario.

"They've got lots better mines to think about up there" he said.

THE GOLD RUSH

Hoping that "There's gold in them thar hills" however several leave Kirkland area daily mostly by dog team. In one day alone as started out. Each day brings returning prospectors who have staked their claims over four feet of snow and eagerly await the coming of spring to prove whether or not they've struck gold. Some few have come back with the typical indications that the "stuff looks good" which they reached. Only very few of those who have staked claims have sold their luck yet; a different aunt await the red tape of ownership to find out what they've got.

LABOR CONDITIONS GOOD

Labor conditions up in the North are good Mr. Meyers stated. Any one who wants work may find it. Mines everywhere are staking shafts and people up north are interested in the shaft being sunk by the Bennett Mining Company at Swastika. He asked if building to any way extent is going on particularly elsewhere. Mr. Meyers laughing remarked the intelligencer that the people back north are much more interested in the building of stills.

Referring again to the rather blase attitude of the Northern Ontario people to the Red Lake prospects, Mr. Meyers said that the people up here feel that it will be ten years before Red Lake begins to make any real returns, due to difficulty in getting at the gold fields.

REDS IN CHINA ATTACK MISSION SOLDIERS USED

Bad Time in Store For U.S. Missionaries, Advices Forecast

Hong Kong, March 27.—The Communistic movement directed against United States Missionaries caused a flare up in Kweilin, approximately six hundred miles northwest of here today, when a mob stormed the United States missionary compound there and setzed and bound a Chinese Christian in charge. Soldiers were rushed to the scene and they fired a warning volley in the air at which the rioters dispersed.

Later a proclamation was issued claiming a victory over the Christians when they threaten to drive out of southern China. The United States gun boat Pampanga is at present at Wuchow, a river point midway between Hong Kong and Kweilin. The Communistic committee which styles itself "The Union for Protection of Labor" has seized the United States Mission book store at Wuchow.

British Missionaries have not been molested. Private advices received here predict an impending sweeping communistic movement directed at Missionary Societies, principally those at Wuchow and Kwelin, both of which are located in Kwangsi province.

CAMBRIDGE WON THE BOAT RACE OXFORD FAILED

Light Blues Finished Without Distress in 19 Minutes

OXFORD WON TOSS

Led Slightly For First Two Miles—Then Faded Away

Putney, England, March 27.—Cambridge won the 78th inter-Varsity eight oared race here today. Cambridge won by five lengths in 19 minutes, 29 seconds. The Oxford crew could hardly finish.

At the start there was little to choose between the two eights, although Oxford was slightly the favorite. It was a gruelling race from the beginning to Putney over the four and one quarter mile course to Mortlake, but when Cambridge flashed over the line, hardly a man in her boat seemed in distress, while several of the Oxford crew were in a state of collapse.

The official time was 19 minutes, 29 seconds which is just a minute slower than the record established by Oxford in 1911.

Oxford won the toss for position and chose the south side of the river.

The dark blues led slightly for the mile, but by the first two miles but did not seem to have much in reserve. Then the Cambridge's although rowing the somewhat longer course around the big horse shoe bend at Hammersmith took the lead and maintained it to the end.

An amazing report was circulated last evening that the crews would rely for their last ounce of stamina on cups of tea taken with six pieces of whole wheat bread, the famous accident, Berresford, Senior, picked up at Stockholm, where he met German crews who had adopted it. The report was interesting also in view of the recent American experiments with athletes regarding smart nutrition as training power. However, the scheme was not tried, and only the usual breakfast with a light snack between that and the race was taken.

Oxford has won forty and Cambridge has won 37, the 1877 race was a tie. Last year Cambridge won when Oxford's boat became waterlogged and the crew was forced to swim to shore.

The race has been rowed over the Putney-Mortlake course since 1845.

DEPARTMENT COMMANDER SEES CANTON BELLEVILLE DEGREE WORK IMPRESSES

At the regular meeting of Canton Belleville No. 1 I.O.O.F. held last evening, the largest attendance of members for a number of years were present to welcome Brigadier-General A. P. Neilson of Toronto, the Department Commander of Ontario. The Canton after going through drill under Captain R. L. Johnston, mustered into the ranks of the Patriarchs Militant Army one candidate. General Neilson was highly impressed in the manner the degree was conferred, that he strongly advised the Belleville members to attend the degree exemplified in June at Toronto. A number of the ladies of Quinte Fortress No. 2 were present to hear the General's remarks. After the business all were invited to the dancing hall where the social outline had provided a banquet, the menu being a sumptuous one. Well enjoyed by all. After the good things provided had disappeared, Capt. Johnston called on all to sing the National Anthem in response to the toast of "The King." The one other toast was the "Department Council of Ontario, and Our Guest." which was responded to by the hearty singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." General Neilson in response spoke on matters appertaining to the Patriarch Militant and also the Ladies' Auxiliary. He thanked Lieut. Col. O. G. Way and Capt. R. L. Johnston for the manner in which they had been entertained during his two days visit in Belleville, and assured all present he would visit Canton No. 1 again if possible during his term of office. Short addresses were given by various members of the Canton and Fortress. And about the midnight hour the National Anthem was again sung to close what an old member declared to be one of the most interesting and instructive meetings Canton Belleville had held for years.

Market Extension Plan Mooted Council Has Facts and Figures Economy Drive Is Given Support

SECOND OPEN FORUM MEETING AT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HEARS DETAILS OF PROPOSED CHANGES—AND DEMAND MADE FOR MONI EY-SAVING BY CIVIC OFFICIALS

Positive and negative—the one positively negative—elders of the civic problem were presented for discussion before the Open Forum meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at the second monthly dinner at the Queens last evening. On the one hand Ex-Mayor G. A. Bennett presented the proposition that the market inside and outside should be extended because it is a fine municipal asset. On the other hand Ex-Mayor W. B. Deacon presented the proposition that municipal expenditure should be cut down and as a matter of fact might easily be reduced by a little more careful spending.

Both questions were pretty thoroughly threshed out but only one of them was brought to any definite stage. The market plan which is ambitious will be presented to the city council (which has already taken the thing up) and the economy cry will be the topic at another meeting of the Open Forum one month away.

The market extension plan calls for the doing away with the police court building on the square and its reerection possibly on the Greatrix property at the south-east corner of the block Pinnacle-McAnany-Front-Bridge streets—the corner facing the Armouries and across from the police building; purchase of land south of the market square as far as the old Pinnacle street school grounds and the use of that area as a market; the erection of permanent canopies over sections of the open market space; removal of the civic weigh scales to the Pinnacle street area; and the overhauling of the inside market

The economy programme as enunciated by Ex-Mayor Deacon calls for reduction of certain staffs and the amalgamation of the water and gas departments and reduction of capital expenditure to the minimum for five years.

JAMES LYNCH.
President of the International Union.

EX-MAYOR BENNETT

After the Chairman Mr. C. A. Cameron had called the meeting to order, Ex-Mayor G. A. Bennett took the floor and outlined his plans for market improvement and extension. First he would keep the approaches closed so that people driving up with produce could stop at the door of the market building and unload with ease and safety. He said that the old police court building school property could be utilized for the wood and hay market and the private property lying between that and the market square might be obtained for the city by purchase. He would move the weigh scales to the Pinnacle street area. Crowding might be lessened within the market building by reallocating the kind of produce sold there. He would put canopies over the open market aisles. The police building might be removed to the corner across the street. The inside market building should be redecorated and "sweetened up." He said that when the market had been laid out years ago the motor vehicle had not been contemplated. Ten years was the length of his days. The motor car had made the radius thirty to forty miles, hence the crowding conditions in the fall and early winter Saturdays.

WOULD GO FURTHER

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn agreed with Mr. Bennett that there should be ample accommodation for all who came to market and he would go further and make a strong committee to take the views of the meeting to the City Council and pull the necessary wires to have the thing done.

Mr. Bennett, smilingly, wanted to know what was implied in the wire pulling. Mr. O'Flynn smilingly replied that he was thinking of many years ago when he himself used to be in the council. And then the whole long table full of people smiled too.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE

Alderman J. L. R. Gorman, chairman of market and city property, here arose and told the meeting that these things had already been under consideration by the council. They had had an offer for the old Pinnacle street property but it was not going to be sold. They had also asked for a price on the Greatrix property and had considered several schemes to achieve just the things Mr. Bennett had suggested.

Mr. C. M. Reid and Mr. J. O. Herity both considered the local market a first class civic asset being using the people of the surrounding country to the city. Mr. Herity noted the absence of hucksters here and thought that was a good thing. The suggestion having been made that the basement of the city hall might be utilized for extra market space, Mr. E. T. Austin, manager of the Waterworks department, said it could but at the expense of a cement floor and considerable decoration and cleaning of walls. Public lavatories he thought ought to be moved from a corner of the city hall.

COMMITTEE NAMED

Mr. F. B. Deacon said he had seen in Three Rivers the auditorium of their new city hall used by the women for market purposes and that might be done here if needed.

Mr. Bennett's motion that the city council take up the matter of adequate market accommodation was finally amended to include the names of a committee to carry the opinions of the meeting to the council, and this committee consists of Mr. Bennett, Mr. E. R. McBride and Mr. Lewis Howe.

ECONOMY, ECONOMY

Then came the deluge.

Ex-Mayor W. B. Deacon started his crusade for economy.

He had a lot of figures obtained from city hall sources which he detailed to the meeting and among the first things he said was that last year the city council spent $275,000. And he proceeded to show that of this $155,000 was for fixed charges, and therefore uncontrollable.

The public schools took $96,000; the separate school, $9,000. The city's share of expenses at the County Buildings was $4,500; the Hospital got over $9,000; hydro, $17,000; elections $1,000; lights $9,400; garbage collection $6,200; the Library, $4,200; and so on.

For the remainder of $120,000

A BUTTERFLY

Mrs. Frank Elliott of Carnation is probably the first person in Belleville to have, this season, discovered a butterfly. This morning calmly grazing on a big geranium in her dining room, she found a fully developed yellow cabbage butterfly or something like it, fully placed in a box and brought to The Intelligencer where it has been on office pet with head, quarters on a bowl of shamrock which was likewise donated to the office on St. Patrick's day.

THE WEATHER

Moderate northwest winds, fair today and Sunday, not much change in temperature.

ELECTION FRAUDS BRING TWO MEN TWO YEARS EACH

Hard Labor in Prince Albert Pen For Couple of D.R.O.'s

STUFFING THE BOXES

Returning Officer Of District Couldn't Write —Details

Edmonton, March 27.—Found guilty of fraudulent practices in connection with the Federal election in the Athabaska Federal constituency last October, sentence of two years hard labor in Prince Albert Penitentiary were passed by Mr. Justice Ives in Supreme Court here yesterday by J. O. Biles, Deputy Returning Officer, for the Venice poll, and H. M. Jenner, Deputy returning officer for the Frog Lake poll.

Biles was charged with putting ballot papers other than those authorized in the ballot box and with initialling the backs of ballot papers. On Wednesday Jenner had been found guilty of initialling the backs of ballot papers and not guilty of "stuffing" Biles' boxes.

"You are of no more use than a wood on linden on that job, and if I were you I would resign, or you will find yourself in trouble one of these days," said Mr. Justice Ives in the Criminal court to Isaac Gagnon, returning officer for the electoral district of Athabaska at the last Dominion election.

Gagnon admitted that he could not write, and that he had merely signed some blank forms for the appointments of district returning officers in the Athabasca riding.

Mr. Justice Ives expressed the hope that the whole matter of the appointment of returning officers would be drawn to the attention of the proper authorities in Ottawa.

"If this is the type of man that gets those jobs, it's time the whole thing was changed," he concluded.

HAMILTON FIRE GUTS BIG STORE LOSS $700,000

Hamilton, Mar. 27.—Fire damaged the G. W. Robinson Company's department store and the building to the extent of about $700,000 early this morning. Examination of the five storey building by experts now being conducted may swell this estimated damage loss to the million mark.

Three fifths of the damage sustained was caused by water. For an hour after the fire was reported the walls of the building bounded by James King, Main and Macnab streets hung in th eblaneo. Only the absence of any considerable wind saved this block. The fire of unknown origin was reported shortly after 3 o'clock, at 5.45 it was under control and shortly after 6th firemen were clearing up their apparatus.

G. W. Robinson, President of the company who had been watching the fire, said that they were just about to start the biggest sale in the history of the store and that everything in the building was ruined. Complete insurance was carried.

HIGH EMPLOYER WITH AXE, KILLS, GETS 15 YEARS

Ottawa, March 27.—Stanislaus Pelletier, following a conviction for manslaughter in connection with the death of Miss Mary Kilfoyle, aged 50, in her home near Manotick, was today sentenced by Mr. Justice Lennox to 15 years imprisonment. Pelletier in a statement to the police admitted he had struck the aged woman with an axe after she had scolded him for not doing more work while in her employ.

PENSIONS PLAN IS CRITICIZED IN PARLIAMENT

Government Outlines The Scheme Preparatory to Introducing Bill

HOUSE SUSPICIOUS

Felt That Measure Forced on Government by Labor M.P.'s as Price of Votes

Ottawa, March 27.—Dr. J. H. King, acting Minister of Labor, presented the Government's old age pensions scheme in Parliament. The reception of the measure was far from enthusiastic owing to the suspicion it had been forced upon the Government by Messrs. Heaps and Woodsworth, as a condition of their support.

OBJECTIONS

Another objection raised was that it was unnecessary legislation in a country of the opportunities of Canada and would be a bad advertisement in Europe where we are seeking settlers with the inducement that there was every opportunity to earn a sufficient competence for life before anyone was incapacitated from old age. Still another objection, and this was strongly stressed, was that even if such a scheme was necessary, the one proposed was intended not to meet the necessity but to evade the responsibility by making it both federal and provincial in adoption and operation before it would be effective. Even those who supported the measure did so on the ground "it was better than nothing," not a very enthusiastic endorsation of the proposal.

It is proposed that the scheme will become operative by provinces, and only in a province that accepts it. The province agrees to pay one-half the pension bill of claimants within that particular province, and also all the cost of administration. So far there has been but one province, British Columbia, that has shown any inclination to adopt the policy of old age pensions; and even that province, when the terms are known will probably not be anxious to co-operate.

THE TERMS

That provision shall be made for the payment of a pension to every person who, at the date of the proposed commencement of the pension:

(a) Is a British subject, or being a widow, was such before her marriage;

(b) Has attained the age of seventy years;

(c) Has resided in Canada for the twenty years immediately preceding the date aforesaid;

(d) Has resided in the province in which the application for pension is made for the five years immediately preceding the said date;

(e) Is not an Indian as defined by the Indian Act;

(f) Has not made any voluntary assignment or transfer of property for the purpose of qualifying for a pension.

The principle of old age pensions had been recognized widely, said Dr. King, and the subject in Canada was not a new one. Last year a committee of the House of Commons had reported in favor of the adoption of some old age pensions scheme. In Crafting the resolution before the House, the Government had adhered closely to the recommendations of that committee. That committee had estimated that the number of persons eligible to benefit from the proposal was approximately 98,850, and if each of those persons drew the maximum pension of $20 a month the payment of the Dominion would amount to about $11,540,950.

Hair Dry, Brittle from Constant Waving, Curling

The constant curling and waving demanded by present styles in bobbed hair, slowly burns the color, lustre and very life from the hair leaving it dry, faded, brittle and full of dandruff; then the hair roots shrink and the hair falls out fast.

Since girls just must curl and wave the hair to appear their prettiest, try "Danderine" to offset any bad effects. After the first application your hair will take on new life, and that healthy, youthful lustre, become incomparably soft, wavy and appear twice as thick and abundant. Falling hair stops and dandruff disappears.

A 25-cent bottle of refreshing "Danderine" from any drug store or toilet counter will do wonders for any girl's hair. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.

MRS. MARTHA IRWIN

Mrs. Martha Irwin, aged 35 years, died in Oswego on March 20th after being in giving a quart of his blood had made an heroic attempt to save her life. Mrs. Irwin had been in ill health for about a month and as a last effort to save her life she was brought to an Oswego hospital where it was thought a blood transfusion might give her a fighting chance. Leonard her fourteen year old son offered to give his blood after physicians had rejected similar offers from Mr. Irwin and her daughter, Audrey aged 17 and several of the nurses. After the first transfusion of one pint of blood she rallied and on the day of her death, following a second transfusion it was thought she might regain her strength but she died very suddenly.

She is survived by six brothers and sisters, Wm. of Oshawa; Mrs. Tweedie, of Cleveland; Mrs. Kaiser, of Rochester; Mrs. H. Lucas and Mr. S. Keller of Belleville; Mrs. T. C. Irwin, 4th of Sidney; Mrs. A. Horne, Caulfton; Mrs. D. Keller, of this city is her mother.

Mrs. Irwin's body was placed in the vault at Williamstown U. S. pending burial in that town.

"Preventive Service" is the keynote in the battery business these days, according to Chris. Lewis, Willard Battery Man of Belleville.

"For a number of years," says Mr. Lewis, "we have been trying to educate the car owner in the point where he will seek service at the battery station as a preventive of possible future battery trouble rather than coming to us only when trouble develops.

WOOD IS BASIS OF 'RAYON' SILK

British Columbia's Timber Will Be Transformed To Clothes

New Westminster, B. C., March 26.—British Columbia forests will soon be supplying a large part of the "silk" used in the manufacture of clothing and similar materials all over the world as a result of plans shaped by industrialists here.

A plant is to be erected in this city by a syndicate formerly interested in the operation of pulp and paper mills, to manufacture pulp for the production of "rayon silk". This material, now extensively manufactured in the East, promises to replace genuine silk in the markets of the world, and British Columbia timber is stated to be admirably suited to rayon production.

Rayon pulp produced here will be shipped East in large quantities and Japan will also be a buyer, as that country has lately commenced rayon as well as real silk manufacture in large volume.

The world market for rayon silk is expanding rapidly and the demand for it appears to be almost unlimited. A large proportion of the women in the United States today are wearing "silk" stockings made from wood fibre, and the present popularity for silk stockings is one of the chief factors in the expansion of the industry.

A Spring Tonic An Aid to Health

You Can Lay the Foundation of Good Health Now by Building Up Your Blood and Strengthening Your Nerves Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The good old fashion of taking a tonic in the Springtime, like most of the customs of our grandparents, is based upon sound common sense and good medical practice. Winter is always a trying time for those who are not in rugged health. Many men, women and children go through the winter on reserve strength they have stored up during the sunny summer months, and grow increasingly pale and languid as the spring days approach. A tonic for the blood and nerves at this time will do much for such people by putting color in the cheeks and banishing that tired feeling that worries thousands of people at this time of the year.

It is impossible to be cheerful if your blood is thin and weak, or if your nerves are frayed or shattered. You cannot compete with others if you do not get refreshing sleep at night, or if your appetite is poor or you are losing weight. You need a tonic at this time to add to your vitality now, as well as to save you from suffering later on. And in all the realm of medicine, there is no safer or better tonic than Dr Williams' Pink Pills. These pills tone and enrich the blood which circulates through every portion of the body, strengthening jaded nerves and rundown organs, and bringing a feeling of new strength and energy to weak, easily tired, despondent men, women and children.

Miss K. Sirois, Kamouraska, Que., says:—"I would feel that I was neglecting an important duty to help some other poor sufferer if I failed to tell you how much benefit I had through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before taking the pills I was in a badly run-down condition. I was very weak, pale and breathless at the least exertion. I often had headaches and my appetite was poor. I began taking the pills and they restored me to better health than I had enjoyed for a long time; in fact, my health is now the best, and I am sure that what this medicine has done for me it will do for all weak, ailing people."

You can get these pills form any med icine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box form The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

VETERANS STAGE A REAL SMOKER

Rations Were Brought Up As Usual and Songs Were Sung

Last evening at the G.W.V.A. hall about one hundred of the comrades and friends joined in a thoroughly enjoyable smoker and concert. All arrangements had been made "a la trenche" even to the army rations served, which consisted, of cheese crackers, bully beef, and four point four. During the evening solos by Comrades Hyslop and A. E. Baldwin were interesting features, also addresses by Hon. Comrade John Elliott and Hon. Comrade H. P. Ketcheson. Comrade Elliott in his address referred admirably to the fine new quarters of the Veterans which are now their own, free from encumbrance. Comrade Ketcheson referred to the part taken by Veterans during the winter when they spent over five hundred dollars in the relief work.

The addresses were followed by an open meeting in which the veterans lived over several experiences at the front. The stories were colorful and interesting.

Piano selections by Professor Wheatley and Mr. Carson added much to the evening's enjoyment and a hearty vote of thanks was moved to the entertainers to which Prof. Wheatley made a fitting reply. Comrade T. A. W. Thompson very ably filled the chair for the evening.

The only change to note in prices of vegetables was for onions which have advanced to 45c and 50c a peck owing to their scarcity. Potatoes sold as $3.50 per bag.

Butcher stalls were well patronized and prices of beef ranged from 10c to 15c and pork from 25c to 27c per pound.

A few loads of wood were sold at $5 and $6 a load for hardwood, and a slightly lower figure for soft wood.

there were all the departments. Last year there was a deficit of about $8,000. ("Perhaps some of you did not know that"), and of this the greater part was eaten up by the department of public works which exceeded its appropriation. Mr. Deacon stated. We cannot go beyond the 25 mill rate and we can not afford to have these expenditures". He was in favor of having minimum capital expenditures for a period of five years.

In addition he would cut staff, and amalgamate services of water and gas and save on salaries. He thought the fire department might be reduced and still have it efficient.

WANTS A BUDGET

"The fire department is costing four thousand dollars a year more than the police department" said Mr. Keeping down our fire losses but still it is costly." He was in favor of a budget system for the city and since it was essential that the tax rate be cut he would like to see a committee of seven independent of civic affairs go over the whole cost of civic services and bring in a report on what only is needed for the city.

He moved a resolution in effect that the expenditure be kept to the minimum.

COLLEGIATE IS COMING

Mr. John Elliott, Mr. H. W. Ackerman and others were on their feet to state that the new Collegiate was one of the necessities and Mr. Deacon said he had that in mind as included in the minimum. Mr. Elliott said that the saving Mr. Deacon estimated would pay the interest on the city's share of the cost of the Collegiate, perhaps $200,000.

The meeting decided to let the matter rest and attempt no snap judgment or vote on the matter. It will be argued again at the next Open Forum dinner next month.

STOPPED- A RUNAWAY

Police Officers Franks and Morris combined in a thriller last evening when they stopped a runaway team on Front street. The team in question owned by Mr. O. O. White, R.R. No. 2, Belleville, were frightened when a car crashed into a bigger near where they were standing opposite Mr. Brown's fish store. Up Front street the team started at a rapid gait and narrowly escaped striking several vehicles. Shortly after passing Bridge street, the horses were stopped by the officers and before much damage had been done by them. Mr. W. Stephens of this city owned the car that hit the buggy. The runaway team collided with a car the property of Mr. H. Green and damaged the front lamp and radiator.

"In there be harmony in things essential—liberty in things not essential—Charity in all."

A SOLID FRONT

One good result has been produced by the introduction in the Canadian parliament of T. L. Church's resolution on the subject of Chicago's appropriation of lake water in violation of Canada's treaty rights. That result is the revelation of the fact that the representatives of the Canadian people present a solid front against the Chicago outrage and strongly feel that redress is due this country at the hands of the United States government, which is directly responsible.

In the debate on the subject no opinion contrary to this sentiment was expressed; and it is a gratifying fact that Mr. Meighen, speaking for the Conservative opposition, constituting the largest group in parliament, pledged support to the government in any action that may be taken to safeguard Canada's treaty rights and secure redress of grievances in this matter.

A GREAT DIVINE

Canada is honored in the selection of Canon H. J. Cody, rector of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Toronto, to preach the English sermon before the League of Nations at the opening of its seventh assembly at Geneva next September. Canon Cody has accepted the invitation, and will preach in the historic old cathedral church which is associated with the history of the Reformation period.

In former years eminent English and American divines, including the Archbishop of Canterbury, have preached the English sermon to the assembled delegates of the 55 nations. This is the first time that the choice of preacher has been made from the clergy of the British Dominions. That Canon Cody has been chosen will be regarded as appropriate by thousands of his fellow-countrymen who know him, for he is one of the outstanding divines of this country and indeed of the empire. He might now have been Archbishop of Melbourne, the chief Anglican ecclesiastical dignitary in Australia, had he so willed; but he preferred to remain the pastor of his Toronto parish. However, the honor extended to him to be a spiritual message to the assembled national delegates in the world congress at Geneva is an honor greater than his selection as primate of Australia, and it is an honor in which Canada shares.

A MAN WITH A HOBBY

John Davis Barnett of Stratford, who died a day or two ago, was not numbered among the "eminent" Canadians of his generation. He was a railway official for many years in the employ of the Grand Trunk, and no doubt did well the work required of him; but he was not a prominent figure in the railway world. But for one thing Mr. Barnett will long be remembered with gratitude. He had a hobby. It was the collection of good books. He was a great reader, and he read the best sort of literature. When he read a book he liked to keep it for future reference, and as he bought many he accumulated in the course of his long life a library of some 40,000 volumes. Among them are many rare and valuable works. Mr. Barnett was particularly interested in Shakespearean literature and he collected 1500 volumes of Shakespeariana—the most complete collection of the sort in the country. All his books he donated some years ago to the Western University at London and was engaged in arranging for the transference of his library to its new home when he died.

His home in Stratford had long been a treasure house for scholars and students, and Mr. Barnett gladly welcomed all such visitors and took pleasure in assisting them in their researches in his library. In his life he did much good in the way of disseminating knowledge and encouraging the spread of intellectual culture; and his work will live after him. His was a hobby more important and far more useful and valuable than the vocation by which he earned his living.

CIVIC PROBLEMS

After attendance at dinners of the Open Forum Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Belleville—they have had two—one cannot but be seized of the notion that these functions are likely to result in a considerable amount of good and one cannot on the other hand see where they can do any possible harm, to the city, its people and its prospects.

A month ago they decided that there must be less time wasting. Whether the other dozens of local organizations have shown a willingness to take the needed lesson or not the Open Forum Council have themselves abided by their ruling and last evening the meeting began and ynw minutes later than the advertised hour—8.15—and finished three minutes after eight, which is something in this city of Belleville.

And last night's meeting touched on very live topics—market extension and civic economy. The one proposed the spending of money, public money, the other man's money; the other proposed to save one's own as well as of spending "the other fellow's" cash, but so many were in favor of saying that this proposition was not completed in the time allowed and will be re-discussed at next month's meeting. They had a perfect mania to cut down expenses it seemed, and practically some rath er good ideas came to light, relating to carefulness in the public works department in routine expenses and the way material is handled. No real fault was found and no names were mentioned of course. There was no calling for "heads in the basket" and no allegations whatsoever that anyone was anything but thoughtless.

Still the meeting brought to light the fact that there is a considerable public opinion in favor of strict parsimony and careful economy on the part of minor officials of the civic departments and the fact that these things have been brought up at a meeting of a body of leading citizens of the community should have the needed effect.

Removal of the Police Building will perhaps someday be carried out. It is not the prettiest architecturally in the city for one thing, and it is in some respects unhandy and unsuited to its needs. But many thousands of dollars would be necessary to completee what is needed in the way of a new building and for the present perhaps it would be as well to let the thing go merely with consideration.

The suggestion made whereby a mill on the dollar can be cut from local taxes on the surface will no doubt prove popular. But it is probably easier to do that on paper than as a practical proposition.

CARRYING IT OFF

The office boy rushed into the manager's office with his hat on one side of his head and shouted: "Hey, boss! I want to get off to go to the ball game."

"William," said the manager, "that is no way to ask. Sit here at the desk and I will show you."

He went from the room and returned with his hat in his hand, saying: "Please, Mr. Smith, may I go to the ball game this afternoon?"

OF COURSE NOT!

Mrs. Ferguson—George, dear, how do you like my new hat?

Mr. Ferguson—Do you want my real opinion of it, Laura?

Mrs. Ferguson—No, I don't, you mean thing.

WORTH SOMETHING

So you have sold your pig, Giles?
Yes.
How much did you get for it?
Ten pounds.
What did it cost to keep it?
Ten pounds.
That didn't make much.
No, but I had the pig's company all the winter!

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

Young Lady—What kind of sandwiches do you have?
Soda Clerk—Ham bread, ham roll, cheese on bread, cheese on roll, chicken salad on bread, tongue, roll, tomato on bread, combination salad, rolls, hot dogs.
Young Lady—All right, bring me a dish of chocolate ice cream.

ALL THAT WAY OFF

At the wedding anniversary of a certain oil magnate one of the guests, noticing a lonely-looking and rather shabbily-attired man in a corner of the room, walked over to him.

"I was introduced to you," he said, "but I did not catch your name."

"My name," replied the other, "is Simpkins."

"Oh, then, you are a relative of our host."

"Yes," rejoined the "poor relation", "I am his cousin, five hundred thousand pounds removed."

Out of the Count

Wealthy Father (to would-be son-in-law)—Is it my daughter you want, sir, or is it her money?

Suitor—Sir, you know very well that I am an amateur athlete.

Wealthy Father—What's that got to do with it?

Suitor—A great deal, sir. It debars me from taking part in any event for money.

The Right Person

The old lady was feeling ill, so she maid sent for the doctor.

"What's the matter with your mistress?" he inquired.

"I don't know, sir", answered the maid, "but she says she wants to die."

"Ah," said the doctor, "then you did quite right to send for me."

PRICES VIA BELL HOP

The Outlook:

The bell-hops of the large New York hotels, who, as almost everyone knows, are the means whereby out-of-town guests obtain illegal liquor, have worked out the following system: When the guest rings for the bell-boy and asks if booze can be obtained, the boy replies that he will see what can be done. He then makes an enquiry at the desk as to what city the guests hails from, and informs the bootlegger of the purchaser's home town, so that he can charge "home-town prices". In other words, liquor are from the West coast, the price is twenty dollars a quart; if you are from Chicago, fifteen dollars a quart, etc. The prevailing price in New York for sales in hotels is ten dollars a quart. The bell-hop either follow's money. Quite a few scored in favor boys claim to be well rewarded for their ingenuity.

AT THE BELLE

Admirers of Raymond Griffith will give the popular silk hat comedian a rousing welcome Monday at the Belle Theatre, where his latest comedy, "Hands Up!" begins a three days' run. This is by all odds Griffith's finest, funniest and most spectacular picture to date.

"Hands Up" has a combined Civil War and western background, and this gives the inimitable Raymond an excellent opportunity to burlesque all the heavy war dramas and the wide western "had men," and, in general, heedless to say, he doesn't miss a bit his usual high grade, and in result is a picture —count 'em—two pretty girls.

Nervous Strain of Modern Life

LIFE was never lived at such high tension. There is a mania for speed, hurry and excitement. Nerve force is consumed at a tremendous rate and there is little time for recuperation.

But there is a limit to human strength. Sooner or later there comes the nervous breakdown.

There is usually plenty of warning of the approach of nervous exhaustion or collapse. You find you do not rest or sleep well. You are nervous and irritable. Little things annoy and worry you. You may have indigestion and headaches.

To get away from this condition you must have rest. You must help the nerves to get back health and vigor.

The most effective restorative of the nerves is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Many have been restored after months or years of the most serious forms of nervous trouble. But prevention is the wiser course. It is so easy to head off trouble by using this great restorative when the warning symptoms come.

You will feel younger and look younger and your friends will notice this and compliment you. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 60 cts. a box, all dealers or The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Ltd., Toronto, Canada.

KINGSTON LOST TO CALGARY SIX

Western Team Are Junior Champions After a Wonderful Series

VOSS EASTERN STAR

Calgary Forwards Too Clever—Kingston Finished Gamely

Amphitheatre Rink, Winnipeg, Man., March 27.—The Calgary Canadians are the junior hockey champions of Canada. The speedy youngsters from the West defeated Kingston 3 to 2 here tonight, to win the title and the O.H.A. Memorial Cup. Calgary won two out of three games in the final series, defeating Kingston two straight after the eastern champions had taken the first game.

The game was lightning fast. Calgary opened with a burst of speed which netted a goal in the opening session and two in the second and the Canadian cans completely dominated the play until Kingston put up their characteristic fighting finish in the last period. Calgary had increased their lead to three in the middle game and the Kingston rally easily fell short of tying the count by the smallest of margins.

THOMPSON CALGARY STAR

Thompson of Calgary, was again the outstanding player on the ice, being responsible for two of his team's tallies. McFadyen also showed up well for Calgary, parring the puck to Martin for the second goal and back-checking tirelessly throughout the entire game. It was Calgary's uncanny ability at stealing the puck from Kingston sticks that paved the way for their second victory. King ston seldom got near the Calgary defence in the first two periods and when they did their shots were easy for Tallmis, who played a sound game in goal. Taugher, in the Kingston nets, was also at top form and Vess and McKelvey were hardly to blame for the team's defeat.

The eastern forwards let Calgary break away for too frequently and on them should fall the blame for defeat. Vess was the star both on offence and defence for Kingston, although he marred an otherwise fine display by missing it with Thompson shortly before the end. Penalties came frequently when feeling between the teams ran high, but most of the offences were of a minor character.

A crowd of about fifteen hundred fans was treated to the finest hockey of the final series, and they pulled strongly for the Kingston boys in the last period, their fighting spirit making a big hit with the fans.

Calgary's shooting in the three games earned them the decision, for taking it all round, they were the better team. Their speed was far superior to that of Kingston and their back-checking tactics were much more effective.

Two games were rolled at the Y alleys last night, the first in the men's league when the Recreations won from the Y Reds by 711 pins. The Recreations were certainly spilling the maples as they broke the alley records both in the one game and three games when they rolled 1186 and 3268, the former held by the Hasbeens and the latter by the Recreations. G. Anderson was the high bowler of the evening with 306 and 775 while for the Reds C. Gilbert was high with 265. The second game in the Church League the St. Michaels took 2 points and the Tabernacle one. In the first game the St. Michaels were up 63 pins and added another 142 to this. In the last game the Tabernacle came strong and were up 106 pins but did not have enough to win on 4 total pins, losing out by 81 pins. Mrs. Lent of Tabernacle had the high three string of the evening with 519 while Miss Quinn had the single with 193.

THE VALUE OF OPTOMETRY

It is a good thing for human eyes that the Optometrist is able to successfully deal with the many abnormal eye conditions that exist today. If it were not for glasses tens of thousands would not be able to work. And Optometry would be of far greater benefit still if those who really need the Optometrist would visit him. KING GIVES LABORER LIFT

Madrid, March 26.—The King of Spain proved himself to be a good sport when he gave one of his lowly subjects a lift on the highway near the capital. King Alphonso was alone driving his own car. He had stopped to make some minor adjustment on the machine when a tired laborer not recognizing his sovereign, appeared and asked what his chances were for a ride into town.

The King thought his chances were excellent, asked him to get in and drove him to his home in a squalid quarter of Madrid. But on parting from his grateful passenger King Alfonso was unable to refrain from revealing his identity.

"Au revoir, old man," he said. "If you ever need anything, come and see me at the palace—you know, the Royal Palace.

DRAW SCHEDULE TONIGHT AT 'Y'

Softballers Want One More Team to Round Out The Loop

A meeting was held last night at the Y.M.C.A. to form a city indoor baseball league. The teams represented were the Cisco, Point Anne, High School, Christ Church Sunday School, Alemites, Canadian National, and the Belleville Juniors.

One more team is needed to round out the schedule. Any team wishing to enter the league may do so by sending a representative to the meeting at the Y.M.C.A. to-night. This meeting is called for 7o'clock. The entry fee of $10.00 must be paid when the team is entered, half this fee will be returned if the special ruling of the league given below is complied with throughout the series.

A schedule committee was appointed this evening. The umpires named to handle the series of games are, Walt Grenor, Ken. Colling, Stan. Nurse, A. Meagher, Tom Waddley, and Bunny Freebette.

The special ruling concerning the players in this league is as follows:—A player participating in any game or any part of a game with one team is considered a member of that team and is not elegible to play for any other team in the league. The team manager will be held responsible to see that his players are elegible. If a member of a team is found to be inelegible the game will be forfeited and the bond of $5.00 will be forfeited and credited to the league funds.

SKATING PARSON WINS HIS RACE

Challenged any Four in Relay and Won "Going Away"

Prince George, B. C., March 26.—The good old days of the open air and the dance hall have vanished from central British Columbia, and the need for "fighting parsons" to keep the church pews filled passed.

Athletics has taken the place of hard liquor drinking as the most popular sport of the interior railroad towns, and consequently there is a strong incentive for their spiritual leaders to adopt a pleasanter form of recreation than pugilism.

Prince George now has its "skating parson" in the person of Rev. H. Kuring, who recently issued a challenge to meet four of the city's speediest skaters in a relay race. Flashing across two miles of frozen river, Mr. Kuring defeated his four competitors, despite the fact that a fresh rain started out at every half mile. The skating parson finished well in front ready for more.

The race proved a big attraction at Prince George's recent ice carnival.

ALL TUNES ARE ALIKE PLAYED ON BAG PIPES? NO! JUST READ THIS

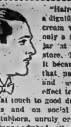

Stewart, B. C., March 26.—One tune is as good as another, thought Tommy Pearce, and fortunately for him the majority of people cannot tell the difference between one melody and another when played on the bagpipes. Other people have been the centre of angry mobs recently when, as commandeered to stage a one-man parade down the main street of Stewart before a truck loaded with the first ore shipped from a local mine, he selected "The Barren Rock of Aden."

All went well until Powers, with martial stride and the full skirl of pipes all but drowned out by the rumble of the four-horse ore wagon, reached the effect of the minute company. The boisterous compliments of the company, recognized the tune, rushed out and halted the procession.

The piper explained that he had picked the tune at random and meant no malice. He struck up "The Cock o' the North," and the lumbering parade started off again to the accompaniment of cheers from two sections.

"HAIR-GROOM"

Millions use it because it gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to the hair—that neat touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions. Contact Heat Puts the Speed into SPEEDIRON

Contact Heat

Radiated Heat

WHEN a boy pokes his finger into a pie hot out of the oven, he is instantly made aware of the meaning of "contact" heat, just as you would be if you put your finger on a hot iron.

When you put your hand near a hot iron you feel "radiated" heat.

When you set a kettle or pan on the Speediron Element in a McClary's Electric Range you get contact-heat.

There is no air space to waste or radiate the heat. The heat can't go anywhere but upward into the bottom of your pan or kettle, because the bottom of the Speediron Element is specially and thoroughly insulated, preventing heat from going down and forcing it to go up through the bottom of the cooking utensils.

That flat, even top surface and the insulated bottom of the Speediron Element forcing the heat up, put the speed into Speediron—the speediest protected element ever designed.

It Lifts Out

McClary's New Element, Speediron, is made in three parts held together by one bolt. The whole unit lifts out almost as easily as you lift a stove lid—no screws or bolts or wire connections to unfasten. With the unit out it is a simple matter to unscrew the bolt and lift off the iron protector. The burned out heating coil is then easily and quickly replaced with a new one. Then you drop the unit back into place and the Speediron Element is ready for service again.

No liquids, forks, dirt or anything else can get into the coils of McClary's Speediron Element—the electric range element without an "if."

Come and See It

If you have an Electric Range now you will want to see this new, splendid improvement, because you know all about Electric Range troubles now. If you are going to buy an Electric Range you should see the Speediron Element in McClary's Electric Range—the trouble-proof Element. The new Speediron Elements are now on view at all leading dealers. Come and see it—today.

McClary's new Element—Speediron—was originated, developed and perfected in McClary's Electrical Engineering Department—is patented and registered by McClary's, used exclusively in McClary's Electric Ranges. It is the greatest achievement in Electric Ranges ever brought out and makes McClary's Electric Range the absolute leader of all Electric Ranges.

This Lassie Has Her Colds "Rubbed Away"

The mother of this attractive little girl, Mrs. E. R. Emmerson, of 215 Seventh Ave., N.E., Portage La Prairie, Man., is one of the many Canadian mothers who are enthusiastic about the "spreading" Vicks VapoRub, for treating children's colds. "I'm convinced Vicks VapoRub did Joan's croup at night pretty badly and Vicks did her a lot of good. I have also used Vicks for nervousness, muscle ache, head and chest colds."

Vicks is first "rubbed on" for sore throat, tonsilitis, bronchitis, croup or deep chest colds. Then as an applied, Vicks has a double direct action; inter nally medicated vapors are inhaled while, at the same time, externally, it is absorbed through and stimulates the skin.

With forty years' active experience in wallpapers, decorating and the study of color harmonies, places the Scantlebury store in a unique position for advising their customers as to what not to use and what can be successfully used on certain rooms. Mrs. Wilson's Experience a Guide to Women Passing through the Change of Life

Hamilton, Ontario.—"I have taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and can not speak too highly of it as I was in the Change of Life and was all run-down and had no appetite. I was very weak and nervous, and the pains in my back were awful. I had a could hardly move, but after taking a few doses I had not a friend on earth. I did not care if I lived or died. I was very nervous, too, and did not go out very much. A friend advised me to try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it did her so much good. I did so, and always worked hard until lately, and was in bed for two months. I began to feel like a new woman after the first bottle and I recommend it with great success, also Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about your medicine, as I cannot speak too highly of them."—Mrs. Wilson, 471 Wilson Avenue, Hamilton, Ontario.

LYONS COMPANY OUT OF POCKET

Auditors say Soo Firm made Less Money in Last 3 Years

Toronto, Mar. 26.—The report of Clarkson, Gordon and Dilworth, chartered accountants on the books of the Jas. Lyons Fuel and Supply Co., Sault Ste Marie, of which James Lyons, M.L.A., former Minister of Lands and Forests in the Ontario Government, is president, was submitted to the public accounts committee of the legislature this morning.

The report does not make any statement of the profit and loss account of the company, but makes the bald statement that the profits of the company during the last three years since Mr. Lyons has been a members of the Government are less than they were during the preceding three years. The report also stats that the company made no unusual profits in materials it supplied to companies which contract for timber limits from the Government. Major A. E. Nash of the Clarkson firm was the first witness and read from the report made.

Sinical Sadie Sees

A local florist advertises this week:

"Petting plants a specialty."

Sinical Sadie thinks there will be a run on these.

ISN'T NATURE GRAND!

Sinical Sadie says she saw a man this week with long whiskers and a bald head!

Someone said he was all branch, meaning no doubt he could never have a permanent wave? Eh, what.

Which causes us to think what a long some feeling a safety razor must have living in Russia!

OF COURSE

Women's faults are many;
Men have only two—
Everything they say, and
Everything they do!

WILLING VICTIMS

They say that there are microbes in a kiss
This rumor is most vile;
Why then there's lots of us who'd like to be Made invalids for life.

DON'T WORRY

When you have done your very best.
Don't worry!

Just wait, and leave to fate the rest—
Don't worry!

Sit tight. The error that pays to-day
With time are apt to pass away,
So turn a brave face to the fray—
Don't worry!

Time still straighten out the kink—
Don't worry!
With pamin there must troubles shrink
Why worry?
To this one question please give ear:

A BAD GUESS

A leading Paris prophetess
Informs the girls of '25,
Who sacrificed each flowing tress,
That shingling will not long survive.
Long hair will be once more the vogue
And, though just now she may not know it,
Will decorate each dainty rogue
As fast as she can grow it.

Well, Fashion plays astounding tricks,
And those who search the cryptal sphere
For news of 1926,
May think they see the future clear,
But in the busy barber's shop
They treat such gloomy forecasts
With scorn,
Since shingle, bob and Eton crop
Still claim fresh converts daily.

At for our womenfolk they smile
To think that they could e'er again
Revert to that old-fashioned style,
Which cost them so much toil and pain.
Reversions such as Fashion craves
May be designed, but few will head 'em.
She lost her bustle, willing slave—
The day they tasted freedom.

Poems Old And New

THE CITY'S CROWN

What makes a city great? Huge piles of stone
Heaped transversward? Vast multitudes who dwell
Within wide circling walls? Palace and throne
And riches past the count of man to tell,
And wide domain? Nay, these the empty husk!
These glory dwells where great deeds are done,
Where great men rise whose names thwart the dusk
Of misty centuries gleam like the sun!
In Athens, Sparta, Florence, 'twas the soul!
That was the city's bright immortal part,
The splendor of the spirit—it was their goal,
Their jewel the incomparable heart!
So may the city that I love be great Till every stone shall be articulate.
—Dudley Foulke.

DOGS

Dogs that which worried you last year
To-day as big and black appear?
Don't worry!

—Chilton Chase.

PUSSY WILLOWS

I love some dainty pussies here,
All dressed in soft grey fur;
But you might listen all day long
And not once hear them purr.

Nor do they run and frisk about—
These pretty living things,
But closely round a slender twig
Each tiny bloom clings.

All through the winter's storms and cold,
These furry babies swung,
In cradle beds of shining brown,
On willow branches hung.

The rough winds sung their lullaby,
And rocked them two and fro,
And all about their downy heads
Drifted the cold white snow.

But by and by the sunbeams warm
Peeped into each and bed,
And said, "Come pussies wakes now
For winter days are fled."

So bravely come the pussies forth
Though still the cold wind blows,
And up and down the long, brown stems
They cling lashing rows

But, when the days grow long and bright,
And breezes not so cold,
They change their dress of silver fur
For robes of green and gold.

The Marquis

BY
CHARLES GARVICE

"I was one of the persons in the hall" and never had she felt it more resentment upon her to wear her shoes in tantamount than when Mr. Hendrick had stated that the rangers had robbed and sacked the hut. She felt mean and guilty of meanness, and the blood rushed to her face with shame at her moral cowardice when she recalled, in the air like and quiet of her own room how generously the leader of the rangers had behaved to her. He might have robbed them of everything they possessed instead of which he had prevented his fellows from doing any thing of the kind, and provided her and her father with a conveyance and safe escort to Melbourne.

And she had remained silent, and without a word in defense of this man who, bad as he doubtless was, had protected and, in a manner, actually befriended her.

She paced up and down the room for hours. At one moment she resolved to go down to breakfast with the firm intention to say what she had been, as it were, powerless to say to-night, then the thought of telling in cold blood the story of that terrible night on which her father lost his reason and received his death blow, proved too much for her, and, wringing her hands in a fit of mental despair, she flung herself on the bed, dressed as she was, and tried to sleep.

She must have slept for a time, for she woke with a start, roused by the sound of horses' hoofs.

She sprang from the bed and looked at her watch. It was a quarter to three. She listened, but all was silent. The great house was as still as a tomb. Convinced that she had been mistaken, and had really heard nothing, she began to undress.

Suddenly she started and felt hastily and tremblingly in the bosom of her dress, then uttered a little cry of distress.

Her locket was gone! It had been attached by a very slight gold chain—Australian gold, the links of which might be easily bent or twisted. Where had she dropped it?

She searched her rooms cruelly, indeed wantonly, but it was not to be found.

Then she sat down and tried to remember when she had seen it last, and succeeded in recalling the fact of placing it round her neck when she had changed her habit for the black dress. She was sure of that.

If, then, she had dropped it, she must have done so in one of the rooms down stairs, in the drawing-room or in the hall.

And had been sitting near her a great part of the time with his arms round his neck. It was possible that in some of his reckless movements he might have bent the chain, or pulled the locket out and broken it away from the chain. If so, it was lying on the floor somewhere, an easy prey to the curiosity of the housemaid, who would be the first to enter the drawing room.

Constance's love for her dead father was an absorbing devotion, and the thought that his portrait would probably be handed round the servants' hall was simply torture to her.

The house was perfectly quiet; not a soul was about, or, indeed, probably awake. Why should she not go down very, very quietly and look for the locket?

She acted on the impulse, without pausing to consider it.

(To be Continued.

WRITERS ON FOODS

"Men have always been street talkers about food," says Mr. Robert Lynd writing in "John o' London's Weekly." "Women associate food with duty; men associate it with pleasure.

"Women novelists do not write about food with the same indiscreet enthusiasm with which the male novelists write about it. Even in our own time, women novelists will write about love or almost anything rather than about food. Miss Rose Macaulay in her own book of essays, tells you how to choose a relation or a husband other things, but she never for a moment thinks of telling you how to choose a good dinner.

"It is a remarkable fact that the three best-loved men among English authors—the three who are regarded by thousands of readers as their familiar friends—Dr. Johnson, Lamb and Dickens—all spoke of eating with exceptional relish. Some people said Dr. Johnson have a foolish way of not minding or pretending not to mind, what they eat. He himself, according to Boswell, ate with only too desperate an enjoyment. 'I never knew,' says Boswell, 'any man who relished good eating more than I did.'

"I doubt if any of the eminent novelists of our own time feel the same rapture in presence of good food and good cookery that was felt by the great Victorians. Joseph Conrad, it is true, wrote a preface to his sailors' cookery book, thus doing honour to the art, and Mr. Arnold Bennett has cleverly had his accounts of cookery at each of the new fort dinners. But I fancy there are more descriptions of indigestion than of good digestion in modern fiction. Mr. H. G. Wells is typical of the age when in Mr. Polly' he describes the appalling and dyspeptic meal with which Mrs Polly ruined the digestion of her husband.

"There had been the cold pork from Sunday and some nice cold potatoes and Heckford's Mixed Pickles of which I was ominously fond. He had eaten three cheerless, two onions, a small cold floury bread, and several capers with every appearance of appetite and indeed with ability; and there had been cold suet pudding to follow, with treacle,

"A Daintier Lunch could not be imagined."

JUST IN PASSING

MARCH

By Mary Carolyn Davies

March is the month for such wonderful things!

The winds are white eagles; we feel their great wings.

March is the month when the whole earth is making.

Sleepily, drowsily, ready for waking;

April is coming, and May, and oh, soon It will be June, June, June!

"Among all the strange things that men have forgotten the most universal and catastrophic lapse of memory is that by which they have forgotten that they are living on a star.

G. K. Chesterton.

The Archdeacon of Egypt said that three pennyboats were minded for elderly offertories and Reginald Arkell, a rhyming English journalist, has left thing about it. Have:—

"A curate who —Was entirely new
Once stood at a vestry door,
And murmured: "It
Is a three penny bit.
I've never seen one before!"

The vicar's aunt,
As he crossed the aisle,
Was sown as the salt sea brine:
"It may be now
To the likes of you
'Tis a very old friend of mine!"

NEW VS OLD

It looks as if there is some deep dark conspiracy in the newspapers against the shingle. Such dreadful things we read! It is going out of fashion—it makes women bold—it makes us grey—and then a bit of nice cheese. It was a pale hard sort of cheese he liked; and cheese he declared was indigestible. He had also had three big slices of greyish baker's bread, and had drunk the best part of the jugful of beer."

Travelling Libraries

Carrying recreation and culture into remote farm houses, Saskatchewan's travelling libraries have, grown from one box of books, sent to a handful of settlers ten years ago, to 1,100 libraries, with a circulation now of more than 500,000. The majority of the libraries contain sent 50 books. The service is intended especially for isolated districts, where there is no centre large enough for a permanent institution. Fiction by popular modern writers is most in demand, but there is a steady call for novels by Dickens, Thackeray, Scott, and George Eliot. Widening of the rural reader's horizon is indicated by requests for books dealing with agricultural and educational subjects, political problems, economics and travel. Children's books occupy an important place. Classics such as "Robinson Crusoe," "Treasure Island," "Little Women," "Dr. Doolittle," and the Burgess books are the most popular. Although volumes on birds and nature study have also a steady call. Any rural community in the province may organize a travelling library. A board of four citizens undertakes the library, and the Department of Agriculture, and any resident within reasonable distance is entitled to free use of the books. The boxes are constructed so that they may be used as book-cases. The Government pays the transportation charges one way.

LATEST SCHOOLBOY HOWLERS

The following list of schoolboy howlers—published in the latest issue of the "University Correspondent"—is probably one of the most entertaining of recent years:

fect, for people saw the work-house in a different limelight.

"Degrees of Comparison of badly: Bad; very sick; dead.

TRUCKS STAND UP UNDER RED TEST

Foreign dispatches carried brief mention last October of an international endurance contest staged by the Soviet government to determine what passenger cars and trucks would stand up under the primitive road conditions existing in Russia, but it was not until the Americans who took part in the contest returned that the details were learned of what probably was the most exacting trial that ever was devised for motor transport equipment. The Soviet government's plan was not how easy but how hard the tests could be made, so that if a car or truck had a weak place it would be revealed.

J. G. Shelley, who had charge of the Graham Brothers entry in the truck contest returned recently and gives a vivid account of the event. Trucks were required to cover a course of 1,200 miles, and according to Mr. Shelley there are no roads in America to compare with the route the Soviet government laid out.

"If there are any such roads in this country," Mr. Shelley said, "nobody here would try to run trucks over them."

A Wild Race

"It was a wild race," Mr. Shelley continued. "We were to start in the morning and reach a certain control point by night. We were stopped several times in the course of the day in order to keep the whole company together. Each truck had a commander, or representative of the government, in charge, who made a record of the truck in which he was riding. The Russians designated the roads as 'paved', but we would hit holes that would throw all four wheels of the ground.

"Before starting on this trip the trucks were supposed to be prepared and tuned over to a technical committee of the Automobile Club of Moscow for comparison and acceptance as to note anything new or unusual in automobile and truck construction. They also checked dimensions, which items also were checked after the run, and there was just one point on which there was any variation in our truck with that of the original measurement. That was a spread of about three-sixteenths of an inch between the front tires. Otherwise the Grahan Brothers truck was in perfect condition.

A Fine Showing

"Our showing came pretty near to being perfect, compared with what happened to some of the others. A German truck had an increased spread between the front tires of more than an inch. Two Italian trucks went almost completely to pieces. Two Russian trucks had to have new axles when they got back to Moscow.

"The test run was 1,200 miles, and we averaged about 30 miles an hour with a gas mileage of about 10. For economy we equaled the best.

"Any adjustment of a discrepancy incurred a penalty. Each truck was given 200 points to start with. If your steering gear broke your entire 200 points were gone right then, and you were eliminated. The same was true if the frame cracked. Penalties ranged from the 200 points to 10. This was a good plan, as the Russians wanted to eliminate the trucks that couldn't be operated over their roads. We must give them credit for figuring out a way in the end which were the good trucks. Our only penalty was a 10 for filling the radiator.

"Our start was made with a load of about 3,600 pounds, including parts, spare tires, 2,200 pounds of sand and three men. We ran between 750 and 800 miles with the load and then took the load off. The idea back of this was to shake the trucks to pieces, if possible, by running them empty over the bumps.

Fire in a Bush

"It was just one wild race all the way, a case of dog eat dog. For the last sixty miles there were five of us in front, and a blanket 250 feet long would have covered us all. There were two Russian trucks in the lead two German trucks and the Graham Brothers truck. Through a misunderstanding, we had entered only one truck, which automatically simmied us from a chance to get the grand prize.

"That last sixty miles was the most exciting run I expect ever to make. We were doing from 40 to 45 miles an hour over a frightful road. We were fifth, within a few feet of one of the German trucks which suddenly began to slow up. Within three miles of the finish it had driven a connecting rod and had to pull out. We swung out and passed at full speed. There was another German truck right behind us that had been trying for miles to get us, and we did not dare to slow down. We tore down to a long hill with a sharp curve and a railroad track at the bottom, and that German truck behind us went at least three feet in the air when it hit the track.

"We finished fourth, right on the taillights of the two Russian trucks and the one German car.

"After the long run we had a 'bad roads' contest, a 'trip around Moscow,' they called it. The Russians had picked out the worst roads they could find for this test. There was one particularly bad place. The Russian trucks had been over the route before and knew how to avoid it. We had to get off the road and go over a hill through the woods. This was the slipperiest mud I ever have seen and at one place we had a slant of 40 degrees to one side. Some of the trucks simply couldn't make it. One American truck had to pull out. The two Italian trucks were completely put out.

Climbed Heavy Grade

"Here the Graham Brothers truck certainly showed what it could do. There was a 25 per cent grade, and we put on our chains and made it with the full load. We did it no nice by the other fellows were spell-bound. There was never a better performance than our truck coming up out of that place. From then on our reputation was made. Everytime we stopped people would come around and ask questions.

"We can put our truck up against anything Europe has to offer mechanically, and when you consider the price there is no comparison. We can equal the best in economical operation and we are away ahead of them on design. Our body construction is more practical. They follow about military lines.

"Although we were not eligible for the prize because we had only one truck entered, a special silver cup was awarded the Graham Brothers truck 'for ability to pass over bad roads' as a result of our performance."

Plastic Surgeon Sues Lady Diana

Seeks to Collect Bill for Facial Lift—Duchess of Rutland Sued Also

Chicago, March 1.—To see Lady Diana Manners, on the stage as the star in the Miracle one would hardly think that she had acquired a "three-angle facial lift, with rejuvenation of the neck and laughing lines and eyes," yet that is what Dr. Henry J. Schirmer, son, plastic surgeon, claims. A bulky deputy sheriff interfered with the subpoena in the breakfast room at the Lakeshore Drive Hotel this morning while he served papers on Lady Diana and on the Duchess of Rutland. The surgeon's bill seeks to collect $1,000 from Lady Diana and $1,500 from the Duchess of Rutland.

When Dr. Schirmer visited them the last time about the bill, hearing they were about to depart for Kansas City, the actress said nothing about money.

"I will recommend you to the Queen of Rumania," Lady Diana told him, according to Dr. Schirmer, but the bardly satisfied him. He declares that he gave Lady Diana a three-angle facail lift, while he gave the Duchess a complete facial lift which "made her look forty years younger." The operation on the Duchess was performed at a hospital, but the work on the face of Lady Diana was done at her hotel.

After the papers were served on them the two women consulted an attorney and then departed for Kansas City. The suit will be heard in the Superior Court at a date not yet determined.

Quebec Legislature passed without dissent third reading of a bill to impose a tax on meals that cost over one dollar.

TO ENCIRCLE GLOBE

Canada to Be Brought Within 29 Hours of Old Country by Airship

Toronto, March 23.—Gigantic airships on lines encircling the globe, with light airplanes feeding them, was outlined in a comprehensive address on "Progress in civil aviation" by Air Vice Marshal Sir Sefton Brancker, K.C.B., Director of Civil Aviation in the British Air Ministry, at the Empire Club.

Great Britain is devoting much money to the development of two gigantic airships, each with a capacity of 5,000,000 cubic feet and being twice the size of any airship flown so far, for a service between India and London and which eventually will include Australia. Tals in turn will bring Canada within 25 or 30 hours from the old land, Sir Sefton declared.

The new ship will carry one hundred passengers comfortably and every convenience will be provided.

The trip to India is planned to take 100 hours flat without a stop or hitch.

CAN MAKE MONEY IN OTHER LINES

Doubts If Famers as a Rule Even Make Decent Wages

WORKS 4,300 ACRES

Problems in it That Financial Success Says He Can't Fathom

Chicago, March 23.—Samuel Insull, who can make millions in public utilities, despite advancing labor and material cost and the repressive influence of various commissions which regulate rates, finds he cannot get out of the "red ink" on his splendid 4,300-acre farm near Liberty, Ill.

As a result, Insull is perplexed over the condition of agriculture. His great farm is operated on the most economical basis, by practical farmers. Results are required just as closely as on any little 80-acre place. Yet, for the last 11 years, his losses have not been less than an average of $5.22 an acre for the entire farm. Last year the average loss per acre was $16.32 and in 1923 it was even greater. It is significant that these figures do not include taxes, interest, insurance and depreciation on buildings and machinery.

HAS SERIOUS DOUBTS

"I have serious doubts," said Insull, whether any farmer is able to show that he and his family are receiving ordinary day wages if he keeps proper accounts of costs and charges the time of his family and himself against farm operation at rates of pay that are comparable with those prevailing in his immediate neighborhood, and if he will credit his farm operation with the portion of his rent and living expenses he gets out of his farm.

"I do not mean to say that there are no members of the farming community in our part of the country who are not making money, have something else to rely upon beyond the mere production of foodstuffs—such as trading in cattle and selling cattle to other farmers.

"I am firmly convinced that farmers are in an unsatisfactory condition. In the long run I think farmers' condition must affect general business. There are some problems in connection with it that are beyond my comprehension."

LAND VALUE INCREASES

In 1917 the Insull farm contained 3,212 acres and 57 men were employed, caring for an average of 56 acres each. Last year there were 4,251 acres and the work was done by 40 men, an average of 105 acres per man. Whenever labor saving devices can be used they are put into service. The fertility of the land is about the average for this section of the state. The farm was bought at an average of $567 an acre and is now valued at $1,500 an acre. Much less money would be lost on it if the gates were locked and the entire place seeded in grass, or permitted to grow up in weeds.

28 DAYS' TOUR TO ALASKA

Once Alaska was identified with the gold seeker. Today it is so closely linked with tourist traffic, for men have found that there is more sheer gold in one Alaskan sunset than ever came out of the rockbound mines. It is a land of strange contradictions and never-ending surprises. It is the desire of every tour ist to visit this enchanted country, the land of the midnight sun.

The Kerr-Bryson tour via the Canadian National Railways offers you the desired opportunity under most advantageous auspices and at a minimum cost. The tour embraces Jasper National Park, the famous Triangle Tour, the Pacific Coast, Alaska and the Great Lakes Trip on the return journey.

FARMERS START WORK

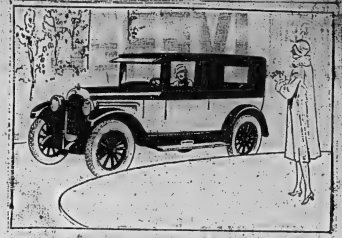

Ploughman in Busy as West Welcomes Spring's Arrival

Winnipeg, March 23.—Spring is here, judging from all prevalent signs. There is a bright sunshine to-day, the temperature is high, farmers are reported on the land, the larks are back from the south and the wild geese is en route north, two flocks passing over the city on Sunday.

If the good weather continues, hundreds of farmers will be on the land this week, and seeding is expected to start early this year. In many sections of the west the ploughman is busy today, while reports of harrowing and discing have been received. The land is reported to be in excellent condition.

PARIS POLITICAL RIOTER KILLED BY GENDARMES

BLAKSLEE, DOLAN HERITY, SANDERS WORTH, ELECTED

Roary Club Ballots on Men Who Will Run Club For Year

HEARD REV. DR. BOYLE

Cobourg Clergyman Had Something to Say on Evolution

New directors of the Belleville Rotary Club as elected to-day are: Dr. Blaksiee, Charles Dolan, J. O. Herity, Harold Sanders and E. W. Worth. They meet for the first time next Monday to elect a president and if custom is followed this will be vice-president Dolan.

The club to-day heard an address from Rev. Dr. T. B. Boyle, of Cobourg, a Rotarian and successor there to Canon Sawers, who is well known in Belleville.

Dr. Boyle spoke on his own membership classification in the club: clergymen; his own "business": religion"; his own "product", righteousness.

And one of his earliest statements was that in the business of religion there were more bootleggers than in any other so far as he knew.

He sketched epochs which had the result, of revolutionizing thought, including the conditions of Copernicus and Galileo; and Darwin and the recent and well advertised trial in Tennessee, al lover evolution and the right to teach it.

His own conclusions were that religion has no quarrel with service; a devout Christian can accept scientific conclusions and still be a Christian; it was the part of religion to interpret science; and finally he said evolution was only a part of it—there was still the great mystery of life which could only be accounted for as coming under the supernatural.

"My Religion", he declared "is scarcely affected by the conclusions of science. The world is here; we are here, as the crown of God's creation. We are rational, intelligent beings and it is reasonable to assume that our intelligence comes from a Higher Power. All men need religion. My business, that of the church is the oldest business in the world. It is still doing business at the old stand and it will continue to do business. All men whether of religion or science are divine. We do well to leave these things in the hands of the Supreme Being."

Chicago, Ills., Mar. 29.—When William H. Safford answered his telephone last night he was startled to hear the operator calmly say, "Hold the line for Rugby, England, please." ANOTHER LETTER FROM MR. BOGLE

Belleville, March 29, 1926.

To the Editor,
Daily Intelligencer,
Belleville.

Dear Sir,—

Since the publication of that letter over the signature of Col. W. N. Ponton in your issue of the 24th I have been receiving your paper from day to day especially to have the pleasure of reading several letters from worthy citizens commenting favorably on that admirable letter which contains, duly expressed by the use of a few well-chosen words, so much worthy of our serious consideration and immediate execution.

It is my opinion there is no other man in our City so well informed regarding our financial affairs and so well qualified to discuss the present condition and probable future of our City. He knows the situation, and have been brought up at the better influence (enough with all the grace, nobility, dignity, and progressiveness which our proposed new name, Quintonia, Quinton or Skookum, or of course, some name still better, shall confer upon us.

Robert Bogle.

Possibly some of you readers may not be familiar with the circumstance of that Indian word "Skookum." The man who is presumed to be Skookum must be:

Strong, Manly, Wise, Courageous, Masterful, Progressive, Temperate, Kind, Gentle. In short: a full-offered man.

questions asked was, "What about the taxes?" When told that the sale was off, some years ago the writer owned a piece of vacant land which he offered to see for $1100. The taxes were $600. Now if he could not pay the taxes for two years the city would practically own the property.

The Colonel refers to "Community Spirit." The possibilities of this spirit, when exercised to accomplish a worthy object cannot be over-estimated. Too many of the members of our popular societies act antagonistically to this spirit. They enquire regarding a fellow citizen, "Is he a ——?" "He's a member of ——?" "No." "Then to be with him." This developing prejudice, which with many other evils will be entirely abolished after we have emerged from our paltry, petty, racial ville mentality, and have been brought under the better influence brought with all the grace, nobility, dignity, and progressiveness which our proposed new name, Quintonia, Quinton or Skookum, or of course, some name still better, shall confer upon us.

ONTARIO HOUSE LIKELY TO CLOSE BY GOOD FRIDAY

Public Accounts Committee Has Not Produced Much Ammunition

BUDGET SAW BATTLE

R. L. Brackin, Liberal, Candidate in Addition of "Good Work"

Toronto, March 29. (Special).—There is now no reason why the Legislature should not wind up its business by Good Friday. The public Accounts Committee, which always holds potentialities, is getting pretty flat, from the viewpoint of the Opposition Inquisitors, and the House itself on Friday got down to committee of supply, and is busy with the supplementary estimates for the fiscal year ending next October. The first thing the treasurer, Hon. W. H. Price, did after reaching his stage was to introduce his borrowing bill for the year. For the first time, this contains a provision for commencing to retire the provincial debt.

THE BUDGET

The budget debate did not pass out without a struggle. The Government decided to go through to a division last Thursday night, but encountered an epidemic of speech-making, due chiefly to the desire of many members to make their stand known in regard to the amendment for sale of liquor under government control, moved by R. L. Brackin, (Lib., West Kent). Including the party leaders, who constitute take part toward a decision, 21 members were heard. Two suggested adjournment of the debate, as the hour grew later, but the prime minister was all for getting down to more serious business, so the oratory continued all night. It was 8.45 Friday morning when at last the division bells rang. While the vote was not on straight party lines, yet the amendment was obviously a non-confidence motion, and upon that basis the Government had the remarkable majority of 74. The vote was 84 to 10 against the amendment, and the motion to go into supply was declared carried without a division.

FIVE LIBERALS

Five Liberals supported the Brackin motion, the labor party of two was split in twain, with Karl Homuth for the amendment and J. P. Catlin against, and the remaining eight were opposed. The government side was divided, the great majority even of those sympathetic toward a government control plan refusing to become committed to anything immediate. Non-confidence vote against the administration. Col. John A. Currie, long a vigorous opponent of sale by government control, could not bring himself to oppose the amendment, although making it clear that he was in favor of sale by the present government. W. G. Welchel, North Waterloo, represented the views of his constituents by similar action. And the House was got surprised to find Frank Wilson, of Wiarton, and James McCausland, Toronto, voting with Mr. Brackin. As the Liberal Mr. Sinclair in upholding his "dry" stand before the public, will have to explain the distinction between himself and his followers—A. Belanger, of Russell; E. Proulx, Prescott; J. A. Pinard, Ottawa East; Ed. Foller, Sandwich West and Mr. Brackin.

MR. BRACKIN

The debate was featured by a really able speech from Mr. Brackin, who declared that the province would be better off if the O.T.A. were repealed out entirely, and "something put in its place that would do what it is supposed to do." He concurred in the Act might beneficial to many rural districts, but in view of the conditions in large centres it was a small time

MANY WERE INJURED

Young Patriots, Young Royalists and Reds Out Of Bounds

Paris, March 29.—Demonstrations following the election of two communist deputies in the second electoral district of Paris resulted in the death of one person and the injury of a number, when demonstrants clashed with police in Grand Boulevards, the Place De La Opera and the grounde eachouse Elysee Palace, the residence of the French President.

The most violent trouble occurred in the grounds enclosing the palace where the "Young Patriots", a Catholic moderate organization opposed to the communists, staged a parade, singing nationalist songs and shouting "Dow awith Malvy." The Minister of Interior, and otherwise manifesting against the radical bloc ministry.

Maurice Ridard, a member of the organization was clubbed over the head by the police while they were attempting to disperse the crowd. He died today of his wounds. Most of the demonstrants throughout the city were young men, members of Young Patriots, Young Royalists and Young Communists organizations.

JAIL BREAKER CROSSED ON ICE HELD FOR POLICE

Man Wanted in Kingston Ran Into Arms of Law At Watertown

Kingston, Ont., March 29.—Word received in city this morning stated that Duane Wagar, wanted in this city for breaking jail while awaiting transfer to Portsmouth Penitentiary to serve three years for theft at Harrowsmith and Verona, was arrested by the state police at Watertown, N.Y. and is charged with having been connected with a robbery of Cream near there. Brantford Workman and Star Hockeyist Met Fatal Accident

Brantford, Ontario, March 29th.—Kenneth Gerrard, member of the Big Nations, and star goalie of the Canada Glue Works hockey team which has won the Brantford City League Championship for two years, died at the Brantford General Hospital this morning from effects of a fall into a vat of boiling water at the plant early Sunday morning.

ANOTHER CRASH ON WALL STREET

New York, N.Y., March 29.—Acute weakness developed in today's stock market when heavy selling for both accounts forced over three score issues, including such popular stocks as United States Steel Common, General Motors and Radium to new low levels for the year. Declines in active issues ran from 2 to 10 points with even larger breaks in some of the ordinarily inactive shares. Except for calling of about $10,000,000 or $15,000,000 in bank loans, in apparent preparation for a heavy month end requirements for funds and the establishment of a new record low for French francs, there was little in the day's news to account for the selling movement. Much of the liquidation obviously was forced and powerful banking interests apparently showed little, disposition to support the market although "scale down" buying was evident in many issues.

BISHOP BIDWELL ADMINISTERS RITE OF CONFIRMATION

His Lordship Received Into Church One Hundred and Fifty

GAVE TWO SERMONS

In Evening Unveiled Handsome Memorial to Canon Forneri

One hundred and fifty candidates were received into the Church of England in Belleville yesterday when the Rt. Rev. F. J. Bidwell, Bishop of Ontario, administered the rite of confirmation to 150 candidates in St. Bartholomew's Church and eighty-five in Christ Church at the morning and evening services of Palm Sunday.

AT ST THOMAS

At St. Thomas Church in the morning Venerable Archdeacon Beamish presented the fifty-eight candidates prepared by himself, thirty-four men and boys and twenty-four girls and women of whom twenty were adults also three candidates prepared by Rev. Arthur Strother, and four prepared by Rev. James Hutton, of Point Anne.

Previous to the confirmation service the Communion service was conducted by His Lordship, the principal of the Missionary being Canon Jones, friend, secretary who carried the funeral staff, and acted as His Lordship's crozier. Ven. Archdeacon Beamish, rector of St. Thomas, Rev. R. R. Pettun who read the scriptural passage for the Confirmation Office, Rev. Arthur Strothers, of Madoc who read the Gospel, and Rev. James Hutton, of Point Anne. The epistle was read by Rev. A. L. Geen.

THE SERMON

In an inspiring sermon Bishop Bidwell reminded the candidates of the great solemnity of the vows made for them at Baptism which were to be confirmed by each in the highest rite of the laying on of the hands. He stressed the seriousness of creeds. In the sacrament we are reminded of God's promises in the Church, those who receive the laying on of the hands are reminded that they need not be alone in their Christian lives. It is the divine and wonderful gift but with it we must have faith to keep it. Those Christ appeals to He disciples He did not say "try to be respectable and right living. His command was "Be ye perfect." Paul said, "I have fought the good fight", so it must be with all of us.

THE LAYING OF HANDS

"Those who come for the laying on of hands come to renew the vows of baptism in which we are pledged to a certain kind of life and accordingly they will make a public profession that they are ready to carry out the vows made for them." Continuing he said that "the ordinances of God cannot work unless we keep them alive in our hearts." Our gifts must be kept alive by our efforts."

THE GREAT DANGER

The great danger with the Church of God, His Lordship said, is not unbelief which for sure has united in both against the Church of Christ. There are those who say Christ was only a man. He was more than Reuben Rearer. The greatest danger we face is inconsistent lives. "To attain the ideal life you must remember Christ as your example—that the Church to which you belong is His Body. It is our duty to stand loyally by that Church."

THE RITE OF CONFIRMATION

At the conclusion of the service the Bishop's throne was placed at the edge of the Sanctuary, and the candidates presented two by two. His Lordship laying his hand upon the head of every one severally saying "Defend O Lord, this Thy child with Thy heavenly grace that he may continue thine for ever; and daily increase in thy Holy Spirit more and more until he come unto thine everlasting kingdom, Amen."

This service was followed by the Holy Eucharist, the newly confirmed members of the Church partaking reverently

CHURCH MARKS ITS 108TH YEAR

Special Services Held at Bridge Street For Anniversary

REV. DR. AIKENS THERE

Will Continue Services Nightly—Special Music is Is Heard

A numerous and devout congregation, especially the music, a talented preacher and an inspirational sermon of rich distinctive quality—comprised the offerings which went to make the opening service Sunday morning of Bridge Street's 108th anniversary, memorable and compelling.

The morning was clear and cold and brilliant sunshine, coming in through the beautiful south windows of the sacred edifice to cast a mellow glow over the well filled pews, making the scene suggestive of beauty and imparting a sense of security and restfulness. The service instituted a series of services which will be prolonged nightly until Good Friday evening, including a lecture on Thursday evening and an eleven o'clock service on Good Friday morning.

Professor Hunt played very beautifully as the church filled; the choir sang the reverent and at times somewhat solemn "Glorious Forever" by Rachmaninoff; Mrs. Stobie and Mrs. Mackinnon rendered a duet; Mr. A. F. Stilman sang after the sermon had been concluded.

The pastor the Rev. F. E. Malott D. D. conducted the opening exercises the special preacher for the day and for Passion Week special services the Rev. J. W. Aikens, D.D. making the address to the children and preaching the sermon. His address to the younger people included two amusing stories and one other about a little chap whom he knew who prayed that blessing might come to "everybody in everybody's family." Said Dr. Aikens: "No finer prayer has ever been offered up in this church. The children would be all right if the older people were all right. Some of the older ones are no better than they should be."

He preached a loving and All-sufficient God and Father and an All-sacrificing Saviour. And he made during his discourse some outstanding remarks on men and affairs.

It had been written of one well known man that he did not like another person principally because he did not like his face. Some one had replied that no man was responsible for his face.

"Nonsense," was Dr. Aikens's reaction to this. "Of course a man is responsible for his face. Every man of 45 is responsible for his own character and character moulds the face. I never saw a bad man with a good face and I never saw a good man with a bad face."

Speaking of international affairs and of wars and rumors of war he said: "The world is going through the birth pains of the new and better world that is coming."

Other observations were: "Faith is not merely faith in a creed. One must have had faith before settling upon any particular creed.

"One's faith in Christ must be faith in Him as a person; and there is no half way measure. It must either be 'from Him' or 'crucify Him.'"

"People must believe in Him before they join the church, for God help us if we have taken people into the church before God has dealt with them.

"Christ was not crucified by bad men but by men who thought themselves good men. And they do it yet.

"The Church has imperfections as we all know and realize. But one sees mostly her glories. And these glories include her ministers her Sunday School teachers and her children.

"Personally I can see no room in the church for those who divide on such questions and the pre-millenial coming of Christ and opposed to those who see only a post-millinial coming. Nor between those who stand for fundamental and who are opposed to modernism.

"The trouble is that no man knows enough about either side of these questions to be supreme to say 'I'm right and you are wrong.'

"Christ will come in His own good time and will vindicate the good features of all these questions."

At the evening service the music was under the direction of Mr. Stobie and the choir, Mr. Howard and Mr. Sprague all contributing special numbers appropriate to Palm Sunday.

The choir will do Stainer's Crucifixion on Good Friday evening.

Easter Millinery $4.95

It is surprising what extreme ly smart hats we are showing at this low figure, many of them being priced as high as $7.50. Crowns in the newest blocks, trimmings of flowers, ribbons and pins and colors such as black, wood, rose, navy, green, etc., make these hats exceptional value for the Easter shopper.

AT CHRIST CHURCH

This sacred edifice was altogether inadequate to accommodate all who desired to attend the confirmation service at Christ Church in the evening. Long before the impressive service was commenced the church was filled to its capacity and many were reluctantly compelled to go away.

At the opening of the service a memorial tablet was declared by Rt. Rev. R. J. Bidwell, D.D., Bishop of Ontario. The tablet of white marble is placed on the south side of the sanctuary and is the gift of Rev. A. J. and Mrs. Geen to the memory of he late Rev. Canon Forneri who was brother of Mrs. Geen. The tablet bears the following inscription:

IN MEMORY OF RICHARD SYKES
FORNERI, M.A.D.D.,
CANON OF ST. GEORGE'S CATHEDRAL
THIRD RECTOR OF CHRIST CHURCH
1854—1921
60 YEARS IN THE MINISTRY
R.I.P.

With appropriate prayers the Bishop dedicated the tablet.

THE SERMON

Bishop Bidwell delivered an impressive and thoughtful discourse with especial reference to those who were about to be confirmed. As the basis of his remarks, His Lordship selected the 23rd verse of the 5th chapter of Luke.

"And He said to them all, if any man will come after me let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily and follow me."

In his opening remarks the Bishop impressed upon all the necessity there was at this Lenten season of the year to have our Coughts centered upon the words of the text. We should surrender ourselves to the will of God and take up our cross daily. There was nothing more strengthening to the Christian than these trials and tribulations. We should share our burdens with the Son of God. Him they compelled to carry the cross. The words of the text was an especial appeal to those who were coming forwards for the laying on of hands and confirmation to be Christ's soldiers until life ends. Follow Christ at all times and in all places. We are called upon to bear witness of our discipleship and so daily take up our cross and follow Him. It may not be easy at all times to bear our cross but look what the Son of God did for us. He did not swerve one inch from the hard duties He was called upon to do. His way may lead us in rough places but He went over rough places for us. He asks us to confess and stand by it. In conclusion the Bishop stated that this world be his last message it would be his privilege to deliver, and he desired to impress upon all the necessity there was of adhering strictly to the words of the text and carrying them out in daily life.

Those assisting in the service were the Rector, Rev. C. E. Clarke, Canon Jones, Synod Secretary, Kingston, Rev. H. R. Pettem of Roslin, and Rev. A. L. Geen of Belleville. Appropriate music was rendered by the choir, Mr. M. Lavole sang the solo part of the anthem entitled "Pilgrims of the Night."

ADDRESSED ST. THOMAS PUPILS

Yesterday afternoon the parish hall of St. Thomas Church was filled almost to capacity when Canon Jones, Synod Secretary, Rev. H. R. Pettem and James Hutton each gave brief addresses to the Sunday School scholars and visiting friends.

Baseball Gossip

Now that hockey has melted out of the way, fans think again of the old baseball squad who for a number of years have brought home pennants for Belleville, and what promises the team will have for doing the same this year. So far as known most of the old line-up will be out, along with them will trail a couple of last year's rookies. Johnnie Outlet will likely take the lead with the twirlers. If Jack Williams turns out to cover third. Blakely will likely play short and Vern Wer will go to second. Gibson who comes from Cobourg will have a chance to land a job out in the open spaces, as Alec Weir is in Detroit and may remain there. However with softball starting up this evening when Point Anne will play the C.N.R. team and Belleville Juniors the Clacoe, the fans will know the ball has started to move.

THE BISHOP'S RESIGNATION

Kingston, March 29.—With an expression of profound regret, the House of Bishops of the Ecclesiastical Province, in an informal note, have informed Right Rev. E. J. Bidwell of their concurrence in his desire to retire as bishop of the Anglican diocese of Ontario. Formal acceptance of his resignation, to take effect on May 1, will, it was said, be announced in the near future.

AT ST. ANDREW'S

In St. Andrew's last evening the congregation heard with great pleasure Miss Gwyneth Frise of Irrigton, a pupil of Prof. Wansbury, sing "Face to Face." Miss Frise is the possessor of a very sweet voice and rang with great charm.

Jews of City In Festival

Pesach or Passover, a joyous, recular holiday popular with the Jews the world over, begins at sundown to-night and continues eight days. Pesach is kept in memory of the Israelites who were brought out of Egypt where their lives were hard and bitter under the rule of Pharoah. Under the leadership of Moses inspired by the Divine will, the Israelites succeeded in crossing the Red Sea on foot and how they escaped from the Egyptian ruler. Prior to their leaving Egypt forever, the Israelites were commanded by Moses to kill a lamb and sprinkle the blood on their doors, so that the angel of death would pass over their houses and leave them unhurt when he came to slay the Egyptians first born. It is from this that the holiday derives it name. The first two nights of peasover is taken up with a Seder, which means that everything done on these nights are done in fixed order. In order to make a traditional Seder there must be on the table lighted candles; a bottle of wine; parsley and green vegetables, a roasted bone of a lamb; a roasted egg; chopped apples and almonds mixed into a paste with wine. Three matzos or unleavened bread are put between white cloths. There are bitter herbs. Symbolical of some circumstances connected with the Israelites during their stay in Egypt the roasted lamb reminds them of the Angel of Death passing them by when he came to slay the Egyptians first born. The matzos remind them of the bread of sorrow which their forfathers ate in Egypt and also of the unleavened bread which they ate when they marched out in great haste. The little herbs remind them of the bitter lives of their forefathers.

The book which is read on Seder night is called the Hagadah, which means "telling" because it tells the story of Passover. A sumptuous repast is enjoyed in the midst of the service. To the children it is a unique night. The youngest child at the table recites, "Ma Nishtana," which asks the reason for the things done. Then comes the answer from the head of the family who tells the story. Then follows prayers and songs of praise and thanksgiving. To-wards the close of the Passover service the head of the family recites a curious Chaldaic recitation which is as follows: Chad Gadya! Chad Gadya one only kid of the goat. One only kid, one only kid. Which my father bought for two zuzim. Chad Gadya! Chad Gadya! And a cat came and ate the kid which had bitten the cat which had devoured the kid, which my father bought for two zuzim. Chad Gadya! Chad Gadya! And a fire came and burnt the cat, which had bitten the dog, which had bitten the cat, which had devoured the kid, which my father bought for two zuzim. Chad Gadya! Chad Gadya! And a water came and extinguished the fire, which had burned the staff, which had smitten the dog, which had bitten the cat, which had devoured the kid, which my father bought for two zuzim. Chad Gadya! Chad Gadya! And an ox came and drank the water which had extinguished the fire, etc. Chad Gadya! Chad Gadya! And the slaughterer came and slaughtered the ox which had drunk the water, which etc. Chad Gadya! Chad Gadya! And the Angel of death came and slew the slaughterer, which had slaughtered the ox, which etc. Chad Gadya! Chad Gadya! And the Holy one came Blessed, be He and slew the Angel of death, who had slain the slaughterer, who had slaughtered the ox, which had drunk the water, which had extinguished the fire, which had burnt the staff, which had smitten the dog, which had bitten the cat, which had devoured the kid, which my father bought for two zuzim. Rich Vein Is Cut By Bennett Nining

An important find has been made on the Bennett Mining property at Swastika. A vein of about forty-four inches in width, very heavily mineralized and carrying good values, came in on the south wall of the shaft at a depth of about thirty feet. It came to have straight-on considerable and a cross-cut was driven in the vein. At a depth of sixty feet the vein extends to both walls over six feet, assaying free gold over a width for five feet. The find is at present office were notified, and the president, W. F. Bennett, made a trip to the mine to examine the find. This took place about the surface and its origins into the shaft caused considerable excitement. The expectation was that the shaft, when it reached a depth of 150 ft. might hit something at that depth they expected to cut the large ore body which runs over eleven feet in width on the surface at a distance of about forty feet and dips towards the shaft at an angle of about fifteen degrees. This break shows values on the surface of over $33 per ton across a width of about five and one-half feet. The Bennett Co., now plant and Welldop oil engine are proving efficient, and at the present time the round of twenty holes is being drilled with two drills in about one hour and fifty minutes; the usual time taken for this operation is three hours—Financial Post, March 26 1926.

INCONSISTENT INTERNATIONALISTS

Canada joined the League of Nations with the blessing of men like J. S. Woodsworth and A. A. Heaps, Winnipeg's Labor members, and Henri Bourassa, autonomists and internationalists. As a member of the League Canada has assumed very serious obligations. She has undertaken to co-operate in protecting other members from the wanton aggression of enemies. But you don't hear any protests from the trio of gentlemen mentioned against the risks incurred by this country in entering the League of Nations.

It is only against any possible risks to which Canada may be exposed by co-operating with Great Britain as one of the family of nations in the British empire, that these gentlemen protest. They propose that Canada should "refuse to accept any responsibility for complications arising from the foreign policy of the United Kingdom."

They are willing to accept responsibility for complications arising from the foreign policy of the League. Such complications might easily arise from the national egoism of the intrigues of governments such as those of Italy, Brazil, Poland and the Balkan States—from the acts and ambitions of rash, hot-headed politicians unaccustomed to self-control. Such risks our Canadian autonomists view without alarm even with serenity, for are they not the natural accompaniment of Canadian autonomy? But it is reasonable for them to withhold from British statesmen the faith and confidence that they are willing to repose in the statesmen of foreign countries? Is it consistent on their part?

The truth is, probably, that the real motive behind the Woodsworth resolution is the unavowed, restless desire to have this country cut loose from the British empire. Otherwise it has little or no meaning.

EXISTENCE VS. LIVING

New York real estate operators have instituted plans for a new building, or series of buildings, that will run up as high as eighty storeys.

Not simply office buildings, but a combination of offices, flats for living purposes, recreation rooms, and all the accessories people need to live and carry on business.

The reason for the new idea is that it will do a great deal to solve the transportation problem. The principal put it this way: "Instead of a man having to get into crowded cars and travel miles to his home after a day's work, he will get in an elevator and go up a few flights and be at home."

As long as big cities keep on getting bigger it is desirable that new plans be devised to meet the situation and make it as easy for people to live comfortably in them.

Yet there's something painfully artificial about the idea of a man doing a day's work in an office, and then when it's over stepping out of the office door and going into an elevator and being shunted up home.

Especially when it comes this time of year the idea seems too much like making a man simply a part of some great machine, in which he loses the desire to do things for himself, to fight with the landlord if he desires because he won't put shingles on the leaky back shed.

He has to sacrifice the chance of chatting with a neighbor over the back fence, and listening to a review of the proper time to plant Dutch setts and the advantages of planting lead before instead of cabbages. He can't borrow the neighbor's lawn-mower or his watering hose nor have the thrill that comes when the first rhubarb pie is made from the patch alongside the back fence.

THE TARIFF BOARD

The composition of the tariff board is announced by Premier King. The choice has fallen upon Right Hon. George P. Graham, former minister of railways and canals, as chairman, and there will be two other members in the persons to Mr. Joseph Daoust, chairman of the Montreal chamber of commerce and a prominent shoe manufacturer, and Mr. Donald McKenzie, a director of the United Grain Growers, Ltd. A permanent secretary will shortly be appointed. The board has power to engage experts as it sees fit, and is, of course, merely an advisory body formed with the idea of helping the government to make decisions on tariff matters. The public will accept the assurance that politics will play no hand in the deliberations of the new board, but it must be admitted that the prospects look none too hopeful for that independent, non-partisan, national action, which is the "raison d'etre" of the board. The experts referred to are to be selected from the government departments and the advice which is given is of course, subject to the approval of the powers that be. It is something, however, to have this special organization for investigating conditions and making recommendations. A board composed of an eastern manufacturer and a western United Farmer, under the presidency of a man of proven capacity and experience, should be helpful in the effort to reconcile differing viewpoints. The country will, at least, hope for the best.

WHO PAYS THE COST?

Ottawa Journal:

Much as we may desire to obtain Alberta coal in Ontario, and much as it may be in the national interest to develop the Canadian coal fields, there is no reason why the Canadian National railways should be asked to bear any portion of the expense. If there is any provincial or national advantage, apart from what the traffic itself can stand, then the cost should come out of the provincial and federal treasuries.

HELPING THE LAND

Winnipeg Liberte:

It not not because we have a rigorous winter, with intense frosts, that we have any cause to envy the countries to the south of us. Across the border there are also many difficulties to contend with; if it is not the cold, it is the heat or droughts. Let us take advantage of our cold winters, let us learn to profit by them. If we adopt the rotation of crops, which permits us to do our work early in the autumn (and earlier we do it the lighter it will be), it will have a great influence on the degree of humidity and cleanliness of the soil.

FAIR PLAY FOR THE PEDESTRIAN

Brooklyn Eagle:

Stricter enforcement of traffic regulations is to be desired, beyond all doubt. But the consideration of "defending" upon the pedestrian would seem to be misplaced. He was here before the motor car and it is only fair that the deluge of admonitory regulation and advice should be poured upon the motorist as well as the man in the street. Careful driving cuts down the element of risk to the minimum. The motorist should not be allowed to forget that street crossings belong to the two-legged machine as well as the four-wheeled power plant. And from the statistics compiled it would appear that "education" is needed for the drivers as well as the walkers.

IN BACKWARD TIBET

San Francisco Bulletin:

Lhasa, the forbidden city of Tibet, does not want electric lighting. Its rulers, the lamas, are afraid that the light of modern knowledge might be spread by the introduction of modern machinery and that would be fatal to their authority. To run an electric plant in Lhasa would call for education among the operatives and involve contact with the outside world. Hence the massacre of a party transporting 300 tons of electrical equipment intended for use in the forbidden city. Every member of the convoy was killed and the machinery was destroyed and thrown over a precipice. It is an uncomfortable, but not a poor, country. The population remains almost stationary for the reason that there is no immigration; polyandry is common and celibacy prevails among the lamas, who number about a quarter of a million of something like 4,500,000 people. Nobody wants to migrate to a land where the temperature often varies in a single day from roasting heat to below freezing point. The industries are primitive and will remain so while the lamas are in control. But even Tibet will not be able indefinitely to resist the march of progress. The killing of the young Tibetan who was educated in England and who wanted to bring electric lighting to his people will not end the search for knowledge. Others will be inspired rather than deterred by his fate and in time break down the barriers of ignorance.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Peter's First Version

Elsie proudly explained to uncle that she was first in French, while Edith was first in arithmetic.

And you, Peter, are you first in anything at school?

No—but I'm always first out of it, was the boastful reply.

Wrong That Time

An Irishman went into a jeweller's to purchase a gold ring.

"Eighteen carat?" asked the salesman.

"No, ye're wrong," said Paddy. "Oi've been atin' onions."

"Mabel", said little Sammy to his big sister at breakfast, "did you tell pops?"

"Tell papa what?" asked Mabel.

"Why you told Mr. Green last night that if he did it again you'd tell pops—and he did it again. I saw him!"

She Hoped So

The carnival dance was in full swing, and the fatuous young man beamed down upon his sorely tried partner.

Do you know I could dance like this for ever', he said.

Don't say that, answered the maid. You want to improve, don'tyou?

MAKES WATCH SIZE OF NICKLE

Tiny Timepiece Ticks Tirelessly—B.C. Man is The Owner

Vancouver, B.C., March 26.—Walter Leth, Vancouver watchmaker, claims to have produced the smallest watch in the world after two years of labor.

Made for and mounted on a tie pin, the watch can be covered easily by a silver five-cent piece. Alongside of a regular railroad watch the tie pin time piece shows at about one-fiftieth the size of the regular watch. The delicacy of Mr. Leth's task may be appreciated when it is stated that the screws used would carry 250 threads to the inch, and that it would take 20,000 of them to make a pound. Similar screws, placed on a white sheet of paper, show without a powerful glass as mere specks much smaller in breadth than the width of a pinhead.

The watch is its entirety weighs three and one-half pennyweight, or 84 grains. Yet it ticks right along and keeps perfect time. Mr. Leth made the special magnifying glass required in the manufacture of the watch and made also what is believed to be the only dial indicator of measurement, which gives the exact dimensions of the thinnest sheet of paper.

Letters to the Editor

ANOTHER BUTTERFLY

Maplewood.

Belleville, Ont.,

March 27th, 1926.

Dear Editor,—

In your edition of March 27th, I see that you have an article about a butterfly, which, you stated, was probably the first one seen in Belleville.—

About a week and a half or two weeks ago we found a butterfly, not a moth, fully opened and flying against the window in a sunny passageway on the south side of the house. We brought it into the drawing room and put it on a fern, but by the time which we discovered afterwards, it looked as if the cat had caught it, because she had appeared to be very interested in it when it was alive.

Yours sincerely

John Evans.

TAKE CHICAGO GIRL'S ESCORTS HOME IN HEARSE

Four Evenings With Four Different Men; All Killed

Chicago, March 27.—Pretty, demure little brown-eyed Mary Martha Margaret Collins was revealed yesterday as the "girl whose friends never live long."

Four evenings with four different men in four different cafes, and Mary walked home alone four times, her escort riding to the undertaker's, dead.

TERRIFIES ALLEGED SLAYER

When Eugene McLaughlin was arraigned on a charge of slaying Irving Scillo and Harry Berman he was debonair, confident.

"Prove it," he said to Captain Connor, and Captain Connor wasn't sure that he could prove it. But he had a trump up his sleeve.

"Remember the night when you got the black eyes because you desired to assist Miss Collins eliminate a piano player. We might bring her around," the captain said.

Then McLaughlin cowed and begged and pleaded.

"If you bring her around here, you'll never hang me. I won't live long enough. Her friends never do."

Then he told the story of demure little brown-eyed Mary Martha Margaret Collins, toast of the Chicago underworld.

Dion O'Banion defended her once and the girl mourned at his funeral.

She accompanied Johnny Sheehy to the Rendezvous cafe and walked home alone, for Johnny had a .45 bullet in his head.

Mary likes "Johnnies," so she went with Johnny Phillips to the "Midnight Frolics" and she had to wend her weary way homeward while her friend rode in state to the morgue.

Then J. Bates asked for a date. She went with him to another of the high light dives and Mr. Bates died on the dance floor.

STARTED FATAL QUARREL

Then Eugene McLaughlin, a gunman par excellence, tied for Mary's deadly love. They were at one of the midnight palaces of entertainment but demure little Mary didn't like the piano player, so she attempted to remove him with a cross of ice. She wasn't hefty enough enough, so Gene, always a fair Galahad, came to the little girl's rescue with a bat. He was pointed out of the picture with a chair gracefully splintered over his head.

Mary always had a little child. It wasn't her fault that she was deceived by the tough gangsters that took her to the palaces of bright lights.

McLaughlin was held without bond on the murder charge, and his bond for robbery for which he was arrested yesterday, was placed at $40,000.

King Ferdinand has instructed leaders of Nationalist, Peasant and Averescan parties to collaborate in an endeavor to submit by to-night a joint recommendation for a coalition government comprising the principal anti-Bratiano groups.

ONTARIO HOUSE TO CLOSE SOON

that something should be done. The force of the speech was heavily discounted a little later, when Premier Ferguson produced a copy of a campaign leaflet circulated by Mr. Bracken in the 1923 election, in which he as candidate declared that the O.T.A. must not be altered or interfered with until the people had so declared by a referendum. From this radical change of front, the prime minister drew the conclusion that the member was seeking through his amendment chiefly to embarrass the administration.

Mr. Bracken was candid enough to admit that he found no fault with the budget itself. He said: "If this amendment is lost, I will vote for the main motion. It will show my good faith. I think the Treasurer has done a very good job. From the standpoint of party politics, I should probably say I disapprove of his budget. Well, I don't. If this amendment does not carry, I will vote for his motion."

THE PREMIER

Premier Ferguson at close of the debate reiterated his policy in regard to the O.T.A. "Our policy on this question," he said, "has been to maintain the law upon the statute book, correctly enforced, and when the Government makes up its mind that it can improve conditions by altering that law, the Government will say so to the public of the province and members of this House. That is my conception and a correct interpretation of the principles of responsible government. The Government will take the responsibility, after collecting the views of the province, and members of this House gathering all the information with respect to this or any other question, with a view to deciding whether or not at any time any laws of the province should be amended in any way. My fellowers are entitled to their individual views, and I have always invited them to express their views. This is a challenge to the Government's existence, and I leave it to members of the House. Members may vote as they like, understanding what the position is, but they take the full responsibility for the vote they cast."

AS TO ELECTION

There were a couple of references by A. Belanger, during his speech in the debate, to the possibility of an early election. When he said he saw no need of it, Premier Ferguson said, "Hear, hear!" and added, "We will leave you here as long as possible." Later, Mr. Raney tried to draw out the prime minister further by professing to regard this as an announcement that there would be no appeal to the people until next year, and said that this coincided with his own expectation. The premier merely said that he would make an announcement in due course.

Tributes to the ministry are not uncommon during the Address and Budget debates, but some comment by Russell Nesbitt, (Toronto, N.W., "B") on Tuesday indicated careful study of the work of the various departments. He referred specifically to the dental survey work and child hygiene branch of the health department; reorganization in the provincial secretary's department, and restitution in that connection of $33,500 "in the department of public works," he said, "there have been many outstanding works this year, one item being the new east block, or Whitney Block, here; a building at Bowmanville to take care of 40 boys; Ontario hospital work at London and Whitby and new courthouses at Sudbury and Cochrane. The department has constructed 119 bridges and 40 miles of concrete without taking into consideration the work done on roads." Of Hon. W. F. Nickle, Mr. Nesbitt said, "I think anyone will agree the attorney-general is impartial, and deals out justice without fear or favor, and after all that is the proper way to administer a department such as his."

WORDS OF PRAISE

A word of praise for the special agricultural enquiry committee came on Thursday by A. P. Mewhinney, (Lib., West Bruce). "I think the has done good work," he said. "I believe the choice of the chairman was a wise one, for I think no man knows conditions of agriculture better than Hon. Dr. Jamieson, and I believe the farmers will reap benefit from the recommendations made by the committee."

In the Public Accounts Committee, sitting two and three times a day during the week, there was examination of Hon. James Lyons, late minister of Lands and Forests, as to the dealings of his fuel and supply company at South Sin, Marlic; of the McNamara Iron also of the Sault; regarding government contracts, and of various government officials in regard to work on roads built by the Northern Developmental Branch. The probing by Mr. Sinclair, Harold Fisher, and W. E. Raney seems to have been almost entirely unproductive, from their standpoint, but has served to show that administration is satisfactory in this department. Mr. Raney on Thursday cheered up a little when he found that some road contracts involved larger payments than the original tenders, upon a unit basis, but was promptly reminded that under the Drury-Raney administration it was common to find "over-runs" as high as 400% above the original tender, and specific instances were quoted to him. Incidentally, the prime minister in the House on Thursday moved for $2,000,000 further expenditure on Northern Development.

CHURCH UNION

The bill to amend the United Church of Canada Act reached the private bills committee on Thursday morning, and many prominent clergy and laymen attended the hearing. W. W. Mason and D. J. McCarthy, K.C., represented the United Church, and non-concurrents respectively. The bill proposes to give to the church property commission, created last year, mandatory instead of merely advisory powers, and it was shown that few of its recommendations in the past year have been carried out by congregations concerned. In respect to providing church accommodation for substantial majorities it is also proposed to permit before next October another vote by congregations, where a vote taken has been voided through irregularities, rather than have them go automatically into Union. After two hours' discussion, the committee voted down the first clause of the bill, 22 to 21. There was a general impression that the measure was thereby thrown out, as far as this session is concerned, but later in the day, Hon. Mr. Nickle, chairman of the committee, explained that the remainder—and the first concerns the title only—may still be considered, and that the bill will be called again in committee on Tuesday.

BRITISH FILMS

The motion picture industry as it affects Ontario was debated in the House on Thursday afternoon, on a motion by Russell Nesbitt that the Legislature express the opinion that more British-made films should be shown in theatres of the province. He said it was compulsory in Australia to have 1,000 feet of British-made film in every show. Hon. W. H. Price approved the principle of the suggestion, but said the situation must be met in a practical way. The board of censors had reported that of pictures shown in Ontario during 1925, 29½% were of U. S. manufacture. The minister said that the British Government was considering subsidizing of British-made pictures, and that if British and Canadian films were made, he would be glad to see that they were shown. Col. Price also referred to the work being done by the government in making films of Ontario life and mining activities, which had proved very popular in Great Britain.

NURSING STAFF QUITTING

Dismissal of Two for Bobbing Hair is Protested

Calgary, March 29.—Punishment followed swift upon the heels of organized unsubordination at the Holy Cross Hospital when, as a result of a wholesale bobbing and shingling party in the nurses' quarters, two nurses, within two months of their graduation, were dismissed by order of the superintendent of nurses.

As a protest, thirty nurses involved in the escapade, packed their trunks declaring they would leave hospital rather than submit to the edict taken by the authorities.

Local medical men, it is stated, will take the matter up as they consider the punishment unfair.

To Sell is to Serve

Idealism sometimes proves itself practical.

Graham Brothers Truck business was founded upon an ideal—"To sell is to serve."

Instead of merely building trucks for the "market," Graham Brothers analyzed the specific requirements of the many industries comprising the market—and supplied the exact type of truck best suited for each.

Built on a chassis that has won innumerable laurels for endurance, including an award for passing "impassable" roads in Russia, Graham Brothers Trucks have proved that they answer the great need of modern business.

Whatever the business, whatever the peculiar requirements, Graham Brothers supply it—and service it through Dodge Brothers Dealers all over the world.

Thus the perfection of an ideal has brought to merchants a new and valuable service—and has made Graham Brothers the largest exclusive truck manufacturers in the world!

MAROON VICTORY CAME IN DOGGED BITTER BATTLE

Better Condition Carried Winners to Triumph in Hard Play

SIEBERT WON BATTLE.

Senators Made Gallant But Futile Bid to Break Through

Ottawa, March 29.—Montreal Maroons are champions of the National Hockey League for the 1925-26 season. The team from the metropolis captured the eastern pro hockey crown and crushed Ottawa's fondest hopes when they downed the Senators 1-0, in a tense, nerve-wrecking battle here Saturday night. It was the second game of the series and gave the Maroons the round by a score of 2-1. The first game in Montreal last Thursday having ended in a 1-1 deadlock.

As a result of the successful termination of Montreal's two-year quest for the title, the Maroons will now meet the Victoria Cougars, western titleholders, for the Stanley Cup and the world's pro hocker championship. The first of the series will be played at the Forum in Montreal Tuesday night.

Abe Siebert, berserker left wing player, emerged the popular hero of the grueling final encounter, a little more than six minutes after the start of the second period, up to which time the two teams had been playing careful, cautious hocker, the Flying Dutchman accepted a fast pass from Bill Phillips in the free zone. Siebert flashed in on the Ottawa defense. He drove one of those whistling shots for which he is famous. The puck went through Georges Boucher's legs and Connell took it on the chest. The Ottawa goalie was knocked off bal. ance by the force of the blow and the puck bounded 15 feet in front of the net. Siebert dashed around the harried Senator defence and, before Connell could regain his poise, was by other terrific drive, which went to the left of the Ottawa goalie and hit the corner of the mesh. It proved the "million-dollar" goal of the series.

OTTAWA TALLY OFFSIDE.

Ottawa came right back and within a minute Cy Denneny got the puck on a Hooley Smith-Nighbor-Denneny combination play. Referee Lou Marsh rang his bell for an offside. Denneny shot and the puck beat Benedict. The crowd had not heard Marsh's bell. Ottawa fans saw that the tally had been scored when on the ice and the rink jammed to capacity plus, was a wild, seething mass. The joyful scene turned to one of disgust when the Ottawa fan saw that the tally had been disallowed. The referee was subjected to a shower of peanuts and other missiles, including odd rubbers.

It was Ottawa's last dangerous threat. Thereafter the Maroons were to strictly defensive hocker for the final half of the game. Ottawa swarmed around the Montreal goal, sending the entire team up on attack, but the Senators were jaded, tired out and unable to furnish the extra punch necessary to break down the barrier thrown against them.

Thus the Maroons in their second year as a club clinched the N.H.L. title. A remarkable feat for so young an organization and one rendered all the more pleasing to local followers of the team in that the victory came on Ottawa ice—the first win scored by the Maroons at the Capital since the club started its sport but colorful history.

Pent up emotion were let loose early in the game and the rink presented as noisy and turbulent a scene as could be imagined. Once Montreal got in front the faithful thousand Maroon supporters were shrieking the more. Ottawa rooter, at first cheering, were dumb-founded when they saw the title on which they had so confidently counted slipping from their grasp, and their loud cheers changed to less noisy exhortations as they encouraged the Senators in their courageous but apparently hopeless endeavors to get through on a team which would not back up.

THE VALUE OF OPTOMETRY

It is a good thing for human ity that the Optometrist is able to successfully deal with the many abnormal eye conditions that exist today. If it were not for glasses tens of thousands would not be able to work. And Optometry would be of far greater benefit still if those who really need the Optometrist would visit him. Glad to have you for a patient and the satisfaction will be mutual.

WANTS MOUNTED POLICE GIVEN FULL CONTROL

Committee Would Put Smuggling Prevention In R.C.M.P. Hands

PRIVATE DISCUSSIONS

Members To Consider Plans for Cutting Work Short—Interim Report Favored

Ottawa, March 29—Behind locked doors, the Stevens committee probing the Customs Department will meet this week to discuss the work it has not yet done. Some members are expected to express the view that sufficient has been heard to justify recommendation that the Government put it up to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to stop smuggling.

At the moment, the outstanding feature behind the probe, as it were, is the fact that a majority of committee members are convinced three drastic steps should be taken to stem the contraband tide. They are: Separation of customs preventive work from the Customs Department; transfer of this work to a secret service, preferably the Royal Canadian Mounted Police; and cancellation of all instructions that would make arrest or prosecution of smugglers contingent upon permission given by the minister or other officials of the Customs Department.

When the recommendation should be made is the subject of discussion. The general feeling of the committee is that frontier gaps through which smuggled goods are pouring into Canada should be plugged without delay. But during the week of April 12, boards of trade and trade associations all over the country are sending representatives to the committee chamber to let the probe know how the Canadian merchant to-day can tell what smuggling is.

The Hon. Georges Bolvin, Minister of Customs, and R. R. Farrow, deputy Minister of Customs, will be invited specially to attend the session of that week to hear firsthand how Canadian business is being throttled.

When that date is before the committee, some members favor an interim report to the House. They say that the committee could well continue investigating irregularities in the customs service throughout the country. But an immediate recommendation for declaring a state war along the frontier by putting the "Mounties" into action at least would constitute the first step toward the reforms which are the publicly avowed object of the probers.

There is another reason why speedy action on reconstruction in the customs preventive service is favored in some quarters. The Hon. Georges Bolvin has already intimated in the House that he has a plan ready which he thinks will quell the smugglers. Whether that includes separation of preventive work from the Customs Department is not known. But the committee, or at least a majority of members, looks like standing squarely for that separation. And Liberals and Conservatives alike express the view that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, accepted everywhere as sans peur et sans reproche, would be a force with which no government could ever meddle. That is why some of the committee members want to get their view before Parliament as early as possible.

Windsor station on their arrival at Montreal to defend their trophy against Toronto Varsity, amateur champions of Eastern Canada. Fort Arthur travelled on the Imperial Limited from their home town and after a thirty hour trip were in fine condition for the crucial games, a sterling tribute to the smoothness of travel they experienced over C.P.R. lines. Honolulu, Mar. 29.—The Advertiser says that when the motor ship Mauatan arrived here yesterday, Ray Dietrich, oiler aboard the vessel, became Lord Fitzmaurice and owner of an estate in England worth $5,000,000. Dietrich, who Captain J. J. Meaney described as a soldier of fortune, was handed a message from a firm of lawyers in London saying he as a grandson, inherits the estate after two years fruitless search for others as nearest of kin.

Y. M. C. A. MEN'S CLUB HERE HEARD REV. MR. STEWART

The Rev. R. G. Stewart of this City addressed the Y's Men's Club of Belleville at their regular weekly meeting on Friday evening last. Mr. Stewart in a very able fashion set before the members the idea "Get Busy". He then treated the meaning of "Spare Time" and "Idle Time" and stressed the idea of linking up other activities of a useful nature with those in which one is engaged each day, showing that we might proceed in our spare time to do work of a benefit to others which could be accomplished with but very little addition al effort as we could choose some line of work which had, in a sense, a resemblance to that in which we were already engaged; for instance a moulder by trade in his life might make a good Sunday School teacher, thereby becoming a moulder of men with respect to their character. Six members of the Bon Ton orchestra were present and contributed their share toward making the meeting an enjoyable and lively one by generously playing a number of selections. Mr. Cecil E. McMullen, Principal of Prince of Wales School, and Mr. F. W. Read, Local Representative of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Co. were guests of the evening.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

The problem of deciding between the two girls he loves and who love him is one of the many difficulties encountered by Raymond Griffith in his newest starring vehicle, "Paramount, Hands Up" in which he is cast as a dashing young aide to General Robert E. Lee, fighting for the cause of the Confederacy.

At the time the story opens Lincoln and Lee are equally hard pressed for gold with which to continue their respective campaigns. Nora is brought by the President of a fabulously wealthy gold mine in Nevada from which he can obtain the necessary money. He dispatches Montagu Love to the West to obtain the metal and bring it to Washington.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatments are the safe method.

Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M.D., a specialist set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take and can always be found at J. S. McKeown's who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

Lee sends his aide, Griffith, through the Yukon lines as a spy and to the North to obtain the gold before the Union armies can get it. Griffith meets Love, his Union rival, and Mark Swain, the owner of the mine, on the steamboat. He also meets Sarah's beautiful nieces, Marion Nixon and Virginia Lee Corbin and falls in love with them immediately.

This makes the picture worth seeing.

AT GRIFFIN'S

What would you do if you planned a quiet little dinner to celebrate your wedding anniversary and came home only to find that your wife had forgotten the event and insisted on leaving you a lone with the dinner while she attended a social "affair?"

That's just what happens to Lewis Stone in "Too Much Money," this week's First National attraction at the Griffin Theatre, in which Stone and Ann. Q. Nilson are co-starred. He had brought his wife a beautiful diamond bracelet to celebrate the event. Naturally he felt rather peeved to find the party was spoiled. In fact, he was so peeved that he turned ill his money over to a friend and the next morning the morning men came along and took away all his furniture while his wife was staging a pajama breakfast party. He then explained he had lost his money and was penniless.

In the cast are Robert Cain, Ann Brody, Derk Glynne and Edward Elkas. "Too Much Money" was directed by John Francis Dillon under the supervision of Earl Hudson. It is based on Jerrel Zangwill's stage hit of the same title.

TRIBUTE TO BELLEVILLIAN

To The Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,

May I call the attention of our fellow citizens to the splendid work which Mr. James F. Kenney, M.A., of Ottawa, formerly of Belleville and a product of the Belleville High School now Chief of the Editing and Research Division of the Public Archives of Canada, has been doing in connection with his Department. Step by step he has risen so that matters of great and greater responsibility have been entrusted to him. As latest is a copiously illustrated Catalogue of Treasures in the Canadian Public Archives, a monument of research and of artistic arrangement and full of historical and biographical information. To his work his Chief pays in the preface this tribute—

"To Mr. Kenney my thanks are due for the zeal with which he has carried out the difficult task entrusted to him, and more especially for the excellent scholarship so plainly manifest in his work."

Mr. Kenney will be associated in the minds of all Bellevillians who have followed his career, with Mr. Harry P. Biggar, whose monumental work on James Cartier and other Canadian Founders, has received such favorable comment everywhere.

Yours,
W. N. PONTON.

The combination of college training and farm employment should give each student a good working start when he finally acquires his own farm. The group shown above was photographed at the C.P.R. Mr. Simeon Ashley who has lived for the past six years with his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Dickroe, Norwood, celebrated his 88th birthday on Sunday, March 28th, surrounded by four daughters and one son.

Mr. Ashley was born in Huntingdon Township and had always lived there until six years ago when he went to Norwood to reside and spend a well earned eventide of rest.

Of a family of fifteen Mr. Ashley with four sisters alone remain. The sisters are Mrs. A. Horton, Thurlow; Mrs. M. Foucher, British Columbia; Mrs. R. Hudnan, Belleville; Mrs. S. Kilmaster, Quenabore.

In 1853 he was united in marriage to Emma Jane Hawley, of Seymour. To them nine children were born, four boys and five girls, all of whom are living, namely Hiram, Madoc Jct.; George, Belleville; Harford, Manitoba; Charlie on the homestead; Mrs. Wm. Kelly, Mrs. J. Lake, Foxboro; Mrs. J. Dickroe, Norwood; Mrs. M. Owen, Fort William; and Mrs. G. Harris, Belleville. He has 34 grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren. He has enjoyed good health until a few weeks ago when he required medical attention but was not confined to his bed. He only remembers having a doctor attend him once before. He cleared part of his farm out of a dense forest, he also spends several winters in the lumber camps, eating his dinner out of doors some of the time. When his children were attending school he was "Uncle Sam" to all the school children as he was always a friend of the young. During his six years residence in Norwood he has won many friends, a number of them called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dickroe to offer congratulations. He also received a number of congratulation cards. Those of his family who were present beside Mr. Dickroe were Hiram, Madoc Junction; Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Lake, Foxboro; and Mrs. Harris, Belleville.

ACROSS CANADA AND BACK

Marvelous beyond conception amply describe the glories of Canada's Rockies To be fully appreciated they must be seen. To start out on a trip by one's self into this unfamiliar but fascinating wonderland, to many appears quite a task. Realizing this, Dean Sinclair Laird, of Macdonald College, an experienced Rocky Mountains Traveller, for the third year in succession, has undertaken to conduct a party through the glorious wonderland.

A special train of dining, standard sleeping, and observation compartment cars has been chartered, to leave Toronto on July 10th via the Canadian Pacific Railway. Returning, the trip will be by the main line of the Canadian Pacific, through the great canyons of the Fraser and Thompson Rivers, and through the Selkirks, and Rockies, affording scenery such as can be found nowhere else on earth; Lake Louise, the Pearl of the Rockies, the most perfect gem of scenery on the world; another day at Banff; Edmonton, the Capital of Alberta; Saskatoon, the city of optimism; Brandon, Gay Camp, and the Lake of the Woods near Kenora, thence to Port William, where one of the fine Canadian Pacific Steamers will be used across Lake Superior and Huron to Port McNicoll, then rail to Toronto, where the trip will terminate.

Everything is included in the price of $350.00, from Toronto; transportation, sleeping cars, accommodation in Hotels, and bungalow camps, meals in Hotels, hotels and on steamers, and sight-seeing tours at points visited.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

Putting on her dressing gown, she took a candle and unlocking her door very cautiously, slid out in the corridor. She waited a moment listening intently, but there was no sound in the vast place, excepting the ticking of the tall, old-fashioned clock in the hall and treading on tip-toe she stole down the stairs, examining each foot of her way.

Intent and absorbed in her search she crossed the hall and reached the drawing-room, and went instantly to the chair in which she had sat listening to Mr. Hendrick.

Going on her knees she searched every inch of the thick carpet in the vicinity, but the locket was not there

With a sigh and a choking sensation in her throat that was the pressage of a burst of tears, she rose and was going, candle upheld, toward the door, when she started and stood speechless with an awful thrill of horror running through her.

She was facing the great French window, and she heard, or fancied she heard, a sound as if some one had turned, or tried to turn, the handle.

For a second she stood spellbound staring with distended eyes at the window; then to her horror she saw the curtains wave to and fro, and the door open.

Moved by an instinct more than anything else, she blew out the candle and darted behind the heavy curtains which hung at the division of the two rooms.

Clinging to these to prevent herself from falling, she fought hard for courage and presence of mind.

That the intruder was a burglar there could be no doubt; probably there were half a dozen. The slightest movement on her part would reveal her presence and seal her fate.

For a second or two, fear, pure and simple, was in the ascendant; then a nobler and more courageous feeling gained ground.

If an attack being made upon the castle it was her duty, it would be a delight, to outwit the ruffians and save the marquis' property from the thieves.

How should she do it? How could she give an alarm sufficient to rouse the men in the house, and be discovered by the burglars and the alarm prevented?

She heard through the thick curtains, which seemed almost to suffocate her, some one enter the room and close the window curtains drawn aside slightly. Then she knew that the some one was passing close beside her.

Next there came the sound of a match being struck, and she knew that he was lighting a candle. The footsteps then repassed her, as they were returning to the window.

Fighting fiercely for courage, and knowing that his back was to her, and her hiding place, she ventured to open the curtains slightly and look out.

She was on the point of uttering a scream, for the shock of her discovery was so great as almost to be unendurable.

The midnight burglar was none other than—the marquis!

For a moment she thought that she must be mad, or dreaming; but there was no mistaking his stalwart figure, notwithstanding the riding cloak which covered it from neck to heels; indeed, even as she looked he tossed the cloak—streaming with rain—on to the floor, and revealed himself to her in the evening dress in which she had seen him a few hours before.

In that moment of horrified amazement she felt that she would rather it had been what she had at first dreaded—an ordinary burglar.

Why should the marquis steal into his own house at the dead of night, with all the caution of a thief?

She clung to the curtains, but still watched him, with no other thought or desire than to fly the scene.

The marquis went to the window and opened it.

"Come in!" he said to some one outside.

The door opened, and a man stepped into the handsome room, heightening its splendor by the contrast of his own squalid presence; for the man whom the marquis admitted so directly to his drawing-room at three o'clock in the morning was the wretched-looking being whom Constance had seen—or dreamed she had seen—in the ruined cottage on the moor; the man from whom the marquis had obtained the brandy, and whom he had dismissed with the stern contempt of a man addressing a dog.

He was almost disguised by a worn and shabby ulster, the turned-up collar of which nearly concealed his face; but as he took off his battered felt hat Constance saw his face. It was pale and haggard, and worn with want and privation and she gathered in the flash of the moment that a deep scar on his temple shone out redly from the pallor of his face.

"I'm too wet, guv'nor," he said, shrinking back as if dazed by the splendor of the room; "it'd better keep outside. Besides—"

He started and seemed to listen.

"Stay where you are," said the marquis, not angrily, with no trace of displeasure or excitement, but in a quiet tone of command. "Draw the curtains and hold them close, so that the light does not shine through. Wait, and do not move."

The man gripped the curtains and held them close, and stood staring blankly round the room. If there was no excitement in the marquis' face or manner, there were evidences of considerable agitation and anxiety in the man. He looked like one who was simply struggling to recover from some tremendous shock of surprise; and even as he stood alone, Constance saw his white lips moving as if he were uttering either a string of curses or some exclamations of bewilderment and astonishment.

At that moment, rather than remain Constance would have risked the chance of discovery and fled from the room ; but the man stood immediately facing her place of concealment and the slightest movement on her part would have been detected by him.

A few minutes passed—they seemed hours to her in her terrible suspense—and then the marquis returned.

She saw his face as he passed her on his way to the man. It was pale and weary looking, but perfectly calm and in that respect a marked contrast to the man's.

He held something in his hand, and stopped a moment in front of the man looking at him, as Constance felt, with a keen and deep scrutiny in the black eyes, which must have assumed a fierce and terrible expression, for the man's face grew paler and worked with evident fear and agitation.

"Here," said the marquis, and he held out that which he held. "Take it, there is more than I promised you."

YOUNG MOTHERS ADVICE FOR

● Hamilton, Ont.—"Before the arrival of my little boy my health was very poor, my back hurt and my nerves were so upset I could not sleep. I grew very weak and miserable and suffered from morning sickness. Finally I saw Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in the drug store where I trade, so I decided to try it, and it did me a world of good. It relieved me of all distress in my back, built me up in strength and my nerves did not give me any more trouble. I got along fine the remainder of the time and I had a very strong, healthy baby. In addition to keeping a woman healthy and strong it relieves her of a certain mental strain, from which many suffer during the motherhood." Mrs. Joseph Cario, 147 Bay St., North (Picture above)

ASK COMPROMISE TO END DISPUTE IN CHURCH CASES

Private Bills Committee Would Not Agree to Lewis Request

NO POWERS TO BOARD

Mr. Nickle Asked to Meet Unionists and Presbyterians

Toronto, Mar. 30.—Rather than accept the bill moved by A. C. Lewis to give the Church Property Commission, appointed under the provisions of the Church Union Act, power to enforce their rulings in church property disputes, the Private bills committee of the legislature today instructed Attorney General W. F. Nickle to confer with the Unionists, and Presbyterians in an effort to settle the remaining disputes.

If this conference results in the settlement of the Waterloo, Owen Sound and several other cases with which the Church Property Commission wrestled unsuccessfully, Mr. Lewis bill will probably be withdrawn.

Mr. Nickle has called a first conference for to-night. The Private bills committee, last week killed a clause of the bill which provided for a re-vote on the question of union where disputes have arisen.

WATER DIVERSION CONGRESS TOPIC

Former Secretary of War For U.S. Argues Against Chicago Steal

Washington, Mar. 3.—Congress was urged to-day by Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war to keep "hands off" the lake water diversion question in connection with the Illinois River navigation project. The power of Congress is questioned in the two pending suits, he said, speaking as counsel for the Lake Carriers' Association before the House Rivers and Harbors Committee. Under such circumstances, he contended any measure involving diversion would "merely strike on a new litigation." Congress he said cannot authorize any project that would lead eventually to emptying Lake Michigan into the Mississippi River.

LETTERS ABOUT GAS CO. AFFAIRS

MAYOR GRAHAM'S STATEMENT

March 28th, 1926

To the Editor of the Daily Intelligencer:

I am informed that it has been said that I am one of the Directors of the new Gas Company which is endeavoring to sell stock in our city and I wish to take this opportunity of denying this statement. I am not a director nor a shareholder nor a subscriber for shares and have absolutely no interest of any kind whatsoever in the aforesaid company except in so far as is necessary to protect the Citizens interests in the agreement entered into by the City of Belleville.

The city have the right under the agreement to appoint two Directors exofficio on the board of the Company but these have been appointed.

R. J. E. Graham.

ABOUT THE GAS COMPANY

Belleville, Ont., March 30 1926.

The Intelligencer Publishing Company, Belleville, Ont.

Dear Sirs,—

We are the Belleville Gas and Fuel Company? According to the publication of the Toronto Saturday Night on March 20th, this so called company is to sell 50,000 shares at $10.00 a share—$500,000.00.

According to the same report 7,500 shares are given to James Hanley Yates which equals $75,000.00, par value in return for the franchise agreement made with the City of Belleville.

Why pay Hubley and Company $55,000.00 for selling this stock?

Who are the 12 who received shares from Mr. Yates for assisting in this agreement? Are they Belleville men or are they not?

What the public should know is "who are the directors, who are the stockholders, who, should Yates, and his friends get $75,000.00 for the franchise, why should they pay Hubley and Company $55,000.00 for selling the stock.

I hope you will give this space in the paper and that someone of authority will reply.

Yours truly,

GEO. A. REID.

BRITISH WORKERS HIT BELLEVILLE AT BREAK O'DAY

Fine Type of New Citizen Seen at Employment Office

GET WARM WELCOME

Are Being Detailed to Fine Farm Homes in District

During the early hours of the morning the first quota of farm workers from overseas dispatched to the Belleville district, was received at the Government Employment Office on Campbell street. This office presented an animated scene, as the newcomers, a fine class of selected workers, comprising Scotsmen, Irishmen, and Englishmen were busily engaged in sorting out their baggage, some writing letters home, telling of their safe arrival, others saying good-bye to their boat chums, while awaiting the arrival of the employing farmers. GIVEN A WELCOME;

The kind of welcome and hospitality, being truly extended by Supt. L. F. Green, who is Immigration and Colonization Officer for the Counties of Hastings and Prince Edward, among the words of cheer and advice extended by this official and overheard by The Intelligencer were as follows:

"There is no prejudice here against Englishmen, Scotsmen or Irishmen. As a matter of fact there is a strong feeling in favour of the right class of farm worker, and expressions of content that more of the above class are not making their homes in Canada. If there is a prejudice it is against those who instead of trying to fit themselves into the life of the community, give themselves up to grumbling and criticizing.

TO GOOD FARM

"And remember you are being dispatched to some of the best farmers in Ontario, and if you play the game I am sure you will have no reason to regret it."

Several married couples with their children were among the party arriving off the S.S. Antonia. These will be followed by other groups from the S. S. Doric almost daily for the next few weeks.

SAP'S RUNNIN' NOW SAYS COUNTY OFFICIAL

Mr. James Haggerty of West Hemlington, County Treasurer, reports considerable activity in the sugar bush. Although there was only a slight run of sap last week the last two days of sunshine will doubtless keep plenty of fine syrup to the market next Saturday. The syrup offered last Saturday was for the most part about one quarter sediment. In the city the dripping of sap from the trees is quite noticeable.

Prince Of Wales Community Club Resumes After Measles Epidemic

Prince of Wales Community Club meeting of the Prince of Wales Community Club School Fair Committee, was held recently and matters pertaining to the School Fair for 1926 were discussed.

Mr. Fred Mossman was elected as chairman for the year.

It has been the ambition of the Community to have a School Fair second to none in Eastern Ontario and the interest shown by Trustees, teachers, parents and children has been the keynote of the success obtained in the Fair and which is an annual event looked forward to by all the children of the school.

Owing to many cases of measles prevailing in the school section the community concerts were discontinued in the latter of the health of the school children. However the Medical Health officer Dr. Wood has given permission to re-open and the first or opening concert will be Thursday evening, April 1, on account of April 2, being Good Friday.

PRICES CRASHING ON WALL STREET

New York, March 30.—Stock prices after a short lived rally today gave way before another onslaught of selling which was directed with terrific intensity against leading railroad shares.

Scores of new low levels for the year were established on declines of 2 to 8 points with losses of 10 to 15 points registered by some of the inactive issues. Reports that powerful banking interests had rushed their support to the market were circulated following an early rise in United States steel, General Electric, Dupont and other market leaders, but under cover of this move, liquidation gradually began to play havoc in the railroad group resulting in a wide open break as the calling of bank loans was resumed on large scales.

MILD TYPE OF FLU IN THIS CITY

Influenza of a more or less mild form is prevalent in the city and is keeping the nurses and doctors very busy. Dr. G. S. Cronk, M.O.H., told The Intelligencer this morning that while some cases, especially amongst children, have developed into pneumonia, for the most part it is a mild type, not of the calibre of the epidemic of six years ago. Ordinary care of the personal health is Dr. Cronk's advice as the best precaution against the epidemic for which he says isolation is in his opinion, not wholly advisable as people catch it no matter where they go.

As to contagious diseases there is but one case of scarlet fever, two of diphtheria, "but lots of measles", the M.O.H. said. The city water is good.

INSURANCE GIVEN TO U.F.O. MEMBER WHO TOOK PROFIT

Manner in Which Edgar Watson Secured Commissions Disclosed

MR. RANEY'S WITNESS

North Victoria Man Was Allotted Government Automobile Business

Toronto, March 30.—The story of how insurance business for the Government was placed through members of the Legislature during the U.F.O. regime was disclosed for the first time last night at the meeting of the Public Accounts Committee, the financial feature of the disclosure being that it was made by a witness called by Hon. W. R. Raney, Attorney-General in the Drury Government. J. H. Ferguson, insurance broker, of the firm of Burns and Ferguson, had been summoned at the instance of Hon. Mr. Raney to give evidence regarding insurance on Government property. Mr. Raney, having a schism in view whereby the Government should carry its own insurance.

During his evidence, Mr. Ferguson stated that in 1921 he visited the Parliament Buildings to see Hon. F. C. Biggs with regard to insurance. A week later Edgar Watson, the U.F.O. member for North Victoria, came into his office and said he had been allotted the insurance on the Government automobiles by Mr. Biggs. Mr. Watson stated witness had not a license, so he had to get one, after which he got the business and commission.

Mr. Finlayson: I suppose you recognize Mr. Watson a better rate than you had quoted to Mr. Biggs?

Witness: I was working for my company. There was no competition, and I said "My rate is so and so."

Mr. Finlayson: "A clergyman would not have much knowledge of insurance."

Witness: "Not that I know of. He knew very little about it. He asked what commission I would pay and I said 15 or 20 per cent., He received $100 or more.

Witness stated that his firm had also done business with Hon. Peter Smith of the Treasury Department, through Mr. Watson, the insurances in this case being against fire and to cheques. He did not know how much Rev. Mr. Watson made out of that, but it would be something over $50.

LABOR MINISTER ELECTED BY 2681 IN W. MIDDLESEX

Hon. J. C. Elliott Polled Big Vote Over Conservative Rival

PROGS. VOTE LIBERAL

Defeated Candidate Thinks Progressives Voted Heavily for Opponent

Strathroy, Ont., March 30.—The day after his election in West Middlesex finds the Hon. J. C. Elliott, Minister of Labor, a busy man. He will attend a funeral at Glencoe this afternoon, afterwards motoring to London and taking the 7 o'clock C. N. R. train to the capital. The Minister pleads inability to discuss the probable effect of his election. He would not confirm a report that another Ontario member was to be appointed to cabinet.

Strathroy, Ont., March 30.—Hon. J. C. Elliott, federal Minister of Labor, in the by-election in the riding of West Middlesex, necessitated by his promotion to a ministerial position in the federal cabinet, defeated T. A. Elliot, his Conservative opponent to-day by a majority of 2,681 votes, the total vote being:

Elliot (Liberal) 6,550
Elliot (Conservative) 3,869

In Parkhill, where the Conservative candidate expected to obtain the greatest support, Mr. Elliott had a majority of 34 votes, while at Glencoe he secured 100 more, than his opponent. The villages of Newbury and Wardsville gave the new cabinet minister majorities of 50 and 28, respectively.

STRONGHOLD OF LIBERALISM

Established in 1903, the present riding of West Middlesex has been one of the strongholds of Liberalism, the return of the late J. D. F. Drummond, Progressive, in the general election of 1921, providing the only break in the line of Liberal representation since the formation of the constituency. W. S. Calvert was victorious in the general elections of 1904 and 1908 and, following his defeat in 1911, Duncan C. Ross was returned in the by-election of 1912. He held the seat until 1921, in the interim having commanded a battalion of the 1917, Mr. Ross was one of the few Liberals, running with the exception of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who emerged successfully in Ontario. Four years later, however, he went down to defeat in a three-cornered contest, in which Mr. Drummond, the Progressive candidate, headed the poll with a majority of 1,500 votes. Last October the Liberal party regained the seat with Mr. Elliott, the new minister of Labor, as the candidate.

PROGRESSIVES LIBERAL

T. A. Elliot, the defeated Conservative candidate, expressed the opinion that the Progressives had cast their votes largely in favor of the new minister, but he thought that the increase in the number of ballots cast on his behalf augured well for the future of the Conservative party in the riding. He expressed thanks to the workers who, he said, had worked ably and tirelessly throughout the campaign.

Rub It On At Bed-Time

For Deep Chest Colds

All colds should be treated with vapors, for vapors alone can carry the medication DIRECTLY to the air passages and lungs.

Vicks is a "vapor" treatment in salve form. For deep chest colds rub Vicks on freely, but use towels over throat and chest to open the pores, then massage briskly with Vicks for 3 minutes, spread on thickly and cover with a flannel cloth.

Vicks not only penetrates like a poultice or plaster, but the ingredients, vaporized by the body heat, are inhaled all night long.

This double action usually checks the most stubborn cold overnight.

DUKE OF GUISE NEW PRETENDER

French Bourbon Followers Recognize Prince Jean Of Orleans

LEAVES FOR PALERMO

Has Always Lived Quiet Life of Country Gentleman—May be Exiled

Paris, March 30.—With the death of Louis Philippe, Duke of Orleans, Count of Paris and pretender to the throne, French Bourbon followers have recognized Prince Jean de Orleans, Duke of Guise as the rightful heir to the crown. The latter, who is the dead Duke's cousin and brother-in-law, is burying in Palermo where Louis Philippe died Sunday.

Louis Philippe left no children. He has been separated from his wife, the Archduchess Marie Dorothea for years.

The Duke of Guise is a son of the Duke of Chartres, uncle of the late Duke of Orleans and son of the Louis Philippe, whose father was Louis Eznlite, a grandson of Regent Philip of Orleans, who was first cousin of Louis XIV. He is fifty-two years old.

Unlike this elder brother, Prince Henri, who was a great explorer and lived in Indo-China in 1902, the new pretender always has lived the quiet life of a country gentleman in the depths of a French province.

The great question now is whether the French Government will apply to the present claimant of the throne the law passed in 1886, exiling the direct descendants of former reigning princes.

At the beginning of the Great War Louis Philippe offered to serve in the French army as a private but was refused.

Rich Vein is Cut By Bennett Co's Shaft And Shows Excellent Width

An important find has been made on the Bennett Mining property at Sesekinika. A vein of about thirty-four inches in width, very heavily mineralized and carrying good values, came in on the north wall of the shaft at a depth of about thirty feet. It is now to have straightened considerable and a crosscut on 400 ft. in the shaft. At a depth of sixty feet the vein extends to both walls over six feet, and is showing free gold over a width of five feet. The officials at head office were notified, and the president, W. F. Bennett, made a trip to the mine to examine the find. This vein did not show on the surface and its coming into the shaft caused considerable excitement. The operations were that the shaft, when it reached a depth of 150 ft. might hit something at that depth they expected to cut the lower ore body which runs over eleven feet in width on the surface at a distance of about forty feet and dips towards the shaft at an angle of about fifteen degrees. This break shows values on the surface of over $33 per ton across a width of about five and one-half feet. The Bennett Co. a new plant and Wisdop oil engine are proving efficient, and at the present time the round of twenty holes is being drilled with two drills in about one hour and fifty minutes; this usual time taken for this operation is three hours—Financial Post, March 26, 1926.

For further particulars in regard to Bennett Mining Co., see Dr. Wm. P. Redick, 247 Coleman St. Phone 909. m29-1td

In the dining room the antique walnut table was a thing of beauty with its decorations carrying out the five colors of the star points of blue, yellow, white, green and red in bouquets of flowers and ferns interspersed by silver candle sticks in which candles carry ing out the color scheme of the star points burnt brightly. Mrs. W. H. Nugent, worthy matron of the Chapter, and Mrs. John McIntosh presided at the table assisted by Mrs. Stanley Fisher, Mrs. Florence Yerrow, Mrs. George Thorne, Mrs. Jack McIntosh and Miss Grace Tucker, each prettily attired in white and wearing a color of the five star points on her shoulder. A very delight ful musical programme had been arranged by Mrs. Earl McQueen and Mrs. Carl Read, The character of the star was carried out most cleverly in all arrangements.

GRAIN PRICES FIRMER

Chicago, March 30.—Although widespread snow and rain highly beneficial for the crop of domestic winter wheat made January and September deliveries take early downturn in price today, commission house buying of May led to a subsequent brisk advance for all months. Opening quotations 5-8 cent off to 1-8 cent up were followed by decided gains all around. Corn and oats were firmer.

DEBTS AGAIN

Senator Borah's tactless suggestion that the European countries be called upon to make good the financial losses of the United States due to the allied blockade, in the days prior to American participation in the war, has acted like a match to a powder magazine. If it was the senator's intention merely to irritate, as is likely he has succeeded admirably. It is most unfortunate, for the great point about the debt settlement made by Great Britain with the United States was that it was a magnificently unselfish bid for Anglo-American unity, and there was every evidence that the settlement had had the desired effect. Words of praise and admiration for the Mother Country were evoked in the American press and from public platforms and a distinct improvement in the already cordial relationship existing between the two countries was noted. The majority of American citizens gratefully recognized that Great Britain was making heroic sacrifices to meet the demands of her creditors and there was every disposition to sympathize as well as admire. But the tone of some of the political speeches does not correctly interpret the true sentiments of the nation, and leads to dim apprehension and resentment on the part of the hard-pressed British taxpayers. Things are being said on both sides which had better be left unsaid and the whole question threatens to degenerate into an unseemly slanging match.

Nothing is more natural, however, than that words of resentment should be uttered in the British press. That resentment is not so much against the creditors as against the debtors. While Britain undertakes to pay off her debt to the United States, she is in danger of receiving little or nothing from those to whom this American money actually went. With shrewd business foresight, the United States refused to advance money direct to the European nations for war purposes, until Great Britain guaranteed the loans in every instance. About four and a half billion dollars was advanced in this way, the bulk of it to allied nations other than Britain. New John Bull is called upon to make good, which he is doing to the tune of about $150,000,000 per annum. In spite of the fact that the nations who actually received and spent the money are repudiating by action if not by word, their contracts. The only European nation which has agreed to repay Britain is Italy, and that under the lenient terms of settlement that country will only return about one-sixth of what she actually borrowed. Russia is the largest debtor, owing Britain over three and a half billion dollars. France comes next with over three billion, Italy with nearly three billion, and other countries with smaller amounts, bringing the total owing to Great Britain up to the enormous sum of ten billion dollars. There is no thought of ever getting the money back, or even a respectable portion of it. Great Britain is, in fact, prepared to wipe it all out, with the exception of the sum demanded by the United States, which there is not much prospect of collecting, however, from the allied nations.

PULPWOOD EXPORT

In an editorial lamenting the export of pulpwood from this country, the Vancouver Province does some figuring which should impress the reader with the seriousness of the situation. Last year 1,423,692 cords of unmanufactured pulpwood were exported, for which Canada received $14,163,935. While that is a tidy sum, it is calculated that if this wood had been manufactured into paper within the Dominion, it would have produced nearly a million tons of newsprint, worth about $85,000,000. As it is estimated that money utilized in business turns over, on an average, three times a year, the Province comes to the conclusion that the purchasing power of the Dominion was $150,000,000 less than it might have been, had the pulpwood been retained in Canada and manufactured here. Taking the figures for the previous year, it is shown that Quebec sent out the largest amount, Ontario coming next in order.

"The end part of the matter is that, in spite of all that has been said on the question, and in spite of the costly investigation made by a royal commission a couple of years ago," comments The Province, "we are doing nothing to conserve our pulpwood resources, and the amount we are exporting is growing year by year. This is hardly fair to the province of Ontario. The present provincial government in its contracts for the use of crown lands, insists that the timber be made up into the finished product on Canadian soil. If private interests would follow the example of the Ontario government in the matter, it would undoubtedly greatly serve the provincial and national welfare. The Dominion government should certainly take more effective action to conserve the timber resources of the country. Without taking into consideration the tremendous destruction caused by fire and pests, the pulpwood commission estimated that existing supplies in Quebec and Ontario would be exhausted within fifty-one years. That period would be very considerably shortened if the destructive factors referred to are taken account of.

Now it is suggested that the Chicago water steal be settled by compromise. Chicago's idea of a compromise, the news despatches reveal, is to hit the victim on the head with a piece of lead pipe.

NO DISRESPECT INTENDED

Soo Daily Star:
The Toronto Star is disrespectful in referring to the only breakfast food of the last generation as "mush". We understand some people eat it yet.

WHAT TEAMS IN C.O.B. LOOP?

Ottawa or Brockville If Oshawa Decides to Stay Out

O.B.A.A. MEETS APRIL 3

Some Changes Likely—Names of Men Who Are Favored

Things are a little vague as to what teams will make up the Central Ontario Group, so far it looks as though Kingston, Peterboro and Belleville and maybe Ottawa or Brockville (if Oshawa does not take up the franchise) will compose this league.

The Ontario Baseball Amateur Association annual meeting to be held on Saturday, April 3, at the Carls-Rite Hotel, Toronto, promises to add an other banner year to the record of the controlling body of amateur baseball in this province.

The list of proposed alterations and amendments to the by-laws and constitution, which is now in the printers' hands, while not containing any radical changes will give the delegates sufficient material for discussion.

Among the proposed changes is one by which the executive would be empowered to group the various teams in the different parts of the province. Sudden-death games in all the minor series, also changing age limits (juniors under 20 years, intermediates under 18 years, and bantams under 15 years, thereby eliminating the midget series), will also be brought up for decision.

Several suggestions for sudden-death games are made in the intermediate series which had twenty-nine groups last season necessitating the winner to play through six or seven rounds to capture the intermediate championship.

The following nominations for officers and the executive committee are President, W. J. Snyder, Hamilton; first vice-president, W. H. Farrell, Toronto; second vice-president, G. S. Martin, London; secretary, A. J. Walsh, Toronto; treasurer, F. K. Allen, Hamilton; A.A.U. of C. governor, P. M. Kennedy, Toronto; executive, W. T. Gear, Ottawa; W. C. Hall, Toronto; H. C. Maguire, St. Catharines; W. A. Smith, Galt; J. G. Nott, Oshawa; A. Hillman, Oakville, and J. Turner, Toronto.

FOURTH GAME FOR ALLEN CUP

Toronto Varsity and Ports Will Try to Decide Ownership

Toronto, March 30.— University of Toronto and Port Arthur will renew their Allan Cup battle here tomorrow night, when an effort will be made to decide the Canadian and world's championship. The game will commence at 8.30, with R. W. Hewison and M. J. Rodden of Toronto as the officials.

Each team has won and lost a game, and last night's 3-to-2 overtime struggle brought about a fourth fixture.

PLAN NOW FOR THAT PACIFIC COAST AND ALASKA TRIP YOU INTEND TO TAKE NEXT SUMMER

Next summer forget the cares of business or profession and take a trip to Western Canada, the Pacific Coast or Alaska. There's satisfaction in this kind of a vacation —a swift journey through never-before-seen country, restful stops at splendid resort hotels, and, when you reach the Canadian Rockies, gorgeous vista of lake, forest and towering mountain peaks.

There is never an idle moment if you travel the Canadian National Route on radio equipped trains. Crossing the vast prairie country, the Granary of the Empire is always interesting. Then there is Jasper National Park Lodge of continent-wide fame. There are mountains on all sides, sky piercing giants, snow-capped massive, many of which have never been scaled.

From Jasper National Park is a never ending succession of mountains—and more mountains—lovely valleys, turbulent rivers and dashing waterfalls until you reach the Coast at Vancouver or Prince Rupert.

Summer Tourist fares are effective between May 15th and Sept. 30th, with return limit of Oct. 31st, at a minimum of cost.

Make sure of your Western trip this summer by planning ahead. Any Canadian National Agent will give you full information and illustrated booklets. m10-26-30

PORT ARTHUR TIES VARSITY FOR ALLEN CUP 3-3 IN GAME GOING 30 MINUITES OVERTIME

VARSITY SCORES IN 1ST PERIOD REST BIG GRIND

Ports Made to Look Poor At First But They Cam eAlive

Toronto, March 30.—Port Arthur and Varsity will have to do it all over again or else toss a coin or something for they played 30 minutes overtime last night to tie 3-3.

Varsity scored their three within the first 15 minutes of the opening and then couldn't get another. They made Chabot look like the Porta goalie look poor on the first two but he settled away and put up a marvellous game in the later stages. The students at first skated rings around the Ports who seemed off-color but they finally came to and at the third period ground things. Rodden and Hewison officiated.

VARSITY SCORED EARLY

Varsity opened the scoring in 13 seconds when Plaxton took the puck from the face-off and beat Chabot on an easy shot. The Porta goalie looked terrible on that one. Three minutes later Porter made it two to nothing on a shot from outside of the defence, which also made Chabot look very poor. He apparently was all unnerved over the first one. Port Arthur were working hard and were scoring the pace.

Sullivan handled only three shots in thirteen minutes of the first period.

Dave Trotter, the clever left winger of the students, made it 3to 0 when he took the puck down, and when the defence smothered him he fell on the ice and scooped the puck in the net.

One minute later Brydge opened the scoring for the Ports on a rebound from Gray's shot. Varsity kept setting the pace for the remainder of the period and were often through on Chabot, but he apparently had settled down and the first period ended 3 to 1 for Varsity.

The Ports scored two in the third frame.

That was all the scoring there was in 90 minutes play.

THE VALUE OE OPTOMETRY

It is a good thing for human ity that the Optometrist is able to successfully deal with the many abnormal eye conditions that exist today. If it were not for glasses tens of thousands would not be able to work. And Optometry would be of far greater benefit still if those who really need the Optometrist would visit him. Glad to have you for a patient and the satisfaction will be mutual.

INDOOR GAMES PLAYED TONIGHT NOT WEDNESDAY

Queens Badminton Club Here To-morrow—Switch is Made

Queen's University Badminton team is coming to pay the Belleville Garrison Badminton Club here tomorrow (Wednesday) evening. They are bringing twelve players six ladies and six gentlemen the same number who played against the locals when they went to Queens some weeks ago. The Queen's players include perhaps half a dozen who were good enough to enter in Provincial championships and all are smart and resourceful exponents of this the fastest of all indoor games.

This game necessitates the change of the indoor baseball game scheduled for tomorrow night. Therefore the doubleheader Point Anne and C.N.R. and Belleville Juniors and Ciscos play tonight. It was unfortunate that this had to be so but the Badminton Club had arranged to play Queen's of course sometime ago and Wednesday night was the only night Queen's could come.

CAPACITY CROWD FOR STANLEY CUP GAMES AT FORUM

First Contest To-night Between Montreal and Victoria Under East Rules

Montreal, Mar. 30.—Three capacity crowds are assured for the Stanley Cup games and world's championship hockey tilts which will be played between the Victoria Cougars and Montreal Maroons at the Forum to-night, Thursday and Saturday. Series tickets were practically sold out yesterday, the first day of the sale.

The interest in the struggles is not only that which naturally pertains to the battles for the world's pro hockey title. The game will serve also as a means for local fans to pay their tribute to the Maroons for their brilliant achievement in capturing the National Hockey League championship in the finals with the Ottawa Senators after a thrilling, gruelling series in which the Montreal players rose to the greatest heights. To-night's game will mark the first appearance of the Maroons before the home fans since their triumph at the capital Saturday night, and a warm welcome awaits them when they step on the ice.

In Victoria, the Maroons meet a team that has enjoyed an enviable record. They captured the Stanley Cup last year from the Canadiens in a fast series on the Pacific Coast. They went through a hard grind to earn the right to defend the cup in the east this year. Unfortunately, the Cougars will enter the series handicapped by injuries to players, but at that they anticipate making a big bid to hold the cup, and Montrealers have memories of the defeat they handed the Marroons in the exhibition game played between the two teams in the preseason.

But Montreal is a different machine from the newly-gathered crew which faced the speedy coast players in the exhibition contest

In the second game the Rinkey Dinks took 3 points and the Crescents 1 point. In the first game the Rinkey Dinks took the lead and were up 26 pins and added another 92 to this in the second game but in the third game it looked at one stage as if the score was going to be close on the total when the Crescents got going but they were only able to win by 71 pins. Miss Ford had the high single and three string of the evening with 222 and 584 while for the Crescents Miss. White was high with 530.

BIG LOOP TEAMS STARTING NORTH NOT IN SHAPE?

Gloom and Optimism Running Neck and Neck at Southern Camps

New York, March 30.—Gloom and optimism are running neck and neck in the baseball training camps.

The Philadelphia Athletics and the Phillies start northward from their Florida retreats Wednesday, with the managers of both teams pretty well discouraged.

But the gloom registered from the Quaker city camps was balanced by an aggressive optimism expressed by Rogers Hornsby, who bids the world sit up and take notice of the St. Louis Cardinals. The Cards have just chalked up their 22nd straight win by drubbing the Port Worth Club of the Texas League. Manager Speaker of the Cleveland Indians is another pilot satisfied with the conditions of his men, the Indians leave Lakeland, Fla., Tuesday for New Orleans with virtually every man in shape for the season's opening.

The Boston Braves also continue to show improvement as the training period nears the end at St. Petersburg. The team is elated over its victories and spectators say the outfit looks decent. Although the St. Louis Browns have made a poor show losing to south, Manager Sisler is not discouraged. Critics see great possibilities in the team and believe that it has hitting ability although not much of it has been displayed so far.

The Philadelphia pilots made no bones about telling of the shortcomings of their teams. Connie Mack of the Athletics said the American league Phillies rooms to speak for itself. ours were far below "the standard we They have lost all their exhibition must have." The record of the games.

Big Game Hunter gets Live Wolves

Fulfilling his promise to James Walker, Mayor of New York, Captain Frank Doudera, well known Brooklyn big game hunter and sportsman, arrived at the Canadian Pacific Windsor Station in Montreal recently from Northern Ontario with two live wolves, which he captured on Lake Temiskaming, at the junction where the River Kippewa flows into the lake. The two animals, named Patsy and Rover, are intended for the Brooklyn Zoo.

When taken out of their cages in the baggage room at the Windsor Station, both Patsy and Rover displayed decidedly nervous tendencies. Patsy is an ash blonde, endowed by nature with a pearly grey coat of fur, tinged with red, which glistens a little in the sun. Rover seems to be a bit worn in spots, but his fur, whatever there is of it, is black. He closely resembles a blue fox. Rover is also inclined to nerve. When taken into the express room he buried his head in the straw. After a consultation between the former and Patsy, the latter decided to follow suit.

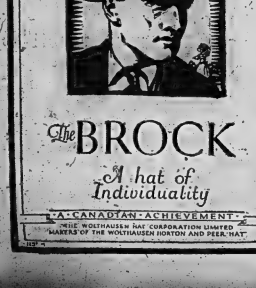

Fatsy turned out to be a mild, good-natured child who accepted the overtures of her audience with become meekness. A pat on the head from a total stranger solicited a kind look from the young lady's large grey eyes which spoke forth like pretty buttons on old-fashioned shoes.

Rover was not so tame. At the same pat on the head from the same total stranger he greeted bitterly and would have severed the indignity with blood but for the muzzle.

The wolves are only about ten months old. Rover weighs one hundred pounds and measures about five feet from tip of his nose-extended nose to the end of his scraggy tail. Patsy weighs about seventy-five pounds and is several inches shorter than Rover. In addition to the two wolves, the captain has seven dead ones.

Doudera claims a record in shooting the last wolf after a chase which lasted only three hours and forty minutes. Usually it takes several days to corner a wolf. The animal takes long, powerful strides and covers ground at an amazing pace. But in the present case there had been a heavy fall of snow and the wolf had floundered along until Doudera overtook them with fleet feet. The animal then turned, bared his fangs, let loose a series of howls and leaped at his pursuer. The captain pulled the trigger of his gun and a bullet pierced the wolf's heart and shoulder.

During the expedition the hunter was aided by Fred Arnott, who operates the Tem-Kip chain of camps. Captain Doudera brings with him six thousand feet of films showing authentic pictures of wolves in their native haunts. The sportsman proposed that game was very plentiful in the Lake Temiskamiar district. Deer are to be found within a few hundred yards from camp.

KINGSTON TEAM WELCOMED HOME

Kingston, March 30.—As when a wet stone hone as if they had won the world's hockey championship greeted the Kingston junior hockey team when they arrived home Monday afternoon. They were met by cheering thousands and four bands.

The hockey party was met at the outer station by President T. Ashmore Kidd of the Kingston Hockey Club and Dr. B. P. Millen, a member of the executive. The special car carrying the players was switched on to the suburban line and run into the city station, where the players were cheered too dead long for they entered from their car.

They were escorted to a waiting vehicle, which was taken charge of by Queen's University students. Long ropes were attached to the students took hold and drew the truck through the route of the procession.

As soon as excitement of arrival had passed a parade was formed, headed by Mayor Ansrow and the Queen's Band, proceeding around the city and back to the market square, where addresses were given by Mayor Ansrow, Colonel C. F. Constantine, Principal R. Bruce Taylor, Lt.-Col. T. A. Kidd and J. T. Sutherland.

Kiwanians, Rotarians, students, business men and citizens joined in the hearty welcome extended to the players. Everything was left undone to make the players feel the warmth of the welcome felt for them. The school children, given a half holiday for the occasion, joined in the home coming in great style and added much to the success of the event.

NEWS OF MOVIES

COMING TO BELLE

When it comes to driving an automobile at a speedy mile an hour clip, Agnes Ayres disdains a "double" at the wheel.

Long noted as one of "Hollywood's" most skillful drivers, Miss Ayres was put to the acid test during the filming of the latest Paramount starring picture, "Tomorrow's Love," which comes to the Belle Theatre tomorrow.

Changing places with the pilot of an automobile which is crossing directly at fifty miles an hour on a crowded thoroughfare, then forcing the machine to seventy miles an hour, is a thrill provided by Miss Ayres in the picture.

DREAMS OF LAD ALL COMING TRUE

Sir Guy Gaunt, K.C.M.G., C.B., M.P., Was Once a Lonesome Lad

NOW VICE-ADMIRAL

And Having Retired He Is Fitting Up His Private Yacht

Victoria, B. C., March 20. (By Canadian Press)—Nearly half a century ago a little lad in an Australian seaport dreamed of becoming an admiral in the Queen's Navy and of sailing the seven seas in his own palatial yacht.

NOW HERE ONE IS!

The boy was Guy Gaunt and 65-day, at 57, he can look back on a colorful career which has had few parallels in British naval annals. A good many years have passed since Gaunt, now Admiral Sir Guy Gaunt, K.C.M.G., C.B., realized the first part of his ambition and became a vice-admiral, and today he is busy in the Victoria dockyards where his Chinese crew have been busily engaged in fitting his yacht the "Four Winds" for the sea he knows that the rest of his dream will soon be a reality.

Sir Guy intends to resign his seat as member for Bodmin, Yorkshire East Riding, in the British House of Commons and devote the next few years of his life to sailing the seas on his private yacht, sending his course according to the dictates of his fancy.

RE-CONSTRUCTION

There seemed little of the element of romance in the four-masted schooner Star when she lay partly dismantled in Seattle harbor a few months ago. In an age when sailing craft are not at a premium, the vessel's days of usefulness appeared to have been numbered, but Sir Guy Gaunt, still fired with the admiration of his childhood, was satisfied with it. He bought the Erie for a song, renamed it "Four Winds", imported a crew of fifteen Chinese sailors and gave orders to an Esquimalt ship-building plant to re-model the vessel to meet his purposes. The job is now nearing completion and in a few weeks Sir Guy will be pacing the deck of a luxuriously fitted yacht, sailing before the winds that will make his dream come true.

KNOWS THE EAST

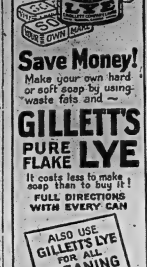

The Four Winds will first cruise British Columbia waters and then sail across the Pacific and ports in China, Japan and the Philippines will be visited. Sir Guy is familiar with the Far East, for he first saw service on the China station and he is in charge of several Far Eastern stations during a subsequent period in his naval career. He had even before coming to British Columbia to outfit his schooner, he was in the Orient arranging for his crew and plotting the course of his voyage. Cruising leisurely down the China coast, Sir Guy will turn westward again to spend a few months among the islands of the South Seas and then he will sail for Suez, the Mediterranean and England.

WILL BE COMFORTABLE

Sir Guy has furnished the Four Winds lavishly and when ready for sea it will have small resemblance to the craft which a few months ago was all but abandoned in Seattle harbor. Unlike other vessels in its size—142 feet in length—that have wandered in unfrequented sea lanes the Four Winds will have electric lights, a piano, radio and other appointments which are usually associated only with larger vessels equipped to carry passengers.

HE FOILED THE HUN

Sir Guy Gaunt had a distinguished war record. After serving in the trenches he was appointed British naval attache at Washington, and while serving in this capacity was credited with several notable exploits which frustrated German conspiracies. He was responsible for many of the sensational stories on enemy activity which were published in the Providence Journal, co-operating with the late John R. Rathom, editor of the newspaper, in an effective investigation of the German spy system which provided one of the most fascinating chapters in the record of the United States prior to its entry into the war.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"I asked for nothing, guv'nor," stammered the man.

"I know," responded the marquis "and yet I give it you. Why?"

The man raised his eyes, then dropped them again.

"Not because I fear you," said the marquis and he laughed his short, curt laugh. "Even if you are not fool enough to think that. You know me too well, I fancy."

"Yes, yes," mumbled the man, evidently in considerable fear himself. "I never said, never thought. You brought me here, guv'nor."

The marquis interrupted him with a gesture.

"I sought you, and brought you here, because you were hard up—starving," put in the man humbly and earnestly.

"And I do not choose that you should starve. No man can say that I ever turned my back on one who had done me a service. No man shall ever say so."

"I know, I know, guv'nor," said the man, deprecatingly.

"And for another reason," continued the marquis, "I give you this money to place you beyond the reach of temptation. Stop"—for the man was about to speak again—"say as little as you can, and listen to me. With this money you can turn over a new leaf and begin life again. Take my advice—it is worth more than the money—and do so. I don't ask you to go abroad, I don't care whether you do so or remain here within reach of me. I can trust you," he laughed again and there seemed to be something in the laugh which affected the man more than a threat would have done—"I trust you fully, and care nothing where you choose to live. But remember this—and I don't think you will forget it—wherever you may go, take care you never mention my name. If we meet—it is quite possible—pass me by without a word or a look of recognition. Do this and you may do what else you please."

There was a moment's pause, during which the man folded the notes and put them carefully into his pocket, his eyes fixed on the marquis face as if he were anxious not to miss a look or a word from the man of whom he stood in such abject fear.

"I think that is all," said the marquis. "Take care of your money; it is the last you will have from me. It is sufficient to start you with every chance in your favor. Go and remember!"

The man put on his hat and buttoned up his coat.

"I—I—you've been very good to me, guv'nor," he said, huskily. "If I ever forget it, may—" He swore an awful oath and his face flushed. "You never went back on your word, I know, and I'll stand by mine. If you'd never given me a penny I'd have kept straight. But now—" Won't you shake hands with a poor devil, guv'nor?"

The marquis laughed.

"I understand. It's a pledge and a promise? There, then!" and he held out his hand.

The man took it, his face working, with conflicting emotion and pressed it.

Then he turned, opened the window and was gone.

The marquis waited for a moment or two listening as it seemed to Constance to the man's departing footsteps, then drew the curtains and turned.

As he did so and Constance saw his face in the light of the candle he had placed on the table, something occurring actual fear seized upon her, and yet with terror was mixed a kind of pity.

For in that moment or two the expression of the marquis' face had changed from calm self-possession to one of mental agony so eloquent that if he had uttered a cry of pain it would not more clearly have expressed the torture he was evidently undergoing.

With bowed head, he stared for even for a little, passing one hand to her now and again that she could hear his labored breath; then he flung himself down on a chair, and covering his face with his hands, remained motionless and absorbed in thought.

Constance leaned against the woodwork hidden by the curtains, trembling in every limb.

Influenza

Now, when the germs of Influenza abound, physicians advise keeping the bowels open. Constipation poisons the blood, lowering your resistance to the germs of infectious diseases.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol.

Nujol FOR CONSTIPATION

It was bad enough to have been an unwilling witness of the secret interview, but to remain a spectator of his agony was intolerable. She had almost resolved to enserge her place of concealment and face him, but the fresh hope that it might, when with a heavy sigh he rose, extinguished the candle, with a slow and weary step left the room.

Constance, with her heart beating wildly, waited, as it seemed to her, for several minutes, then crept from her hiding place and felt her way across the room to the window seat.

In her confusion she lost her sense and memory of the position of the door, and she stood for a moment or two pressing her hand to her forehead and trying to realize exactly where she stood.

As she did so she heard with a horror indescribable his returning footsteps.

He was coming back! Why? In an instant she remembered that he had left the door open, and upon the carpet doubtless he too remembered it and was coming back for it!

It was possible that she was at that moment standing directly in his path, and that if he did not strike a light he would stumble over her. She crouched against a chair and waited, feeling that at any moment her overstrung nerves would give way and that she must shriek aloud. She heard him come in at the door, and paule as if doubtful for a moment, then he went past her—thank Heaven, past her!—toward the inner room.

She was safe, then, she thought. But the next moment her heart seemed to stand still, for she felt him coming toward her. An awful second of time passed, a second that was a second of agonized doubt, then what she had dreaded occurred. He touched her. With an inarticulate cry she sank into the chair, and as she did so she felt his hand strong as steel, upon her arm.

For a breathing space he did not speak, then he said with terrible entreaty:

"Who is it?"

Constance tried to answer, but her lips were dry and hot, and no sound would come from them.

He drew her to her feet, and slowly dragged her into the other room without a word.

Was he going to kill her? she thought. Still holding her, he felt for the table upon which he had placed the candle, and matches struck a light and the candle and catching it up held it before her face.

"Great Heaven!" he exclaimed, staggering back a pace or two. "You, Constance?"

Even before she could speak he spared her any again.

"Be silent!" he said in a low voice, not so utterly as with an intensity of passion and anger that made the effort! Do not call out! Let me look again! Yes, it is you! What are you doing here? Answer me, and his dark eyes fixed on her white face.

Constance found her self-possession, but strength, slighter and would have fallen if he had not held her so tightly. He put his arm round her and supported her.

"You are afraid! Do you think I would hurt you?"

There was reproach, a tender reproach that thrilled through her, but no anger.

"Why are you afraid? What are you doing here?"

Constance found her voice.

"I came——" she breathed.

His brow came down sternly.

"How long have you been here?" he asked in a low voice full of significance.

"I do not know," she replied, struggling against the terrible faintness that threatened to overcome her.

"You do not know. Did you see—were you here when I came in?" and he glance toward the window.

"Yes," she said, and she raised her eyes to his.

His did not falter.

"You saw? Where were you? Do not be alarmed!" and he smiled, but it was an awful smile in Constance's eyes.

"There behind those curtains," she replied.

"I'm a you saw the man who was here?"

She inclined her head.

"And heard every word we said?" he asked again.

"I—I—heard," she replied.

"And you—listened?" he murmured, with a look of infinite pain which stung Constance to the heart.

"Day By Day- -"

By Canadian Press

London, Eng., March 31.—Canadian Press Despatch.)—A story of the war, when both the Germans and ourselves became very smart at decoding each other's wireless signals, was told in a wireless talk by Lieutenant Commander Kenworthy, M.P. for Hull, who served in the war with the naval forces.

The Harwich Force, under Commodore Tyrwhitt, was undertaking an operation in the North Sea on one occasion in misty weather, he said, and got news that enemy Zeppelins were about. His ships were all scattered, and it was necessary to send a wireless signal to warn them. He therefore signalled to all ships to read the last verse of Hymn 234.

Efficient as was the German General Staff they had neglected to provide themselves with a copy of Hymns, Ancient and Modern, but all ships in the British navy carry hymn-books, and on looking up the verse, the captain read the following:

"Oh happy band of pilgrims look upward to the skies;
Where such a light affliction shall win so great a prize."

This was all that was required and, sure enough, one of our destroyers presently brought down a Zeppelin with anti-aircraft guns.

LIQUOR DECISION WAITS ONE WEEK

Magistrate Withholds Findings on Request of The Crown

Magistrate Masson listened to delivery judgment this morning in the case of the seizure here of a car of whiskey by License Inspector Naphan but at the request of the Crown, judgment was reserved until Wednesday next, April 7th. It will be remembered that evidence in this case was taken last week. The car in question was confiscated by Mr. F. Parker of Ford-City, when in reality it was for Mr. F. Parker who resides in Detroit. The issue in question was valued at over $25,000.

INSULIN HELPS RARELY INJURES

Doctor Says He Knows of Only One Case Where It Killed

New York, March 31.—The predictions that were made at the time of the original introduction of insulin in 1922, that its long-continued use would prove injurious to patients, have not been justified, according to Dr. John Ralston Williams of Rochester, who discussed the section on medicine of the Medical Society of the State of New York here on the subject, "Clinical Results of the Long-Continued Use of Insulin."

Dr. Williams said that he knew of one instance where an extreme overdose of insulin administered at home had caused death, but that minor overdoses had caused temporary ill results only. Deaths from diabetes of persons treated with insulin are extremely rare, he said.

TEMPERATURES

The temperature yesterday was by no means very spring like as it was all day freezing in the shade. The maximum temperature was 41 and the minimum 28, as compared with 26 for the minimum a year ago. The figures for the two dates are as follows:

	High	Low
March 29, 1926	41	28
March 30, 1925	45	36

CHILD OF FIVE DROWNS PLAYING NEAR HIS HOME

A young life was suddenly taken away at the village of Queensboro, Hastings County, when Raymond, five-year-old son of Mrs. Manchester, a school teacher, was drowned, while playing near a creek. The current flows swiftly at the point where the lads foot-steps were traced, and it is feared that his body may have been carried down stream. His sleigh was found on the banks, and immediately a ready body of searchers was recruited who are chopping the ice away in an effort to retrieve the body. Mrs. Manchester, the boy's mother, is a teacher at Ilmington, but has been holidaying at Queensboro, owing to an outbreak of contagious disease at the former hamlet, which necessitated the closing of the school.

LION-LIKE MARCH

March turned the trick on weather wiseacres this year and went on just as she came in—like a lion, alarmingly like lion-like peace however, toward the afternoon. Present indications begin to make Professor DeLury's prophesy about a beatless summer look a little ominous and March seems to have tried to back him up. Throughout the month the officials behind the pulse of the official thermometer, report colder weather than in March of last year. Instead of "April showers bringing May flowers" we may reasonably look with the assent of Professor De Lury, to a general frost of all the weather traditions.

POLICE CHARGED MOB DISPERSED

Mounted Officers Were Too Powerful For The Mal-contents

London, March 31—From bus tops Oxford street homeseeker office workers watched a lively scrimmage between a crowd of unemployed and mounted police near Hyde Park. The police charged and scattered the demonstrators, who were attempting to form a procession for a "go slow" march through the business part of London at an hour when the side-walks were thronged and the streets were jammed with motor traffic.

Bandsmen dropped their instruments; red flags and banners denouncing the Government were trampled under foot; women screamed and men sought refuge as the mounted police bore down on the agitators. In the police there were many battered bowlers, lost walking sticks; much torn clothing and some bruises among the crowd of rioters, who greatly outnumbered the demonstrators.

About five hundred had followed the leaders into the People's Forum near the Marble Arch earlier in the afternoon and listened to speeches against the Government demanding release of Communist prisoners from jail. It was after this meeting that the unemployed attempted to form the procession, contrary to police orders.

ARREST TWO AT THE BORDER

Border Car Ferries Are Highway for Liquor Smugglers

Windsor, March 31.—With the arrest in Detroit of two Windsor men—Herbert Girard, 33 years old, 5 Aylmer Ave. and Samuel Zeliski, 922 Marion Avenue —United States immigration authorities at Detroit believe they have uncovered an alien smuggling ring which has been operating here with considerable success during the last seven or eight months.

The railway car ferries plying across the Detroit River at this point have been the medium by which scores of aliens have been able to evade the immigration officials, and to obtain safe entry into the United States.

Girard and Zeliski are specifically charged with smuggling eleven aliens in empty freight cars. The arrest of one of these aliens in Detroit and his subsequent confession of method by which he entered the river led to issuance of the warrants against two Windsor men. This alien told Inspector Brooks he had been taken across the river on the Windsor car ferry. He had paid money to both Zeliski and Girard, he declared.

Girard's part in the game, police say, was to "spot" empty refrigerator cars about to be placed on the ferry and to notify the smugglers, who would then place the aliens on board and lock the doors. When the cars reached Detroit Girard would unlock the door and turn the men over to Zeliski.

PROGRESS MADE IN CHURCH CASE

Conference of Leaders With Attorney-General Irons Out Difficulties

Toronto, March 31.—Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General, held a conference last night with leaders of the United and Presbyterian churches, which are contending certain points in A. C. Lewis's bill to amend the Church Union Bill.

Following the conference, Mr. Nickle made a general statement to the press. Everything passed off amicably, he stated, and a lot was accomplished. Seven or eight issues of dispute, he declared, had been settled.

Cinderella Contest To End Tomorrow Then the Judging

The unique Cinderella Contest which is being conducted by Vermilyea and Sam in connection with the Big Footwear Sale will end tomorrow evening at 9 p.m. and the management is advising all the local aspiring "Cinderellas" to make themselves present at the event now, or any time previous to closing time tomorrow and thus be in line for one of the three valuable prizes offered for the three young ladies in Belleville and District having the most attentive feet.

The contest has created an immense amount of interest ever since it started and to date very many have availed themselves of the advantage of this unusual opportunity of proving to their friends just what interesting looking feet they possess.

Mr. J. Collings the Sales Manager is requesting all participants to see him personally on Friday or Thursday with regard to the final judging; the judging will be done by a committee of three or four responsible gentlemen and incidentally they will have their own time selecting winners from the wonderful assortment of feminine feet lined up for their inspection.

The prizes, as already announced, are as follows: a $10 Gold Piece, a three pound box of chocolates and also a half dozen cabinet photos, donated by McCormick Studios, and a pair of Silk Stockings presented by The Intelligencer. 2nd—a $5 gold piece and a two pound box of chocolates and 3rd—$2.50 and a one pound box of chocolates. Enough, surely to make it interesting.

The winners of the contest will be announced in Saturday's issue of The Intelligencer.

Telephone And Telegraphs Useless To Nearby Points Some Trains And Mails Late

The well known B'ar that went back for another sleep on Candlemas Day was right; too much so. Indeed this part of the world has had more steady wintry days and nights since February 1 than immediately prior to that justly famous date. With the exception of the day that it rained—remember that one?

Then last night it started all over again. This Lion stuff. A storm originating apparently down in the state of Texas (where two men were killed in a wind and rain and snow storm) and which wove its way up through the mid west states and thus into Ontario, pretty well disorganized wire (and consequently news) services for this part of the world to-day.

Railway trains were late here and there especially the eleven a.m. mail train from Toronto which came in about noon.

WIRES WERE DOWN

But the most damage and inconvenience was reported from the offices of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific telegraph office. They were without wire connections with Toronto this morning after nine o'clock. Wires east were heavy with the sleet but were working, but west of Cobourg there were, it was said at noon, fifty poles down in one stretch somewhere near Oshawa. Telephone services on long distance lines were interrupted also.

One of the sidelights on the storm was that several leading railway officials of the Canadian National lines who were expected here to-night for the complimentary banquet to Mr. J. D. MacMillan sent word in a roundabout way that they could not be here—they were on the job straightening out transportation tangles consequent upon the storm.

SCARBORO TO OSHAWA

Snow and sleet caused considerable damage in the territory ranging from Scarboro to Oshawa on the north shore. Trees crashed, that poles and wires are down in the district, and the local telegraph office has met with considerable difficulty in connecting with points west of Cobourg.

O.N. EAST OF COBOURG

Mr. F. E. Boyle, assistant on the Canadian National, reached the city from the west at 12.00 o'clock, and said that the storm had raised havoc with telephone and telegraph communication. On reaching Cobourg signs of destruction were not visible, and no damage had been done east of this point.

Trains were not running on schedule, and Number 10 which carries the morning papers was forty-five minutes late in reaching the city.

ALL SOUTHWEST COVERED

Kansas City, Mo., March 31.—With Easter less than a week away, virtually all of the southwest was covered with snow. The storm, which had held the Rockey Mountain region in its grip since last Wednesday, spread east over Kansas, Oklahoma, Western Missouri and Northern Texas, bringing a white blanket, in some places ten inches deep, with the snow still falling and a sharp drop in temperature accompanied the blizzard. Some damage to fruit trees was reported. Winter wheat, however, is believed to have been benefitted by the moisture.

CHICAGO HAS BLIZZARD

Chicago, March 31.—There are no prospects of March making a sheepish exit from Chicago. A heavy snow storm swept over Saturday, covered the city. A brisk wind accompanied the storm. It has been chilly the past few days.

CLIMBING MT. WASHINGTON

Pinkham Notch, N.H., March 31.—Because of a change in weather conditions, Arthur P. Waldet, of Woonsocket, today renewed his attempt to climb Mount Washington by dog team. A seventy-mile gale which threatened to sweep the top of the Presidential range, forced Waldon to abandon a similar attempt yesterday after he had reached the half-way mark.

The wind had died down as the veteran musher set his team to the task.

BEGAN IN SOUTH

Dallas, Texas, March 31.—The clash of the tigerlike March kind deep into this state, which a few days ago was warming under a noon-like sun.

Confirmation of the dying month wreaked vengance in a storm which cut through Houston, Beaumont, Austin and surrounding towns, causing at least two deaths, brought Amarillo its greatest snowfall in eighteen years and played freakish pranks throughout the state.

The western plains were covered stiffer deep snow and slush, while Galveston, along the Gulf, basked in a balmy sunshine, fearful lest its turn would come next.

The storm about Houston and Beaumont caused damage which may mount to several hundred thousand dollars, and it is feared may have resulted in several deaths.

Two employees of an oil company at Liberty, Texas, were killed, and a third injured dangerously early this morning when a wind storm swept a path about half a mile wide through the flood-ravaged city of Liberty.

The storm, striking without warning demolished virtually every derrick and building in its path.

Reports from Houston and the eastern Texas section was without light for many hours.

The smile on the face of spring turned to a freakish scowl for Amarillo and The Panhandle last night when the mercury went down to 16 degrees above zero and made that supposedly southern city the coldest in the entire country. After

Display of Water Colors Stirs Art Lovers Here

Delightful in coloring, charming in subject and interesting in the manner which cities about many of them, the water colors by J. Goldard Walton, being exhibited by the artist in the Y.M.C.A. this week have created much interest among art lovers in the city and the daily exhibitions are being very much patronized.

The artist has devoted his talent almost solely to English scenes which he has portrayed with such faithfulness the onlooker unconsciously brightens up and thoroughly enjoys all the lovely colors, the note of cheerfulness, the harmony of tone and the general spirit of gladness portrayed by Mr. Walton.

A NOTE OF ROMANCE

One lovely water color depicts the steps from which Dorothy Vernon eloped from Haddon Hall, another of the castles of Robin Hood's rendesvous. Others of English castles

FISH HATCHERIES TO BE TAKEN ON BY THE PROVINCE

Nine Establishments in Ontario Up to Now Dominion Affair

ONE IS IN THURLOW.

Forty Millions in Estimates Passed on 2 Hours In Legislature

Toronto, Mar. 31.—Within the space of two hours last evening the Ontario House approved the expenditure of upwards of $40,000,000, passing in that time the further supplementary and the main estimates which the Government had tabled. Discussion upon details of the expenditure, which were given in a blue book of 60 pages and in a companion white volume of five pages, was of minor character, and the Easter adjournment which Premier Hon. Frederick Gerald Sifton himself announced of on the day previous, became once again a probability for the Chamber.

During the passage of the estimates, occasion was taken by Hon. Charles McCrea to announce the Government's intention of taking over and operating all the Federal Government fish hatcheries within the Province of, which there are nine. The hatcheries were inaugurated during the time when the Federal Government controlled largely the natural resources of Ontario and secured the supervision thereof. For many years now, however, the Province has itself gathered the revenue from the fisheries of the Province and it only takes the stand that it should support the various services which the fisheries require. The offer had accordingly been made to the Province and accepted, to turn over the hatcheries and their equipment in consideration for their being maintained and operated.

One of the hatcheries referred to is the one here in Thurlow.

HEART BECAME SMALLER

Marathon Foster's Tonth and Lungs Were Good.

Berlin, March 31.—X-ray examinations of Jolly, who last night completed a 46-day fast, establishing a new world record, show that his heart has decreased in size but his lungs and teeth are no was affected by his long abstinence from food.

Jolly is being fed sugar by injection into the veins, since his stomach shows reluctance to take up its function. His blood pressure is very low, and shows no signs of improvement. It is predicted he will be unable to take solid food for extended far beyond the planned three days, and it is admitted there is danger he life may flicker out before the digestive organs can be made to furnish nour ishment to the emaciated frame.

Jolly's weight has decreased from 196 the greatest 24-hour downfall in 18 years, the city awoke to find itself almost snow bound. Eleven inches of snow was reported.

LORD DEWAR A MOTOR FAN

Gives Racy Acount of the Thrills of Early Days With Auto

London, Mar. 31.—(Canadian Press Despatch)—Lord Dewar, one of the earliest and most enthusiastic supporters of the automobile in this country, presents annually a cup for the firm of makers whose cars make the best official performance. His Lordship gave a racy description of one of his first experiences in a car when he made the usual presentation of the cup at a dinner of the Royal Automobile Club.

Three days after the historic first run of motors from London to Brighton, his Lordship said, the day after the legislation which required a man with a red flag to walk in front of any self-propelled vehicle was abolished, he purchased one of the cars which actually covered the fifty miles between London and Brighton. He engaged a man who was performing on a motor car at the Alhambra Music Hall. On their first drive they started from Long Acre (the historic home of the horse-carriage trade in those days) When they reached Trafalgar Square one of the old bus drivers deliberately ran into the car, amid loud cheers from his fellow busmen and smashed three of the wooden spokes.

Here are some of Lord Dewar's epigrams:

Most men do not wake to find themselves famous; they usually dream they are famous, and then wake up.

Avoid the man who does not stop to see a dog fight; he has lost all interest in life.

The motor-car today makes many men realize that home is where the mortgage is to be found.

Avoid the beginner who drives with one arm on the wheel—between accidents.

Baptist C.G.I.T. Succeed in Play Miss Tuite Aids

Presented under the direction of Miss Dewar Tuite by the C.G.I.T. of the Western Avenue Baptist "His Best Investment" a charming little comedy drama proved most successful and was thoroughly enjoyed by an almost capacity house at the City Hall last evening.

THE PLAY

The action of the play centred about a wealthy young man who on enlisting for overseas service wished to invest his fortune in some worthy object. After careful consideration of many channels of investment he finally invested it in the care, upbringing and education of a girl child (Lone Webanks). On his return from war Van Rensselyr Courtland (Joseph Dechene) find the object of his investment after a long and individual search and proved that he had made "the best investment" possible in educating her.

THE CASTE

All taking part in the play proved their talent and some did some outstanding work which proved not only ability but splendid training at the hands of Miss Tuite. The cast consisted of:

Fortune Randolph, An Art Student, Mildred Lloyd; Beverly Gray, A Writer, Evelyn McLaurin; Van Rensselyr Courtland, A Returned Soldier, Kenneth Dechene; John Courtland, A Candidate for Governor, Stanley Nurse; Olivia Courtland, A Social Leader, Beatrice Welbanks; Alice Courtland, Beverly's College Friend, Veera Lloyd; Betty Jane Bailey, Alivia's Younger Sister, Laurie Robson; Billy Breckenridge, A Young Journalist, Gerald Cramp; Christine Whitman, With Stage Aspirations, Eileen McLaurin; Uncle Toby, A Civil War Veteran, Joe Blackburn; Pascills Pipe, With Other Aspirations, Lorna Sudgebird; Senator Jerome Supporting Courtland's Candidacy, Allan Guy; Suzanne, Beverly's Maid, Edna Blackburn; Marie, A Maid, Grace Simpson; The Child, Lone Webanks.

SOME SPECIALTIES

Some very delightful specialties were interpolated between acts including piano solos by Mr. Charles Earle and Miss Elsie Doolittle and solos by Miss Kathleen Goodmurphy and Mr. Arthur Beatty.

An electric fire place, loaned by the Hydro Electric Company added greatly to the scenery while the lively drapes loaned by Earle and Cook Company lent a very finished effect to all home scenes.

FORECASTS A BOOM

Toronto, March 30.—Canada appears to be at the beginning of a real boom, in the opinion of W. A. Hotson, millionaire Lumber merchant of Memphis, Tennessee. "Last year" he said, "there was a marked increase in activity in the Southern States. Now the beginning of the present year however the prosperity drift seems to have been toward the north.

"I could send out for almost anything I wanted and really my bill for the 18 months amounted to $17,000. I gave many parties there."

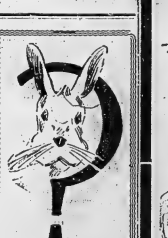

"SHARP PRACTICE" ON EDMONTON STREET

Edmonton, Alta., Mar. 31.—(Canadian Press)—What looked like an attempt at sharp practice was reported to the city police. A lady returning home was driving her motor-car shortly before midnight, when she saw two men standing on the sidewalk near the curb. As she approached she heard the remark: "It is a woman and she is alone." Just then one of the men stepped out from the sidewalk in front of the car, apparently with the purpose of being struck by the auto, and after he had collided with the fender, fell to the pavement. She stopped to inquire of the damage and then came threats that the case would be reported to the police and action taken if a settlements was not made She drove on, however, suspecting that the thing had been planned. There was no report to the station from the men involved.

GOING TO JAIL A MISERABLE LIFE!

Chicago, March 31.—George Remus who made a fortune out of bootlegging and then served 11 months in Atlanta penitentiary, has this to say about imprisonment.

"Penitentiary life wasn't so bad. You see, I could send out for almost anything I wanted and really my bill for the 18 months amounted to $17,000. I gave many parties there."

CANUCKS FIRST IN EMPIRE SHOOT

Quebec Team Led With 23,00 Boys in Challenge Shield Conest

TAKE SPECIAL MEDALS

Canada Has Greatest Number of Expert Shots in Empire

Ottawa, March 31.—In what is termed "the greatest sporting rifle contest in existence," in which 23,000 boys throughout the British Empire took part, the Imperial Challenge Shield competitions in 1925 resulted in Canadian cadet teams capturing the first six places and won the sword of honor presented by Earl Jellicoe, admiral of the fleet.

A report of this match issued from Bisley, has just been received.

In the "honor list" of the best 100 teams in the Empire, Canada is represented by 23 units, No. 3 Platoon, Quebec Commercial Academy heads the list, with No. 1 Platoon of the same school in second place. These are followed in the order given, by No. 2 Platoon, St. Thomas School, Chatham, N.B.; No. 1 Platoon, of the same school; No. 1 Platoon, St. Laurent College, Montreal; No. 10 Platoon, Quebec Commercial Academy; Beaumont House School, Hornsgate, England; No. 1 Platoon, Hamilton Collegiate Institute; No. 2 Platoon, Marist Brothers' Cadets, Johannesburg, South Africa; No. 2 Platoon, Mount St. Michael, Montreal; No. 1 Platoon, New Plymouth College; New Zealand; No. 2 Platoon, Royal Australian Naval Reserve, Hobart, Australia.

In this rifle match, Canadian boys as individuals also created new records. The National Rifle Association, under whose auspices the shooting takes place, offered a silver medal to each boy who scored 99 or 100 out of the highest possible score. Thirty-five of these medals were awarded, of which no fewer than twenty-six came to Canada. Seven go to Australia and two to South Africa, while neither Great Britain, New Zealand nor India win any.

Of the bronze medals, awarded for scores of 98 or 97 points, Canada won 56, Australia coming second with 21, South Africa third with 17 and Great Britain fourth with 8.

"RED" GRANGE PAYS BACK

Long fall sports writers all over the United States were using the space allotted to them to say that "Red" Grange, the football sensation of the year, was everything from a prima, to a screaming lobster because he was using his ability to play football purely for the purpose of making money.

It was plain, unadorned bunkum from the first to last. Grange saw the opportunity that was his to capitalize on his ability to play football better than any other man in the game. He probably knew that his fame would be a short and meteoric affair, and in a season or two at best, a mightier man would arise who would immediately have the plaudits of the crowd turned in another direction.

A despatch from San Francisco the other day shows that "Red" Grange is not the simpleton some of the writers tried to make him appear. His father was a turnkey in the jail at Wheaton, Ill., on a small salary, and he skimped so that his son might go to college. "Red" was no person's dandy because in his summer vacations he turned in and drove an ice wagon to help pay his way. He has just turned over the deed and keys of a fine little home on the outskirts of Wheaton to his dad, and it has been paid out of the earnings that had their root in "Red's" football career.

It a trick like that is the earmark of a financial pirate who has no regard for sport for sport's sake, then there is room in the world for a few more from the same school.

THAT CHICAGO WATER STEAL

Although the U. S. Supreme Court has refused the motion made at the instance of Chicago and the Mississippi States to dismiss the petition of the lake States for an injunction restraining the diversion of water from Lake Michigan for the Chicago sanitary district, this reverse has not dampened the Chicago spirit. The Chicago News points out that the court, by deciding to go into the case on the merits, has extended for at least a year the period during which the large water flow authorized by the U. S. secretary of war may continue.

And the same paper sends forth this note of defiance, which no doubt expresses the prevailing official spirit of Chicago: "The delay consequent upon the action of the Supreme Court furnishes no warrant for congressional postponement of the requisite appropriation for the development of the Illinois river link of the lakes-to-gulf waterway. That waterway will be constructed and the amount of water required will equal or exceed that need and the drainage for sanitary purposes."

The meaning is unmistakable. Even though Chicago be compelled to provide herself with modern sewage-disposal works so that the diversion of lake water for sanitary purposes will be unnecessary, the diversion of lake water at Chicago will continue in greater volume than ever, for the water will be needed to make navigable the Mississippi waterway between Chicago and the Gulf of Mexico. This in defiance of the Supreme Court, of the U. S. government, of the nation's treaty obligations, and of the interests of lake navigation and all the lake cities and towns.

However it be not Chicago that this country has to deal with in this matter. It is the United States government. That government, and not Chicago, is responsible for the due observance of the treaty which Chicago is violating. The Canadian minister of the interior was right when he said in parliament that the question is one between the Canadian government and the government of the United States. He was not altogether right when he added that Canada is not asking and should not ask for compensation—that it is restitution that is wanted, not compensation—"we want the water back and nothing else."

That is all very well. But what about the water already lost? That cannot be given back. And what about the losses already suffered by Canada through impaired navigation and diminished sources of power?

OLD AGE PENSIONS

Was it not a strange reason that was given by Hon. Dr. King, acting minister of labor, for his assertion that the government's old-age pensions scheme would cost the country nothing? He said it would cost the country nothing because the old people who are to get $240 a yea each out of the federal and provincial treasuries are now in public charitable institutions or are dependent upon their relatives. That is to say, the old people are now being cared for. Their pensions would either provide them with extra spending money, or it would be apprpriated by those who now maintain them. In the great majority of cases the pensions would be used for the latter purpose.

Probably what the minister means by this statement that the pensions would not cost the country anything is that the cost of maintaining the pensioners would not be increased, but only readjusted. But is his statement correct? Is it likely, when municipal charitable institutions and the relatives of the old people are reimbursed for their maintenance out of the public treasuries, that as much economy will be exercised in their maintenance as is exercised at present? That $240 per pension or will be regarded as "found money", not all of which will go to the keep of the pensioners. And then the transference of the present cost of maintenance, estimated at $24,000,000 annually, from private and public benevolence or duty to the general taxpayer will not constitute the whole additional burden that the taxpayers will have to assume. There will be also the cost of administration; an army of officials will have to be appointed to investigate pension claims and distribute the pension money—and of course their salaries will have to be paid by the taxpayers.

On second thought, perhaps, Dr. King will modify his opinion that the scheme will not entail any additional cost to the country.

EXPORTING ASBESTOS

Another natural product which would seem to be in need of an embargo of some kind is asbestos. More than $5,000,000 worth of asbestos, it is reported, is sent into the United States every year and when converted into fireproof shingles, to the value of about $70,000,000. The difference between five million and seventy million is great; it would be very nice if that money could be kept in Canada, in the form of wages to employees and profit to the manufacturers. In addition to this advantage, Canadians would be able to get their fireproof shingles, etc., direct and know that by so doing they were promoting the interests of their native land.

This Dominion is rich in asbestos and the mineral is in great demand in other countries. It is not to be supposed that the export of the raw material will diminish under existing conditions, but the probability is rather that it will increase. Foreign enterprise will continue to buy up the mineral as fast as it can be mined, and having pocketed the handsome profits, will return it again to the country of origin in finished form. There is no good reason why a great deal of this business should not be enjoyed by Canadian capitalists and workers. If there is not the necessary initiative to undertake the manufacture of these shingles and other products in Canadian-owned factories, the next best thing is to arrange for foreign manufacturers to move their plants to Canada. This could be done by making the necessary fiscal changes. The new tariff board might be able to offer some useful suggestions on the subject.

A GOOD ONE

Glasgow Herald:

This is the latest story which is going round. It happened on Ellis Island when a man harassed by the persistent inquiries of the immigration officials was at last asked the question, "Can you prove this woman is your wife?"

He thought for a moment or two and then wearily replied: "No, I can't; but if you will only prove she isn't you can have a tenner for yourself."

No Cause for Worry

Mrs. Johnson was in the kitchen helping Nora, the cook, to prepare supper. "It's an old saying," she remarked, "that too many cooks spoil the broth. What do you think?"

"Sure, m'm," Nora replied, "theres nothin' to worry about—there's only wan cook here."

DUNNING GIVEN A NEEDED LESSON IN DEPORTMENT

Meighen Takes New and Eager Minister to Task for Speech

ACT LIKE GENTLEMAN

Methods In Use Out in Saskatchewan Not For Ottawa

Ottawa, March 31.—Hon. Charles Dunning, the new Minister of Railways, got himself into difficulties in the House of Commons this afternoon, when in a discussion of a Government bill providing for revaluation of Soldier Settlement land he insisted the statement of Right Hon. Arthur Meighen to himself. The Opposition leader read the former Saskatchewan premier a somewhat severe lecture on the subject of his language in the House, advising him against the use of catchcries in the Dominion Parliament which he had employed in the provincial Legislature.

REMINISCENT.

The Minister's enquiry Mr. Meighen declared, was reminiscent of the Legislature in which he had been head of the Government, and he called on Mr. Dunning to conduct himself like a gentleman. The Minister protested in reply that reflections on another parliament are body, and suggested to Mr. Meigh en that he should keep his temper. The encounter was continued for almost an hour with uncomplimentary remarks passing between the two belligerents, and eventually it was necessary for the Deputy Speaker, William Duff, to request that the subject matter of the debate be adhered to.

The arguments arose over suggestions from Mr. Meighen and others that the manner in which the land revaluation bill was framed would result of the being used improperly by the Government for party advantage. The Opposition leader maintained that it would be possible for the price of a parcel of land to be reduced from $3,000 to $5, should it be desired to confer a favor on a political supporter. He simply protested against such a situation being created by Parliament.

SOLDIERS' SETTLEMENT

Safeguards against political manipulation of the soldiers' settlement scheme were provided, Mr. Meighen pointed out, in the original legislation, but they were entirely removed under the bill before the House today. The Government would be enabled through the operation of the wide powers it would possess in the revaluation of soldiers' lands to create a great political machine.

It was by the manner in which he objected to these observations of the Conservative leader that the new Minister of Railways brought trouble on himself. He gratuitously took on him self the task of giving the Opposition advice, condemning what he regarded as their partisan attitude in the discussion of legislation, and describing some of Mr. Meighen's assertions as "rot."

Mr. Meighen's supporters loudly applauded when he took up the challenge. "We are in a Parliament now where the ministers will have to take the medicine he seeks to give," said the Conservative leader. "I suggest to him that he will have to arrive at a much better state of competency in the delivery of it before it will be wise for him to try again."

When the Minister of Railways interrupted with something in the way of a humorous retort Mr. Meighen asked if he thought he was doing credit to himself by "hashing foolishly."

"Don't get angry," said Mr. Dunning. "Wel, act like a gentleman," retorted the Opposition leader.

MAY NOT BE EXTRADITED

Dr. Osbaldeston Reassured by New Jersey Governor

Asbury Park, N.J., March 31.—Dr. Edwin P.T.H. Osbaldeston, who at 93 stands accused of a horse theft 46 years ago, today was grateful for the promise of Governor A. Harry Moore that New Jersey will not honor efforts to extradite him to Binghampton, N.Y., to face the charge. "That's the only sensible thing to do," said the aged Crimean War vet. eran. "The whole thing's a joke."

There is nothing funny about it, however, to Deputy Sheriff S. Foster Black, the javert of this "Jean Valjean" drama. The Riverside Bugbampton law officer takes keen pride in his 73 odd years of service, and still feels that justice must be served, no matter how belatedly.

"I don't see if this man never serves a day he said. "I want to show people crooked here that Foster Black never loses his man."

SHUT OUT THE C.N.R.

Belleville Juniors Put Ciaco in Hole With 8-3 Win

Point Anne 4; C. N. R. 0
Juniors 8; Ciaco 3.

A large number of fans turned out to witness the opening games of the new ball league played in the armouries last night. The first game started at 8 o'clock without any formal opening of the series.

The game between the C.N.R. and Point Anne proved to be a startler when Point Anne finished up completely shutting out the Trenkers. Green who shot them over for Point Anne struck out seven and allowed only four hits. Point Anne made their first counter in the third inning when Gilmore worked himself around the circuit. The score remained one to nothing until the eighth when Goyer scored on Goulain's two-bagger. Goulain following on Strachan's single. Goulain scored again for Point Anne in the ninth making the counter 4 to 0. Hurley deserves credit in keeping the hard-hitting bunch from Point Anne down to seven hits.

SECOND GAME

The second game opened a little more lively as to the score with the Juniors leading 2 to 1 at the end of the first, and at the end of the fifth they had increased their lead to five runs the score checking 8 to 3. Capt. Smith twisted the first delivery for the Juniors and Don O'Donohue finished up the remaining four. The Alcobo squad tried hard to even up the score and Liberty pitching for them turned in a good game. The Juniors are a hard hitting team, Colling their manager has taken good care to pick slugging Sam Curry who just returned from a southern barnstorming tour, showed his worth by landing in four hits for the

MAROONS GIVEN GREAT WELCOME BY HOME CROWD

Heroes of Games With Ottawa Cheered to Echo —Details

Forum, March 31.—Ten thousand five hundred fans practically packed the Forum last night to witness the opening of the Stanley Cup series for the world's pro hockey title, in which the Victoria Cougars, present title holders, met the Montreal Maroons. The Maroons won by 3-0.

The crowd was out with a double purpose, first to witness the start of the fight for the highest hockey crown, but as important, to welcome the Maroons after their gallant and brilliant fight to the National Hockey League title.

The crowd gave the Cougars a fair reception when they took the ice for a preliminary warming up, but they fairly went wild when the first Maroon player was seen coming out of the dressing room to make for the ice. When Benedict stepped on the polished surface the rooters let to their yell, and while the players standing to the end in front of "millionaire row" kept up their cheering.

Benedict, Broadbent and all were given a great welcome, but it was Dave Siebert, scorer of the goal which brought Montreal the title over Ottawa, who was the cynosure of all eyes and given the most demonstrative welcome.

Sport Notes

Bucky Harris, boy manager of the Washington Senators, is playing the venerable stuff off the boards. Barring Ogden and Marberry, he will continue to bank on old-time pitchers. He will call on his Big Four—Walter Johnson, Stanley Covelaskie, Dutch Ruether and Joe Bush—to shoulder almost the entire burden.

These veterans, of course, cannot last forever, and their activity will be watched closely by the baseball fans all over the country. If the Big Four doesn't "crack under the strain," the Senators will be hard to beat. But the slipping of one of the clients will cause serious trouble. Harris plans to rotate the Big Four so that each will have one rough rest to fit him for his next appearance.

Johnson will be thirty-nine in November. Covelaskie's thirty-sixth birthday falls on July 19. Bush is thirty-six and Ruether is three months younger. Collectively, the Big Four is the oldest in baseball.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

Agnes Ayres comes to the Belleville Theatre today in another entertaining picture of the first year of newly married life—"Tomorrow's Love," adapted for the screen by Howard Higgin from the Saturday Evening Post story, "Introducing," by Charles Brackett.

When it was decided to make this picture devoted to "the perfect husband," Paramount's backlog director, Paul Stein, was selected to direct.

Here, who made "Worldly Goods," specializes in domestic dramas and his latest effort is said to be his most successful. Only the vagrant announcements of pins and razors on "The Gold Rush" came from his studio.

The factory system of movies, and the consequent mediocrity as an art, have let Charlie Chaplin an example of the opposite production method in this drama by comedic. It has been made with the artist's necessary freedom. It was never restricted by definite schedule or time clock methods, but inspired by Chaplin with a passion for perfection as his only taskmaster.

In the role of a hardluck scoundrel, dressed in the baggy pants, the floppy shoes, the old derby and flimsy cane of early association, Charlie twists the gut strings of the Alaskan pioneers into a strange commingling of humor and tragedy. He thaws fun from a frosty, forbidding background. The treatment is wholly unlike anything Chevris does, and strikes a new note in photo dramatics.

ror embodies a humorous sequence of events in the life of a young couple, portrayed by Miss Ayres and Pat O'Malley, leading man.

Here, however, denies that his remarkable understanding of the trials and tribulations of married life is responsible for his bachelorhood.

One of the finest casts ever given Miss Ayres supports the star in this picture.

AT GRIFFIN'S

A picture that is made solely for entertainment purposes, in exchange of "dimes," which is the attraction at the Griffin Theatre Thurs., Fri., Sat.

"Enchanted Hours" propounds no weighty question, nor does it point a moral unless it is to try a trial exchange of wives before suing for a divorce.

This Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production brings Eleanor Boardman and Lew Cody to the fore as excellent comedians, and give Renee Adoree and Creighton Hale always great opportunities to shine.

The treatment is said to present the lighter touch at which which is now small titulte, for it was this same material hand that produced "A Slave of Fashion," "So This Is Marriage" and "The Denial."

CHAPLIN COMING

At last, the world's foremost comedian, Charlie Chaplin, is handed his greatest comedy, "The Gold Rush," on the eve of popular fancy. Announcement is made by the manager of Griffin's Theatre that the celebrated star's new United Artists Corporation release comes here next week playing a part.

For sixteen months, Charlie Chaplin worked on this production. During that time he was probably a hermit—a recluse to all, save his studio associates. Only the vagrant announcements of pins and razors on "The Gold Rush" came from his studio.

The factory system of movies, and the consequent mediocrity as an art, have let Charlie Chaplin an example of the opposite production method in this drama by comedic. It has been made with the artist's necessary freedom. It was never restricted by definite schedule or time clock methods, but inspired by Chaplin with a passion for perfection as his only taskmaster.

CITY OF CALGARY
The following item appears in a recent issue of "The Chronicle" of Montreal, Canada's leading Insurance Journal.

"Chicago reports a record for the lowest per capita fire loss of any City in Canada for 1925. A good start has been made to continue that record during the present year. Fire losses in this City for February, 1926, are reported at the small sum of $222.06; for year to date $16,862.89 in February, 1925. A thorough inspection of every building has been inaugurated, and the fire chief has given instructions that inspectors report even the most trivial infractions of the City by-laws."

Belleville might well emulate the example set by this important western city.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in absorbent Kotex without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus ends all chance of offending.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Package of twelve costs only a few cents.

Given Present As They Move To Belleville

It was with feelings of mingled pain and pleasure that the friends and neighbours of Mrs. J. McPherson and her daughter, Miss Kathleen, gathered on Thursday evening, March 25th, to bid them farewell. Mrs. McPherson has lived for many years in Atkins community on the 3rd concession of Sidney. Having recently sold her farm in that place she intends to move to Belleville where Miss McPherson is teaching. The gathering was held in the church hall with some seventy-five present. Mrs. McPherson and Miss Kathleen were presented with a floor electric reading lamp and the following address was read:

Dear Mrs. McPherson and Kathleen—It is with deep regret that we learn of your intention to permanently leave our community. We shall miss you. Years of joy and years of sorrow you have spent in our midst and always have you shown yourselves good friends and neighbours.

You, Mrs. McPherson, have mothered a family who, one and all, at some time or other, have added greatly to the richness of our community life. You have also been ever ready to help in church and neighbourhood work whenever and wherever possible. We feel that your removal will mean the loss of one of the most valued links in our chain of neighbours and friends.

You, Kathleen, have always been one of us, growing up among us and with us, from happy childhood to useful young womanhood. While you have not been able to be with us much in the last few years we have felt that you were still one of us and have been glad to know that another of the Atkins young people was making good.

Now that our connection with both of you is likely to be more definitely settled in the near future, we are glad to have this opportunity of expressing our love and friendship in the reading of these few words and the presentation of this lamp, which, we hope, will help to brighten your future home and serve to continually remind you of your neighbours left at Atkins.

Signed on behalf of the community.

Miss McPherson replied for herself and mother in a few well chosen words thanking all for their expression of friendship and hoping for further opportunity to maintain the present pleasant associations.

The Marquis

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"I listened, yes!" she said, almost wild ly "Oh, my love, do you not understand. I—I thought it was a thief coming in at the window, and I hid behind the curtains. When I saw it was you I was afraid—I thought you would pass through the room, and that I might—You are crushing my arm my lord!" she broke off piteously.

He loosened his iron-like clutch of her arm and raised it to the light.

"Forgive me!" he said, penitently. "I am a brute. . . I did not know! And you heard all—all!"

"Yes, everything, my lord," she asserted, coldly.

She would have no concealment. If offence she had committed she would make open confession.

"And what have you learned? What are your conclusions?"

He looked at her strangely.

She put her hand to her forehead confusedly.

"I do not know. Learned? I have learned nothing. I know nothing, want to know nothing. Let me go my lord."

"In a moment," he said, slowly and thoughtfully. "You must have formed some conclusions. Tell me what they are. I will tell you if they are correct."

She shook her head.

"Tell me why I should admit a man—such a man—to the castle at this hour, secretly and give him money; you saw me give him money?"

She made a gesture of parut.

"Well?" he demanded.

She shook her head.

"I do not know. I cannot guess!"

He was silent a moment, as if thinking deeply; then he said,

"Why did you come here at this hour of the night?"

There was no touch of suspicion in his voice, simply the desire to know.

Constance swept the hair from her forehead with a weary gesture.

"I—I came to look for my locket. I have lost it—"

"And you set such value on it that you ventured to come down in the darkness in search of it?"

"Yes," she said, meeting his eyes steadily. "I value it above everything I possess."

He put his hand in his waistcoat pocket and held out the locket and a fine mesh of the chain.

"Is this it?"

She took it eagerly.

"I found it lying by the chair in which you were sitting. No, I have not opened it," he added.

Her face crimsoned, and she held the locket out to him without a word.

He put it from him.

"No. I will not pry into your secrets though all unwittingly I might have done so. You, tonight, have as unwittingly learned something of a secret of mine. Shall I tell you the whole of it?"

And he smiled at her sadly.

She shrank back and put out her hands.

"Ah," he said, intensely, "that is for me to decide. Wait!"

He motioned her to a chair, but Constance stepped back and shook her head, though she was trembling in every limb.

He took two or three paces, his head bowed upon his breast; then he turned and faced her his eyes full of dumb pain his lips tightly compressed.

"No! I cannot!" he said, and his voice expressed the emotion mirrored in his eyes. "I cannot. But I will tell you this: that if as you have guessed, me in play the coward to-night."

Constance stared at him with dilated eyes.

"Yes, you!" he repeated, hoarsely, and he stretched out his hand toward her almost deprecatingly. "But for you I should have dared that man to do his worst! But for you I should have left the house tonight, never to return! But I could not! Girl!"—his hand clinched as if in a wild rage at such weakness that mastered him, "girl, what have you done to me? Have you bewitched me? Ever since I saw you, the night I returned, you have exerted an influence over me. You have robbed me of my strength of will, the strength I gloried in—the strength which owes its existence and its weak and helpless! Constance!"—and he seized her hand and drew her to him—"what have you done to me? What is it? Constance, I cannot let you out of my thoughts day or night. Is it that I love you?"

There was a note of actual pain in his hoarse, strained voice, and it thrilled her even as she shrank from him, with a strange sensation of delight and despair combined.

"Is that it? Oh, my girl, my girl! If so—and it must be so!—it was a bad hour for me when I first saw you!"

He seemed to struggle for calmness, and was silent for a moment; then in a lower voice he said:

"Yes, it is so. I love you, Constance. You are the one woman in all the world for me. I know now why life had grown so suddenly sweet and worth living. I know now why I waited and hung upon your voice. Constance, I love you—I love you. And you?—"

He drew her nearer to him—she was like a reed in his strong hand—and bent down toward her with passionate pleading in his eyes.

Her brain swam, the room turned round with her, and she uttered a low cry.

It seemed to recall him to himself.

In an utterly altered voice, in a voice broken by pain and despair, he said:

"Hush! Forgive me! You shall not answer. Not now! I am not quite lost to all sense of honour—ah, even yet! yet, Constance"—and he bent toward her now! To-morrow, to-morrow. And her again—if it were so, if you loved me, could you—look me in the face, Constance—"

She raised her heavy eyes to his, his words sounding dully in her brain.
